'Nazis Report Raid on Krupp City; Claim Key Fort Captured

PLANES, SECRET WEAPON BLAST LIEGE CITADELS

1,000 Troops Give Up After Siege.

BERLIN, May 11 (AP).—A "new type of weapon" enabled the armies of Adolf Hitler to capture Eben Emael, described as the strongest fortress in Belgium's Liege defenses, the German high command announced tonight.

The fort's commander and 1,000 men surrendered, the announcement said.

A picked air force detachment, in a slanting attack from above, already had put the fort out of action yesterday, the command said, and held its garrison in check with the new weapon until an army unit attacking from the north arrived and forced the surrender.

Second Fort Seized.

"Further and more precise details must of course be kept in the dark," authorities said of the new weapon.

It was a matter of speculation whether this was the weapon which Hitler mentioned in a speech at Danzig last year and which has had experts guessing at its nature ever since. [There also has been speculation whether it was the magnetic mine.]

Eben Emael was the second fort claimed to have been taken in the Liege fortified zone, where the imperial German steamroller was stalled for a week of frontal assault in 1914.

This time the German armies sliced thru the Dutch appendix province of southern Limburg, which virtually is undefendable, seized Maastricht on the border between the western edge of Dutch Limburg and Belgium, and captured the vital bridges over the Maas river and the Albert canal in Maastricht and to the west of it.

Forts Are Belgian Shield.

Then, according to the official German announcement, they stormed Fort Eben Emael, which controls these crossings, and it surrendered this afternoon.

The scene of this action is some 15 miles north of Liege proper. The new Albert canal runs north from Liege to above Maastricht, thence west to Antwerp, and, with its correlated fortresses, is Belgium's shield against invasion from the northeast and north.

[An official Belgian communique admitted the Germans gained "a foothold," at heavy cost, in the Belgian defensive positions about Maastricht, but insisted, "around Liege, our positions remain intact." French military sources acknowledged the Germans had taken Maastricht.]

DNB, official news agency, said the fort taken yesterday in the Liege area was made "completely defenseless" by German planes.

Authorized sources said German troops who occupied Belgian and Netherlands airports yesterday still held them today, but were "fighting with Belgian and Dutch troops."

Fort Overwhelmed.

German officials explained that the actual spot news on developments in the latest war arena was meager because details might prove valuable to the enemy.

DNB's account of the capture of the Belgian fort said that the first day of the German advance "against the formidable fortifications which the Belgians erected in the east against Germany already has shown that these too are unequal to withstanding the lightning attack of the German air force.

"For instance, one of the strongest forts in the area before Liege proved completely defenseless against surprise attack by German planes.

"After a brief, desperate fight on the part of the garrison, the fort was overwhelmed by the superiority of forces from the air and fell into the hands of the German troops in a few minutes."

Germany's cautiously worded communique claimed between 300 and 400 enemy planes were destroyed on the ground and 23 shot down in air fights yesterday. The Germans said they lost 11 and 15 were missing. Seventy-two airports were reported raided.

Churchill Picks Cabinet; Makes Self War Lord

BY JOSEPH CERUTTI.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 11.—Prime Minister Winston Churchill tonight lined up his new coalition cabinet team and appointed himself Britain's war lord. In addition to the premiership, the former chief of the admiralty has taken over the job of minister of defense, where he will devote his energies exclusively to waging war against Germany.

Besides Churchill, the new war cabinet consists of two other Conservatives and two Laborites. Seventy one year old Neville Chamberlain, former prime minister who handed the job over to Churchill last night, becomes lord president of the council, a sinecure office in which he will be able to relieve Churchill of the most routine political tasks of parliament. Lord Halifax, who is 59 years old, remains at the head of the foreign office.

Attlee Named Lord Privy Seal.

To complete the inner cabinet Churchill has named two Labor leaders, Clement Attlee and Arthur Greenwood. They were mainly responsible for the opposition's decision to challenge the government by a vote of censure in parliament, which brought Chamberlain tumbling from the pedestal. Attlee, who is 57 years old, becomes lord privy seal. Greenwood, who is 58, was appointed minister without portfolio.

Churchill thus has decreased the war cabinet from eight members to five, with an average of 60 years against 61 years. Churchill is 66.

The new premier also announced the appointment of three new political heads of the fighting services. A. V. Alexander, Socialist, replaces Churchill as the first lord of the admiralty. Anthony Eden, dominions secretary, displaces Oliver Stanley as war minister. Sir Archibald Sinclair, leader of the opposition Liberals, takes over from Sir Samuel Hoare as secretary of state for air. Stanley, who succeeded Leslie Hore-Belisha, has held office barely four months.

Hoare Exclusion Follows Attack.

Hoare's exclusion from the war cabinet followed an attack launched against him Thursday by the Laborites.

An announcement of the changes, issued from No. 10 Downing street, said leaders of the three parties participating in the government will be consulted "when questions arise affecting the general character and aims of the government, including the conditions of peace."

This apparently means that Sinclair, altho not included in the "big five," will have a say in the war policy. It also is designed to suppress any qualms in the opposition ranks over the fact they were not directly represented with the Laborites and Conservatives in the war cabinet.

Other Selections Expected.

Other exclusions which aroused comment were Lloyd George, world war prime minister, and Alfred Duff Cooper, former first lord of the admiralty. Churchill has not completed his government, however, and is expected to announce the remaining members tomorrow or Monday.

With the formation of the new cabinet political circles expected increased speed in the prosecution of the war.

PARACHUTE TROOPS OF NAZI ARMY WEAR A SPECIAL UNIFORM

BERLIN, May 11 (AP).—German parachute troops, of whom so much has been heard in the last two days, normally are uniformed in one piece gray-green suits of the coverall type.

The trouser legs are baggy at the ankles, like ski pants, and high cut black shoes are worn instead of the infantry knee boots.

The troops' helmets are of light weight metal without the usual flanged edges.

The flying eagles of the German air force are displayed on the uniforms and helmets. The uniforms include the parachute gear, which can be discarded easily. The men carry light infantry weapons.

Allied Troops Occupy 2 Isles in West Indies

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 11.—British and French forces have landed in the Dutch West Indies islands of Curacao and Aruba to prevent possible sabotage by Germans of the oil refineries there, it was announced here tonight. The step was taken, it was said, after a consultation between the allied governments and the United States.

One hundred and fifty French marines landed last night at Aruba from the cruiser Jeanne d'Arc, and the British warship Dispatch entered Willemstad harbor at Curacao this afternoon with British troops.

Report Units Welcomed.

A statement issued to the press said the allies feared that local authorities on the islands might have insufficient forces to deal with attempts at sabotage. The landing parties were cordially welcomed, the statement said.

[Occupation of the islands immediately brought about a controversy as to whether the move constituted an invasion of the Monroe Doctrine. Dispatches from Washington, D. C., said the state department did not consider the step an infringement of the doctrine because no change of sovereignty is involved and the Netherlands had requested the aid from their allies.

[In Berlin, however, the newspaper National Zeitung said the landing carried the war into territory which comes within the scope of the doctrine. "Every change in this area is of interest for all American states," the newspaper said. "Of special interest, however, is the occupation of Curacao and Aruba, because they lie in a strategic position in relation to the Panama canal."]

Crew Scuttles German Ship.

PARAMARIBO, Netherlands Guiana, May 11 (AP).—The crew of the 6,040 ton German merchant vessel Goslar, which took refuge here early in the war, scuttled its vessel today in Paramaribo harbor. The Goslar's crew of 80 men has been interned.

ATTACK GERMAN MOTOR ARMIES AND RAIL POINTS

Claim Many of Foes' Planes Destroyed.

BULLETIN.

LONDON, May 12 (Sunday) (AP).—The Netherlands air ministry radio service announced shortly after 3 a. m. today that several German planes had been sighted over Gertruidenberg, east of Rotterdam, flying westward.

LONDON, May 11 (AP).—Powerful British bombers and speedy fighter planes struck at Germany today, bombing bridges over the Rhine river and effectively attacking long columns of German mechanized forces between the Rhine and Meuse rivers and in Luxemburg.

The flyers attacked Wesel, Aldekerke, Geldern, Rees, and Goch, the British communique reported. Railways and junction points, vital to the smooth operation of Germany's blitzkrieg, likewise were reported attacked.

A few miles outside of Maastricht, the Netherlands, on the road to Tonvres, a column of small German tanks, armored cars, and transport vehicles were attacked and several direct hits scored, the British asserted.

Attack Airport.

The British also reported successful raids on German aircraft at The Hague, seat of the Dutch government, and on the German held Waalhaven airport, near Rotterdam, which earlier had been reported captured by Dutch troops.

In addition, a German radio broadcast heard in London said Essen, where the great German Krupp munitions works are located, and two other German towns, had been bombed by allied planes. Essen is about 50 miles from the Netherlands frontier in the rich Ruhr coal fields.

Dispatches from the British army in Belgium described the air attacks on one German column in Luxemburg. The British airmen, skipping over the swarm of refugees who preceded the German line of march, returned to the attack again and again, and bombs fell amid lines of 40 and 50 motor trucks, which piled up in heaps of smoking wreckage.

Down German Planes.

One German Heinkel and one Dornier bombers were shot down when a large German force raided a royal air force station in Belgium, it was said. British Hurricane fighters went up to meet them and got two more German planes in a screaming dogfight.

The British squadron which carried out the attack on German planes at The Hague said nine Nazi transport craft had been either destroyed or damaged.

Describing the attack, the leader of six British fighter planes said his men dived from 5,000 feet, pulling out at 150 feet after firing 18,000 rounds of machine gun bullets into the German machines.

Riddled with Bullets.

"Before we reached the troop carriers," this leader said, "we came upon three Messerschmitt [German] fighters, and below them on a beach north of The Hague we saw nine Junkers 52's. After our bombers set two of the big Junkers afire, the fighters formed in line astern. One after another the British planes then dived vertically, flattening out over the beach.

"Of the seven remaining craft, we destroyed four more, and the other three were riddled with our bullets. One of our fighters made a forced landing on the sand. We did not leave him until we were satisfied that the pilot and other members of the crew were uninjured."

Six Hour Attack.

The British attacked Waalhaven airport with incendiary bombs. The raid, described as the heaviest of the war, lasted six hours. It was waged in the face of terrific ground fire. Fires were started in different parts of the airdrome, and the British pilots said they left 20 four-engined German craft aflame.

The British, reporting on yesterday's air activity, said that at least 50 German planes had been destroyed.

Hitler Airmen Raid Brussels 3 Times in Day

BRUSSELS, Belgium, May 11 (AP).—Brussels was bombed from the air again tonight as the army officially admitted that the German invaders had won a foothold in Belgian defense positions near the Netherlands city of Maastricht.

Heavy detonations from bombs resounded in the center of Brussels, and an air raid alarm was in effect from 6:20 to 7 p. m. Civilian casualties in today's bombings—there were two earlier in the day—were said to be higher than on Friday, first day of the German invasion. Then 41 dead and 82 wounded were reported in the greater Brussels area alone.

Liege, Rixensart, about 10 miles from Brussels, and Alost, 15 miles west of the capital, likewise were bombed. Four soldiers were killed at Rixensart.

Train Machine Gunned.

Near Mons, the Paris-Brussels railway express was attacked by machine gunning airplanes.

Belgian military officials, in admitting German penetration of their defenses, said planes and armored cars had supported the evening attack.

But the communique also reported the Nazis had sustained "heavy losses" in attacks on Belgian fortifications and claimed "our positions remained intact" around the fortified town of Liege.

[The German high command claimed capture of Eben Emael, strongest fort in the Liege chain commanding the crossing of the Albert canal and the Meuse river at and west of Maastricht, 15 miles north of Liege itself. DNB, official German news agency, said another Liege fort fell into German hands Friday.]

Incessant Bombardments.

Tonight's communique said:

"During the day important enemy forces, with the aid of incessant bombardments carried out by powerful aerial units and supported by armored cars, attacked in the Maastricht region. They succeeded in getting a foothold in our defense line.

"Our troops in Luxemburg continued their operations following a preconceived plan and vigorously held their own against the invaders. Around Liege our positions remain intact. The enemy has suffered heavy losses before certain of our fortifications.

"The enemy aviation has carried out systematic bombardments, attacking numerous localities over a great part of our territory."

15 German Planes Downed.

An earlier communique claimed at least 15 German planes were shot down. "Very active" operations of Belgian flyers and antiaircraft batteries were cited.

Chief points of contact between the Belgian and German forces were said to be along the Albert canal and the Meuse river, and in the Ardennes mountains facing German occupied Luxemburg.

German planes also continued to drop parachute troops, but the Belgians said most of them were "captured or neutralized."

[A Havas (French news agency) dispatch from Brussels said an estimated 30 persons were killed in the crash of a German bomber hit by a shell fired from a British channel steamer anchored in the canal of Villeburg.]

Heavily equipped British and French troops, bringing up artillery, tanks and engineering equipment, moved thru Belgium to undisclosed positions.

BULLETIN.

AMSTERDAM, May 12 (Sunday) (AP).—Dutch military units sped to south Amsterdam early today to search for German parachute troops reported to have entered that section of the city after landing outside nearby Haarlem.

AMSTERDAM, May 11 (AP).—Netherlands border troops tonight were reported officially to have recaptured one town from the main German invading forces in a four hour counterattack and to have killed every soldier in a German armored train.

In the interior, the Dutch high command said, the Germans dropped more parachute troops and they, for the most part, were destroyed.

But with German bombs killing at least a score of persons in the first air raid on Amsterdam, the country's largest city, the defending army and police ran into new troubles.

Germans in civilian garb tried in vain to capture police headquarters at the Hague and sniped at soldiers and policemen from the roofs of houses.

Accomplish Main Purpose.

While first line Dutch troops, for the most part, were falling back according to plan from the eastern frontier after laying waste to means of approach, the high command acknowledged the Germans had "crossed a river," presumably either the Ijssel, east of Arnheim, or the Maas, further south.

The front line defenders, however, had accomplished their main purpose: Gaining time for complete flooding of the main water line defenses in the middle Netherlands. The sluices were opened early yesterday, but the process takes upward of 36 hours.

Moreover, one border fort was sturdily holding out against the Germans.

The town that was recaptured by the Dutch was identified in allied advices as Mill, 10 miles inside the frontier and about the same distance southeast of Nijmegen. It is on a main, cross-country railway line.

Germans Hold Airport.

The same advices identified the fort which is holding out as Pennerden, at Velp, east of Arnhem. [However, French military advices reported Arnhem, in east Central Netherlands, about 12 miles from the border, had been captured by the Germans.]

Altho Netherlands troops, aided by British planes and the Dutch river fleet, were reported earlier in the day to have wiped out resistance of parachute troops at Rotterdam and Dordrecht Island, tonight's communique indicated the airport at Waalhaven, south of Rotterdam, still was in German hands. The Dutch communique said that "German troops have penetrated from this airport to some points and vigorous action is proceeding against them."

The Dutch forces which wiped out the Germans at Rotterdam, a great seaport city, and on Dordrecht Island, to the southeast, paid heavily for the achievement, more than 1,000 losing their lives.

The Dutch navy, operating in the Oude Maas, was credited with a major part in destroying the German force on Dordrecht island. These Germans, as at Rotterdam, had been landed by parachute.

An estimated 20 persons were killed and many injured when a lone German bomber, flying over the crowded streets of mid-Amsterdam at 11 a. m., dropped bombs which struck only a few blocks from the great, gray royal palace on The Dam, central Amsterdam square.

The bombs dropped just before Amsterdam's air raid sirens sounded their second alarm of the day. They sent up great clouds of black smoke, dust, and débris. Three old houses on the corner of the Heerengracht and Blauwburgwaal were ripped apart.

Civilians, remarkably calm, took shelter in buildings. Amsterdam's air raid shelters are few, and all built above the ground, because of the water beneath.

Shoots at Plane with Rifle.

Earlier a lone plane had flown over the city. A sentry in the tower of the royal palace banged away at it with his rifle. Later antiaircraft guns shot it down.

Another German bomb raid on Amsterdam's airport, Schiphol, was driven off, with four German planes shot down by British and Dutch fighters.

A number of small communities in southern Holland also were bombed, with several dead and wounded.

More British troops and French mechanized forces today were landed at North sea ports and rushed to the central network of fortifications and flood defenses in the Amrsfoort area.

Plea by Queen.

Almost at the very hour of the Amsterdam bombing Queen Wilhelmina was sending a message to King Vittorio Emanuele of Italy, imploring him to use his influence, presumably on Hitler thru Premier Mussolini, to help save civilian populations "from the calamities of war, and that principles of humanity may be observed by all belligerent powers without exception."

Many Taken Prisoner.

Documents found on some captured German parachute troops disclosed they were to be met at landing points by German residents of Holland, bearing special orders and identification cards, government officials said.

"But undervaluation of Dutch soldiers already has cost these parachute troops dearly," said a semiofficial statement. "Many of them have been killed or taken prisoner.

"The methods the parachutists were instructed to use are in flagrant contradiction of international law and morals.

"They were instructed to summon Dutch drivers, and threaten them with their arms to make them transport them. This is a negation of the position of the civilian population in a belligerent country."

Among those who sailed are four press association representatives.

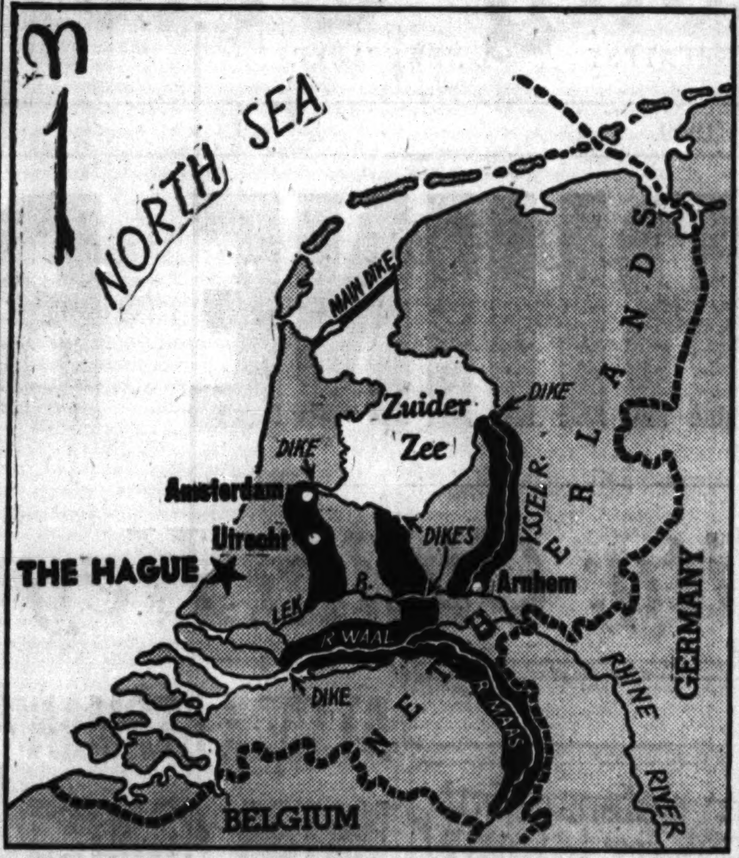
Release Water to Halt Germans



Black areas are portions of the Netherlands which are being flooded by a system of dike control as one step in defense against German invaders.

Thoro Planning Behind Dutch Strategy of Flooding Lands

The Netherlands began planning and testing its flood defense line long before the country was drawn unwillingly into the European war early Friday.

These lines, reported yesterday to have been established, are made possible by the configuration of the terrain and man made dikes. It is estimated that 38 per cent of Holland is below sea level and also below the levels of the canalized rivers that flow thru to the sea.

Flooding, as the Netherlanders are practicing it as a war measure, does not mean turning the North sea over their fields. The necessary water to cover the land is being drawn either from the rivers and canals or from the fresh water Zuider Zee, which is closed off from the sea by a huge dam 20 miles long.

Seek to Make Land Swampy.

Neither does flooding mean the transformation of vast areas into deep lakes. It has been indicated that the intention is to convert the low lying land into swamps and marshes. This is an effective military measure. Over large shallow areas boats would be useless and foot travel would be all but impossible, as troops would bog down in deeper intersecting ditches.

Expert engineers are, and have been for months, in charge of the preparations. Last November they made an experiment south of the Zuider Zee to determine how their plans were working out. Sluices had been opened as early as September to saturate the lowlands thoroly and make the flooding rapid. It has been reckoned that 36 to 60 hours would give ample time for the flooding to become fully effective.

Three Main Defense Lines.

There are three main defense lines for the Dutch. The first follows the river Ijssel which flows in a generally northerly direction and divides the country in half. Dutch generals have not planned, it is said, to defend sternly the northeast provinces, but to concentrate on the richer and more populous western sections behind this line.

The second and third lines are south and southwest of the Zuider Zee. The flood belt there, it is said, will be 10 miles wide. Southeast Holland is well protected, it has been reported, by the already existing Peel marshes. Belgium's flood defense lies north of the Albert canal and follows a curving line from Antwerp to Maastricht.

LIEGE FORTS ARE BELGIUM'S MAIN DEFENSE SYSTEM

Eben Emael Citadel Chief Link in Chain.

New York, May 11.—Military experts here tonight saw in the official German announcement of the capture of the strategic Belgian fort of Eben Emael the first major success of the Nazis in the lowlands campaign.

It was explained that the surrender of the fort, which has not been admitted by the Belgians, means that Liege now is outflanked to the north and the main Belgian defensive line along the Meuse [Maas] river and the Albert canal has been breached.

Eben Emael, a new fort built to guard the canal and river juncture, is almost at the exact spot where the Germans forced a crossing of the Meuse in 1914. It is constructed in a cliff formed by the steep sided river valley and the canal. Its gun turrets top the crest.

Communications Center.

Two casemates command the canal cut. A water filled moat protects the rear tunnel entrance to the fort which gives access to a series of underground galleries and gun rooms.

Liege, set in the trough of the Meuse, south of Maastricht and the so-called Netherlands "appendix," is the center of communication lines between France, Belgium, and Germany.

During the world war Liege was squarely in the path of conquest. It was protected by a ring of 12 forts, built between 1888 and 1892. There were six main forts, pentagonal in shape and six smaller ones. The large ones were Pontisse, Barchons, Fleron, Boncelles, Flemalle, and Loncin. Between them were the six smaller ones, Evengnee, Chaudfontaine, Embourg, Hollogne, Lantin, and Liers, making an irregular circle about four miles from the center of the city.

Forts Reconstructed.

These forts since have been reconstructed, modernized and supplemented. New forts covering the approaches from Germany 10 to 12 miles outside Liege are Battice, near the Aachen road; Pepinster, commanding the Vesdre valley and the Verviere road, and Neufchateau.

In 1914, however, there was one grave error in the system—a gap five or six miles wide along the Meuse between the fort of Pontisse and the southernmost point of Dutch Limburg, or the "appendix." The first German crossing of the Meuse was made thru this gap.

The Belgians failed to cover the gap and the intervals between the forts with infantry, with the result that a German brigade was in Liege on the morning of Aug. 7, three days after the advance began. The last of the Liege forts fell before the battering fire of 17 inch "Big Berthas" on Aug. 16.

Pillboxes Dot Area.

The country between the forts now is dotted with pillboxes, and a forward defensive line extends along the Herve plateau, not far from the German border.

Thus, the German armies of 1940 are seen to be repeating the strategy of 1914. Capture of Maastricht and the Albert canal bridgeheads north of Liege, which the Germans reported yesterday, indicates an attempt will be made to turn the great fortified system from the north, while the thrust thru Malmedy, also reported captured, presages a flanking advance from the south.

NAZIS SAY 'CHUTE TROOPS BEHIND MAGINOT LINE

Landing of Nazi parachute troops behind the Maginot line for an attack from the rear, was announced last night in official German shortwave radio reports.

The radio also announced that fully equipped parachute detachments had landed for the first time in Ostend, Belgium. They were said to have reached the harbor of the North sea port.

At the same time it was said a French mechanized unit in Belgium was successfully attacked by German bombers which surprised the column thru low hanging clouds.

ITALY SPEEDING WORK ON ISLAND AIRPLANE BASES

SMYRNA, Turkey, May 11 (AP).—Merchant seamen returning from Italy's strategic Dodecanese islands say the Fascists are rushing construction on many new land and sea plane bases.

They said antiaircraft batteries have been installed at important points on the islands in the last few days, and coastal batteries have been strengthened with heavier guns.

More than 40,000 Italian troops are said to have landed at Rhodes, and 9,000 on the island of Coo. Freighters are busy unloading munitions, guns, and light tanks.

Combined naval and air maneuvers were seen. Large numbers of small, speedy torpedo boats participated. A new seaplane-airplane base was reported to have been commissioned three weeks ago at Stampalia.

FRENCH SMASH BIG NAZI BLOW AT MAGINOT LINE

14,000 Attackers Halted in Tracks, Says Paris.

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, May 11.—While one of the great battles of history rolled into its second day along a 250 mile front from the Moselle river to the North sea, French troops today beat off the largest attack the Germans have made on the Maginot line. They are said to have halted in its tracks a German division of 14,000 men.

The Germans attacked in the vicinity of Sierck, which lies in the Moselle valley near the junction of the German, Luxemburg, and French boundaries. They were met by seasoned French units occupying front line positions to which the French outpost forces withdrew yesterday. The French were supported by artillery and machine gun units in the Maginot line's subterranean chambers. Action was reported tonight to be growing quieter, but it was admitted that the Germans may make one of their greatest war efforts in this area.

Heavy Nazi Losses Reported.

The remainder of the front between Luxemburg and the Rhine river was calm, the British-oFrench high command reported tonight. It added that German troops had suffered heavy losses in fighting in southern Luxemburg.

Louis O. Frossard, minister of propaganda, said in a broadcast:

"We are only in the first days of a battle which may be one of the greatest battles in history. We are going into it under tactical and strategical conditions that are in conformity with the provisions and plans of our general staff. We can thus await the issue with confidence."

The direction of the German drive into Holland appeared to indicate more and more that its primary purpose is to smash the British Isles, according to experts here, and this phase of the fighting is referred to as "the crusade against England."

Allies Pleased by Progress.

Communiques and reports reaching Paris say that operations during the last 48 hours have been satisfactory from the the Franco-British point of view. The allies have been successful, it is reported, in rushing reinforcements into Belgium according to their plan and without too much obstruction from the German aviation, which has been operating on a massive scale not only to prevent this but to support the advance of German troops into Holland and Belgium.

British headquarters in France conceded that German warplanes were desperately machine gunning all troop movements toward the Belgian border from France. They said that the Franco-British counteraction, however, had broken up the German attacks.

Allied forces were being moved across Belgium with such speed, French sources said that the Belgian high command had expressed satisfaction.

Report 150 Planes Downed.

Unofficial Franco-British reports stated that 150 German planes have been shot down since the invasion of the low countries. They also said that no Dutch or Belgian airport remained in the hands of German parachutist troops and that this method of seizing airports had been defeated with a heavy loss of life.

Thirty-six German planes were shot down today in France and Belgium, said the general staff, which added that the results obtained by the enemy were negligible "compared with the effectives engaged." One chaser squadron alone was said to have shot down 11 planes yesterday and five more today.

The French government announced that 148 civilians have been killed and 337 wounded by German bombardments of French towns behind the front. In a small town on the Marne river 50 were killed and 50 wounded.

France replied to the German bombings, according to tonight's communique, by bombing German airdromes and important military objectives.

Planes Again Alarm Paris.

Paris had another anxious day for the second time since the invasion of the low countries. It awoke at 6 a. m. to the sound of sirens. A large squadron of German planes had headed for Paris but apparently was driven away by antiaircraft fire and chaser planes. No gunfire was heard near Paris.

The city remained calm. Camille Chautemps, vice premier, announced that even if bombardments take place no further evacuation of Paris is planned. Exceptions might be made for very young children and their mothers and school children, he added.

"The adult population will remain in the city and each person at his post," said Chautemps.

During the early morning hours four air raid alarms were sounded in eastern France and some damage was caused.

These raids appear in part to be directed against airports, the design being to launch surprise attacks and destroy planes parked in open fields as the Germans did in the Polish war.

Tell of War in Lowlands.

According to Franco-British sources the situation in Holland and Belgium tonight was as follows:

In Holland, Dutch forces have been able to carry out inundations and destruction of bridges with success. Sheltered behind these flooded areas, the Dutch have dug in on the line of the Ijssel river and the marshes to the west of the Meuse river. German troops, it is said, have not reached the Ijssel river, and are still held at a point situated to the east of Arnhem, having penetrated the country at no point more than 9½ miles.

In Belgium also the plan of destroying bridges and flooding wide areas and resisting behind the frontier has been succesful, according to the Franco-British, with the Belgians holding the Germans in check. The Belgians are holding along the line from Eupen to Houffalize, and the German attacks do not appear to be particularly violent.

Authorized French sources joined with the British in denying a German charge that allied planes had bombed civilians in Freiburg, Germany.

Press of New Zealand Assails Hitler Treachery

WELLINGTON, N. Z., May 11.—New Zealanders view the German attack on the low countries as a critical test of the war. The daily press condemned "Hitler's treachery and lack of scruples towards small neutrals," and dismissed claims the allies were about to invade the low countries as fantastic.

QUIT FIGHT OR BE ANNIHILATED, NAZIS WARN FOES

Radio Hurls Threats to Civilian Populations.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, May 11.—As the armies of five nations squared away for "the biggest battle in history," Germany today warned the inhabitants of the countries in which it is to be fought to end their resistance and lay down their arms before they are annihilated.

In Dutch, Flemish, and French the German radio blared forth the warning, "The German army is three times as big as it was in 1914."

Civilians in Belgium and Holland were urged to abandon their attempts to hinder the advance of the German war machine and were advised to induce their troops to give up the struggle while there was yet time.

War Differs from One in 1914.

The initial stages of the battle are different from those of 1914. The air forces of Germany, France, England, Belgium and the Netherlands are doing the lion's share of the preparatory fighting. Radios, which were in an infant stage in 1914, now are blaring forth encouragements and instructions for their own population and propaganda for the enemy population to undermine its morale. In Germany, which remembers the power of propaganda for the enemy in the world war, listening to a foreign station is punishable with prison terms, and even death sentences are possible.

The western powers permit their citizens to listen to German propaganda. The Germans sneer at their methods all along the line, asserting that "England is fighting this new war on the pattern of that of 1914-'18, and having learned nothing new she is bound to lose this war."

Churchill Assailed.

The appointment of Winston Churchill in the place of Neville Chamberlain as British prime minister is greeted with a certain satisfaction in German official circles. They say Churchill, like Chamberlain, is an old man; he may not be as old as Chamberlain, they add, but the war to date has showed that he has not developed new plans and methods since the last war. Authorized sources described Churchill "as the true representative of brutal plutocracy."

"His appointment," they continue, "has placed one of the men who was responsible for the outbreak of the war at the helm of his government, and the fronts are clear. The plutocrats, Premier Paul Reynaud of France and Churchill, have assumed responsibility in their countries for the war against Nazi Germany. They will lead the democracies of England and France to their doom."

LEASING OF PORTS FOR BRITISH SHIPS DENIED BY IRISH

DUBLIN, May 11.—The government information bureau today denied reports in the London Daily Mirror that Britain had leased port facilities in southern and western Ireland for naval vessels during the war.

The bureau communique said:

"Statements that Britain had paid for the right to take over camps and fortresses and air and sea bases formerly held in this country are completely false. There is similarly no truth in the suggestion there was any discussion on this subject in the recent trade negotiations. This state has declared its neutrality and is determined to resist any infringement on that neutrality, including any attempt to use its territory as a base for an attack against Britain. The position remains as President Eamon de Valera declared it to be as long ago as May 28, 1935, when he said we are going to get our own independence of Britain, but we are not going to allow our territory to be made use of by some foreign power as a basis of attack against Britain."

The press censor has barred circulation of the Daily Mirror in Ireland.

ARCHBISHOP OF REIMS NAMED TO PARIS POST

PARIS, May 11 (AP).—Cardinal Emmanuel Celestin Suhard, archbishop of Reims, was named archbishop of Paris today to succeed Cardinal Jean Verdier, who died April 9.

As archbishop of reims, Cardinal Suhard distinguished himself for his pastoral letters. He was born at Brains-sur-les-Marches May 4, 1874, the son of a family of farmers. He has studied both in France and in Rome and was ordained a priest in 1899.

EX-CHICAGOAN TELLS OF WAR PREPARATION IN DUTCH WEST INDIES

Lloyd G. Smith, a former Chicagoan who is general manager of one of the world's largest oil refineries on the Island of Aruba, in the Dutch West Indies, arrived in Chicago yesterday to visit his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Smith of 5474 Greenwood avenue.

A state of war was proclaimed against Germany last Friday by the governor of the Dutch West Indies, and 100 Germans living in Aruba were sent by steamer to an unnamed island. Smith, who left the island last Monday, said 600 Dutch soldiers have been stationed on the island and its neighbor, Curacao, since last September, apparently in readiness for such an eventuality.

Smith was graduated from Hyde Park High school in 1908 and from the University of Illinois in 1915. Since 1933 he has been manager of the Lago Oil and Transport Co., Ltd., of Aruba, a Canadian corporation owned by the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey.

SEEK IDENTITY OF HEART VICTIM. A woman about 28 years old collapsed in a cleaning establishment at 2036 Cermak road last night and died, apparently of a heart attack, on the way to County hospital. She was 5 feet 4 inches tall, weighed 130 pounds, and had brown hair and blue eyes. Marquette police were seeking to identify her.

U. S. NEUTRALITY BAN EXTENDED TO LOW COUNTRIES

President Expresses Hope Invasion Will Fail.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 11.—President Roosevelt tonight extended provisions of the American neutrality act to Holland, Belgium, and Luxemburg, and at the same time expressed hope that the German attack on Belgium will fail.

The hope was offered in a cablegram to King Leopold of the Belgians in answer to that monarch's cabled plea for Mr. Roosevelt's moral support.

Text of Message.

The President's message said:

"I have received your majesty's telegram. As I stated in an address which I delivered last night to representatives of the 21 American republics, the cruel invasion by force of arms of the independent nations of Belgium, Netherlands, and Luxemburg has shocked and angered the people of the United States—and, I feel sure their neighbors in the western hemisphere.

"The people of the United States hope, as I do, that policies which seek to dominate peaceful and independent peoples thru force and military aggression may be arrested, and that the government and people of Belgium may preserve their integrity and their freedom.

"As an old personal friend, I send you my warm personal regards.

"Franklin D. Roosevelt."

King Leopold's Plea.

Leopold's cable read:

"Brutally attacked by Germany, which had entered into the most solemn engagements with her, Belgium will defend herself with all of her strength against the invader. In these tragic hours which my country is undergoing, I am addressing myself to your excellency, who so often has demonstrated toward Belgium an affectionate interest, in the certainty that you will support with all of your moral authority the efforts which we now are firmly decided to make in order to preserve our independence."

The President's proclamation, extending the provisions of the neutrality act, were similar to those issued a few days ago which put Norway in the category of a belligerent. The principal practical effect of the action was to put all purchases in America by those countries on a cash and carry basis. It also forbids Americans to travel hereafter on Dutch and Belgian ships.

Move to Extend Credits.

Even before Mr. Roosevelt proclaimed extension of the neutrality law to the newest belligerents, Andrew J. May [D., Ky.], chairman of the house military affairs committee, came out in favor of repealing the Johnson act and revising the neutrality statute to permit the granting of credits to Britain and her allies.

"If I've got a bulldog in my front yard to scare away burglars," the Kentuckian told reporters, "I'm going to feed it."

Relaxation of the neutrality act had been advocated previously by Senator Alva B. Adams [D., Colo.], but the general idea then was that the suggestion was premature.

Several legislators today predicted privately that, if the President were to recommend repeal of the Johnson act and neutrality law revision, congress would support him. Others said it is too early for such a step.

Spends a Quiet Day.

The President spent the day in the White House proper and did not go to the executive offices. He had no fixed appointments. His only callers during the day were Secretary of State Cordell Hull and Under Secretary Sumner Welles, who reported on European developments.

White House Secretary Stephen T. Early reported that Mr. Roosevelt received several thousand telegrams commenting on the belligerent speech before the Pan-American scientific congress last night in which the President said while the Americans love peace they will fight to protect their civilization.

Early said the telegrams ran 10 favorable to one unfavorable—the "one" representing advocates of "peace at any price."

Many members of both houses praised the address, but Senator Cylde M. Reed [R., Kan.] said he had "a reluctant fear that the President is heading in the direction of participation in the war in Europe."

JURY CLEARS BANDIT'S SLAYER.

A coroner's jury returned a verdict of justifiable homicide yesterday in the slaying of Thomas E. Mayo by Policeman Robert Anderson. Mayo, 25 years old, 1634 Warren boulevard, was shot Friday as he fled from a police squad after a holdup. His companion, Theodore Billik, 2015 Washington boulevard, was captured.

German Plane Crashes in England

Members of British air force and policemen examine wreckage of a German bombing plane which crashed at Clacton-on-Sea, an English resort. The crew of four and two civilians in the town were killed. One hundred sixty persons were injured and numerous houses were damaged.

ORDER BELGIANS IN AMERICA TO REGISTER SELVES

New York, May 11 [Special].—Cabled instructions tantamount to orders for a general mobilization of all Belgian nationals in the United States were received today by Charles Hallaert, Belgian consul-general in New York. Mr. Hallaert announced that the message had been sent from Brussels by the Belgian foreign minister, Paul H. Spaak.

It directed the consul-general here to arrange immediately for the registration of all Belgian nationals in the United States who have their "letters of service." Hallaert was ordered to relay the instructions contained in the cablegram to Belgian consulates thruout the country.

No such mobilization orders apparently had been received at the office of the Netherlands consulate general but a steady stream of volunteers has been calling at the office.

Dutch Here Volunteer.

John Vennema, Netherland's consul general in Chicago, said last night that a "very considerable number" of Dutch citizens in this area and several Americans have volunteered their services to the invaded Netherlands. Vennema explained that "it isn't man power we need as much as it is equipment," and said no order for mobilization of Dutch nationals had been received. Emile Rosier, Belgian consul general, could not be reached for comment.

PLAN EMERGENCY BODIES TO HANDLE DUTCH BUSINESS

New York, May 11 (AP).—Emergency committees to handle the Netherlands shipping, financial, and press affairs in this country will be set up immediately, Jan Schuurman, consul general in New York, announced today.

Emil Zimmerman, trade commissioner for the Netherlands East Indies, coöperating with Schuurman in plans to keep their country's commerce moving, said trade with their Pacific possessions was continuing as usual.

Agents for the Netherlands and Belgian steamship lines here withheld information concerning the movements of their ships. At the office of the Holland-America Line, operators of the largest fleet between New York and Holland, an official stated: "We are a belligerent now, and we cannot talk about what our ships are doing." Sailings of the Netherlands liners Colombia and Castor, scheduled for yesterday, apparently were canceled and both ships remained in port today.

Britain Bars Transmission of Red and Fascist Papers

LONDON, May 11 (AP).—The minister of information today prohibited the dispatch abroad of the Communist Daily Worker and Sir Oswald Mosley's Fascist publication, Action. The minister said both "make a practice of publishing allegations which create in the minds of neutrals a misapprehension about British policy."

Red Cross Sends $100,000 Each to Belgium, Holland

Washington, D. C., May 11 (AP).—The Red Cross cabled $100,000 to Belgium and the same amount to the Netherlands today for relief of the military and civilian wounded. The Red Cross also announced it had ordered 100 ambulances for use in the war zones.

ITALY TO STRIKE, EGYPT FEARS; ADDS DEFENSES

CAIRO, Egypt., May 11.—There is much uneasiness among Egyptians over Germany's invasion of the Netherlands and Belgium.

The strong pro-German tone of the Italian press and radio leads to the belief here that Italy may follow Germany's tactics and that the inhabitants of Egypt may be awakened before dawn some morning by Italian war planes.

The government today ordered further defense precautions taken. Premier Maher Pasha said the latest attack in neutral countries forced the action.

BELGIANS SPEED FROM PARIS TO FIGHT INVADERS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, May 11.—Amid cries of "Hurrah for Belgium!" and the waving of French, British, and Belgian flags, thousands of Belgian reservists entrained at Gare du Nord station for Belgium today to join the colors. The Belgian embassay installed a special military office at the railway station where each reservist was given a ticket and 30 francs [about 55 cents] to help him on the way.

A sign over the office read: "Men over 45 Are Not Called Up." Many reservists wore their old uniforms—in many cases faded and tight—and all seemed in good spirits. Women and children crowded the station platform to bid the reservists farewell. There were many drawn white faces and sad eyes. The slogan of 1914, "We Shall Get Them," was heard everywhere.

Train service between Paris and Brussels, as well as Antwerp, Charleroi, Liege, and cities in Flanders, functioned normally. Extra coaches were attached to express trains for the men returning to fight for their country. Sympathetic crowds of Parisians gathered before the Belgian embassy and the Dutch and Luxemburg legations. Visitors to the Luxemburg legation were told it had been without news from its government since the invasion.

If You Get Up Nights You Can't Feel Right

If you have to get up 3 or more times a night your rest is broken and it's no wonder if you feel old and run down before your time. Functional rather than organic or systemic Kidney and Bladder troubles often may be the cause of many pains and symptoms simply because the Kidneys may be tired and not working fast enough in filtering and removing irritating excess acids, poisons and wastes from your blood. So if you get up nights or suffer from burning, scanty or frequent passages, leg pains, backache, or swollen ankles, due to non-organic or non-systemic Kidney and Bladder troubles, you'll make no mistake in trying the prescription called Cystex. Because it has given such joyous, happy relief in so high a percentage of such cases, Cystex is sold under a guarantee of money back on return of empty package unless completely satisfactory to you. Cystex costs only 35c at druggists and the guarantee protects you.

MOB ATTACKS 2 AMERICANS, 2 BRITONS IN ROME

Pope Prays for Victories in Lowlands.

ROME, May 11 (AP).—Amid mounting Fascist feeling against Great Britain, marked by anti-British posters and a slugging incident, Pope Pius XII. sent his blessing from the Vatican today to the newest allies of Britain and France with prayers for their victory.

Miss Virginia Cowles.

Messages to the Catholic rulers of Belgium and Luxemburg and to Protestant Queen Wilhelmina of Holland, whose countries had been attacked "against their will and right," told of the pope's prayers for their liberation.

Italian newspapers and radio made no mention of the pope's messages, which were made public after the pontiff had received a succession of diplomats, including Myron C. Taylor, President Roosevelt's personal representative to the Vatican, in private audiences.

Two Americans Attacked.

Sir Percy Loraine, the British ambassador, was said in reliable quarters to have protested to Italian authorities against both a swarm of posters which sought to impress Italians with the German army's superiority, and a reported assault upon two British diplomats last night.

Two American newspaper correspondents, John Whitaker, Rome representative of the Chicago Daily News, and Miss Virginia Cowles, whose articles are syndicated by the North American Newspaper Alliance, were involved in the incident.

Whitaker and Miss Cowles had been dinner guests of George La Bouchere, secretary of the British embassy, and Commander Rodd, assistant naval attaché, and were being escorted home when the attack occurred.

Versions Differ.

One version was that the party incurred the wrath of the Blackshirts by attempting to remove a poster to keep as a souvenir. Another report said the party merely was reading the poster when seven men attacked the three men without warning and slugged them. Miss Cowles was pushed around, but not struck.

Only La Bouchere was injured. He received slight marks on the face. Both British and Italian circles described the incident as "regrettable."

Duce Applauds Blast at Britain.

The Italians intensified their campaign against the allied contraband control of sea commerce. Premier Mussolini applauded in the senate when Admiral Domenico Cavagnari, undersecretary of the navy, declared the "disturbance" of Italy's shipping "must change."

Luca Pietromarchi, chief of the "economic war" office of the foreign ministry, reported to Il Duce that the allied contraband control was becoming "ever more vexatious."

Nazis Ask About Iceland.

BERLIN, May 11 (AP).—Authorized German sources said today that Pope Pius' "prayer and appeal on behalf of Belgium, Holland, and Luxemburg is completely uninteresting to us unless Iceland is included."

Iceland, a possession of German occupied Denmark, has been taken over by British troops.

PARACHUTE 'MEN FROM MARS' SET WAR'S GRIM PACE

Speed Attacks, Put Fear in Enemy.

"Men from Mars"—the new nickname for parachute troops—engage in well nigh suicidal ventures and have added a new factor to the science of war.

The surprise element and the ability of parachuters to destroy bridges and distract the enemy from the rear have been demonstrated dozens of times this year.

Invented by Da Vinci.

Altho the first parachute was designed in the 16th century by Leonardo da Vinci, it wasn't until ballooning became popular in Europe in the 18th century that interest in parachutes became serious. The first parachute leap in flight was made over Paris in 1797, from a balloon.

In the world war spies were dropped by parachute, and occasionally provisions and ammunition were 'chuted to beleaguered troops. Parachutes of those days did not always open, but today experts say that any 'chute that is properly packed cannot fail to open.

Mass parachute jumping was pioneered more than 10 years ago by the United States navy. In a Navy day stunt, a dozen officers and men soared down from a trimotored transport to the naval airport at Washington, D. C. In this world record event no equipment was carried.

Russia Pioneered Use.

Russia was the originator of tactical use of parachute troops. In 1935, 1936, and 1937 foreign military observers were permitted to watch maneuvers employing sky troops on a large scale, with the number increasing until it reached 5,200 the third year. Armed with machine rifles and grenades, the force was landed without a hitch.

The British military expert, Capt. Liddell Hart, has been impressed by the possibilities offered by parachute troops.

"Their indirect strategic influence might be much greater than actual results," Capt. Hart said. "All armies and nearly all commanders are actually susceptible to the threat of a blow in the back and interruption of their communications.

"The knowledge that the enemy has a parachute force that could be dropped near important bridges or other crucial points of their rear would be likely to increase their fear. The risk might well cause the higher command to strengthen all detachments and posts on lines of communication, thus producing a reduction of the force from the main concentration many times larger than the parachute force that the enemy possesses. Added to this is the psychological strain."

Lieut. Gen. Stanley H. Ford, commander of the 6th corps area, said yesterday that American military opinion is that the usefulness of parachute troops is extremely limited.

"Unless the scene of landing is prepared, the parachute troops can be picked off as they land, or even while they are in the air," Lieut. Gen. Ford said. "No large scale experiments have been conducted by our army."

Use in Petsamo Fighting.

In Finland, while the element of surprise was at its height, the Russians were reported to have captured Petsamo, the country's chief arctic port, with parachute troops. Whole companies of soviet soldiers, with full equipment and machine guns, overcame fighting Finns on Dec. 1, 1939.

Later attempts to repeat this success were frustrated. A large scale parachute attack ended at Vilmannstrand, 43 miles northwest of Viipuri [Viborg] with the invaders quickly disarmed, on Dec. 3. Another attempt on Jan. 12 was foiled when Finns wiped out groups of 50 as they floated to the Karelian isthmus.

Again on Feb. 2 a dispatch told of soviet parachuters being picked off in the air by sharpshooters or machine gun fire near Viipuri.

Germany used parachute troops at the outset of the Norwegian campaign and occasionally for special missions later on.

The Sola airport at Stavanger was taken in a surprise invasion by 120 parachuters, each one armed with a light machine gun. They overwhelmed a small Norwegian force. Dombos, where the railroad branches toward Trondheim and Andalsnes, was the scene of surrender of 50 parachuters on April 23, dispatches said. A few days later another horde of visitors from the air was either killed or captured at Dovre, near Dombas.

RUMANIA UNITES DEFENSES UNDER NOTED GENERAL

Peace Hopes Increase as Cabinet Is Revised.

BY SAM BREWER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUCHAREST, Rumania, May 11 [By Trans-Atlantic Telephone]. — King Carol, keeping a watchful eye on the sudden spread of the war, today readjusted his cabinet to place control of all the country's defenses into the hands of one man, Gen. Ion Ilcuzu.

Ilcuzu, a noted strategist, was given the ministries of the air, the navy, and war, the latter of which he already held. Thus in a stroke he became master of the Rumanian army, navy, and air forces. Informed sources said that he was given unprecedented powers.

Keep Foreign Minister.

The cabinet change was effected by Premier George Tatarescu at the command of Carol himself. Tatarescu went thru the formality of resigning and then reforming his government. His first act was to relinquish the ministries of the air and navy to Ilcuzu. His next move was to retain Grigore Gafencu as foreign minister and to give him an undersecretary.

Other governmental changes were made but they were minor. All in all, the cabinet readjustment was less radical than had been expected.

Of significance may be the fact that former members of the Nazi Iron Guard did not get into the cabinet. During the last week it had been rumored that the inclusion of such men was not improbable, especially since King Carol was known to be following a policy of gathering all political groups in the government.

Peace Hopes Increase.

The general feeling in Bucharest tonight was that no further cabinet changes are likely to be made in the near future. For the present the Rumanians are optimistic about their chances of staying out of the war.

Nevertheless, full precautions are being taken. Beneath the optimism is a sense of realism. For instance, more men have been called to the colors during the last two days. And as soon as Tatarescu had reorganized the cabinet he told the nation that the government would "guard the frontiers with greater vigilance than ever." He added:

"Rumania will observe the strictest neutrality in all circumstances and will not lend herself to foreign interests."

2,000 AMERICAN PLANES BOLSTER ALLIED AIR ARM

Germany, However, Still Superior in Numbers.

New York, May 11 (AP).—Two thousand American warplanes have been thrown into the balance by the allies in the suddenly intensified struggle for dominance in the air. Even so, Germany's aviation remains numerically superior.

The losses reported for both sides in the fighting for possession of the low countries were upward of 500 planes in two days. If this becomes a standard rate of depletion, the allies' situation in the air may well become critical.

From a dozen different authoritative sources comes an estimate that Germany, grimly counting on air power to turn the tide of battle, has no fewer than 20,000 warplanes on hand, half of them for first line service.

Half Available for Warfare.

Against that number the allies probably can muster no more than 8,000 planes, including the modest addition of the Dutch and Belgian air forces. Only half of this total is available for bombing and fighting forays, the others being trainers, transports, and other noncombat types.

Of the 2,000 American planes delivered to France and England immediately preceding and since the outbreak of the war, 1,000 were trainers. The combat types were 50 dive bombers, 300 pursuits, and 650 bimotored medium bombers. For the current fighting over the low countries Germany is reported to have twice as many bombing planes as the allies.

Orders Stream to America.

Allied inferiority to Germany in the air—conceded this week by both Neville Chamberlain and Winston Churchill, outgoing and incoming British prime ministers—is not so much a matter of airplanes on hand as the ability to replace those lost in combat. A confidential report received here yesterday put the French warplane output at only 150 planes a month. The British output is possibly as high as 1,000 a month, including training planes. For purposes of replacement the German output is much greater.

Orders for great quantities of planes now are streaming in to American factories from London and Paris, but it will be late summer or early fall before the allies begin to feel the full force of American productiveness. In all, the French and English have ordered 5,300 planes since the spring of 1939.

Figures for American warplane production last year showed that 5,500 planes were turned out. Three thousand were so-called sport planes and the remainder included transports, export planes of all types, and warplanes.

DIES AFTER CAR CATCHES FIRE.

Alfred H. Gallagher, 72 years old, 436 Maple avenue, Oak Park, an engineer, died yesterday, apparently of a heart attack, shortly after his automobile caught fire in Rohlwing road a half mile north of Higgins road. Mr. Gallagher was found lying in the roadway by passersby who summoned police.

ENGLAND POSTS SCHEDULE FOR CONSCRIPTION

LONDON, May 11 (AP).—The ministry of labor today announced a monthly schedule for conscription during the remainder of the year "unless military requirements necessitate acceleration."

The class of 1912—the ministry today changed the system of classes from the age to the year of birth in continental style—will be called up May 25, the class of 1911 in June, 1910, in July, and so on in order until 1904 and part of the 1903 will be called in January.

Those who have reached the age of 20 will be included in each call.

Air Raid Duty at Hand, British Teachers Told

LONDON, May 11 (AP).—Kenneth Lindsay, parliamentary secretary to the board of education, advised the National Association of Head Teachers to end its conference today instead of on Monday. By Monday at the latest, he said, every teacher will be needed at his school. Teachers have charge of removing school children in event of air raids.

WINS PERMIT FOR RACCOON.

The New York state conservation department has granted a special permit to Mrs. Hugh Glasgow of Geneva, which allows her to keep a baby raccoon as a household pet.

BRITISH MOVE IN ICELAND HITS U. S., SAY NAZIS

BERLIN, May 11.—The German press today called the British occupation of Iceland "an impudent invasion." Leading commentators, however, said: "It is less a question for Germany and Europe but more one for America." The press contended Iceland lies within the sphere of interests of the United States and that its occupation by British troops represents "an astounding invasion of American interests as defined by the Monroe Doctrine."

"It would be well," the Deutsche Allgemeinze Zeitung said, "if questions raised in American public opinion relative to the significance of any German occupation of Iceland after the reich's invasion of Denmark were applied now to Britain."

"America often has warned about trespassing in this section [western hemisphere], to be sure with a side glance in another direction," says the Angriff. "England now has done it!"

Admiral Keyes Is Liaison Officer to Belgian King

LONDON, May 11 (AP).—Admiral Sir Roger Brownlow Keyes, world war naval hero who wanted to lead an attack on Trondheim, left London yesterday "on government service." It was disclosed he had been appointed naval attaché in Brussels for liaison work with King Leopold.

Allied Armies Fight Bitterly to Hold Belgian Forts Against Germans—British Flyers Bomb Rhine Bridges

[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

Belgian women tearfully waving good-by to husbands and sons called to the colors recently as the threat of invasion hung heavily over their homeland. The picture reached New York yesterday after the threat had turned to reality and German forces were driving desperately to blast their way thru the little kingdom as they did in 1914. The war has been brought directly to the civilian population of the country by aerial bombing of Brussels and Alost, 15 miles west of the capital.

Captions on the map tell of the principal developments yesterday in the German army's drive into Belgium, the Netherlands, and Luxemburg. While bitter fighting was in progress on a 250-mile front in the low countries, the French beat off (near Sierck) the largest attack the Germans have made on the Maginot line. British planes bombed the German towns of Wesel, Aldekerke, Geldern, Rees and Goch, all near the Ruhr industrial region. Diagonal shading covers areas believed to be occupied by the Germans.

HULL TELLS JAPS AGAIN: AMERICA'S WATCHING INDIES

Army Worried Over Tin from Dutch Islands.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 11.—Secretary of State Cordell Hull today expressed the worries of the administration over the status quo of the Netherlands East Indies as a result of Germany's invasion of Holland.

At the same time, military circles also evidenced uneasiness. They were worried over the possibility that the warfare in Holland may interfere with America's securing vital materials—especially tin—from the Netherlands Asiatic possessions.

Hull's statement again reminded Japan that the United States has a vital interest in desiring maintenance of the status quo of the Dutch possessions. He spoke in response to inquiries regarding press dispatches from Tokio saying that Foreign Minister Hachiro Arita had told diplomats that Japan has a similar interest. Hull's statement followed the lines of the one he made April 17.

"I have no full report about the matter referred to in the press dispatches from Tokio," he said. "During recent weeks a number of governments, including Great Britain, Japan and the United States,' have made clear in official public utterances their attitude of continued respect for the status quo of the Netherlands East Indies.

Commitments Made in 1922.

"This was in harmony with definite commitments formally made in writing in 1922. This government assumes that each of the governments which has made commitments will continue to abide by those commitments."

Hull then referred to his April 17 statement in which he said: "Intervention in the domestic affairs of the Netherlands Indies or any alteration of their status quo by other than peaceful processes would be prejudicial to the cause of stability, peace, and security not only in the region of the Netherlands Indies but in the entire Pacific area."

Military Circles Worried.

The concern in military circles was occasioned by this nation's lack of strategic war materials, especially rubber and tin, which are obtained from the Dutch possessions in the far east.

In fact, the possible shutting off of shipments of these materials has become the most urgent concern of the administration at the moment. It was learned today that high government officials had perfected a plan to obtain 50,000 tons of tin from the Dutch. This plan cannot now be carried out because of the involvement of the Netherlands in the European war. Provisions of the neutrality law will prevent carrying out terms of the plan.

The deal would have been negotiated thru a $50,000,000 loan to the Dutch, who would put up the tin as security.

From the viewpoint of the Netherlands, as well as the United States of America, the deal would have served notice on Japan that America is willing to back up with cash Hull's warning that a hands off policy must be maintained in the far east.

Manganese, Chrome Also Needed.

The agreement was considered necessary because the administration has not been provided by congress with sufficient funds to make an outright purchase of tin on a large scale. Congress last year authorized purchase of strategic war materials up to $100,000,000, but appropriated only $10,000,000 for the purpose. This year an additional $12,500,000 has been made available, but only $3,000,000 of this amount can be spent before July 1.

In addition to tin, the treasury procurement division must purchase manganese, chrome, quinine, and other strategic materials from the funds to build up a stock against a war emergency.

Four million dollars has been spent to acquire 4,000 tons of reserve tin from the Indies and more will be purchased. Fifty thousand tons of tin, plus an amount now in reserve, would provide America with approximately one year's supply in case of emergency. The normal need of the nation is more than 70,000 tons a year.

Occupy Dutch Isles

Arrows point to Netherlands West Indies islands reported to have been occupied by allied forces and to Netherlands Guiana city, where a German crew scuttled a merchant ship.

Nazi Drive Forces British to Check Price of Eggs

LONDON, May 11 (AP).—Mamimum prices for home produced eggs will be enforced because the German invasion has cut off imports, principally from the Netherlands, the food ministry announced today. The order will be effective Tuesday. Prices will be stabilized at approximately the present levels to prevent profiteering, the ministry said.

NORSE AND DUTCH SHIPS RETURNING TO THE WAR ZONE

Two merchant ships of Europe's warring nations which were in American waters when their countries were invaded by Germany will return to Europe on schedule, general agents for the steamship lines said here yesterday.

The Prins Maurits of the Oranje [Dutch] Line, which arrived in Chicago Thursday and later went to East Chicago, will return to Rotterdam, the Netherlands, according to Norman Betzer of the Lakes Overseas Shipping corporation. The Prins Maurits carries a cargo of steel and general merchandise. Yesterday the crew of 24 was busy repainting the entire ship in battleship gray, indicating the change to belligerent status. The Dutch flag will be removed from the masthead while the ship is at sea.

The Carmelfjell of the Fjell [Norwegian] Line is now "somewhere on the Great Lakes," according to Donald Phelps of Great Lakes Transatlantic, Inc., general agents. It is due in Chicago next week, after which it will sail for a port in the United Kingdom. Phelps said no Norwegian vessels have been taken under charter by the British government, as previously reported. They are operating under the Norwegian flag under instructions from the Norwegian ministry of shipping, now located in London, he said.

FALL ON ICE IS FATAL.

Mrs. Lydia Horn, 74 years old, 354 Wisconsin street, died yesterday in County hospital, of injuries suffered in a fall on an icy sidewalk near her home March 21.

LIFT CONTRABAND BAR ON GOODS TO LOW COUNTRIES

Washington, D. C., May 11 (AP).—Great Britain and France today gave clearance thru their contraband patrol to American exports destined for the Netherlands and Belgium. The British embassy said the allies would dispense with navicerts on shipments to the Dutch and the Belgians.

Navicerts are certificates, obtainable by shippers from British consulates, which state that designated exports are not contraband and therefore not subject to seizure.

Meanwhile, department of agriculture officials said the extension of the war to the Netherlands and Belgium threatens an important market for American farm products and an important source of supply for the United Kingdom.

SEIZE GOLF RANGE ROBBERS.

Gresham police arrested three men yesterday who they said were breaking into a golf driving range office at 7539 Loomis street. The prisoners are James Healy, 5623 South May street; Emil Bayer, 5647 South Throop street, and Thomas Nastro, 1314 West 71st street.

HAAKON'S SECOND NARROW ESCAPE FROM NAZIS TOLD

King Nearly Captured by Invaders in Mountains.

STOCKHOLM, May 11.—King Haakon of Norway narrowly escaped capture by the Germans a second time when he fled from the Gudbrands valley and Namsos with allied troops, it became known today. He was taken to a northern Norwegian port on a British destroyer while German bombing planes swooped overhead trying to sink British warships.

From eastern Norway, where he had taken refuge after eluding the Germans at Nyberg, near Elverum, the king had set out to cross the Dovre mountains for the western coast, which it was then expected would be held by the allies and the Norwegians.

Attacked by Nazi Forces.

Just south of Dombas the king and his Norwegian guard suddenly were enveloped by German motorized forces rapidly advancing on Dombas.

The Norwegians were short of ammunition, and the British from Andalsnes were moving slowly because their artillery had not caught up with them.

British Hold Off Germans.

The Norwegians were firing almost their last round when the British, having at last installed their guns in Dombas, hurried to their assistance and held off the Germans long enough for the king to be taken down the valley toward the coast.

At Andalsnes he and Gen. O. B. Ruge were taken aboard a British destroyer with Count Wedel Jarlsberg, a friend of the king.

Haakon remained on the destroyer several days before he could be landed safely at a northern port in the strip of territory still controled by his government.

DO DUTCH NAMES BOTHER YOU? THIS MAY HELP A BIT

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

The names by which numerous Dutch towns are known are Anglicized and therefore there is no authority for their pronunciation. Amsterdam and Rotterdam, however, are Dutch names, pronounced phonetically.

The Hague, seat of government, is commonly known as Den Haag, pronounced as "Den Hog." The English tongue is seldom equal to pronunciation of The Hague's formal name, 'S-Gravenhage, but an approximation is "Schrawvenhogga."

Here are a few others [accent on first syllable]:

Maastricht: "Mahsschtrick."
Nieuwe Maas: "Neewuh Mahss."
Ijsselmeer [Zuider Zee]: "Aisalmair."
Waalhaven: "Vahlhahvan."
Roermond: "Roormunt."

Some Belgian names [accents on last syllables]:

Liege: "Leeaizjhe."
Malmedy: "Mahlmaydee."
Brussels: "Breussell."
Antwerp: "Ahnvair" [French, not Flemish pronunciation].

BERGEN RAIDED; HIT GERMAN SHIP, BRITONS REPORT

LONDON, May 11 (AP).—British naval planes made two new attacks against Bergen, Norway, which is held by the Germans, the admiralty announced tonight.

In the first raid the planes are said to have scored three hits on a German ship believed to be the 14,600 ton training vessel Bremse. The second attack, described as a surprise, was said to have fired German fuel tanks.

The admiralty also reported additional mines may be laid without further warning along Norway's west coast, from the 60th degree of north latitude [just south of Bergen] to the 65th degree [about 350 miles to the north].

GERMANS BOMB FORD PLANT IN ANTWERP; 4 HURT

Washington, D. C., May 11 (AP).—American diplomats in the European war zone reported to the state department that German planes had bombed the Ford automobile plant in Antwerp, neutral Switzerland, and 18 towns in France.

The automobile plant was struck by three small bombs at 2:30 p. m. yesterday, without serious damage, a dispatch from Consul General Louis Sussdroff Jr. said. No Americans were hurt, but four Belgian employés were wounded. Damage to the plant consisted mostly of broken glass.

Ambassador John Cudahy reported from Brussels that from time to time yesterday, German planes flew over the Belgian capital and dropped many incendiary bombs without causing serious fires.

From Berne, Switzerland, Minister Leland Harrison cabled that Swiss territory was violated many times yesterday by German war planes headed toward France.

Ambassador William C. Bullitt at Paris reported the French government had published a list of 18 towns in France that had been bombed and said the city of Nancy was bombed twice.

The first direct word from Bergen, Norway, since the German occupation of that port city came in a report from Consul Morris P. Dunlap, by way of the Oslo legation, saying that all Americans in Bergen and surrounding districts were well.

NURSE HURT IN AUTO CRASH.

Washington, Ind., May 11 (AP).—Marie McCarty, nurse for Dr. J. J. Hopkins, a Decatur, Ill., physician, was reported in critical condition in a hospital here today with injuries suffered in an automobile accident. Her car left U. S. highway 50 and hit a bridge.

ARMY MAY DECIDE PRESIDENTIAL RACE IN MEXICO

Two Leading Candidates Vie for Its Favor.

MEXICO CITY, May 11 (AP).—The Mexican army once again may be the deciding factor in the republic's presidential election on July 7.

Altho the chief issue in the spirited campaign has come to be whether Mexicans desire to continue the radical policies of their president, Gen. Lazaro Cardenas, or change to a more conservative régime, the army will wield a powerful influence.

The army does not enjoy, however, the tremendous political power it once held. Gradually, in recent years, it has been directed toward more purely military purposes, rather than political.

Once it was all-powerful in politics. It was not uncommon for a zone area commander to be politically the most powerful man in his district. Cardenas has accelerated the trend toward taking the army into more strictly military pursuits. But the army unit is still one of the four main divisions of the PRM [Partido de la Revolucion Mexicana], the administration political party and the only major party in the nation. The other units compose the labor, peasant and popular [general] groups of the country.

Power Goes On.

Thus army men still enjoy great power, not only in their own ranks but in state and federal administrative affairs. All of the four presidential candidates are generals.

The army high command, having been chosen by Cardenas, is assumed to be for Gen. Manuel Avila Camacho, the administration candidate. Cardenas has insisted his policy as regards the candidates is "hands off," notwithstanding that his PRM nominated Avila Camacho.

Gen. Juan Andreu Almazan, the major independent candidate, likewise has devoted most of his life to a military career.

Avila Camacho was once minister of war. Almazan for years commanded the great northern Mexico military zone of Nuevo Leon. Avila Camacho took keen interest in expanding the sports program for the army. Almazan developed what is regarded as Mexico's model military garrison at Monterrey, capital of Nuevo Leon. There he built modern barracks, created coöperative societies whereby enlisted men were able to purchase foods and supplies at low prices, and fostered educational and social programs.

Both Look to Army.

Avila Camacho, in his bid for army support, may count on personal friends, on the prestige that administration support gives him, and on the help of those in the army who want Cardenas' policies continued.

Almazan may expect support from his soldier friends, from those in the army who want a new deal for the military forces along the lines of his policies, and from those persons who may want a change in the governmental régime.

Persons in contact with military men say many officers want to elect Almazan. Some of these officers, particularly younger ones, feel there are "too many generals and other officers holding high rank, leaving no executive posts for the new type Mexican officer, highly trained in college and field."

[Available information indicates there are 400 generals, 10,000 other officers, and 47,267 enlisted men in the Mexican army. In addition there are about 52,000 armed agrarians over whom the army has supervision, and about 700 in units of Yaqui Indians. There are, in addition, 5,300 state troopers managed and paid by the state, but equipped by the federal government].

Cardenas Has His Foes.

There are others in the army who have looked with disfavor on some of Cardenas' policies. These include the agrarian program, under which large farms and plantations were taken from owners and divided among peasants, and the increasing power of organized labor and the militarizing of labor units as fostered by Vicente Lombardo Toledano. Lombardo Toledano is head of the CTM [Confederacion de Trabajadores de Mexico], the nation's largest labor union, and head of the Latin-American Confederation of Workers.

On the other side, there are those who say the army is wholeheartedly behind Cardenas and his program and is backing Avila Camacho.

Some who believe the election may bring an armed revolution attach great importance to the political position of the army.

Those who share the confidence of the government that there cannot be a revolution because, as President Cardenas said, "There can be no revolution when the people support their government, and they do support their government," concede the army's stand is important.

This, they say, is true notwithstanding the organization of Mexico's laboring masses into more compact unions and more formidable political units.

Almazan's supporters are pushing their campaign for what they term a saner application of the ideals of the 1910 revolution, which overthrew Porfirio Diaz, who held the presidency more than 30 years.

Avila Camacho's supporters say that with the support of the PRM, the CTM, and the administration leaders, and his backing of the Cardenas policies, his election is certain.

Little has been heard from the two other candidates for president, Gen. Rafael Sanchez Tapia, who resigned from the PRM and charged it was fomenting "rotten election procedure," and Gen. Joaquin Amaro, fiery critic of the Cardenas régime.

SWISS CALM AS EIGHTH OF NATION TAKES UP ARMS

BY CAPT. M. M. CORPENING.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Gen. Henri Guisan.

BASEL, Switzerland, May 11.—Interest here today centered on the early breakfast table and in tearful farewells to boys in gray who had to be at their mobilization points at 9 a. m.

Altho approximately one-eighth of the Swiss population tonight is under arms and at their posts, the outward appearance of the countryside is unruffled. The stream of civilians which yesterday filled the highways has quieted down. All transportation activities today have been by troops. The people on the streets and in the shops are fewer.

Women Carry On.

The number of workers in the fields putting out the spring crops has decreased, but women and children are carrying on.

Gen. Henri Guisan, head of the Swiss army, told the people the general mobilization ordered yesterday was due to the gravity of the situation.

"Our army," he said, "is ready to do its duty. At all frontiers we shall defend the freedom of our country with the last ounce of energy against any attacker. I know every one will discharge his duty for the honor of Switzerland."

Additional precautions against foreign propaganda are being put into effect. All firearms in private hands were ordered turned over to the government.

Business is quiet but normal. No bank runs such as those in 1914 have occurred. Some Dutch students in Zurich put on a demonstration in front of the German consulate.

Give Up Guns, Foreigners Told.

BERNE, Switzerland, May 11 (AP).—The Swiss federal council tonight ordered all foreigners possessing firearms to surrender them to police by May 15. Schools thruout Switzerland have been closed for at least a week and the buildings have been turned over to troops.

Swiss Down German Bomber.

PARIS, May 11 (AP).—The shooting down of a German bomber in the region of Brugg, Switzerland, by a Swiss squadron of pursuit planes was reported today by French press dispatches from Geneva.

PEACE A SLOGAN, N.Y. FAIR REOPENS IN A MILITARY AIR

Exhibitor Nations Turn On the Propaganda.

New York, May 11 [Special].—In a military atmosphere which belied its new slogan, "For Peace and Freedom," the New York World's Fair was reopened for the 1940 season today to become a sounding board for the war propagandists and official spokesmen of the fighting nations of Europe and Asia.

Parades, booming guns, and a sky filled with airplanes provided the usual opening spectacle. Since the 1939 "world of tomorrow" has become one of siege and suspicion, the half hundred foreign exhibitors were prepared immediately to tell their side of the story to the thousands who come to be entertained.

Courts of Peace Near By.

Grouped around the Lagoon of Nations and flanking the Court of Peace are 20 exhibits of nations which are at war, have been crushed by war, or are struggling to remain armed neutrals. Germany and Russia are missing from the "peace and freedom" scene.

Many of the foreign exhibitors will highlight their parts in war which they consider suitable for American consumption. National defense is a favorite subject.

Expert talkers are on hand everywhere to sell their countries to the Americans. The empires are represented by exhibits from Great Britain, Canada, Australia, New Zealand, British colonies, and France. Funds to keep alive the exhibits of the Asiatic belligerents, China and Japan, were supplied by their nationals in this country.

Summary of Exhibits.

The following thumbnail sketches indicate the propaganda possibilities inherent in the exhibits of various exhibiting nations utilizing the war abroad as an "entertainment" or "informational" feature in America:

FRANCE—Echoes of guns along the Maginot line; 1939 fashion show is replaced by "France at war" exhibit in pill box setting; murals and dioramas showing life at the front; war photos, and a movie "Journal de la Guerre," showing progress of the war. The movie will be kept up to date with special reels flown by Clipper plane.

BRITAIN and Colonial Empire—Emphasis on economic products, purchase of which would bolster British foreign exchange position; tweeds and woolens replace tourist travel lures of 1939; expert from British library of information on hand to answer questions relative to war.

Canadian Display Enlarged.

CANADA—Exhibit greatly enlarged; emphasis shifted to exhibits conducive to luring more tourists and more American dollars.

FINLAND—Photos of recent events, dominated by tanks and guns and soldiers in white.

CZECHO-SLOVAKIA—Story of the political, cultural, and industrial progress of the nation during 20 year existence before Nazi invasion.

POLAND—Photos of shelled cities, empty universities, refugees streaming over roads; all flags at halfstaf; information booth where exiled Poles or Polish-Americans can get any information available about their homeland, now dominated by Russia and Germany.

A Statue of Il Duce.

ITALY—New movie theater installed under imposing statue of Benito Mussolini; prime bid apparently to be pursued in restaurant in belief perhaps, that way to man's heart is via stomach.

DENMARK—Peace and culture, industry and social welfare, and red and white Danish flags flying despite eventualities in Scandinavia's Court of Peace.

NORWAY—Peace, despite war; examples of industrial progress and handicraft and winter sports equipment.

SWEDEN—Peace; more and better Swedish smörgasbord.

BRAZIL—Display of military uniforms.

Stress America's Unity.

INTER-AMERICAN HOUSE [Taken over by the Pan-American union]—Exhibit of trade, travel, and culture of all Americas, emphasizing unity of western hemisphere nations in world at war.

LEAGUE OF NATIONS—Unity among nations [?]; graphic story of world armaments race; murals entitled "war," "pestilence," "famine" and "exile."

UNITED STATES—Federal building [presiding over the Court of Peace]—Scale models of the entire United States fleet, more than 300 fighting craft in battle array—a concentration that never takes place.

Mrs. Dodge Weds

MRS. DAVID H. M'CONNELL.

Fredericksburg, Va., May 11 [Special].—David Hall McConnell, automobile manufacturer of New York, and Mrs. Muriel Dorothy Sisman Dodge, also of New York, were married here today by Marriage Commissioner Lem W. Houston. The wedding was witnessed by a party of eight friends of the couple, including Miss June Hillman of Los Angeles, and Mr. and Mrs. Reynolds Weaver of Washington. The bride was previously married in England in 1928 to Horace E. Dodge, heir to a motor fortune. The union was terminated by divorce in Detroit last October. They had two children.

GENERAL IN WAR GAMES IS 'DEAD,' BUT WON'T PLAY

Camp Beauregard, La., May 11 (AP). A cautious "Blue" army sentry "killed" the commander of all forces engaged in the army's war games today—but the officer, Lieut. Gen. Stanley D. Embick, refused to be dead.

Mistaking the general's flag of red with three white stars for a banner of the invading "red" army, the sentry opened fire.

"You're shot. You're out," he shouted against the roar of the blank cartridges.

"I'm the general," asserted Embick, ordering his aide to drive on. "I've got to pass."

"You can't. I've got orders," insisted the soldier. "Nobody with red showing can get thru."

Gen. Embick explained, but the sentry still was hesitant.

It took more unmilitary argument before the sentry, still doubtful, permitted the car to pass.

LEHMAN SOUNDS PLEA TO PREPARE NATION FOR WAR

New York Governor Flays German Leader.

BY WILLIAM FULTON.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 11.—Adding his voice to the rising chorus of Americans urging intervention in the European war, Gov. Herbert H. Lehman of New York state today declared this country must prepare for war "before it is too late." The occasion for the statement was the reopening of the New York World's fair.

Gov. Lehman assailed Hitler as a "power crazed despot." He asserted Czecho-Slovakia, Poland, Finland, Norway, Denmark, Holland, and Belgium were the victims of "an insane and monstrous lust for power."

Taking isolationists to task for their "smugness," Gov. Lehman insisted the fate of the little nations abroad was "our concern."

"This war is not a battle between nations but a struggle between democracy and religion on the one hand and dictatorship and paganism on the other," he asserted.

Urges Stronger Defenses.

"We can no longer afford to put our trust alone in a righteous cause and in the will to peace. We must make ourselves strong, not in the future but now, before it is too late."

Mayor Fiorello La Guardia also attacked the "brutal invasion" of the low countries The mayor snipped a ribbon across the subway entrance to open the fair at noon. An interested observer was Marshall Dill, president of the Golden Gate International exposition at San Francisco.

Fair officials hoped for big crowds the opening day and for the duration of the exposition to help erase some of its 23 million dollar debt to bondholders. Last year Grover Whalen, head of the exposition, predicted a million attendance the first day and the official count was 198,791.

Banker Assumes Power.

Due to the difficulties of the first year of the fair Mr. Whalen, president of the organization, was shelved and Board Chairman Harvey Gibson, a banker, assumed power.

The second edition of the fair opened up with several gaps in the ranks of international participants as a result of the war. Soviet Russia, which had a luxurious marble pavilion topped off with the towering stainless steel statue of a worker, has withdrawn. The Netherlands is not participating this year.

British Farmhand Baronet Is Married to Housemaid

LONDON, May 11 (AP).—Sir John Fagge, the "farmhand baronet," married Ivy Frier, a housemaid, today in a rural church in Kent. His fellow volunteer firemen made an archway of hatches for the couple as they left the church.

KIRKLAND LEAVES JUDGE ADVOCATE POST WITH GUARD

Gives No Reason; In Army Job Since 1928.

The resignation of Weymouth Kirkland as judge advocate of the Illinois National Guard was announced yesterday by Maj. Gen. Roy D. Keehn, whose own resignation, effective Wednesday, was announced last week. Kirkland, who held the rank of lieutenant colonel, is the senior member of the law firm of Kirkland, Fleming, Green, Martin & Ellis. He has held the army office since 1928.

No reason was given for the resignation. When Keehn resigned it was understood he was forced out of the service for political reasons. Within a few days Brig. Gen. Thomas S. Hammond quit. He was next in line to Keehn but his promotion was sidetracked when Brig. Gen. Samuel T. Lawton was appointed by Gov. Horner to succeed Keehn.

Weymouth Kirkland.

One explanation for the shifting of high officers is said to be that Keehn was interested in the candidacy of Dwight H. Green, Republican nominee for governor, who began his legal career in Keehn's law office. Lawton is a member of the state parole board under appointment by Gov. Horner.

Hammond said his recent appointment as finance officer for the Republican party would take most of his time and would leave him no opportunity to carry on his national guard duties. Col. Charles C. Hafner Jr., who was appointed to Hammond's place, was the senior colonel who has Democratic affiliations, it was reported.

In announcing Kirkland's resignation Keehn said he felt that special commendation should be made of part of Kirkland's military record.

"Col. Kirkland did not pretend to study tactics or make himself proficient in the many duties of the soldier not peculiar to his branch," said Gen. Keehn's statement. "He came into the service at the solicitation of the division commander in 1927, and with the solicitation that during the reorganization of the guard the best legal service obtainable in the state was needed.

"Col. Kirkland turned over to the officers of the guard, and particularly the division staff, the services of the full force of his large law firm, and questions that arose were given the same consideration as his important clients. As a result, the legal work of the division has been handled promptly and efficiently and many important opinions were written.

"The Illinois National Guard has benefited greatly by his service."

U. OF W. ADOPTS YEARLY BUDGET OF 9½ MILLIONS

Madison, Wis., May 11 [Special].—The University of Wisconsin board of regents today adopted a university budget of $9,508,578 for the year 1940-'41. This is virtually the same budget as the university operated under in the current fiscal year, ending June 30.

President Clarence A. Dykstra presented the budget to the board with the assistance of the university's controler, A. W. Peterson. Dykstra told the board that "we have tightened our belt about as much as we can."

While state appropriations for the next fiscal year have been cut $131,520, compared with the 1939-'40 fiscal year, Dykstra said, the total budget has not been cut because of certain economies, the presence of surpluses from the current year, and an anticipated increase in receipts from the university's activities.

A general pay cut of faculty salaries, rumored for some time, will not be made, it was indicated. Salary increases totaling $38,161 are provided in the budget. This will give increases to 320 members of the staff, Dykstra said. Of the salary raises, 214 are from $5 to $10 a month, while 33 are $20 a month and up.

Prepare to Form Illinois Squadron of Navy Clubs

Peoria, Ill., May 11 (AP).—Plans neared completion today for the formation here on May 25 and 26 of an Illinois squadron of the Navy Clubs of the U. S. A. Eligible for membership are former sailors, marines, coast guardsmen or members of the naval reserves. Directing activities for the state meeting is William McGrew of Clinton, assisted by James F. Watson of Rockford.

FEDERAL INQUIRY IS UNDER WAY IN PIPE LINE BLASTS

Springfield, Ill., May 11 [Special].—The federal grand jury which recessed here yesterday will convene on Tuesday to continue its investigation of six bombings of the Texas Empire Pipe Line company. The bombings occurred between July, 1939, and February, 1940.

Five of 21 scheduled witnesses were heard yesterday with the remainder due to testify on Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday.

Federal agents have been investigating the bombings since last October, informed sources said, because the pipe line involved serves various points in Kansas, Oklahoma, and Illinois.

The bombings occurred at or near Olney, Lawrenceville, Brownstown, Casey, Ramsey, and Boody, all Illinois towns, and caused much damage to the pipe line.

WASTE BLAMED FOR LACK OF U. S. PREPAREDNESS

Gets Less for Its Outlay than European Nations.

BY WALTER TROHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 11.—In the last 10 fiscal years—from July 1, 1929, to June 30, 1939—United States defense expenditures totaled 8 billion 439 million dollars.

On July 1, 1939, the United States army had only a handful of modern weapons to use against a possible foe. It had about 7,500 semiautomatic rifles, about 50 new three inch antiaircraft guns which already are obsolete, and less than half a dozen each of 105 mm. and 155 mm. guns and none of the newer models of heavier artillery.

In the same period Germany spent about twice that sum in building one of the most powerful armies the world has ever seen—an army with the finest of equipment, which has enabled it in the space of a few months to overpower half a dozen nations in lightning attacks.

France Spends Billion Less.

In the same period France has spent a billion dollars less than the United States in building an army, which also is one of the finest the world has known, altho it has not taken the offensive. At the same time the French built one of the greatest series of defenses man has known—the Maginot line.

In the same period the British spent about the same amount of money as the United States in maintaining the world's largest navy and policing a mighty empire with its troops. The outbreak of the war in September found Britain unprepared, but nowhere near as unprepared as the United States.

In the 10 years ending in 1939, Germany spent 17 billion 611 million dollars. France spent 7 billion 483 million dollars. Britain spent 8 billion 435 million dollars. Even Italy, which spent only 5 billion 25 million dollars, got far more for her money than the United States.

Burocracy Is Blamed.

The poor showing from the 8½ billion dollar excursion into taxpayers' pockets is attributed to the wastefulness and extravagance of burocracy in the national defense. The army and navy high commands were content to let things ride, so long as they had comfortable swivel chairs and short hours at their desks. Army and navy officers were agreed that the greatest constructive measure that could be undertaken for the national defense would be to increase the pay and living allowance of officers.

During the 10 years under discussion, the army and navy went along without a plan of national defense. The only thought of each department was to get as much money as it could for itself and see what it could get for that money.

In the war department, officers spoke of modernizing 75 mm. guns which were considered obsolete when the British and French sold thousands of the weapons to this country at the end of the world war. Virtually nothing was done about the perfection and acquisition of heavier caliber weapons such as other nations were acquiring.

Mechanization Neglected.

The army did almost nothing about mechanization and motorization or streamlining its organization.

Not until this year were streamlined divisions pushed beyond the experimental stage. Even today the army has not perfected corps or army organization.

The inadequacy of the American national defense has just begun to come home to the American people. Almost simultaneously Secretary of the Navy Charles Edison acknowledged that today the airplane is superior to the battleship and Maj. Gen. H. H. Arnold, chief of the army air corps, admitted that the army has but 50 modern planes and that German planes are superior to the latest American models.

Redesigning Is Ordered.

Edison ordered navy designers to revise ship plans to provide armored turtle backs to ward off bombs.

Edison frequently has found himself at loggerheads with naval burocracy and has confided to friends that the greatest step that could be taken for national defense would be to sweep out the navy department. He is strong for the introduction of the best civilian brains into all naval problems, from construction to strategy.

Red tape is acknowledged to be even more abundant in the war department than in the navy. The army does things by precedent and abhors anything new. Members of congress have been amazed to find how little officers at the heads of departments know about army equipment and the lack of coördination of plans and thought.

The waste and extravagance of army and navy burocracy has not gone without attack on capitol hill and in the press. All attacks have been met with the same strategy—silence and then a request for more money.

The army and navy are prepared to answer the criticism raised as a result of the disclosure of the inadequacy of the army and the navy—the defense forces are preparing to ask congress next week for between 250 and 500 million dollars to speed preparedness by air, land, and sea.

May Ask Half Billion More.

President Roosevelt is expected to ask congress within a few days to increase the $2,000,000,000 already appropriated this year—the biggest defense budget in peace times. Forecasts of the increase ran as high as $500,000,000.

The President's request is expected as soon as he decides on the amount. Congressional committees indicated that they are ready to act at once.

The general defense program has been outlined in detail to congressional committees by the army and navy, and the bulk of the new funds probably will go to the army. The navy, because of the length of time needed for its expansion, is maintained constantly at a point nearer fighting strength.

Secretary of the Navy Edison has told a house appropriations subcommittee that the navy would need another $100,000,000.

Wants Army of 1,000,000.

Gen. George C. Marshall, chief of staff of the army, was less specific, but he said that the army's urgent need is for money to recruit and equip another 15,000 men immediately and to start procuring equipment for a protective mobilization force of 1,000,000 men. He estimated that equipment for a 1,000,000 man army would cost $240,000,000.

Other highlights of the national defense problem include:

1. An 11 per cent increase in the navy's authorized tonnage is pending in the senate. It has been approved by the senate naval affairs committee and probably will be reported next week.

2. Carl Vinson, chairman of the house naval affairs committee, told reporters that a "comprehensive program" for expansion of the navy's air force will be presented to the committee next Thursday. He said it will be broad enough to insure the enlarging fleet all the aircraft and pilots needed. He pointed out that, while pending legislation seeks to authorize a maximum of 4,500 planes for the navy, its top limit of trained reserve pilots is only 6,000.

100 HOLLANDERS INTERNED IN JAVA AS PRO-NAZIS

Respect Status Quo in East, Says Japan.

SINGAPORE, May 11 (AP).—The Straits Times reported today in a dispatch from Batavia that 100 Hollanders, including high officials and police officers, had been interned in Java on suspicion of being pro-Nazi and "a dangerous element."

All Germans in the Netherlands East Indies were interned immediately after Germany invaded Holland.

Japan to Insist on Status Quo.

TOKIO, May 11 (AP).—The Japanese government announced today it had notified all powers concerned that Japan would insist on maintenance of the status quo in the Netherlands East Indies in spite of Holland's involvement in the European war.

The foreign office said such notification had been handed to the United States, British, French, German, and Italian embassies and to the Netherlands legation.

This action gave effect to a cabinet decision that Japan should state her position concerning the rich East Indies empire of the Netherlands.

Foreign Chief States Policy.

Foreign Minister Hachiro Arita made a declaration on this point April 15.

[In London the Dutch foreign minister, Eelco N. van Kleffens, said that by far the greater part of the Dutch navy was in the East Indies. That colonial area, he said, had strong land, sea, and air forces, including American-made bombers of latest types and 100 fighting planes. Holland has announced she wants no help in maintaining her hold there.]

The Japanese declaration in April was made in a foreign office statement expressing the view of Foreign Minister Arita that Japan attaches importance to the rôle of the Netherlands East Indies in Asiatic affairs as well as economic relations between Japan and the Netherlands' islands.

Arita Cites Possible Results.

"Should hostilities in Europe produce repercussions in the Netherlands East Indies it would give rise to an undesirable situation," said Arita.

Two days later Cordell Hull, United States secretary of state, called for international respect of the status quo in the Dutch East Indies, regardless of what might occur in the Netherlands.

Just before the Hull statement was made the Japanese newspaper Nichi Nichi speculated that the United States or Great Britain might seize the islands if Germany should invade the Netherlands but said Japan would vigorously oppose any change in the political status of the islands.

On April 18, the day after the Hull statement, Commander T. Kanoe, acting as a spokesman for the Japanese admiralty, said Japan's concern as to the Dutch East Indies was similar to the interest of the United States in Greenland, but that Japan has "much more vital" interests in the Dutch Pacific possessions.

Reds Forecast Bargaining.

MOSCOW, May 11 (AP).—The communist party newspaper Pravda today forecast animated bargaining among "imperialist Japan, the United States and Britain" over the fate of the Netherlands East Indies.

Pravda said recent events had caused anxiety in the capitalistic countries "contending for the rôle of patron" of the Indies, and that Japan was in the most favorable position.

AMERICAN GENERALS TEST GERMAN TACTICS IN ARMY WAR GAMES

Camp Beauregard, La., May 11 (AP).—America's highest ranking generals, watching European events with increasing interest, are using the war games now under way here to test out some of the offensive tactics of Germany as contrasted with defensive moves of the allies.

An invading army, known as the Red force in the maneuvers, is using an attack similar to that of Germany. It moved to within 20 miles of the Blue [defense] headquarters here, but Blue reinforcements were coming up steadily and it was believed a battle on a grand scale was imminent.

The Reds, who crossed the Sabine river from Texas, pushed forward another 20 miles yesterday in action on numerous fronts and in the air. The Blues, theoretically caught napping during spring training in Georgia, are only now bringing mechanized troops to this section in great strength after forced marches.

Yesterday's action was confined chiefly to sniping and so-called Indian fighting between advance units of the opposing forces. The wooded terrain afforded good cover to the 30,000 Reds and 40,000 Blues.

ASKS EXTRA WEEK OF VACATION FOR GUARD DRILLING

Lieut. Gen. Stanley H. Ford, commander of the 6th corps area, yesterday urged business concerns and others employing members of the Illinois National Guard to arrange vacation schedules this summer to permit guardsmen to receive the full three weeks of training at important maneuvers at Camp McCoy, Wis. More than 65,000 members of National Guard and regular army units making up the 2d army will participate in the exercises, Aug. 11 thru Aug. 31.

"The National Guardsmen constitute the bulk of our defensive forces ready for immediate service," Gen. Ford said. "Certainly the civilian occupations of these men should not be endangered because of their willingness to undergo military training. True Americanism, I am sure, will be displayed by employers.

"Two weeks is the normal vacation period, but this summer employers are called upon to coöperate with their government by permitting members of the Guard to be away from work for an extra week. The extra time should not be construed as additional vacation. Arduous schedules have been prepared, and every officer and soldier taking part in the maneuvers will receive a vast amount of important training of a practical nature."

U. S. TIGHTENING COAST DEFENSES IN NEW ENGLAND

Boston, Mass., May 11 [Special].—Tightening of the New England costal defenses was indicated tonight in an official announcement that 300 pilots will arrive here soon for duty at the naval air base at Squantum, now undergoing expansion.

In addition to the fully trained airmen for the neutrality patrol there will be an augmented force of mechanics and ground crews. Barracks now are being built to accommodate them.

Expansion of the field also will include a new hangar for bombers and pursuit planes and a hospital. Erection of a radio direction finding tower, construction of runways for large seaplanes, and dredging in Dorchester bay to deepen and widen approaches for heavy amphibians, also are in progress. Runways will be extended and night landing facilities will be improved.

AMERICA AND EUROPE.

War news is strong drink. It stirs the blood and inflames the mind. Accounts of advancing armies, attacks on small nations, the meeting of air armadas, the destruction of cities, rouse the passions. In such circumstances it is difficult to think clearly and the difficulty increases as the accounts become more circumstantial and detailed.

Americans must steel themselves against an emotional response to the exciting events in Europe. The danger is that we shall let passion get the better of us, imprison our judgment, and control our national policy. If that happens, it is as nearly certain as anything can be that we shall make mistakes for which we as a nation will pay a heavy price for years and not improbably for generations to come.

Along the eastern seaboard the clamor for American participation in the war is already rising. We have discussed this phenomenon before and shall discuss it again. Meanwhile it is sufficient to say that those who are demanding America's entry in the war are concerned for the welfare of European nations to which they feel a colonial allegiance and are giving little if any thought to American welfare and interests.

This is the moment to look at the situation with as much objectivity as we can command. It is idle to pretend that we can go into the war half way. If we take steps now which announce to the world that America regards the struggle in Europe as our war, we shall inevitably send another expeditionary force to Europe. Our pride will not allow us to stand on the sidelines while the men of other nations are bleeding for the cause which we have declared to be ours. The victims of superheated emotion may think—as they thought in 1917—that we can do our part with machines and money and leave the dying to others, but the expectation is a vain one, born of wishful thinking. If we go into the war, we shall again go in with all our man power, all our resources.

Included in the bill will be the death roll and the casualty list. After the strain of war—unless the precedents of history are meaningless—will come another period of economic disorganization and moral and financial disintegration and these consequences will be the graver in view of the precarious financial condition of the country today, before a factory has been commandeered or a man conscripted. It is as nearly certain as anything can be that if we enter the war against the totalitarian powers we shall ourselves fall into the totalitarian pattern and if we recover our freedom in a generation we shall be lucky, indeed.

Those are a few of the items on the debit side of the ledger. What does the credit side show? The people who are edging us toward war talk largely of a better world order but they are singularly vague in detailing how it is to be brought about. They have not told us what kind of a peace is to be made, and in truth they do not know, for the sufficient reason that the peace will be made by Europe, according to European notions and traditions, and not by America in accordance with our aspirations. We went all thru this in 1919 and we should have learned the lesson.

They say America's interest demands participation in the war. They are speaking impractically. If the dash into the low countries is checked short of the channel ports, America's help will not be needed. If the attack succeeds, America's help will come too late to be of any account. The Germans are gambling everything upon the power of their air force to disorganize the defense; within a fortnight or so the world will know whether the Germans have won or lost.

We have no military power which we can bring to bear in that short space of time. Our army is negligible in size. Our air force is inconsequential in comparison with the fleets now engaged. If war were declared tomorrow we could not land a force of any kind in Europe to turn the tide before the decision has been reached.

The clamor for war will rise, nevertheless. It will be checked only if Americans think and think as Americans, for America.

THE STEAM SHOVEL GOES TO WAR.

The war of 1914-'18 saw but one battle that ended in the pursuit and destruction of the defeated forces, which is the only method of complete victory. That was Allenby's final blow in Palestine, and Allenby was using divisions, and not corps or armies, against an enemy too widely dispersed to lay down the concentrated fire of automatic weapons that made cavalry charges suicide elsewhere during the war.

In France the length of the army fronts made flanking movements ineffective. Horsedrawn artillery was too slow to follow infantry breakthrus, and whenever the infantry moved beyond the protection of their own guns they were stopped. It was lack of forces capable of pursuit of even a defeated enemy that made impossible the repetition of Jena, Waterloo, or Appomattox. Even when the Italian army turned and fled in blind panic at Caporetto, the Austro-German forces could not follow quickly enough to prevent the Italians rallying and holding the line of the Piave.

The Germans, in this war, have demonstrated fully in Poland and on a much more limited scale in central Norway how completely mechanization, backed by air superiority, has restored this power of the smashing pursuit necessary to complete victory. Much thought has been given by the general staffs both of European powers and the United States to developing the mechanized force. It now appears that equal thought must be given to stopping it.

The Germans have done so. They have organizations for demolition, to smash bridges and culverts before tanks can reach them. In the war of movement which mechanized forces are designed to promote, the construction of tank traps and land mine fields cannot be confined to prepared positions, such as the Maginot and Siegfried lines. Mobile units must be organized to do the same work in haste in the field.

Power machinery to build tank traps should become standard equipment. Engineer troops must be provided with portable compressors to operate drills and other automatic tools for the placing of demolition charges.

These and other measures which American mechanical ingenuity can devise should be part and parcel of the coming maneuvers of our army. In the last war the civilians drafted by the army from the railroads set new standards for the operation of supply services. The next war should give a similar opportunity to the American construction industry, which can move dirt and rock faster and more efficiently than is done anywhere else in the world.

EXIT CHAMBERLAIN AND ENTER CHURCHILL.

Mr. Chamberlain is not the first British prime minister to lose his place because of dissatisfaction with the conduct of a war, and if Great Britain survives this test he probably will not be the last, British procedure remaining what it is today, as it probably will. Nor is Great Britain the only country which, having representative government, has found difficulty in getting the right leader in time to avert disheartening defeats. The United States has had that experience time after time.

In Winston Churchill the British would seem, from this distant view, to have picked their best man among those of whom there is any general knowledge. He is only six years younger than Mr. Chamberlain, who is 71, but the new prime minister is by temperament of the combative type. He has been almost everything an Englishman could be in action with Britain's fighting services, in all the wars of his day.

Probably no one can give the British war effort just now the driving force of the German. There are too many structural differences in government, but it should not be forgotten that Mr. Churchill's cabinet will represent the consent of all the people without the intervention of the secret police. Hitler's government is one of subjugation, not only of conquered peoples but of great masses of Germans themselves. The suppressed elements are fearful and silent and ineffective, but they are there and it may be the secret hope of many that there can be a decent peace which will relieve them of Nazi tyranny. Mr. Churchill faces Hitler with that reserve of his nation's strength behind him.

It was natural for the new prime minister, in his earlier career, to consider the premiership within his permitted ambition. He would not have been overreaching to think that he might take his place in the long line of British heads of government. Opportunity passed him by and no doubt before this war began he had dismissed all idea that he would ever sit behind the table at 10 Downing street and direct the destinies of the empire. The war has brought him the delayed and unexpected honor and responsibility in a trying period, when many things besides the ocean are washing up on Britain's shores.

Mr. Chamberlain, in the present estimate of his three years in office, lays down his seals as a failure. That opinion may be revised to deal more kindly with him. He was perhaps better qualified to undertake the pacification in which his first failures were registered than he was to run a warring government. He and his associates have been ridiculed because they held to the illusion Hitler might be placated and satisfied with reasonable compromises and thereafter prove that he was a man of good faith.

Critics say that no person who read the Nazi chief's own confession of his doctrine of duplicity, violence, and purposive falsehood could have, at any time, been deceived as to the meaning of events and the certainty of their future. What we know now justifies the criticism. The better foresight is applauded by universal hindsight, but Mr. Chamberlain and his ambassador in Berlin, Mr. Nevile Henderson, now apologizing for their optimism, tried to believe that the peace of Europe could be preserved by yielding to Hitler on demands which they thought contained an element of justice. They could not regard the arrangement by which minorities had been treated under the treaty of Versailles as one satisfying the realities of the situation.

That arrangement contained too many suppressed national ambitions and was too open a field for the agitator and trouble maker. What Mr. Chamberlain undertook to accomplish was a rewriting of the still troublesome provisions of a peace treaty, and he thought he had succeeded. In trying he made personal concessions such as no other British prime minister ever granted to a surly opponent. He actually pocketed his pride and submitted to a rôle of traveling representative of his own government, seeking thereby to convince a faithless man that Germany could obtain everything its dignity and national well-being required without losing one regiment of troops and without doing an injury to any innocent people.

This mission of peace, and, it may be, of justice, was a failure. It is further to be noted that Mr. Chamberlain in critical times got little assistance from the very governments he was trying to save to protect the people over whom they were placed.

If he made mistakes, they were only climaxes of graver mistakes which had been made ever since the armistice was signed. As we see now, the time to have stopped Hitler was when he entered the Rhineland. But public opinion then probably would not have supported the French if they had immediately done what was within their power, if they had marched against Hitler's then unready army, expelled it from the newly occupied German territory, and delivered an ultimatum to Berlin to throw the Nazis out. It is to be doubted that even British opinion would have stood for such a move.

Mr. Chamberlain should not be too much blamed for his part in trying to preserve the peace of Europe against the will of a man determined to have the world war. Mr. Chamberlain tried to carry thru a policy of good will and humanitarianism. He failed. The world now faces the consequences.

A TRIP THRU RUSSIA

BY CAPT. M. M. CORPENING.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MOSCOW [By Mail].—A Russian visa is difficult for any one to obtain at present, and particularly for a newspaper that has been vitriolic in its condemnation of the communist form of government.

When THE TRIBUNE applied to Intourist, Inc., in New York City for a visa it was told that six weeks would be required for the necessary routine. Intourist, Inc., is the representative of all Russian tourist business.

In an attempt to save time Arthur Sears Henning, head of THE TRIBUNE'S Washington, D. C., office, was asked to see the Russian ambassador in Washington and ask him to speed up the routine.

The ambassador politely informed Mr. Henning that Russia was granting no visas at that time, and if it were none would be issued to a representative of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

A cable immediately was dispatched to Laurence A. Steinhardt, the American ambassador in Moscow, who went to work on the problem. A visa was promised for one week later, but it did not materialize, Intourist reporting daily that no message had been received from Moscow.

Again to save time, this correspondent was ordered to Tokio after being promised that the soviet visa would be forwarded to Japan as soon as it was received. When he reached Tokio he was a bit disappointed when the soviet consul stated the visa had been reconsidered and revoked.

Mr. Steinhardt, who doesn't take "no" easily, again was advised of the situation. The visa was granted a week later.

• • •

The writer entered Russia at Otpor on Feb. 29. Otpor is a Russian frontier post, a 20 minute train ride from Manchouli, Manchukuo.

The Trans-Siberian Express backed into the Manchouli station at 5 o'clock. After spending six hours in subzero weather trying to keep warm in an improperly heated station and wondering what my accommodations for the long train trip to Moscow would be like, it was a bit disappointing to gaze for the first time upon the Siberian Express.

From the outside the engine, baggage car, diner, one first and one second class car, and two third class cars resemble ones made in the United States in the 19th century and no longer in operation. The first class car was made in 1905. Its comforts were an agreeable surprise, but it was greatly overcrowded. Thirty-eight German sailors in one party were making a back door trek home from Atlantic war waters.

The coach is divided into 20 small compartments with two berths each and a wash basin between each two. A lavatory is at each end of the car.

Beyond looking like bums, never being around when wanted, and not doing what passengers wanted when they were around, the two porters did a pretty good job of keeping the car clean and reasonably comfortable with an antiquated stove at one end of the coach. They made up the bunks when they felt disposed.

• • •

The dining car lived up to the reputation given it by far easterners who had made the trip. The linen and costumes of the waiter and waitress were filthy. Bad service was understandable because only one girl and one boy were furnished to wait on three different full sittings at each meal. The food was plentiful, but in quality and menu uneatable. A German with 35 years' experience on a tramp oil tanker quit going to meals after the fourth day.

Breakfast usually was bologna sausage, cheese, sour bread, and tea. For lunch there was sausage, pickle soup, potato salad, ground meat, macaroni, and fruit salad. Dinner was the same, except there was no soup and fried potatoes were served instead of potato salad. Meal hours were 9 to 11, 1 to 3, and 8 to 10.

The passengers were subject to a rigid passport and customs examination before they boarded the train at Manchouli. At Otpor all baggage was unloaded and carried into a small waiting room where passengers were gathered.

Four hours were occupied by the four inspectors in going thru everything, counting passengers' money, and studying passports. Interpreters speaking many languages were on hand to ask every possible question.

Four Germans started a card game to kill time. They were immediately informed that card playing was not allowed in Russia. Five well dressed soldiers of the frontier guard were present to see that regulations were enforced. Finally everybody got aboard.

• • •

The riding was fairly comfortable because a slow speed of about 25 miles an hour was maintained and the road was originally well surveyed. It is double tracked most of the way from Manchouli to Moscow.

Freight traffic was heavy in both directions. The freight was mostly coal, oil, firewood, lumber, and hay. In addition troops and army equipment were being moved westward, presumably to Finland.

The country all the way across to Moscow is agricultural and, while appearing poor, has a livable atmosphere. Most of the farmhouses are well built of logs and one story high, with usually a horse, a cow, and a pig in outlying buildings. Hay seems to be plentiful.

The railroad passes thru sizable cities such as Chita, Udinsk, Irkutsk, Krasnoyarsk, Novo Sibirsk, Omsk, Ekaterinburg, where the czar and his family were executed; Perm, and Kirov.

Many new houses are being built. They are mostly one story log structures. New telegraph lines pass in and out of towns. There are towns in the heart of Siberia with thoroly modern looking industrial plants and buildings several stories high. Another impressive sight is the amount of firewood, hay, and lumber stacked along the railroad.

• • •

Timber across the country is practically all birch and spruce or cedar, with the former about three times as plentiful as the latter.

The country is so thickly populated that one does not think of looking for wild animals. One red fox was the only wild animal seen.

Cattle and hogs are many, but there are many more dogs and horses. One horse sleighs and sleds are everywhere. Few trucks and automobiles are seen, even in the cities.

There are many pretty scenes along the route. Old split rail fences still stand. The people seem to be comfortably dressed, busy, and contented. Many small boys and girls find fun in skiing and bobsledding. Only two children were seen begging and both were warmly dressed.

An Intourist guide insisted that concentration camps in Siberia are a thing of the past. He did not explain why sentries were guarding large wire inclosed building areas that greatly resembled such camps.

Stations along the route were much alike. A great majority of the people were warmly but poorly dressed. All stations seemed to be crowded. Cafeterias and barber shops were in full blast. Women and men play an equal part in all work. They stand side by side behind barber chairs and shoulder to shoulder in railroad construction crews and pick gangs.

The eastern part of Siberia is the more attractive farming section, while industrial communities become more plentiful near Moscow. A German sailor with experience on the Great Lakes sized up the land by saying this country is exactly like northern Michigan.

Our journey began with the train three hours late and time was continuously lost thru the inefficiency of the train crew and the condition of the equipment. Ours was apparently a recent record run, however, because the train was only 12 hours late in reaching Moscow. The schedule for the train leaving Manchouli on Thursday afternoon called for it to arrive at Moscow at noon the following Wednesday. Ours arrived at 1 a. m. Thursday. When the passengers retired on Wednesday night they were informed their sleep could last until morning. All were awakened, however, and ordered out to hotels when Moscow was reached at 1 a. m.

WHEN THE THYROID FAILS.

LAST week we made mention of the relation of the endocrine glands to health. The thyroid, for example, when it falls down completely and ceases to function, stunts the individual both physically and mentally. Several cases that have been called to my attention recently bear out the well known fact that annoying symptoms may occur should the organ be producing almost—but not quite—enough of its peculiar chemical. Its output must be relatively constant and possibly, as the result of an infection [such as influenza], some damage to its manufacturing cells may have been sustained. In consequence, it cannot measure up to the demands of the body.

But the manifestations may be so casual that the physician fails to think of the thyroid as the structure at fault. The typical indications of myxedema are not present; in fact, only a moderate obesity may be observed. On the other hand, many thin persons who have difficulty in gaining will respond rather promptly to small doses of thyroid extract. As a rule, they exhibit subnormal temperatures and are sensitive to cold. Now and then forgetfulness, lack of ability to concentrate—with drowsiness at times and restlessness at others—will prove characteristic. The pulse may be strikingly slow—so much so that the examiner may suspect failure on the part of the heart muscle. The digestive system is involved routinely and stubborn constipation may loom large.

Now, these signs point frequently to a low thyroid secretion and—when they persist—a metabolic test is called for. Should an average of 15 points below normal be considered significant? Ordinarily, we think of this level as unimportant, but a rather long series of victims—averaging minus 15—will show marked improvement under gland therapy.

Unfortunately, so much has been said about the risks involved in taking thyroid substance that many individuals will rebel at the suggestion. But the effects of an overdose are so clear cut—and they subside so quickly when the drug is discontinued—that no danger need be apprehended should a trial be advised. Small amounts may be prescribed daily for a week or 10 days and the results noted carefully thru checking the pulse rate and the general feeling of well being.

The case is reported of a 32 year old woman who had been indisposed for more than a year. Her chief complaint was exhaustion which was pronounced even on waking in the morning. Constipation was also a problem and occasionally her heart would—as she put it—"palpitate." A minus 12 metabolic rate led to the employment of thyroid and one-half grain was administered three times daily. This was continued for two months and the change for the better was strongly evident. Formerly an indifferent, weary individual, she regained her ambition and a new interest in life.

Another patient—a woman of 40—found that under a dieting régime she was unable to reduce. In the space of a year and a half she had increased 20 pounds and she suffered from shortness of breath and nervousness. Some swelling of the ankles was exhibited and—altho her appetite was fair—the colon was sluggish. Metabolic determinations were found to vary from minus 15 to minus 20. Here again the drug was called for and the one-half grain doses were suggested. Within three months she had lost eight pounds in weight, the basal rate returned to normal [plus two], and overtiredness, shortness of breath, and "pounding heart" disappeared. For the next few months—without any special food restriction—she continued to lose steadily—until she reached the proper weight for her age.

These cases illustrate the thought that must be allotted to the members of the endocrine family. While there are hundreds of causes of fatigue and of all the other symptoms mentioned, we may assume with reason—in the presence of a low metabolic reading—that the thyroid is neglecting its job. Needless to say, no one should attempt to take the extract except under the supervision of a skilled physician.

CHICKEN-BREASTED.

Mrs. L. C. writes: My 5 year old daughter is chicken-breasted. Her posture is not erect. Would braces help?

REPLY.

The typical chicken or pigeon-breast results from rickets which may follow too little vitamin D, calcium, and phosphorus in the diet. First of all make certain that this balance is restored. Then watch her posture carefully. Certain exercises will help. Simple calisthenics and dancing lessons are advised. A brace is like a crutch, which one may depend upon too long. Let her develop her own muscles to the point where they will hold the bones in proper position.

STOPS SMOKING.

M. B. Z. writes: When a heavy smoker of cigarets stops the habit, how long does it take for the nicotine to be eliminated from the body? Will the patient be exceedingly nervous for a while?

REPLY.

The body is able to tolerate sizable quantities of nicotine. Inasmuch as the accumulation is built up gradually, it is lost slowly. Several months would be a safe estimate. Nervousness increases decidedly. It may be combated by chewing gum or a mild sedative.

TODAY IN HISTORY

May 12, 1780

Charleston, S. C., a center of culture in the new world, captured by British land forces under Sir Henry Clinton and sea forces under Admiral M. Arbuthnot. The city had been under siege since March 12. Two previous British attempts to take the city, in 1776 and 1779, had failed. The British plan was to make Charleston the base of its operations in the Carolinas with a view to crushing Washington's forces between it and the British army in the north. After numerous small skirmishes around Charleston the British were met by a continental army under Gen. Greene and driven back into the city.

FORTY-TWO YEARS AFTER.

Chicago, May 7.—A letter in the Voice of the People the other day regarding Dr. Johnson's views on the value of I. Q. ratings, led me into cogitation on the history of my high school graduating class of 1898, about 42 in number. This was a rather highly rated class of whom at least 10 members had made exceptionally good ratings all thru the four years. So far as I know the only members who have attained any fame are two quite ordinary boys, neither dumb nor very smart, of respectable homes and moral upbringing. Each of them was later tried for murdering his wife. One was proved guilty and sent to an insane asylum. The other was freed by what we mostly consider a miscarriage of justice.

The very dumbest of the class, a snub nosed, red headed kid who was the bane of every teacher's existence and was finally squeezed thru to graduation just to get rid of him, became a political boss and head of a state-wide liquor distributing business. I think he is the only one that ever made any money. Another, almost as dumb, [illegible] political leader in his ward.

The most brilliant pupil, a girl who made a miraculous record of, I think, 98 for the entire four years [anyway, she broke every standing record up to that time], married a missionary and disappeared into the depths of a heathen country. The next highest, a [illegible] lad, became a Methodist minister, moving from church to church, with little financial reward until he became decrepit. He has probably contributed more to the good of the human race than any of the others, including his eight fine sons and daughters. Two of the brightest girls are old maid grammar school teachers. One girl, who barely managed to squeeze thru, is now holding down a job at $300 a month [and not political either!]. The rest have sunk into oblivion. I occasionally meet an anxious looking clerk or salesman or housewife who halts me and after a moment recalls the features of one of that class of 42 years ago. None of them have achieved wealth or fame of any sort.

I, myself, with a high school ranking close to the top, with a scholarship at the university easily earned and who can today answer a high percentage of the queries on the radio "quiz" programs, am jobless and broke at 60 after 42 years of struggle.

What price high "I. Q." ratings? Practically nil, I should think.—M. E. B.

COMMENT ON 'THE MUSIC MASTER.'

Seattle, Wash., May 5.—The Master Paderewski club of Seattle expresses thanks from its entire membership and from the Polish colony here for your cartoon, "The Music Master," which was reprinted in the Polish Zgoda newspaper. This cartoon depicts our master with an apparent heavy heart with his gentle and guiding hand resting lightly on a ragged Polish youth, seated at the piano with his patriotic heart and eager eyes on the song, "Poland Is Not Lost," or in Polish, "Jeszcze Polska Nie Zginela."

We Poles are deeply appreciative of your sympathies in these trying times for our Poland. Further, your cartoon gives us moral courage in doing our bit by raising funds for relief of our stricken brothers and sisters.

STEPHEN F. KLUCK,
President, Master Paderewski club.

ON PAGE 20.

Elgin, Ill., May 7.—In regard to the unsportsmanlike plan of the President to engage in a speaking tour of the country at the time of the coming Republican national convention, I think it would be the highest act of patriotism if all the great dailies would print his speeches on the 20th page of each issue as THE TRIBUNE did his latest radio address in which he was expected to announce his intentions as to a third term.

Such a course would teach a much needed lesson to the Great Egotist and his advisers. C. O. LIGHTNER.

MOTOR TRUCKS VS. RAILWAYS.

Chicago, May 2.—Rails vs. trucks. Daily the struggle goes on in competition for the nation's freight business, and, as in Europe, the propaganda experts are doing their part.

THE TRIBUNE of April 28 quotes a report issued by the Automobile Manufacturers' association, which contains some misleading statements regarding taxation of the motor truck industry. It is unfortunate that such reports find their way into such a widely read publication as THE TRIBUNE without being verified or qualified in such a way as to place them in their true light.

For instance, it is said the users of our highways [referring to trucks] pay over a million dollars a day in taxes, much more than the railroads pay; also that they employ more men than the railroads. This is a favorite bit of propaganda used by the highway trucking interests and their friends to gain public favor. Such statements are cleverly worded to leave the impression that the tax and employment figures apply only to the highway freight carrier, while the fact is that such statistics apply to all trucks, and the greater part of them are the small city delivery trucks that bring our groceries, milk, laundry, newspapers, coal, etc.

It would be edifying if separate figures could be obtained showing the actual proportion of truck taxes and employment that apply to the highway motor freight carrier. I feel certain that no such breakdown will ever be made and publicized by the freight trucking interests.

F. L. CRAWFORD.

IS THIS BOONDOGGLING?

Chicago, May 6.—The New Deal administration is said to be spending three million dollars compiling an index of the Congressional Record. The 300 odd men and women doing this "indexing" in a building on W. Washington boulevard are almost daily given "pep" talks by lawyers of this city and other cities as remote as Boston or, at least, so introduced to the indexers, upon the great educational value of this work in general and the boon it will be when completed to practicing lawyers and brief writers. Are these 'pep-talk' lawyers also paid from this three million dollar appropriation and therefore on the rolls of WPA? This tremendous enterprise which will open this almost inexhaustible quarry of American literature to lawyer and layman should be ready for the printer about Dec. 1.

PERPLEXED.

WORRIES HERE AT HOME.

Chicago, May 6.—Why so much worry about the old world while we have plenty of worries here at home with the millions of unemployed?

The so-called "blighted area" here in our fair city deserves a little attention.

When the depression forces families such as mine out of good neighborhoods and nice homes into tenement flats, not only the parents but the children suffer. With no work [or relief] I cannot promise my group of promising, intelligent children very much in education and pleasure. Not much of a heritage for a veteran of the world war to leave his children.

But if we have to endure a few more years of the New Deal I suppose we needn't be surprised at anything.

BANKRUPTCY.

Chicago, May 3 [Legal Friend of the People].—I had no choice but to declare myself bankrupt two weeks ago. I filed bankruptcy [1] affidavit in the court, but was not called yet. Now I am in a desperate situation—no job, no business [I had a bakery], but my relatives are willing to help me and to advance the money for another business. I have a location and they will give the money.

I want to know [2] if it is legal or not?

3. Could the creditor stop the new business?

4. Must I wait until I am cleared in the court?

5. Or is an incorporated business the solution in a case like this? H. S.

1. The first document filed would be a petition. You do not mention schedules. It is not clear to us whether you have taken statutory steps. The clerks in the bankruptcy office can advise you to better advantage than we can.
2. There is nothing illegal about your going into any business that you choose, but your old creditors could reach your new assets unless you have meanwhile obtained a bankruptcy adjudication.
3. See preceding answers. One way to keep the assets out of reach of the creditors would be for your relatives to own the business. We suggest that you employ an attorney.
4. It would be advisable to wait until you have a bankruptcy adjudication before you start business in your own name, but it would not be necessary to carry the proceedings completely thru before starting business.
5. This would be one way to handle it.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

DIVORCE.

Chicago, May 3 [Legal Friend of the People].—I would like to get some important information about what to do. My husband and I have been married for 17 years, and last December a sheriff came and handed me a summons, stating my husband was suing me for a divorce. It was a shock to me, because he had no grounds or cause for one, so I asked him about it.

1. He told me to completely forget it and took both our summonses and destroyed them, and nothing was mentioned about it until March 31.

2. He said that he had secured a divorce March 21, and that he would have to stay away 30 days and that the judge told him to give me $10 for the support of two children, who are both girls, one 15 and the other 4 years of age.

3. He has threatened to leave the city if I would seek any advice. I asked him about the divorce papers and he stated he has them, but would show them to me later.

4. If he has gotten a divorce under false pretenses, is there anything I can do to reopen the case?

5. Or should I wait the 30 days and not do a thing?

6. Where could I find out if the divorce was obtained? F. P.

1. We need hardly say that it is not safe, in the ordinary case, for a defendant to follow plaintiff's advice to ignore a litigated case.
2. Your chances of setting the decree aside on the ground of fraud would be good enough to warrant a personal interview with an attorney.
3. We see no reason why you should yield to such threats.
4. Yes. If you wish to secure such action, you should do it promptly.
5. By no means.
6. At the office of the clerk of the court.

26 MILLION GET FEDERAL AID AT 6 BILLION COST

12 Million Get Checks in Single Month.

BY JOHN FISHER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 11.—Federal burocracy is contributing to 26,000,000 persons in the United States at an annual cost of more than 6 billion dollars, an independent survey showed today.

A tabulation of federal pay roll items made by the Washington research bureau of the National Small Business Men's association showed that in one month the government handed out checks to more than 12 million individuals thruout the country. This monthly pay roll in January, 1940, amounted to 509 million dollars, or at an annual rate of 6 billion 100 million dollars.

In announcing the results of the survey, the association said that this was the first complete itemization of the entire federal pay roll, as compiled from government records.

Figures Are Official.

"The figures are taken from official reports and include only the direct recipients of regular monthly payments from the federal government," said Donald Despain, executive vice president of the association. "They do not include roundly 1,700,000 direct relief cases supported by other public funds in the states and local communities. This expenditure from nonfederal funds amounted to an additional $42,396,000 for January.

"Allowing for single persons in the various groups on the federal rolls and after correction for those families receiving government checks from two or more sources we still find that the fabulous Washington pay roll contributes directly to approximately 26 million persons in some 11 million families. This means that every third family in the United States is being supported in some degree by a monthly check from the federal treasury."

Disclosed by Federal Pay Roll.

The following table was compiled by the association on the federal pay roll for January, 1940:

Classification.	Persons.	Mo. payments.
Administra. pay roll.	968,851	$148,000,000
Legislative	4,975	1,500,000
Judicial	2,433	750,000
Military	294,763.	23,900,000
Mill. pens. and aids.	858,694	39,000,000
Civil pensions	50,442	4,200,000
Federal Pub. Works.	319,613	37,400,000
WPA	2,202,638	110,000,000
CCC camps..........	293,692	20,000,000
Nat. Youth Adminis.	758,354	8,600,000
Old age assistance...	1,925,957	38,500,000
Dependent children...	753,705	10,100,000
Aid to blind..........	46,087	1,100,000
Social Sec. death clms.	285,744	16,600,000
Railroad pensions....	169,030	9,500,000
Farm aid payments..	3,468,281	40,000,000
	12,403,259	$509,150,000

"The burden of taxes and debt which supports this tremendous federal outlay has been holding back business recovery in every field of national economy," Despain said. "One-fourth of every working man's pay is ear marked for taxes before the pay envelope is opened.

Cause of Great Alarm.

"Genuine business recovery thruout the United States would provide real jobs for millions now on the public assistance rolls. That is the bright goal toward which every patriotic American looks hopefully—the solid restoration of robust private enterprise. Then, and only then, may the country expect curtailment in Washington's gigantic spending burocracy, which already has made every third family dependent on some form of public assistance.

"No one in our day opposes the proper social functions of government, but every American is alarmed by the current trends in federal management. Our national energies must be directed to the creation of honest self-sustaining jobs, thru encouragement of private enterprise.

"There is no substitute for a job. The path to recovery is the path away from today's socialistic burocracy. In that direction lies the salvation of the independent business man in America."

The association has also undertaken a similar study of other public pay rolls in states, cities, counties, and local subdivisions. Preliminary surveys indicate that this local pay roll covers an additional 3 million persons and averages 400 million dollars per month, exclusive of pensions.

Weds Circus Owner

[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

John Ringling North, circus owner, and bride, the former Germaine Aussey of France, after wedding yesterday.

Philadelphia, Pa., May 11 [Special].—John Ringling North, president of the Ringling Brothers-Barnum & Bailey circus, and Germaine Aussey, French film star, were married here today at the city hall. Miss Aussey arrived in this country Thursday aboard the liner Rex. North left the circus at Boston to take his fiancée to meet his mother in Florida, but broke the trip here and decided to marry at once. North, who is 36, was divorced nine years ago from Jane Donnelly of Pittsburgh. Miss Aussey is 30.

AN AUTOMOBILE IN U. S. FOR EVERY 4.3 CITIZENS

Washington, D. C., May 11 [Special].—The United States reached an all-time high in automobile registrations during 1939, Thomas R. MacDonald, commissioner of public roads, reported today. There was one automobile for every 4.3 Americans in 1939, as compared with one for every 4.4 in 1938, and for each 10.4 persons in 1921.

A total of 31,009,870 motor vehicles was registered in 1939. This included 30,615,087 private and commercial vehicles, 121,270 owned by the federal government and 273,513 owned by state, county, and municipal governments.

Thirty-six states reported all-time high registrations last year and all except Nebraska had increases over 1938. California had more motor vehicles per capita than any other state, with one for each 2.4 persons. Fewest vehicles were in Alabama, where there was one for each 9.1 persons.

Plot to Blast Railroad Nipped; Alien Arrested

Deming, N. M., May 11 (AP).—An attempt to wreck the main line of the Southern Pacific railroad here was frustrated today and a 52 year old alien Mexican was held for investigation. A trackwalker found nine sticks of dynamite, capped and fused, under a switch near an underpass on North Gold avenue.

It's Sheep Shearing Time!

What happens to the lambs when the ewes are sheared? What did the barn swallows have to do with shearing activities? Do the lambs have trouble finding their sheared mothers? Bob Becker has just visited the Tribune's Du Page county farm at sheep shearing time. The amusing things he saw are told in his article which appears in the want ad section of today's Chicago Sunday Tribune.

AMERICA WANTS TO STAY OUT OF IT, SAYS DEWEY

We Must Act Quickly to Do So, He Warns.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Louisbille, Ky., May 11.—Thomas E. Dewey said tonight the American people are determined to keep out of Europe's war and that no time should be lost in building up adequate national defenses.

The New York candidate for the Republican Presidential nomination asserted that the New Deal, in seven years of fumbling, has squandered billions of dollars but has failed to build up the nation's armed forces until America today is in a state of unpreparedness.

Restoration of the national economy thru a vigorous revival of business and the restoration of employment, Dewey said, is the first step necessary to support a proper program of defense.

"Seven Lean Years."

Dewey's address on the subject, "The Seven Lean Years," was prepared for delivery before the Lincoln Republican club in the Jefferson county armory here tonight. In it, Dewey compared the seven New Deal years with the last seven years under the Republican administrations.

Dewey said that altho the New Dealers say it is distribution of income that counts, "the hard fact is the New Deal has only succeeded in redistributing poverty."

He declared the American people have made up their minds that American forces shall never be sent again to fight in Europe, but will always fight in defense and will oppose foreign threats against this hemisphere, under the Monroe doctrine.

Ups and Downs.

Dewey's balance sheet of the seven New Deal years compared with the seven preceding Republican years gave the following skeletonized analysis:

DOWN—National income, farm income, farm prices, farm exports, labor income, dividends, new building, private investment.

UP—Unemployment to over 10 millions; annual deficit to astronomical figures; national debt doubled.

HERE'S THE SPEECH

Excerpts from Dewey's address as prepared for delivery follow:

"Thru good years and bad, you, the people of Kentucky, have been noted for one quality above all others—an unbounded courage. Kentuckians are by tradition deaf to the prophets of surrender and despair. The very name of your state means 'the land of tomorrow.' You have always had confidence in the future of this great and forward-moving nation. We should be better off as a nation if there were more of that confidence in high places today.

"For seven years now our government in Washington has been controlled by prophets of despair. For seven years the administration has fumbled with unemployment and economic want.

Years of Fumbling.

"And after seven years of fumbling, what are the results?—ten and a half million men still unemployed. And what is the New Deal answer to the problem of unemployment? Its answer is surrender. The New Deal says: It cannot be solved. That I am here to deny. I say to you: It can be solved. This country demands an administration that believes it can be solved.

"We cannot always live huddled together, afraid to move, while those who control our destiny tell us there is no other course. America is not a nation of children, to be tied to the apron-strings of government. America is not 130,000,000 people who have quit because they have reached a frontier.

No Mandate This Election.

"Next November there is an election. Next November the New Deal expects the American people to march to the polls and vote 'yes.' But the American people remember what happened after 1936. There will be no 'mandate' for the New Dealers this November.

"I want to discuss with you briefly some of the evidence bearing on the issues before us.

"First, on the economic side. Let us consider the New Deal record. Let us take its seven years and compare them with the preceding seven years—Republican years.

"Compare the average of the seven Republican years with the averages of the seven New Deal years. That gives the New Deal a great advantage, since the Republican period included three years of world depression. But let them have that advantage. They need it.

"Here are the results of the comparison:

"National income: Down. From 70 billion dollars average in the Republican years to 62 billion in the New Deal years.

"Farm income: [including all government payments] down. From nine billion dollars in the Republican years to seven and a half billion dollars in the New Deal years.

"Agricultural exports: Down. From a billion and a half dollars to less than three-quarters of a billion dollars a year.

"Farm prices: Down. Nearly 20 per cent.

Wages Down Billions.

"Industrial wages and salaries: Down from 21 billion dollars to 16½ billion.

"Dividend payments: Down. From four and a half billion dollars to three billion.

"New capital invested: Down. From four billion dollars to less than one billion.

"New building: Down. More than 50 per cent.

"There is not much of a campaign document for the New Deal in those figures.

Redistribution of Poverty.

"But the New Deal suggests that the amount of income is not important. They say it is distribution of income that counts. But when the total income of every group is less, the hard fact is that the New Deal has only succeeded in redistributing poverty.

"The only important redistribution of income under the New Deal has been out of the pockets of the American people and into the hands of the Washington bureaucrats. That redistribution has been immense.

"And that brings us to another set of items in our comparison—the 'up' items. Oh yes, there have been increases under the New Deal. Not everything has gone down. Some averages, and very important ones, have gone up between the seven Republican years and the seven New Deal years.

Million In New Deal Pay.

"Here are some items from that list:

"Employees on the federal payroll: Up. From an average of 550,000 in the Republican years to 770,000 in the New Deal years. And it's nearly a million now.

"Taxes: Up. From three and a third billion dollars per year for the Republican average to nearly five billion dollars for the New Deal average. And they're five and a half billion now.

"Expenditures of government: Up. From three and a half billion dollars a year to over eight billion dollars under the New Deal. And they're over nine billion dollars now.

"Annual government deficit: Up. From one-fifth of a billion dollars per year average to three and a half billion dollars under the New Deal. And this year it will be four billion dollars.

"Industrial disputes: Up. From eight hundred to two thousand five hundred a year.

Business Wheels Slowed.

"There is the picture—the seven lean years. National income down, farm income down, farm prices down, farm exports down, labor income down, dividends down, new building down, the flow of private investment—the stream that turns the wheels of business—reduced to a trickle.

"And on the other hand, unemployment up—up to over ten million, while the burocratic establishment has doubled. Annual deficit astronomical. And the national debt more than doubled since 1933.

"The next administration must set this country on its true course after seven years of New Deal misguidance. It must give the American economic machine the signal to 'go ahead.'

"It must restore the nation to financial soundness. It must replace incompetence with competence. It must deserve the confidence of the people by calling to their service experienced and able men instead of the present collection of brilliant nonentities. We must bring again to the government masters of achievement in place of masters of invective.

Concerning the War.

"There should be no question whether we shall join the wars abroad. The American people have made up their minds on that issue. We will always fight in defense of our own shores. We will oppose threats of foreign powers against this hemisphere. That has been our stand for 117 years under the Monroe Doctrine.

"With ruthless military aggression unleashed in the world, America must lose no time in strengthening her defences. The New Deal has wasted billions of dollars of our money, but it has failed to make adequate provision for the needs of our armed forces. More than that, its destructive policies have seriously threatened our national economic strength—the strength which is our greatest safeguard in a warring world.

"Two things we must do to secure our future: We must restore our whole economy to health and vigor after the ravages of the seven lean years; and we must build up the power and efficiency of our army, navy, and air forces to levels which will make this country impregnable to attack.

"But we are determined that no American forces shall ever again be sent to fight in Europe.

"How reliable are the pledges of an administration which, time and again, has demonstrated its unwillingness to be bound by its own pledged word? How safe in the hands of such an administration are the momentous decisions which may keep us at peace or lead us to war?"

DEMOCRATIC MACHINE IN INDIANAPOLIS, IND., SUFFERS A SETBACK

Indianapolis, Ind., May 11 [Special]. —The city hall Democratic organization was defeated today in its attempt to unseat Ira Haymaker, county Democratic chairman, when the county convention defeated Otto Deluse, a city councilman advanced by city hall as Haymaker's successor.

Haymaker was supported by the organization of Gov. M. Clifford Townsend. The city hall group has been closer to the organization of former Gov. Paul V. McNutt.

Most of the city hall organization's candidates were trailing as central counting of votes in Tuesday's primary election continued slowly tonight.

IOWA DELEGATION IS ROOSEVELT'S —IF HE WANTS IT

Wallace Gets Favorite Son Indorsement.

Des Moines, Ia., May 11 [Special].—Iowa's 22 votes in the Democratic national convention, which begins July 15 in Chicago, will go to President Roosevelt for a third term. The Iowa Democratic convention, in session here today, adopted a resolution to that effect.

The resolution provided that if Mr. Roosevelt is not available the Iowa delegates shall support Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace of Des Moines as a favorite son.

Secretary Wallace, who delivered the convention keynote address, asserted that he favors renomination of the President. He did not mention his own candidacy.

"During the last seven years the Democratic party has developed and trained a dozen or more men, any one of whom is more competent than any Republican leader who has a chance of nomination for the presidency," Wallace said in predicting a Democratic victory even if the President decides not to run.

Charges Fly in Ohio.

Columbus, O., May 11 (AP).—Charges of scandalous expenditures and boss dictation tonight enlivened the campaign preceding Ohio's May 14 primary.

A Supreme court suit accused former Gov. Martin L. Davey, who seeks the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, of corrupt election practices thru "lavish and excessive spending." Davey, tree company president beaten for renomination two years ago, is one of seven Democrats aspiring to oppose Republican Gov. John W. Bricker who seeks reëlection in November. Bricker's renomination is unopposed.

Charles H. Hubbell, Democratic candidate for nomination for lieutenant governor, filed the anti-Davey suit. He asked the Supreme court, which does not convene until a week after the election, to forbid the counting of Davey votes in the seven most populous counties.

Meanwhile Harold H. Burton, Cleveland mayor bidding for Republican nomination to the senate seat of retiring Vic Donahey, continued attacks upon Ed D. Schorr, state Republican chairman. Burton, center of national attention in Cleveland's recurrent relief crises of the last few years, said Schorr was trying to dictate nomination of Representative Dudley A. White.

White, who received Schorr's indorsement on the ground Burton failed to support the state Republican organization, replied that Burton himself had solicited support from Schorr.

Democrats Locked in Feud.

Charleston, W. Va., May 11 (AP).—In West Virginia, where the C. I. O. biennially takes a hand in politics, Democratic voters are watching the final stages of a factional feud in which a United States senator is willing to step out to accept the gubernatorial nomination.

Senator M. M. Neely, veteran of 20 years in the house and senate, will be before the voters next Tuesday with C. I. O. backing as the candidate of the party's so-called federal faction. Neely's senate term does not expire until 1942, but he would resign if nominated for governor.

Opposing him are the statehouse forces led by Gov. Homer A. Holt, Rush D. Holt, youngest United States senator ever to take his seat, is up for renomination.

North Dakotans Pick Delegates.

Bismarck, N. D., May 11 (AP).—North Dakota Republicans in state convention today selected eight uninstructed delegates to the national convention in Philadelphia. William Stern, Fargo, was reëlected national committeeman and Mrs. Selma Stenerson of Minot was renamed national committeewoman.

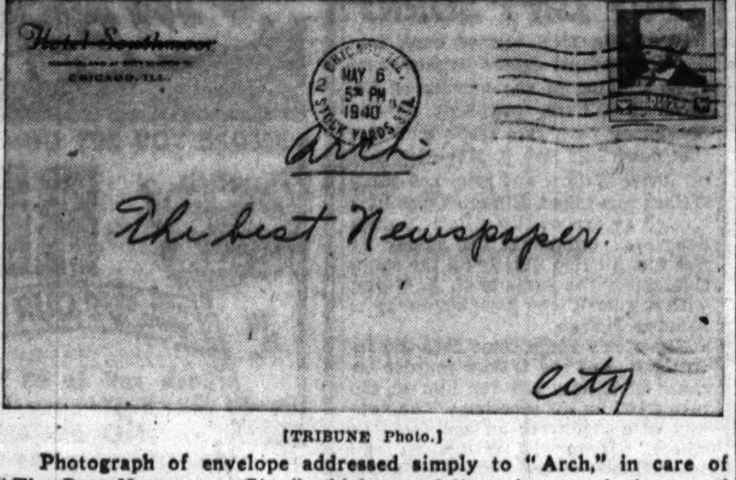
"Best Newspaper" Gets a Letter



Hotel Southmoor
CHICAGO, ILL.

CHICAGO, ILL. MAY 6 5 PM 1940 STOCK YARDS STA.

Arch

The best Newspaper.

City

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Photograph of envelope addressed simply to "Arch," in care of "The Best Newspaper, City," which was delivered promptly by postal authorities to Arch Ward, sports editor of The Tribune.

'TO ARCH, AT BEST NEWSPAPER'; P. S.: HE GOT THE MAIL

Postoffice Delivers It Promptly to Tribune.

Postal employés gave evidence of how widely THE TRIBUNE is known and read by delivering to this newspaper a letter addressed simply to "Arch, The Best Newspaper, City."

The missive was, of course, intended for Arch Ward, sports editor, and contained a contribution to "In the Wake of the News," sports column conducted by Ward. It was postmarked at the Stockyards postal station at 5:30 p. m. on May 6 and was received in the Tribune mail cage at 8:30 a. m. the next day.

Letter's Path Is Traced.

Postal authorities, tracing the steps by which a letter without either full name, street, or city address could be properly delivered, said the first step undoubtedly was that the clerk who first handled it in the Stockyards station sent it to the main postoffice downtown, since it was "city" mail.

At the main office, officials said, one of two courses was followed. Either the letter was dropped directly into a Tribune mail sack by one of several hundred clerks who distribute city mail, or, because of the insufficiency of address, it was directed to a "bookman."

"Bookmen" is postal parlance for a score of employés whose duty it is to examine insufficiently or misdirected mail.

Letter Handled Promptly.

If the "bookmen" cannot determine to whom the letter is intended, it then is returned to the sender, if the envelope contains a return, or to the dead letter office, where it is opened in the search of the identity of sender or addressee.

Because of the prompt delivery to THE TRIBUNE, it seemed likely that the city distribution clerk who handled the current letter in the main postoffice recognized it was intended for Ward, and dropped it directly into a Tribune bag.

Ward said he had had other letters delivered with even less designation, including one, postmarked Waterloo, Ia., and addressed to "Arch, Chicago." Another, from Chicago, said "Arch, Chicago's Most Widely Read Newspaper Column."

STAY HOME AND GUARD LIBERTY, DIES COUNSELS

Representative Martin Dies [D., Tex.], chairman of the house committee investigating un-American activities, told an audience of 2,500 in the Evanston Township High school last night that it was the duty of Americans "to stay on our own shores and make democracy work within the framework of the constitution."

"A democracy," the congressman asserted, "should cherish peace but be ready to discourage invasion. We can be drawn into overseas war only by propaganda, and if we are drawn in we will surely go bankrupt and have a depression greater than any we have known. There is also the threat of dictatorship."

The meeting was sponsored by Evanston post of the American Legion. Paul G. Armstrong, former Illinois Legion commander, presided.

APPEAL STRANGER PICKET BAN AGAIN IN HIGH COURT

The Illinois Federation of Labor again appealed to the United States Supreme court yesterday to upset state court rulings declaring stranger picketing—picketing by nonemployés—illegal when used to promote a union membership campaign. Attorneys Walter F. Dodd and Daniel D. Carmell, representing the federation, filed a brief in Washington, asserting that the lower court findings deprive unions of constitutional rights of freedom of speech and assembly.

The case involves a beauty shop owned by Ross W. Swing at 5558 North avenue. Organizers for the Hairdressers' and Cosmetologists' union, an American Federation of Labor affiliate, demanded that Swing's 16 employés join the union in 1937. On their refusal picketing began.

Swing, thru his attorneys, Samuel A. Rinella and Myer N. Rosengard, obtained an injunction in the Circuit court in July, 1937, prohibiting further stranger picketing. They successfully opposed appeals to the Appellate court and the Illinois Supreme court. Last Feb. 5 the United States Supreme court refused to review the case on the ground that all courses of legal action had not been exhausted in the lower courts. On April 4 the Illinois Supreme court refused to reconsider its decision.

BANK CASHIER, 21, ADMITS THAT HE EMBEZZLED $1,500

Kokomo, Ind., May 11 [Special].—Carl L. Newlon, 21 years old, assistant cashier of the Union Bank and Trust company of Kokomo, has confessed embezzlement of $1,500 of bank funds, it was revealed today.

Newlon admitted the theft when confronted by Clyde R. Hill, the bank's auditor, with evidence of a shortage.

B. D. Mitchell, president of the bank, said young Newlon had been discharged, and that a bonding company had reimbursed the bank. Whether Newlon will be prosecuted is up to the bonding company, Mitchell stated.

WILLKIE WARNS NEW DEAL BRINGS POORHOUSE NEAR

Sees Peril in Third Term for Roosevelt.

St. Paul, May 11 [Special].—The New Deal has provided the nation with a "decade of decadence," Wendell L. Willkie, president of the Commonwealth and Southern corporation, and often mentioned as a "dark horse" candidate for the Republican Presidential nomination, declared here tonight.

Introduced by Gov. Harold E. Stassen, keynoter at the Republican National convention, at a dinner attended by Republican leaders, Willkie condemned the New Deal as a centralized government run by nonelected commissioners.

Willkie assailed the growing federal deficit and quoted President Roosevelt as of 1932 "that a nation like any family can for a year spend more than it earns, but that a continuation of that habit means the poorhouse."

Sees G. O. P. Bring Recovery.

"The poorhouse is a lot closer to us today than when those words were spoken," Willkie declared. He said he was convinced that recovery could come only thru the "election of a Republican administration."

Touching foreign affairs, Willkie said "there is a general feeling that the Roosevelt administration is holding something back from the American people. That it has certain secret intentions. The suspicion may be entirely wrong, but if so, why is it allowed to exist? Our foreign policy should be forthright and clear." He said he opposed America entering the war.

Abandons Free Enterprise.

The Democratic administration, Willkie said, has abandoned "the principle of free enterprise," and substituted for it "a huge, centralized government, controlling the enterprises of the people by nonelected commissioners, exactly the doctrine that our forefathers rejected. In practice, this New Deal theory which was proposed as a cure for national economic ills, has proved a failure."

Willkie, in replying to the President's speech in 1932 warning that continued deficit spending means the poorhouse said:

"The poorhouse is a lot closer to us today than when those words were spoken," Willkie continued. "If we add another four years to these two terms we shall be over its threshold and subservient to God knows what revolution-born supervisor of the poor. For the road of deficit financing leads inevitably to the collapse of government credit and the overthrow of our economic system."

Spends 60 Billion Dollars.

"Since the New Deal came into power it has spent more than 60 billion dollars," he said. "That is approximately enough to buy every manufacturing plant and every mine in every industry in the United States. In the hands of industry that amount of money would provide enough jobs for more than the 9,500,000 unemployed. In the hands of government it has created a colossal debt and deficit and has taken the place of productive private enterprise."

Willkie praised the aims of the Hatch clean politics bill and touched on the farm problem, but "frankly," he said, "I don't know what the solution is."

CITY'S RED CROSS DRIVE QUOTA IS SET AT MILLION

Chicago has been assigned a quota of $1,000,000 in the American Red Cross' new nation-wide campaign for a $10,000,000 war relief fund, James B. Forgan, chairman of the Chicago chapter, announced yesterday.

"The quota has been accepted by the chapter's executive committee," Forgan said. "Volunteer Red Cross workers will begin immediate solicitation in the business district, neighborhoods, and suburbs.

"Reports of air raids and invasion of heretofore peaceful areas in western Europe indicate there will be widespread suffering among civilian as well as military victims of the war. Needs for medicines, hospital supplies, and ambulance units are increasing hourly."

JOB INSURANCE CHISELERS PERIL CALIFORNIA FUND

Benefit Payments Exceed Collections by State.

San Francisco, Cal., May 11 [Special].—Immediate revision of California's unemployment insurance law is necessary if honestly idle workers are to receive the benefits intended for them by the legislature and if employers are to escape having to pay exorbitant insurance rates.

In the last year chiseling has become so widespread and so flagrant that benefit payments at the present rate will exceed by a considerable amount the sum collected by the state.

The situation has become so alarming that employers and labor organizations have joined in a campaign to stamp out the chiseling, but because of the language of the act they have not had much success thus far.

Recent investigations have disclosed from 150 to 200 chiselers a week. In March 413,000 persons were listed with the unemployment compensation department and entitled to benefit payments.

Fall Into Two Classes.

Chiselers fall into two classes: those who get a temporary job long enough to qualify for payments and then never again attempt to find work, and those who get compensation when laid off one job and then take up another occupation while continuing to draw compensation. State officials believe there are thousands more who are chiseling, but they are so busy verifying original claims and putting new names on the compensation rolls that they haven't time to hunt out the cheaters.

According to testimony before a recent legislative inquiry in Sacramento, the worst evil in the unemployment reserves act, as the law is known officially, is the broad application to seasonal workers, of which there are thousands in the state because of the immense canning industry.

Under the law as presently drawn it is possible for a housewife to get work in a canning factory for the season and then as soon as the season is over start collecting unemployment compensation and continue to do so until the next season. Thus she may collect many times in compensation what she earned in the short canning season.

Works in Vacation Season.

Another example exposed to the legislators was the case of a student who worked in a summer resort during the vacation season. The student earned $500 and was taxed $5, while the employer paid $13.50 into the fund. Then the student returned to school in the fall, applied for unemployment benefits, and collected $226.

It is necessary to have earned only $156 in a calendar year to qualify for compensation. A proposal has been made to increase this minimum to $300, which would eliminate a majority of the short seasonal workers, thus leaving the fund unimpaired for the benefit of those whose full time work is interrupted temporarily.

Testimony before the legislative committee showed that benefits paid in 1939 were three times the amount paid in 1938, altho payments into the fund increased only 10 per cent. In 1939 employers and employés paid $2,002,000 into the fund and $1,761,415 in benefits were paid. Benefits paid in the first three months of 1940 have been at the rate of 4 million dollars a year.

Employers' Interest at Stake.

Employers have a big sum at stake under present chiseling. An employer with a $100,000 pay roll in 1940 will pay $2,700 at the rate of 2.7 per cent. Next year, providing he has not had any layoffs since 1936, his rate is reduced to 1.5 per cent and he saves $1,200, while in 1942, if his record remains clear, the rate would be 1 per cent and he would save $1,700.

However, if seasonal workers who work only a few weeks or a few months are permitted to draw unemployment benefits when they actually are not idle because the employer's plant is closed until the next season, the employer must continue paying at the 2.7 per cent rate.

At the close of the hearings after many cases had been reviewed, Assemblyman Rodney Turner of Delano observed:

"The original intent of the act was to promote employment. As it is working out, instead of getting men back to work, it merely is promoting paid vacations."

Nine pretty girls attired in authentic Dutch costumes and shod with the traditional wooden shoes arrived in Chicago yesterday to extend an invitation to residents of the city to visit the annual Tulip Time festival in Holland, Mich., which will be held from May 18 to 25 this year. During the day the girls visited loop department stores and the lake front parks, and also were conducted on a tour thru the Chicago Tribune building. The delegates were Mabel Apel, Charleen MacCormick, Tommy-Lou Ming, Joyce Van Oss, Betty Ten Have, Myra Brouwer, Elaine Ter Haar, Lucille Vos, and Mary Jane Brown, all of Holland.

OLD MANUAL HIGH ALUMNI TO HOLD REUNION TUESDAY

A reunion dinner for graduates of the Chicago Manual Training school, which flourished at Michigan avenue and 12th street [Roosevelt road] from 1884 to 1903, will be held Tuesday evening in the Union League club.

Stanley P. Farwell, president of the class of 1900, is in charge of arrangements. Scores of business and civic leaders in Chicago and other cities are Manual alumni. Among the 125 expected to attend the banquet are Edward E. Brown, Hubert Burnham, Alfred T. Carton, C. Herrick Hammond, W. Homer Hartz, Judge Edmund K. Jarecki, Charles T. Mordock, Murray Nelson, Victor S. Rice, Col. A. A. Sprague, Edward M. Steele, Charles M. Thomson, Robert J. Thorne, Dr. Roger T. Vaughan, and Charles J. Whipple.

Arthur F. Barnard, instructor in Latin and history, will give a history of the school. It was founded by the Commercial club, and later turned over to the University of Chicago. On its first board of trustees were E. W. Blatchford, president; R. T. Crane, vice president; William A. Fuller, secretary; Marshall Field, treasurer; John Crerar, John W. Doane, N. K. Fairbank, Edson Keith, and George M. Pullman.

OVERCOME BY GAS; DIES.

Taylorville, Ill., May 11 [Special].—Joseph E. Johnson, 54 years old, an employé of the Taylorville street department, died last night in a hospital here from injuries and the effects of being gassed while working in a sewer manhole Thursday morning.

IDENTIFY TORSO MURDER VICTIM AS EX-CHICAGOAN

Served Time at Pontiac and Wisconsin.

The body of one of three torso murder victims found in a freight yard near Pittsburgh, Pa., on May 3, was identified yesterday as that of a former Chicagoan and ex-convict.

James D. Nicholson.

According to fingerprint examinations, the victim was James David Nicholson, about 29 years old, who served terms in Illinois and Wisconsin penal institutions. His last given Chicago address was on the north side.

A bizarre touch was given to his murder. Carved across his chest in five inch letters was the word "Nazi." Police were unable to explain this added touch by Nicholson's slayer.

Two Others Unidentified.

Nicholson's body was found in a box car as were the two other bodies, as yet unidentified. The three, police said, undoubtedly were victims of the same maniacal killer who during the last 10 years has murdered and butchered at least 24 persons in western Pennsylvania and Ohio. Many of the victims lived in or near Cleveland.

That Nicholson and the two other victims were slain somewhere in Ohio was indicated by the fact that the freight train in which their bodies were found, arrived in the Pittsburgh area from Struthers, O., 60 miles southeast of Cleveland. The three bodies had been carved and dismembered. The work indicated the slayer had a knowledge of surgery. Heads of the victims were missing, but the arms and legs were found near the torsos.

Fingerprints were taken by L. A. Hollingsworth of the Ohio state bureau of identification.

Served Pontiac Term.

Police records in Waukegan last night showed that Nicholson was arrested on March 13, 1929, in Libertyville for stealing $30 from a chain store in Libertyville. He was sentenced to one to 10 years in the Pontiac reformatory on a charge of larceny.

On May 2, 1936, Nicholson was sentenced in Milwaukee, Wis., to the Wisconsin state prison on a charge of burglary. He was paroled on May 19, 1938. Police know nothing of his movements since.

DETROIT SHERIFF DENIES HE EVER TOOK ANY GRAFT

Detroit, Mich., May 11 (AP).—Sheriff Thomas C. Wilcox, testifying today in his own defense against ouster from office, said he never "took a penny" of graft. The sheriff related how he had reorganized his department and attempted to increase its efficiency. He denied all charges against him.

Wilcox is charged with misfeasance and malfeasance in office, including acceptance of bribes from operators of brothels and gambling outfits.

Completion of the sheriff's testimony ended the hearings on ouster. Probate Judge John L. Hollander will submit his findings to Gov. Luren D. Dickinson, who has the removal power. Wilcox awaits trial on a graft conspiracy charge.

U. OF C. STUDENT SUED BY WIFE.

Mrs. Evelyn Raskin, 21 years old, 1524 Loomis street, Harvey, filed suit in Superior court yesterday asking a divorce from S. Kenneth Raskin, 27, of 5514 Blackstone avenue, a student at the University of Chicago. The suit charges desertion.

2 BANDITS ADMIT 40 ROBBERIES IN CHICAGO REGION

Two young robbers, arrested Friday at Benton Harbor, Mich., were turned over to the Oak Park police yesterday and confessed they had committed 40 holdups in the last three months. They are Charles Reinhart, 21 years old, of Western Springs, and Arthur Klima, 21, of 926 Belle Plaine avenue.

The prisoners robbed Lotis Houston in his drug store at 200 Harrison street, Oak Park, on Thursday. As they were leaving Houston opened fire with a pistol and wounded Klima slightly in the right leg. They told the police they had operated in Chicago as well as in the suburbs.

COMMITS SUICIDE BY CLIMBING POLE AND SEIZING WIRE

Muncie, Ind., May 11 (AP).—With neighbors in pursuit, Alfred Miller, 23 years old, climbed a power line pole to a high tension wire and succeeded in a second suicide attempt today an hour after his father had shot himself to death, Coroner Earl Parson reported.

The young man's body hurtled from the power line, his head striking a railroad track.

Coroner Parson said the elder Miller had been despondent over the suicide of his wife three years ago.

DENIES HAND IN O'HARE MURDER, BUT ISN'T SORRY

Clyde Nimerick, alleged bank robber, told federal agents yesterday he knew nothing of the murder of Edward J. O'Hare, president of the Sportsman Park race track, who was shot down last Nov. 9. Nimerick said he knew O'Hare and was not sorry O'Hare was killed. Nimerick was long hunted as one of the country's most dangerous criminals. On Friday he was found living quietly on the south side, under the name of G. A. Meyer, with a woman who gave her name as Frances Helser.

Nimerick's name came into the investigation of the O'Hare murder because of a note left for him at the race track by his secretary. The note told of a call from an agent of the federal bureau of investigation who asked if O'Hare knew anything about Nimerick. It was learned later that O'Hare had given information on which Al Capone was prosecuted and convicted of income tax fraud, and that he was frequently asked for assistance by government detectives.

Chief Deputy Marshal Joseph Tobin said Nimerick would be held here until Wednesday, after which it is expected he will be sent to Vermont for trial on a bank robbery charge. Meanwhile, he will be questioned further by police and the state's attorney's office.

CLERK IN JOBLESS PAY FRAUD CASE GIVEN LIE TEST

Robert Myers, a senior clerk in the state unemployment compensation office at 175 North Ada street, accused of defrauding the state of nearly $3,000, was subjected to a lie detector test yesterday. Richard B. Austin, assistant state's attorney, said the test confirmed the story nine witnesses were reported to have told the grand jury Friday relative to Myers' operations.

These witnesses were musicians, entertainers and other employés of Dennis [the Duke] Cooney's Royale Frolics café, 426 South Wabash avenue, now closed. Several said they received up to $256 in unemployment compensation, turning back a part of it to Myers.

Austin said Myers will be arraigned in Felony court tomorrow, while additional witnesses are heard by the grand jury. Subpenas have been issued for Cooney and his secretary, Hazel Smith.

SEEK TO SUBPENA 55 WITNESSES IN BABY FARM CASE

More Evidence Sought on Abortion Ring.

Samuel Papanek, assistant state's attorney, will ask the grand jury tomorrow to issue subpenas for 55 witnesses whose names were found in the files of Mrs. Mae Smith and her daughter, Mary, operators of a baby farm at 2415 Winnemac avenue. The names were uncovered at the Winnemac avenue address, at Mary's office at 236 North Clark street, and in the trailer in which the Smiths were arrested a week ago by Lake county authorities.

Witnesses already interviewed by the state's attorney's office have told of abortions performed in the home or office by doctors obtained thru the Smiths, or of babies born in the home and immediately relinquished. Others have described how they bought babies from the Smiths and paid for them on the instalment plan, with Mary Smith threatening to "repossess" the infant if payments lagged.

May Hear 500 Witnesses.

Papanek said that 400 to 500 witnesses probably would be brought before the grand jury in the next few weeks. Some of these will be asked to view photographs of 14 Chicago physicians whose names were found in the Smith records with a view to identifying some of the doctors who performed abortions.

Further details of the methods thru which the Smiths maintained a supply of babies for sale was uncovered yesterday by Theodore Kucewicz, assistant state's attorney, after another search of the Winnemac avenue home. He found there a copy of a baby identification slip from St. Luke's hospital for "Baby Williams," born last Feb. 25.

Investigation showed that the mother had given the name Ann Williams, 22 years old, and said she was from St. Louis, Mo. It was found that she had first gone to the Sarah Hackett Stevenson Memorial home, 2412 Prairie avenue, on Oct. 19 to ask shelter until her child was born.

Hears of "Nice People."

Then, authorities said, another girl also at the home came back one day from a hospital clinic visit to say that she had been told of some "nice people" [the Smiths, apparently] who would be glad to help with no questions asked by social workers. Both girls then left the charitable institution for the Smith home, with Miss Williams returning Dec. 20 and telling officials of the Stevenson home that the Winnemac home "frightened" her.

The girl left St. Luke's with the understanding that her boy was to be turned over to the Chicago orphan asylum. Neither hospital authorities nor the Stevenson home can understand how the identification slip got to the Smith home, they said.

The Smiths are held in the county jail pending a hearing May 20. Mrs. Smith is charged with kidnaping and operating a maternity home without a license. Mary Smith is charged with kidnaping.

FILE $78,075 SUIT FOR INJURIES TO 6 IN AUTO CRASH

A suit for damages totaling $78,075 was filed in Circuit court yesterday by J. Wayne Huddleston, 10324 Talman avenue, secretary of the Central Pattern and Foundry company. The defendant is Dick Wilken, a chauffeur of Freeport, in Stephenson county, whose automobile and that of Huddleston were involved in a collision last July 2 at York road and North avenue in Elmhurst. Huddleston's suit said he, his wife, Eleanor, 31 years old, and their four daughters all were injured seriously. He asks damages of $20,000 in behalf of Eleanor, 10; $20,000 for Margaret, 3; $5,000 each for Dolores, 7, and Arlene, 5; $10,325 for Mrs. Huddleston; $15,750 for himself, and $2,000 for doctor bills.

Illinois Lutheran Synod Opens Sessions Tomorrow

The Illinois synod of the United Lutheran church, comprising several states, will open its 21st annual sessions tomorrow in Trinity Lutheran church, Chicago Heights. The Rev. Dr. Armin G. Weng, synod president, will be conference preacher tomorrow night. Other leaders on the program include Dr. Rudolph Schulz, president of Carthage college, and Dr. Henry H. Bagger, president of the Pittsburgh, Pa., synod.

Stritch Will Preside at Diamond Jubilee Mass

Archbishop Samuel A. Stritch of the Chicago Catholic archdiocese will preside at a diamond jubilee pontifical high mass tomorrow morning at Angel Guardian orphanage, Park Ridge. Bishop William D. O'Brien, president of the Catholic Church Extension society, will be the celebrant. The orphanage has provided shelter and training for 10,000 boys and girls of 30 nationalities during its 75 year history.

Life Saving Dog Gets Hero Award

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Dr. W. A. Young and Mrs. George Charbino present "hero" award to her dog, Mascot, who saved occupants of rooming house from fire by awakening mistress.

ODDS ARE 6 TO 1 THAT YOU CAN'T ADOPT A BABY

Demand Far Exceeds the Supply.

A married couple in Illinois with a good home, substantial income, and the best of references, who wish to adopt a baby, have just about one chance in six of obtaining one. This was shown yesterday in a survey of private and public agencies established for the care of orphans and destitute children.

The demand for adoptable children far exceeds the number available in recognized institutions. This indicates, authorities said, that Mrs. Mae Smith and her daughter, Mary, who are being held in the county jail as the operators of an unlicensed maternity home and "baby farm," probably were operating in a lucrative field.

Accept No Applications.

Mrs. William B. Walrath, founder and managing director of the nationally known Cradle, an orphanage in Evanston, said:

"We are not accepting any more adoption applications. There are hundreds of approved families now on file at our office. Some of them have been on the waiting list for more than two years. The Cradle places approximately 250 babies in homes annually. We cannot estimate, however, the number of applicants we have to turn away.

The Illinois Children's Home and Aid society last year interviewed about 650 applicants who wished to adopt babies. Three hundred fifty were from Cook county and the remainder from downstate. Of this number, only 54 babies were placed in homes.

Some Applicants Ineligible.

Miss Beatrice McKibben, head of the home finding department, explained that altho the society cares for 1,500 children, some are not eligible for adoption because of undesirable backgrounds. Others will not be released by their parents.

St. Vincent's orphanage always has a waiting list. The orphanage endeavors to match the nationalities, religions, and backgrounds of the children with that of their future parents. This requires an interval of five to six months. Five or six hundred applicants are interviewed annually but only 200 children given for adoption.

Many Do Not Want to Wait.

One of the sisters in charge asserted yesterday that the small percentage occurs because many childless couples do not want to wait the interval necessary for home investigations and for the discriminating search of harmonious babies. Very few applicants, however, are refused at St. Vincent's.

The Chicago Foundlings home receives about 750 applicants by correspendonce, telephone, and visits annually. Of this number only 31 babies were placed last year. Miss Effie Doan, superintendent of the home, said many of the couples requesting children are too old or not of the same denomination as the children available.

Jacob Kepecs, executive director of the Jewish Children's bureau, said that out of 100 applications filed annually six children are placed. The principal reason for the slight percentage is the small number of babies available for adoption.

Park Harbormaster Given Command of Reserve Unit

Henry Michiels, harbormaster of the Chicago Park district's seven yacht harbors since Feb. 1, 1935, has been assigned to command the 23d division of the 6th battalion of the United States Naval Reserve. Michiels, who lives at 5306 North Magnet avenue, would command a destroyer in time of war.

Pulls Owner's Hair

Mascot, a 1 year old dog who is described as "mostly Chow," was awarded an honor certificate yesterday by officials of the Anti-Cruelty society for awakening his mistress, Mrs. George Charbino, when fire broke out a week ago in the rooming house in which she lives at 8 West Erie street. Dr. W. A. Young, managing director of the society, said that Mascot, aroused by smoke which poured thru the floor from a fire in the room below, tugged at Mrs. Charbino's hair until she awakened. Her screams aroused a dozen other occupants of the building, who extinguished the blaze.

CEMETERY FRAUD CASE NEAR JURY AFTER 3 WEEKS

Closing arguments were completed yesterday in the case of 10 men who have been on trial for three weeks before a jury and Federal Judge John P. Barnes on charges of mail fraud. The defendants are officers and salesmen of First Commonwealth Trustees, Chicago sales agency which promoted lots in a Twinsburg, O., cemetery.

A. Bradley Eben, assistant United States attorney, reviewed for the jury the government charges that 500 middle western investors were cheated of $200,000 thru misrepresentation of the resale value of the cemetery lots.

Eighteen men were indicted. Four pleaded guilty and testified for the government; two obtained separate trials and two are fugitives. The case will go to the jury tomorrow.

Capt. Bernacchi, 34 Year Police Vet, to Retire Today

Capt. Julian Bernacchi, a Chicago policeman for 34 years, will retire today, his 63d birthday. He has been in command at the Des Plaines street station since he was made a captain March 1, 1939. Capt. Bernacchi joined the force April 6, 1906. Lieut. Harry J. O'Donnell was appointed by Commissioner Allman last night as acting captain at the Des Plaines street station. O'Donnell has been assigned to the district for the last eight and a half years.

Mrs. Hilda Strauss Wins Nevada Divorce from Doctor

Mr. Hilda G. Strauss was granted a divorce in Carson City, Nev., yesterday from Dr. Alfred A. Strauss of 5454 South Shore drive, a prominent physician. In her divorce bill charging cruelty, Mrs. Strauss stated that she and Dr. Strauss were married on March 27, 1917, and have one daughter, Eleanor. A property settlement has been made out of court, it was said.

FLUSH KIDNEYS OF POISONS AND STOP GETTING UP NIGHTS

Live a Healthier, Happier, Longer Life

Thousands of men and women wonder why backache bothers them—why they have to visit the bathroom often at night—why flow is scanty and sometimes smarts and burns.

Any one of these symptoms may mean that your kidneys and bladder need attention now before these minor symptoms may develop into serious trouble.

To flush out excess waste poisons and acids from kidneys, soothe your irritated bladder and put more healthy activity into them, get a 35-cent package of GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules and take as directed.

This harmless, tried and true medicine gives results—you should feel better in a few days, as this effective diuretic and kidney stimulant drives excess uric acid from the body, which is often the aggravation of joint agony, sciatica and neuritis.

Don't be an EASY MARK and accept a substitute—Ask for Gold Medal Haarlem Oil Capsules—right from Haarlem in Holland. GET GOLD MEDAL—the original—the genuine. Look for the Gold Medal on the box—35 cents.

IT'S 'TULIP TIME' IN CHICAGO PARKS TILL END OF MAY

The park district has designated the period beginning tomorrow and continuing to June 1 as "Tulip Time," but already thousands of tulips are blooming along the district's boulevards and thruout parks where a million and a half bulbs were planted. The blooms are believed to provide the largest such display on public grounds in the United States.

In Humboldt park, thousands of violets, the Illinois state flower, are in bloom. Special flower displays will be presented today in the Lincoln and Garfield park conservatories in honor of Mother's day. Among the blooms are larkspur, Martha Washington geraniums, roses, calceolarias or pouch plants, poor man's orchids, snapdragons, iris nasturtiums, and marigolds.

FRIVOLITY REARS ITS UGLY HEAD IN SCHOOL AT ZION

Dancing will be permitted in the Zion-Benton Township High school in Zion for the first time in its history of 35 years.

This radical step—radical for blue lawed Zion, home of Wilbur Glenn Voliva—was authorized yesterday by a vote of two to one by the school board. The dance will be the junior prom of the June graduating class. The date has not been set.

The senior class requested permission to hold the dance in the school, and the board submitted the question to the parents of high school pupils. They voted 216 for and 214 against.

The prom will be held in the school, but, warned a school official, "just this one time."

April Suburban Construction of All Types Breaks Records Since 1931

HOME BUILDING MAINTAINS LEAD IN THIS DISTRICT

Four Months' Total 436 Units Over 1939.

BY AL CHASE.
[Real Estate Editor.]

Home building and other construction records of the last several years were broken in 82 Chicago suburbs during April and the first four months of 1940. Last month's total value of building permits of all classes was $5,638,970, the largest figure in the records of the suburban survey which began in 1931.

It is 72 per cent above April, 1939, when the total was $3,272,967, and shows a gain of 59 per cent over the March, 1940, total of $3,550,582. It also is $2,319,645 larger than all the permits taken out in Chicago during April. Chicago's total was $3,319,325.

Permits for new homes in the suburbs during April totaled 563, with a value of $3,614,635. In April, 1939, there were 292 permits for homes costing $2,034,271. April of this year was ahead 93 per cent in number and 78 per cent in value. In March of this year permits were issued for 440 suburban homes, costing $2,831,727.

All Types Gain.

For the first four months of 1940 there were 1,396 permits for suburban residences, costing $9,144,637, For the corresponding period last year there were 960 permits for homes, costing $6,418,633.

Permits issued for all types of suburban construction, including homes, during the first four months of 1940, were valued at $14,281,663, against $9,732,544 in the parallel 1939 months.

The average cost of homes for which permits were taken out in April was $6,420. The average cost still is falling after four years of decline, from $9,010 in 1936 to $7,713 in 1937, $7,053 in 1938, and $6,538 last year.

Expanding construction of low cost homes, especially homes financed with the new $2,500 FHA loans under title 1, class 3, may cause a further reduction in the average cost of residences in this region, according to Arthur G. Erdmann, president of the Bell Savings, Building and Loan association, which compiles this survey.

Low Cost Homes Are Built.

In this connection the construction of numbers of homes at less than the average cost for the region may be noted in the following communities: Aurora, 10 homes at an average cost of $3,625; Des Plaines, 7, $5,150; East Chicago, 12, $4,500; East Gary, 7, $2,750; Evergreen Park, 28, $5,000; Gary, 53, $4,200; Glen Ellyn, 7, $4,450; Hammond, 40, $5,100; Harvey, 6, $2,250; Highland, 7, $3,650; Lansing, 6, $2,850; Midlothian, 12, $4,275; Munster, 35, $4,200; Oak Lawn, 8, $4,250; Palos Heights, 5, $5,700; Riverdale, 9, $4,850, and Waukegan, 7, $4,750.

Gary led all suburbs reporting with buildings of all types totaling $1,090,697, according to Alfred S. Hess, building commissioner. Joe P. Guy of Hammond sent in the next best report, amounting to $252,100. Evanston, of which E. M. Goodman is building commissioner, was third with a total of $207,150.

Gary's leadership in April was due in part to a 305 unit federal housing project to cost an estimated $795,400.

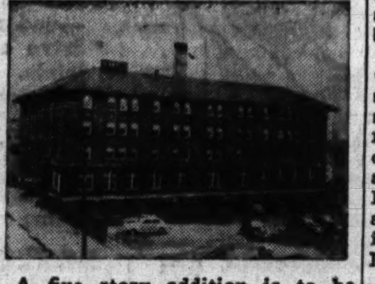
Plan 5 Story Addition to Larrabee 'Y'

Plans have been completed for a $172,000 five story wing addition to the North Avenue-Larrabee Y. M. C. A. building, at 1508 North Larrabee street. The first floor of the present building also will be remodeled. Work will be started at once with completion set for Dec. 1. The addition was designed by the architectural department of the Y. M. C. A., of which Eugene B. White is director.

Enlarged facilities on the ground floor of the addition will provide for locker and shower rooms, an assembly room, two clubrooms, a handicraft shop with an adjoining storeroom, and staff offices.



A five story addition is to be added to the Larrabee Y. M. C. A. The present building is shown above.

On the second floor will be another assembly room, three clubrooms, and the department executive offices. The remaining three floors will contain 60 residence rooms. A new grill is provided in the remodeling plans of the first floor of the present building.

Realty Miscellany

The largest loan volume for any month in its history, $413,317, was reported yesterday by the First Federal Savings and Loan association of Chicago, for April. The proportion of loans granted for new construction was the highest yet recorded. The association announced the approval of 18 loans, totaling $150,800, for the building of new homes.

The annual meeting and ladies' night of the Illinois chapter of the American Society of Heating and Ventilating Engineers will be held tomorrow at the Merchants and Manufacturers' club in the Merchandise mart. Dr. Philip Fox, director of the Museum of Science and Industry, will speak.

The Talman Federal Savings and Loan association, 2641 West 51st street, reported yesterday that during the first four months of this year 334 loans, totaling $1,242,775, were negotiated. This is an increase of 71 per cent over the corresponding period of last year, according to Ben F. Bohac, secretary and treasurer.

LIST SPEAKERS AT MEETING TO SPUR BUILDING

St. Paul and New York Men Scheduled.

I. N. Tate of St. Paul, Minn., vice president of the Weyerhaeuser Sales corporation, and Cress Stedman of New York City, vice president of the Certainteed corporation, will speak at the "all industry building conference," a feature of Chicago's second annual Building Industry week, May 13 to 18. This was announced yesterday by H. Mayne Stanton, secretary of the Associated Builders of Chicago, chairman of arrangements for the conference.

I. N. Tate.

The conference will be held following a luncheon at the Hotel Sherman next Friday. All branches of the real estate, building, and construction industry are expected to be represented.

Expect Stimulation.

Officials of the Chicago Building congress, sponsor of Building Industry week, predicted that home construction in Chicago and Cook and nearby counties will be stimulated by the six day conference.

"All branches of the building industry are participating in the plans for the week," said Elmer C. Jensen, president of the Chicago Building congress. "Coöperating in the movement also are leading financial, commercial, industrial, and civic organizations.

Seek Public Confidence.

"The week is designed to strengthen the confidence of the property owning and home buying public in the ability of the construction industry to work with efficiency and effectiveness to produce good building improvements at a fair price, to employ labor and capital productively, and to benefit the entire community.

"Looking ahead, much is to be done to perfect the local building industry service for the benefit of the building and owning public and to stress the exceptional opportunities of today to buy, build, and to modernize on advantageous terms on a rising market."

Otis & Co. Leases Office Space in Field Building

Otis & Co., investment banking firm, now at 105 West Adams street, has leased space in the Field building and will move there on June 1. James R. Buck, formerly president of Folds, Buck & Co., became manager of the Chicago office of Otis & Co. on April 1.

North Edgebrook Improvements

Henry C. Kocmond, Evanston district manager of the Hoover company, will live at 6967 Ionia avenue, in the North Edgebrook district, as soon as the house (on the right) is completed. It cost a reported $7,900 for house and lot. It was financed with a $6,600 FHA 20 year loan, with monthly payments of $56. George N. Luxen, an engineer for the Victor Adding Machine company, bought the Cape Cod house, adjoining, at 6969 Ionia avenue. Its reported cost was $6,950, financed with a $6,000 FHA 20 year loan, with $50 monthly payments. Both loans were made thru Irvin Jacobs & Co.

SELL NINE UNITS UNDER "PACKAGE HOME" PROGRAM

Nine of a contemplated 10 brick homes constructed by the Moderate Cost Home Construction company in North Edgebrook have been sold under the "package home" plan, it was announced yesterday. A single price, ranging from $6,500 to $9,000, covers the cost of land, material, construction, title expense, certain special assessments, and all financing charges.

Financed by 4½ per cent, 20 year FHA loans, made thru Irvin Jacobs & Co., the monthly payments are said to be $36 and upward. The homes have 6 and 7 rooms and are on lots with a minimum frontage of 40 feet.

The houses all have wood burning fireplaces, and warm air, gas fired furnaces. Most of them have attached garages.

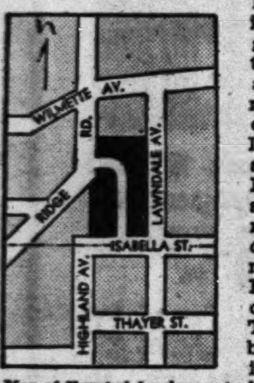
Begin Work This Week on Ten New Residences in Wilmette Development

SIX OTHER UNITS ARE UNDER WAY WITH FOUR SOLD

Hummel Company to Build Curving Street.

The Frederick E. Hummel company, builders since 1888, yesterday outlined a residential program for a tract of land at the northwest corner of Lawndale avenue and Isabella street, Wilmette, just over the northerly Evanston city limits. The land has been platted into 29 home sites varying in size from 50 by 117½ to 55 by 217½ feet. Construction already is under way on six houses, four of which have been sold. The project will be known as Wilmette Terrace.



Map of Hummel development.

Work is scheduled to start this week on 10 more homes, all of which are to be ready for occupancy during August. According to Frederick E. Hummel, all of the 29 sites will be improved with new homes by winter.

Five Homes Completed.

In addition to the area recently acquired the Hummel company has completed five homes at the southeast corner of Lawndale avenue and Isabella street. Four of them are sold.

The price range in both of the Hummel groups of homes has been from $10,000 to $16,000, including the cost of $2,500 and $3,500 lots. The homes have six and seven rooms, full basements, and are heated by hot water, gas fired heaters. All have two fireplaces, one in the living room and the other in the basement recreation room.

The Hummel development has stringent restrictions covering residential construction. Garages must be an integral part of the house. No aerial wires or poles will be permitted; all electrical wiring will be underground. Houses on Lawndale avenue are being set back 50 feet from the building line.

Builds Curving Street.

Hummel is constructing a new curving thorofare thru his development, with a 12 foot parkway down the center. It runs north from Isabella street, and with a sweeping curve leads into Ridge road. Twenty of the lots face on this new drive.

The Hummel company will build an office building on Ridge road, where the new Sterling lane enters. An ornamental stone entrance also will be erected.

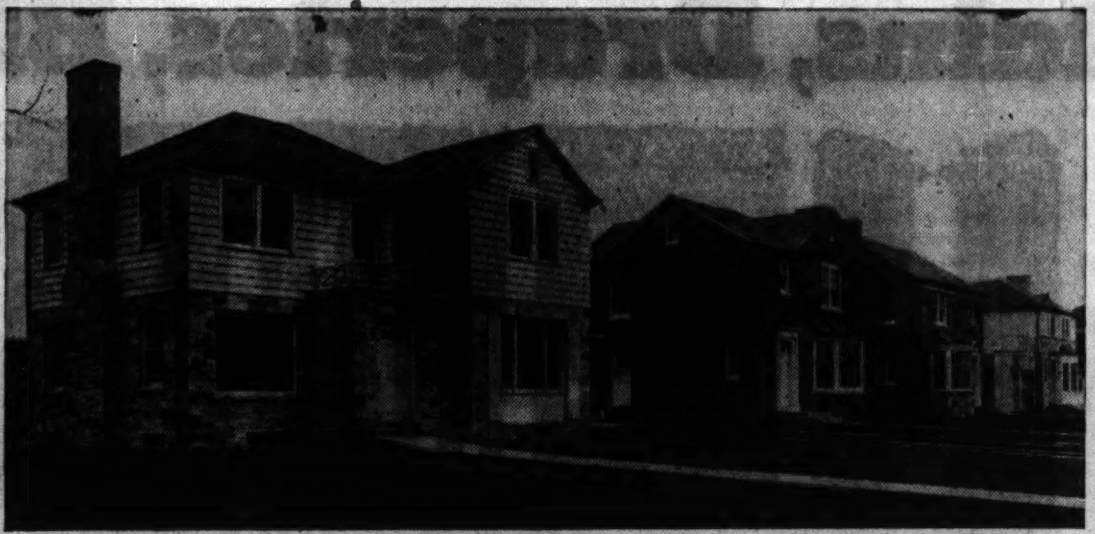
All homes in the Hummel development so far have been of early American design, by Architect Albert Vesley. The entire area will be fully landscaped and developed under a comprehensive plan, Hummel said.

Lagerlof's Leases Space for New Loop Restaurant

Lagerof's, restaurateur, has leased the store at the northeast corner of Wells and Quincy streets, in the 208 South La Salle building, and will open a new restaurant early in June. The lease is for 10 years at a minimum guaranteed rental plus a percentage of gross profits. The George S. Lurie company represented the lessee. Phillip Colnon of John E. Colnon & Co. represented the 208 South La Salle Building corporation.

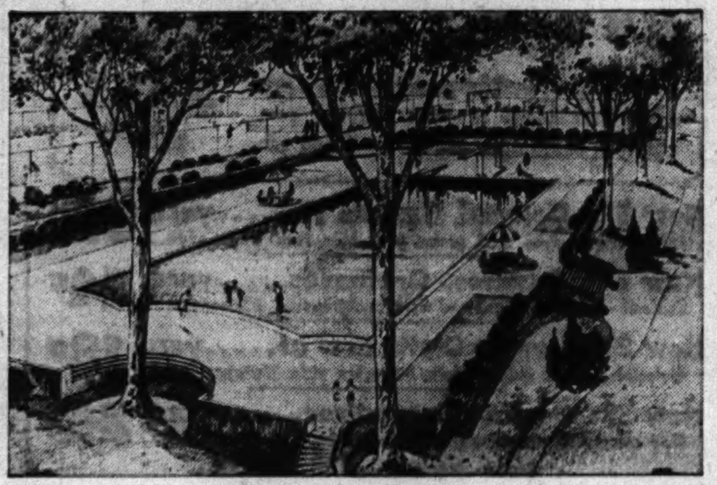
New Suburban Residences

(Story in adjoining column.)



These four houses, at 111 to 123 Lawndale avenue, Wilmette, have just been completed by the Frederick E. Hummel company. Albert Vesley is architect. Two have been sold. W. F. Meyer of the Continental Coffee company bought the one at No. 111 (at the left) for a reported $14,500, including a $2,500 lot. Troel S. Eriksen of E. G. Pauling & Co., real estate, bought the adjoining house on the right for the same price. Each of the four homes has six rooms, attached garage, basement recreation room, and two fireplaces. All have gas fired hot water heaters.

Country Club Improvement



A $35,000 improvement program at the Tam o' Shanter Country club, including an outdoor swimming pool, was announced yesterday by George S. May, president. Designed by Architect Stanley Anderson, the pool will be 80 by 35 feet. It will cost $25,000 and will be located just south of the main clubhouse at Howard street and Caldwell road. There will also be a children's playground and four tennis courts. An additional $10,000 will be spent this spring on the golf course and on seven new steel and concrete bridges across the branch of the Chicago river, which runs thru the club grounds.

KEYSTONE CLUB GROUNDS SOLD FOR HOME SITES

The former Keystone Country club property, containing 6¾ acres on the east side of Thatcher avenue, south of the Oak Park Country club grounds in Elmwood Park, was bought by undisclosed interests, according to Joseph B. Ford & Co. The land is to be subdivided into homesites and handled by the Ford organization, according to Joseph B. Ford. The most active sales market since 1928 is reported by Ford.

Frank W. Potter, field supervisor for the Ætna Casualty and Surety company of Hartford, Conn., will speak on "Taking Advantage of Your Opportunities" next Wednesday noon at the Chicago Real Estate board.

Frank S. Slosson, of Hooker, Slosson & Randell, will speak on chain stores at a meeting of the Northwest Real Estate board at 6:30 p. m. tomorrow at the Irving Park Y. M. C. A.

Michael J. Long will talk on "Making Real Estate Sales Click" before the West Side Real Estate board at the Graemere hotel, tomorrow noon. Long is a partner in Long-Kogen, Inc.

REALTORS PLAN MAKING SUBURB A PETUNIA PARK

Oak Park Realty Board Launches Program.

Following the example of Mobile, Ala., with its azalea trail, Lombard, famous for its lilacs, Holland, Mich., with its tulips, and other cities which have used flowers to beautify and attract attention, a plan was outlined yesterday to make Oak Park the petunia village of America.

Mrs. W. H. Wright.

The movement will be launched next Saturday afternoon at a ceremony at the home of the village president, James A. Howe, 1048 North Oak Park avenue. Representatives of the Oak Park Real Estate board, park district officials, village officers, garden club, P.-T. A. groups, civic organizations, clubs, and home owners will witness the initial planting of petunias.

Realtors Originate Plan.

According to Mrs. W. H. Wright, president of the Oak Park Real Estate board, which originated the petunia idea, it is planned to make the village the largest garden in the world by planting petunias at the base of 8,500 trees in the parkways of the community.

Boxes of flowers will be offered for sale to property owners thru the cooperation of the Oak Park park district superintendent, Gustave A. Lindberg, who predicts that the village will be known eventually from coast to coast for its colorful and attractive petunia beds.

Stations will be established in convenient locations where owners may purchase petunias at wholesale prices, Mrs. Wright said. They will be available in a wide variety of colors and ready for immediate planting.

Mrs. Wright extended an invitation to all village residents to attend next Saturday's ceremony. She said the petunia plan is one of several which the realty board is developing for the improvement of the community and for the preservation of its reputation for desirable residences.

SELLS THIRTEEN FLATS.

The 13 flats at the southeast corner of Sacramento avenue and 60th street were sold yesterday by R. H. Groble, trustee, to Charles and Frances Stauber, for a reported $24,750, all cash. Cooper, Kanaley & Co. and Fred Wilken & Co. were brokers.

Broker's Note

Leon S. Sex & Co. has opened new and larger offices at its Lily Lake development. This is the 14th year the company has been building and selling summer and permanent homes at Lily lake. The main offices are at 139 North Clark street, Chicago.

CHARITY CENTER WILL OPEN HOME FOR INSPECTION

The Chicago Maternity center today will open for public inspection a model Colonial home, furnished, at 435 North Malden avenue, La Grange Park. The center will sponsor the house to raise funds for its charity work.

There will be an admission charge of 10 cents per person. In addition there will be a charity fund for which contributions will be accepted in units of 50 cents. At the end of the exhibition on Sept. 23 it is planned to present the house to one of the donors to the charity fund.

The house was built by William Joern & Sons, west side builders, from plans by Alfred Shaw of Shaw, Naess & Murphy. As their contribution to the charity work of the center, Charles E. Joern donated a portion of the building site and built the house at cost. The balance of the site was donated by W. Burke Harmon, New York, owner of the Edgewood Park community property.

FIELD BUILDING LEASE.

The Fiduciary Conusel, Inc., which serves financial institutions in an advisory capacity, has leased space in the Field building.

LIFE HOUSE

FURNISHED WITH CARSON'S
"WISHMAKER"
ENSEMBLED SCHEME OF DECORATION
AND THE SEVEN FAMOUS "WISHMAKER" COLORS

LAST year, when the first home was built following the building plan of LIFE MAGAZINE, CARSON PIRIE SCOTT & CO. was appointed to furnish it. This year, as a "command performance," we present in the new LIFE HOUSE, our "Wishmaker" Ensembled Scheme of Decoration, and the seven famous "Wishmaker" colors.

From a color range that would be usable in every home, we contrived a cycle of seven correlated colors—the Wishmaker pallette. So with your own creative ability . . . and Wishmaker ensembled scheme of decoration as guide . . . you-as-decorator may chart your own course through a sea of assured calm. Come—see how successfully our plan has worked for us in LIFE HOUSE.

Open Sunday and from now on between 10 A. M. and 8 P. M. at 435 North Malden Avenue in La Grange Park. Your 10c entrance donation will help further the charitable work of the Chicago Maternity Center.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The run getting business, which for several days had been painfully slack for the Cubs, hit a boom period yesterday afternoon, so they were able to shake off their losing streak and make an entry on the profitable side of the National league ledger. However, they succeeded in their purpose only after threatening to drop their fourth in a row, the change being accomplished by six belated runs for a 7 to 5 decision over Pittsburgh's Pirates before a 7,211 turnout.

Claude Passeau, who should be one of Manager Gabby Hartnett's pitching mainstays but isn't, started, but it was only after the ex-Philly had departed that the Cubs began to get results from their bats. Passeau retired in the fifth, leaving a 5 to 1 deficit, but the Cubs collected three runs after a Pirate error in the same inning and three decisive tallies that weren't tainted in the sixth. Meanwhile, Vance Page performed so artistically as a rescuer that the enemy nicked him for only one hit.

Gleeson Comes Thru.

Jim Gleeson, one of the three fellows dropped into Friday's lineup because of a need for hitting and kept there yesterday despite ineffectiveness in their first test, transacted a lot of the Cubs' important business. He tripled off Joe Bowman, but received no help in the first inning. He doubled in the third to drive in the Cubs' first run. He hit a line drive in the fifth but it was flagged. When Gleeson appeared during the busy sixth he was considered worthy of a pass and when he was up in the eighth he singled. But he was picked off base by Deacon Dan MacFayden, who had rushed to Bowman's aid in the sixth.

Hartnett also enjoyed satisfactory results from the two others tossed into the lineup along with Gleeson. Glen Russell singled to shove home the last of the three runs in the fifth and in the next inning furnished the blow that fastened down the verdict. He doubled with the score tied and two of his mates galloped home. Dominic Dallessandro, third of the new replacements, also made a contribution. He aided the fifth inning progress by singling.

Lot of Noise, Only One Run.

Passeau, figuratively speaking, had his ears slapped in the first inning, but the ferocious bat wielding led to only one run. Lloyd Waner opened the game with a two bagger down the third base line. Debs Garms hit another liner, but the ball went straight into Billy Herman's hands and a toss to Bobby Mattick doubled L. Waner off second. Paul Waner launched another thrust by doubling to left center. Arky Vaughan then singled past Russell to send P. Waner to the plate. Elbie Fletcher popped to Herman.

Garms' error on Dallessandro's fly put the latter on second with none out in the second inning, but the Cubs weren't strong enough to take advantage. However, they did a bit better in the third, getting the tying run on one hit. After two were gone Herman walked. Gleeson cashed in on it by doubling to left center for his second extra base hit, Herman scoring. Hank Leiber walked and Dallessandro was tossed out on a bounder to Bowman. Vaughan turned a slow roller to

Knott Limits Tiger Sluggers to Two Singles

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Detroit, Mich., May 11.—A crowd of 24,525 came to Briggs stadium today to celebrate Charley Gehringer's 37th birthday. And after listening to a lot of pregame oratory and gift presenting, they saw Jack Knott and the White Sox do some grand celebrating their own in a 1 to 0 Chicago victory.

Knott was pitted against Tommy Bridges. Jack allowed only two hits and Tommy surrendered only two. The hits off Knott, both singles, were scattered, one by Bruce Campbell with two out in the sixth, the other by Dick Bartell, who opened the home ninth. Both of the Sox's hits were singles, but they came in the same inning, the third, and produced the only run of the game.

No. 2 For Jack.

It was Knott's second start and his second victory. It also was his first complete game. He retired last Tuesday after allowing four hits in 6 1-3 innings against the Athletics. The bland Texan, needless to say, was in grand form today, undaunted by Bridges well earned reputation for effectiveness against the Sox. In six of the nine innings, Jack retired the powerful Tigers in order. He walked two in the third inning, just after the Sox had scored, but made amends for this by executing two strikeouts. He walked one in the sixth, but there were two out before Campbell, in that same inning, knocked the first of the two Tiger hits with no one on base. The only Tiger who got as far as third was Frank Metha, who ran for Bartell after Dick had opened the ninth with the second and last Detroit hit.

Knott struck out six, the first four of whom were called out without squawks when Jack fooled them completely. Earl Averill and Rudy York were so sunk in the second innings and Bridges and Campbell looked at third strikes in the third. Billy Sullivan fanned in his rôle of pinch batter in the eighth and Bridges followed him with another whiff.

Sox None Too Frisky.

It was, of course, a heartbreaker for Bridges. He held the Sox helpless in all except the third inning. The only Sox to get as far as second base, except Tresh, who scored the day's run, got there on errors. Kennedy reached second in the deciding third and Tresh got that far on a two-ply error by Pinky Higgins in the eighth.

After Eric McNair had popped to York to get the third inning under way, Tresh bunted toward third. Bridges took the ball and placed it well enough, but the surprise element enabled Tresh to beat the throw by a step. Knott tried to bunt on the third strike, fouled the ball, and, of course, was automatically out. Then followed the break of the game. Bridges pretty near hit one of Kennedy's big toes with a pitch that bounded past Tebbetts as Tresh ran to second. Kennedy lined a single to right center, and Tresh would have had an easy trip home, even had Campbell fielded the bounce. The ball got past Campbell, however, and Kennedy reached second, but he had served his purpose in the lone production of the afternoon. As things turned out it made no difference that Joe Kuhel followed with a strikeout to end the inning.

Better Keep Traveling, Boys.

It was only the 20th game of the season for the Sox, but they now have beaten every team in the league once, a fact that is rather remarkable inasmuch as they haven't won a game in Comiskey park. They have split two game series in St. Louis, Cleveland, Boston, New York and Washington and its one and one here with one to go. In the only three game series they have completed, they were the victors, two games to one.

Knott pitched himself in and out of trouble in the third inning. With one out, Tebbetts walked to become the first Tiger base runner, after

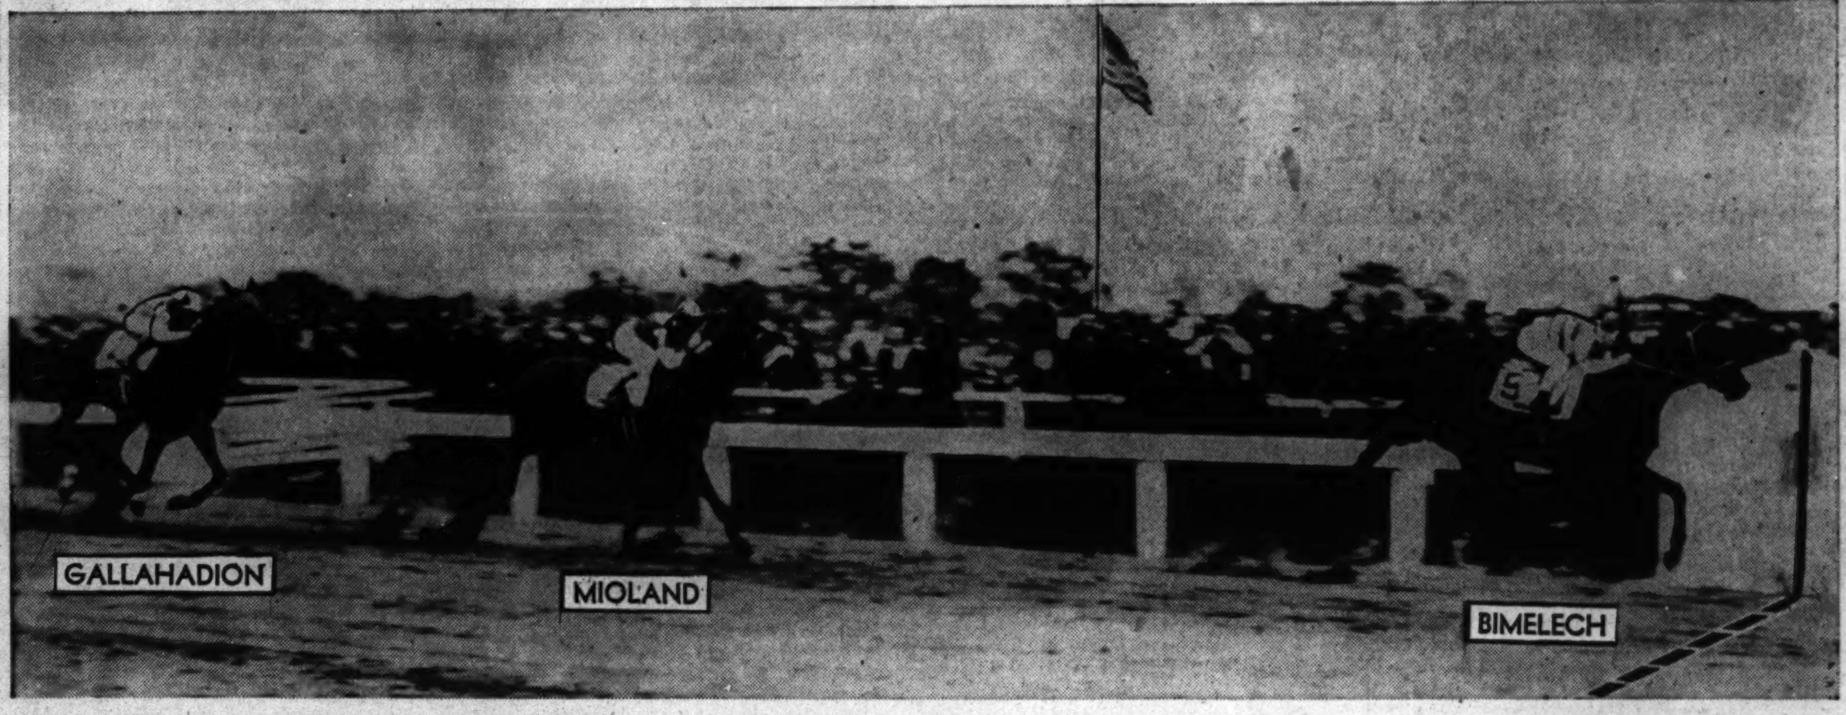
IT'S BIMELECH—AND BLUE GRASS PRESTIGE IS RESTORED!



Bimelech, E. R. Bradley's Kentucky Derby hope which failed last week, yesterday restored his prestige and that of the blue grass country by romping to a three length victory in the Preakness at Pimlico before a crowd of 45,000. Bimelech, with Jockey Freddie Smith up, coasts across the finish line, with C. S. Howard's Mioland in second place. The Derby winner, Gallahadion, was third. Bimelech's victory brought Owner Bradley a purse of $53,230.

TRIBUNE GOLF TEACHERS WILL STRESS A, B, C'S

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Tom Walsh.
[Westgate Valley.]

THE TRIBUNE'S eighth annual free golf school, opening Tuesday night on the four courses of the Chicago park district, boasts a faculty which does not include in its curriculum any courses in Greek, calculus, or kindred complex subjects. These men, members of the Illinois section of the Professional Golfers' association, will dwell only on the A B C's of the game—the grip, the stance, and the swing.

All of the teachers in the school realize how easy it is to bewilder the raw beginner in golf with a barrage of intricate, technical terms. In the preceding seven years of the school they have conducted the classes on the theory that a sound golf game is founded on the simple fundamentals, and not on any complicated groundwork.

Devote Lives to Teaching.

The members of the Illinois P. G. A. are professional men in the same sense as doctors and lawyers. They have devoted their lives to the teaching and advancement of the game, gaining their positions only after a five years' apprenticeship. They are donating their services to the school for the eighth consecutive year.

Four of these men have been designated as teacher-lecturers during the regular four lessons of the school, which will be held next Tuesday; next Thursday; Tuesday, May 21, and Thursday, May 23. Shortly before 7 o'clock on each of those four nights, these teacher-lecturers will call the classes to order from special platforms equipped with public address systems. While they are explaining the fundamentals each night, their colleagues will go thru the classes, giving individual instruction to the students. Each class will last about an hour.

Head Teachers Listed.

The head teachers will be Harry Kinnell of Edgewood Valley, who will be stationed at Marquette park; Lew Waldron, unattached, at Columbus park; Matt Matteson of Ridge, at Jackson park, and Bill Gordon of Tam O' Shanter, at the Diversey course in Lincoln park.

Alex Cunningham of North Shore, president of the Illinois section of the P. G. A. and originator of the clinic plan which has been taken up in the last two years by universities and other sections, will devote most of his teaching efforts to the Diversey course. Tom Walsh of Westgate Valley, national president of the P. G. A., will visit each of the courses once during the four nights of the school.

Among other P. G. A. members who will be on the Tribune faculty again are Jerry Glynn of Knollwood, Eddie Gayer of Twin Orchard; Al Lesperance of Westmoreland, Jock Anderson of Techny Fields, Joe Roseman of Pickwick, Charley Penna and Harry Adams of Medinah, By Chamberlain of Glen Oak, Herb Johnson of Butterfield, Packy Walsh of Marquette, Terry McGovern of Deerpath, Maurie White of La Grange, Jack White of Morris, Alex Pirie of Old Elm, Wally Apel of Ravisloe,

Bimelech (No. 5) fights for the lead with Pictor (No. 6) as the field in the Preakness rounds the first turn. Strung out behind the leaders at this stage are Andy K. (No. 4); Gallahadion (No. 2), which finished third, and Dit (No. 3).

BRADLEY SILENT (ON ORDERS) AS BIMELECH WINS

Baltimore, Md., May 11 (AP).—In addition to the $53,230 winner's share of the purse for the Preakness today, E. R. Bradley, owner of Bimelech, also received a year's custody of the historic Woodlawn vase. It was presented by Albert Gwynne Vanderbilt, president of the Pimlico track. Patting the trophy, symbolic of his third Preakness triumph—he won with Burgoo King in 1938 and Kalitan in 1917—the white haired Kentuckian chuckled.

"Of course, I'm happy," he said. "I'm glad I came to see my horse run. And he did justify my conviction, didn't he?"

As he spoke the thousands turned toward his box and roared cheer after cheer.

The Jockey Explains.

Jockey Freddy Smith, laughing in joy and absorbing considerable backslapping from the other riders, was inclined to blame the difference between Bimelech's showing in the Kentucky Derby last week and today on the difference in the tracks.

"See," said the lad who had the leg up on the horse in every one of his starts. "He acted just as he would have acted in the Derby if he had his kind of race track. It was too cuppy last week." Smith said Bimelech simply got out front and stayed there.

"I never was afraid that we would be caught after the first quarter of a mile," he added.

Jockey George Woolf, aboard Pictor, which finished fifth, summed it up with these words:

"I never saw Bimelech after the first turn."

Bradley Is Careful.

Bradley, sitting in a box just opposite the wire, was a picture of joy holding itself in check. He was under strict orders against excitement.

They put a blanket of black-eyed susans—the Maryland state flower—on Bimelech. And that made it a tri-state affair; the flowers symbolic of Maryland had to be shipped from California and were put on a Kentucky horse.

Michigan State Wins on 7 Runs in Eighth, 7 to 5

Kalamazoo, Mich., May 11 [Special].—Western State suffered its third defeat of the season today when Pitcher Harry Bailey injured a finger in the eighth and Michigan State came from behind with seven runs to win, 7 to 5.

MICHIGAN TRACK TEAM BEATS OHIO; TAKES 11 EVENTS

Columbus, O., May 11 (AP).—Michigan's track team defeated Ohio State university, 78½ to 52½, in a Western conference dual meet today. The Wolverines scored 11 firsts in the 15 event program. George Ostroot and Stan Kelley placed first in two events, Ostroot winning the shotput and discus throw and Kelley the high and low hurdles.

MIOLAND TRAILS FAVORITE HOME BY 3 LENGTHS

45,000 Cheer Bradley Horse to Victory.

BY HOWARD BARRY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Baltimore, Md., May 11.—Bimelech, Edward R. Bradley's dark bay colt which runs with the graceful, swinging stride, won the Golden Jubilee Preakness this afternoon at old Pimlico before 45,000 spectators, the largest crowd in the history of Maryland racing. With his head up and his ears pointed gaily forward, he came galloping down the stretch between the lanes of wildly cheering onlookers who had backed him confidently once again to make him 9 to 10 favorite. Across the finish line he flashed, three lengths ahead of Charles S. Howard's Mioland, who had closed boldly to take second place.

Gallahadion, the Kentucky Derby winner owned by Mrs. Ethel V. Mars of Chicago, was third, a length and a half further back. Then followed Mrs. George D. Widener's Your Chance, Millsdale stable's Andy K., W. L. Brann's Pictor, Mrs. Anthony Pelleteri's Sun Pharos, Harold Clark's Royal Man, and Arnold Hanger's Dit.

Bimelich's time for the mile and three-sixteenths was 1:58 3-5, which is two seconds slower than Seabiscuit's track record.

Bradley Sees It.

Bradley, ill and ageing, had waited last Saturday in the seclusion of Idle Hour farm while far away across the blue grass, Bimelech was failing in the Kentucky Derby—finishing second to Gallahadion. But Bradley stuck with his horse. He was unshaken in his belief that this last son of the great Black Toney is the finest colt he ever owned. Physicians might talk to him of quiet and rest—but he wanted none of it now. Stubbornly this 80 year old man left the tranquility of his Kentucky farm and followed Bimelech all the way to Maryland. Wrapped snugly in a topcoat he sat today near the finish line, looking on at the vindication of this dashing, bold young colt—the gift which fortune sent him in his old age.

Bradley has had other splendid horses. He has had four Derby winners — Behave Yourself, Bubbling Over, Brokers Tip, and Burgoo King —but to him not one of them was a Bimelech. This shrewd, thin, gray haired man does not fit into more than 1 per cent of the sentimental stories told about him—but he really has an abiding affection for the dark bay colt which looks like a picture and runs like a poem.

It Was a Breeze.

And that's just about what the Preakness was today. Under one aspect it was a picture, under another, a poem. There wasn't enough struggle in it to make it a race. Bimelech swinging thru the stretch was a picture that the spectators won't soon forget—and his stride had a certain Homeric rhythm.

Bimelech, leading from start to finish, dominated a race that might well have got out of control of a lesser horse. There were moments when his followers saw danger. But always Bimelech was equal to the situation. On the break, for instance, he came out of the gate side by side with the notorious swerver Andy K. The latter bumped him momentarily —but Bimelech had enough early speed to go into the clear.

Past the stands they galloped for the first time with Bimelech in front, Pictor and Dit battling for second place—and Andy K. close up. As they headed into the clubhouse turn, Jockey Freddy Smith steadied Bimelech with a snug hold and Ralph Neves began stroking Andy K.'s right shoulder with his whip to keep him from going wide.

He Stays in Front.

Going down the back stretch Bimelech's followers saw another threat developing. Gallahadion, moving swiftly along the rail was coming up from sixth position. On the far turn he was second. But still Bimelech

BIMELECH, off in first flight and taken to front at once, drew clear of PICTOR going into backstretch, was shaken up mildly entering stretch and held sway thereafter to win easily. MIOLAND lacked early speed, moved up after half but could not menace winner while kept to pressure. GALLAHADION saved ground to backstretch, came wide for racing room, moved up boldly, and weakened in final drive. YOUR CHANCE lacked early speed and closed ground gradually after a half. PICTOR had good early speed to force pace to first turn and weakened badly after a half. ANDY K., under slight restraint while close up, responded when placed to drive approaching stretch, but ran to outside fence in midstretch and was taken up. SUN PHAROS was always outrun. ROYAL MAN held contending position for a quarter, then stopped. DIT, in thick of contention for half, dropped out of it suddenly.

REDS TAKE LEAD BY WINNING FROM CARDINALS, 12-5

Go Ahead of Dodgers as Latter Lose Again.

St. Louis, Mo., May 11 (AP).—The Cincinnati Reds are back where they left off last year—in first place in the National league. After trailing Brooklyn since the start of the season, the champion Reds went out in front today by defeating the St. Louis Cardinals with a 17 hit attack, 12 to 5, while the Dodgers were losing to Philadelphia, 5 to 4.

Junior Thompson, turned in his fourth victory against one defeat, holding the Cardinals to eight hits and helping his own cause by driving in three runs. He pitched Cincinnati's eleventh complete game.

PHILLIES, 5; DODGERS, 4.

Brooklyn, N. Y., May 11 (AP).—Taking advantage of Kirby Higbe's two hit relief pitching, the Philadelphia Phillies defeated the Brooklyn Dodgers, 5 to 4, for the first Phil victory scored in Ebbetts field since 1938. The defeat, the second straight suffered by the Dodgers, dropped them to second place behind the Cincinnati Reds, who defeated St. Louis today.

The winners scored all their runs in the second inning, knocking Luke Hamlin out of the box. A home run by Chuck Klein started the Phils off in that inning.

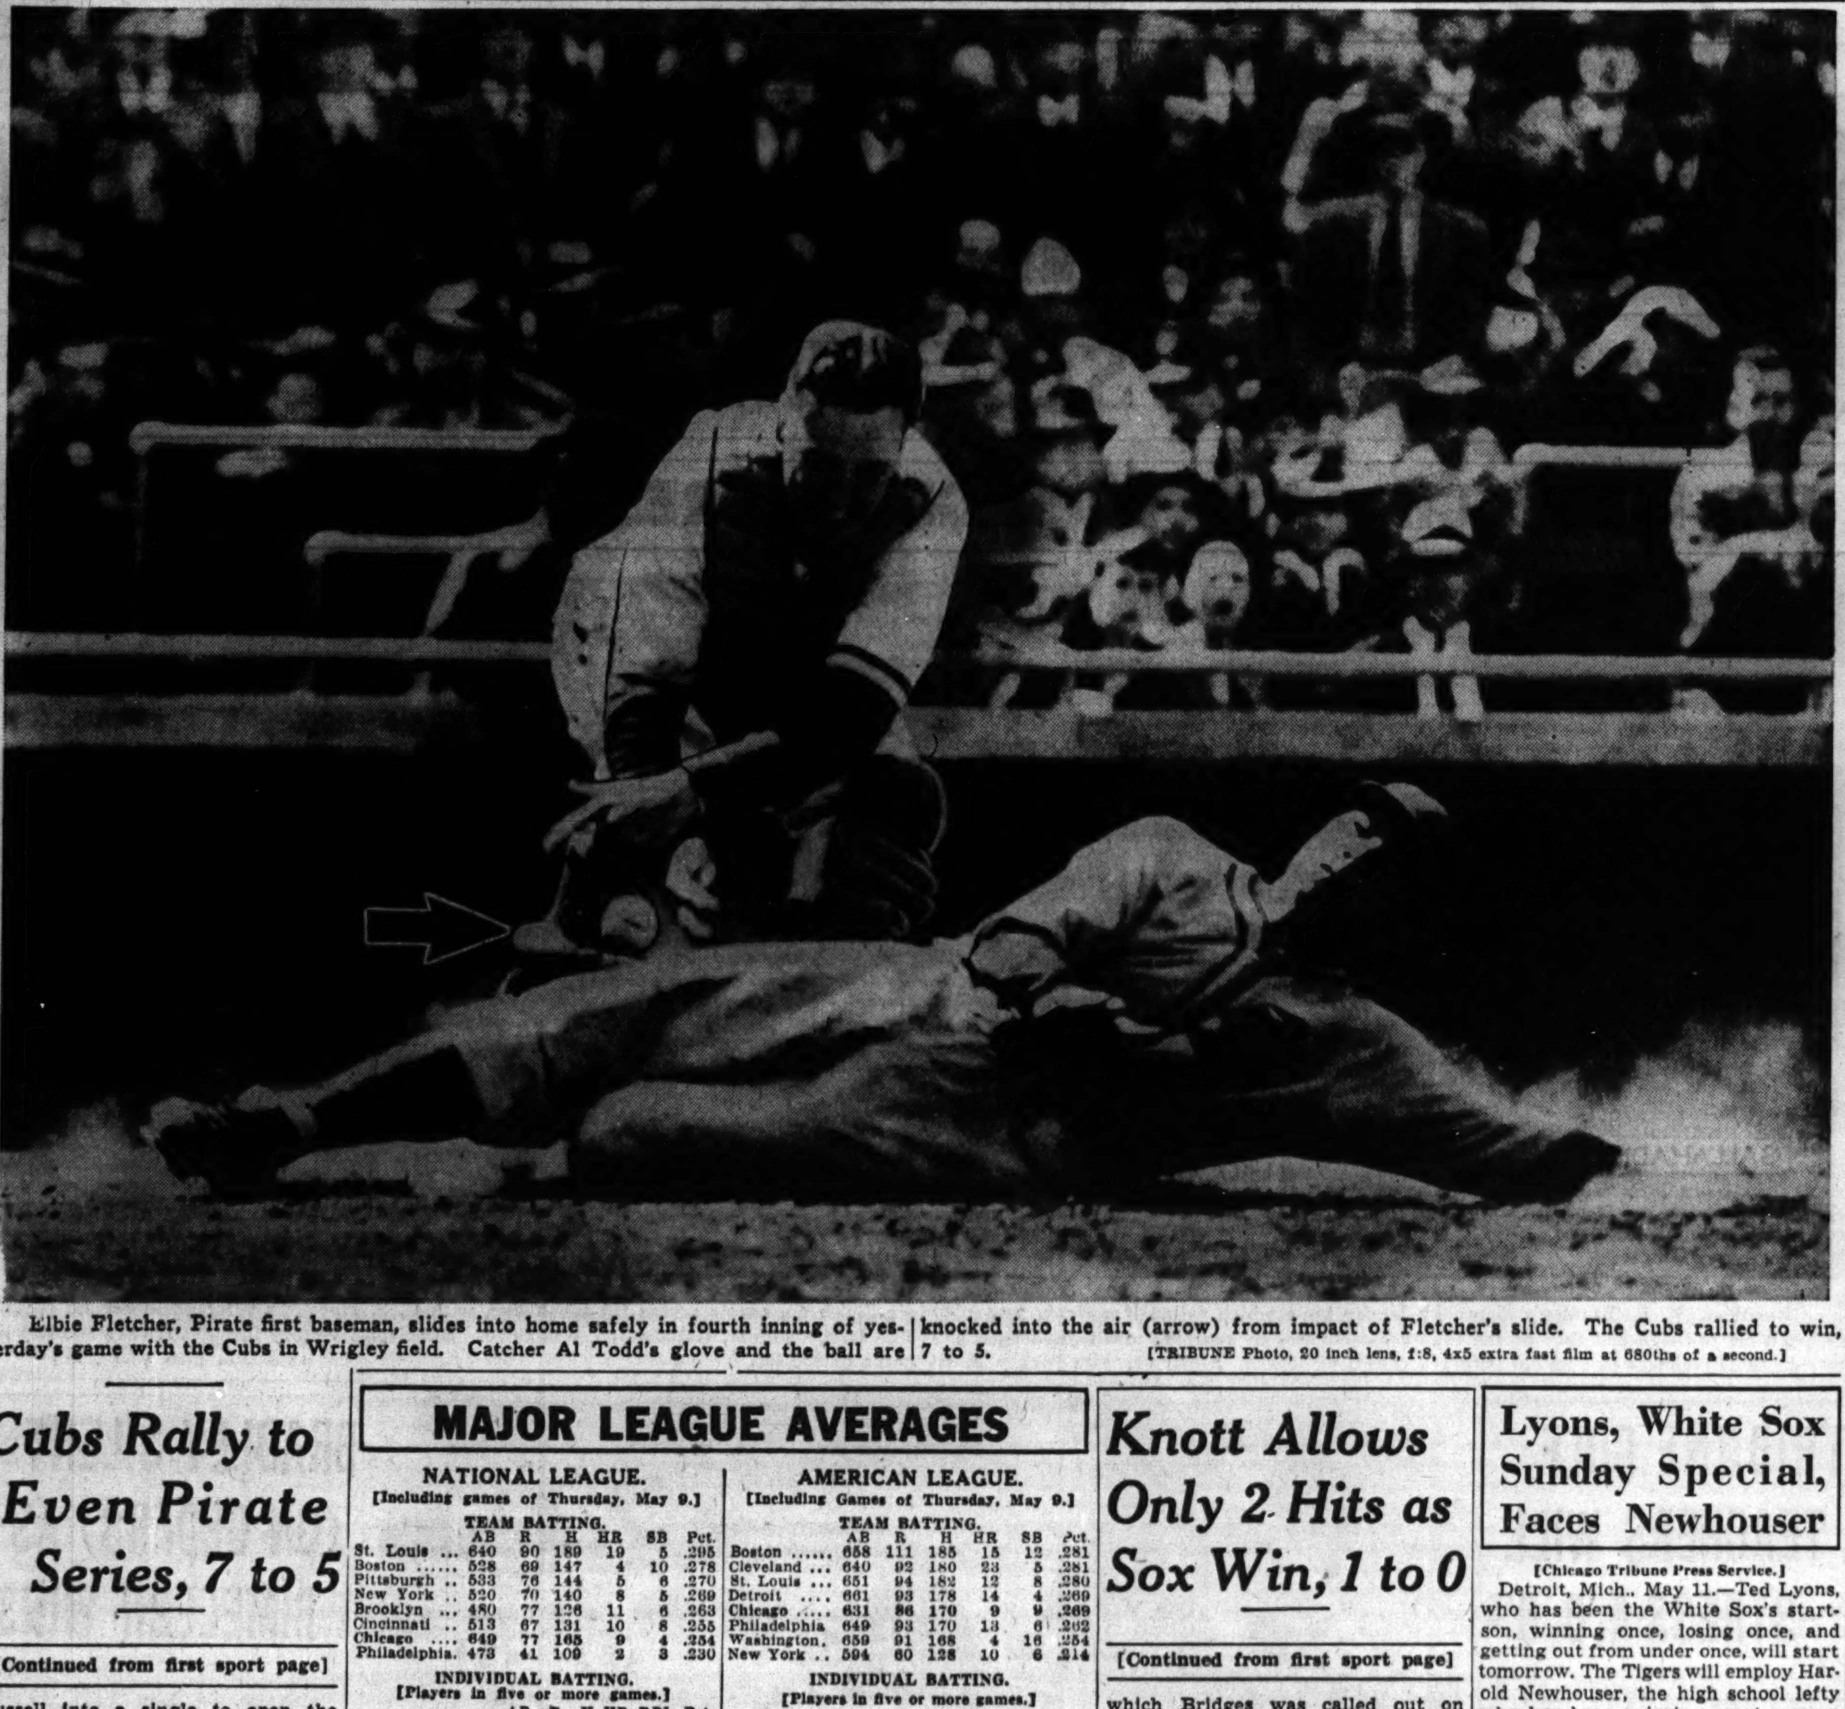
FLETCHER SCORES AND TAKES TODD'S GLOVE WITH HIM



Elbie Fletcher, Pirate first baseman, slides into home safely in fourth inning of yesterday's game with the Cubs in Wrigley field. Catcher Al Todd's glove and the ball are knocked into the air (arrow) from impact of Fletcher's slide. The Cubs rallied to win, 7 to 5.

Cubs Rally to Even Pirate Series, 7 to 5

Russell into a single to open the fourth and Passeau added to his chores by walking Fletcher. Before the inning ended both these gentlemen had skipped across the plate for a 3 to 1 Pirate lead. They advanced on Lee Handley's infield out and Spud Davis was purposely passed. Russell made a snappy stop of Frank Gustine's grounder and tossed to Mattick to force Davis. Passeau dashed over to cover first base for the double play, but he dropped Mattick's throw. Vaughan scored and when Fletcher saw Passeau chasing the ball he, too, dashed for the plate, arriving safely ahead of Passeau's hurried peg.

Passeau's exit in the fifth took place after four of the Pirates had smacked him solidly. Garms singled to left with one out and P. Waner singled to right. After Vaughan's pop to Mattick, Fletcher resumed the attack with a single to right, Garms scoring. Handley singled to center, scoring P. Waner and this was where Passeau vanished. Rescuer Page rounded out the inning by fanning Davis.

Handley Assists Cubs Twice.

Handley's welcome assistance came on Leiber's grounder after two were out in the fifth. Herman was on first at the time, having forced Hack, who had singled. Leiber's grounder slipped thru Handley's hands and went out so far into left field that Herman was able to score, Leiber going to second. He scored on Dallessandro's single and the latter, who took second on the throw in, counted when Russell singled. Then Handley fumbled Todd's tap, but managed to handle Mattick's roller and throw out Todd at second.

Page led off in the sixth with a double and Bowman almost leaped this hurdle by retiring Hack and Herman. Things then began to happen quickly. Gleeson walked and Leiber dropped a single in left, scoring Page with the tying run. After Dallessandro had been purposely passed, Russell whistled a two bagger over third, Gleeson and Leiber scoring. MacFayden came to the rescue and hooked Todd for the long delayed third out.

Diz Dean, who has been knocked flat in three of his four 1940 starts, will work for the Cubs in the final with the Pirates today in Wrigley field. Diz will match his nothing ball against Truett Sewell's fancy assortment. It will be Sewell's first start of the year.

* * *

The Cubs will grab their baggage immediately after the game to board a 6:30 p. m. train for Boston, where they are scheduled to open their first 1940 eastern jaunt Tuesday against the Bees. They'll stop in five National league cities before returning to their home club house.

Before the game started a delegation from the Normal park district handed Frank Gustine, the Chicagoan playing second base for the Pirates, a traveling bag and a small box. The bag was empty, but the box held in excess of $100 donated by Gustine neighbors.

Knott Allows Only 2 Hits as Sox Win, 1 to 0

which Bridges was called out on strikes. Bartell, currently hitting around the .200 mark, was passed. Knott threw three wide ones to Campbell, then braced and Bruce was called out on strikes.

They Walk Each Other.

It was three up and three down for both teams in the fourth and fifth innings. It appeared the routine might be halted when, at the start of the sixth, Bridges gave his first pass to Knott, of all people. Kennedy attempted to sacrifice, but forced Knott and Kuhel hit into a double play.

Not to be outdone by Bridges' generosity, Knott walked Bridges at the start of the home sixth. Bartell attempted to sacrifice and forced Bridges, Kuhel to Luke Appling. Bartell stopped after running half way to second on an attempted steal, and then fell and was run down, Tresh to Appling to Kuhel to Appling. Campbell then lined that no-hit wrecker over second. Gehringer lined to McNair.

Pinky Loses Control.

Knott took care of three tough gents nicely in the seventh. Averill popped to Kuhel, York popped to McNair in short center and Pete Fox flied to Larry Rosenthal.

With one out in the eighth, Tresh sent a grounder to Higgins. Pinky came up with the ball, but threw to York's left. Rudy made a try for the catch after leaving the bag, but cuffed the ball into the Sox dugout, whereupon Tresh was waved to second. Knott struck out on three pitches and Kennedy lined to York.

Bartell stroked Knott's first pitch in the ninth for a single to center, and Metha went to first to run for him. Campbell sacrificed, Knott to McNair. Gehringer bounced to Kuhel, Metha stopping at third. Averill flied to Kreevich.

CONZELMAN GETS COACH'S ROLE IN ST. LOUIS PLAY

St. Louis, Mo., May 11 [Special].—Jimmy Conzelman, coach of the Chicago Cardinals eleven in the National Football league, signed today to play the part of Coach Bill Johnson in the Municipal theater's presentation of "Good News," a college musical production first produced on Broadway 15 years ago.

Conzelman, author, song writer, lecturer, and orchestra leader, who recently resigned as head coach at Washington university here, will begin rehearsals immediately.

"Good News" originally was played by Jack Haley and Dorothy McNulty. The late Knute Rockne wrote the football sequence and locker room scenes and helped in the direction of the original cast.

WRIGHT COLLEGE WINS, 13-0, FROM SPRINGFIELD NINE

Wright City college defeated Springfield Junior college, 13 to 0, yesterday in Spencer Coals field. Gene Neeley pitched four innings, yielding Springfield's only hit. George Davey followed him and struck out five in two innings, and Steve Sakas fanned three in the last inning. Coach Jack Rothacher used all his Wright players. The victory was Wright's fifth.

Lyons, White Sox Sunday Special, Faces Newhouser

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Detroit, Mich., May 11.—Ted Lyons, who has been the White Sox's startson, winning once, losing once, and getting out from under once, will start tomorrow. The Tigers will employ Harold Newhouser, the high school lefty who has been enjoying great success recently.

* * *

The Sox will return to Chicago Monday morning from a five-city trip which opened in Boston on April 30.

* * *

There will be no game Monday, but Tuesday the Sox will make their sixth try for their first home victory of 1940. The league leading Boston Red Sox will be their guests.

* * *

Overcoats were the vogue for Gehringer day in Briggs stadium this afternoon. The sun was bright, but couldn't get hot.

* * *

Julius Solters was in uniform for the first time since he pulled a charley horse in Philadelphia last Tuesday. He did not seem lame, but will keep out of the Sox lineup until Tuesday, according to present plans.

Red Sox Win Again from Yankees, 9-8

New York, May 11 (AP).—The Boston Red Sox pushed over two runs in the 11th inning today to hand the Yankees their 8th straight loss before 25,426. The score was 9 to 8. It was Boston's sixth straight victory and second consecutive extra inning triumph over the 1939 world champions.

Johnny Murphy, fourth Yankee pitcher of the day, was the victim of the belated uprising. Jim Tabor opened with a double, went to third on a sacrifice and scored on Pinch Hitter Leo Nonnenkamp's fly. Lou Finney's double and Doc Cramer's single produced the winning run.

Tommy Henrich's second homer of the game in the last half of the 11th cut the Sox margin to one run, but then Jim Bagby, fourth Boston pitcher to see action, retired the next three batsmen.

Finney's home run with the bases loaded in the fifth started the Sox toward their ultimate victory. The desperate Yankees resorted to two major lineup changes—benching Shortstop Frankie Crosetti and Right Fielder Charley Keller in favor of Bill Knickerbocker, the Yanks' long infield replacement, and Tommy Henrich. Cleveland, O., May 11 (AP).—Rollie Hemsley's single with the bases loaded in the ninth inning gave Cleveland a 1 to 0 victory over the St. Louis Browns today, ending a pitching duel between Emil Bildilli and Johnny Allen. Each yielded but five hits.

Bildilli proved his own undoing in the final frame. He walked Ben Chapman. Hal Trosky bunted and both runners were safe as Bildilli fumbled the ball and fell to his knees. Jeff Heath fanned and Ken Keltner walked to fill the bases. Hemsley's drive then ended the game for the Indians' fourth straight triumph. Score:

ANGLERS SET TO OPEN BIG PUSH ON LAKE TROUT

Fish in Shallow Water as Ice Goes Out.

BY BOB BECKER.

The lake trout fishermen of the central states are due to make their annual spring migration within a few days. May is the month for catching the hard fighting lake trout in northern lakes and the fishermen who are familiar with this sport always pack up their outfits and hurry to the north country as soon as the ice is out.

The habit of the lake trout, which may weigh from 3 to 4 pounds on up to 20 and 30 pounds, in staying in comparatively shallow water after the northern lakes are freed of ice is responsible for the May drive by anglers against this species. When most outdoor fans take their vacation during July and August it's possible to pick up lake trout in many lakes in Canada and even on this side of the border. But the way you fish for them during hot summer weather is at wide variance from the system used in May.

Bores Down Deep.

The lake trout is one of those fish that [in midsummer] bores down deep until he reaches an icebox temperature. He wants very cool water so it's necessary to put heavy sinkers on the line to get a lure down 40, 50, 70, and even 90 feet [in Lake Michigan] to hook a laker during July and August.

In May, however, it's an entirely different type of fishing, and more fun, too. The big lakers are right near the surface. They're hungry and very active in the icy water. They swat a lure as if they meant it—and they take all kinds of casting lures. Some of the boys even have taken them on big flies after the ice went out. We recall that about four years ago Oscar Weber of Stevens Point, Wis., and his party went to the Lake of the Woods, Canada, to give the lakers a whirl on flies. The party was successful, too. The anglers tossed big patterns to the lake trout in shallow water around a rocky reef and caught several beauties. Yes, from the middle of May on for a few weeks is the best time for lake trout fishing. It is then that the boys can keep their lures near the surface, take 'em on light tackle, and not have to scrape the bottom of a lake to connect with fish.

Northwoods Camps Open.

Many northwoods camps already have opened up for this spring migration of trout fishermen. One of the favorite fishing areas is the Lake of the Woods region and the country north and west of there. Anglers hook big specimens in this section every season. One resident of the lake country a little north of the Lake of the Woods writes us that an 18 mile lake recently opened up by a 150 yard portage is quite typical of the lake trout fishing in Ontario. This lake has produced trout up to 28 pounds. We'll settle for 15 or 16 pounders on bass tackle for we have caught 'em that size while using an ordinary bass fishing outfit. The fight we had with those trout will not soon be forgotten.

ORGANIZED BALL WILL RETURN TO MADISON TODAY

Madison, Wis., May 11 [Special].—For the first time in 27 years, Madison will open a home season in organized baseball when the Madison Blues meet the Evansville, Ind., entry in the Three-Eye league on Breese Stevens field tomorrow afternoon.

Since 1913, when the old Wisconsin-Illinois league disbanded, Madison has had representation only in industrial and semipro leagues. Last winter, the Milwaukee Brewers of the American association transferred their Bloomington, Ill., franchise to Madison.

Harold Swanson, a right hander, probably will be the starting pitcher in tomorrow's game, Richard [Red] Smith, manager of the Milwaukee farm system, said. Tom Fairweather, Des Moines, Ia., president of the Three-Eye league, will toss the first ball tomorrow and Mayor James Law of Madison will catch it. Music will be provided by the Madison East High school band.

PURDUE BEATS ILLINOIS

Champaign, Ill., May 11 [Special].—Art Shackleton, Purdue quarter-miler, overcame a 5 yard Illinois lead in the last lap of the mile relay to give the Boilermakers a 67½ to 63½ dual track meet victory over the Illini today. Shackleton passed Burt Downs, the Illini anchor man, early in the final lap and won by a yard.

Three meet records were broken and two were tied, marks falling in the mile relay, shot put, and 440, and being tied in the pole vault and low hurdles.

Ed Holderman, junior distance man, paced the Boilermakers with firsts in the mile and half mile. Holderman defeated Park Brown of Illinois in their heralded battle in the mile by 10 yards. The time was slow, 4:25.1. Don Olsen, who took the low hurdles and scored seconds in the 100 yard dash and high hurdles, was outstanding for Illinois.

STATZ TO PLAY NO. 2,500 FOR THE ANGELS TODAY

Los Angeles, Cal., May 11 (AP).—Arnold [Jigger] Statz, one of the few world war veterans still playing baseball, will appear in his 2,500th game in a Los Angeles uniform tomorrow while his mother, Mrs. John Statz, watches as a Mother's day guest.

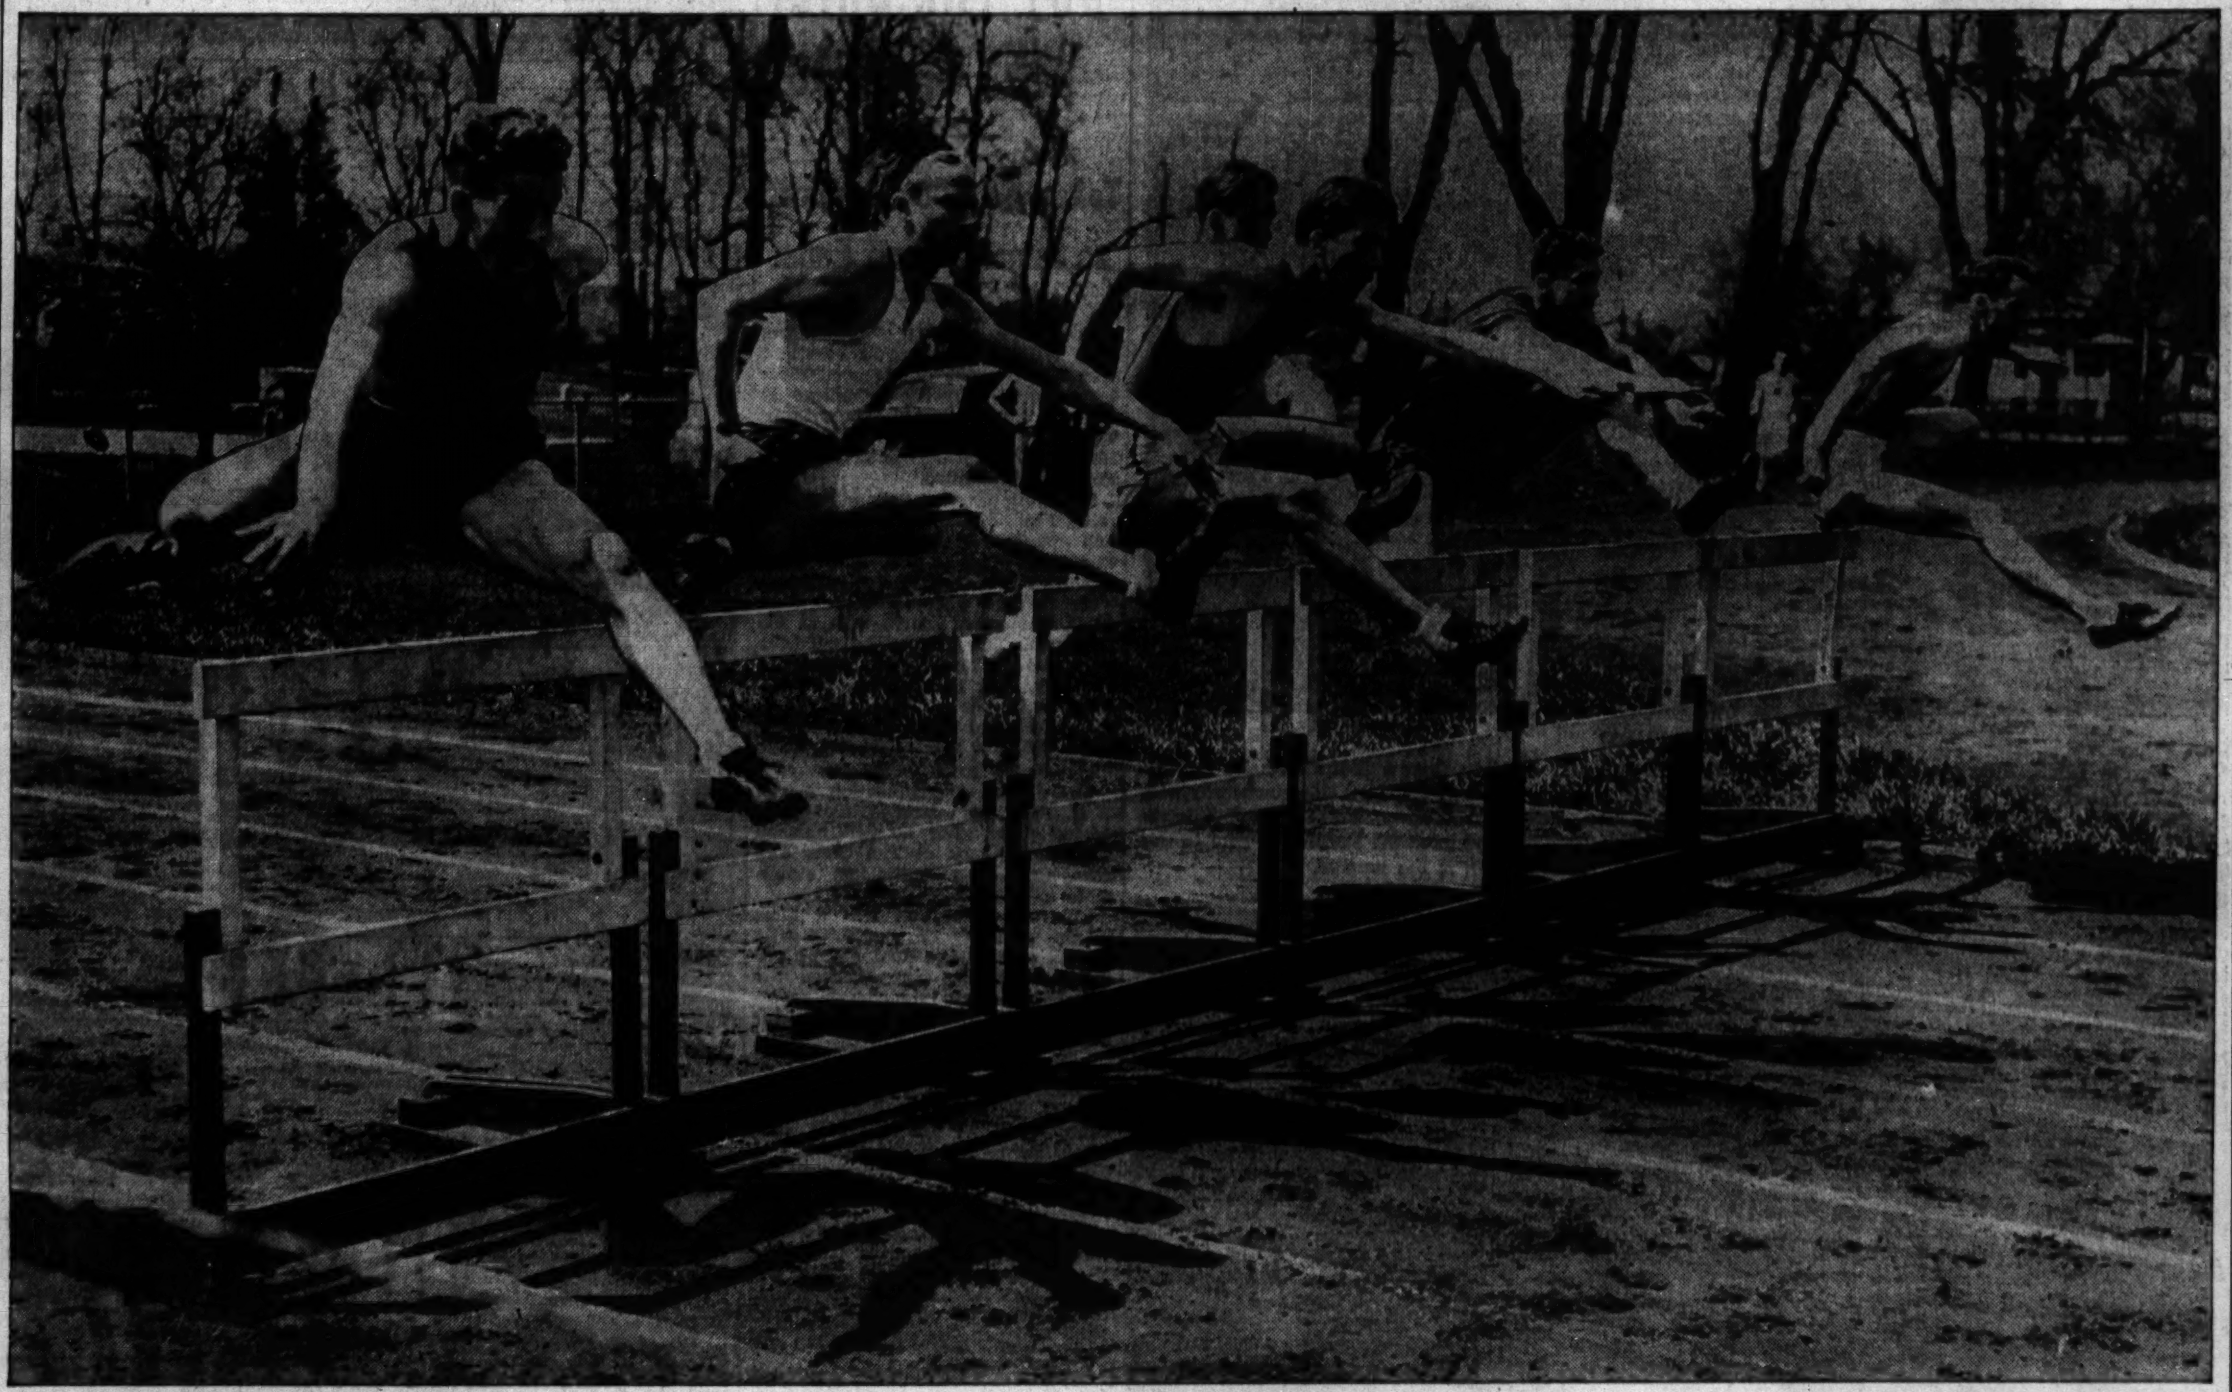
The outfielder, whose batting average in 16 seasons with the Pacific Coast league has dropped below .300 only once, became playing manager of the club this year. His father and mother moved to Los Angeles last year from Worcester, Mass.

A native of Waukegan, Ill., Statz broke into baseball from Fordham university with the New York Giants in 1919. He came here in 1920 after a brief stay with the Boston Americans. He went back to the majors for short stays twice with the Chicago Cubs and Brooklyn Dodgers.

Culver Sports Teams Bat 1.000—Win 5, Lose None

Culver, Ind., May 11 [Special].—Culver Military academy's athletic teams enjoyed a big day at home and on the road today, winning in track, baseball, golf, tennis, and rowing. The baseball team defeated La Porte high, 25 to 5. Pullman Tech of Chicago, in Midwest conference play, was beaten in track, 94½ to 14½, and in golf, 12 to 0. The Cadet tennis team defeated Dowagiac High school, 8 to 7. At Aurora, Ill., the varsity crew swept across the water two lengths ahead of the Aurora Boat club.

OVER THE TOP—AMERICAN STYLE!



Some of the midwest's leading track stars gathered in Elmhurst yesterday for the annual intercollegiate invitational meet. And out of the hurdles came a champion from Indiana, Cuniff of Rose Poly (extreme right). The field for the final (left to right): Richlim, Oshkosh, third; Hartman, Whitewater, sixth; Lancaster, Loyola, second; Stark, North Central, fifth; Rissman, De Kalb, fourth, and Cuniff.

BALTIMORE AND SPARTA SEEK TO SETTLE TITLE

BY OFFSIDE.

Baltimore's title seeking soccer team last week battled the Sparta Falstaffs to a scoreless tie in the first of a two game series for the national soccer championship. The easterners this afternoon will meet the same team, but now under sponsorship of the Ogden Dairies. The contest will be played in Sparta stadium, 21st street and Kostner avenue.

The Chicagoans have altered their lineup for today's game. Manager Rudy Velk yesterday said Billy Fraser and Frank Trimmell will start at the inside forward positions. The Sparta seconds will oppose a picked team from the International league in a preliminary game at 1 o'clock. Mayor Kelly has been invited to attend and is expected to kick off the ball to start the title game at 3 o'clock.

Baltimore Beats Brooklyn.

Baltimore, surprise team of the east, advanced to the final round for the John Dewar trophy, emblematic of American supremacy, by eliminating the St. Mary's Celtics of Brooklyn, 1939 national champions, and Brookhattan of New York. All members of the eastern championship squad are products of Baltimore sandlots.

Among the regular players are Charles Ernst, center forward, who was the leading scorer in the American Soccer league for the last two years, and Thomas Armhein, left full back, who played on the American team in the world tournament in Rome, Italy, in 1936. The fastest member of the squad is Joe Finnerty, playing his first year at outside right. Baltimore will present Gilbert Schuerholz at goal.

Hope to Regain Title.

The Spartas, national champions two years ago, are confident they will regain the title. All members of the squad came thru last Sunday's contest without injury and have practiced daily since their return to the city. The title series is played on a total goal basis. The starting lineups:

SPARTA.		BALTIMORE.
Silovak	G	Schuerholz
Scott	R.B.	Winterling
Mrnka	L.B.	Armhein
Rezak	R.H.	Nixon
Nudera	C.H.	Lubertine

Substitutes — Sparta: Art Waldron and George Hamous. Baltimore— Nelson, Monroe, Bilobran and Knoerlein.

Referee—Phil Fox [New York]. Linesman—Edward Sullivan and Fred Lotz, Chicago.

MORTON PREPS WIN 8TH IN ROW; BEAT NEW TRIER

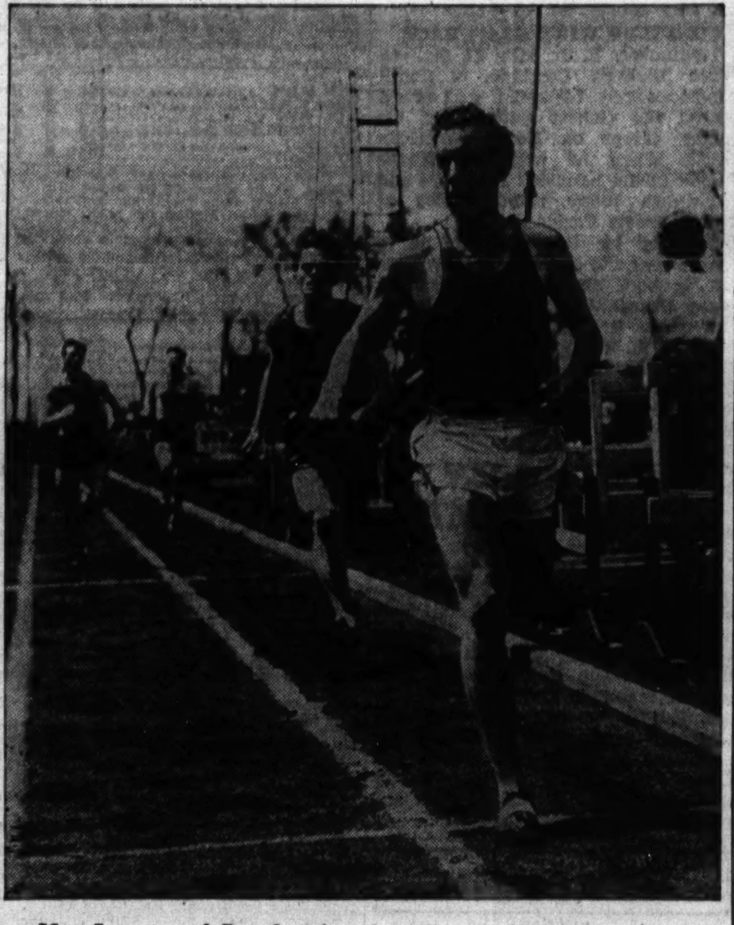
Morton High school's baseball team moved another step toward the Suburban league championship yesterday by defeating New Trier, 8 to 1, for its eighth consecutive victory. The leaders made eight hits, while Pitcher Gene Waszak limited New Trier to five.

Proviso triumphed over Waukegan, 2 to 0, in another league contest in Maywood. It was Proviso's fifth victory in seven games and the Maywood nine now holds second place.

Score:

Waukegan ....000 000 0—0 3 4
Proviso ....110 000 *—2 3 2

Batteries—Sackman and Schultz; Rodenbeitel and Schneider.



Max Lenover of Loyola wins the mile run in 4 minutes and 30 seconds. Lenover, holder of several records, also won the half mile run.

MORE THAN 100 ENTER PETERSEN SINGLES CLASSIC

More than 100 star bowlers from middle western and eastern cities have made reservations for the 24th Petersen singles classic, an individual event, to be held in the Archer-35th recreation May 24-26. The entry list closes Wednesday.

Bowlers who are to compete include the memberships of the Joseph L. Gill, Pabst Blue Ribbon [Classic league], and Wilman Budweiser teams, together with a number of individuals, all from Chicago; Hank Marino, Billy Sixty, and others from Milwaukee; the Stroh team, Detroit; Earl Linsz and Walter Ward, Cleveland; members of the Hermann Undertakers team, national match game champions, of St. Louis, and stars from Elizabeth, N. J., Fort Wayne, Moline, Peoria, and other cities. It is understood that the Ekhardt and Becker team of Detroit whose Frank Zion won the 23d classic, held last January, will enter.

The classic requires entrants to bowl eight games across 16 alleys. The prize list in the last event—which attracted 352 entrants—totaled $8,800 including $3,000 as first money.

CATHOLIC HIGH OF JOLIET WINS GOLF TOURNEY

Catholic high of Joliet yesterday won the Catholic High School league golf championship at the Midwest Golf club, Hinsdale, with a card of 675. Herman Stonitsch, 81—77—158; Eddie Cummings, 80—91—171; Elmer Stonitsch, 83—91—174, and Bill Fitzgerald, 83—89—172, formed the winning combination.

Joe Moore of Mount Carmel was the medalist with 79—77—156.

Other team cards were: Mount Carmel 682; Fenwick, 633; Loyola, defending champion, 720; Leo, 745; St. Rita, 754; St. Philip, 767; St. Ignatius, 776, and St. George, 799.

Freshmen Beat Badger Varsity Eleven, 25 to 7

Madison, Wis., May 11 [Special].—Scoring three of their four touchdowns on long runs after intercepting passes the University of Wisconsin freshmen defeated the varsity, 25 to 7, today in a game that closed spring football practice.

Bob Lachenmaier, Milwaukee, substitute quarter back, scored two freshman touchdowns on intercepted passes, one after a run of 80 yards and the other after a run of 95 yards.

The varsity scored their only touchdown in the fourth quarter after a penalty had given them the ball on the 2 yard line.

MAROON TENNIS TEAM DEFEATS GOPHERS, 6 TO 4

The University of Chicago won its third tennis meet of the season yesterday afternoon, defeating Minnesota, 6 to 4, on the Midway courts. Art Jorgensen shifted from second place to the No. 1 position for the Maroons, lost to Ed von Sein in three sets but later paired with Charles Shostrom to win the feature doubles match from Ed Olsen and Chuck Johnson, 7-5, 8-6, clinching the meet.

BADGERS' TEAM BALANCE BEATS GOPHERS IN TRACK

Madison, Wis., May 11 [Special].—The University of Minnesota track team won nine of the 15 events in a track meet with Wisconsin today, but the Badgers' team balance gave them a 71 to 60 victory.

Four meet records were set, three by the Gophers and one by Wisconsin. Ed Buxton, Wisconsin's Big 9½ champion, set a record of 1:58.3 for the 880 yard run, smashing Charles Fenske's former record of 1:59.1; Irven Lijegren, Minnesota, smashed the two mile mark with a 9:28.5 exhibition; George Irvine, Minnesota, set a :49.5 record in the 440, and George Franck, Minnesota, ran the 220 yard dash in :21.9.

Franck and Bill Benn, both of Minnesota, were the only double winners. Franck won both dashes and Benn captured the two hurdle races.

NOTRE DAME WINS, 79-52

Notre Dame, Ind., May 11 [Special].—Notre Dame won nine events and tied for first in two others to defeat Michigan State, 79 to 52, in track today. The Spartans won four events.

Bob Saggau, junior football star, led the Irish to slams in the 100 yard and 220 yard dashes. Ray Roy, Chicago sophomore, set a meet record of 48.8 seconds for the 440 yard dash, eclipsing by one-tenth second the mark made eight years ago by Alex Wilson of the Irish. Notre Dame slammed the event.

Curtis Hester, Notre Dame senior, upset Roy Fehr of the Spartans, Penn relays champion, in the mile run, setting a meet record of 4 minutes 19.5 seconds. Notre Dame got a fourth slam in the javelin throw, while the Spartans swept the broad jump. Saggau and Dave Reidy, Irish hurdler, tied for individual honors with 10 points apiece.

Northwestern climbed into first place in the Big 9½ baseball race by defeating Iowa, 4 to 3, in 10 innings on Roycemore field in Evanston yesterday. The victory gave the Wildcats a record of six victories and two losses, with four games yet to be played.

George McKinnon, Wildcat shortstop, hit a double in the tenth to score Pitcher Fred Rosch with the winning run. Rosch had singled to start the inning and went to second on Erdlitz's single.

Second Straight Loss for Haub.

Harold Haub, who went the route for the Hawkeyes, was scored with his second loss in two days. He was knocked out in the second inning of Friday's game which Northwestern won, 13 to 5.

The Wildcats bunched four hits in the second inning to take a 2 to 1 lead. They scored again in the fourth when Shinkevich got to third on two errors and was safe at the plate on DeCorrevont's slow grounder to first. The Hawkeyes tied the score in the sixth inning by bunching three of the seven hits they collected off Rosch.

ILLINI TAKE 2D PLACE.

Lafayette, Ind., May 11 [Special].—The heavy hitting University of Illinois baseball team made it two straight over Purdue here today, pounding out 14 hits to defeat the Boilermakers, 9 to 4. It was the seventh victory in 10 conference games for the Illini, who moved into second place in the Big 9½ standings.

Tony Pyrz, shortstop, led the Illinois attack with four singles, while Hoot Evers hit his second home run of the two game series. Score:

Illinois ....212 000 040—9 14 6
Purdue ....300 000 010—4 5 3
Batteries—Grant and Brewer; Higgins, Bailey and Fisher.

MICHIGAN, 5; OHIO, 2.

Ann Arbor, Mich., May 11 [Special].—Michigan's baseball team bunched four of its five hits in one inning today to hand Ohio State its second consecutive defeat and record the Wolverines' fifth Big 9½ victory, 5 to 2.

Lyle Bond, Michigan junior, scattered the five Buckeye safeties and fanned eight as he opposed Gene Dornbrook of Ohio State on the mound. Dornbrook's one bad inning was the fifth when the Wolverines put together hits by George Harms, Mike Sofiak, Forest Evashevski, and Bill Steppon, and a walk issued to Charley Pink to score four times. Michigan collected only one other hit during the game.

Ohio State ....010 000 001—2 5 3
Michigan ....010 040 00*—5 5 1
Batteries—Dornbrook and Morgan; Bond and Harms.

GOPHERS, 1; BADGERS, 0.

Minneapolis, Minn., May 11 (AP).—Bill Anderson hurled the Minnesota baseball team to a 1 to 0 shutout over Wisconsin today and just to make it good, doubled to right field with two out in the ninth inning to win his own game by scoring George Sweeney. The victory was the second for the Gophers over Wisconsin.

INDIANA, 8; CHICAGO, 0.

Bloomington, Ind., May 11 [Special].—Don Hundley of Summittville, Ind., held the University of Chicago baseball team to four hits this afternoon as the Hoosiers won their second straight contest from the Maroons, 8 to 0.

Indiana took the lead in the second inning when Bob Dro walked and later scored on a single by Chet Francis. Dro's smash to center field scored Kossman in the third, and the Hoosiers added four more in the seventh with Harold Hursh, Dro, and Lloyd Whipple crossing the plate on a triple by Bozidar Stoshitch. The latter scored on an error. Hursch accounted for the last run as a result of a Maroon error in the eighth.

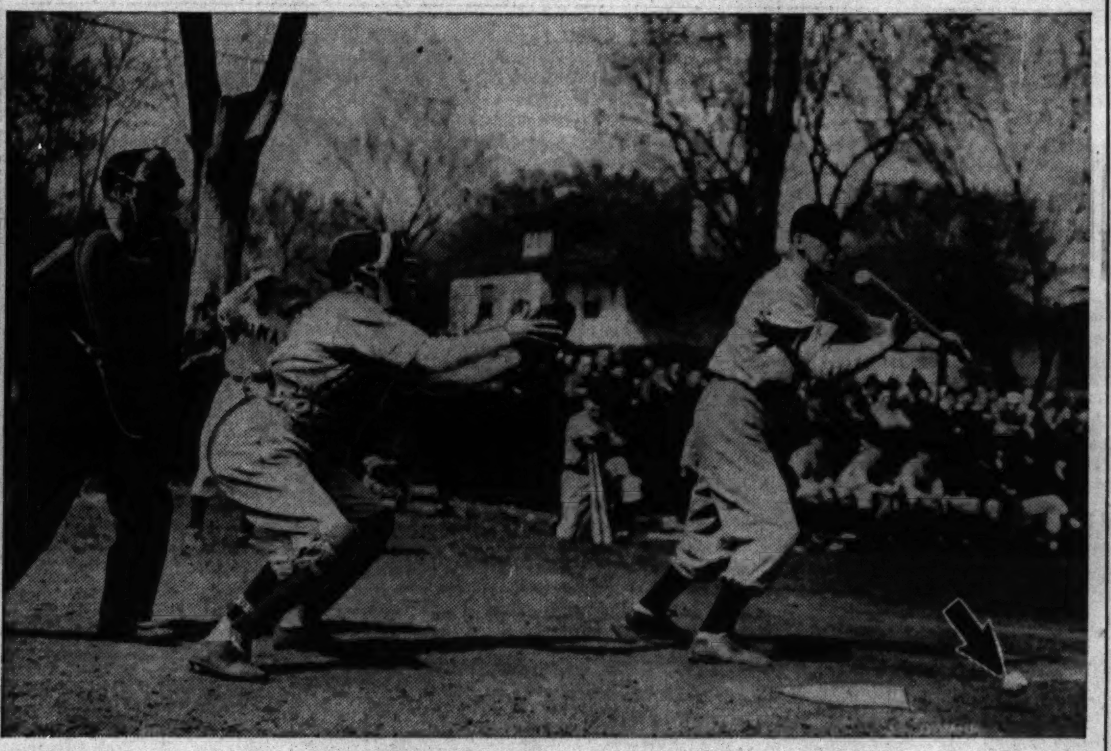
Iowans Hit, But Lose Lead to Northwestern



[TRIBUNE Photos.]

Harold Haub, Iowa pitcher, drops a sacrifice bunt in front of plate (arrow indicates ball) in fifth inning of yesterday's losing game with Northwestern on Roycemore field in Evanston. Northwestern won the game in the 10th, 4 to 3, on a double by George McKinnon, Wildcat shortstop, which scored Pitcher Fred Rosch. It was Northwestern's second straight victory over Iowa and gave the Purple the lead in the Big 9½ race. Ashley Arnold is the Northwestern catcher. Eddie Stack is the umpire.

Erwin Prasse, Iowa football star and second baseman on the baseball team, contributes a single to the Hawkeyes' two run sixth inning which enabled them to tie the score at 3 to 3. (Arrow indicates ball.)

Bookies Pay Off Twice on the Same Race

Chicago bookmakers were rather anxious last night to have a short chat with the crusading gentleman who recently suggested that the gambling evil could be stamped out if sports editors would tip him off on the winners the night before at all tracks and let him break the books. They have an idea he might know something about what happened yesterday.

In the seventh race at Narragansett six horses went to the post with Mrs. Emil Denemark's King Cotton the favorite at $2.40 to $1. King Cotton, the bookies' loud speaker said, was running third at the half, second at the stretch and moving up fast. It was King Cotton easily at the finish with Grand Pageant second and Time Please third.

A Correction—Too Late.

After the customary wait, and strictly on schedule, it was announced that King Cotton had paid $14.40 to win, $5.80 to place, and $4 to show. Betters moved up to the windows and the good citizens who conduct the books began paying off at the announced figures.

Twenty-five minutes later, the loud speakers, operated by whom no one knows, announced that Star of Padula was the winner of the seventh race at Narragansett. Grand Pageant was second and Time Please third. The prices on Star of Padula were the same as those the bookies had been paying out on King Cotton.

Then the Second Payoff.

There was a slight delay in the booking business in Chicago until a check had been made at the track. Then the bookies, informed that King Cotton, off at $2.40 to $1, never had been better than fifth in the six horse field and had finished last, began paying all over again at $14.40, $5.80, and $4 on the official winner.

Bookies were unable to get an explanation from the mysterious sources that supply their loud speaker service and they also got little sympathy and no refunds from horse players who had already collected on King Cotton.

ILLINI ATHLETIC HEAD MARRIES HIS OFFICE AID

Lafayette, Ill., May 11 (AP).—Wendell S. Wilson, director of athletics at the University of Illinois, and Miss Mary Ellen Rennick were married at the home of the bride's parents here today. The Rev. J. W. Malone, pastor of the Presbyterian church at Urbana, performed the ceremony. The bridal couple's attendants were Ruth Rennick, sister of the bride, and Paul Wilson of Rockford, brother of the bridegroom.

Mrs. Wilson, who has been employed in her husband's office at Urbana, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene H. Rennick of Lafayette.

North Central and Lake Forest qualified in the north sectional tennis tournament of the Illinois College conference yesterday on the Merner fieldhouse courts of North Central college. Wheaton failed to qualify for the state tournament in either the singles or the doubles.

Jack Everett of North Central and Bob Nickelson of Lake Forest qualified in the singles. In the doubles Everett and Bob Dexheimer of North Central and Nickelson and Joe Koss of Lake Forest placed.

Stanford Swimmer Sets a World Breast Stroke Mark

Palo Alto, Cal., May 11 (AP).—Roy Vitousek, co-captain of the Stanford university swimming team, did his bit toward dedicating Palo Alto's new municipal pool today by setting a new world record of :31.4 for the 50 meter breast stroke, two-tenths of a second faster than the record set by Paul Frissell of New York in 1936.

Cardinals Send Epps to Rochester; Cut Roster to 26

St. Louis, Mo., May 11 (AP).—St. Louis Cardinals announced today the outright release of Outfielder Harold Epps to Rochester, their International league farm. Epps, 26 years old, batted .287 for Houston in the Texas league last year. The Cardinals now have one more player to cut loose to reach the squad limit of 25.

Bimelech Wins All the Way in Preakness

was out in front running free two lengths in the lead.

They came into the stretch and straightened out. And now it was Mioland who was charging at Bimelech. He was coming with a rush along the rail. But this was Bimelech's day. He came home fleetly, with never a falter in his stride.

Those who had locked with him in the early speed duel shared the fate of so many other horses which had tried to run with Bimelech in his races of the past. Dit, winner of the Wood Memorial, second choice in the betting, finished last. Pictor, winner of the Chesapeake stakes, gave up in the stretch and came in fifth. Andy K, swerving as he tried, got home sixth. And that with the sole exception of the Derby outcome, has been the fate of every horse which has challenged Bimelech in the nine races of his career.

Always the Favorite.

Out of his nine starts, Bimelech has scored eight first places and one second. On every occasion he has been the favorite. Since last August he never has been at even money. Due to his defeat in the Derby, it had been expected that he might be at 7 to 5 or so today, but the crowd refused to lose faith in him. As a result he paid only $3.80 to win, $3.10 to place and $2.60 to show. Mioland returned $6.90 and $4, while Gallahadion's show price was $4.

The net prize to the winner was $53,230 out of a gross purse of $73,365. Ten thousand went to second, $5,000 to third, and $2,000 to fourth. The breeders of the first three horses shared a prize of $2,500.

Mutuels Break Record.

The race was run on a dry track but under threatening skies. Sunshine and mild weather prevailed as the crowd gathered and overflowed into the infield, but as the afternoon advanced the clouds grew heavier.

It was a heavy betting gathering, the mutuel handle totaling $977,522 which was a Pimlico record. The handle on the Preakness alone was $222,088. This was $80,000 more than last year.

Packers to Play Redskins in Milwaukee on Sept. 2

Green Bay, Wis., May 11 (AP).—Coach E. L. [Curly] Lambeau announced today that the Green Bay Packers, National Football league champions, would play the Washington Redskins in an exhibition game in Milwaukee, Sept. 2.

FIGHTING FOX 1ST, BUT THE CHIEF WINS ON A FOUL

Takes $6,200 Handicap as Jamaica Meet Ends.

New York, May 11 (AP).—Fighting Fox, William Woodward's erratic 5 year old, ran one of his good races today in the Excelsior handicap at Jamaica, but it availed him nothing. The purse of $6,200 went to Maxwell Howard's The Chief when Fighting Fox was disqualified.

With Jimmy Stout handling the reins, Fighting Fox finished the mile and sixteenth a length in front of The Chief after setting all the pace, but the veteran jockey and his horse were charged with bearing over on G. D. Cameron's Journey On at the first turn. The action so impeded the progress of The Chief, close up all the way, that the stewards lost no time taking down the numbers of the Woodward colt and his stablemate, Isolator, which finished third.

Sandy Boot Is Second.

The double disqualification moved J. B. Partridge's Sandy Boot up to second place after he had finished six lengths back of The Chief and gave Cameron's Anthology, stablemate of Journey On, third.

The disqualification was a blow to the majority of the 21,386 who turned out for the final day of racing at Jamaica. They backed the Woodward entry into odds-on favoritism. The Chief returned $11.40 for a $2 win mutuel.

INSCOLASSIE WINS OAKS.

Louisville, Ky., May 11 (AP).—Herbert M. Woolf's Inscolassie took an early lead and set her own pace thereafter to defeat six other 3 year old fillies in the 66th running of the Kentucky Oaks at Churchill Downs today.

June Bee, from the Bomar stable, was second four lengths back, and W. C. Hobson's Shine O' Night was third. Jack Keen's War Beauty, generally regarded as second only to Now What in the filly division last year, finished fifth.

Inscolassie's time on the dull track for the mile and one-eighth was 1:54.2-5. By her victory, Inscolassie, full sister of Lawrin, 1938 Kentucky Derby winner, enriched Woolf, Kansas City sportsman, by $4,370.

CONFIADO WINS $12,400 RACE.

Pawtucket, R. I., May 11 (AP).—Isadore Bieber's Confiado, a South American-bred 7-year-old gelding, scored the richest triumph of his racing career on North American tracks when he won the $12,400 Rhode Island handicap at a mile and one-eighth today before 35,000 at Narragansett Park.

Trailing by three-quarters of a length was the Fanfare Farms' Dunade, a neck ahead of the favorite, Many Stings, Leo J. Marks' star of the winter season in Florida. Then came C. H. Trotter's Silent Witness. Confiado's time was 1:52.

The victory netted $8,660 to Owner Bieber. He paid $10.70, $5.50, and $3.30.

CALDER AGAIN HOCKEY CHIEF; MAKE '41 PLANS

New York, May 11 [Special].—Frank Calder of Montreal today was elected president of the National Hockey league for the 24th consecutive year. The league, holding its annual meeting, announced that it planned to continue operating with its usual seven clubs next year despite the war. It also asked the Canadian amateur association to draw up a new working agreement to be submitted next month.

Two dollar mutuels paid: Sky Argo, $14.90 straight, $5.90 place, $4.40 show; Mahdi, $4.50 place, $4.00 show; Bouncealong, $17.00 show.

SKY ARGO got away well in motion following pace closely, moved up and into lead in stretch, tired, but held on gamely. MAHDI broke well in his stride, displayed good speed, saved ground, tired, but gamely came again right at end. BOUNCALONG ran good race. CHALMAC improving. OSCULATE stumbled and boy fell off at the start.

THIRD RACE—Six furlongs. Handicap. Class C. Purse $1,500 added. Three year olds and up. Start good. Won ridden out, place driving. Went to post at 3:25. Off at 3:29. Two dollar mutuels paid: Watch Over, $12.20 straight, $4.80 place, $3.70 show; Dr. Whinny, $3.80 place, $3.20 show; Bogert, $5.70 show.

WATCH OVER, rank at the gate, finally got away flying, was hustled along and held race safe. DR. WHINNY was hard ridden all the way but could not get to the winner. BOGERT, well up and showing good speed, made a game effort. ROMAN HERO on the inside all the way. He is sure to improve. NOROTON could not keep up. CAN'T WAIT is worth noting.

FOURTH RACE—Five furlongs. Purse $2,500 added. Youthful stakes. Two year olds. Start good. Won driving, place same. Went to post at 4:00. Off at 4:01½. Winner ch. c., 2, by Zacaweista-Calente Lady, by My Play. Owner, Millsdale stable. Trainer, B. Parke. Net value to winner, $3,275; second, $500; third, $250; fourth, $125. Time, :59 1-5.

†V. Emanuel-Henry Lissberger entry.

Two dollar mutuels paid: Zacharias, $7.30 straight, $2.60 place; Omission, $2.20 place. No mutuel tickets sold for show.

ZACHARIAS broke fast but was eased back off the early pace. He moved up gamely on outside, caught OMISSION in last sixteenth, and won in last stride. OMISSION showed superior speed for half a mile, then tired but gamely held on. BARRYMORE closed fast and is improving. FLYING LEGION had no mishap. DARK MISCHIEF flash of early speed.

FIFTH RACE—Mile and a sixteenth. Purse, $7,500 added. Handicap. Three year olds and up. Start good. Won driving, place easily. Went to post at 4:40. Off at 4:40½. Winner, ch. h., 5, by Pennant-Transit, by Chicle. Owner, Maxwell Howard. Trainer, Earl Sandeam. Net value to winner, $6,200; second, $1,500; third, $800; fourth, $400. Time, 1:44 1-5.

Two dollar mutuels paid: The Chief, $11.40 straight, $7.30 place, $4.20 show; Sandy Boot, $12.40 place, $4.70 show; Anthology, $3.30 show.

FIGHTING FOX, away fast, assumed command going into the first turn and, perfectly rated along, saved ground all the way and held on gamely. THE CHIEF was rated along all during the early running, moved up in the final three furlongs, and finished fast. ISOLATOR trailed far back for seven furlongs, then moved up fast on the outside. SANDY BOOT made up ground gradually and ran a good race. ANTHOLOGY closed a big gap. JOURNEY ON had speed for five furlongs, then tired. DAY OFF was never a factor. FIGHTING FOX and his stable mate, ISOLATOR, were both disqualified for foul.

SIXTH RACE—One mile and an eighth. Purse $1,200. Claiming prices, $3,000 to $2,500. For 3 year olds and up. Start good. Won easily; place driving. Went to post at 5:25. Off at 5:26. ILLINOIS TAKES NATIONAL A. A. U. GYM MEET TITLE

Pittsburgh Veteran Keeps All-Around Crown.

The University of Illinois, National Collegiate A. A. champion, added another gymnastic title to its list last night, winning the National A. A. U. meet in Bartlett gymnasium with a total of 19½ points, altho Joe Giallombardo, Illini veteran, lost his National A. A. U. individual tumbling championship to George Szypula, Temple university freshman.

Illinois replaced the Swiss turnverein of Union City, N. J., as team champion. The Illini conquest was accomplished chiefly thru the efforts of Paul and Louis Fina, third and sixth, respectively, in the all-around competition, and Giallombardo, second in tumbling.

George Wheeler Repeats.

George Wheeler of the First United Presbyterian Community house of Pittsburgh, Pa., nosed out Arthur Pitt of the Union City Swiss turnverein by two points to win the all-around championship and thus retain his rank as the nation's leading gymnastic performer. He successfully defended individual titles in five events.

Second in the team standings was the Turnverein Germania of Los Angeles, Cal., with 15½ points, Penn State was third with 13, and Ohio State university and the Los Angeles Athletic club tied for fourth with 9 each.

Veteran Retains Title.

Edward A. Hennig, 61 year old Cleveland engineer, competing for the Germania Turnverein Vorwaerts, retained his Indian club swinging championship with a score of 27.6. He is in his 53d year of gymnastics competition. He first entered the top flight in 1904 when he won the Olympic horizontal bar and Indian club titles.

YALE CREW WINS OVER M. I. T. IN LAST 100 YARDS

Derby, Conn., May 11 (AP).—Yale, in a terrific closing spurt, overtook the M. I. T. crew in the final 100 yards to win by three-quarters of a length in the Derby day regatta today. Syracuse trailed the victors by a length.

Yale closed the two mile pull on Housatonic river at a 40 strokes a minute beat. M. I. T. had led up until that point with Syracuse out of contention almost from the start. Yale finished in 10:19 4-5.

Columbia Crew Wins in Childs Cup Regatta

Philadelphia, Pa., May 11 (AP).—Columbia won the Childs cup regatta by two-thirds of a length over Pennsylvania on the wind swept Schuylkill river today. Princeton was third, a length behind Pennsylvania. Columbia's time for the Henley course of a mile and five-sixteenths was 6:28 2-5. Penn's time was 6:31 1-5 and Princeton's 6:34. Columbia also won the freshmen and junior varsity races.

SCHOOLBOY CREW ASSOCIATION AIM OF ENTHUSIAST

C. R. Miner Seeks to Form Central States Group.

BY EDWARD PRELL.

Charles R. Miner.

If, on a bright summer's day before many years have passed, high school crews from a dozen cities, gather on the Lincoln Park Boat club lagoon as competitors in the Central States Rowing association regatta, it will be mainly due to the dynamic energy of Charles R. Miner.

There is no such organization as yet. It exists only in the active mind of the busy young man, who is one one of the leaders of the Lincoln Park Boat club. As such he is taking an important part in the second annual Chicago Interscholastic regatta, which will be held June 9 under the sponsorship of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE and the boat club in coöperation with the Chicago park district.

The competition next month will be between youngsters from five Chicago high schools—Lane Tech, Amundsen, Waller, Schurz, and Lake View. This is one more than was in the field last year. The boat club started its schoolboy rowing program in 1938 by interesting youngsters from Lane Tech and Amundsen. An increase over the present five is assured for next year when it is hoped rowing will be recognized as a major sport in Chicago high schools.

Confident Grays Will be Formed.

Miner and his associates are confident that just before the shells take to the water in the Lincoln park lagoon on June 9 it can be announced that a central states group has been formed. He has called a meeting for Saturday night, June 8, to which the following have been invited to discuss formation of the schoolboy association:

O. W. Fowler, commander, Culver Military academy; Maj. Ralph H. Fletcher of St. John's Military academy; Don T. Anderson, athletic director of Lanphier High school, Springfield, Ill.; Sam E. Woods and Malden Jones of the Springfield, Ill., Rowing club, and Rev. Stanley Yunkers of Springfield, Ill.

Ralph Hunn, coach of the University of Wisconsin crews; W. O. Wolfe, president of the Milwaukee Rowing club; Capt. Thomas E. Lane of the Detroit Boat club, who will represent three high school crews of that city; Hopkins Peffers, commodore of the Aurora, Ill., Boat club; Gladstone C. Hill of the Minnesota Boat Club of St. Paul and the Minneapolis Rowing club; Father John Koeble of Quincy, Ill., academy, and A. M. Sterba, president of the Ottawa, Ill., Rowing club.

Envisions Annual Regatta.

There are high school rowing programs in all of these cities and towns except Milwaukee, Madison, Aurora, and Ottawa. Representatives were invited from these places in the hope they will take the initiative in organizing competition.

Miner envisions an annual central states championship regatta in Chicago between the outstanding high school crews from Detroit, St. Louis, Minneapolis, St. Paul, Milwaukee, Madison, downstate Illinois towns, Delafield, Wis., Culver, St. John's, and Chicago. It is his hope that enough delegates will attend so that the association can be formed, and perhaps inaugurate competition, if only on a modest scale, for 1941. The visitors will be invited to watch the regatta, which will include other events in addition to the schoolboy duels for supremacy and THE TRIBUNE trophies which go to the winners in the senior and junior divisions.

Miner Will Be Referee.

Miner will serve as referee of the regatta. He is no rocking chair oarsman, having joined the Lincoln Park Boat club in 1923. In 1924 he started a streak of three triumphs in the single shell competition in central states regattas. He stroked the club's eight-oared shell to victory in the 1924 regatta, and also, with Bob Bodach, won the two-oared title. He also has won many events in previous water carnivals sponsored by THE TRIBUNE.

He is now a member of the executive committee of the National Association of Amateur Oarsmen and was president of the Central States Amateur Rowing association last year.

This will be a big week for both the junior and senior crews. On Thursday afternoon, the five junior combinations will race to determine a representative to meet Culver's juniors at Culver on May 25. The senior rivals will clash Friday afternoon with the same prize at stake.

Practice races to date have indicated there is little to choose between the five senior crews.

OUTBOARDS RACE FROM ALBANY TO NEW YORK TODAY

Albany, N. Y., May 11 (AP).—The jitterbugs of America's power boat fleet will hold their annual marathon tomorrow with every indication there will be a new record for the hazardous 130 mile Albany-New York race. Their speedy outboard motors tuned for the grueling battle against Hudson river driftwood, sand and mud bars, the contestants will take off from Albany's Yacht club at 6 a. m. [Chicago daylight time], on the crest of a five foot ebb tide.

Leading entries include Clayton Bishop, Onset, Mass., Fire Chief, who finished first last year to become the only man to win the event twice in its 13 year history; Fred Jacoby Jr., North Bergen, N. J., who won once and has compiled the best record over a period of years of any entrant, and Gar Wood Jr., son of America's speed boat king, who has yet to win.

Bruce Herd of Flossmoor, Alex Law of Elmhurst, Chuck Tanis and Bill Brown of Olympia Fields, Chuck Blasgen of Westgate Valley, Willis Foland of North Shore, Walter Keller of Keller's Fairways, Jim Noonan of Burnham Woods, Tommy Meehan of Illinois, Jimmy Meehan of Riverside; Frank Garrity of Acacia, and John Bird of South Shore.

The tournament stars who will give special exhibitions during the four lessons include Tommy Armour of Medinah, Harry Cooper of Northmoor, Dick Metz and Lloyd Mangrum of Oak Park, Johnny Revolta of Evanston, and Jim Foulis of Ruth Lake.

Every man, woman, and child interested in learning the fundamentals of the game, if they are beginners, are invited to attend these four free lessons. Also invited are those who have been playing golf for years, and want a kink or two in their swings ironed out. There is no fee. Merely bring a golf club to that one of the four park courses nearest your home or work, and try and be on hand shortly before 7 o'clock each evening.

INTRODUCE FIELD ARCHERY TODAY IN PARK SHOOT

Park district archers will introduce field archery to Chicago today. Field archery is an outgrowth of hunting-with-the-bow-and-arrow days—the only difference being that small targets will replace live game. Arrows must be shot from different positions and distances at various sized targets. No sights or marks will be permitted on bows or on the ground. All shooting must be instinctive.

The park district archers will compete on the Columbus park golf course. An official course consisting of 28 targets will be laid out. Archery golf will be shot in the morning with archers scoring their shots the same as golfers. The afternoon will be devoted to field archery.

Wolcott Breaks American Mark in High Hurdles

Houston, Tex., May 11 (AP).—Freddie Wolcott ended his southwest conference career today with an American record in the high hurdles.

But his three first places weren't enough to stop the University of Texas team that toppled Rice Institute from the conference throne. Texas scored 62 points, 23 more than Rice.

Southern Methodist had 24; Texas A. and M., 20½; Baylor, 14½; Arkansas, 10, and Texas Christian, 6.

Wolcott's 13.9 second flight over the 120 yard high hurdles bettered the American record of 14 seconds flat he shared with Robert Osgood, formerly of Michigan.

FENSKE WINS IN 4:08.3 FOR NEW MEMPHIS MARK

Memphis, Tenn., May 11 (AP).—Chuck Fenske, former University of Wisconsin distance ace, sprinted into a brilliant finish tonight to win the invitation Crump mile in the Cotton Carnival track meet in 4:08.3 for a new meet record.

Fenske, in bettering the previous mark of 4:11.4, set in 1938 by Archie San Romani of Emporia, Kas., became the first miler to win the event twice. He was first last year.

Blaine Rideout of North Texas State Teachers was second, a few steps ahead of San Romani. William Southworth of Butler was fourth, Gene Venzke of the New York A. C. was fifth, and Mel Trutt, Indiana miler running unattached, sixth.

Indiana university won the 880 yard relay in 1:28.5, five yards ahead of Alabama. Marsh Farmer, the one-armed athlete from Texas Tech, set a new record of :14.3 in the 120 yard high hurdles, and Campbell Kane of Indiana turned in a double victory, setting a new meet record of 4:16.1 in the open mile and winning the half mile 30 minutes later in 1:57.2.

Gene Littler, University of Nebraska, won the 440 yard dash in :47.7 for another meet record.

INDIANA GOLFERS WIN.

Bloomington, Ind., May 11 [Special].—The Indiana university golf team defeated Miami of Oxford, O., 13½ to 4½, today.

Plan Jenkins vs. Armstrong Summer Bout

New York, May 11 (AP).—Lew Jenkins, newly crowned lightweight boxing champion [New York version], his his eyes on Henry Armstrong, the welterweight king, and Promoter Mike Jacobs is going to do his best to please the lanky Sweetwater, Tex., slugger soon.

With six months in which to defend the crown he lifted from Lou Ambers in the third round last night in Madison Square Garden, Jenkins is going after big money and to the ex-blacksmith and his manager, Hymie Caplin, that means Armstrong. They figure to draw close to $250,000 in an outdoor fight this summer.

Ruling May Interfere.

Caplin was clamoring for the bout almost before the referee raised Lew's hand in token of victory last night. Today, Jacobs said he would like to hold the bout around July 17, but that'll probably be ironed out tomorrow at a conference of Jacobs, Caplin, and Eddie Mead, Armstrong's manager.

Then, too, there is the matter of the New York State Athletic commission's ruling that a fighter can't fight for a title out of his division before first giving up his crown. If the commission refuses to rescind that ruling, Jacobs indicated he might suggest a 12 round nontitle fight in one of the New York ball parks or take it to New Jersey with Armstrong's welterweight title at stake.

N. B. A. Supports Angott.

Pete Lello's manager, Izzy Kline, also was around today insisting his young Chicago fighter get a chance at Jenkins' crown. And, he'll probably be the first but not until the Texan has a chance to cash in against Armstrong. Lello knocked out Jenkins in Chicago in March, 1939, before Lew came to New York and started his string of 11 straight victories, the last eight by knockouts.

The main thing that keeps Jenkins from nationwide recognition as king of the 135-pounders is that the National Boxing association recognizes Sammy Angott, who whipped Davey Day on Derby eve after the N. B. A. had dethroned Ambers for failure to meet Day.

European Middleweight Champion Injured on Front

PARIS, May 11 [U. P.].—The European middleweight boxing champion, Edouard Tenet of France has been severely injured on the western front and will never fight again. Tenet, on a volunteer night patrol, hurled himself into a shell hole to escape machine gun fire and suffered a broken collar bone and severed a nerve in his arm. Physicians say Tenet's right arm will remain partially paralyzed.

High Fever Grips Kayak II.; Owner Fears Pneumonia

Baltimore, Md., May 11 (AP).—Charles S. Howard's Kayak II., winner of the Santa Anita handicap last year, came down with a heavy cold and high fever today in his stable here. The South American thorobred had a temperature of 105 degrees, Howard said, and fears were expressed that he had pneumonia.

Howard said the illness would definitely keep him from the Suburban handicap at Belmont May 30, and that if and when he recovers his next start probably would be at the Hollywood track in California.

De La Torre, Highland Park Win Prep Golf

Peoria, Ill., May 11 [Special].—Manuel de la Torre followed yesterday's brilliant 71 with a 76 today to win the individual title and lead the Highland Park High school golf team to its second successive state crown. The team turned in a 36 hole total of 652, a 22 shot margin over Galesburg, the runner-up.

De la Torre, runner-up of the 1939 tournament, won the individual crown with 71—76—147, seven strokes better than the score posted by Mike Stolarik of Waukegan, who took 77—78—155. Herb Chambers of Highland Park had 79—79—158 for third place.

Galesburg High, only six strokes behind after Friday's round, fell off 16 strokes in the second round. Peoria Central, 14 strokes out Friday, lost another stroke today. Urbana finished fourth, 26 strokes back of the winner.

The championship team was composed of De la Torre, Chambers, David Hornberger, who had 89—82—171, and Mill Wallak, who took 89—87—176.

GOPHER GOLFERS ARE UPSET, 17-10, BY NOTRE DAME

Notre Dame, Ind., May 11 [Special].—Notre Dame upset Minnesota, 17 to 10, in golf today, giving the Gophers their first defeat in 12 starts.

Notre Dame heralded its victory by winning the best ball matches, 7 to 2, this morning. It had a 10 to 8 edge in singles this afternoon when Phil Donohue, Sioux City, Ia., senior, won three points from Spero Daltas, Gopher sophomore and medalist in last year's Minnesota State Amateur tournament. Donohue shot a 72, one over par. Judd Ringer, Gopher football player and swimming captain, also got a 72 to defeat Milo Wolf of Notre Dame, 2½ to ½. It was Notre Dame's third victory.

FIND SITUATION IN USED CARS IS SATISFACTORY

Report Declares Outlook for Future Is Fair.

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

The used car situation at present is satisfactory and the outlook for the future is fair, the National Used Car Market Report of Chicago said yesterday. It based its opinion on reports from about 10,000 automobile dealers in each of the 48 states.

The used car situation always is watched closely by the entire automobile industry, including manufacturers, because when dealers take in more used cars in trade for new cars than they can sell difficulties arise.

Discusses Used Car Situation.

G. A. Leukhart, general manager of the market reporting agency, said that the used car situation in the various sections of the country is as follows:

"Eastern area: 73.1 per cent of the dealers find used car market conditions good or average; 7.7 per cent excellent, and only 19.2 unfavorable. In this area 46.2 per cent of the dealers report used car stocks as average and 53.8 per cent as ample to large. As for the future used car market, 53.6 per cent sees no change in sight; 42.3 per cent forecast improvement, and only 4.1 per cent declare the outlook is unfavorable.

"Southern states: 84:6 per cent find the situation good or average; 8.1 per cent excellent, and 7.3 per cent unfavorable. In 46.1 per cent of the cases they report average stocks in their localities, and in 53.9 per cent of the cases, ample to large. The future markets appear as unchanged to 72.7 per cent, brighter to 11.1 per cent and unfavorable to 16.2 per cent.

North Central Survey.

"North central states: 77.6 per cent find the situation good or average; 10.3 per cent excellent, and 12.1 per cent unfavorable. As for used car stocks, 52.5 per cent of the dealers find them average for the season and 47.5 per cent ample to large. Fifty per cent see no change in the future, 41.1 per cent forecast improvement and 8.9 per cent view the future as unfavorable.

"Western area: 69.5 per cent of the dealers report a good or average market, 7.4 per cent an excellent market and 23.1 per cent consider present conditions unfavorable. Dealers find stocks low to average in 53.8 per cent of the cases, and ample to large in 46.2 per cent of the instances. The judgment of 56.4 per cent of the dealers is that future prospects will undergo no change, 33.3 per cent look for improvement and 10.3 expect an unfavorable situation."

Leukhart said that the survey conducted among the dealers included large, medium and small sized organizations.

Favorable Responses Lead.

"The favorable responses far exceeded the unfavorable," he added. "This is true in each area and it shows the dealer body as a whole to be optimistic regarding used car sales, inventories and prospects in the face of heavy sales of new automobiles this year. Present stocks of used cars as reported are only slightly higher by comparison than at this time last year, and a month ago."

Meanwhile production at the great factories thruout the nation have been continuing at close to the 100,000 level as sales continue high. The industry is now looking for the greatest travel year in the history of America as the war in Europe keeps Americans off that continent. In the first four months of this year the industry turned out about 1,750,000 cars and trucks and it is expected that at least 400,000 more will be produced this month.

Costs Dealer $1 a Day.

In most cases the sale of a new car means that a dealer will have to take over a used car. It has been estimated that it costs the dealer $1 a day for each used car he retains in his stock, hence the heavy drives by dealers to get rid of their stocks.

Dealers have been stressing the bargains in used cars that are now available to the public. The 1939, 1938, and 1937 models that are now being offered at prices far below the original prices are giving the public a travel luxury that was not available in the models of five years back. Many purchasers of used cars regularly purchase models a year or two behind the current models just as many new car buyers trade their cars in every year or two.

ROAD BUILDERS FIGHT FEDERAL ENCROACHMENTS

BY HAL FOUST.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 11.—The American Road Builders association, representing private enterprise in this country's two billion dollar a year highway industry, this week condemned governmental encroachments upon this enterprise. The board of directors of the association adopted a series of resolutions that, considered as a whole, are aimed at curbing political corruption and extravagance in expenditures of road funds.

One resolution charged that the Works Progress administration, if continued in its present form, threatens a "collapse of the private construction industry." Congress is asked in any future road building relief programs to provide for contracts to be awarded under competitive bids. The association believes that the pay rolls of private industry should be increased by these work relief jobs rather than increasing the public pay rolls.

Hire Thru Patronage Bosses.

A similar objective was written into a resolution favoring the contract system in preference to the day labor system in projects other than relief work. Under the day labor system, state highway departments hire crews thru patronage bosses rather than by awarding jobs to contractors on competitive bids.

The association, headed by Hal G. Sours, chief engineer of the Ohio highway department, resolved that the wages and hours law is working a hardship upon employers and employés in road construction, a seasonal activity subject to daily weather conditions. The industry asks an amendment to this law to permit an employé to make up in one week hours lost in another week.

Urges Surveys Continue.

Another resolution urges a continuation of economic planning surveys being conducted in most states, including Illinois, under supervision of the United States bureau of public roads. In Illinois, the highway administration has not made full use of the information obtained by this survey, but the study if properly used is designed to halt building of new roads for political rather than traffic needs.

VOICE OF TRAFFIC

STANDARDIZED BIKE COLORS.

Livermore, Cal., May 8.—Statistics show that more than 700 persons—mostly children—lost their lives in bicycle accidents in this country last year. To help prevent such accidents, why not have the framework of all bicycles painted or enameled white, or else chromium or nickelplated? This would make the bicycle clearly visible at night, even in a dim light, and this is especially necessary at intersections, where a dark colored bicycle, even when equipped with both front and rear lights, as required by law, is hard to see.

Another way would be to have red lights or mirrors on both the right and left sides of the bicycle as well as one in the rear. I believe there would be a marked decrease in both bicycle and automobile accidents if local or state laws required all such vehicles to be either white or plated or else to have these lateral red lights or mirrors. To introduce the idea, why not have a federal law requiring all bicycles or bicycle frames shipped in interstate commerce to be white or nearly white [say, cream colored or aluminum painted for variety] or else entirely plated?

ELMER G. STILL.

IN DEFENSE OF MOPING.

Chicago, May 6.—I think thousands of motorists will resent the implications indulged in by your Hal Faust in his story, "Mopers Return to Highways," printed last Sunday.

I enjoy sitting at the wheel of a motor car and driving at a moderate speed of say, 30 miles per hour, that I may enjoy a wider perspective than the spot on the highway a few feet ahead of the cap on the radiator. I feel that I am within my rights to amble along the main highways, too, despite the fact that I do not proceed at the speed of a tom cat shot in the stern.

My gas tax money builds many yards of highway. The man in a hurry may slip past me if he wills to do so. That my car is always under control, which is more than can be said of 75 per cent of those at large on the highways, is evidenced by the fact I have driven since the motor car came into vogue with just one mark against me. In that case I slipped forward in the snow and a mud guard broke the glass in the tail-light of a car ahead, whose driver stopped suddenly without signaling.

If any motorist comes to grief because he grows impatient with my "moping," he cannot pass the buck to me and get away with it. Let him flow with traffic until such time as he can pass with safety, then no one will suffer injury.

TIMOTHY TARLEFF.

BOOSTS BILLBOARD DRIVE.

Chicago, May 3.—Permit me to give you a boost on your billboard campaign. Regardless of what the women's clubs do, you have great power to relieve a bad situation thru your column. You are doing motorists a great service. Some day the advertisers themselves will realize that they stand to gain by intelligent regulation. MALCOLM MILLARD.

O. H. Baehler, wholesale manager for Butler Motors, Inc., reports that retail deliveries of new Hudson cars in the Chicago area for April were more than twice those of April, 1939. The total was the largest for any April in 10 years. He says that Hudson's safety features are being given the credit for the sharp upturn. Safety features include a dual braking system, with a mechanical brake on hand to function should the hydraulic brakes fail.

Ed Hedner, national director of service for Chevrolet, says that 9,000 Chevrolet dealers from coast to coast are ready to service Chevrolet owners during the coming tourist travel season which it is predicted will be the largest on record. The Automobile Manufacturers' association recently estimated that nearly 60,000,000 Americans will take to the highways at some time during the summer months.

H. T. Hollingshead, president of Nash Sales, Inc., Nash distributor for the Chicago territory, is holding a special showing this week of the Nash "sleeper" for sportsmen and other motorists who plan to make their automobiles their home during their vacations. Hollingshead said that the rear compartment of every Nash sedan can be converted into a six foot double bed in less than five minutes

BRITISH LAUNCH NEW SEARCH FOR FOREIGN STOCKS

Order Is Directed Toward American Holdings.

BY JOSEPH CERUTTI.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 11.—The British treasury armed itself this week with a new weapon to hunt out and requisition British holdings of foreign stocks, gold, and currencies.

An order in council was issued, directed particularly toward American stocks called up by the government to strengthen its dollar resources, giving the treasury wide powers to inspect the books, accounts and other documents and making the evasion of wartime financial regulations a more difficult and hazardous enterprise.

Power to inspect books already existed but, while the treasury before was only empowered to act on specific information, it will now be permitted to carry out a general search "for the purpose of securing compliance with or detecting the evasion of regulations."

May Now Get Bank Data.

This means the treasury will be able to call on banks and stock brokers to disclose their clients' holdings of requisitioned stocks.

Commenting on the treasury order, financial writers state that recent developments indicate substantial British holdings of dollar stocks have not yet been registered with the Bank of England in accordance with the government ruling.

So far two requisitioning orders have been issued by the treasury, both for American stocks. The first order, made Feb. 17, covered 60 stock issues. The second, issued April 13, involved a bigger group, 117 securities, including bonds.

The next mobilization order is scheduled toward the end of this month, market sources reveal. Advance forecasts indicate it will again be directed toward British owned American issues.

Affects 200 Issues.

The call is expected to affect 200 stocks valued at 120 million pounds [about $379,000,000], compared with the 100 million pounds [about $316,000,000] estimated to have been absorbed in the two previous mobilizations.

Apart from the drive to get all available dollar holdings and to block loopholes in the financial regulations, the behavior of the markets and the drop in the unemployment total to below the million mark for the first time in 20 years provided further evidence this week that the British government will soon need fresh money to feed its expanding war machine.

POWER AND LIGHT.

The electric power and light industry is beginning to recover from the dislocations of the depression. The most convincing sign of the industry's renewed growth is the indication that it will spend about $644,000,000 on new construction this year.

Last year the industry spent about $462,000,000 on additional facilities. Annual outlay for new construction since 1933 has averaged about $285,000,000 compared with $740,000,000 in the years from 1921 thru 1930. The peak in new construction was $920,000,000 in 1930.

Altho the growth rate is slower, the fact that many electric companies are installing new turbines and extending transmission facilities indicates that the industry has emerged from some of its difficulties.

The financially strong electric utilities weathered the depression without serious strain and were able to reduce fixed interest charges on their debt by taking advantage of the low money rates in refunding operations. Corporate structures were simplified by dissolutions, sales or mergers.

The less sturdy of the holding companies collapsed in the decline of property values and earnings. In the last few years, however, many of the bankrupt systems have been thru reorganization in the federal courts and are now restored to sounder operations.

The rise in industrial activity, which touched a new high mark late in 1939, gave the power and light industry the impetus for renewed growth. Power production last year reached a peak of 125,622,000,000 kilowatt hours, against 112,451,000,000 in 1938 and 90,277,000,000 in 1929.

As a result, combined net income of the industry rose more than 10 per cent in 1939 to about $507,000,000, compared with $459,000,000 in 1938, but was 15 per cent below the $597,000,000 in 1929.

Altho rates have tended downward and taxes and other costs upward, the industry has offset this by promoting larger household consumption and increased application of electricity in manufacturing processes. Continued growth of the industry will depend mainly on general business, but individual companies will be affected also by federal regulation and competition and other factors.

(A list of principal electric companies and reports on individual firms will be mailed to inquirers upon request.)

BUSINESS TURNS IN ITS SHARPEST GAINS OF YEAR

Upward Procession Lead by Steel.

BY LELAND FORRESTER.

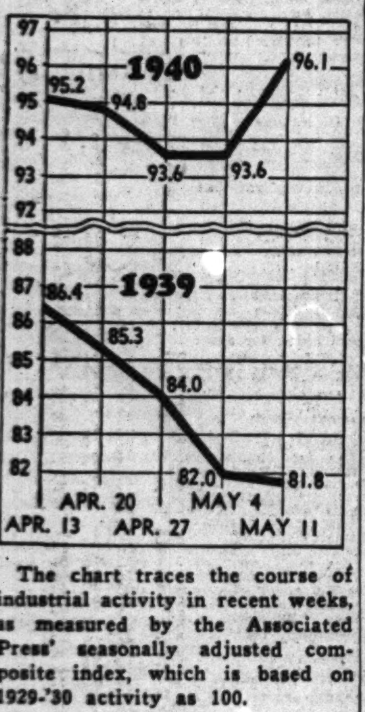
Business in the United States improved last week, making the largest gain recorded for any week so far in 1940.

The steel industry led the way with a boost in production schedules to an average of 65.8 per cent of capacity, from 61.8 per cent in the preceding week. Residential construction, quickening suddenly, breezed along at a brisker pace than seasonal patterns called for.

Cotton factories stepped up production. Latest figures indicated an upward trend in railroad freight car loadings. Wholesale trade, according to Dun & Bradstreet, was just a little better than in the preceding week.

Buy for Mother's Day.

America's sons and daughters, having Mother's day in mind, stopped at gift counters and bought handbags, cotton coat and dress ensembles, slips, hosiery, handkerchiefs, and other items in sufficient volume to give retail trade a lift. Some branches of retail trade remained sluggish, however.



The chart traces the course of industrial activity in recent weeks, as measured by the Associated Press' seasonally adjusted composite index, which is based on 1929-'30 activity as 100.

Vigor was maintained in the automobile industry, which made a better than seasonal showing in production by turning out 98,480 cars and trucks, only 825 less than in the preceding week. In the corresponding week last year output was 72,375 units.

Electric power production followed the same trend as auto output, declining slightly but making a better than expected showing on a seasonal basis.

Engineering Awards Sag.

Private engineering construction slackened, and bank clearings were in smaller volume than in the preceding week. Commercial loans by banks held steady in Chicago, but dwindled in New York.

The week's corporation news was mostly of the kind to please stockholders. Sears, Roebuck & Co., Montgomery Ward & Co., the Walgreen company, Douglas Aircraft company, and some other corporations reported record sales for recent periods. General Motors corporation announced its April sales were the largest for any month since April, 1937.

Meantime, business men had new problems to consider as a result of the spread of the war to Holland and Belgium.

Sums Up Outlook.

Here is the way the Associated Press summed up the domestic outlook in its relation to the European conflict:

"If the fighting on a wider front becomes intense, heavier [empire] orders for airplanes, steel, machine tools and munitions, and later possibly foodstuffs, may be in store. If, however, the German blitzkriegs continue to meet with success, intense [empire] buying in American markets might be checked, but heavier American rearmament might then result."

The department of agriculture extended the export subsidy plan to corn in an effort to cut the surplus by increasing foreign sales. Great Britain bought 20,000,000 bushels of the grain under the new program.

Heifer Merits Mention.

An Ayrshire heifer won mention in the news for commanding $875 at a Massachusetts auction. The price was the highest for an Ayrshire paid in the United States in two years.

Following is the weekly index of industrial activity compiled by the Associated Press, which is based on 1929-'30 levels as 100:

	Latest week.	Prev. week.	Year ago.
Composite index	96.1	93.6	81.8
Automobile production	87.6	86.0	56.6
Steel mill activity	88.3	83.0	63.1
Cotton mfg activity	115.0	112.3	109.7
Electric power production	122.1	121.4	113.0
Residential building	84.5	80.1	88.3
Total carloadings	70.5	68.6	59.6

United Gas Improvement's SEC Hearing Set for May 20

Washington, D. C., May 11 (AP).—The securities commission has postponed from May 13 to May 20 a hearing on integration proceedings against United Gas Improvement company. The commission has not yet ruled on a question raised by the company as to whether the SEC had followed proper procedure when it instituted integration proceedings against the company two months ago. The question was argued before the commission about two weeks ago.

A. T. & T.'s Net Profits Higher During March

American Telephone and Telegraph company, largest utility system in the world, yesterday reported to the Federal Communications commission that March net income, including accrued dividends from subsidiary companies for the preceding two months, totaled $44,254,954 against $38,711,424 in March, 1939. Net income for the three months ended March 31 totaled $46,076,476, compared with $39,724,362 in the first quarter of 1939.

Dividends received by the parent company from its subsidiaries make up the major part of its income. These dividends are not reported as part of the regular monthly income, but the accrued amounts are lumped together in the March, June, September, and December reports. This explains why the March figure so closely approaches the total for the three months.

Cherry-Burrell Gains.

Cherry-Burrell corporation, manufacturer of machinery for processing and handling dairy products, reported at its Chicago office that net income for the six months ended April 30 was $236,244, against $205,435 in the similar period a year ago.

Sterling Products, Inc., manufacturers of medicines and pharmaceutical supplies, reported that first quarter net income was $3,270,469, equal to $1.87 a share, against $2,927,884, or $1.71 a share, in the March quarter last year.

Briggs Manufacturing company, Detroit, automobile body maker, had first quarter net profit of $2,395,202, or $1.21 a share on the capital stock, compared with $958,046, or 48 cents a share, in the 1939 quarter.

Day's Earnings Report.

2 NEW FRENCH DECREES AIMED TO FIX PRICES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, May 11.—To keep prices stable and prevent profiteering remains one of the chief concerns of the French government. During the last week two decree laws dealing with the subject were published in the Journal Officiel, government organ.

One of the decrees required every French business man, whether a retailer or wholesaler, to compile a list of the prices effective in his establishment on May 1. During the next three months it will be illegal to increase these prices. The price list is intended to aid the authorities in ascertaining if the law is being obeyed. Violators may be fined and imprisoned and have their places of business closed.

The other decree dealt with the increase in freight rates upon food products imported from French colonies or from foreign countries. Fearing that these increases might dislocate food prices, the government has decided to assume their payment. A decree law is now being prepared which will enumerate the products which will benefit from this preferred treatment.

Business Bits

Ephraim Rigg, general freight agent of the Rock Island lines, has been appointed a member of the standing rate committee of the Western Trunk line committee, effective May 16, when he will sever his connections with the Rock Island, J. C. Farmer, chairman of the committee, announced yesterday. The Western Trunk Line committee is a railroad organization which passes on freight rates affecting the western roads. The road also announced the appointment of Howard Brooks as executive general agent with headquarters at Fort Worth, Tex.

Ephraim Rigg.

T. J. Curtin, district passenger representative of the Baltimore and Ohio and the Alton railroad companies, will retire this month after 49½ years of service.

Gov. Harold E. Stassen of Minnesota will speak on "The Trends in Government Relating to Private Enterprise" at the 52d dinner meeting of the Economic Club of Chicago in the Palmer House on May 24.

E. A. Trapp of the General Electric X-Ray corporation, has been elected president of the Chicago chapter of the National Association of Cost Accountants. D. L. Schroeder of Bauer & Black and L. C. Bolinger, Ideal Roller and Manufacturing company, were named vice presidents; P. E. Kuntz, Kellogg Switchboard and Supply company, treasurer, and J. W. Milnamow of the same firm, secretary.

Steel Industry Production to Expand Again

Activity in the steel industry is expanding again, it was disclosed yesterday in announcements that the big mills in the Chicago area will start operating Monday at 69.7 per cent of theoretical capacity. In Pittsburgh they will operate at 64 per cent. Chicago's gain in the operating rate over last Monday will be 4.3 points and for Pittsburgh the gain will be 4 points.

Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation, the nation's largest steel manufacturer, is scheduled to blow in an additional blast furnace at South Works, South Chicago, bringing the total in use there to seven out of eleven. All of its six furnaces at the Gary works are operating. The company also will blow in another blast furnace in Pittsburgh, putting 16 of 28 in use.

Highest Since Early February.

The Chicago operating rate will be at the highest level since the week ended Feb. 10. A year ago the Chicago mills were operating at only 45 per cent of capacity. The Pittsburgh rate will be at the highest level in three months.

Steel company executives here said that the recent upturn has been the result largely of the release of specifications for orders previously placed—many during the recent period of low prices when sheets and strip were selling at $4 a ton under the scheduled rates. Steel ordered during the low price period must be delivered by June 30.

It was reported that there has been a fair amount of releases of sheet and strip by the automobile, refrigerator, household appliance, and other industries. Manufacturers of washing tubs have been buying substantial amounts of steel in the Chicago district.

Others Placing Orders.

Truck and farm implement manufacturers also have been placing substantial orders for steel in anticipation of a larger demand for their products. The construction industry has been improving, it was said, with demand for structural steel showing some signs of life.

Steel company executives said prospects indicate good steel orders from the shipbuilding, container, and heavy machine industries. The road building machinery situation is reported to be especially favorable.

So far, foreign business has not picked up materially in the Chicago district. However, the speeding up of the war will probably cause the British to forego some of their attempts to retain their own foreign markets in order to meet their own needs. Holland and Belgium have been substantial producers of the expensive specialty steels known as alloy steels. With Britain, Belgium, and Holland out of the selling market American steel producers expect to capture some of the foreign trade these nations formerly held.

CANADA SHIPS MORE NEWSPRINT DURING QUARTER

OTTAWA, Ont., May 11 [Special].—Canada supplied 92 per cent of the 556,000 tons of newsprint imported by the United States in the first quarter, an increase of 8 per cent over the 1939 period, it was reported today.

Despite war difficulties, Finland shipped 10,000 tons of newsprint to the United States in this period, Sweden 8,000 tons, and Norway 2,000 tons.

It is estimated here that the United States will manufacture a million tons of newsprint this year and consume 3,700,000 tons.

Illinois' Deepest Oil Test Abandoned at 7,206 Feet

Olney, Ill., May 11 (AP).—Officials of the Pure Oil company today announced the No. 3 Stella Billington well in the Cisne field of Wayne county, deepest oil test ever drilled in Illinois, was dry and abandoned at a depth of 7,206 feet.

IF YOU SAY ILLINOIS, MISTER, TIP YOUR HAT! IT'S A STATE LEADER

When you say "Illinois," mister, say it in a reverent tone and tip your hat. Following are a few facts about the state, called to your attention by W. Homer Hartz, president of the Illinois Manufacturers' association:

1. Illinois is the center of railroad transportation. Exceeded only by Texas in railroad mileage, there are 14,435 miles of railroads in the state, or nearly 5 per cent of the nation's total.
2. Illinois is the center of air transportation.
3. Leading state in the country in diversity of manufactured products and third in the value of manufactured products.
4. It has a larger proportion of arable farm land than any other state. Illinois has an area of about 35 million acres, nine-tenths of which is in improved farms.
5. Illinois ranks third among the states in both coal and oil production.
6. Fluorspar deposits [a mineral used as coloring] are the largest in the world.
7. Illinois water transportation by way of the Great Lakes and the Illinois waterway is unexcelled. Chicago is one of the most important among inland ports.

RAIL RATE CUT IS EXPECTED TO AID CHICAGOANS

Chicago manufacturers and distributors will be able to compete more effectively in western markets as a result of the ruling by the Interstate Commerce commission reducing the all carload commodity rail freight rates to the Pacific coast, transportation officers of the Chicago Association of Commerce said yesterday.

Under the new rule, effective May 15, a rate of $2.75 per 100 pounds has been established for a minimum weight of 30,000 pounds, regardless of the diversity of commodities in each car. Previously, only one commodity with a limited mixture of related commodities was allowed in the same car at the carload rate.

The change should also prove beneficial to the railroads, the officials said. Freight schedules were recently reduced from a 7 to a 6 day basis, and the faster and cheaper service will counteract the use of the Panama canal by eastern shippers, according to the association.

15 DAY SHUTDOWN OF OIL WELLS IN TEXAS POSSIBLE

Austin, Tex., May 11 (AP).—Jerry Sadler, member of the Texas railroad commission, expressed belief today a 15 day shutdown of oil production in Texas might be necessary soon because of the European war.

Quoting figures which he said indicated the oil industry was in "bad shape" as a result of excessive crude and gasoline stocks, Sadler, member of the agency which regulates production in Texas, asserted:

"Unless conditions change immediately, I think it will be necessary to shut down Texas oil fields the last five days in May and the first 10 days in June."

Boom in Oil Brings More Phones—and Higher Rates

Springfield, Ill., May 11 [Special].—The Illinois commerce commission today authorized the Illinois Bell Telephone company to increase rates in Salem, center of the new oil fields. The action disclosed that Salem, which had 650 telephones before the boom, now has more than 1,600.

Kokomo Gas & Fuel Co. Taken Over by New Group

Kokomo, Ind., May 11 (AP).—A newly formed group of Kokomo and Columbus [O.] investors has taken over the Kokomo Gas and Fuel company from the Peoples Gas Subsidiary corporation of Illinois and the Indiana Natural Gas and Oil company.

U. S. Operators Blast Danish Ship Seizures

Grave issues hinging on freedom of the seas and neutral rights have been raised for American importers and exporters by Britain's seizure or threatened seizure of Danish ships, according to shipping men, who have filed protests with the secretary of state at Washington, D. C.

When Germany seized Denmark 682 vessels aggregating 1,120,250 gross tons were under Danish registry. The allies ordered the ships classed as "enemy" vessels, to be commandeered by the empires when feasible, with the owners to be compensated "eventually."

Americans Operate Many.

Many of these vessels are chartered for long periods by American managing operators and used in long established neutral trade routes, such as those linking this country with Japan and South America.

American managers of such ships assert the vessels are urgently needed in world commerce, that they serve American commercial interests, and that their seizure or immobilization works unnecessary hardships on United States shipping. The allies' threat already has largely paralyzed the Danish registry ships, tying them up in various ports.

Typical of American business enterprises which are feeling the pinch of the empires' stand is Black & Yates, Inc., of Brooklyn, a leading importer of Philippine mahogany.

Disrupt 20 Year Schedule.

"For 20 years our imports have moved on regular schedules on neutral Danish vessels to and from the United States, especially in trans-Pacific and South American trade," H. R. Black, president of the company, said yesterday.

"These ships, plying neutral routes, are mostly in the hands of American managing operators. Britain has seized or is threatening to seize these ships as prizes. We have protested this action to the secretary of state as a violation of neutral rights, since these ships do not go to belligerent ports."

Insurance underwriters and labor groups in America also have protested the seizure of United States cargoes in Danish ships.

RAP LA FOLLETTE MEASURE AS AID TO RACKETEERS

Defeat of the La Follette "Oppressive Labor Practices" bill now pending in the United States senate was urged yesterday by the Illinois Manufacturers' association. It said the bill "pretends to deal with labor spies and strike breakers, but actually would provide governmental protection for subversive activities and violence in places of employment."

Urging members to request Illinois' senators to vote against the measure, the association said the bill should be defeated in the interest of employés, employers, and national preparedness.

"Every ounce of industrial energy may be demanded for national defense," the association said. "The bill would leave racketeers and saboteurs free to hamstring employers."

Week's Security Offerings Are Smallest Since March

New York, May 11 (AP).—Public offerings of new securities during the week ended Thursday totaled $15,776,000, the smallest since the middle of March, Poor's Publishing company reported today. Of this 72 per cent represented new capital, the rest funds for refinancing. Comparisons follow:

SPREAD OF WAR ENGULFS SWISS CURRENCY RATE

Rally Carries Pound 12 Cents Higher.

The Swiss franc, pillar of strength in the storms that have beset European currencies, crumbled yesterday for the first time since the war began. In contrast, the British pound and the French franc, which had fallen on Friday to the lowest levels in history, made wide recoveries.

Neutral Switzerland traditionally is a haven to which frightened owners of wealth in Europe often have sent their holdings in times of turmoil. In reflection of this, the Swiss franc has stood relatively firm.

Yesterday, however, the currency fell 0.07 cent in foreign exchange trading at New York to 22.35 cents in terms of the American dollar.

Sterling Rallies Eight Cents.

Sterling bounced back 12 cents to $3.28. On the preceding day it had touched $3 and had closed at $3.16. The French franc met sufficient demand to pull it back 0.07 cent to a closing price of 1.86 cents. Joining in the recovery movement, the Canadian dollar finished the day's trading at 82⅝ cents in terms of American money, a net gain of ⅜ cent.

Because trading in the currencies of invaded Belgium and Holland have been suspended, no quotations on the belga and the guilder were posted.

Holland, which like Switzerland had attracted much refugee capital, announced it had taken steps to conserve its foreign assets.

Forbid Disposing of Gold.

Regulations were issued by which individuals and corporations living in Holland or having offices there are forbidden to dispose of gold, foreign currency, checks and bills, securities kept abroad and movable or immovable property held abroad.

With certain exceptions, nonresidents are forbidden to dispose of gold, currency, and several other types of holdings kept in Holland. Nonresidents leaving Holland are permitted to take out with them currency, checks, and bills to a total of 1,000 guilders or $530.90, based on the last quotation listed for the guilder, 53.09 cents.

HOLD OPEN HOUSE AT STEEL PLANT OF RYERSON CO.

More than 3,000 friends and customers of Joseph T. Ryerson & Son, Inc., yesterday attended an open house at the company's vast steel servicing plant at 16th and Rockwell streets, the largest of its type in the world, covering 21.6 acres. All types of steel and iron are on hand at the plant, which also houses processing equipment. Everett D. Graff, president, was host.

Joseph T. Ryerson & Son was founded in Chicago in 1842, with the original store located at 218-224 South Water street. When the move was made to the present location in 1902, many said the firm would be lost "so far out in the country." The company is now the largest independent steel warehousing organization in the country.

Everett D. Graff.

The Ryerson company was acquired by the Inland Steel company in 1935. Edward L. Ryerson Jr., grandson of the founder, Joseph T. Ryerson, is now chairman of the Inland Steel board.

CHICAGO BANK CLEARINGS DIP TO 301 MILLION

Bank clearings in Chicago declined last week to $301,700,000 from $334,200,000 in the preceding week, the Chicago Clearing House association reported yesterday. In the corresponding 1939 week the banks cashed $283,000,000 of checks.

The association's report follows:

American Coffee Imports Set All-Time High Record

Washington, D. C., May 11 [Special].—United States imports of raw coffee in 1939 set an all-time record of 2,013,755,822 pounds valued at $139,541,722, the commerce department reported today. In 1938, 1,987,127,018 pounds, valued at $137,821,215, were imported.

GRAIN TRADERS
When wheat was within less than two cents of the bull market peak, on April 20th, I predicted there would be a broad price decline extending into late May or early June. Since then, we have had considerable of a break. But it does not appear that the decline is yet over, and in my grain letter for this week I give my reasons for this opinion together with a forecast of the probable low for the Chicago September future between now and July 1st.
To acquaint you with my complete advisory service on grains (and common stocks) I will air mail you my regular market letter for this week, and also that of May 18th when issued, upon receipt of one dollar.

Neutrals' Gold Escapes War to U. S. Vaults

Washington, D. C., May 11 (AP).—European neutrals, particularly Sweden and Switzerland, continued last month to make large shipments of gold to this country for safekeeping.

The department of commerce reported today that the total of gold received during April dropped to $249,851,000, however, from $459,845,000 in March and to less than half of the April, 1939, sum of $606,027,427.

Swedish shipments were $39,653,504 and Switzerland's $32,617,184, Italy shipped $16,108,388, Hungary, $5,983,930, the Netherlands $3,273,305 and Belgium $2,853.

Canada Heads List.

The largest single shipper of gold to this country was Canada, which sent in $54,999,000. The United Kingdom sent $43,567,000, including: British India, $3,129,281; Hongkong, $1,699,852; Australia, $3,373,948 and Union of South Africa, $28,775,449.

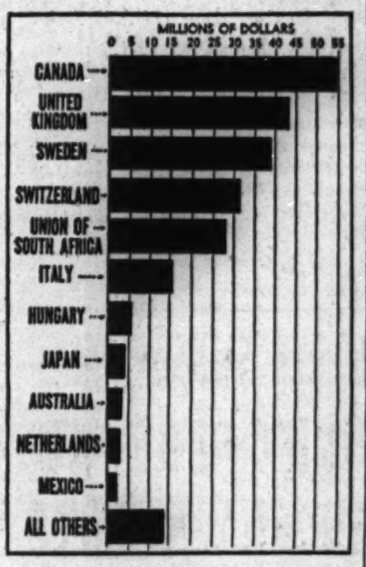

Chart shows source of gold imports into the United States in April.

Japan shipped $4,710,078 and Mexico $2,395,705 from Mexico.

Missing from the list of gold shippers for April were Norway and Denmark, into which German military forces swept last month.

The department reported a net decrease of $67,162,000 in gold earmarked for foreign accounts at federal reserve banks. During March there had been an increase of $213,447,000. The total earmarked gold for foreign account at the end of April was $1,232,301,000.

Gold Stocks Increased.

The United States' monetary gold stock increased by $337,102,000, making the increase for the first four months of the year $1,126,425,000.

Net imports of gold during the first four months of the year were $1,147,492,000, compared with $1,350,807,000 during the corresponding period in 1939.

Gold exports for April amounted to $33,000, an increase of $15,000 over the March figure. Silver imports were valued at $5,170,000, compared with the March total of $5,724,000. Exports of silver were $594,000, a decrease of $63,000 from March.

Nearly half of the April silver imports, or $2,453,000, were from Mexico. Canada sent in $766,000, Peru, $627,000 and Japan, $504,000.

ATLAS CORP. MAY EMBARK ON NEW FISCAL VENTURE

New York, May 11 (AP).—Possibility that a major financial transaction may be in the offing, involving the Atlas corporation, one of Wall street's largest investing concerns, was discussed in financial quarters today.

After yesterday's announcement that Atlas had abandoned plans to merge with Curtiss-Wright corporation, plane manufacturer, attention was centered on the statement of Floyd B. Odlum, Atlas president, that he had "something else attractive in view" and might have an announcement to make soon.

Odlum said the new venture had not been inspired by the outbreak of "total" war in Europe, and was not "directly" connected with the European hostilities, but declined to indicate in what direction his interest lay. The corporation has $37,000,000 available for investment.

B. E. Buckman & Co. Trial Will Be Opened Tomorrow

W. McNeill Kennedy, regional administrator for the Securities and Exchange commission in this district, reported yesterday that the trial of B. E. Buckman & Co., charged by the SEC with violation of the fraud provisions of the securities and exchange act, would open tomorrow in Madison, Wis. The firm closed in 1938 with investors' losses reported close to 4 million dollars. Thomas B. Hart, whose appointment as assistant regional administrator was announced Friday, will be in charge of all criminal litigation for SEC in this district, Kennedy said, and will prosecute its case against West Coast Minerals later this month.

CANADIAN PORK FORCED TO U. S. BY BRITISH GLUT

Quantity Small, but Jolts Farmers.

Canadian pork intended for export to England is being forced into United States markets by the glutted condition of the pork trade in England and Canada, it was learned yesterday.

The quantity coming over the border is small in relation to production, but the fact Canada can sell any pork in the United States, where production is large, is disappointing to farmers of both countries, Chicago live stock men said.

New York during the two weeks ended May 4 received 156,079 pounds of Canadian pork, against 20,058 in the preceding two weeks and the largest since the war began.

Canadian Interests Alarmed.

Canadian farmers and packers were said to be alarmed at the failure of England to take the volume of pork agreed upon several months ago when Britain arranged to import almost the entire Canadian output.

Canadian farmers have been rapidly stepping up hog production in anticipation of a broad export trade with England. As a result they have more hogs on hand now than their domestic trade can handle, and prices have been falling in the last few weeks. Since early in April hogs prices at various packing centers in Canada have dropped 75 cents to $1.10, reductions ranging from 7 to 11 per cent. During that period hog prices in the United States have advanced 85 cents to $1.05, 15 to 22 per cent.

Board Considers Action.

J. G. Taggart, chairman of the Canadian bacon board, said the board is considering what action can be taken in regard to the sharp decline in prices. He said the British government restricted purchases because of large stocks of bacon in storage in England and increased British and Irish bacon production.

Taggart also said that Holland is furnishing England with pork at less cost than Canada, and that this has turned more orders away from Canada.

How England is obtaining adequate supplies of lard is somewhat of a mystery in the live stock trade. Since the war began, instead of expanding purchases of lard from Canada, England has cut its buying. During the first two months of 1940 Canada shipped only 469,200 pounds of lard, compared with 1,997,200 pounds a year earlier, 3,694,000 pounds two years ago, and 5,712,000 pounds three years ago.

Canadian Output Up.

While pork production in the United States shows a seasonal decline from the big January volume, Canadian packers are butchering more hogs now than they did early in the year. The April slaughter was largest of the year and 116 per cent of the January volume.

The total kill in the United States last month was smallest of the year and 67 per cent of the January total. During the first 17 weeks of 1940 packers across the border butchered 1,520,777 hogs, compared with 1,065,742 during the 1939 period.

The market for hogs in Chicago last week showed a slight setback. Various classes yesterday were unevenly steady to 25 cents lower than a week earlier.

Altho the six day steer average price, at $9.85, showed 5 cents advance, many classes of cattle registered losses.

The week's lamb average slumped 20 cents, to $9.70. Final lamb sales were steady.

BELGIAN BONDS BREAK SEVERELY; OTHERS WEAKEN

New York, May 11 (AP).—Belgian issues, untraded yesterday because of the virtual absence of bids, suffered wide war shock losses in a generally heavy bond market today. The list had a few resistant spots, but declines predominated at the close.

Belgian 6½s fell 39¼ points on the transfer of small amounts. A drop of nearly 37 points occurred in the 6s. Japanese government and industrial bonds weakened and Berlin City Electric 6½s gave up 4½. Better action was provided by New South Wales 5s, Rome 6½s, and Australia 4½s, up 1 to more than 2.

Many corporate lines sagged. General heaviness of rails was attributed to Washington reports casting doubt on chances for railroad aid legislation at this session of congress.

United States government issues were lower, but losses were small.

WAR STOCKS RISE AS MANY OTHERS DECLINE FURTHER

Steel, Aircraft, Copper Shares Advance.

New York, May 11 (AP).—The stock market emerged from what traders said was the "second worst" week of the year today with a rally in war issues and a further decline in many other shares.

Altho speculative forces seemed to have partly recovered from the selling shock of Friday's session, most were unwilling to resume bidding except for steels, aircrafts, and coppers which, it was believed, may benefit quickly from heavier foreign purchasing due to intensification of the European conflict.

Some of Strongest Issues.

A spurt in selected issues appeared at the opening. Closing gains of 1 to 3 points were down from the tops in many issues and losses of as much were widely distributed in others.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was unchanged at 48.5, but compared with last Saturday, it was 1.3 points lower, biggest drop since the week of Jan. 13, when a fall of 2.1 was recorded.

Prominent among the gainers were United States Steel, Bethlehem, Douglas Aircraft, Boeing, United Aircraft, Lockheed, Anaconda, Kennecott, American Smelting, and Phelps Dodge.

Fears of foreign selling of American securities remained as a handicap. Estimated holdings of common stocks by the Netherlands and Belgium are more than $500,000,000.

CHICAGO MARKET LOWER.

Prices turned downward again yesterday on the Chicago Stock exchange in a 16,000 share session. The volume leader, Pines Winterfront, declined ⅛ point and Commonwealth Edison, second largest seller, lost ¼ point.

Food shares, which had advanced Friday on the war news, remained strong. Armour advanced ¼ point.

Volume of trading for the week was 157,000 shares, compared with 135,000 in the preceding week and 92,000 a year ago.

WHEAT DECLINES, RECOVERS, ENDS LITTLE CHANGED

Improved prospects for the domestic winter wheat crop resulted in lower prices for a time yesterday, but the close showed little net change.

Altho commission house buying was fairly aggressive at times due to the broadening of the European war front, many operators were disposed to take profits on their holdings. Some professionals admitted that they had turned to the bear side, arguing that the prospective loss of an important market in Europe for the surplus grain of the United States and other countries was of more importance, temporarily at least, than the war. Short covering caused the rally late in the session.

Corn followed the general trend in wheat, closing unchanged to ⅛ cent lower. Oats finished ¼ to ⅜ cent lower. Rye dipped ½ to ¾ cent.

Loss of the Holland, Belgian, and Scandinavian markets will cut wheat exports 83,000,000 bushels, it was estimated. In addition, these countries have been liberal buyers of corn, rye, and other grains, and have been large markets for soy beans.

COTTON

Pressure on the cotton market lightened yesterday and buying by trade interests, Wall street, and professional speculators resulted in a sharp advance in prices. Closing sales were slightly under the top prices with gains of .08 to .14 cent a pound on the active deliveries.

Spot cotton closed .11 to .13 cent higher, with New York 10.45 cents, Houston 9.95 cents, and Galveston at 9.93 cents a pound. Prices follow:

STAPLE MARKETS REGAIN A MORE NORMAL TREND

Profit Taking Cuts Into Friday's Wide Gains.

Commodity futures markets, thrown into turmoil Friday on waves of war speculation, yesterday recovered their equilibrium, closing irregularly lower.

Profit taking weakened the prices of some commodities, including rubber, prime war favorite, and dulled the advances of others, notably sugar.

With the exception of Friday's wide fluctuations, commodities held fairly steady thruout the week. Rubber climbed steadily, then shot up 3 cents a pound Friday, and lost about 1 cent yesterday.

Cotton Prices Advance.

Cotton, practically the only major commodity that slumped Friday, came back 45 to 70 cents a bale yesterday on the basis of an "oversold" market. Sugar gained about 3 points [3-100ths of a cent] a pound.

Heavy domestic buying of spot copper influenced advances of about 1-10th of a cent a pound in futures and modest gains were posted for hides, wool tops, zinc and Santos coffee.

Cocoa, Rio coffee and cottonseed oil prices were trimmed slightly.

Yesterday's prices:

FORECAST VAST UPTURN IN COAL SALES THRU WAR

May Duplicate Expansion of Last Conflict.

Washington, D. C., May 11 (AP).—The United States may find new markets for nearly 10,000,000 tons of coal in the western hemisphere, coal experts said today, as a result of the European war. The war influence already is felt in increased tonnages moving to South America despite unduly high ocean freight rates.

But, coal men said, the demand hasn't really started. First, there's the South American market heretofore supplied by Germany, Great Britain, and Poland. Next, they said, there's a Canadian demand for four to five million tons a year.

An official of the Coal Exporters' association said "There is every reason to believe we can get practically all of the South American business. In addition, there's a four or five million ton demand in Canada that we'll have to fill if Great Britain follows procedure of the last war."

All Needed Overseas.

He explained that in the last war all of the Nova Scotian coal which ordinarily fills most of the Canadian demand was needed overseas.

Needs of the two potential markets would total approximately 10,000,000 tons, which would mean an income of about $21,000,000 to the producing mines.

It would provide major increases in revenue of railroads—about $12,000,000 to move coal to Canadian markets via all-rail routes, and another $10,000,000 for shipment to Hampton Roads, Va., and other ports of coal destined for South America.

Representatives of the Coal Exporters' association observed that the house has approved legislation authorizing the release of maritime commission ships tied up since the world war and approving their return to commercial service.

"Fifteen or 20 of those boats could be used immediately in moving coal," the association said, "and if we had 20 in the trade those tramp freighter rates [for carrying coal] would come down."

Ocean Rates Soar.

Ocean rates have jumped many hundreds of per cent since the European war started. Altho the normal trans-Atlantic rate is about $2.75 a ton, it is now $17 to Egyptian ports and $13.50 to Italy. Those abnormal rates played a large part in bringing about collapse of a recent Italian plan to order 3,000,000 tons annually in the United States.

Rates to Rio de Janeiro are now about $9 a ton, to Buenos Aires, $9 to $9.50, and to Santos $9.50, compared with an average normal rate below $3.

Despite the high rates tonnages to South America—negligible a year or two ago—are growing slowly. In March 53,316 tons went to Argentina, compared with 36,000 tons last December. Shipments to Brazil were 60,195 tons in March and 49,000 in December.

"In the last war," the Exporters' association reported, "exports to South America began climbing at the end of the first year of the war and kept increasing for three years. In 1916 they reached a peak of 12,000,000 tons. If we can get the boats, there's no question but that exports would increase again."

USHA DEVELOPS HOMES DESIGNED LIKE CLOVERLEAF

Advantages Claimed in Novel Shape.

Washington, D. C., May 11 [Special].—A four family dwelling of a novel "cloverleaf" design has been developed by the United States Housing authority, it was announced today. The design has been submitted to local housing authorities engaged in slum clearance and low rent housing programs.

Administrator Nathan Straus said the plan is intended to provide living conditions better than the conventional row house design at no greater cost."

More Light and Air.

"The basic plan calls for construction of four two story dwelling units arranged around a central axis," he said. "Each dwelling thus has three exposures. There is an unusual amount of light and air in all rooms, and thru ventilation in both living room and principal bedroom. Two bedroom and three bedroom living units may be arranged in interlocking fashion. The plan eliminates backyards and provides instead front and side yards for each unit."

Slightly higher structural costs under the "quartrefoil plan" will be offset, it was said, by savings from the concentration of heating and plumbing equipment and the economical use of land.

28 Families Per Acre.

On favorable sites the plan, it was said, might be arranged to provide dwellings for 28 families per acre with playgrounds, wading pools, and other outdoor facilities.

It is expected the total development costs of the "quatrefoil" units will run several hundred dollars less than the average of $4,840 thus far for USHA projects.

RETAILER FORUM SEEKS TO SOLVE MANY PROBLEMS

Noted Speakers Address Meeting Wednesday.

Dr. David R. Craig.

Questions challenging the retail industry will be studied and, it was promised, answered at the three day meeting of the second American Retail federation forum to be held in the Stevens hotel starting Wednesday.

Dr. David R. Craig, president of the federation, said yesterday that 250,000 large and small stores in the United States will be represented by delegates.

Speakers prominent for their interest in and knowledge of world affairs in relation to domestic conditions have been chosen to address the delegates, Dr. Craig said.

"Challenge of America."

The opening speech — "The Challenge of America"—will be delivered by William W. Waymack, vice president and editor of the Des Moines Register and Tribune, two time Pulitzer prize winner for editorials.

Raymond Leslie Buell, editor of Fortune magazine round table, will talk on "America's Rôle in a World at War."

Col. Francis C. Harrington, Works Projects administration head, will present the first answer to Waymack's challenge—"The Fight Against Unemployment." John R. Steelman, director of conciliation, United States department of labor, will discuss "The Retailer's Stake in Labor Peace."

Edward A. O'Neal, president, American Farm bureau federation, and Prof. Philip Cabot, Harvard university, are scheduled to present other angles of the challenge to America.

Kirstein to Answer.

Forum conclusions in regard to the problems will be summed up by Louis E. Kirstein, chairman of the board of the federation. He will present "The Retailer's Answer to the American Challenge."

Specific retail problems to be discussed include taxes, trade relations, ethics of the trade, and social security legislation.

Advance registrations indicate that delegates from nearly every state and important city in the country will attend the forum, according to Dr. Craig.

The federation is an affiliation of 27 state retail associations and seven national trade associations, with 133 separate stores as individual members.

Prices of Butter React from Friday's High Level

Profit taking and hedging cut into Friday's gains in butter and egg futures yesterday on the Chicago Mercantile exchange. Butter, which touched a 15 week peak of 27.75 cents a pound in Friday's war inspired market, dropped to 27.45 cents under selling. The cash market was ½ cent lower. Egg futures declined 0.15 to 0.25 cent a dozen. The cash market held steady.

O, Daddy, see the shiny new automobile . . . No, daughter, that's not new. That's a late model used car . . . You can tell by those little figures on the price tag . . .

DRIVE A LATE MODEL CAR

CURRENT record sales of new cars have created the opportunity of years for Chicago motorists.

Hundreds of late-model trade-ins coming into the market every day are being snapped up by thrifty buyers who know motor car values.

Now is the time to shop the Used Automobiles for Sale columns in the Tribune want ad section. Sedans, coupes, convertibles, sixes, eights and twelves are described and offered there at handsome savings below their original cost.

Many of these cars can hardly be told from new. Many include valuable extras—such as spotlights, radios, heaters and other accessories. Practically every late model is represented. Your present car may be the only down payment required.

Review the offerings in today's Tribune want ad section. See the cars themselves at the dealers' showrooms. It is easy now to select the model and make you want in a good used car you will be proud to drive!

NEW CAR SALES IN APRIL HIGHEST ON RECORD!

● New car sales in Chicago and Cook County last month beat all April figures on record! This came right on the heels of a sales record for the first three months of this year which was 22% up over 1929!

As a result Chicago dealers now are offering late models at prices designed to keep used cars turning over at a pace as fast as new car sales.

This brings a rare opportunity to get a real bargain in a late model of the make you prefer. See the values described in today's want ad section of the Tribune—and take advantage of the savings they offer you now!

N. U. TECH TO LET FACTORIES SHARE ALMA MATER JOB

Class and Shop Both Will Make Future Engineer.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

Ovid Eshbach.

Ovid W. Eshbach, dean of the Technological institute of Northwestern university, outlined yesterday his plans for the training of engineers and "superior citizens" in this newest of coöperative institutions where theories of books and the practices of industry are to be welded.

Something of a philosopher and idealist as well as a practical engineer, Dean Eshbach told of his hopes for the human product that will emerge in the next 20 years or so from this present scene of excavating shovels, pile drivers, and stone foundations along the Sheridan road campus of the university.

90 Already at Work.

While the institute building, which will cost $4,920,000 and which will contain 350 individual rooms, three auditoriums, and at least 35 laboratories for demonstration and research, will not be completed until next year, the coöperative institute plan already is at work in the university.

Of the 90 freshmen who entered the institute course last fall, one half will be at work in industry this summer, their books thrown aside for overalls. It is expected there will be 500 freshmen applicants next fall, 180 of whom will be accepted.

It is not the building, nor the research to be developed there, so much as the impact of this type of education upon the society of the future, that interests Dean Eshbach.

The Citizen of the Future!

A composite picture of the type of citizen that may be molded here follows:

An engineer trained in a specific branch of industry.

One who has learned to coöperate with others, subordinating natural selfishness to group, business, community good.

One who knows how to rationalize each problem as it comes up; a man with a scientific attitude.

One who has appreciation of music and art and who is basically grounded in the humanities.

One who has worked as a laborer and who, therefore, understands the viewpoint and problems of labor.

One who will be able to assume top responsibility at around the age of 40; a new type of executive, at home in his office, in the foundry or workshop, and in his library.

Dean Eshbach, however, is now wandering among the clouds in picturing such a citizen. As he makes the plans and brings the institute into being he insists on putting his finger on specific goals and measuring progress.

Each Applicant Measured.

Each applicant is measured at the beginning, from a common sense point of view, in an interview with personnel officials, particularly Ferdinand Seulberger, professor of coöperative education and director of industrial relations. Each student must demonstrate fitness to receive this training.

About half the students are in need of financial aid, but the jobs that they must take as part of their course are not the chief goal but are merely incidental to their training. Seven work periods of three months each are required before graduation. The course lasts 5 years and is intended to work so that many of the students will have found their special place in industry before graduation.

The students will go on a job like any other employé. It is apprenticeship in a broad industrial sense; a sort of internship. Relations with various industries have been established. In electric manufacturing, for example, a student in the course of his work periods could get good training in the mechanics of casting, in the assembly of parts, and in the testing of products. In public utilities he would get collecting and credit as part of his course.

Plan Jobs Near Home

Boys will be sent to jobs near their homes, if possible. In this way an institute student might be working part time in an airplane factory or oil field in California, and the next quarter be studying in Evanston.

"Our engineer will be well educated, but he will be first of all an engineer," said the dean. "We want a curricula as basic and flexible as possible, but there are certain things an engineer has to know—mathematics, physics, chemistry, English, mechanics."

At the end of the first year of study the student finds out, before being sent into industry, whether he is fitted for this work and what particular branch interests him. The latter part of the course is directed to advanced special work in the chosen field.

Under this plan it is hoped to keep "misfits" from being inflicted upon industry. It is essential that the students really coöperate in their work periods. They must write a report on their work on returning to the university and if this is not satisfactory they are dropped, or perhaps changed to another field.

Isaac Meredith, Former Chicago Advertiser, Dies

Rochester, Ind., May 11 [Special].—Isaac Meredith, 72 years old, for many years a teacher in Mentone schools and later commercial advertiser for Carson Pirie Scott and company, Chicago, died today at the home of his sister-in-law, Mrs. Delbert Ewing. His Chicago home was at 1245 North La Salle street. His wife and two daughters survive.

2 IN CAR, FLEEING POLICE, KILLED AS CAR HITS A TRUCK

Crash Leads to Arrest of 5 Others.

Two men were killed early yesterday when their car smashed into the rear of a parked truck in Madison street near Talman avenue shortly after an accident prevention squad began chasing them for speeding.

The dead are Thomas C. Parker, 24 years old, 2800 Van Buren street, a former WPA worker, and Ralph Robinson, 21, of 11 North Sacramento avenue, a delivery boy. Claude J. Burke, 4352 Maypole avenue, who was sleeping at the wheel of the parked truck, was charged with having no Illinois driver's license.

Four Others Seized.

Warren avenue police later received a report that four men were stripping the wrecked car, and Sergt. Patrick Groark arrested Ray Jules, 25, of 1922 Humboldt boulevard; George Sprankle, 40, of 3038 Arthington street; Dan Warno, 24, of 2710 Jackson boulevard, and John Nalien, 22, of 118 South Hoyne avenue.

The sergeant said Jules and Sprankle had parts of the car radio in their hands and the other two were examining the rear end. As they were being questioned at the station Joseph Fritsch, 4104 Wilcox street, came in to report a strong arm robbery a short time earlier.

He identified Warno and Nalien as two of the gang of seven or eight men who slugged and robbed him and two companions. Both denied the charge. Nalien told police he had been discharged Friday in Traffic court when he had explained possession of a set of license plates in his car. He said they belonged to a cousin.

Dies of Injuries at Age of 84.

John Raleigh, 84 years old, a retired government employé, died in his home at 2305 South 52d avenue, Cicero, of injuries suffered May 2 when he was struck near his home by a car driven by Ralph P. Sisul, 18, of 5518 24th place, Cicero. Mr. Raleigh was the father of John W. Raleigh, Cicero fire commissioner.

Edward Anderson, 42, of 6244 Wabansia avenue, a mail truck driver, died in Edgewater hospital of injuries incurred May 2 when his truck and an automobile collided at Austin and Cullom avenues. The other driver was Harold Ludwig, 5913 Carpenter avenue, Morton Grove.

Up to 2 p. m. yesterday 308 persons had been killed in traffic accidents in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these 237 were killed in Chicago, where 7,508 were injured in traffic in the same period.

HOSPITALS OPEN DOORS TO VIEW OF PUBLIC TODAY

Chicago hospitals will be opened for public inspection today as a feature of the 16th annual National Hospital day, which is being observed by hospitals thruout the United States and Canada.

Frederick L. McNally, president of the Chicago Hospital council, said visitors will be invited to inspect the nurseries, children's wards, therapy departments, laboratories, and surgeries.

"Since Chicago has the finest record in the United States for the reduction of infant and maternal mortality, we feel it is only fitting that the public should acquaint itself with ways and means utilized by our hospitals in saving lives," McNally said. "For that reason we hope that every one in this city will join us in our celebration of National Hospital day."

J. T. Wilson, Winchester Bank President, Dies at 76

Jacksonville, Ill., May 11 [Special].—James T. Wilson, president of the Neat, Condit & Grout National Bank of Winchester, died here last night at Passavant hospital. He was 76 years old and an extensive land owner in Scott county. Surviving are two sons and two daughters.

R. L. Kennedy, Veteran Missouri Editor, Dies

Springfield, Mo., May 11 (AP).—Robert Lee Kennedy, 70 years old, son of pioneer Springfield families and a newspaperman for more than 50 years, died today. For 30 years he had been managing editor of the Leader. His father established the Leader in 1867.

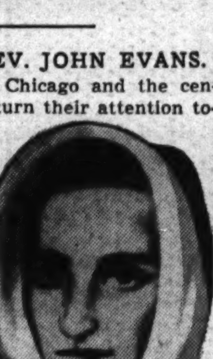
POPE PIUS WILL BEATIFY MOTHER DUCHESNE TODAY

Chicagoans to Honor Nun in Special Rites.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Catholics of Chicago and the central west will turn their attention today to Rome, where Mother Rose Philippine Duchesne will be beatified, by Pope Pius XII. Mother Duchesne was the American founder of the Religious of the Sacred Heart, which operates four notable educational institutions in Chicago.



Mother Duchesne.

These institutions are Barat college, Lake Forest; Hardey Preparatory school for boys and the Convent of the Sacred Heart for girls, 6250 Sheridan road, and the Convent of the Sacred Heart, Lake Forest.

Came to America in 1818.

A native of Grenoble, France, Mother Duchesne came to St. Charles, Mo., with five nuns in 1818 at the age of 49. A year later, the parent house of the order was set up at St. Louis, Mo., with Mother Duchesne as superior. For a few years she worked among the Indians of the far west but was recalled to St. Louis where she died in 1852.

Processes toward beatification of Mother Duchesne began in St. Louis in 1895, and the regular introduction of her cause at Rome was made in 1909. Sessions of the Sacred Congregation of Rites held to consider her cause began in 1931 and continued until March, 1939, when her cause was approved.

Chicago Ceremony Planned.

Ceremonies in honor of the beatification will be held at the Sacred Heart convent, 6250 Sheridan road, at 4 p. m. today. They will be attended by many members of the Duchesne club, pioneer among study clubs and forums in the city.

Mother Duchesne's beatification will be the second in recent months of special Chicago interest. The former was that of Mother Cabrini, of the Missionary Sisters of the Sacred Heart of Jesus. She was beatified Nov. 13, 1938.

MARY PATTERSON, WRITER'S WIDOW, DIES AT 70 IN FIRE

San Jose, Cal., May 11 (AP).—Mrs. Mary Patterson, 70 years old, widow of Raymond Patterson, one-time dean of Washington, D. C., newspaper correspondents, suffocated today in a fire at her Saratoga, Cal., home.

She came to California 10 years ago from Washington. Her husband, a writer for THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, died in 1908.

Mrs. Patterson was the aunt of J. M. Patterson, publisher of the New York Daily News, and of Eleanor Patterson, publisher of the Washington Times-Herald.

An overheated stove caused the fire. She is survived by a son, Robert Patterson, a San Francisco attorney, and a daughter, Ruth Wallace of Darien, Conn.

Woman Forgets Key; Tries Window; Falls Three Floors

Mrs. Sarah Ogara, 29 years old, was injured seriously yesterday when she fell from a third floor porch as she attempted to crawl in a window of her apartment at 126 South Leavitt street after forgetting her doorkey.

OBITUARIES

John P. Bowles.

John P. Bowles, a commission merchant in the stockyards for 57 years before his retirement three years ago, died at the age of 81 yesterday in his home at 4742 Greenwood avenue. Mr. Bowles, who moved to Chicago in 1880 from Quincy, Ill., was a founder and life member of the Saddle and Sirloin club and of the International Live Stock exposition. Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Ella Hense Bowles; a son, John H., and two daughters, Dolores Joan and Mrs. John T. Bycraft. Funeral services will be held at 10:30 a. m. tomorrow in St. Ambrose's church, 1012 East 47th street. Burial will be in Quincy.

Mrs. Marie Schultz.

Mrs. Marie Schultz, a resident of Chicago for 60 years, died yesterday in her home at 348 West 29th street, where she had lived for nearly half a century. She was 80 years old. She was the widow of Charles Schultz, who was in the dairy and delivery business. He died 21 years ago. Surviving are two daughters, Mrs. Rosa Nelson and Mrs. Olga Taebel, and a son, Rudolph Schultz. The funeral will be held at 9 a. m. Tuesday from the home to St. James' church.

Frank C. Hollister.

Funeral services for Frank C. Hollister, 84 years old, 334 North Mayfield avenue, who died Friday in St. Petersburg, Fla., will be held at 2 p. m. tomorrow in the chapel at 1118 Greenleaf avenue, Wilmette. He was a retired employé of the American Railway express. He leaves his widow, Sarah; a daughter, Mrs. Frank Bowman of Evanston, and a son, Lloyd Hollister of Winnetka, publisher of weekly papers on the north shore. Mr. Hollister will be buried in Memorial Park cemetery.

Mrs. Pauline Woolley.

Funeral services for Mrs. Pauline Woolley, 87 years old, a resident of Chicago since 1871, will be held at 2 p. m. tomorrow in the family home at 1635 West Garfield boulevard, with burial in Graceland cemetery. Mrs. Woolley, widow of Charles Frederick Woolley, pioneer Chicago hardware merchant, died Friday in her home after a six months' illness. She was a native of Watertown, Wis. Surviving are a daughter, Pauline, and a son, Herbert.

STATE RALLY FETES CLUB PIONEERS

RAIL SCHEDULES FOR LILAC DAY SENT TO CLUBS

50 Trains Will Bring Blooms to City.

The 12th annual "Share Your Lilacs" campaign conducted by the Chicago Plant, Flower, and Fruit guild and THE TRIBUNE was given new impetus last week when guild and suburban railroad officials worked out train schedules for bringing the lilacs into the city. The flowers will be taken to hospitals and other institutions that care for the sick and shutins.

A fleet of more than 50 trains on six railroads has been assigned to transport the lilacs free from the suburbs to stations in Chicago where they will be picked up by TRIBUNE trucks and taken to the hospitals. The coöperating railroads are the North Western, Illinois Central, Rock Island, Aurora and Elgin, North Shore Line, and the Burlington.

Schedules Sent Out.

The completed train schedules have been sent to guild chairmen of 85 garden clubs for use in completing their plans for lilac day. The Milwaukee, Pennsylvania, and South Shore lines also may furnish lilac trains if it develops later that more cars are needed.

Detailed instructions for cutting and shipping the blooms so they will be fresh when they reach the hospitals are being prepared by flower guild officials and the Allied Florists Association of Illinois. The instructions are to be sent to more than 2,000 garden club members before lilac day.

Cool Weather Brings Delay.

Continued cool weather has further delayed opening of the fragile blossoms and no date has been set for their distribution. Altho buds started opening on many of the bushes in the south and west suburbs more than a week ago, there still is little indication as to when they will be ready to cut. Gardeners all over Chicagoland have reported prospects for a heavy crop of blooms.

Mrs. Stanley D. Grace of Highland Park, chairman of the guild's general committee, says her organization again will provide means for all who have lilacs to share them with the sick. Guild committees of garden clubs in the various suburban communities will arrange for loading the bouquets on trains.

The list of garden club presidents and guild committee chairmen was revised recently. Here are the names and addresses of the new club presidents and guild chairmen in this area:

Lincolnwood Garden club—Mrs. Rolla Pribble, 2428 Ewing street, Evanston, president; Mrs. James A. Woodburn, 2219 Colfax, Evanston, guild chairman.

Evening Garden Club of Wilmette—Mrs. John Mills, guild chairman.

Winnetka Garden club—Mrs. Cornelius Lynde, guild chairman.

Woman's Library Club of Glencoe, Nature department—Mrs. W. B. Bushnell, president.

North Shore Garden club—Mrs. Carl Holzheimer, Highland Park, guild chairman.

Community Garden class of the Highland Park Woman's club—Mrs. E. L. Olsen, president.

Lake Bluff Garden club—Mrs. F. A. Ross, guild chairman.

Bannockburn Garden club—Mrs. C. W. Allen, guild chairman.

Deerfield Woman's club—Mrs. C. W. Boyle, president.

CRANE TECHNICAL SCHOOL TO NOTE GOLDEN JUBILEE

North side alumni of Crane Technical High school, 2245 Jackson boulevard, will take part in the 50th anniversary celebration of the school to be held tomorrow thru Wednesday.

The school was formed 50 years ago as the English High and Manual Training school and was located on Monroe near Halsted street. It was started with a student body of 70 pupils. Today 5,500 students attend classes.

North side residents who will take part in the celebration include Avery Brundage, 3800 Sheridan road; Dr. Marius Caro, 6165 Winthrop avenue; Dr. Frank M. Drey, 643 Gordon terrace; Henry A. Kaufman, 160 North La Salle street; Harry E. Leasure, 5056 Sheridan road; George Mason Jr., 603 Addison street; Samuel Lillienthal, 444 Belmont avenue; Samuel S. Oman, 1837 Chase avenue; Fred G. Story Art League to Have Annual Meeting Tomorrow

Members and friends of the Story Art League of Chicago will attend the annual meeting and election of officers at 1:15 o'clock tomorrow in Indian Boundary fieldhouse, 2500 Lunt avenue. Mrs. W. C. Lambert, retiring president, will preside. The theme for the afternoon program is "By Thy Rivers Gently Flowing, Illinois." Story tellers will be Mrs. R. A. Sternaman, 6711 North Campbell avenue; Mrs. M. R. Leonard, 1342 Cornelia avenue, and Mrs. Leon Michel, 6426 North Troy street.

Offer Preview of Summer Fashions Today

Freshness in midsummer will be assured for young ladies who wear ensembles such as these modeled by Mrs. Robert Weese (left) and Mrs. Chester Clyde Cook. The outfits will be shown in a style show this afternoon in the Church of the Atonement parish house, Ardmore and Kenmore avenue, under the auspices of St. Hilda's branch of the women's auxiliary. Mrs. Cook, St. Hilda's attractive president, is wearing a Tahitian print with a black redingote, topped with a matching printed toque. Her partner will model a white and navy spectator sports dress and white draped jersey turban.

CHURCH WOMEN TO VIEW STYLES THIS AFTERNOON

Forecast for 1990 One of Show Features.

Styles of 1990 as predicted by the designer's pencil of Yvonne Decker, a member of St. Hilda's branch of the Woman's auxiliary, Church of the Atonement, will be featured in a show to be given by the organization this afternoon in the parish house, Kenmore and Ardmore avenues. The "Voyage with Vogue" will begin at 4 o'clock and tea will be served afterwards.

The futuristic clothes will form a finale to the review of midsummer ensembles of 1940. Three outfits which Miss Decker dares to predict are a bathing suit equipped with oxygen tanks and a diver's headgear, a "rocket" suit designed to combine warmth and beauty for ladies of the future as they drive their own rocket ships, and a formal gown of cloth and cellophane.

Models in Show.

Models will include Helen Benson, Miss Decker, Josephine Ewalt, Ruth Fawcett, Mildred Ellison, Charlotte Graves, Shirley Quinn, Mrs. Wilfred Tracy, Mrs. Robert Weese, Dorothy Wickert, and Mrs. Chester C. Cook.

Proceeds will be donated to the Episcopal Church Mission program which is conducted in the United States and in foreign countries. Mrs. Cook, 5726 Winthrop avenue, is president of St. Hilda's branch composed of young women in the parish.

Members of Committee.

Committee chairmen and assistants include Anne Shewczuk, 5511 Kenmore avenue, program chairman, Wilma Widdicomb, Patricia Woodward and Miss Quinn, committee members; Helen Benson, 1253 Ardmore avenue, ticket chairman, assisted by Miss Wickert; Ruth Fawcett, 1227 Greenleaf avenue, and Charlotte Graves, 6038 North Fairfield avenue, decorations chairmen, assisted by Juanita Loomis, Elizabeth Tengberg, Mrs. W. A. Gosnell and Margaret Mellody, and Mrs. Earl Valentine, 2611 Rosemont avenue, and Mrs. E. R. Butler, 6319 Artesian street, refreshment chairmen, assisted by Alice Hamilton and Elizabeth Flower.

ST. ITA CHURCH YOUNG PEOPLE TO GIVE PARTY

Members of the newly organized young people's club of St. Ita's church, Broadway and Catalpa avenue, will hold a card party tomorrow evening in the parish school hall.

Heads of the general arrangements committee include Arthur Fitzgerald, Mary McHugh, Robert Hogan, William Maloney, James O'Donnell, Arthur Collins, Bill Tobin, Robert Schollian, Marie Quinlan, Roselle Tate, and Dolores Noeble.

Other committee members are Beverly De Celles, Agnes Magnan, Eileen Smith, Marion Mayer, Frank Weckler, Frank Voght, Frank Gaughan, Arthur Eilert, Mary K. Smith, Rene Mathis, Louis Barbazette, Paul Beaumont, Paul Fries, Edna Harwick, Maurice Cooney, and Frank Rondeau.

Featured in the style show will be three costumes for 1990 predicted by Yvonne Decker, designer and member of St. Hilda's branch. Two of the futuristic styles, a rocket suit and a cellophane evening gown, are shown by Dorothy Wichert (left) and Shirley Quinn. Miss Wichert's suit and helmet are made of white wool, saddle stitched in black, with wire trimmings on the belt and helmet. The blue evening gown features a part cellophane skirt and cellophane dunce cap and scarf.

3 NORTH SIDE CADETS GIVEN MERIT AWARDS

Three north siders are among the 53 freshman cadets at Massachusetts Institute of Technology who were awrded the Order of Military Merit for outstanding effort in military training at the regimental review last week. They are Charles J. Swet, 1622 Sherwin avenue; Robert J. Lynn, 5930 North Maplewood avenue, and Steven Heller, 5415 Wayne avenue. The award, which consists of a decoration with the ribbon of the order, is based on the students' efforts in their military science training as evidenced by such qualities as appearance, neatness, coöperation, and judgment. It was established in 1938.

Hias Men's Organization Is to Install Officers

Installation of officers of the Hias Men's Organization of Chicago will be held Saturday evening at the Covenant club, 10 North Dearborn street. William J. Robinson will be master of ceremonies and Rabbi David Graubert will give the benediction. The Hias organization was formed to aid Jewish immigrants. Isadore Katz is president.

LOYOLA U. STUDENTS' SWING GYMBOREE SET FOR FRIDAY EVENING

Underclassmen at Loyola university will turn out in full force for the annual freshmen-sophomore Swing Gymboree on Friday evening in the university's alumni gymnasium. James Lyons, 939 Belle Plaine avenue, president of the sophomores and William Murphy, 1321 Arthur avenue, president of the freshmen, are co-chairmen of the dance. North siders assisting with bids and arrangements include James Fox, 2054 Farwell avenue; William Tortonello, 7249 North Bell avenue; Michael Dougherty, 312 Wendell street; David Howe, 7345 North Damen avenue, and James Byrne, 6710 Lakewood avenue.

EXPECTANT DADS TO ENJOY OWN HOSPITAL ROOM

Jumpy Nerves Soothed as They Wait.

Unwilling to have fathers completely forgotten even on Mother's day, Grant hospital, 551 Grant street, will open its new "Room for Expectant Fathers" today. The opening will be a feature of the hospital's informal open house in observance of National Hospital day, Mother's day, and the 120th birthday anniversary of Florence Nightingale, mother of modern nursing.

"It may seem unusual to pay so much attention to fathers on this particular day," explained Elizabeth Wivel, superintendent of nurses and originator of the idea, "but observation has convinced us that they, too, should have special consideration.

Just Case of Nerves.

"Up to this time the expectant father has been regarded as a useless case of nerves at the critical time when the stork is arriving. Now he will have a special room to stay in during this trying period and we will do all we can to keep him calm."

The room will be furnished with plenty of cigarets, books, magazines, and daily papers, card tables, and games, and coffee and sandwiches will be served at intervals. Also, a supply of sedatives.

"There is no case on record of a father dying from child birth," admitted Clinton F. Smith, hospital administrator, "but the hospital believes in taking no chances."

Included in Tours.

The fathers' room will be included in tours of the hospital to be held between 2 and 5 o'clock this afternoon. Other interesting features will be an unusual collection of X-ray photographs, the new Taylor Strawn Memorial X-ray laboratory, an opportunity to see germ cultures thru microscopes, the operating room, and continuous motion pictures in the auditorium.

At each point physicians and nurses will be ready to explain the operation of a hospital and to answer questions. Also open to the public will be the guest rooms, recently remodeled and decorated thru funds provided by the women's auxiliary, of which Mrs. Frank Porter is president. After the tour tea will be served, with student nurses as hostesses.

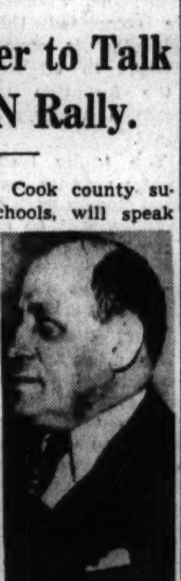
WALTHER UNITS READY TO HOLD SPRING RALLY

Walther league groups of the Lincoln zone will hold their spring rally this afternoon at St. Luke's Evangelical Lutheran church, Belmont and Greenview avenues, the Rev. Adalbert R. Kretzmann, pastor. Ten groups will participate. Estelle Wolters of the host church is rally chairman, and Edward Yeadicks will preside. Proceedings will open with an entertainment directed by Albert H. Miller of La Grange, and close with vespers at 9 o'clock conducted by the Rev. O. P. Kretzmann, president-elect of Valparaiso university.

WALLER YOUTHS TO BE GUESTS AT CITIZENS' SHOW

Supt. Puffer to Talk in W-G-N Rally.

Noble J. Puffer, Cook county superintendent of schools, will speak briefly on the seventh "Citizens of Tomorrow" half hour radio program, sponsored by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, to be heard on W-G-N from 7 to 7:30 o'clock Wednesday night. The entertainment will feature Waller High school and 600 of its students with their principal, Maurice C. Lipman, will be present in the W-G-N audience studio. The Waller mixed chorus, directed by Mildred Tess, will sing two numbers, the Waller school song and the Cossack Lullaby.



Maurice C. Lipman.

This show will be the 7th in a series of 11 program which are dedicated to the youth of America. With Supt. Puffer will be more than a score of county school superintendents and high school principals.

Girls to Attend.

Additional guests will be 28 high school girls who have been designated for their outstanding work in the Citizen Pilgrims program of the Daughters of the American Revolution chapters in and near Chicago.

Three pretty Waller girls will lead the cheering section. They are Shirley Aussen, Pat Gladkey and Clare Meyer. Under the direction of the school's R. O. T. C. the national and school colors will be posted just before going on the air.

Philip Maxwell, a member of THE TRIBUNE staff, will be the "principal" and master of ceremonies on the show, which will include "Charlie Jones," every high school's principal, and wise cracking "Jerry," who in real life is Miss Dorothy Gregory, a 16 year old senior at Maine Township High school.

Alumni to Listen.

Thousands of Waller alumni will be listening in. This group will include William Chandler, athetic director at Marquette university, Milwaukee, Wis.; Oscar G. Mayer, president of the Chicago Association of Commerce; Fred H. Heidbring, professor of English at Northwestern university; Herbert E. Hyde, noted organist and composer of Chicago, and Mrs. William B. Walrath, founder of The Cradle, in Evanston.

Chicago's only public girls' high school, Flower Technical, will be featured on the broadcast of Wednesday, May 15. The last of this series of "Citizens of Tomorrow" will be held on June 12.

YOUNG MUSICIANS WILL APPEAR IN RECITAL SUNDAY

Three young north side musicians from 10 to 17 years old, will appear in a recital next Sunday afternoon in Music hall on the Evanston campus of Northwestern university. The program will be given by Delta Omicron, professional music sorority.

Barbara Edwards of Winnetka, 15 year old senior at New Trier High school, will sing the "Jewel Song" from "Faust." David Geppert of Wilmette, 17 years old, will accompany a trio, playing his own composition for the piano. This selection won first prize in a recent contest sponsored by the Illinois Federation of Music clubs.

Ten year old Barbara Manthei of Evanston will play the first movement of Mozart's D Major Concerto for two pianos. She will be assisted by Lloyd Cousins. Mrs. J. R. Easton and Mrs. E. M. Snyder, alumnae advisors of the chapter, are in charge of the program.

CHURCH YOUTHS START SUNDAY DANCE SERIES

The Young People's club of St. Henry's church is sponsoring a series of Sunday night dances in the clubhouse, Devon and Ridge avenues. Nick Staudt, 1766 Estes avenue, is chairman of the dance committee composed of Rose Detzner, Michael Egan, and Clara Evart. Irene Fegan, president, conducts the weekly club meetings on Monday night. The Rev. William P. Cunningham is spiritual director and the Rev. Charles H. Epstein is pastor of St. Henry's.

'Kiss the Boys Good-bye' to Be Given Three Nights

The recent search for a young woman to play the part of Scarlett O'Hara in "Gone with the Wind" will be satirized Sunday evening and Monday and Tuesday evenings, May 20 and 21, when the Hudson Players present "Kiss the Boys Goodbye" at Forrester's theater, 1016 North Dearborn street. Roy Hudson will direct the comedy. In the cast are Dorothy Messer, Daniel Prince, Martin MacNeeley, Theresa Stein, George Wilnar, and Hazel Spears.

OUR TOWN

Paragraphs About People You May Know

THERESE MARIE CUNY, 6513 Bosworth avenue, recently directed the St. Mary's Academy Players of Prairie du Chien, Wis., to win first prize in the girls high school division of the Midwest Catholic high school play tournament. One of the cast, Frances Thompson, won further distinction by winning a gold medal for her acting ability. The play, "The Summons of Sariel," was enacted in the tournament held in Dubuque, Ia. Miss Cuny is dramatic coach of Loretto High school and Loretto academy and the Josephinum High school. She served for five years as a member of the faculty of the Chicago School of Expression and Dramatic Art.

Miss Gertrude Brown, 1435 Albion avenue president of the chapter, will serve on the arrangements committee. Pledges will be formally initiated. Beta chapter is made up of students at Chicago Teachers' college.

TWO Evanston girls, sophomores at Smith college, Northampton, Mass., were recently appointed to membership of the Sophomore Push committee. Membership in this group which supplies pages at the annual commencement exercises is the highest campus honor a sophomore can attain. The girls are Sarah Dunn, 1210 Michigan avenue, and Elizabeth Fabian, 1462 Wesley avenue, of the suburb. Miss Dunn is class secretary and Miss Fabian is a member sophomore carnival committee.

The $300,000 chapel at Loyola university, 6525 Sheridan road, is expected to be completed in June, it was announced recently by the board of trustees. An anonymous donor has given sufficient funds to finish the work. It will have a seating capacity of 1,000 and is located on the south end of the campus.

The Howard District Business association recently proclaimed a week for its members. It will be Welcome Week and will be held May 20-25. The idea, says Gilbert Yellin, chairman, is to welcome new neighbors. Tentative plans have been made to hold a baby and bicycle parade. Officers of the association include Austin G. Smith, president; Alfred E. Scheef, Gilbert Yellin, J. L. Zender, and Matthew Turk, vice presidents, Harry J. Potter, treasurer, and Elizabeth B. Rice.

SCORES of Our Towners last week served on the Chicago committee in charge of Music Appreciation Week, as officially proclaimed by Mayor Kelly. Among them were Mrs. Walter S. Brewster, Mrs. E. V. L. Brown, Mrs. Clifford D. Caldwell, Mrs. Walter J. Cummings, Thomas Hart Fisher, Mrs. Walter R. Kirk, Mrs. Edward A. Leight, Frank Watson Luther, Mrs. Franklin Miller, Mrs. John J. Mitchell, M. E. Barbara McClure White of Evanston, student at Mount Holyoke college, South Hadley, Mass., recently was awarded the Evelyn Church Wilbur scholarship for excellence in American history. The scholarship was established by the class of 1887 alumni three years ago. Barbara is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl A. White and is a junior. She was recently elected business manager of the college year book and has been chosen house president of North Rockefeller hall on the campus.

700 SCHOOLBOY PATROLS ARE TO GARNER OUTINGS

In recognition of their meritorious service, 700 schoolboy patrols are to be chosen to spend a week at camp in June as guests of the Chicago Motor club. Six north side civic leaders were appointed by the club last week to select safety patrol boys on the north side and north shore for the camping award.

The committee will meet in the Illinois Athletic club Wednesday noon to discuss plans for the selection. The north side committee includes George Seebacher, Percy Baines, Judge James G. Barber of Evanston, Cloyd McGuire, Wilmette chief of police; Leo Dolkhart and Mrs. Ethel Kelly.

The sites for camping have not been selected. The periods will run from June 8 to 23. The boys are to be given safety training at the camps, Charles M. Hayes, president of the club, declared.

TWO NORTH AREA DISTRICTS JOIN IN CONVENTION

Sessions in Loop to Open Tomorrow.

BY JUANITA DALY.

Both the 9th and 10th districts of the Federation of Women's Clubs will be well represented at the state convention which opens tomorrow and continues thru Thursday in the Hotel Sherman. In most instances the club president serves as one delegate and the vice president or another officer is the second delegate. Alternates are named and may attend even tho their delegates are present.

The districts have named members for the pioneer woman contest being conducted as a part of the golden jubilee program of the National Federation. In the 10th district, Mrs. Thaddeus P. Stanwood, deceased, was chosen as the woman having the most outstanding record of leadership. She was a charter member of the Evanston club and fourth president of the state federation.

Two Others Chosen.

Mrs. Charles H. Betts of the Evanston club was named as the living member with the most outstanding record of leadership over the longest period of membership. She also was a charter member in the Evanston club, served as its president and was fourth district president.

Mrs. H. Ligare Ashbel of the Woman's Library club of Glencoe has the longest record of continuous membership. The Glencoe club was founded in 1874 and is the oldest in the district. Mrs. Ashbel was an early member and served as club librarian for years. Both Mrs. Betts and Mrs. Ashbel will be special guests of the district at a luncheon tomorrow.

In the 9th district, Mrs. Oscar Brecher of the Lake View club has the longest record of service and Mrs. Helen Peirce, one of the Lake View founders, is the deceased member with the most outstanding record. The Lake View club, founded 47 years ago, is the oldest in the district, and since four founders are living the district could not name one with the longest period of membership. The four pioneers are Mrs. Lela M. McCauley, Mrs. Cornelia Dyer Heile, Mrs. Marion Gates Granger, and Miss Eleanor R. Larrison.

Members of Committees.

Ninth district members on convention committees are Mrs. Charles H. Challen, first vice president, who is chairman of the courtesy and hospitality committee, assisted by Mrs. Frederick Justice, a director of the Edgemere club.

Various 10th district members are contributing to the convention. Mrs. Henry Rhode of the Lake Forest club is state chairman of American citizenship and will be in charge of a portion of an afternoon program. Mrs. James M. Massie, reëlected district president, will give a report.

Mrs. Harry S. Gradle is program chairman and Mrs. Reginald Ford, timekeeper. Both are members of the Rogers Park club and Mrs. Ford is district parliamentarian. The president of the Rogers Park Juniors, Mrs. Kenneth R. Ford, is serving as page for the program chairman and Mrs. Walter B. Roe, Juniors' past president and now a senior member, is in charge of pages and ushers, assisted by her mother, Mrs. Earl M. Adcock, also a senior member.

Honor Music Winner.

Mrs. Charles H. Elliott's arrangement of the "Lord's Prayer," which won first prize in the district's music contest, will be used as the invocation at the luncheon tomorrow opening the convention. Mrs. D. K. Evans will be the soloist, accompanied by Mrs. Elliott, who is a member of the Glencoe Library club.

A feature of the convention program will be Junior day Wednesday. On the morning program Miss Josephine Fox of the Seward Park Juniors in the 9th district will discuss membership and Mrs. William Reeda Jr., Ravenswood Juniors, 10th district, is scheduled to talk on the value of the civil service department.

Joint sessions with senior clubwomen will be held in the afternoon. District reports will be given by Miss Florence Hiltwein, Mothers' Drama Club Juniors, 9th, and Mrs. Ford, 10th. After the juniors' dinner in the Bal Tabarin, there will be a processional of Junior clubwomen before the presentation of the evening program for all delegates.

10th District Delegates.

Among the delegates from the 10th district clubs are Mrs. David A. Stevens and Mrs. Henry F. Furter, Argyle Park Portia club; Mrs. Robert L. Sullivan, Brownson Circle; Mrs. R. E. Cotanche, Cosmos club; Mrs. Kenneth G. Hobbs, Edgewater Catholic; Mrs. Joseph W. Kehoe, Evanston Catholic; Mrs. Charles Fitzgerald, First Daughters of America; Miss Teresa Ryan, Glenola Club of Loyola center, and Mrs. Edward C. Miller and Mrs. Howard L. Scott, Fox Lake.

Mrs. Anthony Seisser, Grays Lake; Mrs. Lloyd Van Dermark, Hamlin park; Mrs. Lewis A. Mills, Libertyville; Mrs. Maybelle Luther, Long Lake; Mrs. Miles T. Babb, Niles Center; Mrs. Albert J. Cox, North Shore; Mrs. Ernest Breed and Mrs. Eyvind Norman, North Town; Mrs. J. F. Hogan and Mrs. John Lukan-

YEAR AROUND CLEAN-UP DRIVE.

One of the finest projects promoted by the city and the board of education is the annual clean-up campaign in the spring. It should be encouraged and continued thruout the year. At a luncheon recently, several friends mentioned that New York City and Salt Lake City were much cleaner.

Visitors in Chicago from those towns notice the difference and when Chicagoans return from visiting those cities, they remark on the cleanliness and wish they could be equally proud of their home town.

One of the worst evils is throwing papers, bottles and other trash out of car windows. The city should fight continually to improve this situation and urge every civic minded organization to join in the drive for a cleaner Chicago.

A HOUSEKEEPER.

THANKS FOR LIVES SAVED.

While riding down Central avenue in Highland Park recently, I noticed quite a lot of commotion as I approached the North Western railroad crossing. Several of the Yellow cab drivers jumped out of their cabs and waved frantically until four passing cars came to a halt. Upon inquiring I found the new streamliner, the 400, was coming down from the north about 70 miles an hour, but the gates at the crossing failed to lower to stop the traffic.

I would like to thank these drivers, Dave Markowitz, Ed Erickson and Ed Morley for saving my life, along with many others. I have since heard this is the second time these cab drivers were alert enough to stop the on-coming cars and I wish to commend these boys at this time.

DIVISION-CLARK LIGHTS AGAIN.

The letter by A. H. S. in last Sunday's Voice is slightly encouraging. He says he has been informed by David Mark that stop and go lights are to be installed at Division and Clark streets after the construction of a subway station. That's fine, but what about now? They are needed there badly.

Why can't the alderman put pressure on the city engineering department and have these lights put up immediately?

DIVISION STREETER.

BIKE RIDERS ON WALKS.

What can be done about sidewalk bike riders?

The other day I saw an aged woman struck by a bike riding youngster. The bike knocked her to the ground injuring her arm.

Surely, we pedestrians have a few rights left.

PRATT AVENUE TO BE WIDENED; CANAL BRIDGED

Vitalizing of 'Forgotten Tract' Is Seen.

The north and northwest sides are to be linked in the near future by the improvement and widening of Pratt avenue from Western avenue to McCormick road. A two lane bridge is to be built over the drainage canal at McCormick road.

This announcement was made last week by County Commissioner Frank Bobrytzke. Plans for the project will be completed this summer. The widening is expected by property owners to vitalize what they call "the forgotten subdivision tract" between Western avenue and the canal.

The traffic load on Devon and Touhy avenues, now used as routes from Rogers Park and the northwest suburbs, will be considerably lifted, Commissioner Bobrytzke asserted. Pratt avenue west of McCormick road is paved as an 18 foot highway to Caldwell road.

Cost Is Not Fixed.

No price has been fixed for the project by the state and county highway departments. The money is to come out of motor fuel tax funds. The state department has given its approval and the county board has authorized the highway department to go ahead with the plans.

No provision has been made yet, Commissioner Bobrytzke said, to pave the stretch between Western avenue and Ridge boulevard. This part of the street runs alongside the Edgewater golf course. East of Ridge boulevard to the lake the street is a park district boulevard.

"When the project is completed Pratt avenue will be a thorofare linking the north and northwest sides," Mr. Bobrytzke said. "At present the only suitable routes for traffic are Devon and Touhy avenues."

Property Owners Active.

Active in striving to obtain the Pratt avenue improvement program is a group of owners of property adjacent to the street between Western avenue and the canal. This group, organized as a committee, has requested the city to make the street a thorofare from the lake to Carpenter road in Lincolnwood, formerly Tessville. Henry A. Proesel, Lincolnwood president, is a member of the committee.

H. D. Pierson, 7369 Ridge boulevard, one of the leaders of the committee, said the area would increase in land values when the street has been widened. He has owned property there for 25 years, he said. He is vice president of the West Ridge Improvement association.

Other property owners on the committee include D. F. Ryan, Lake Villa; Harry Salinger, 645 Stratford place; Dr. F. H. Steinhoff, 185 North Wabash avenue; Bruce Smeed, 1409 Hood avenue; C. H. Adamick, 516 East Illinois street; Earl G. Gubbins, 6447 North Francisco avenue; J. P. Geiger, 6538 North Maplewood avenue.

Mrs. Ray Pane, 4839 North Ferdinand street; Joseph P. Savage, 3240 Lake Shore drive; Bernard Brickley, 623 Belden avenue; Mrs. Theresa Zimmer, 6812 North California avenue; Percy Wilson, 1645 Pratt boulevard; A. O. Wange, 7250 Rogers avenue, and D. A. Roti, 2603 Devon avenue.

SCOUT, TROOP 826 WILL CELEBRATE 2 ANNIVERSARIES

Boy Scouts of troop 826 will celebrate two anniversaries Wednesday evening at the Sovereign hotel—their own 10th anniversary and the 10th year of Oscar Topaz, 6324 North Claremont avenue, as their Scoutmaster.

The troop is under the sponsorship of Congregation B'nai Zion, 1447 Pratt boulevard. It has 75 members. Scoutmaster Topaz is a member of the executive committee of Wakay chapter, national fraternity for honor Boy Scout campers. He is past president of the Scoutleaders Association of Rogers Park.

Getting Professional Advice

Paula Lewis of Glencoe (left), a member of the Threshold players, is receiving some professional advice from Doris Dalton, leading lady in the cast of "The Man Who Came to Dinner," on makeup and stage technique. Mrs. Lewis will play Ethel Campion in "Petticoat Fever," to be presented by the Threshold players on Friday and Saturday night in the Glencoe auditorium. Miss Dalton starred in this role here and in New York.

$325,000 PAID TO DEPOSITORS OF CLOSED BANK

Bank of Commerce Cash Goes to 12,000.

Division of $325,000 among the 12,000 depositors of the closed Chicago Bank of Commerce was the principal activity in the defunct state bank situation during the first 1940 quarter, so far as the north side is concerned.

This is shown by the new statements just issued by State Auditor Edward J. Barrett, showing the condition of the first group of receiverships on March 31. These statements are based principally on reports made by Charles H. Albers, general receiver for all but two of the closed state banks in Cook county that are still in receivership.

The Bank of Commerce repayment was the seventh and final one to be made since the bank suspended on June 25, 1932.

Here are summaries of the new figures for the first group of north side banks, with the receiver's estimates of the future outlook for the depositors:

Builders and Merchants Bank and Trust—Total receipts, $3,222,063. Paid on prior claims, $970,560. Paid depositors, $1,281,048, or 45 per cent. Costs: Receivers, $34,691; legal, $131,536; clerical, $177,396; interest, $1,870; advanced to protect assets, $531,505, with $516,341 refunded. Cash, $93,454. About 5 per cent more is foreseen.

Chicago Bank of Commerce—Total receipts, $6,782,994. Paid on prior claims, $984,639. Paid depositors, $2,427,958, or 57 per cent. Costs: Receivers, $22,631; legal, $406,893; clerical, $394,404; interest, $5,739; advanced to protect assets, $2,230,434, with $2,280,023 refunded. Cash, $310,293, most of it earmarked for purposes other than the debt to depositors, whose recoveries may rise to 65 per cent or a little better.

Citizens State Bank of Chicago—Total receipts, $3,421,329. Paid on prior claims, $1,830,999. Paid depositors, $102,293, or 5 per cent. Costs: Receivers, $10,958; legal, $64,867; clerical, $150,432; interest, $172,466; advanced to protect assets, $1,008,478, with $930,842 refunded. Cash, $80,834, none of it applicable to the debt to depositors, who may get another 5 per cent before the receivership ends.

City State Bank of Chicago—Total receipts, $2,041,625. Paid on prior claims, $731,129. Paid depositors, $914,097, or 32 per cent. Costs: Receivers, $60,448; legal, $78,185; clerical, $111,290; interest, $206; advanced to protect assets, $113,709, with $85,715 refunded. Cash, $32,557. Very little more may be expected by the general creditors.

Congress Trust and Savings—Total receipts, $1,944,333. Paid on prior claims, $568,561. Paid depositors, $778,629, or 100 per cent. Costs: Receivers, $9,217; legal, $37,891; clerical, $161,413; interest, $5,671; advanced to protect assets, $214,475, with $255,874 refunded. Cash, $37,344. This receivership is being continued only for the benefit of stockholders who aided in the final payout.

Cosmopolitan State—Total receipts, $4,969,771. Paid on prior claims, $1,412,404. Paid depositors, $527,030, or 40 per cent. Costs: Receivers, $1,648; legal, $59,912; clerical, $132,636; interest, $207,652; advanced to protect assets, $1,985,712, with $1,880,899 refunded. Cash, $35,293, none of which can be used for new repayments to the depositors, who have been satisfied with the aid of an RFC loan, part of which remains unpaid.

Similar figures for another group of north side banks will be available for publication in these columns at an early date.

Party Chairman

Mrs. H. C. Hickey, 6334 Sheridan road, is chairman of the spring party to be given by St. Gertrude's School guild at 8 o'clock Thursday in the Sovereign hotel, 6200 Kenmore avenue, for the benefit of the sisters.

WOMEN TO HELP IN REDUCTION OF INFANT DEATHS

Education of Public Is the Principal Aim.

Plans for a women's committee to work as a liaison group between the public and the maternal welfare committee of the Lake County Medical society are being forwarded by Dr. L. F. Bushnell of Highland Park, chairman. Favorable action on the project was taken at a recent tea attended by 62 delegates from various women's organizations in the county.

Requests for more information on the activities of such a committee were received from 74 representatives. Fourteen women representing various sections of the county have agreed to serve as members of a permanent committee. Dr. Bushnell will call a meeting for the last of this month to outline a definite program.

Members of Committee.

Committee members include Mrs. D. S. Bartlett, Mrs. A. C. Schroeder, and Mrs. Herbert Roos, Waukegan; Mrs. W. V. Briddle, Mrs. Horace Valle, and Mrs. George Prindle, Highland Park; Miss Cecilia Murray, Wauconda; Mrs. Ben Robbins, Zion; Mrs. Ruth Pettis, Deerfield; Mrs. A. E. Vollum, Lake Bluff; Mrs. H. A. Rissinger, Lake Forest; Mrs. H. J. Dernehl, Lake Zurich; Miss Helen J. Volk, Grayslake, and Mrs. A. E. Johnson, Libertyville.

By spreading maternal welfare information the committee will attempt to reduce maternal and infant mortality, avert fear of childbearing, prevent abortion, stress the value of premarital and pregnancy examinations for venereal disease, and to impress fathers with their responsibilities.

"This country has one of the highest maternal mortality rates in the civilized world," explained Dr. Bushnell. "Most of these mothers and babies could be saved if the public realized the necessity of medical attention from the beginning of pregnancy."

Specifically, the lay committee will arrange for maternal welfare meetings, schedule speakers to address various organizations in the county, and help to interest groups of women in studying the needs of local hospitals.

Give Birth Statistics.

Statistics for Lake county show that in 1938 there were 1,618 births with 16 stillborn and three maternal deaths. Last year there were 1,549 births with 53 still births and six maternal deaths. According to Dr. Bushnell, a great percentage of the still births could have been prevented by early obstetrical care.

The study and prevention of infant mortality was started by three medical groups in 1920 in Asheville, N. C. Several of the pioneering physicians in this field were from Illinois and in 1934 the American Committee on Maternal Welfare was incorporated in this state.

This committee, composed of representatives from 21 national health groups, stimulates interest by issuing booklets and organizing auxiliary committees in state and county medical societies.

Will Offer Comedy.

Delta chapter of Phi Omicron will present a three-act comedy entitled "Cinderella Charlie" at 8:15 o'clock Saturday evening in the Ravenswood Masonic temple, Wilson avenue and Paulina street.

"I pay $9.50 for my fur storage because, when I itemize everything included in Shayne's Complete Fur Storage Service', I find that I actually get more for my money."
So speaks a knowing Chicagoan . . .
"I happen to own a Beaver coat which furriers tell me is hard to clean, and must be hand-ironed. For this service alone, I would have to pay more than $9.50 . . . and almost that much for the cleaning of any kind of fur. But at Shayne's it is included in the storage rate. And according to the U. S. Bureau of Entomology (which surely should know), the most essential factor in the care of a fur coat is its cleaning. All cleaning at Shayne's is done by hand, and linings are cleaned separately. The fur is also hand-glazed.
"Then too, at Shayne's I get an entire year's moth protection for my furs whether they're in my possession or theirs. Nowhere else in Chicago can I get this service with my fur storage . . . Shayne's introduced the plan here.
"So you see why I feel that I get a very great deal for my $9.50 . . . ."

NORTH END CLUB TO FETE PIONEER GROUP TUESDAY

Special Guests to Be 19 Who Joined in 1897.

Mrs. Mathias Schmitz. [Koehne Photo.]

Nineteen women who joined the North End Woman's club in its first year, 1897, will be guests on Founders' day at 2 o'clock Tuesday in the clubhouse, 6200 Sheridan road. Mrs. Mathias Schmitz, president, will preside. The founders will be asked to tell the new members any interesting facts about the club which stand out in their memories.

For the program Mrs. Emil Smrz will present Miss Linda Sool, violinist, and Miss Phyllis Fergus, dramatist, who will read story poems with musical settings. Mrs. William W. Plewes' one act play, "The Bishop's Wife," which recently received first place in the district contest, will be enacted by club members.

Ray Binder will direct the cast composed of Mrs. Mortimer Baruch, Mrs. Rudolph Reiners, Mrs. Harold Tatro, Mrs. Schmitz, Mrs. Oscar Heide, Mrs. J. Steven Long, and Miss Lucille Piper.

Rogers Park Catholic Club.

Mrs. Frank Sawyer.

The club, which was founded in 1901 as the Eliza Allen Star association of St. Jerome church, will close its 39th season tomorrow with a luncheon and program in the Sovereign hotel, 6200 Kenmore avenue. Mrs. Frank Sawyer is arranging the program. Mrs. Richard Cross, the first president, was director of the Chicago Ceramic society, a member of the Art institute, where she taught ceramics, and a charter member of the Pallette and Chisel club.

Since 1913, when the club was reorganized under its present name, there have been 14 presidents in charge. Tomorrow Mrs. M. Charles Zimmer will turn over her gavel to Mrs. C. J. McGurn.

Thru the years the members have concentrated on philanthropic activities. The charities included not only Chicago institutions but donations to a federal prison in the east to help furnish a chapel, to the Geneva Home for Girls for a chapel, and to an isolated church group in Montana.

Among the local groups to benefit are the Red Cross, Great Lakes hospital, Misericordia hospital, Chicago Parental school, needy families, Seeing Eye association, Cancer control, five Indian missions, Indian scholarship fund, scholarship for worthy students, Angel Guardian orphanage, and St. Mary of Providence Home for Crippled Children.

Lake Shore Woman's Club.

A spring luncheon at 12:30 o'clock Wednesday in the Edgewater Beach hotel will close the club's 35th year. Mrs. George J. Aste, president, and her board of directors will welcome the new president, Mrs. Martin J. Hogan, and her board members. After luncheon members will play bridge. Mrs. James F. Burns, social chairman, will be in charge.

Rogers Park Woman's Club.

Mrs. J. C. McClelland, 738 Dobson street, Evanston, will be hostess to the international relations division for a dessert luncheon tomorrow. Continuing the study club on South America, Mrs. H. A. Crews, Mrs. L. R. Allen, Mrs. J. V. Tinen, and Mrs. Franklin Wanner will give reports. Mrs. Allen is chairman.

Mrs. J. I. Ennis and her daughter, Mrs. Augustus H. Mueller, both members of the club, will be special guests at the mothers and daughters' banquet of the Rogers Park Y. M. C. A. at 6:30 o'clock Friday. Both Mrs. Ennis and Mrs. Mueller will speak on "The Importance of a Hobby." Their hobbies are painting and sculpturing.

Our Lady of Lourdes.

Mrs. Alexander L. L. Keohane. [Richard Photo.]

Mrs. Alexander L. Keohane, social chairman, will be in charge of arrangements for the spring luncheon and card party at 12:30 o'clock Wednesday in the Edgewater Golf club, 2045 Pratt boulevard. Mrs. John L. Lukanitsch, president, will introduce her successor, Mrs. J. F. Hogan.

Other new officers are: Mrs. J. H. Gilbert, treasurer; Mrs. Keohane, second vice president; and Mrs. William O'Malley, financial secretary. Retiring from those offices are Mrs. Albert Gage, Mrs. Lawrence Fisher, and Mrs. Lorne E. Rupay. Mrs. Hugh Kearns and Mrs. Harry Glass are on the luncheon committee.

North Side League of Voters.

Mrs. W. W. Ramsey, vice president of the Illinois League of Women Voters, will introduce the state president, Mrs. George G. Bogert, as speaker at the annual spring luncheon of the North Side league. Luncheon will be served at 12:30 o'clock Wednesday in the Sovereign hotel, 6200 Kenmore avenue. Mrs. Bogert will speak on "The Spirit of 1940 in the Illinois League."

The annual business session for reports and election of officers will precede the luncheon at 11 o'clock. Reservations for the lunch should be made with Mrs. George Harney, 6720 North Maplewood avenue.

Recently Married

Mrs. Marguerite Coughlin, 2627 Farragut avenue, announces the recent marriage of her daughter, Kathleen June, to Harold Opperman, son of Mrs. Laura G. Opperman, 5819 Ridge avenue. [Youngberg Photo.]

Swedish Interchurch Group Plans War Relief Meeting

The Swedish Interchurch council will hold a war relief meeting for Finland and Norway Tuesday evening at the Moody Memorial church, North avenue and Clark street. Speakers will include the Rev. Karl Hurtig, pastor for 35 years of the Helsingfors, Finland, Methodist church, and Frank Mangs, Swedish evangelist. The Swedish Baptist Women's chorus will furnish music. The entire program will be in Swedish.

SICK CHILDREN FIND LILAC DAY LIKE NEW WORLD

Seldom See a Flower in Home Districts.

"Lilac day is grand because our children have a chance to touch and smell a spray of flowers," said Miss Mabel W. Binner, superintendent of the Children's Memorial hospital, 707 Fullerton avenue.

"Most of our patients come from congested areas and seldom see a flower. Every child loves flowers—don't we always have to admonish them 'not to touch?'—and even the youngest ones remember the flowers as part of the good time they had here."

As the lilac season approaches, patients in hospitals and members of settlements begin to inquire about Lilac day which is sponsored annually by the Chicago Plant, Flower and Fruit guild and THE TRIBUNE. Children's Memorial hospital is one of the north side institutions always remembered.

Enjoy Hospital Days.

Miss Binner has proof that the children enjoy their days in the hospital. On the day he was leaving, one little boy who had been there more than a year insisted on stopping at Miss Binner's office "to tell her what a good time I've had." Another who had spent Christmas there sent back a dollar of his meager funds to help make another patient happy on that day and a third came in on his birthday to give the hospital a dollar.

Flowers from the guild and hospital board members help to make the hospital a pleasant place to remember. After one little boy asked his nurse how flowers were born, Miss Binner decided to plant some seeds in flower pots in the wards and in window boxes on the roof. But children find it hard to wait for the natural processes of nature to change the seed into a flower.

"If they planted a seed in the morning," explained Miss Binner laughingly, "they expected a bouquet by afternoon. In addition, every few hours they would dig up the seeds to see how things were coming along. We find it better to have a blooming flower to show them, if we can get them."

Hope for More Lilacs.

If plans of the general guild committees and division chairmen succeed, there will be more lilacs than ever available this spring. Under the direction of Mrs. Stanley D. Grace of Highland Park, the new general chairman replacing Mrs. David L. Meyers of La Grange, division leaders are contacting guild chairmen in 81 garden clubs in the Chicago area to forward the work. In turn, garden club members are asking friends to contribute lilacs for the offerings this spring.

The date for distribution of lilacs will be set as soon as the weather permits. North side division chairmen working with Mrs. Grace are Mrs. Lloyd G. Rees, Wilmette, Southern Milwaukee division, North Western railway; Mrs. Warren R. Nelson, Glencoe, Northern Milwaukee division, North Western railway, and Mrs. Albert W. Torbet, Deerfield, North Shore Line.

North Siders Observe 61st Anniversary of Wedding

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas H. Wingate, 2701 Dayton avenue, observed their 61st wedding anniversary Monday. They have resided at the same address for 26 years. They have no children. Mr. Wingate, a retired railroad worker, is 85 years old and Mrs. Wingate is 80. They were married in Sullivan, Ill., in 1879, and came to Chicago in 1885.

"Lilac Chairman"

Mrs. Stanley D. Grace of Highland Park is the new chairman of the general committee of the Chicago Plant, Flower, and Fruit guild which will direct plans for the 12th annual "Share Your Lilacs" campaign this spring, sponsored jointly by the guild and The Tribune. She succeeds Mrs. David L. Meyers of La Grange.

ADELPHIC DRAMA LEAGUE TO GIVE 'BROKEN DISHES'

Lilyan Olson.

The Adelphic Drama league will present a three-act comedy, "Broken Dishes," Friday and Saturday evenings at Trinity Lutheran church, Kenmore and Barry avenues. Proceeds will benefit Augustana hospital.

Leading rôles will be played by Lilyan Olson and Gustave Rodell. Other members of the cast are Robert Johnson, Hazel Trophenbaum, Rosebud Wennerberg, Wendell Carlson, Anne Palmquist, and Carl Peterson.

Will Dance Friday.

A dance will be held Friday evening by the young people of Congregational church of Rogers Park, 1545 Morse avenue, in the parish house. Milton Koenig, 7717 North Hermitage avenue, is chairman.

Engdahl, homemaking chairman, will be in charge.

Dr. Irene M. Josselyn, psychiatrist of Highland Park, will speak before the Jamieson P.-T. A. Tuesday afternoon at the school assembly hall, 5650 North Mozart street, on "Mental Health of the Normal Child."

New officers will be installed by Mrs. Louis Brookman Jr., vice president of district 23 and 24 high school council. They include Mrs. James J. Swiskow, president; Mrs. Victor Bredberg, first vice president; Mrs. John Kaderli, second vice president; Mrs. Harley Magee, recording secretary; Mrs. C. J. Hughes, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. H. H. Brown, treasurer.

A jubilee dinner will be held Wednesday evening by Lake View High school P.-T. A. in the school lunchroom, 4015 North Ashland avenue. Proceeds will go toward furnishing a new social room.

Installation of officers of Stone P.-T. A. will be held tomorrow afternoon at the school, 6237 North Leavitt street. Mrs. Varian Shea, principal of Von Steuben High school, will speak on "Responsibilities of Tomorrow." New officers include Mrs. G. F. Hibbert, president; Mrs. W. R. Crowley, first vice president; Mrs. E. M. Palmer, second vice president; Mrs. W. A. Stehle, third vice president; Mrs. P. E. Norton, treasurer; Mrs. J. G. Temple, recording secretary, and Mrs. V. A. Leengran, corresponding secretary.

Members of the Eugene Field graduating class will present a musical program tomorrow afternoon at the regular monthly meeting of the school P.-T. A. New officers to be installed are Mrs. Thomas Blott, president; Mrs. Oscar Chaum, Mrs. William G. Young, and Mrs. Emeline Schumacher, vice presidents; Mrs. Sol Goodman, recording secretary; Mrs. J. D. Ohanstein, corresponding secretary; Mrs. H. A. Humphrey, treasurer, and Mrs. Marie S. Rocks, auditor.

Mrs. F. Russell Lyon, newly elected president of the Illinois Congress of Parents and Teachers, will appear before the Alexander Hamilton P.-T. A. tomorrow afternoon at the school, 1650 Cornelia avenue. She will speak on "The Responsibility of the Parent to the Community," and also install new officers.

Officers of Swift P.-T. A. will be installed tomorrow afternoon in the school assembly hall, 5900 Winthrop avenue. They are Mrs. Joseph H. Carr, president; Mrs. M. E. Feutchtinger, first vice president; Mrs. A. J. Fry, second vice president; Mrs. S. H. Walker, recording secretary, and Mrs. T. H. Stevens, corresponding secretary.

A gymnasium drill will be presented tomorrow afternoon at the regular meeting of the Trumbull P.-T. A., 1600 Foster avenue, under the direction of Jules Mishkin, gymnasium instructor. Officers of the association will be installed. They are Mrs J. C. Jansson, president; Mrs. William C. Scherwat, first vice president; Mrs G. O. Lindmark, second vice president; Mrs. J. P. Alt, third vice president; Mrs. A. R. Carlson, corresponding secretary; Mrs. R. P. Henry, recording secretary, and Mrs. Floyd O. Gabriel, treasurer.

The parent education class of Armstrong P.-T. A. will meet tomorrow afternoon in the Reynolds library of the school, 2111 Estes avenue.

Hostess at Conference

Miss Shirley Lucas, newly elected president of Beta Rho chapter of Alpha Delta Pi at Lake Forest college, is official hostess for the North Central conference of the sorority. The two day anniversary celebration of the sorority's 89th birthday will close today at the college.

Methodist Women Will Hold Spring Meeting Next Friday

Representatives from more than 35 churches are expected to attend the spring meeting of the North Shore group of the Methodist Women's association Friday in Joyce Memorial church, Seeley avenue and Byron street. Latest plans for "Women in United Methodism" as outlined by the general conference held recently in Atlantic City will be presented by Mrs. James Odshue, who attended the conference.

Mrs. O. R. Aspegren.

Mrs. Oliver R. Aspegren of Evanston, president, will preside at the meeting, which opens at 9:45 o'clock. The Rev. George T. Carl, pastor of the host church, will give the invocation. Other morning speakers are Mrs. Jewell Martin Lovejoy, who will discuss the Wesley Memorial hospital, and Miss Flora Sorber, whose topic is "Deaconesses in the United Church."

After luncheon a program devoted to the American Negro, led by Mrs. Wendell E. Green, will be presented. Under the title "Catch the Vision," Mrs. Green will discuss social work among Negroes and the Negro in the arts. Mabel Molarcher, soprano, will sing. The meeting will adjourn with a report from the courtesy committee.

Luncheon reservations should be made with Mrs. John Schmekel, 3921 North Seeley avenue, by Wednesday. Officers in addition to Mrs. Aspegren are Mrs. Robert M. Johnston, first vice president; Mrs. M. D. Strong, second vice president; Mrs. E. N. Smith, recording secretary; Mrs. C. G. West, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. M. H. Dawson, treasurer.

Evanston First Methodist.

"School and the Small Child" will be the theme of the Mothers' circle program at 8 o'clock tomorrow night in the home of Mrs. Robert C. Teare, 2407 Hartzell street, Evanston. Viola Theman, instructor in the department of education at Northwestern university and psychologist for Wilmette schools, will speak on "Reading Readiness"; Helen Sargent, instructor in the psychology department, will conduct a forum on "Emotional Readiness," and Kathryn Purcell Johnson will read poetry.

The board of the Junior guild will close its work with a luncheon meeting at 1 o'clock Tuesday in the Young People's parlor in the church. Mrs. Walter L. Johnson, president, will conduct the business session.

Guild Meets Wednesday.

Mrs. George E. Dickson, 1819 Hinman avenue, Evanston, will be hostess at 2:30 o'clock Wednesday to members of the guild for the annual "mite box" opening sponsored by the foreign and home service committees. A feature of the program will be a group of songs by Margaret Gent, accompanied by Helen Hawk Carlisle. The work groups will assemble as usual at 10:30 o'clock in Great hall. Miss M. L. Guthapfel will lead chapel at 12:10 o'clock and luncheon will be served afterward.

Mrs. Roscoe A. Page, 2424 Lincoln street, Evanston, will open her home for the last meeting of the retiring Service guild board at a 1:15 o'clock luncheon tomorrow. Assisting hostesses will include Mrs. R. W. Tackaberry, Mrs. C. A. R. Wardwell, Mrs. W. H. Wark, and Mrs. Bradley T. Williams.

"Never saw anything like it!" "Those ads are certainly bringing in the customers!"
Are you selling all the people right in your own neighborhood who might trade with you?
For more than 12 years, large and small businesses located in many neighborhoods and suburbs of Chicago have proved conclusively that there is no better way to build sales and profits than by running a consistent schedule of low-cost advertising in the Sunday Tribune Metropolitan sections.
During 1939, a total of 745 neighborhood enterprises used this advertising plan to get a greater share of the patronage of the families who can best trade with them.
One or more of these five sections — North, Northwest, West, Southwest, and South — are edited for and read exclusively by the families in your trading area.
For more information about this time and result-tested plan for increasing your sales, call SUPerior 0100 — Metropolitan section advertising.

In Benefit Musical

Miss Jeanette Albert, pianist, will be featured on a musical program to be sponsored by the Women of Mizpah at 2 o'clock Wednesday in the Knickerbocker hotel. Mrs. Oscar Plotkin, co-chairman of the program, is one of Miss Albert's sponsors. Samuel Thaviu, violinist, and Margery Mayer, contralto, also will appear on the benefit program for the Jacob Singer scholarship fund. [Maurice Photo.]

WILMETTE GUILD TO SEE BRIDAL REVUE IN DRAMA

Members to Don Gowns of Former Years.

"Finders Keepers," a play by Mrs. J. A. Burrill of Wilmette, was written especially for the annual spring luncheon of the Woman's guild of the Wilmette Congregational church to be held Friday in the Shawnee Country club. Mrs. James H. Fletcher is directing the production and Mrs. Frederick W. Taylor, social chairman, is in charge of luncheon arrangements.

Guild members taking leading parts are Mrs. Robert Fletcher as the bride, Mrs. Frank Adams as her mother, Mrs. Garrett Johnston as her grandmother and Mrs. J. Nye Macalister as the aunt. In the first scene, the young girl's engagement is being announced at a garden party and this provides the setting for a revue of wedding dresses.

Will Model Old Gowns.

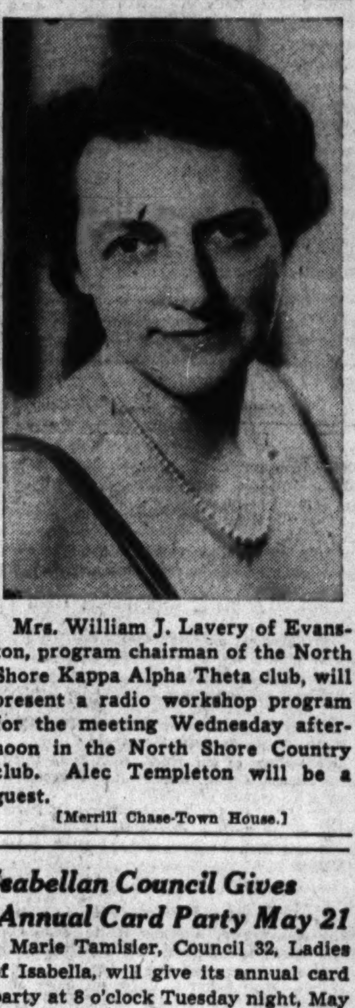
About 20 cherished gowns, some quite old and others of a more recent vintage, will be taken out of their tissue paper wrappings, pressed carefully and modeled by the owners or their daughters or granddaughters. Mrs. H. E. Coyl is in charge of this feature, assisted by Mrs. John Millett, Mrs. Edward Schutte and Mrs. Robert Shireman.

Among the garden party guests are several musicians who are invited to perform. Mrs. Dryden Eberhardt will sing and Mrs. George Whitford will play the harp, accompanied by Mrs. George B. Knepper.

Chairman of Party.

Arrangements are being handled by the following chairmen: Mrs. F. A. Cushing Smith, program; Mrs. Frank Scheidenhelm, tables; Miss Frances Scheidenhelm, flowers and staging, assisted by Mrs. Frank LaBonte, Mrs. Paul Gross and Mrs. Ross Moyer; Mrs. W. G. Mitchell, publicity, and Mrs. Carleton Banker and Mrs. Albert Tucker, reservations.

Will Offer Program



Mrs. William J. Lavery of Evanston, program chairman of the North Shore Kappa Alpha Theta club, will present a radio workshop program for the meeting Wednesday afternoon in the North Shore Country club. Alec Templeton will be a guest. [Merrill Chase-Town House.]

Isabellan Council Gives Annual Card Party May 21

Marie Tamisier, Council 32, Ladies of Isabella, will give its annual card party at 8 o'clock Tuesday night, May 21, in the clubroom at 4220 Lincoln avenue. Door awards will be distributed and the table prizes will be hand worked pillow cases. Mrs. Margaret Ludes, chairman, assisted by the trustees, will serve refreshments. Trustees include Miss Marie Bilstein, Mrs. Mary Muth, Mrs. Florence Groble, Mrs. Jeannette Sheehan, and Mrs. Helen Schoen. Mrs. Amelia Koehler is grand lady.

DRAMATIC STUDY GROUP TO OFFER A SCHOLARSHIP

Will Be to N. U. School of Speech.

The Winnetka Drama Study group at its recent annual meeting decided to provide an annual tuition scholarship in the school of speech at Northwestern university. The scholarship will be financed by the proceeds from a program and tea on Tuesday afternoon, May 21, in the Winnetka Community house.

Mrs. Walter F. Dodd, executive chairman of the benefit, has been reelected president. The club, which has just observed its second anniversary, was for 11 years the educational department of the Winnetka Drama club.

"Current Players at Work" will be the dramatic feature of the program. Mrs. Lloyd Faxon will read scenes from current plays in which Lillian Gish, Helen Hayes, Katherine Cornell, Nazimova, and Gertrude Lawrence achieved their greatest successes. Members in costume will portray these actresses.

Music on Program.

Music will be provided by Helen Fulton Schockley, pianist, assisted by a violinist and cellist from the school of music at Northwestern. Miss Marion Keeney will give a dance. Tea will be served after the program.

Mrs. Michelet Jr., chairman of patrons, is assembling a list of 80 groups and individuals. Among the coöperating clubs are the Friends of Drama of Evanston, North Shore Alumnae clubs of Delta Gamma, Alpha Phi and Pi Beta Phi, Chicago alumnae of Alpha Chi Omega, The Neighbors of Kenilworth, Winnetka Drama club, Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity, East Elm Street circle, and Orchard Lane circle in Winnetka, the Girls club of New Trier High school, and the drama clubs of Evanston Township High school.

On the patrons list are Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Jewell Dick, Mrs. Seymour Morris, Dr. and Mrs. Charles Galloway, Mr. and Mrs. William B. McIlvaine, Mrs. Frederick A. DePeyster, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Ballard, Clarence A. Miller, Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Vance, and W. L. Childs.

Officers who will serve with Mrs. Dodd next season include Mrs. D. Lawrence Shaw, 1st vice president; Mrs. Edward Stange, 2d vice president; Mrs. Christian A. Ruckmick, recording secretary; Mrs. Rowland Wehr, corresponding secretary; Mrs. G. J. Nickel, and Mrs. Bert Wolsey, treasurers.

Mrs. Charles Jules Michelet Jr., program chairman; Mrs. R. Boyd Anderson, social chairman; Mrs. W. P. Lukens, membership; Mrs. W. A. Nabors and Mrs. Louis A. Sherman, current plays; Mrs. Stange, scholarship; Mrs. Arthur F. Klein and Mrs. Edward H. Harrison, historians, and Mrs. Walter N. Stuckslager, Mrs. Edwin T. Schildberg, Mrs. George H. Rigler, Mrs. F. M. Polhamius, and Mrs. John B. Baggaley, hospitality committee.

CLEVELAND PREACHER WILL BE SPEAKER AT SUNDAY EVENING CLUB

Dr. Edwin McNeill Poteat, pastor of Euclid Avenue Baptist church, Cleveland, O., who has not addressed the Sunday Evening club since his first appearance in 1937, will speak tonight in Orchestra hall on "The Defections of Simon." Clifford W. Barnes will preside and the scripture will be read by William E. Goodman.

Dr. E. McN. Poteat.

Dr. Poteat is a southerner and built up his pulpit fame while pastor of Pullen Memorial Baptist church in Raleigh, N. C. His preaching is popular with student youth in whom he is reported to see "an intelligent opposition to social conditions conducive to war." His best known published book is "These Shared His Passion."

The music at the preliminary meeting will be furnished by Christ Evangelical Lutheran church of Chicago under the direction of Erhardt Bergstrasser. The informal Bible talk will be given by Hudson H. Pittman.

HONEY SALESMEN ARE OUT TO AID VACATION CAMP

Boys and girls of the Evanston Y. M. C. A. became salesmen last week and began making the rounds of the suburb in an effort to sell 5,000 jars of honey as a money-raising drive to send sixty youths to a vacation camp this summer.

The honey salesmen are members of the Torch clubs of the "Y," and boys and girls have teamed up as couples in the selling campaign. The champion couple will win the title, "King and Queen of Honey." Runners-up in the sales contest will receive titles as duke, duchess, count and countess. Winners will be crowned officially at a spring dance to be held June 7 at the Shawnee Country club.

The funds will go to pay for the transportation and living expenses for ten days this summer, beginning Aug. 24, for a group of underprivileged boys at Camp Echo, near Fremont, Mich., operated by the Evanston "Y."

Constipation Relief That Also Pepsin-izes Stomach
When constipation brings on acid indigestion, bloating, dizzy spells, gas, coated tongue, sour taste, and bad breath, your stomach is probably loaded up with certain undigested food and your bowels don't move. So you need both Pepsin to help break up fast that rich undigested food in your stomach, and Laxative Senna to pull the trigger on those lazy bowels. So be sure your laxative also contains Pepsin. Take Dr. Caldwell's Laxative, because its Syrup Pepsin helps you gain that wonderful stomach comfort, while the Laxative Senna moves your bowels. Tests prove the power of Pepsin to dissolve those lumps of undigested protein food which may linger in your stomach, to cause belching, gastric acidity and nausea. This is how pepsinizing your stomach helps relieve it of such distress. At the same time this medicine wakes up lazy nerves and muscles in your bowels to relieve your constipation. So see how much better you feel by taking the laxative that also puts Pepsin to work on that stomach discomfort, too. Even finicky children love to taste this pleasant family laxative. Buy Dr. Caldwell's Laxative—Senna with Syrup Pepsin at your druggist today!

'STUDENT PRINCE' NEXT ON CHICAGO THEATER OF AIR

Opera Guild Will Hear Claire, Gorin, Peerce.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Sigmund Romberg's tuneful "Student Prince," most popular of all operettas, is to be presented on the second broadcast of the Chicago Theater of the Air next Thursday evening. "The Student Prince" will be aired over the coast to coast network of the Mutual broadcasting system from 9 to 10 o'clock with Marion Claire, famous soprano; Igor Gorin, young baritone of the concert, opera and radio, and Jan Peerce, Radio City Music hall tenor, as the three stars.

They will be supported by the augmented W-G-N Concert orchestra and chorus under the direction of Henry Weber and a cast of distinguished radio actors. William A. Bacher will produce and direct the show. Noel B. Gerson wrote the adaptation.

Members of the Illinois Opera guild will be special guests of "The Student Prince" broadcast. The guild is active in stimulating interest in the Chicago Opera. The guild last year organized committees to sell opera tickets and subscriptions. It bought all of the boxes on Thursday nights and made the seats available free to more than 2,000 worthy music students. Mrs. James G. McMillan of Winnetka is president.

Ran 62 Weeks in Chicago.

"The Student Prince" has been viewed by hundreds of thousands of persons since first produced by J. J. Shubert in New York in 1924. It's first Chicago run continued for 62 weeks. At one time 12 stock comppanies were presenting it simultaneously.

With its setting in old Heidelberg in the gay days before the turn of the century, "The Student Prince" tells the story of Karl Franz, handsome young prince of Karlsberg, and of his poignant, short-lived romance with the beautiful Kathie, the little waitress beloved of all Heidelberg students, before he is called away from his studies to assume his duties as ruler of his country.

Miss Claire will sing the rôle of Kathie; Jan Peerce will be heard as Karl Franz, the student prince, and Igor Gorin will portray the singing rôle of Dr. Engel, the kindly teacher and adviser of Karl.

In the dramatic cast will be the fine company of actors that performed in "Bittersweet," the first operetta presented by the Chicago Theater of the Air.

This cast includes Alice Hill, Olan Soule, John Goldsworthy, Frances Carlon, Marvin Mueller, Butler Mandiville, Willard Waterman, Van Dyke, Stan Harris, and Barry Drew.

Miss Claire was starred in the first production of the series. She also is featured on THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE Symphonic hours at 9 p. m. Sundays on W-G-N-Mutual.

Gorin Hails Operetta Series.

Igor Gorin, youthful baritone, has interrupted his nation-wide concert tour for this broadcast. Gorin, who has traveled 60,000 miles since last November, is in Chicago already for rehearsals.

"Operetta," he said yesterday, "is just about the finest radio entertainment. One rarely hears a musical variety program without some light opera selection appearing on it. Operetta tunes outlive those on the hit parade. They have a great place in the heart of the public."

"I love working in operettas," he continued, "particularly when Bill Bacher is producing them."

Bacher, he said, gave him his first big opportunity. Bacher came across Gorin in an audition in New York in 1935; took him to the west coast for Hollywood hotel where they worked together for several years.

Proud of Citizenship.

Gorin came to America in 1935 from Vienna. Ten days after he arrived he applied for first citizenship papers and only a few weeks ago he received his final papers. He is extremely proud to be an American. Born in the Ukraine he hasn't always been too certain at times of his citizenship. That portion of the Ukraine has been switched back and forth between Russia and Poland several times during his lifetime.

Gorin was graduated from the Vienna conservatory and became the star baritone of the Czecho-Slovakia state opera. In Europe he was hailed for his performance in "Rigoletto" and as Figaro.

Besides his operatic, radio and concert activities Gorin has made one movie, "Broadway Melody," and is preparing to do another, now being written by Frances Marion. The story is concerned with the Finnish war. He is also a recording favorite.

Peerce Once a Violinist.

Jan Peerce, radio and concert favorite, was born on the east side of New York. He started his career as a violinist, played for 10 years in orchestras. His vocal talents were recognized with the opening of the Radio City Music hall. Last season he gave successful recitals in Carnegie and town halls in New York.

Guest Stars

Josephine Dunn and Morgan Farley, who will co-star in the W-G-N-Mutual network production, "The Country Doctor," on Fifth Row Center at 7 p. m. next Friday. Miss Dunn and Mr. Farley are currently appearing in "Margin for Error" at the Grand Opera house.

Back on W-G-N

Tom (Bud Vandover), Dick (Marlin Hurt), and Harry (Gordon Vandover), top to bottom, who will return to W-G-N at 10 a. m. tomorrow for a new Monday, Wednesday, and Friday series. [Seymour Photo.]

DR. CUTTER TALKS WITH A. B. MILLS ON HOSPITAL DAY

In observance of National Hospital day, Dr. Irving S. Cutter, dean of Northwestern university's medical school and health editor of THE TRIBUNE, and Alden B. Mills, managing editor of the Modern Hospital magazine, will appear on the Northwestern University Reviewing Stand this morning. Dr. Cutter and Mr. Mills will discuss "Ten Million Americans in the Hospital" on the broadcast over W-G-N and Mutual from 10:15 to 10:30 a. m.

Dr. Cutter and Mr. Mills will examine progress made in recent years in the United States in expansion of hospital facilities. Among the questions they plan to discuss are: Are there adequate hospital facilities in the United States? Are these facilities available to all who need them? What's the future outlook?

NORTHERNERS TO FEATURE HERBERT SONGS TUESDAY

The Northerners will feature songs by Victor Herbert in their broadcast from 9:30 to 10 p. m. Tuesday on W-G-N. Irene Verner will be the soloist. The entire Northerners cast will join in the presentation of songs from Herbert's "Rose of Algeria," which include the opening chorus and "Rose of the World."

Miss Verner will sing for her solo, "Solveig Song," by Edvard Grieg. The octet will sing "When You Wore a Tulip," "It's Tulip Time in Holland," "Any Old Port in a Storm," "The Singing Hills," and "O Dry Those Tears."

JOSEPHINE DUNN, MORGAN FARLEY ON W-G-N SHOW

Guests on 5th Row Center Next Friday.

Josephine Dunn and Morgan Farley will be co-starred in W-G-N-Mutual's Fifth Row Center program at 7 p. m. next Friday in a special presentation of Donald Spatz's drama, "The Country Doctor." The program is a weekly presentation of W-G-N and the Mutual chain and is produced by Blair Walliser.

Miss Dunn and Mr. Farley are currently appearing in "Margin for Error," Claire Booth's mystery drama at the Grand Opera house.

"Country Doctor" concerns a young physician who refuses to administer an injection which would continue the life of a patient for at least another 24 hours, but under conditions of great suffering. The patient dies and the physician is accused of breaking the strongest unwritten laws of the profession—maintaining life at any cost.

Rôles Are Reversed.

Barred from the city's hospital, his practice taken away from him, he and his nurse take up life again in a small town. By an ironic twist of fate, he himself becomes involved in a similar situation, but with the rôles reversed. This time the physician is the patient who, if saved, would live the rest of his life in darkness, never able to again practice medicine.

Josephine Dunn, taking the feminine lead as Nurse Ann Gibson, is known to moving picture fans for her parts in such screen productions as "Excess Baggage" and "Murder at Dawn."

Played in England.

Morgan Farley, who portrays the doctor, has been a leading figure of the stage both here and in England. He played Cassius in "Julius Caesar" with the Mercury players last year. He also has been featured in "Candida," "Romeo and Juliet," and in "An American Tragedy."

The overture and musical background of the radio play will be provided by the W-G-N dance orchestra under the direction of Harold Stokes.

HOLLIS SHAW TO SING TOMORROW WITH TEMPLETON

Four years ago in New York Alec Templeton, the pianist and impersonator, was so impressed with the singing of a young soprano on a local station that he vowed to help her if he ever got a chance. Tomorrow night at 8:30 this soprano, Hollis Shaw, now a Broadway star, will make a guest appearance on Templeton's show over WMAQ-NBC.

Hollis Shaw. [Kesslere Photo.]

A vivacious blonde, Miss Shaw, who sings everything from operatic arias to swing, will be heard in "All the Things You Are" which she introduced last fall in the Broadway production, "Very Warm for May."

Ethel Winser to Start Book Series on Tuesday

Ethel Reid Winser, literary authority, will launch a new series of radio programs titled "Off the Bookshelf" over WJJD on Tuesday. The programs will be heard each Tuesday and Thursday evening at 6:45 p. m.

WHAT DO YOU THINK?, NEW WOMAN'S QUIZ, STARTS TOMORROW

"What Do You Think?" a quiz program for every woman, makes its bow on W-G-N's program schedule tomorrow and will be heard each weekday in the future from 12:15 to 12:30 p. m. Alan Scott will conduct the program, which will be presented from the studios of W-G-N.

A group of women will attend the broadcast each day on the invitation of the sponsor, who will issue tickets to the program, and from the studio audience four will be selected to answer questions sent in by listeners. Listeners having questions accepted will receive $1 for each query. Women who are selected to answer right or wrong to the questions on the air will be paid $5 per program.

CARTUNE-O, NEW QUIZ, ON W-G-N NEXT THURSDAY

"Cartune-O," new musical quiz game, will make its bow over W-G-N at 7:30 p. m. next Thursday. Groceries and cash prizes amounting to $265 will be given away to listeners. Harold Stokes and the W-G-N Dance orchestra will play tunes which listeners will be asked to identify by checking the cartoons which illustrate the tunes played.

The new radio game is both a test of musical knowledge and an intelligence test. The game, however, is not difficult.

Radio City Music Hall to Present Sinfonietta

The première of Maurice Baron's transcription for orchestra of variations from the "Forellen" quartet of Schubert will be a highlight of the sinfonietta program of the Radio City Music hall at 11 a. m. today over WCFL-NBC. With Erno Rapee conducting, the orchestra also will play the "Pelleas and Melisande" suite by Sibelius, and Debussy's "Petite Suite." Henrietta Schumann, pianist, will play the first movement of Rubenstein's Concerto in D minor.

REBUILT HOME SHOWS RESULT OF SKILL IN PLANS

Even Attic Transformed to Useful Space.

BY LOUISE BARGELT.

Excellent planning has gone into the recently modernized home of Mr. and Mrs. Lew Shalett, 5144 South Cornell avenue. The result is that the home has been given that peculiar quality the French call l'esprit. The architect, Bertram Goldberg, 820 North Michigan avenue, has rebuilt the house for the greatest possible usefulness to all the family, and Mrs. Shalett has added personal touches to each room, according to its intended "purpose in life."

While the major and amazing portion of the transformation was centered on the interior, the brick exterior underwent some changes.

Originally the house had an old fashioned porch on each side of the front entrance pillars. These porches were ripped off and neat brick and flagstone terraces substituted. The front was landscaped, and a secluded garden area provided at the back of the house.

Has Amateur Stage.

Inside the home, skilful planning made possible a number of extra rooms. As it stands now the plan is spacious and open. It contains not only a gloriously comfortable basement recreation room and refreshment counter, a maid's room and bath, a work room and laundry and heater room but a completely and uniquely finished attic suite.

In this suite, which is for the use of the girl and boy of the family, there is a real stage with dressing rooms, footlights, spotlights, and so on, for amateur theatricals of all kinds, at one end of the attic; and at the other end, two separate study corners with bookcases and work tables, typewriters and desks.

On the first and second floors, there are now three bathrooms and a powder room, where formerly there was only one bath; a study for Mrs. Shalett on the second floor, and a library on the first floor.

New Winding Stairway.

One of the principal structural changes was the installation of an entire new stairway, which winds from the first floor to the attic. This new stairway is wide and open, and light, where the original stairs were narrow and dark. Another change on the first floor which adds to the spacious effect is the fact that there are no doors between the main living room, study, and dining room.

Entrance is made into a large and inviting central hall, dominated by two massive pillars. These were kept, as well as the finely beamed ceilings, and are as striking and inviting as the great oval fireplace on the north living room wall.

The woodwork here has been painted white, the walls a quiet green, the carpeting is beige, and there are Venetian blinds and draw drapes at the windows. These drapes in the living room are figured with arresting red flowers—a note repeated in the papered walls of the powder room at the left of the entrance door.

Sliding Door Wardrobes.

At the right of the entrance is a deep built-in wardrobe with sliding doors. Mrs. Shalett has no closets and closet doors in her home. Thruout the house there are these vast, commodious wardrobes, with their doors which slide silently back and forth.

There are likewise no radiators visible. These were recessed in the walls—convectors, they are called now—and the change was made when new hot water gas fired boiler was installed.

From the west end of the living room you enter a quite captivating little circular, alcove study. It seems very far, indeed, from the "world around," with its high, small windows, its built-in bookcases of satiny cypress, and plaques on the wall from some old baronial castle, centuries back.

Italian Cabinet Work.

The cabinet work thruout the house was for the most part handmade by an Italian craftsman. In the light, beautiful dining room there are a buffet and dining table of dark mahogany, with the fine detail of a rare "antique," and dining chairs in ebony finish, with soft green and yellow striped upholstery. The walls are a quiet lemon yellow, and the draw drapes at the windows repeat, in their pattern, the "pillars" in the hall.

The large, handsomely remodeled kitchen is L-shaped, and ends in a most unusual breakfast corner.

At the top and back of the wainscot there is a deep iron container built in the wall. This holds soil and water for the plants and vines which are growing on two sides of the nook.

Upstairs Hall Gone.

Another most unusual feature of this kitchen are the sliding doors at the "floor to ceiling" cabinets.

No story, however short, is complete without mention of the excellence of the layout and treatment of the second floor bedrooms.

On this floor a central hall, "huge" as second floor halls once were, was eliminated, and space was salvaged for an additional room, this a charming study, with book lined walls, for Mrs. Shalett.

Besides this study, there are three bedrooms and three baths.

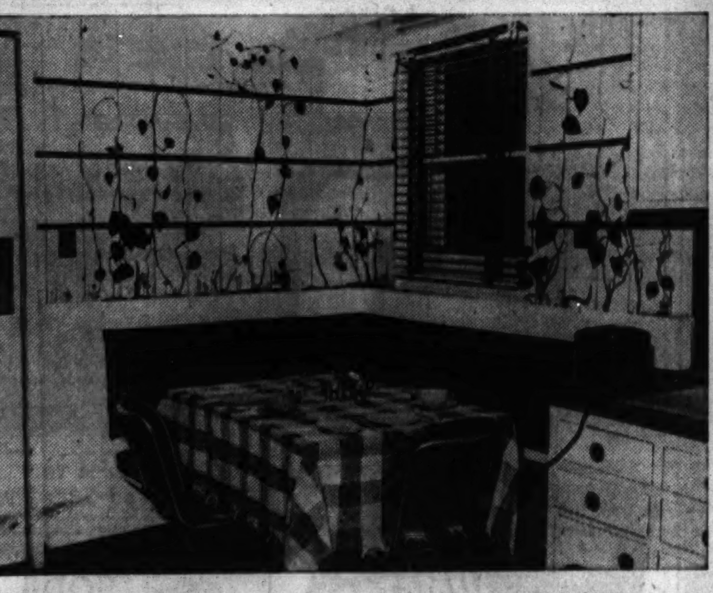
The boy's bedroom and bath are smartly tailored with a masculine air. The walls of the bedroom are covered with striped wall paper.

Bedroom in Blue.

The girl's bedroom is essentially feminine, with pale blue walls and blue satin backed beds. The bathroom has painted walls, hand decorated with "Pandora" boxes and gay butterflies.

The master bedroom has soft yellow walls and a deep blue carpeting, with an alcove for the beds which has its walls papered in yellow and gray paper.

Vines Around Kitchen Nook



A most unusual kitchen, a part of a beautiful piece of modernization work. Here we see a breakfast corner, with specially designed cabinet work and green vines climbing a trellis of horizontal red wood strips and vertical steel bars. Owners of the remodeled home are Mr. and Mrs. Lew Shalett, 5144 South Cornell avenue, Chicago. The architect is Bertrand Goldberg, 820 North Michigan avenue.

This Week in the Garden

Monday, May 13.

Cultivation of plants must not be neglected. There are many types of tools now available for special uses, such as narrow hoes to get in between closely planted material, but the careful gardener needs very few tools to carry on his work. A common hoe, a steel toothed rake, a spade, a lawn mower are about all that are needed. Tools always should be cleaned every time they are used.

Tuesday, May 14.

Do not be in a hurry to plant tender plants out of doors for a late frost may injure them. Wait until about Memorial day before removing house plants out of doors. Get the window boxes in condition for planting. Well planted boxes are an asset in any place. The person without an outdoor garden can enjoy window boxes and many delightful effects can be obtained from them. There are plants suitable for every situation unless it is too dark and even then changes can be made of the plant material. Grow the rosy morn petunia in the sun and the Boston fern, holly fern, asparagus fern, English ivy, and similar plants in the shade. Be sure the soil is rich. Sow annuals in the box, such as sweet alyssum and portulaca for fine bloom.

Wednesday, May 15.

This is a late season and garden work will come along in rapid succession. See that the plants are fertilized with a complete plant food to give them a good start. Shrubs in many gardens are neglected because they are hardy and able to withstand adverse conditions, but when the soil is cultivated around them, food supplied, and water given as needed, they respond with vigorous growth, luxuriant foliage, and high grade flowers. Do not overplant. Close planting can only result in few flowers and weak plants. This does not apply to carpet bedding, edging, and similar conditions where certain effects are desired.

Thursday, May 16.

It is an excellent practice to mulch newly planted shrubs and trees. A light mulch of cut grass, leaves, peat moss, or other material will keep the soil from drying out and keeps down weeds. The mulch should be left all summer. Mulch perennial borders as soon as the weather becomes hot. Roses and fruit trees are much benefited by a mulch. Flowering hedges such as the flowering quince, spiræas, deutzias, lilacs, and others should be trimmed after the flowering period.

Friday, May 17.

If the delphinium plants show signs of being affected with black, twisted, and deficient growth, dust with Bordeaux. Scatter some on the ground around each plant. Try spraying gladioli when the foliage is about 12 inches long with a mixture of two teaspoonsful of Paris green, two pounds of brown sugar, and three gallons of water. Spray once a week for the control of thrip. Keep spraying delphiniums, hollyhocks, and phlox with Bordeaux or dust with sulphur. Watch for oyster shell scale and spray with nicotine soap solution. The scale hatches at about this time and the young are easily controled.

Saturday, May 18.

Root lice or aphids on plants may be largely controled by using tobacco stems as a mulch. The stems can be purchased from supply houses by the bale. Tobacco dust worked into the soil also is effective. Spray fruit trees before the blossoms drop as a protection against the codling moth.

Prepared in coöperation with Garfield park conservatory.

Hargrave Is Versatile.

William Hargrave, featured baritone on "Johnny Presents," has plenty of variety in his vocal assignments. On the air he sings many a virile, dramatic marching song, while in the Mecca Auditorium opera he intones arias.

STEELMAKERS PLAN SALUTE TO MOTHERS TODAY

A musical tribute to Mother's day will be aired on Mutual's coast to coast "Musical Steelmakers" broadcast over W-G-N at 7:30 p. m. today.

The Musical Steelmakers' orchestra will present a special arrangement of "Songs My Mother Taught Me." Tenor Ardenne White will sing "That Wonderful Mother of Mine," and lovely soprano Dorothy Ann Crowe selects "The Sweetest Story Ever Told" for her solo spot.

The guest headliner on this all-employé show from the land of steel will be 17 year old pianist Eleanor Bidka. Her father works in the Wheeling factory carpenter shop.

Mother of Crosby Boys Guest Today on Bandwagon

As a pleasant Mother's day interlude, Mrs. Harry Crosby, mother of Bing and Bob Crosby, will extend greetings to Bob Crosby during the Bandwagon broadcast at 6:30 p. m. today over WMAQ. Bob Crosby and his Bobcats will be heard from Chicago and his mother will speak from Hollywood.

SYMPHONIC HOUR OFFERS ANGELUS FEATURE TONIGHT

Dedicate Special Program to Mother's Day.

The Chicago Tribune Symphonic hour will dedicate its third Sunday evening broadcast to Mother's day. Tonight's broadcast—from 9 to 10 o'clock—over W-G-N and the nationwide Mutual network will feature the singing of Soprano Marion Claire, the W-G-N Symphony orchestra and chorus, directed by Henry Weber, and a special dramatic interlude before an invited audience representing the Chicago Association of Commerce.

The Rev. John C. Evans, religious editor of THE TRIBUNE, will be the speaker of the evening.

Highlighting the broadcast will be a dramatization with special musical effects of Millet's painting, "The Angelus," a feature bringing to life the humble peasant and his wife portrayed in the picture, with a background of music from "The Angelus," by Jules Massenet, and the Intermezzo from "Cavalleria Rusticana," by Pietro Mascagni.

Color Picture in Drama Section.

"Listeners will be invited to turn to the first page of THE SUNDAY TRIBUNE's drama section, which today presents a full color picture of Millet's painting, offering an artistic complement to the radio presentation.

Miss Claire, accompanied by the full chorus and the Symphony orchestra, will join in this unusual dramatic scene. The "Angelus" feature was written by William A. Bacher, who directs the production of the Symphonic Hour, as well as the Chicago Theater of the Air series, heard on W-G-N.

The program:

Overture Coriolanus..................Beethoven
Orchestra.
Wie bist du meine Koenigen..........Brahms
Miss Claire.
The Sleep that Flits on Baby's Eyes
......................John A. Carpenter
Miss Claire.
Bridal Song Serenade...............Goldmark
Orchestra.
The Joy of the Hunters............Von Weber
Octet and orchestra.
The Angelus Dramatization..............
Miss Claire, chorus, orchestra, and dramatic cast.
Evening Talk..............................
The Rev. John C. Evans.
The Lord's Prayer..........Albert H. Malotte
Miss Claire.
First Movement from D Minor Symphony ....Cesar Franck
Orchestra.

Miss Claire, who is vocal soloist on the Symphonic Hour programs, will be starred with Jan Peerce and Igor Gorin in the Chicago Theater of the Air operetta, "The Student Prince," next Thursday evening on W-G-N.

Similar Features Planned.

In connection with the dramatization, Mr. Bacher, who originated this new radio technique, has announced that every Sunday night the Symphonic Hour will offer a similar feature bringing to life the great figures of history and of the arts, blending the finest in music thru the medium of radio dramatics.

Next Sunday's Symphonic Hour will be presented before another invited audience representing the Chicago Association of Commerce guests.

LEHAR MELODIES SCHEDULED FOR MELODY PAGEANT

"The Pageant of Melody," under the direction of Henry Weber, will feature themes from Franz Lehar in a program of popular concert music with the W-G-N Concert orchestra and Kathryn Witwer, Attilio Baggiore, and the octet, from 9:15 to 10 p. m. Wednesday on W-G-N and the Mutual network.

Miss Witwer, Baggiore, and the octet will join with the orchestra in the Lehar numbers, which include "Carnival," "Love Is a Pilgrim," "Say Not Love Is a Dream," and "Starlight Guards."

Baggiore will sing for his solo, "Di: Miei Bollente Spiriti" from Verdi's "La Traviata." Miss Witwer will sing an aria from the opera "Louise," by Gustave Charpentier.

"Farewell," an original composition by Adolf Hoffmann of the W-G-N musical staff, will be sung by the octet, with Mr. Weber playing the piano accompaniment.

Carrie Carter Auditioners

Virginia Payne (center), Carrie Carter of the Carters of Elm Street show, dropped around to meet some of the aspiring actresses who may turn out to become members of the popular serial's cast. Miss Jeanne Pilkington (left), 17 years old, a Hirsch High school student, and Mrs. Jerry Sternburg (right) are among the 1,206 W-G-N applicants who tried out for the Carter talent search. Both expect to win in the contest which offers a two week "paid vacation" of $112.50 per week.

DANCE TO RAISE FUND FOR BOYS IN WAUKEGAN

Mrs. Fred Hill.

The first of a series of benefit dances sponsored by Waukegan chapter of the Big Brothers association of Illinois will be held Saturday night in the Miami ballroom in Waukegan. Hyman Porett is general chairman. Other committee work is being handled by Waukegan women who have volunteered their services. Dr. H. J. McKean is president.

Mrs. William J. Hart is ticket chairman, assisted by Mrs. Clyde Fawcett, Mrs. Clifford Evans, Mrs. Vernon Rosenthal, Mrs. Phillip Anderson, Mrs. Fred Hill, Mrs. Henry Fisher, Miss Alice Popularum, and Miss Mary Jane Rayniac. Mrs. Hill is leading in ticket sales. Miss Marion Clarke is in charge of the orchestra committee and Mrs. Frederick K. Shattuc is handling publicity.

Women's organizations backing the dance are the Young Women's league, the White Elephant league, the Goodfellowship Settlement board, the Junior Business Women's club, and the American Legion auxiliary.

Proceeds will be used in the rehabilitation of delinquent boys. First offenders brought into local courts on minor charges are turned over to the Big Brothers, who sponsor a clubroom and an annual trip to Camp Anakijic in northern Wisconsin for their charges. They also provide part time jobs, hobbies, and entertainments thruout the year.

'BABIES COST MONEY' TOPIC OF ROUND TABLE

"Babies Cost Money" will be the subject for discussion on the University of Chicago Round Table at 1:30 p. m. today over WMAQ. The broadcast, which falls on Mother's day and coincides with the opening of hospital week, will deal with the problems of maternal welfare, hospitalization, and standards of medical care in different sections of the country. Taking part will be Dr. Martha Elliott, assistant chief of the children's bureau, Washington, D. C.; Dr. Fred L. Adair, chief of service at the Chicago Lying-In hospital and chairman of the department of obstetrics and gynecology, University of Chicago, and Louis Wirth, associate professor of sociology and chairman of the social science research committee, University of Chicago.

LENAUD SISTERS TO BE GUESTS ON STOKES SHOW

"Romance in Rhythm," directed by Harold Stokes, will feature a return engagement of the double piano team, Evelyn and Hazel Lenaud, from 9:30 to 10 p. m. tomorrow on W-G-N and the Mutual network. The vocalists will be Edna O'Dell, Lawrence Salerno, and the Four Shades of Blue.

The Lenaud sisters, who were guests last February, have attracted wide attention thru many recitals and radio engagements.

1,206 GIRLS, WOMEN TRY OUT ON W-G-N IN CARTER TALENT HUNT

More than 2,000 requests for tryouts on W-G-N for applications in the Carrie Carter Talent Search, conducted by the Carters of Elm Street program, were received when the deadline for entries was reached last Wednesday. And in three weeks 1,206 girls and women stepped before a W-G-N microphone and showed their dramatic ability.

Those who showed real radio talent will be recalled for further auditions and will compete against winners from other Mutual stations to determine the national winners.

As suggested by Virginia Payne, star of "The Carters," each winner will be given a two week assignment with the Carters' company, playing over W-G-N-Mutual daily at a salary of $112.50 a week. All travel and living expenses will be paid for the fortnight.

'AMERICA SINGS' REPLACES FIBBER DURING SUMMER

"America Sings," featuring Meredith Wilson and his 32 piece orchestra, will be the summer replacement program for Fibber McGee and Molly when the comedy team signs off the air for a 13 week vacation starting Tuesday, July 3, 9:30 p. m.

Written by Don Quinn, who turns out the McGee scripts, "America Sings" will be produced by Cecil Underwood and announced by Harlow Wilcox, both members of the current McGee staff.

In format, the program will be familiar songs of America, presented in novel arrangement. Several outstanding radio personalities will be added to the program before the summer show is actually launched.

REBROADCASTING OF SHORT WAVE SHOWS APPROVED

The Federal communications commission has amended its rules and regulations to permit standard and noncommercial educational broadcast stations to pick up and rebroadcast the noncommercial programs of international broadcast stations. It was specified, however, that such rebroadcasting shall be on a noncommercial basis.

Briefly, this means that any broadcast station or a noncommercial educational station in the United States may, upon authority of the station originating the international program, pick up and retransmit the same for the benefit of its listeners. This applies to the program of any international broadcast station, whether it is located within or outside of the United States.

This action was taken on the basis of recommendation by a special committee of the commission that, where possible, domestic listeners should enjoy the benefits of noncommercial international broadcasts.

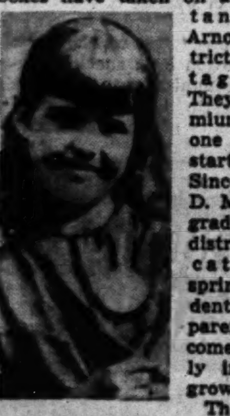
ARNOLD SCHOOL PUPILS EXPAND GARDEN PROJECT

260 Try Hand at Growing Flowers, Vegetables.



Wilma Butcher.

Small plots of ground and cheese boxes have taken on a new importance in the Arnold school district, 718 Armitage avenue. They are at a premium, for everyone wants to start a garden. Since Mrs. Cora D. Mitchell, fifth grade teacher, distributed seed catalogs last spring, the students and their parents have become increasingly interested in growing things.

Those who own or can find a nearby piece of ground make an outdoor garden; others line the window sills with cheese boxes planted with flowers and grasses. Seeing their interest in gardens, Mrs. Mitchell pushed the idea as a project in good citizenship as well as nature study.

260 Become Gardeners.

All children who bought seeds in the group project became members of the Arnold Garden club. There were 100 members last year. At the close of this season's seed campaign last week, there were 260 in the club.

The children plant their seeds in the spring, tend the gardens thru the summer and exhibit their flowers at the opening of school in September. In this crowded community where there is little room for gardens and flowers are seldom seen, the project has been eagerly approved by parents and neighbors. One mother remarked that she could not step out on the porch any more because of her son's flowers.

"But I don't care," she added, "for now I can always find him. I used to call and call when I wanted him to come home, but now I know he's just outside nursing his plants."

First Contest Winners.

In the first exhibit last September, Estelle Johnson and Mae Daniels won first and second place, respectively, for their outdoor garden plots and Charles Lang won third for a back porch garden. Estelle made a little rock garden with a pool and erected an American flag. Her award was a big flag to put up on a real flagpole.

Mae and Charles received Floyd Bradley horticultural achievement medals. Charles used every inch of his back porch on the fourth floor for his cheese boxes and in addition to his flowers, he trained beans on pieces of string. Honorable mention went to Robert Draper for his garden, Burton Cohen for a window box, and Henry Fahl for a watermelon which he raised on his uncle's farm in the country. One of Burton's pink asters, which he gave to Mrs. Mitchell, bloomed in the school room until Thanksgiving. Later in the fall, Wilma Butcher brought a milkweed pod for the wild flower exhibit.

Awards for Posters.

During the seed campaign this month, the club sponsored a poster contest and awards were presented at the club's annual meeting last week, conducted by Mrs. Mitchell and F. J. Mabrey, principal. Peter Chapo won first place, Joseph Fehninger, second place; Harriet Erickson, third place, and Mary Castiglia, honorable mention.

New officers, who will be in charge of the gardens this summer and the exhibit next fall, are Lloyd Hawkins, president; Estelle Johnson, vice president; Joyce Bennish, secretary, and Henry Fahl, treasurer. Retiring officers in the same order are Joe Schile, Kerlin Brundage, Alice Diaz, and Diane Papantony.

Will Show Film Dramatizing Story of Chicago's Parks

A movie dramatizing the story of Chicago's parks will be shown Tuesday and Wednesday evenings at River park fieldhouse, 5100 North Francisco avenue. The movie, "The Garden in the City," is a sound film and is under the sponsorship of the park district.

Editorial Award

Miss Elizabeth Millet Vestal, 1235 Granville avenue, a senior at Mundelein college, has won the editorial award in the annual creative writing contest sponsored by the college English department. The award will be presented at commencement on June 3. Miss Vestal, who is co-editor of the campus newspaper, won the poetry award last year.

Inspection's Not Far Away

Planning the federal inspection of Lake View High school's 476 R. O. T. C. cadets on May 27 has become almost a full time job for the regiment's officers. Maj. Robert Hyman, Lieut. Col. Robert Kolp, regimental commander; Lieut. Col. Ray Astor, and Majs. Sidney Dane and Herschel Allentuck (left to right) study a map of Welles park, where the inspection will be held. On the blackboard in the rear are further diagrams and instructions.

COUNTY R. O. A. SELECTS A NEW OFFICIAL STAFF

Capt. C. H. Blumenfeld Is Made President.

Capt. Charles Blumenfeld.

Capt. Charles H. Blumenfeld, an attorney, was elected president of the Cook county chapter of the Reserve Officers association at a recent meeting. Capt. Blumenfeld is in the coast artillery reserve and resides at 1523 Fargo avenue. He succeeds Maj. Marvin H. Dixon, field artillery reserve, of 7601 Sheridan road.

Other officers elected were Capt. Andrew VanEsso, infantry reserve, of Highland Park, first vice president; Capt. James C. Hamilton, infantry reserve, 10 South La Salle street, second vice president.

Capt. Arthur E. Mealiff, medical administration reserve, 431 Winneconna parkway, third vice president; Capt. John V. Boltz, infantry reserve, 6604 Olympia avenue, treasurer, and Lieut. R. B. Parsons, field artillery reserve, 8123 South Maryland avenue, secretary.

ORATORY FINALS ARE SCHEDULED AT ANSHE EMET

Finals in the Anshe Emet synagogue high school oratorical contest will be held today at noon. Contestants will deliver speeches on subjects connected with past and present Jewish life, and winners will receive prizes contributed by the I. Harrison Tumpeer scholarship fund of the synagogue men's club, sponsor of the contest.

Anshe Emet Junior synagogue will hold its final open meeting of the year this afternoon. New officers will be elected. Charles L. Schwartz is the retiring president. Community singing will be directed by Harry Coopersmith. "What Youth Can Do to Keep America at Peace" will be discussed by the alumni of Anshe Emet this afternoon in the synagogue lounge, Pine Grove avenue and Grace street. William A. Nudelman, sponsor of the group, will be in charge.

Election of officers and directors of Temple Emanuel Men's club will take place Wednesday evening in the vestry rooms of the synagogue, 701 Buckingham place. More than 60 new members have been added to the club membership. A reception will be held for them as part of the program. The recent membership drive was held in the form of a contest. Winners, those who recruited three or more new members, are Laz Levy, Paul Abrahamson, Sidney Schaumberger, R. J. Scholtz, Lee Slott, Harold N. Solomon, Dan Laser, and Julius Lefkeow.

Parents' day will be observed from 10 o'clock to noon today at the temple. Fathers and mothers of the synagogue school pupils have been invited to visit a classroom display of work done. An assembly program has been arranged and three generations will be represented in a discussion of accomplishments of the religious school. The three generations are Mrs. B. H. Hyman, a grandparent; Jerome N. Weil, a parent, and Constance Meyer, a child.

Historical Society to Hear Talk on Italian Diplomacy

S. William Halperin, a professor of history at the University of Chicago, will speak on "Cross Currents of Italian Diplomacy" at 8:15 o'clock Wednesday before the Chicago Historical society in Lincoln park. Mr. Halperin is the author of "Separation of Church and State in Italian Thought from Cavour to Mussolini" and "Italy and the Vatican at War" and at present is writing a history of Europe since 1919. Election of officers will take place at the business session.

Lake View B'nai B'rith Auxiliary to Elect Staff

The annual meeting of the Lake View B'nai B'rith auxiliary will be held at 8 o'clock tomorrow night in the Belmont hotel. Officers will be elected and the president, Mrs. Rhoda Nedwick, and committee chairmen will read reports. Plans will be made for the earning fund dinner-dance to be held on May 26 in the Palmer House, under the direction of Mrs. Maurice A. Harvis, chairman.

Legion Notes

Officers will be elected and plans for Poppy day and the Memorial day parade will be made tomorrow night at a meeting of Jane A. Delano post at 8 South Michigan avenue.

Commodore Vanderbilt post will hold its sixth annual card party and entertainment Saturday night in the mural room of the Morrison hotel. Proceeds will benefit the sixth annual Boys' State at Springfield, Ill. Commander Michael J. Ronayne, in charge of arrangements, will be assisted by Warren E. Jones, executive chairman, and Neil D. Hyde, ticket chairman.

Cook County salon, No. 1, 8 et 40, will hold its annual past chapeau night Wednesday at 8 p. m. at the La Salle hotel. Henrietta Erhardt will preside.

Announcement is made by the service department of the American Legion that William R. Gephart may have his honorable discharge certificate by calling and identifying himself at the offices, 127 North Dearborn street, where the certificate is being held.

Surface Lines post recently was notified that its rifle team had won the Legion rifle team championship of the United States. In a contest covering 28 states, the Surface Lines team dethroned the Silver Bow team of Butte, Mont. In addition to capturing the McNutt trophy and the national championship, three members of the team won the first three individual high medals: J. A. Nielsen, 294; M. P. Nielsen, 293, and Andy Nygaard, 292.

CADETS OF NINE UNITS SHINE UP FOR INSPECTION

Honor Rating to Depend on Performance.

The second week of federal inspection of Chicago's high school R. O. T. C. units begins tomorrow.

Besides seven city public high schools, this week will see the inspection of the St. Mel Parochial High school unit and that of Waukegan Township High school. The schedule is as follows [in the event of rain the inspection will be held in the school gymnasium]:

Monday—Fenger, 9 a. m., school campus, 11220 South Wallace street; Morgan Park, 1:15 p. m., Morgan Park Military academy campus, 2200 West 111th street.

Two on Tuesday.

Tuesday—Englewood, 9 a. m., Hamilton park, 72d street and Normal avenue; Kelly, 1:15 p. m., school campus, 4136 South California avenue.

Wednesday—Foreman, 9 a. m., school campus, 5100 Belmont avenue; Steinmetz, 1:15 p. m., Riis park, 6100 Fullerton avenue.

Thursday—Waukegan, school campus, Waukegan, Ill.

Friday—St. Mel, 9 a. m., Garfield park, Washington boulevard and Hamlin street; Tilden, 1:15 p. m., International amphitheater, 42d and Halsted streets.

Awards to Leaders.

At each school from 15 to 30 cadets, depending on the size of the R. O. T. C. unit, receive medals. Awards are given by the R. O. T. C. headquarters for efficiency, neatness, success in recruiting, and rifle marksmanship. One medal for each 50 cadets is awarded by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE—gold for upperclassmen and silver for freshmen. Other medals are awarded by the American Legion, the Reserve Officers' association, the Veterans of Foreign Wars, the United Spanish War Veterans auxiliary, and the Daughters of the American Revolution.

These medals are presented in the Chicago public schools at the time of inspection. At St. Mel and Waukegan presentation will not be made until later in the year.

Melophonic Vocal Ensemble to Give Concert Thursday

Members of the Melophonic vocal ensemble of Berry Memorial church, Leavitt street and Lawrence avenue, will present their fifth annual concert Thursday evening at the church. Mrs. Edna Marshall Gilbert, reader, and Miss Helen Jane Lilleroth, marimba player, will be guest artists.

N. U. STUDENTS' ART WILL BE ON VIEW TOMORROW

Show Is Under Auspices of University Guild.

The annual student exhibit of the art department of Northwestern university will be held from 3 to 5 o'clock tomorrow afternoon in the Student Union building on the campus under the auspices of the University guild. Guild members will be hostesses at a reception and tea during the show. The exhibit is open to the public.

The guild is responsible for the founding of the department. In 1912 members suggested to the university officials that students be given an opportunity to gain a knowledge and appreciation of art. They offered to find an instructor and pay his salary, in whole or in part, until it was certain whether the project would succeed, then the University would take over the financial responsibility.

Miss Stella Skinner established the department. She was familiar with European galleries and was able to present to the students the history and appreciation of art as well as training in its more practical aspects, such as selection of colors, clothing designs and interior decorating. The high standards set up by the founders has been maintained.

Scope of Exhibit.

Tomorrow's exhibit will be under the direction of Prof. Clara MacGowan. It will include oil paintings, charcoal compositions, life drawings in lithographic crayon and Chinese ink and various problems in applied design, such as block prints, costume designs and developments of museum motifs in charcoal and color.

The show will feature two murals. One of these, by Mary Virginia Foster, entitled "Labor," is 15 by 5 feet and shows wheat farming, cotton raising and road building. The other, by Gertrude Graham, is a 4 by 6 foot painting of "Horseback Riders."

The advanced class in design will exhibit hand blocked wall hangings, draperies and luncheon sets. Among the other items will be individual designs for Christmas cards and bookplates, and plates of charcoal landscapes, still lifes and design. The work in interior design classes, directed by Prof. Barbara Shanley, will be arranged to demonstrate the way the subject is studied.

Collection a Gift.

In addition to student work, there will be a display of recent acquisitions for the contemporary decorative arts collection. This collection is a gift from the Carnegie corporation and is used as illustrative material in the study of minor arts.

Mrs. Rolla S. Pribble and Mrs. Sidney R. Gair will be in charge of tea arrangements. At the tea tables will be Mrs. Edward H. Hatton, retiring guild president; Mrs. James M. Judson, new president; Mrs. James G. Carr and Mrs. James Roy Skiles.

Hostesses will include Mrs. John M. Shumway, Mrs. Leon Kranz, Mrs. George W. Teuscher, Mrs. C. M. Suter, Mrs. Harold L. Weis, Mrs. Walter K. Smart, and Mrs. C. A. R. Wardwell.

FRANK J. BILEK IS TO SPEAK ON '39 TAX LEVIES

Frank J. Bilek, president of the Cook County Civic council, will speak on "Protesting the Illegal 1939 Tax Levies" Tuesday evening at a meeting of the North Town Improvement association at 2207 Devon avenue.

Mr. Bilek will conduct a question and answer period following his talk. A sound picture of historical events in the United States since 1857 will be shown.

Officers of the association are Walter E. Carlson, president; Joseph A. Weber, vice president, and I. A. Cambridge, secretary-treasurer. Directors are A. B. Huhn, Claus Johnson, Ferdinand Johnson, Dr. O. A. Rawlins, Mrs. Anna C. Schroeder, X. C. Vickrey, and Paul Weissbrodt.

Betrothal Announced

Mr. and Mrs. Guilford De Mand, 2462 Estes avenue, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Jane, to Robert M. Sydell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Sydell of Evanston. The wedding will take place this summer. Miss De Mand is a graduate of Northwestern university and her fiance also attended the university. [Carlos Photo.]

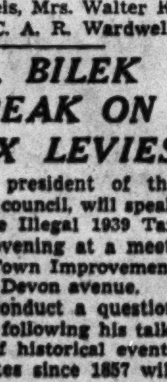
News and Queries Within and Without the Church
A Religious Voice of the People — Edited by the Rev. John Evans

Forty years ago a group of Jewish men and women declared that a state of war exists between billions of tubercle bacilli and millions of lives. Lives are now winning the warfare, but battles must go on probably for many years until some bacteriologist solves the mystery of a preventive vaccine for tuberculosis.



Melvin L. Straus.

But Melvin L. Straus, treasurer of the Chicago committee for the National Jewish hospital in Denver, Colo., made it plain that the research work at the hospital during the last two years gives promise of such a boon being soon discovered. While the name National Jewish hospital is used, Mr. Straus explained that it is a nonsectarian institution and treats persons of all faiths. Bishop Bernard J. Sheil, founder and national head of the Catholic Youth organization, has praised the work of the Chicago committee for the hospital in various addresses. He is a sponsor of the hospital.

Adhering to the slogan "None may enter who can pay—None can pay who enter," statistical facts connected with the operation of this hospital are impressive. More than 25,000 men, women, and children from every state in the Union have found here health they would not otherwise have enjoyed.

Annually over 800 patients are treated in the hospital and outpatient department; of these about 73 per cent leave the institution cured or greatly relieved.

There are 16 buildings occupying 15 acres representing an investment in excess of a million dollars. The hospital receives no federal or state aid, and its annual budget is $350,000, supported entirely by voluntary contribution.

For the first time in the history of Holy Name cathedral, another language than Latin will be used in an ordination mass tomorrow morning. The language to be used will be Slovenian, and a Byzantine rite will be performed as two American Benedictines are raised to the priesthood by the Most Rev. Basil Takach of Homestead, Pa., bishop of the Eastern rite of the Catholic church in America. The ordination, held under the patronage of Archbishop Samuel A. Stritch, will make priests of the Revs. Nicholas Pavlik, O. S. B., and Michael Pipik, O. S. B., both of whom are graduates of St. Procopius abbey, Lisle.

Chicago Methodists will be hosts to Bishop Eleazer Guerra, head of the Methodist church of Mexico, for the next two weeks. Dr. John M. Schneider, superintendent of the Chicago Western district of the Rock River conference, said Bishop Guerra is a native Mexican, a graduate of Southern Methodist university, and became the first bishop of Mexican Methodism when an autonomous church was founded in that country. Dr. Schneider added that the Mexican bishop will be guest preacher in several Chicago churches during his visit.

SINGING MOTHERS WILL PRESENT MUSIC FESTIVAL

P.-T. A. Choruses Are to Be Heard Wednesday.

Three hundred and fifty singing mothers will take part in the third annual music festival to be held Wednesday evening by the north and northwest side mothers' choruses of Parent-Teacher associations at Schurz High school, 3601 Milwaukee avenue.

The choruses, known as the Mothersingers, will celebrate their eleventh anniversary. The festival will be under the direction of Alice Sandberg and Florence Haglund. Ann Bergh and Villa Boaz of the Adult Education program, federal project sponsored by the board of education, will be assistant directors.

Items on Program.

The concert will open with the singing of "Salutation," by Gaines. Other selections include "Gloria Patri" by Palestrina, and "Gloria" by Mozart. Soloists will be Trae Ehrhorn, harpist, and Helene Goldenberg, violinist.

The Mothersingers in Chicago were organized eleven years ago by the P.-T. A. They first were formed, however, in Ohio 21 years ago by Mrs. Stanley Clark of Cincinnati to arouse an interest in music by mothers of children attending public schools.

First Festival in 1938.

The first festival was held at the Falconer school in 1938 and consisted of 100 mothersingers. One hundred and sixty-eight mothers took part in the second festival held in the Portage Park school last year.

Mothers taking part in the Wednesday evening program are members of the P.-T. A. choruses of 19 schools: Agassiz, Avondale, Barry, Brentano, Budlong, Cleveland, Clinton, Falconer, Goudy, Jahn, Jamieson, Lloyd, Nixon, Portage Park, Scammon, Schubert, Steinmetz High, Trumbull, and Volta. Other singers are members of the Mid-west Council chorus and Northwest Women's chorus.

ST. JOHN CADET GUARDS CHOSEN FOR HEIL VISIT

Cadet Captain Robert Arens of 6825 Constance avenue has been appointed commander of the honor guard to Gov. Julius Heil of Wisconsin for the occasion of his visit to St. John's Military academy, Delafield, Wis., scheduled for May 28. The governor's annual visit includes an inspection of the academy's R. O. T. C. regiment.

Other Chicago cadets appointed to official positions in the guard are Charles E. Bachman, 6859 Oleander avenue, commander of the 2d platoon; William H. Jacob, 6120 North Knox avenue, guidon bearer; Norbert C. Smith, 6201 North Knox avenue, a sergeant, and Roy G. Mitchell, 5653 Winthrop avenue, a guide.

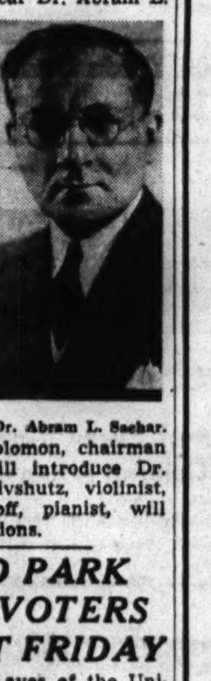
Others among the 60 members of the guard are Leslie F. Carpenter, 647 Linden street, Oak Park; Alexander and Anthony Andros, 2244 Winona street; Bertram C. Cushway, 9729 South Hoyne avenue; Robert G. Dammann, 6554 North Maplewood avenue; Constantine Damofle, 163 West Oak street; Lawrence E. Gilford, 508 Aldine avenue; Robert E. Hennessey, 7946 Avalon avenue; John R. Horton, 2003 West 103d street; Fred O. Kalinka, 4174 North Clarendon avenue; Joseph W. Krupicka, 6500 Cermak road, Berwyn; Joseph F. Kunz, 4500 Montana street; Winfield C. Rice Jr., Stevens hotel, and Eugene L. Solomon, 14 West Elm street.

50 Years Married

MR. AND MRS. FRANK KURTH. [Fox Photo.]

Mr. and Mrs. Frank T. Kurth, both 70 years old, recently celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary at a party in the Parkway hotel, 2100 Lincoln Park West. More than 50 relatives helped them mark the anniversary. The Kurths always lived in Chicago until a year and a half ago when they moved to Orange, Cal. They are residing temporarily at 420 Fullerton parkway. They have two sons, Lawrence W. Kurth of St. Joseph, Mich., and Ray W. Kurth, who resides with them in California, and two grandchildren, Lawrence Jr. and Carol Ann.

DR. A. L. SACHAR IS TO ADDRESS JEWISH LODGE



Dr. Abram L. Sachar.

Members of Albany Park B'nai B'rith lodge, will hear Dr. Abram L. Sachar Tuesday night at their meeting in the Albany Park Masonic temple, 4660 North Kedzie avenue. Dr. Sachar is national director of Hillel foundations in American universities and the author of the recently published history of modern Europe entitled "Sufferance Is a Badge." His topic Tuesday night will be "A 'J' on a Passport." Louis A. Solomon, chairman of the meeting, will introduce Dr. Sachar. Mischa Livshutz, violinist, and Sonja Tamaroff, pianist, will offer musical selections.

HIGHLAND PARK WOMEN VOTERS TO MEET FRIDAY

Prof. Walter H. Laves of the University of Chicago will be guest speaker at the annual business meeting and luncheon of the Highland Park League of Women Voters on Friday in the Y. W. C. A. His topic will be "Can America Stay Neutral?"

The speaker is a regular participant on the University's "round table" discussion over the radio, associate professor of political science, and chairman of the social science survey courses. After the election of officers, Mrs. J. Sigurd Johnson, president, will turn over the gavel to her successor.

An open board meeting will be held at 10 o'clock. Department reports will be given. Luncheon will be served at 12:15 o'clock.

CADETS OF NINE UNITS SHINE UP FOR INSPECTION

Honor Rating Hangs on Performance.

The second week of federal inspection of Chicago's high school R. O. T. C. units begins tomorrow.

Besides seven city public high schools, this week will see the inspection of the St. Mel Parochial High school unit and that of Waukegan Township High school. The schedule is as follows [in the event of rain the inspection will be held in the school gymnasium]:

Monday—Fenger, 9 a. m., school campus, 11220 South Wallace street; Morgan Park, 1:15 p. m., Morgan Park Military academy campus, 2200 West 111th street.

Two on Tuesday.

Tuesday—Englewood, 9 a. m., Hamilton park, 72d street and Normal avenue; Kelly, 1:15 p. m., school campus, 4136 South California avenue.

Wednesday—Foreman, 9 a. m., school campus, 5100 Belmont avenue; Steinmetz, 1:15 p. m., Riis park, 6100 Fullerton avenue.

Thursday—Waukegan, school campus, Waukegan, Ill.

Friday—St. Mel, 9 a. m., Garfield park, Washington boulevard and Hamlin street; Tilden, 1:15 p. m., International amphitheater, 42d and Halsted streets.

At each school from 15 to 30 cadets, depending on the size of the R. O. T. C. unit, receive medals. Awards are given by the R. O. T. C. headquarters for efficiency, neatness, success in recruiting, and rifle marksmanship. One medal for each 50 cadets is awarded by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE—gold for upperclassmen and silver for freshmen. Other medals are awarded by the American Legion, the Reserve Officers' association, the Veterans of Foreign Wars, the United Spanish War Veterans auxiliary, and the Daughters of the American Revolution.

These medals are presented in the Chicago public schools at the time of inspection. At St. Mel and Waukegan presentation will not be made until later in the year.

Northwest side cadets at Foreman and Steinmetz schools will get medals as follows:

Foreman.

Capt. Vincent G. Wilson, officer's efficiency medal; Staff Sergeant William V. Conrath, noncommissioned officer's efficiency medal; Cadets Ronald L. Schultz and Raymond A. Matson, neatness medals. The Tribune medals will be awarded to Corporals Erwin H. Metz, Alex J. Kniskern, and Edward C. Rohr, and Cadet Charles E. Krueger.

Sergeant Job H. Wetter will receive the United Spanish War Veterans Auxiliary medal; Sergt. Armand L. Wegerer, Reserve Officers association medal; Sergt. Robert C. Jackson, American Legion auxiliary medal; Sergt. Alfred F. Arndt, Veterans of Foreign Wars medal, and Belmont Park Legion post will award medals to First Lieutenant Jerome K. Kelley, Staff Sergeant Robert H. Ray, and Cadet Rolley C. Bateman.

Steinmetz.

Capt. William Scott Stewart, officer's efficiency medal; Staff Sergeant Hans Wenzel, noncommissioned officer's efficiency medal; Capt. Norman Ruck, band efficiency medal; Cadets Paul Breitsprecker, Charles Doering, and Walter Wassman, neatness medals; Capt. Marvin Johnson, rifle markmanship medal, and Capt. William Scott Stewart, recruiting medal. Tribune medals will go to First Lieutenants Bernard Quaid and George Schultz, Second Lieutenants Irwin Harland and Warren Porter, First Sergeant Warren Mueller, and Cadet Otis Schmidt.

Maj. Robert Mall will receive the Reserve Officers association medal; Capt. Elmer Anderson, Veterans of Foreign Wars medal; Capt. Marvin Johnson, D. A. R. medal, and First Lieutenant Arthur Zeiner, American Legion medal.

WALTHER GROUP PLANS TO GIVE PLAY ON MAY 21

The Senior Walther league of Irving Park Lutheran church will present "Nora Nobody," at 8:15 o'clock Tuesday evening, May 21, in the parish educational building, Belle Plaine and Harding avenues.

Jean West, cast in the leading rôle, will be supported by June Mathisen, Beverly Jane Johnson, Jane Oberwetter, Grace Petersen, Ruth Kind, Ray Pearson, Alfred Kaad, Fred Andrews, and Arthur Dittman Jr.

Mrs. G. R. Fridlund is director and Eleanor Jasper will be prompter. Committee chairmen are Harold Walles, Lowell Wayman, June Carlson, and Lucile Anderson.

Infant Home Aids Giving Benefit This Afternoon

A benefit performance of "Maytime Frolics of 1940" will be offered this afternoon in the auditorium of the Infant Home and Day nursery of the Daughters of Zion, 1401 North California avenue. All those in the cast are members of the Dora Buxbaum auxiliary. Leading rôles will be taken by Dr. Irving Sector, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Koren, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Nadler, Mrs. Hy Salkind, Mr. and Mrs. Nathan R. Gault, and Mr. and Mrs. Irving Micklorvitz.

GIRL PICKS HER BOY; HAD HIM 60 YEARS NOW

And Fedderys Can Recall No Real Quarrel.

[PICTURE ON PAGE 2.]

"The tall, sandy haired boy—the one in the center there; I'll take him." With these words more than half a century ago dark eyed Lydia Munn selected her husband. Last Tuesday on the sixtieth anniversary of the wedding the boy was not quite so tall and his reddish hair had thinned and faded white. But he was still to her the man among men—her choice before all others.

And Joseph Feddery was pleased, just as he had been 60 years earlier when the vivacious Irish girl had singled him out from more than a score of young men. He had had his eye on her, too.

In a sense, both were truants from church on the day they met. Joseph was a tenor in the Holy Trinity choir in Toronto, Can. Lydia was a member of the Methodist church. On that Sunday in 1879, however, Joseph had gone to the Baptist church to see if there were any pretty girls there.

Made Her Choice Then.

He had done that often enough before so that he was sometimes asked to assist in passing collection plates. Lydia and a group of girl friends, prompted by motives similar to Joseph's, had also elected to attend services in the Baptist church. When she saw the handsome young man coming down the aisle, she turned to her friends and informed them of her choice.

During the next three weeks both attended services in their adopted church regularly. By the end of that time they were speaking to each other with elaborate casualness and Joseph was permitted to see Lydia home, so that her sister, her guardian since her mother's death, could make an estimate of him.

The impression he made was favorable. He obtained permission to call. Ultimately they were allowed to go walking in the park, but only when they agreed to take her sister's four children as chaperones.

Not a Single Quarrel.

Their romance progressed serenely. Within a few months they were married, and things have gone well with them ever since. Last week they could not recall a single quarrel. Disagreements and arguments there might have been but never any quarreling.

They moved to Chicago just before the World's Columbian exposition opened. For a few years they lived on the west side. During the last 25 years, however, they have lived in Logan Square, most of the time in their apartment at 2624 North Albany avenue. Their only child, a son, William, resides in Cleveland.

Altho Mr. Feddery is 81 years old and his wife is 80, they are both active. Mr. Feddery retired from his trade as a sheet metal worker six years ago. He is a former president of local No. 276, of the Sheet Metal Workers' union.

GRANDMOTHERS' CLUB TO ATTEND CHURCH SERVICE THIS MORNING

Mrs. Dorothea Sullivan

Mrs. Dorothea Sullivan, 38 years old, 4434 North Monitor avenue, designated as Chicago's youngest grandmother by the Grandmothers' club, will be with members of the club today as a guest of the First Methodist church, 77 West Washington street, to hear a special Mothers' day sermon for grandmothers. Mrs. Sullivan's mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Murray, 4712 North Leamington avenue, 60 years old, is a champion bowler. Her daughter, Mrs. Margaret O'Connor, is 19 and has a child 2½ years old.

Mrs. Sullivan is chairman of the club's ways and means committee for the Grandmothers' Haven project. Other northwest side members of the club are: Mrs. T. J. Bowler, 6101 Warwick avenue and Mrs. Susan Linkites, Leland and Milwaukee avenues.

Mrs. Sullivan was married at 17, her mother at 15, and her daughter at 16. She has four children and one grandchild.

PRATT AVENUE TO BE WIDENED; CANAL BRIDGED

Vitalizing of 'Forgotten Tract' Is Seen.

The north and northwest sides are to be linked in the near future by the improvement and widening of Pratt avenue from Western avenue to McCormick road. A two lane bridge is to be built over the drainage canal at McCormick road.

This announcement was made last week by County Commissioner Frank Bobrytzke. Plans for the project will be completed this summer. The widening is expected by property owners to vitalize what they call "the forgotten subdivision tract" between Western avenue and the canal.

The traffic load on Devon and Touhy avenues, now used as routes from Rogers Park and the northwest suburbs, will be considerably lifted, Commissioner Bobrytzke asserted. Pratt avenue west of McCormick road is paved as an 18 foot highway to Caldwell road.

Cost Is Not Fixed.

No price has been fixed for the project by the state and county highway departments. The money is to come out of motor fuel tax funds. The state department has given its approval and the county board has authorized the highway department to go ahead with the plans.

No provision has been made yet, Commissioner Bobrytzke said, to pave the stretch between Western avenue and Ridge boulevard. This part of the street runs alongside the Edgewater golf course. East of Ridge boulevard to the lake the street is a park district boulevard.

"When the project is completed Pratt avenue will be a thorofare linking the north and northwest sides," Mr. Bobrytzke said. "At present the only suitable routes for traffic are Devon and Touhy avenues."

Property Owners Active.

Active in striving to obtain the Pratt avenue improvement program is a group of owners of property adjacent to the street between Western avenue and the canal. This group, organized as a committee, has requested the city to make the street a thorofare from the lake to Carpenter road in Lincolnwood, formerly Tessville. Henry A. Proesel, Lincolnwood president, is a member of the committee.

H. D. Pierson, 7369 Ridge boulevard, one of the leaders of the committee, said the area would increase in land values when the street has been widened. He has owned property there for 25 years, he said. He is vice president of the West Ridge Improvement association.

Other property owners on the committee include D. F. Ryan, Lake Villa; Harry Salinger, 545 Stratford place; Dr. F. H. Steinhoff, 185 North Wabush avenue; Bruce Smeed, 1409 Hood avenue; C. H. Adamick, 516 East Illinois street; Earl G. Gubbins, 6447 North Francisco avenue; J. P. Geiger, 6538 North Maplewood avenue.

Mrs. Ray Pane, 4839 North Ferdinand street; Joseph P. Savage, 3240 Lake Shore drive; Bernard Brickley, 623 Belden avenue; Mrs. Theresa Zimmer, 6812 North California avenue; Percy Wilson, 1645 Pratt boulevard; A. O. Wange, 7250 Rogers avenue, and D. A. Roti, 2603 Devon avenue.

PRIEST TO CELEBRATE FIRST MASS SUNDAY IN ST. JAMES CHURCH

The Rev. Edwin V. Ocwieja.

The Rev. Edwin V. Ocwieja will offer his first mass as an ordained priest at 10:30 o'clock next Sunday morning in his home parish at St. James' church, Mango and Fullerton avenues. He will return for the service from Detroit, Mich., where he will be ordained Saturday for the diocese of Green Bay, Wis., by the Rev. Edward Mooney. Father Ocwieja was born in Chicago and was graduated from St. James parochial school and Holy Trinity High school. He took his advanced instruction at SS. Cyril and Methodius seminary, Orchard Lake, Mich. He is the son of Mrs. Eve Ocwieja, 2922 North Mango avenue.

RAIL SCHEDULES FOR LILAC DAY SENT TO CLUBS

50 Trains Will Bring Blooms to City.

The 12th annual "Share Your Lilacs" campaign conducted by the Chicago Plant, Flower, and Fruit guild and THE TRIBUNE was given new impetus last week when guild and suburban railroad officials worked out train schedules for bringing the lilacs into the city. The flowers will be taken to hospitals and other institutions that care for the sick and shutins.

A fleet of more than 50 trains on six railroads has been assigned to transport the lilacs free from the suburbs to stations in Chicago where they will be picked up by TRIBUNE trucks and taken to the hospitals. The cooperating railroads are the North Western, Illinois Central, Rock Island, Aurora and Elgin, North Shore Line, and the Burlington.

Schedules Sent Out.

The completed train schedules have been sent to guild chairmen of 85 garden clubs for use in completing their plans for lilac day. The Milwaukee, Pennsylvania, and South Shore lines also may furnish lilac trains if it develops later that more cars are needed.

Detailed instructions for cutting and shipping the blooms so they will be fresh when they reach the hospitals are being prepared by flower guild officials and the Allied Florists Association of Illinois. The instructions are to be sent to more than 2,000 garden club members before lilac day.

Cool Weather Brings Delay.

Continued cool weather has further delayed opening of the fragile blossoms and no date has been set for their distribution. Altho buds started opening on many of the bushes in the south and west suburbs more than a week ago, there still is little indication as to when they will be ready to cut. Gardeners all over Chicagoland have reported prospects for a heavy crop of blooms.

Mrs. Stanley D. Grace of Highland Park, chairman of the guild's general committee, says her organization again will provide means for all who have lilacs to share them with the sick. Guild committees of garden clubs in the various suburban communities will arrange for loading the bouquets on trains.

The list of garden club presidents and guild committee chairmen was revised recently. Here are the names and addresses of the new club presidents and guild chairmen in this area:

Park Ridge Garden club—Mrs. A. E. Goldthwaite, guild chairman.

Fox River Grove Garden club—Mrs. Jerome Musil, guild chairman.

NORTHWEST SIDE BOOSTS CONCERT FOR POLISH RELIEF

Many northwest side residents will take part in the benefit concert for the Polish relief fund to be given by the Philharmonic choir at the Chicago Sokol auditorium, 2345 South Kedzie avenue, at 8 o'clock tonight. All of them are Poles or Bohemians and Slavic music will make up the program. Members of the honorary committee include: Prof. and Mrs. Jerzy Bojanowski, 1049 Milwaukee avenue; Albert L. Soska, 1643 Milwaukee avenue, president of the Polish Alma Mater of America; Ald. Walter J. Orlikowski [35th], 3158 North Pulaski road; Dr. J. P. Kobrzynski, 1213 Milwaukee avenue, and Mr. and Mrs. Bonawentura Migala, 1236 Mautente court.

Officers of the choir are: Joseph Trxcinski, 2234 North Maplewood avenue, president; Miss Helena Lubanska, 1641 Julian street, vice president; Wladyslaw Wroblewski, 5137 Grand avenue, recording secretary; Miss Anita Bierman, 5055 George street, financial secretary; Miss Emilia Wolczyrz, 2712 North Talman avenue, cashier, and Vincent Ligman, 2230 Iowa street.

MARSHALL HIGH ALUMNI ELECT NEW OFFICERS

Several residents of the northwest area will be installed as officers of the Marshall High School Alumni association. The installation will take place at the annual reunion at the school next Friday evening. The officers include: Miss Pearl Morrison, 3605 Leland avenue, vice president; Miss E. Myra Morgan, 3406 Foster avenue, secretary, and Joseph Lowitz, 3218 Olive street, and Frank Stinson, 6563 North Tahoma avenue, members of the board of directors.

Other members of the association who are active in the reunion activities are: Mrs. Webster Gloss Thompson, 3571 Lyndale street; Miss Sarah Bogot, 2417 North Monticello street; Mrs. Lois Raymond Todd, 1807 North Nagle street; Miss Lilly Harris, 2004 North Humboldt boulevard; Edward Kirschner, 2907 Shakespeare avenue; Miss Elizabeth Wagner; Miss Mildred Walik, 1221 North Pulaski road; Mrs. Lillian Burns Strong, 4130 North Kedvale avenue; Mrs. David Revzan, 1850 Humboldt boulevard; J. D. Todd, 1810 North Narragansett street; Alex Whamond, 3739 North Whipple street; I. R. Sondler, 2646 Potomac street.

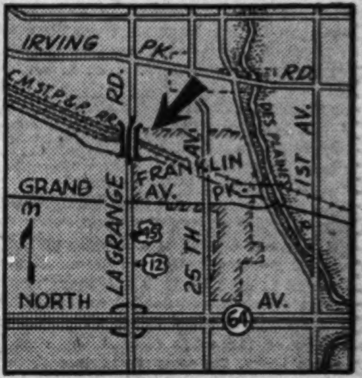
The Nursery Mothers' club at the settlement is to attend as a group and each member will bring a guest who is a member of the Nursery Mothers' club at Emerson house, a neighboring settlement.

FOUR LANE SPAN TO REPLACE OLD 'SUICIDE BRIDGE'

Railroad Will Share Cost of Project.

Residents of Franklin Park last week foresaw the end of "suicide bridge," the ancient La Grange road viaduct that has one of the longest traffic accident records in the county for the last 20 years. The old bridge over the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul, and Pacific railroad tracks was doomed by a decision of the Illinois Commerce commission approving an agreement to finance a new structure.

Under the terms of the agreement the cost of the new viaduct, about $500,000, will be shared by the railroad and the state department of highways. The railroad has agreed to supply $100,000. The remainder will consist of funds alloted to the state from the federal grade separation appropriation. Construction is expected to begin next month and to be complete within a year.



Arrow locates the site of new overpass for La Grange road at Milwaukee tracks.

Wooden Bridge 30 Years Old.

The new viaduct will replace a wooden structure erected more than 30 years ago for the convenience of horse and buggy travelers. Not only is it too narrow to accommodate modern automobile traffic safely, but it is also so slippery during wet weather that accidents are frequent. It spans a total of 12 tracks at the east end of the railroad's Bensenville yards.

Altho detailed plans for the construction will not be available until next month when the state will advertise for bids, some features of the new viaduct were described at the last meeting of the west area council of the Chicago Motor club. The total length of the improvement will be about 2,200 feet. Nearly half this distance will be over earth filled approaches.

At each end the curving approaches to the bridge will be straightened. At the south end the elevated portion of the viaduct will be extended far enough to separate the present grade intersection with Franklin avenue, the main thorofare between Franklin Park and Bensenville.

Eliminate Two Turns.

Since Franklin avenue has a jog of approximately 300 feet at La Grange road, motorists are required to make two right angle turns. To eliminate these the engineers plan to relocate it, routing it over a sweeping curve passing beneath the viaduct midway between the present turns.

Clare Bullen, former chairman of the west area council and a resident of Franklin Park, said the construction of the viaduct will eliminate the greatest traffic hazard in the suburb.

"La Grange road is a four lane highway thruout Cook county," he said, "and since it was designated U. S. highway No. 45 it has carried a very heavy volume of traffic. The narrow two lane bridge was a bottleneck obstructing the rapid flow of automobiles on each side for a mile or more on Sundays and holidays.

"Construction of a new four lane viaduct has been one of the chief objectives of the west area council for years. Several fatal accidents have occurred on the old viaduct not only because it was narrow, but also because it was covered with asphalt that became slippery when wet.

Seven Accidents in 1939.

"The steep arch also obstructed motorists' vision. Those approaching from the north had to contend not only with the curve off the bridge, but the cross-traffic on Franklin avenue as well. If they were moving very fast they couldn't see the danger in time to avoid it."

Records of the Franklin Park police department show that the viaduct was responsible for seven accidents last year. So far this year there have been two on or near the approaches to the bridge. In 1937, when the accident toll reached 20, the old structure was dubbed "suicide bridge" by local residents and has been known by that name since.

Girl Scouts to Dedicate Four Way Lodge on Sunday

Four Way Lodge, 95th street and Archer avenue, will be dedicated by Girl Scouts in a special ceremony at 2 o'clock next Sunday afternoon. Tree planting will be part of the program. The site of the Four Way Lodge is new. The lodge building proper was moved this spring from the former grounds at 123d street and Southwest highway. In addition, sleeping quarters and an outdoor dining room have been built on the hillside of the plot.

A HOLIDAY WALK IN MAY.

There's nothing for the city dweller and office worker like riding out to the forest preserves along the Des Plaines river, and in the Elk Grove area, on a Sunday afternoon. Frogs grumble in sunken ponds. You hear a breeze in the tree tops you can't feel. Brooks meander crazily. Trilliums are just opening. Starlike hepaticas are almost all past blooming, tho a little clump is nestled here and there among the dead leaves at the base of the trees. You kick up a little brown grassy clump which turns out to be a blue bird's nest.

Spring beauties and anemones, Dutchman's breeches and blood root speckle the gray little hills and valleys with rainbows in pastel.

Your stockings are ruined, your shoes covered with mud, your skirt snagged, and you feel as if you'd been riding horseback and figure you've walked at least 20 miles. But it sets you up the whole week afterward, back in the city and back in the office. It's not a half bad way to spend a May Sunday!

OLIVE MOON.

WANTS LIGHTS UNCOVERED.

The traffic experts ran contrary to common sense, it seems to me, when they covered up the traffic signal lights at Touhy and Milwaukee avenues in Niles. When the traffic is light the present arrangement with stop signs on both streets is quite satisfactory. But when traffic is heavy the disorderly stopping and starting cause a needless hinderance to traffic.

Bluffing motorists bully each other at the intersection. Sometimes when two bullies start up at the same time and at right angles there is a collision. Of course, it doesn't amount to anything more than dented fenders. Nevertheless the system encourages rudeness and causes unnecessary delays. E. L. W.

COMPLAINT ABOUT PAVING.

A few years ago the citizens of Edison Park voted in favor of annexation to Chicago, in the hope that they would get better and cheaper improvements.

Instead of getting the best of improvements they are getting the worst.

On Ozanam avenue is a sample of the class of pavement that is laid. This pavement is used by both passenger cars and heavy duty trucks loaded to capacity. No precautions were taken to prevent slippage of the slabs toward the curb. A catch basin, formerly three feet from the present curb, is finished with an oblique shoulder; the gutter inlet at the curb is of poorly laid bricks, and iron caps are in a small square with no reinforcing bars to connect with the adjacent slabs. In such a position the small square cannot withstand the impact of a heavy truck.

At several points the curb is as low or lower than the lowest edge of the pavement, leaving no protection to passing vehicles.

Cicero furnished the designer for this work. Would it not be better if a Chicago taxpayer, who has a reputation to maintain, were selected to direct the work?

Must the taxpayers keep on paying and paying for such work? OBSERVER.

THE PORTAGE COMMUNITY CLUB.

On behalf of the Portage Community club, I wish to thank your paper for the article regarding the organization of our club.

I think that THE TRIBUNE is doing a fine thing in recognizing the importance of the activities of the local communities of our city, and I am sure that it has a tremendous influence in developing a community spirit in a city as large as Chicago.

May you continue the good work.

GEORGE N. WELSH.

THE SUNDAY EVENING CLUB.

Just wanted to let you know that the column story in THE TRIBUNE on April 28 [on the deficit of the Chicago Sunday Evening club] was very much appreciated. Mr. Barnes has been hearing about it from various sources, and some good contributions have come in as a result.

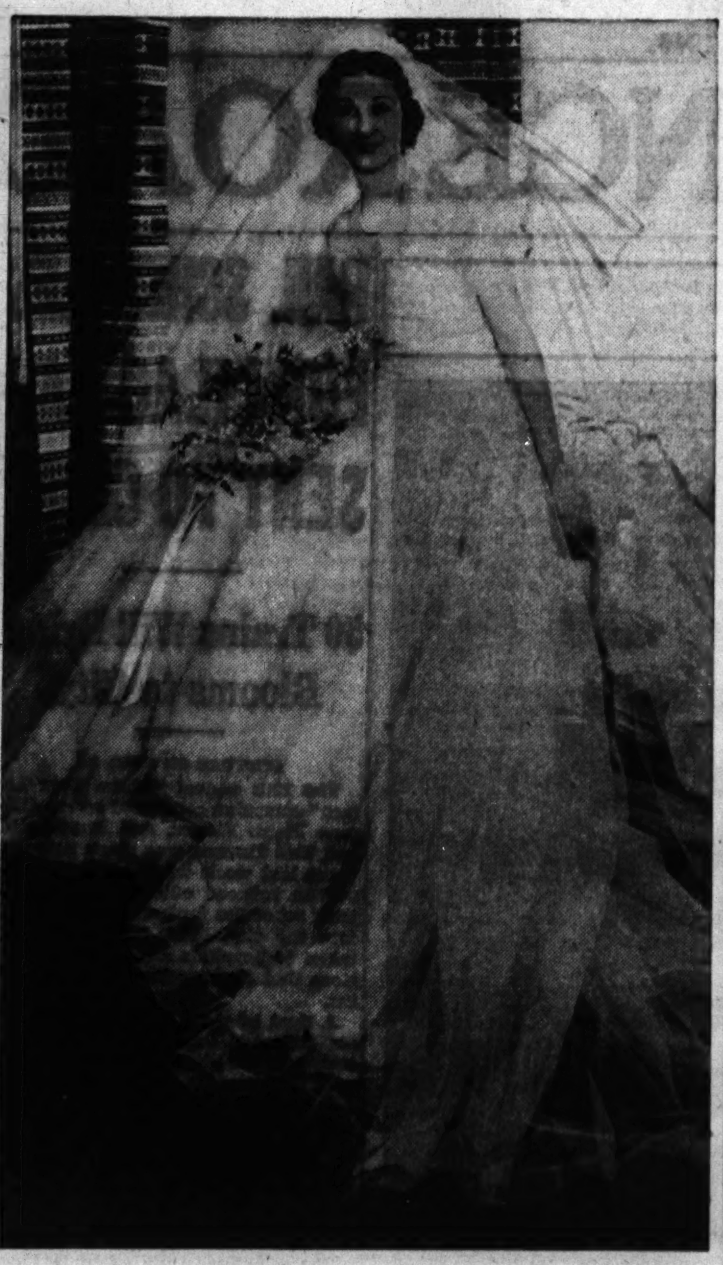
Bride of Minister



MRS. ALFRED M. BASTEN.
[Stafford Photo.]

Mrs. Alfred M. Basten, before her recent marriage to the Rev. Alfred M. Basten, pastor of the Presbyterian church in Edwardsburg, Mich., was Lorna Vera Ohan, daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. William Joseph Ohan, pastor of Bethany Presbyterian church, 1819 North Whipple street. Mrs. Basten is a graduate of the University of Chicago. The ceremony was performed by her father, assisted by the Rev. Prof. George L. Robinson, who had ordained her father, performed his marriage ceremony, and baptized the bride. Bridesmaids were Miss Irene M. Wiederhold, Miss Gladys Scholte, Miss Florence Roberts, and Miss Verne Walz. The Rev. Kermit Peterson was best man and the Rev. Rolland Stone and George and James Ohan, were attendants. Her brother, William, gave the bride away. The young couple will be at home June 1.

SINGING MOTHERS WILL PRESENT MUSIC FESTIVAL

P.-T. A. Choruses to Be Heard Wednesday.

Three hundred and fifty singing mothers will take part in the third annual music festival to be held Wednesday evening by the north and northwest side mothers' choruses of Parent-Teacher associations at Schurz High school, 3601 Milwaukee avenue.

The choruses, known as the Mothersingers, will celebrate their eleventh anniversary. The festival will be under the direction of Alice Sandberg and Florence Haglund. Ann Bergh and Villa Boaz of the Adult Education program, federal project sponsored by the board of education, will be assistant directors.

Items on Program.

The concert will open with the singing of "Salutation," by Gaines. Other selections include "Gloria Patri" by Palestrina and "Gloria" by Mozart. Soloists will be Trae Ehrhorn, harpist, and Helene Goldenberg, violinist.

The Mothersingers in Chicago were organized eleven years ago by the P.-T. A. They first were formed, however, in Ohio 21 years ago by Mrs. Stanley Clark of Cincinnati to arouse an interest in music by mothers of children attending public schools.

First Festival in 1938.

The first festival was held at the Falconer school in 1938 and consisted of 100 mothersingers. One hundred and sixty-eight mothers took part in the second festival held in the Portage Park school last year.

Mothers taking part in the Wednesday evening program are members of the P.-T. A. choruses of 19 schools: Agassiz, Avondale, Barry, Brentano, Budlong, Cleveland, Clinton, Falconer, Goudy, Jahn, Jamieson, Lloyd, Nixon, Portage Park, Scammon, Schubert, Steinmetz High, Trumbull, and Volta. Other singers are members of the Mid-west Council chorus and Northwest Women's chorus.

60 Years Together

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Feddery, residents of Logan Square for the last 25 years, celebrated their 60th wedding anniversary last Tuesday at their home, 2624 North Albany avenue. Mr. Feddery emigrated to Toronto, Canada, from Bristol, England, when he was 10 years old.

Taking the SORROW out of BORROW

Benjamin Franklin said, "He that goes a borrowing goes a sorrowing."

That depends upon where you borrow. Those who have been forced to borrow on harsh terms and at high rates of interest have nearly always found sorrow.

On the other hand, our Personal Loan Department has taken all the sorrow out of borrow. You can, if you are deserving, secure a loan of any reasonable sum from this bank at the legal rate of interest and pay it back in convenient monthly installments. See us about it.

TWO PARKS PLAN AMATEUR BOXING SHOWS FRIDAY

Boxing shows will be offered Friday night in Holstein park fieldhouse, 2200 North Oakley avenue, and in Norwood park fieldhouse, 5801 North Natoma avenue. Bouts will begin at 8:15 o'clock and trophies will be awarded to winners.

Matches scheduled at Holstein park include: Vito Celebron vs. William Taylor; Fred Nootbaar vs. Tony Zavala; Fred Gevrra vs. Tony Ferraro; Jim Ladd vs. John Reitan; Ken Madsen vs. Jim Goeths; Harry Postek vs. George Stoltman; John Hajlo vs. Bill Pyzanski; and Joe Hajdvk vs. William Kremer. Officials will be John Rock, referee; Ed Dembrowski, timekeeper; and Clem Piotrowski, general manager.

Boxers on the Norwood park card will be Tom Cahill, Arthur Anderson, Fred McNamara, Anthony Tieri, Joseph Alioto, and George Gilgenbach. To supplement the show several local wrestlers have also agreed to enter. Among them will be Bus Harley, Earle Karlsen, Wesley Berghome, and Jack Imburgia. Robert Wordell is the park supervisor.

Von Steuben School Choir Will Give Concert Tonight

The Von Steuben High school symphonic choir, directed by Claire J. Thomas, will sing a concert of sacred music at 7:15 o'clock tonight in the Swedish Evangelical Mission church, Christiana and Berwyn avenues. Music also will be supplied by the Sunday school orchestra, conducted by Robert C. Swanson. Miss Varian M. Shea, principal of Von Steuben High school, and the Rev. Arthur M. Bowman will speak.

BEGIN PLANNING JULY 4TH FETE IN IRVING PARK

There'll Be Parade, Music, Peanuts, of Course.

The Fourth of July, to children, seems a long way off, but it takes time to make a bang up celebration of the great day. Thus the Irving Park community council has already begun work in coöperation with the Fourth of July committee, planning to show the young fry what an old timers' Fourth really was like.

A parade and peanuts, ice cream and lemonade will all be a part of it. There will be band music, patriotic speeches, games, races, stunts, and other athletic competitions. Adult choral groups will join the community singing.

Plan No Fireworks.

Fireworks will be left to the choice of families at their homes, for the public celebration will be over at 6 o'clock.

Of the board of directors Gene Utz is chairman and John D. Murphy is vice chairman, Miss Irene Kluth is secretary and Sven Carlson treasurer.

Others on Board.

Other members of the executive board are: Mrs. Josephine Austin, George Rhode, Ralph Dahl, Joseph Chesser, Harry Riemer, Marlow Madden, Donald Becker, Herbert Kuhn, and Miss Helen Marshall.

Mr. Carlson, who heads the finance committee, has had placed on the counters of every place of business in the Irving Park district, contribution cans and any person or group making a substantial contribution will receive a certificate. These have already been awarded to the Irving Park P.-T. A., the Ben Butler Relief Corps, the Irving Park Catholic Women's club, and the Crawford greasing establishment.

Engaged to Wed

Mrs. O. M. McGarry, 2948 Palmer square, has announced the engagement of her daughter, Marianne, to James Walker Newhall, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Newhall of Colorado Springs, Colo.

"Never saw anything like it!"
"Those ads are certainly bringing in the customers!"

Are you selling all the people right in your own neighborhood who might trade with you?

For more than 12 years, large and small businesses located in many neighborhoods and suburbs of Chicago have proved conclusively that there is no better way to build sales and profits than by running a consistent schedule of low-cost advertising in the Sunday Tribune Metropolitan sections.

During 1939, a total of 745 neighborhood enterprises used this advertising plan to get a greater share of the patronage of the families who can best trade with them.

One or more of these five sections—North, Northwest, West, Southwest, and South—are edited for and read exclusively by the families in your trading area.

For more information about this time and result-tested plan for increasing your sales, call SUPerior 0100—Metropolitan section advertising.

Medical Auxiliary.

The annual spring luncheon of the woman's auxiliary to the Irving Park branch of the Chicago Medical society will be held at 1 o'clock Friday at the Tally Ho tearoom in Park Ridge.

SICK CHILDREN FIND LILAC DAY LIKE NEW WORLD

Seldom See a Flower in Home Districts.

"Lilac day is grand because our children have a chance to touch and smell a spray of flowers," said Miss Mabel W. Binner, superintendent of the Children's Memorial hospital, 707 Fullerton avenue.

"Most of our patients come from congested areas and seldom see a flower. Every child loves flowers—don't we always have to admonish them 'not to touch?'—and even the youngest ones remember the flowers as part of the good time they had here."

As the lilac season approaches, patients in hospitals and members of settlements begin to inquire about Lilac day which is sponsored annually by the Chicago Plant, Flower and Fruit guild and THE TRIBUNE. Children's Memorial hospital is one of the north side institutions always remembered.

Enjoy Hospital Days.

Miss Binner has proof that the children enjoy their days in the hospital. On the day he was leaving, one little boy who had been there more than a year insisted on stopping at Miss Binner's office "to tell her what a good time I've had." Another who had spent Christmas there sent back a dollar of his meager funds to help make another patient happy on that day and a third came in on his birthday to give the hospital a dollar.

Flowers from the guild and hospital board members help to make the hospital a pleasant place to remember. After one little boy asked his nurse how flowers were born, Miss Binner decided to plant some seeds in flower pots in the wards and in window boxes on the roof. But children find it hard to wait for the natural processes of nature to change the seed into a flower.

"If they planted a seed in the morning," explained Miss Binner laughingly, "they expected a bouquet by afternoon. In addition, every few hours they would dig up the seeds to see how things were coming along. We find it better to have a blooming flower to show them, if we can get them."

Hope for More Lilacs.

If plans of the general guild committees and division chairmen succeed, there will be more lilacs than ever available this spring. Under the direction of Mrs. Stanley D. Grace of Highland Park, the new general chairman replacing Mrs. David L. Meyers of La Grange, division leaders are contacting guild chairmen in 81 garden clubs in the Chicago area to forward the work. In turn, garden club members are asking friends to contribute lilacs for the offerings this spring.

The date for distribution of lilacs will be set as soon as the weather permits. North side division chairmen working with Mrs. Grace are Mrs. Lloyd G. Rees, Wilmette, Southern Milwaukee division, North Western railway; Mrs. Warren R. Nelson, Glencoe, Northern Milwaukee division, North Western railway, and Mrs. Albert W. Torbet, Deerfield, North Shore Line.

Cub Mothers' Party.

The Cub mothers' auxiliary of Pack 3981 will hold its second annual card party at 8 o'clock Friday night in Bowler hall, 4766 Milwaukee avenue. Profits will be used to finance activities of the pack.

SEVENTH DISTRICT ON HONOR ROLL AT CONVENTION

Clubs Are to Be Active in Federation Program.

Club women of the 7th district are to take an active interest in the 45th annual convention of the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs which meets at the Hotel Sherman tomorrow to remain in session thru Thursday.

Answering the honor roll call at the luncheon celebrating the 50th birthday of the federation, which will open the convention at noon tomorrow, will be two 7th district groups, the Arlington Heights Woman's club and the Irving Park Woman's club.

Three charter members from the 7th district included in the Pioneer Women division of the honor roll are Mrs. J. A. MacBurney, now living in Sheboygan, Wis.; Mrs. Truman G. Palmer, Washington, D. C., and Mrs. W. L. Wilcox, Springfield, O.

At its recent spring meeting the district gave outstanding service recognition in Class 2 to Mrs. George E. Colby, past president, and a member of the Irving Park Sorosis club.

Assisting at Luncheon.

Mrs. Charles R. Holton, president of the district, is a member of the committee assisting Mrs. E. J. Lehman, chairman of the luncheon committee. Mrs. Walter D. Amaden, public health chairman, will serve as chairman of credentials and elections.

The 7th district banquet will be held tomorrow evening at 6 o'clock. Mrs. B. A. Noyes, first vice president, and Mrs. W. M. Kemp, second vice president, are in charge of the program. The press and publicity hour will begin at 1:30 o'clock Tuesday. Mrs. George A. Harriman, state press and publicity chairman, will present Mrs. Halsor Hanson, who will speak on "Propaganda in Our Newspapers."

Junior auxiliary day begins with a breakfast in the Celtic grill at 8 o'clock Wednesday morning. There will be a business session in the Louis XVI. room at 9:30 o'clock the same morning. "The Value of the Various Departments of Work of Junior Clubs" will be the subject for discussion. Mrs. Raymond Gore of the Portage Park Junior auxiliary will speak for the art department.

Assigned to Discussion.

"Why I Want to Go to the General Federation Council Meeting in Milwaukee" has been assigned for discussion to delegates from the districts, and Miss Adelaide Weinckowski of the Irving Park Catholic Young Women's club will be spokesman for the 7th district. Final event will be the banquet in the grand ballroom at 6:30 o'clock Thursday night.

Junior ushers and pages are to be Mrs. Dorothy Schiemann, district chairman; Mrs. Marion Betz, Mrs. June Schuelke, Mrs. Margaret Oehlberg, Miss Bernice Gore, Miss Josephine Klein, Mrs. Willa Kunstman, Mrs. Eva Burshears, Mrs. Kenneth Amour, Miss Maxine Werber, Miss Mildred Wear, Miss Mildred Wagner, and Miss Shirley Edin.

Give $250 to Fund.

Seventh district clubs have contributed almost $250 this year to the General Federation Golden Jubilee fund, and have given 24 birthday parties. The sum was made up as well from proceeds from a district birthday party, a junior district party, two gifts honoring past presidents and the 7th district chorus, and the annual district gift of $25.

Twelve district clubs will receive ribbons showing that they have made 100 per cent donations to the fund. These are: South Edgebrook Woman's club, Forest Glen Service club, Open Door Woman's club, Irving Park Sorosis, Leyden Woman's club, Franklin Park Woman's club, Edison Park Woman's club, Norwood Park Woman's club, Woman's Columbian club, Hermosa Woman's club, Esther Falkenstein Woman's club, and the Mothers' Friendly Group of Association house.

Among 7th district members who are on the convention committees are Mrs. Charles R. Holton, Golden Jubilee luncheon; Mrs. Jensen, banquet; Mrs. John J. Muszynski and Mrs. Edward J. Marke, decorations; Mrs. Osmund Vinje, chairman, and Mrs. Sebre M. Baldwin, vice chairman, doorkeepers. Others on this committee are Mrs. J. C. Rhode, Mrs. William Kline, Mrs. L. P. Holton, Mrs. Herman Alme, Mrs. Donald Warbritton, Mrs. D. Norwood Jones, Mrs. Joseph G. Chesser.

Mrs. Eric A. Kullerstrand is on the entertainment committee. Mrs. William J. Farquharson and Mrs. George H. Herrmann are on the hospitality and courtesy committee. Other committee members are Mrs. John T. Bunting, house; Mrs. L. M. Stewart, information and bulletins; Mrs. Arne S. Bakken, lost and found; Mrs. David J. Scott, luncheons and dinners; Mrs. Eugene J. Kuntzman and Mrs. Victor Halvorsen, pages and ushers; Mrs. John Bjorhus, postoffice; Mrs. Edwin Huyck, registration of visitors; Mrs. Harriman and Mrs. Charles R. Holton, program; Mrs. Amaden, credentials and elections, and Mrs. Alfred G. Cook, treasurer of the local board.

HOLLANDER SKILLFUL MOVING TAKES THE GRIEF OUT OF MOVING DAY

'STUDENT PRINCE' NEXT ON CHICAGO THEATER OF AIR

Opera Guild Will Hear Claire, Gorin, Peerce.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Sigmund Romberg's tuneful "Student Prince," most popular of all operettas, is to be presented on the second broadcast of the Chicago Theater of the Air next Thursday evening. "The Student Prince" will be aired over the coast to coast network of the Mutual broadcasting system from 9 to 10 o'clock with Marion Claire, famous soprano; Igor Gorin, young baritone of the concert, opera and radio, and Jan Peerce, Radio City Music hall tenor, as the three stars.

They will be supported by the augmented W-G-N Concert orchestra and chorus under the direction of Henry Weber and a cast of distinguished radio actors. William A. Bacher will produce and direct the show. Noel B. Gerson wrote the adaptation.

Members of the Illinois Opera guild will be special guests of "The Student Prince" broadcast. The guild is active in stimulating interest in the Chicago Opera. The guild last year organized committees to sell opera tickets and subscriptions. It bought all of the boxes on Thursday nights and made the seats available free to more than 2,000 worthy music students. Mrs. James G. McMillan of Winnetka is president.

Ran 62 Weeks in Chicago.

"The Student Prince" has been viewed by hundreds of thousands of persons since first produced by J. J. Shubert in New York in 1924. It's first Chicago run continued for 62 weeks. At one time 12 stock comppanies were presenting it simultaneously.

With its setting in old Heidelberg in the gay days before the turn of the century, "The Student Prince" tells the story of Karl Franz, handsome young prince of Karlsberg, and of his poignant, short-lived romance with the beautiful Kathie, the little waitress beloved of all Heidelberg students, before he is called away from his studies to assume his duties as ruler of his country.

Miss Claire will sing the rôle of Kathie; Jan Peerce will be heard as Karl Franz, the student prince, and Igor Gorin will portray the singing rôle of Dr. Engel, the kindly teacher and adviser of Karl.

In the dramatic cast will be the fine company of actors that performed in "Bittersweet," the first operetta presented by the Chicago Theater of the Air.

This cast includes Alice Hill, Olan Soule, John Goldsworthy, Frances Carlon, Marvin Mueller, Butler Mandiville, Willard Waterman, Van Dyke, Stan Harris, and Barry Drew.

Miss Claire was starred in the first production of the series. She also is featured on THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE Symphonic hours at 9 p. m. Sundays on W-G-N-Mutual.

Gorin Hails Operetta Series.

Igor Gorin, youthful baritone, has interrupted his nation-wide concert tour for this broadcast. Gorin, who has traveled 60,000 miles since last November, is in Chicago already for rehearsals.

"Operetta," he said yesterday, "is just about the finest radio entertainment. One rarely hears a musical variety program without some light opera selection appearing on it. Operetta tunes outlive those on the hit parade. They have a great place in the heart of the public."

"I love working in operettas," he continued, "particularly when Bill Bacher is producing them."

Bacher, he said, gave him his first big opportunity. Bacher came across Gorin in an audition in New York in 1935; took him to the west coast for Hollywood hotel where they worked together for several years.

Proud of Citizenship.

Gorin came to America in 1935 from Vienna. Ten days after he arrived he applied for first citizenship papers and only a few weeks ago he received his final papers. He is extremely proud to be an American. Born in the Ukraine he hasn't always been too certain at times of his citizenship. That portion of the Ukraine has been switched back and forth between Russia and Poland several times during his lifetime.

Gorin was graduated from the Vienna conservatory and became the star baritone of the Czecho-Slovakia state opera. In Europe he was marked for his performance in "Rigoletto" and as Figaro.

Besides his operatic, radio and concert activities Gorin has made one movie, "Broadway Melody," and is preparing to do another, now being written by Frances Marion. The story is concerned with the Finnish war. He is also a recording favorite.

Peerce Once a Violinist.

Jan Peerce, radio and concert favorite, was born on the east side of New York. He started his career as a violinist, played for 10 years in orchestras. His vocal talents were recognized with the opening of the Radio City Music hall. Last season he gave successful recitals in Carnegie and town halls in New York.

Carrie Carter Auditioners

Virginia Payne (center), Carrie Carter of the Carters of Elm Street show, dropped around to meet some of the aspiring actresses who may turn out to become members of the popular serial's cast. Miss Jeanne Pilkington (left), 17 years old, a Hirsch High school student, and Mrs. Jerry Sternburg (right) are among the 1,206 W-G-N applicants who tried out for the Carter talent search. Both expect to win in the contest which offers a two week "paid vacation" of $112.50 per week.

1,206 GIRLS, WOMEN TRY OUT ON W-G-N IN CARTER TALENT HUNT

More than 2,000 requests for tryouts on W-G-N for applications in the Carrie Carter Talent Search, conducted by the Carters of Elm Street program, were received when the deadline for entries was reached last Wednesday. And in three weeks 1,206 girls and women stepped before a W-G-N microphone and showed their dramatic ability.

Those who showed real radio talent will be recalled for further auditions and will compete against winners from other Mutual stations to determine the national winners.

As suggested by Virginia Payne, star of "The Carters," each winner will be given a two week assignment with the Carters' company, playing over W-G-N-Mutual daily at a salary of $112.50 a week. All travel and living expenses will be paid for the fortnight.

Hargrave Is Versatile.

William Hargrave, featured baritone on "Johnny Presents," has plenty of variety in his vocal assignments. In one program recently he sang a dramatic marching song, while in the Mecca Auditorium opera he intones arias.

CARTUNE-O, NEW QUIZ, ON W-G-N NEXT THURSDAY

"Cartune-O," new musical quiz game, will make its bow over W-G-N at 7:30 p. m. next Thursday. Groceries and cash prizes amounting to $265 will be given away to listeners. Harold Stokes and the W-G-N Dance orchestra will play tunes which listeners will be asked to identify by checking the cartoons which illustrate the tunes played.

The new radio game is both a test of musical knowledge and an intelligence test. The game, however, is not difficult.

LENAUD SISTERS TO BE GUESTS ON STOKES SHOW

"Romance in Rhythm," directed by Harold Stokes, will feature a return engagement of the double piano team, Evelyn and Hazel Lenaud, from 9:30 to 10 p. m. tomorrow on W-G-N and the Mutual network. The vocalists will be Edna O'Dell, Lawrence Salerno, and the Four Shades of Blue.

The Lenaud sisters, who were guests last February, have attracted wide attention thru many recitals and radio engagements.

SYMPHONIC HOUR OFFERS ANGELUS FEATURE TONIGHT

Dedicate Special Program to Mother's Day.

The Chicago Tribune Symphonic hour will dedicate its third Sunday evening broadcast to Mother's day. Tonight's broadcast—from 9 to 10 o'clock—over W-G-N and the nationwide Mutual network will feature the singing of Soprano Marion Claire, the W-G-N Symphony orchestra and chorus, directed by Henry Weber, and a special dramatic interlude before an invited audience representing the Chicago Association of Commerce.

The Rev. John C. Evans, religious editor of THE TRIBUNE, will be the speaker of the evening.

Highlighting the broadcast will be a dramatization with special musical effects of Millet's painting, "The Angelus," a feature bringing to life the humble peasant and his wife portrayed in the picture, with a background of music from "The Angelus," by Jules Massenet, and the Intermezzo from "Cavalleria Rusticana," by Pietro Mascagni.

Color Picture in Drama Section.

"Listeners will be invited to turn to the first page of THE SUNDAY TRIBUNE's drama section, which today presents a full color picture of Millet's painting, offering an artistic complement to the radio presentation.

Miss Claire, accompanied by the full chorus and the Symphony orchestra, will join in this unusual dramatic scene. The "Angelus" feature was written by William A. Bacher, who directs the production of the Symphonic Hour, as well as the Chicago Theater of the Air series, heard on W-G-N.

The program:

Overture Coriolanus................Beethoven
Orchestra.
Wie bist du meine Koenigen... ......Brahms
Miss Claire.
The Sleep that Flits on Baby's Eyes
....................John A. Carpenter
Miss Claire.
Bridal Song Serenade..............Goldmark
Orchestra.
The Joy of the Hunters...........Von Weber
Octet and orchestra.
The Angelus Dramatization..............
Miss Claire, chorus, orchestra, and dramatic cast.
Evening Talk..........................
The Rev. John C. Evans.
The Lord's Prayer..........Albert H. Malotte
Miss Claire.
First Movement from D Minor Symphony ....César Franck
Orchestra.

Miss Claire, who is vocal soloist on the Symphonic Hour programs, will be starred with Jan Peerce and Igor Gorin in the Chicago Theater of the Air operetta, "The Student Prince," next Thursday evening on W-G-N.

Similar Features Planned.

In connection with the dramatization, Mr. Bacher, who originated this new radio technique, has announced that every Sunday night the Symphonic Hour will offer a similar feature bringing to life the great figures of history and of the arts, blending the finest in music thru the medium of radio dramatics.

Next Sunday's Symphonic Hour will be presented before another invited audience representing the Chicago Association of Commerce guests.

NORTHERNERS TO FEATURE HERBERT SONGS TUESDAY

The Northerners will feature songs by Victor Herbert in their broadcast from 9:30 to 10 p. m. Tuesday on W-G-N. Irene Verner will be the soloist. The entire Northerners cast will join in the presentation of songs from Herbert's "Rose of Algeria," which include the opening chorus and "Rose of the World."

Miss Verner will sing for her solo, "Solveig Song," by Edvard Grieg. The octet will sing "When You Wore a Tulip," "It's Tulip Time in Holland," "Any Old Port in a Storm," "The Singing Hills," and "O Dry Those Tears."

Radio City Music Hall to Present Sinfonietta

The première of Maurice Baron's transcription for orchestra of variations from the "Forellen" quartet of Schubert will be a highlight of the sinfonietta program of the Radio City Music hall at 11 a. m. today over WCFL-NBC. With Erno Rapee conducting, the orchestra also will play the "Pelleas and Melisande" suite by Sibelius, and Debussy's "Petite Suite." Henrietta Schumann, pianist, will play the first movement of Rubenstein's Concerto in D minor.

Ethel Winser to Start Book Series on Tuesday

Ethel Reid Winser, literary authority, will launch a new series of radio programs titled "Off the Bookshelf" over WJJD on Tuesday. The programs will be heard each Tuesday and Thursday evening at 6:45 p. m.

Guest Stars

Josephine Dunn and Morgan Farley, who will co-star in the W-G-N-Mutual network production, "The Country Doctor," on Fifth Row Center at 7 p. m. next Friday. Miss Dunn and Mr. Farley are currently appearing in "Margin for Error" at the Grand Opera house.

REBROADCASTING OF SHORT WAVE SHOWS APPROVED

The Federal communications commission has amended its rules and regulations to permit standard and noncommercial educational broadcast stations to pick up and rebroadcast the noncommercial programs of international broadcast stations. It was specified, however, that such rebroadcasting shall be on a noncommercial basis.

Briefly, this means that any broadcast station or a noncommercial educational station in the United States may, upon authority of the station originating the international program, pick up and retransmit the same for the benefit of its listeners. This applies to the program of any international broadcast station, whether it is located within or outside of the United States.

This action was taken on the basis of recommendation by a special committee of the commission that, where possible, domestic listeners should enjoy the benefits of noncommercial international broadcasts.

DR. CUTTER TALKS WITH A. B. MILLS ON HOSPITAL DAY

In observance of National Hospital day, Dr. Irving S. Cutter, dean of Northwestern university's medical school and health editor of THE TRIBUNE, and Alden B. Mills, managing editor of the Modern Hospital magazine, will appear on the Northwestern University Reviewing Stand this morning. Dr. Cutter and Mr. Mills will discuss "Ten Million Americans in the Hospital" on the broadcast over W-G-N and Mutual from 10:15 to 10:30 a. m.

Dr. Cutter and Mr. Mills will examine progress made in recent years in the United States in expansion of hospital facilities. Among the questions they plan to discuss are: Are there adequate hospital facilities in the United States? Are these facilities available to all who need them? What's the future outlook?

WHAT DO YOU THINK?, NEW WOMAN'S QUIZ, STARTS TOMORROW

"What Do You Think?" a quiz program for every woman, makes its bow on W-G-N's program schedule tomorrow and will be heard each weekday in the future from 12:15 to 12:30 p. m. Alan Scott will conduct the program, which will be presented from the studios of W-G-N.

A group of women will attend the broadcast each day on the invitation of the sponsor, who will issue tickets to the program, and from the studio audience four will be selected to answer questions sent in by listeners. Listeners having questions accepted will receive $1 for each query. Women who are selected to answer right or wrong to the questions on the air will be paid $5 per program.

JOSEPHINE DUNN, MORGAN FARLEY ON W-G-N SHOW

Guests on 5th Row Center Next Friday.

Josephine Dunn and Morgan Farley will be co-starred in W-G-N-Mutual's Fifth Row Center program at 7 p. m. next Friday in a special presentation of Donald Spatz's drama, "The Country Doctor." The program is a weekly presentation of W-G-N and the Mutual chain and is produced by Blair Walliser.

Miss Dunn and Mr. Farley are currently appearing in "Margin for Error," Claire Booth's mystery drama at the Grand Opera house.

"Country Doctor" concerns a young physician who refuses to administer an injection which would continue the life of a patient for at least another 24 hours, but under conditions of great suffering. The patient dies and the physician is accused of breaking the strongest unwritten laws of the profession—maintaining life at any cost.

Rôles Are Reversed.

Barred from the city's hospital, his practice taken away from him, he and his nurse take up life again in a small town. By an ironic twist of fate, he himself becomes involved in a similar situation, but with the rôles reversed. This time the physician is the patient who, if saved, would live the rest of his life in darkness, never able to again practice medicine.

Josephine Dunn, taking the feminine lead as Nurse Ann Gibson, is known to moving picture fans for her parts in such screen productions as "Excess Baggage" and "Murder at Dawn."

Played in England.

Morgan Farley, who portrays the doctor, has been a leading figure of the stage both here and in England. He played Cassius in "Julius Caesar" with the Mercury players last year. He also has been featured in "Candida," "Romeo and Juliet," and in "An American Tragedy."

The overture and musical background of the radio play will be provided by the W-G-N dance orchestra under the direction of Harold Stokes.

HOLLIS SHAW TO SING TOMORROW WITH TEMPLETON

Hollis Shaw.
[Kesslere Photo.]

Four years ago in New York Alec Templeton, the pianist and impersonator, was so impressed with the singing of a young soprano on a local station that he vowed to help her if he ever got a chance. Tomorrow night at 8:30 this soprano, Hollis Shaw, now a Broadway star, will make a guest appearance on Templeton's show over WMAQ-NBC.

A vivacious blonde, Miss Shaw, who sings everything from operatic arias to swing, will be heard in "All the Things You Are" which she introduced last fall in the Broadway production, "Very Warm for May."

LEHAR MELODIES SCHEDULED FOR MELODY PAGEANT

"The Pageant of Melody," under the direction of Henry Weber, will feature themes from Franz Lehar in a program of popular concert music with the W-G-N Concert orchestra and Kathryn Witwer, Attilio Baggiore, and the octet, from 9:15 to 10 p. m. Wednesday on W-G-N and the Mutual network.

Miss Witwer, Baggiore, and the octet will join with the orchestra in the Lehar numbers, which include "Carnival," "Love Is a Pilgrim," "Say Not Love Is a Dream," and "Starlight Guards."

Baggiore will sing for his solo, "Di Miei Bollente Spiriti" from Verdi's "La Traviata." Miss Witwer will sing an aria from the opera "Louise," by Gustave Charpentier.

"Farewell," an original composition by Adolf Hoffmann of the W-G-N musical staff, will be sung by the octet, with Mr. Weber playing the piano accompaniment.

Constipation Relief That Also Pepsin-izes Stomach
When constipation brings on acid indigestion, bloating, dizzy spells, gas, coated tongue, sour taste, and bad breath, your stomach is probably loaded up with certain undigested food and your bowels don't move. So you need both Pepsin to help break up fast that rich undigested food in your stomach, and Laxative Senna to pull the trigger on those lazy bowels. So be sure your laxative also contains Pepsin. Take Dr. Caldwell's Laxative, because its Syrup Pepsin helps you gain that wonderful stomach comfort, while the Laxative Senna moves your bowels. Tests prove the power of Pepsin to dissolve those lumps of undigested protein food which may linger in your stomach, to cause belching, gastric acidity and nausea. This is how pepsinizing your stomach helps relieve it of such distress. At the same time this medicine wakes up lazy nerves and muscles in your bowels to relieve your constipation. So see how much better you feel by taking the laxative that also puts Pepsin to work on that stomach discomfort, too. Even finicky children love to taste this pleasant family laxative. Buy Dr. Caldwell's Laxative—Senna with Syrup Pepsin at your druggist today!

YOUTHS OF ST. PAUL CHURCH TO PRESENT COMEDY THIS WEEK

Miss Shirley Dean.

"Fun in a Chinese Laundry," a two act comedy, will be presented by the Faithful Followers, a church school class of the St. Paul Congregational church, Keeler and Belden avenues, at 8 o'clock next Thursday and Friday nights. Miss Shirley Dean, 2323 North Keeler avenue, has been cast in the leading rôle. Others taking parts are Katherine Knees, Lois Oppenlander, Eleanor Stoltenberg, Grayce Brooks, Muriel Spiron, Shirley Alshanski, Audrey Prate, Lois Westergaard, Lois Thompson, Louise Peterson, Lorraine Vilsoet, and Alice Hanson. Miss Myrtle Hardie is the director.

Wright College Singer

Miss Denise Cass, 4106 North Keystone avenue, will sing "Wanting You," from "New Moon," during the Wright Junior college a cappella choir and chorus presentation of a concertized version of "Carmen" as a part of the college music festival which will be held in the Carl Schurz High school auditorium the evening of May 17.

WALLER YOUTHS TO BE GUESTS AT CITIZENS' RALLY

Supt. Puffer to Speak on W-G-N Program.

Maurice C. Lipman.

Noble J. Puffer, Cook county superintendent of schools, will speak briefly on the seventh "Citizens of Tomorrow" half hour radio program, sponsored by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, to be heard on W-G-N from 7 to 7:30 o'clock Wednesday night. The entertainment will feature Waller High school and 600 of its students with their principal, Maurice C. Lipman, will be present in the W-G-N audience studio. The Waller mixed chorus, directed by Mildred Tess, will sing two numbers, the Waller school song and the Cossack Lullaby.

This show will be the 7th in a series of 11 program which are dedicated to the youth of America. With Supt. Puffer will be more than a score of county school superintendents and high school principals.

Girls to Attend.

Additional guests will be 28 high school girls who have been designated for their outstanding work in the Citizen Pilgrims program of the Daughters of the American Revolution chapters in and near Chicago.

Three pretty Waller girls will lead the cheering section. They are Shirley Aussen, Pat Gladkey and Clare Meyer. Under the direction of the school's R. O. T. C. the national and school colors will be posted just before going on the air.

Philip Maxwell, a member of THE TRIBUNE staff, will be the "principal" and master of ceremonies on the show, which will include "Charlie Jones," every high school's principal, and wise cracking "Jerry," who in real life is Miss Dorothy Gregory, a 16 year old senior at Maine Township High school.

Alumni to Listen.

Thousands of Waller alumni will be listening in. This group will include William Chandler, athetic director at Marquette university, Milwaukee, Wis.; Oscar G. Mayer, president of the Chicago Association of Commerce; Fred H. Heidbring, professor of English at Northwestern university; Herbert E. Hyde, noted organist and composer of Chicago, and Mrs. William B. Walrath, founder of The Cradle, in Evanston.

Church Young People.

The Young People's club of St. Edward's church, Lowell and Sunnyside avenues, will hold a dance at the church center next Thursday night. The Rev. Joseph F. Burke is director of the club.

Has Part in Play

Miss Patricia Fagen, 4114 North Kedzie avenue, will portray Mary Magdalen in the play "Family Portrait," to be presented at 8:30 o'clock Wednesday, May 22, in the People's church, 941 Lawrence avenue. J. Bradley Griffin is directing the production.

AIDS OF POLISH SOCIETIES PLAN BENEFIT DANCE

Auxiliaries of the Chicago Polish Medical and Dental societies will hold a dance Saturday night in headquarters of the Polish Women's alliance, 1309 North Ashland avenue. Profits will be given to the American Committee for the Polish Ambulance fund.

Mrs. Adam L. Szwajkart, 6644 Raven street, is president of the medical society auxiliary and Mrs. Walter Strozewski, 1200 North Ashland avenue, is president of the dental society auxiliary. Among other northwest side women serving on committees are: Mrs. B. G. Duda, 1518 West Chicago avenue; Mrs. James Hodur, 5232 Wellington avenue; Mrs B. B. Pawlowski, 5248 Fullerton avenue; Mrs. C. J. Rauth, 2901 North Troy street.

Others are: Miss Kitty Smiatek, 1820 Erie stret; Mrs. C. C. Buczynski, 2312 Augusta boulevard; Mrs. Walter Dziuk, 2226 Walton street; Mrs. E. G. Wojnicki, 5316 Wellington avenue, and Mrs. A. E. Slawinski, 2657 Hirsch street.

Von Steuben High to Have Safety Rally Wednesday

The danger of traffic accidents during summer vacations will be emphasized Wednesday morning by George W. Fleming, general secretary of Mayor Kelly's keep Chicago safe committee, when he addresses 2,200 students at Von Steuben High school, 5045 North Kimball avenue. Statistics show that accidents to juveniles reach their peak in the summer, Mr. Fleming said. Two motion pictures illustrating safety rules will be shown.

REBUILT HOME SHOWS RESULT OF SKILL IN PLANS

Even Attic Transformed to Useful Space.

BY LOUISE BARGELT.

Excellent planning has gone into the recently modernized home of Mr. and Mrs. Lew Shalett, 5144 South Cornell avenue. The result is that the home has been given that peculiar quality the French call l'esprit. The architect, Bertram Goldberg, 820 North Michigan avenue, has rebuilt the house for the greatest possible usefulness to all the family, and Mrs. Shalett has added personal touches to each room, according to its intended "purpose in life."

While the major and amazing portion of the transformation was centered on the interior, the brick exterior underwent some changes.

Originally the house had an old fashioned porch on each side of the front entrance pillars. These porches were ripped off and neat brick and flagstone terraces substituted. The front was landscaped, and a secluded garden area provided at the back of the house.

Has Amateur Stage.

Inside the home, skilful planning made possible a number of extra rooms. As it stands now the plan is spacious and open. It contains not only a gloriously comfortable basement recreation room and refreshment counter, a maid's room and bath, a work room and laundry and heater room but a completely and uniquely finished attic suite.

In this suite, which is for the use of the girl and boy of the family, there is a real stage with dressing rooms, footlights, spotlights, and so on, for amateur theatricals of all kinds, at one end of the attic; and at the other end, two separate study corners with bookcases and work tables, typewriters and desks.

On the first and second floors, there are now three bathrooms and a powder room, where formerly there was only one bath; a study for Mrs. Shalett on the second floor, and a library on the first floor.

New Winding Stairway.

One of the principal structural changes was the installation of an entire new stairway, which winds from the first floor to the attic. This new stairway is wide and open, and light, where the original stairs were narrow and dark. Another change on the first floor which adds to the spacious effect is the fact that there are no doors between the main living room, study, and dining room.

Entrance is made into a large and inviting central hall, dominated by two massive pillars. These were kept, as well as the finely beamed ceilings, and are as striking and inviting as the great oval fireplace on the north living room wall.

The woodwork here has been painted white, the walls a quiet green, the carpeting is beige, and there are Venetian blinds and draw drapes at the windows. These drapes in the living room are figured with arresting red flowers—a note repeated in the papered walls of the powder room at the left of the entrance door.

Sliding Door Wardrobes.

At the right of the entrance is a deep built-in wardrobe with sliding doors. Mrs. Shalett has no closets and closet doors in her home. Thruout the house there are these vast, commodious wardrobes, with their doors which slide silently back and forth.

There are likewise no radiators visible. These were recessed in the walls—convectors, they are called now—and the change was made when new hot water gas fired boiler was installed.

From the west end of the living room you enter a quite captivating little circular, alcove study. It seems very far, indeed, from the "world around," with its high, small windows, its built-in bookcases of satiny cypress, and plaques on the wall from some old baronial castle, centuries back.

Italian Cabinet Work.

The cabinet work thruout the house was for the most part handmade by an Italian craftsman. In the light, beautiful dining room there are a buffet and dining table of dark mahogany, with the fine detail of a rare "antique," and dining chairs in ebony finish, with soft green and yellow striped upholstery. The walls are a quiet lemon yellow, and the draw drapes at the windows repeat, in their pattern, the "pillars" in the hall.

The large, handsomely remodeled kitchen is L-shaped, and ends in a most unusual breakfast corner.

At the top and back of the wainscot there is a deep iron container built in the wall. This holds soil and water for the plants and vines which are growing on two sides of the nook.

Upstairs Hall Gone.

Another most unusual feature of this kitchen are the sliding doors at the "floor to ceiling" cabinets.

No story, however short, is complete without mention of the excellence of the layout and treatment of the second floor bedrooms.

On this floor a central hall, "huge" as second floor halls once were, was eliminated, and space was salvaged for an additional room, this a charming study, with book lined walls, for Mrs. Shalett.

Besides this study, there are three bedrooms and three baths.

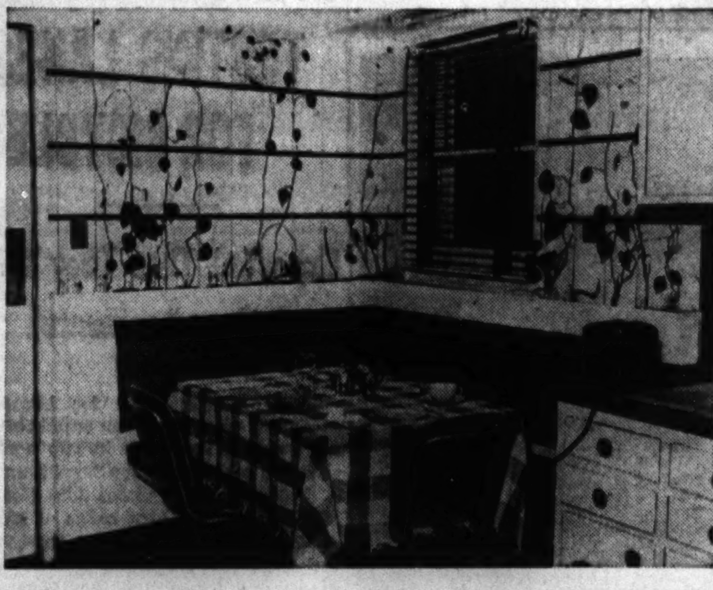
The boy's bedroom and bath are smartly tailored with a masculine air. The walls of the bedroom are covered with striped wall paper.

Bedroom in Blue.

The girl's bedroom is essentially feminine, with pale blue walls and blue satin backed beds. The bathroom has painted walls, hand decorated with "Pandora" boxes and gay butterflies.

The master bedroom has soft yellow walls and a deep blue carpeting, with an alcove for the beds which has its walls papered in yellow and gray paper.

Vines Around Kitchen Nook



A most unusual kitchen, a part of a beautiful piece of modernization work. Here we see a breakfast corner, with specially designed cabinet work and green vines climbing a trellis of horizontal red wood strips and vertical steel bars. Owners of the remodeled home are Mr. and Mrs. Lew Shalett, 5144 South Cornell avenue, Chicago. The architect is Bertrand Goldberg, 820 North Michigan avenue.

This Week in the Garden

Monday, May 13.

Cultivation of plants must not be neglected. There are many types of tools now available for special uses, such as narrow hoes to get in between closely planted material, but the careful gardener needs very few tools to carry on his work. A common hoe, a steel toothed rake, a spade, a lawn mower are about all that are needed. Tools always should be cleaned every time they are used.

Tuesday, May 14.

Do not be in a hurry to plant tender plants out of doors for a late frost may injure them. Wait until about Memorial day before removing house plants out of doors. Get the window boxes in condition for planting. Well planted boxes are an asset in any place. The person without an outdoor garden can enjoy window boxes and many delightful effects can be obtained from them. There are plants suitable for every situation unless it is too dark and even then changes can be made of the plant material. Grow the rosy morn petunia in the sun and the Boston fern, holly fern, asparagus fern, English ivy, and similar plants in the shade. Be sure the soil is rich. Sow annuals in the box, such as sweet alyssum and portulaca for fine bloom.

Wednesday, May 15.

This is a late season and garden work will come along in rapid succession. See that the plants are fertilized with a complete plant food to give them a good start. Shrubs in many gardens are neglected because they are hardy and able to withstand adverse conditions, but when the soil is cultivated around them, food supplied, and water given as needed, they respond with vigorous growth, luxuriant foliage, and high grade flowers. Do not overplant. Close planting can only result in few flowers and weak plants. This does not apply to carpet bedding, edging, and similar conditions where certain effects are desired.

Thursday, May 16.

It is an excellent practice to mulch newly planted shrubs and trees. A light mulch of cut grass, leaves, peat moss, or other material will keep the soil from drying out and keeps down weeds. The mulch should be left all summer. Mulch perennial borders as soon as the weather becomes hot. Roses and fruit trees are much benefited by a mulch. Flowering hedges such as the flowering quince, spiræas, deutzias, lilacs, and others should be trimmed after the flowering period.

Friday, May 17.

If the delphinium plants show signs of being affected with black, twisted, and deficient growth, dust with Bordeaux. Scatter some on the ground around each plant. Try spraying gladioli when the foliage is about 12 inches long with a mixture of two teaspoonsful of Paris green, two pounds of brown sugar, and three gallons of water. Spray once a week for the control of thrip. Keep spraying delphiniums, hollyhocks, and phlox with Bordeaux or dust with sulphur. Watch for oyster shell scale and spray with nicotine soap solution. The scale hatches at about this time and the young are easily controled.

Saturday, May 18.

Root lice or aphids on plants may be largely controled by using tobacco stems as a mulch. The stems can be purchased from supply houses by the bale. Tobacco dust worked into the soil also is effective. Spray fruit trees before the blossoms drop as a protection against the codling moth.

Prepared in coöperation with Garfield park conservatory.

STEINMETZ HIGH BAND TO OFFER ANNUAL CONCERT

Victor Herbert melodies will be presented by the 88 piece Steinmetz High school band at its fourth annual concert to be held at the school, 3030 North Mobile avenue, Friday night. There will be a chorus of 200 voices. An original sketch will also be given, typifying the coming to town of the circus. There will be a baton twirling act and marimba solos. Symphonic music will include Sibelius' "Finlandia" and Rossini's "William Tell" overture.

Capt. Harry Dowse will direct the concert, and Joseph Calafiore will be in charge of tickets. Marimba artists are Edward Thuy and Miss Gladys Oliverus. Among the baton twirlers will be Miss Pearl Hjertstedt, who recently won the championship sponsored by the Baton Twirlers' club. Other twirlers will be Shirley Kaczmarek, Constance Ferris, and Norbert Lisk.

EXPECTANT DADS TO ENJOY OWN HOSPITAL ROOM

Jumpy Nerves Soothed as They Anxiously Wait.

Unwilling to have fathers completely forgotten even on Mother's day, Grant hospital, 551 Grant street, will open its new "Room for Expectant Fathers" today. The opening will be a feature of the hospital's informal open house in observance of National Hospital day, Mother's day, and the 120th birthday anniversary of Florence Nightingale, mother of modern nursing.

"It may seem unusual to pay so much attention to fathers on this particular day," explained Elizabeth Wivel, superintendent of nurses and originator of the idea, "but observation has convinced us that they, too, should have special consideration.

Just Case of Nerves.

"Up to this time the expectant father has been regarded as a useless case of nerves at the critical time when the stork is arriving. Now he will have a special room to stay in during this trying period and we will do all we can to keep him calm."

The room will be furnished with plenty of cigarets, books, magazines, and daily papers, card tables, and games, and coffee and sandwiches will be served at intervals. Also, a supply of sedatives.

"There is no case on record of a father dying from child birth," admitted Clinton F. Smith, hospital administrator, "but the hospital believes in taking no chances."

Included in Tours.

The fathers' room will be included in tours of the hospital to be held between 2 and 5 o'clock this afternoon. Other interesting features will be an unusual collection of X-ray photographs, the new Taylor Strawn Memorial X-ray laboratory, an opportunity to see germ cultures thru microscopes, the operating room, and continuous motion pictures in the auditorium.

At each point physicians and nurses will be ready to explain the operation of a hospital and to answer questions. Also open to the public will be the guest rooms, recently remodeled and decorated thru funds provided by the women's auxiliary, of which Mrs. Frank Porter is president. After the tour tea will be served, with student nurses as hostesses.

COLLEGE MUSIC FESTIVAL WILL OPEN TOMORROW

One hundred and fifty singers will make up the chorus which will join with the glee club and orchestra at the North Park college eighth annual music festival, to be presented at the college tomorrow thru Friday. Tomorrow and Wednesday there will be morning musical chapel services. Wednesday and Friday evenings there will be public concerts at 8 o'clock, and Thursday afternoon the 3 o'clock performance will be invitational.

A faculty recital will open the Monday morning chapel service. Miss Florence Moffit, pianist, and Miss Alice Lawrence, cellist, will play. At the Wednesday chapel service, Dagmar Gavert, organist, and Harold Reever, pianist, will join the choir under the direction of E. Clifford Toren, dean of music.

Thursday afternoon Charles Sears, tenor, will sing with the college orchestra under the direction of Ebba Sundstrom. The college ensemble will take part in the Friday night program as will Edgar Borup, violinist, and Miss Mary Jane Hopkins, harpist. Oscar E. Olson will sing. Soloists will be Miss Mary Ann Kaufman, soprano; Eugene Dressler, tenor, and Mr. Toren, baritone.

Church of Annunciation Societies to Give Dance

Parish societies of the Church of the Annunciation, 1650 North Paulina street, will hold a May dance next Wednesday night in the Lions club ballroom, 4300 North avenue. The Rev. P. J. Molloy is chairman of the committee, which includes Joseph Hulsman, Paul Tadda, Joseph Roraff, Al Falk, Mrs. Martha Malin, Mrs. Minnie Timm, Miss Loretta Baczkowski, Miss Dorothy Mack, and Miss Isabelle Susalski.

SCHOOL PATROL LEADERS TO HAVE OUTING IN CAMP

A committee of 10 northwest side civic leaders will meet Wednesday noon in the Illinois Athletic club to select outstanding members of school boy patrols who will spend a week in a summer camp next month as guests of the Chicago Motor club. They will make their selections from a group of 385 candidates nominated for the award by their teachers and classmates.

The boys will be chosen for their length of service in the patrol, regularity, punctuality, capability, leadership, and obedience, John H. Kerr, chairman of the committee, said. Those selected will join more than 700 other boys from patrols in other sections of Illinois and Indiana who will attend the camp.

Assistaing Mr. Kerr in judging the candidates will be Bernard S. Molay, Portage Park Chamber of Commerce; Vincent Rozycki, Northwest Civic association; Oscar Stahle, Park Ridge police magistrate; Harry G. Weimer, Kiwanis club of Logan Square; Frank J. Tomczak, Northwest Manufacturers' association; E. H. Drexler, Des Plaines chief of police; John Schwaba, Avondale Improvement club; W. W. Luedtke, Jefferson Park Chamber of Commerce, and T. Earl Tilley, Lincoln school, Park Ridge.

Logan Square Kiwanis.

The story of an "International Postal Adventure" will be told Tuesday at the luncheon meeting of the Kiwanis club of Logan Square in the Terminal restaurant, 2529 North Kedzie boulevard. Stewart A. Cushman will be the speaker.

"Most Beautiful Roses I've Ever Grown"
Treated with TRI-OGEN—the Combination Spray
"My bushes have never been so free of disease, looked better or bloomed more, than they have since I have been using 'TRI-OGEN'," writes Dr. G. G. Lewis, author of the "Book of Roses," Hon. Pres. Syracuse Rose Society. "It's the most effective insect and disease combatant I know of."
Protects Against Many Insects and Diseases
• TRI-OGEN—Fungicide, Insecticide, rose garden spray treatment. Controls many insect pests, black-spot, mildew and other fungous diseases. Gives your roses a new vibrant beauty; keeps foliage strong and vigorous.
• TRI-OGEN is economical, easy to apply—just mix with water—nothing else required. In three kit sizes. Small, makes 16 quarts, $1.00; Medium, $2; Large, 135 gallons, $5. For sale by Seed, Hardware, Department Stores and Garden Supply Dealers. If unable to obtain, write to ROSE MANUFACTURING CO., Philadelphia, Pa.

BOYS TURN OLD STORE INTO CLUB THRU RUSH JOB

Membership Gains 900% in Week.

At the end of its first full week of existence yesterday the Humboldt Park Boy's club could show an increase in membership of 900 per cent. Only 10 boys appeared on the first day when the doors of a vacant store rented by the Young Men's Jewish council were unlocked. Yesterday the room at 3230 West Division street was leisure time headquarters for more than 100.

There was plenty of work for the earliest members to do. The place, vacant for a considerable time, had acquired a thick coat of grime. Armed with brushes, brooms, and mops borrowed from neighboring merchants, they set to work sweeping up rubbish and washing the walls and windows. With razor blades they scraped painted signs off the glass.

Lights Are Borrowed.

When darkness threatened to stop the work they went home and borrowed light bulbs so they could continue the work. Not until all was clean and bright did they pause to play basketball, with the pipes serving as substitute baskets. A few others sat on the floor to play checkers. There were no chairs.

As the word spread that a club had been organized, more and more boys came in to join. Meyer Visotzky, the manager, obtained a ping-pong table and some chairs. Better still, he obtained permission to lay out softball diamonds on vacant lots in the neighborhood. A league is being organized to play this summer.

Taking a leading part in the organization, of course, are the first members of the club, Marshall Falk, David Feldman, David Fanes, Gilbert Miller, Robert Frankel, Lester Brown, Larry Goldstein, Robert Lipsky, Jerome Sideman, and Patrick Eddy.

Altho the opening of the club was so informal as to seem almost impromptu it was actually the result of more than three years of study. With the coöperation of sociologists at the University of Chicago the Young Men's Jewish council made a survey of the area bounded by North, Grand, Kedzie, and Homan avenues.

Lacks Play Facilities.

The survey showed that the area had a population of 20,582 persons, of whom 1,424 were boys between the ages of 10 and 16. A study of recreation facilities revealed that with the exception of Humboldt park, they were practically nonexistent. Traffic accidents caused by boys playing in the streets were more frequent than in other sections of the city.

"The need for the club was plain," Samuel Pascoe, executive director of the council, said, "and the survey indicated that the best location for it would be near Spaulding avenue and Division street. The present room is expected to be used only until Aug. 31 when the council hopes to be able to purchase a brick residence suitable for club purposes."

The council operates three other boys clubs—The American Boy's Commonwealth, 3415 West 13th place; the Deborah Boys' club, 2441 Division street, and the Albany Park Boys' club, 4710 North Central Park avenue.

Zephyr Twin Club to Fete Mothers Tuesday Evening

Mothers will be fêted Tuesday evening at the Morrison hotel at the regular monthly meeting of the Zephyr Twin club of Chicago. Movies and special entertainment numbers are on the program. All officers were reelected at the recent annual session. They are. Warren and Chester Doonan, co-presidents; Lucille and Lorraine Usack, vice presidents; Rose and Frances Pesek, recording secretaries; Francis and George Waterstraat, financial secretaries, and Dave and Maurice Pollyea, treasurers.

Soon to Wed

The approaching marriage of her daughter, Armella, to Thaddeus F. Chmielinski has been announced by Mrs. Martha Ciemniecki, 1325 Wicker Park avenue. Mr. Chmielinski's parents are Dr. and Mrs. Edmund Chmielinski, 3119 Palmer square. The wedding will take place at Annunciation church, Paulina street and Wabansia avenue, at 5 o'clock Saturday, May 18. Miss Ciemniecki attended St. Mary's High school and Mundelein college and Mr. Chmielinski is a graduate of the University of Wisconsin.

N. U. Student Engaged

The engagement of their daughter, Jane Louise, has recently been announced by Mr. and Mrs. John A. Frederickson, 6657 North Sioux avenue, to Joseph P. Immel Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph P. Immel, 6201 McClellan avenue. Miss Frederickson is a student at Northwestern university and a member of Alpha Chi Omega sorority. Mr. Immel is a graduate of Georgetown university and law school, Washington, D. C.

News and Queries Within and Without the Church

A Religious Voice of the People — Edited by the Rev. John Evans

Melvin L. Straus.

Forty years ago a group of Jewish men and women declared that a state of war exists between billions of tubercle bacilli and millions of lives. Lives are now winning the warfare, but battles must go on probably for many years until some bacteriologist solves the mystery of a preventive vaccine for tuberculosis.

But Melvin L. Straus, treasurer of the Chicago committee for the National Jewish hospital in Denver, Colo., made it plain that the research work at the hospital during the last two years gives promise of such a boon being soon discovered. While the name National Jewish hospital is used, Mr. Straus explained that it is a nonsectarian institution and treats persons of all faiths. Bishop Bernard J. Sheil, founder and national head of the Catholic Youth organization, has praised the work of the Chicago committee for the hospital in various addresses. He is a sponsor of the hospital.

Adhering to the slogan "None may enter who can pay—None can pay who enter," statistical facts connected with the operation of this hospital are impressive. More than 25,000 men, women, and children from every state in the Union have found here health they would not otherwise have enjoyed.

Annually over 800 patients are treated in the hospital and outpatient department; of these about 73 per cent leave the institution cured or greatly relieved.

There are 16 buildings occupying 15 acres representing an investment in excess of a million dollars. The hospital receives no federal or state aid, and its annual budget is $350,000, supported entirely by voluntary contribution.

Chicago Methodists will be hosts to Bishop Eleazer Guerra, head of the Methodist church of Mexico, for the next two weeks. Dr. John M. Schneider, superintendent of the Chicago Western district of the Rock River conference, said Bishop Guerra is a native Mexican, a graduate of Southern Methodist university, and became the first bishop of Mexican Methodism when an autonomous church was founded in that country. Dr. Schneider added that the Mexican bishop will be guest preacher in several Chicago churches during his visit.

DR. A. L. SACHAR IS TO ADDRESS JEWISH LODGE

Dr. Abram L. Sachar.

Members of Albany Park B'nai B'rith lodge, will hear Dr. Abram L. Sachar Tuesday night at their meeting in the Albany Park Masonic temple, 4660 North Kedzie avenue. Dr. Sachar is national director of Hillel foundations in American universities and the author of the recently published history of modern Europe entitled "Sufferance Is a Badge." His topic Tuesday night will be "A 'J' on a Passport." Louis A. Solomon, chairman of the meeting, will introduce Dr. Sachar. Mischa Livshutz, violinist, and Sonja Tamaroff, pianist, will offer musical selections.

SCHOOLS SET UP TESTING LANES FOR BICYCLES

Expected That They Will Reduce Accidents.

Safety testing lanes for bicycles patterned after those for automobiles were set up last week in two northwest side schools. At the Sayre branch of Steinmetz High school, 1850 North Newland avenue, four crews of boys, drawn from the classes on transportation in the industrial arts curriculum, are inspecting the bicycles. Safety patrol boys are the inspectors at the Nobel school, 4127 Hirsch street.

The testing lanes at Sayre school will be moved at intervals of about three days to other schools on the far northwest side. Among those where inspections will be made are the Lovett, Locke, Burbank, and the John Mills and Elmwood Park elementary schools in Elmwood Park. More than 500 bicycles will have been tested before the work is completed.

Will Get Safety Stickers.

Stickers for the bicycles, metal pins for the riders, and a pamphlet containing rules on safe riding will be distributed to those whose bicycles pass the tests. These have been provided by the Grand-Harlem Kiwanis club and the Cycle Trades of America, sponsors of the testing lanes.

Among the things which the inspectors will check are headlights, taillights or reflectors, signal horn or bell, condition of the pedals and brakes, condition of tires, and wheel alignment. The owner's name, address, the number of his bicycle, and its make and color will be registered.

William E. McBride, assistant principal of the Sayre school, said the testing lanes have a double purpose.

"In the first place they will help reduce accidents by making riders more safety conscious," he said, "and they will provide laboratory work for boys who are studying the problems of transportation."

Named on Testing Crews.

Those boys who have been named on the testing crews at the Sayre school are: Wesley Beattie, George Domanski, Frank Lenhardt, Dulio Paoletti, Daniel Siem, Bruno Skiewicz, Stanley Babiaz, Bob Ellingson, John Federici, Joseph Kozielek, Al Mosser, Robert Borman.

Theodore Olei, Robert McDowell, Lee Anderson, Russell Daschner, David Nelli, Leonard Szaltis, Bruno Dal Cerro, William Ware, James Stockwell, Edwin Olson, and John Owerka.

At the Nobel school students are required to have their bicycles tested each year. C. C. Claxton, principal, and Miss Jean Pitsner, faculty sponsor in charge of safety work, supervise the operation of the testing lanes.

WARRIOR TAKES DOWN GUN AGAIN TO FIRE ON 'ISMS'

Fletcher Newell Cited for Patriotic Work.

BY CLAYTON KIRKPATRICK.

Fletcher Newell.

Fletcher Newell doesn't look much like a fighting man. He is short and rotund. His face is seamed with lines from laughing. He has a warm, friendly, and confidential manner of speaking that has made him a successful salesman. His hair graying and 47 years old, he appears to have reached an age when most men turn to youth to battle for great causes.

But appearance doesn't tell the whole story about Mr. Newell. To round it out it is necessary to know about the citation for outstanding service in promoting Americanism that hangs in the meeting rooms of the Edison Park post of the American Legion. Issued to him last month by the Illinois department, it is the symbol that proves his fighting qualities on a peace time but treacherous battle front.

Four Years in War.

There was a time when he did his fighting with guns. Twenty-six years ago, for example, at the beginning of the world war he went to Canada to enlist as an observer in the Canadian air force. A year later when he arrived on the battlefields of Mons and the Somme, however, airplanes were so scarce that he was transferred to a machine gun company.

After four years of service in the hardest fought campaigns of the war he returned to the United States and his job as a salesman for a printing house. He thought his fighting days were over.

Eight years ago he changed his mind. The events of a single night, as he recalls it, revealed to him threats to the United States and American institutions greater than any that menaced this country during the world war.

Pledges Aid in Fight.

He had stopped in Wassau, Wis., one evening on a business trip. Shortly after he arrived he was attracted to a parade thru the streets. Learning that it was a protest against communistic activities in the city, he joined the group and attended the meeting. He listened to descriptions of the activities of the subversive groups and joined in the pledges to fight them.

Since then he has been in the front lines continuously in the struggle against "every 'ism' but Americanism." He has averaged at least on speaking engagement a week on Americanism themes in schools, churches, and at club meetings of all kinds. Since he is a traveling salesman, many of his talks are made in other states.

Whenever he is at home at 6547 North Oshkosh avenue he spends his time with his books gaining ammunition for his next campaign. He is familiar with reference departments in most of the libraries in the towns he passes thru.

Records His Speeches.

Since last July he has extended his influence in two ways: He makes recordings of his speeches and writes weekly editorials for community newspapers. Eleven of his recordings are being circulated now and more than 30 of his editorials have been published. They have been commended by National Commander Raymond J. Kelly, William C. Mundt, adjutant of the Illinois department, and Joseph L. O'Brien, 9th district commander.

He has doubled his efforts recently, he says, because the time is ripe to root out alien ideas.

"Europe is busy with her wars now," he said. "The money and other support that has helped foreign 'isms' to grow in the last 20 years has been withdrawn. It is our great chance to destroy them forever. And it is far wiser to declare war on our enemies here and occupy ourselves with defeating them than it would be to take any part in the trans-Atlantic quarrels."

Mr. and Mrs. August Mueller, 4526 North Sacramento avenue, recently celebrated their golden wedding anniversary. Both were born in Germany and have resided in Chicago for 49 years.

Inspection Preview at Roosevelt

Three things are bothering Cadet Captain Sheldon Moltz of the Roosevelt High school R. O. T. C. unit: Is there anything wrong with his rifle company? If so, what, and can it be fixed by May 23? May 23 is the date of this year's inspection by federal army officers, who award the title of honor school to the highest ranking units.

FILM CARTOON IS RESULT OF TRIP TO MEXICO

Northwest Siders Show Hobby to Friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Hamburg.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Hamburg, 3251 Victoria street, started their camera clicking hobby just a year and a half ago and now they are making animated cartoons for the entertainment of their friends. They have just returned from an 8,000 mile trip to Mexico and have both a color movie of a real bull fight and an animated cartoon of the same thing, made by photographing Mexican spun-glass figures—both bulls and matadors—which rush jerkily to their gruesome tho gallant destiny.

As Mr. Hamburg is by day a business man, by inclination an adventurer, and by practice, in his leisure hours, an amateur artist, his hobby offers just what he wants. Now he's being a commentator, as well, while he shows the films. His two chief comments are: "I was glad to get home!" and "I want to go again!"

"When I saw the barefooted, unkempt, and medically neglected peons, the windowless, thatched roof shacks, primitive housekeeping, lack of sanitation, and the children invariably carrying babies on their backs," he said, "and when I found it took two weeks for the government run railroads to ship our car 650 miles, with no way of tracing it—then I longed for the life we have in Chicago.

"But the old pyramids, the marble palaces, the beautiful scenery, and the leisurely tradition had a charm I long for now I'm home. Well, the only solution is to take another trip with my camera. See what a hobby does for you!"

SABIN MOTHERS' CLUB PLANS TO GIVE LUNCHEON

The Sabin Crippled Children's Mother's club is to give a luncheon and card party at 11 o'clock tomorrow at the Better Homemaking institute, 111 West Jackson boulevard. Mrs. Arthur J. Morgan is chairman.

Mrs. Erwin M. Lurie is president of the club. Sabin High school is a branch of Tuley and is located at 2216 North Hirsch street, where the club members meet in the auditorium every third Tuesday of the month. Miss Hazel Stillman is principal and Mrs. Rose Rudolph is assistant principal.

Other members of Mrs. Morgan's committee include Mrs. Carrie Baum, Mrs. Esther Buchholz, Mrs. C. D. Schmoldt, Mrs. Frances Pringle, Mrs. Ruby Klein, Mrs. Walter Golgart, Mrs. Elma Warden, Mrs. B. H. Sherman, Mrs. R. P. Weichbrod, Mrs. F. W. Kienzle, and Mrs. J. D. Markese.

CENTER EMPLOYS SLOGAN; CLEANS WHOLE DISTRICT

It's not like it used to be, the district around Erie Neighborhood house, 1437 West Erie street, for every one living around there has been busy cleaning it up. "Keep Our Neighborhood Clean" was the slogan used.

Miss Florence H. Towne, head resident of Erie house, in coöperation with the ward superintendent, has undertaken to supply every needy family in the community with a free garbage can in order that refuse may be kept off alleys and streets.

Children in the district have distributed 7,000 handbills to residents, urging every one to help and describing ways in which the area can be kept clean.

TEACHER AT MAINE TO EXCHANGE POST WITH CALIFORNIAN

Einar J. Anderson.

School officials at Maine Township High school and at the Hayward Community High school in Hayward, Cal., last week completed an agreement to exchange instructors in American history during the next year. Einar J. Anderson, a member of the faculty at Maine for the last 11 years, has been selected to be the visiting instructor in the California school. His classes here will be taught by F. W. Cathey, holder of a master's degree from the University of Southern California. Each school has an enrollment of approximately 1,600. Exchange of ideas and teaching procedures is expected to be beneficial to both. This is the first time Maine has entered into an exchange agreement.

MOOSE WOMEN ARE TO DISCUSS CHILD TRAINING

A conference on chapter development for Women of the Moose, Albany Park, No. 427, will be held at Moose hall, 2227 South 52d avenue, Cicero, at 1:30 o'clock tomorrow. The theme will be: "A Child Care and Training Study Group in Every Chapter."

Mrs. Helen Johnson, 3741 North Whipple street, senior regent of the chapter, will lead the conference. There will be a round table discussion on how to carry on a child study class. Homemaking and social service activities will be demonstrated.

Initiation will be held, directed by Mrs. Johnson and her staff, at 8 o'clock in the evening. Mrs. Sarah Dahl, state regent, will give an address. Mrs. Blanche Kriete, homemaking chairman, will entertain her group at her home, 3035 Addison street, on Thursday. Mrs. Catherine Johnson, 1930 Grace street, will assist.

Lane Tech Drawing Class Alumni to Have Supper

Alumni of the June, 1933, classes in architectural drawing at Lane Technical High school will meet at a bachelor supper Friday night, May 24, in the Lawson Y. M. C. A., 30 East Chicago avenue. Harvey Ehlers is the acting secretary. Norman Anderson, a member of the membership committee, will have charge of arrangements for the reunion.

WOMEN TO HELP IN REDUCTION OF INFANT DEATHS

Education of Public Is the Principal Aim.

Plans for a women's committee to work as a liaison group between the public and the maternal welfare committee of the Lake County Medical society are being forwarded by Dr. L. F. Bushnell of Highland Park, chairman. Favorable action on the project was taken at a recent tea attended by 62 delegates from various women's organizations in the county.

Requests for more information on the activities of such a committee were received from 74 representatives. Fourteen women representing various sections of the county have agreed to serve as members of a permanent committee. Dr. Bushnell will call a meeting for the last of this month to outline a definite program.

Members of Committee.

Committee members include Mrs. D. S. Bartlett, Mrs. A. C. Schroeder, and Mrs. Herbert Roos, Waukegan; Mrs. W. V. Briddle, Mrs. Horace Valle, and Mrs. George Prindle, Highland Park; Miss Cecilia Murray, Wauconda; Mrs. Ben Robbins, Zion; Mrs. Ruth Pettis, Deerfield; Mrs. A. E. Vollum, Lake Bluff; Mrs. H. A. Rissinger, Lake Forest; Mrs. H. J. Dernehl, Lake Zurich; Miss Helen J. Volk, Grayslake, and Mrs. A. E. Johnson, Libertyville.

By spreading maternal welfare information the committee will attempt to reduce maternal and infant mortality, avert fear of childbearing, prevent abortion, stress the value of premarital and pregnancy examinations for venereal disease, and to impress fathers with their responsibilities.

"This country has one of the highest maternal mortality rates in the civilized world," explained Dr. Bushnell. "Most of these mothers and babies could be saved if the public realized the necessity of medical attention from the beginning of pregnancy."

Specifically, the lay committee will arrange for maternal welfare meetings, schedule speakers to address various organizations in the county, and help to interest groups of women in studying the needs of local hospitals.

Give Birth Statistics.

Statistics for Lake county show that in 1938 there were 1,618 births with 16 stillborn and three maternal deaths. Last year there were 1,549 births with 53 still births and six maternal deaths. According to Dr. Bushnell, a great percentage of the still births could have been prevented by early obstetrical care.

The study and prevention of infant mortality was started by three medical groups in 1920 in Asheville, N. C. Several of the pioneering physicians in this field were from Illinois and in 1934 the American Committee on Maternal Welfare was incorporated in this state.

This committee, composed of representatives from 21 national health groups, stimulates interest by issuing booklets and organizing auxiliary committees in state and county medical societies.

ILLINOIS MUSIC UNITS TO APPEAR IN SIX CONCERTS

Concerts will be given this week in six northwest side schools as a part of the music appreciation courses offered in Chicago schools by the Illinois music project.

Max Bendix will direct the Illinois concert band Wednesday at the Columbus school, 2120 Augusta boulevard, and Thursday at the Von Humboldt school, 1410 North Rockwell street. Both concerts will begin at 9:15 o'clock in the morning. Students at the Ryerson school, 646 North Lawndale avenue, will hear the Illinois Philharmonic choir at 10 o'clock Wednesday morning.

The Columbia concert band, directed by Norman Black, will play at 9:15 o'clock tomorrow morning in the Hanson park school, 2148 North Long avenue, and at the same time Tuesday in the Schubert school, 2727 North Long avenue. Theodore Romhild will direct the Dearborn concert orchestra in a concert at the Chopin school, 2440 Rice street, at 9:30 o'clock Thursday morning.

CLEVELAND PREACHER WILL BE SPEAKER AT SUNDAY EVENING CLUB

Dr. E. McN. Poteat.

Dr. Edwin McNeill Poteat, pastor of Euclid Avenue Baptist church, Cleveland, O., who has not addressed the Sunday Evening club since his first appearance in 1937, will speak tonight in Orchestra hall on "The Defections of Simon." Clifford W. Barnes will preside and the scripture will be read by William E. Goodman.

Dr. Poteat is a southerner and built up his pulpit fame while pastor of Pullen Memorial Baptist church in Raleigh, N. C. His preaching is popular with student youth in whom he is reported to see "an intelligent opposition to social conditions conducive to war." His best known published book is "These Shared His Passion."

The music at the preliminary meeting will be furnished by Christ Evangelical Lutheran church of Chicago under the direction of Erhardt Bergstrasser. The informal Bible talk will be given by Hudson H. Pittman.

CADETS OF NINE UNITS SHINE UP FOR INSPECTION

Honor Rating Hangs on Performance.

The second week of federal inspection of Chicago's high school R. O. T. C. units begins tomorrow.

Besides seven city public high schools, this week will see the inspection of the St. Mel Parochial High school unit and that of Waukegan Township High school. The schedule is as follows [in the event of rain the inspection will be held in the school gymnasium]:

Monday—Fenger, 9 a. m., school campus, 11220 South Wallace street; Morgan Park, 1:15 p. m., Morgan Park Military academy campus, 2200 West 111th street.

Two on Tuesday.

Tuesday—Englewood, 9 a. m., Hamilton park, 72d street and Normal avenue; Kelly, 1:15 p. m., school campus, 4136 South California avenue.

Wednesday—Foreman, 9 a. m., school campus, 5100 Belmont avenue; Steinmetz, 1:15 p. m., Riis park, 6100 Fullerton avenue.

Thursday—Waukegan, school campus, Waukegan, Ill.

Friday—St. Mel, 9 a. m., Garfield park, Washington boulevard and Hamlin street; Tilden, 1:15 p. m., International amphitheater, 42d and Halsted streets.

At each school from 15 to 30 cadets, depending on the size of the R. O. T. C. unit, receive medals. Awards are given by the R. O. T. C. headquarters for efficiency, neatness, success in recruiting, and rifle marksmanship. One medal for each 50 cadets is awarded by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE—gold for upperclassmen and silver for freshmen. Other medals are awarded by the American Legion, the Reserve Officers' association, the Veterans of Foreign Wars, the United Spanish War Veterans auxiliary, and the Daughters of the American Revolution.

These medals are presented in the Chicago public schools at the time of inspection. At St. Mel and Waukegan presentation will not be made until later in the year.

Inspection at Marmion.

Inspection of the Marmion Military academy unit in Aurora will be made tomorrow and Tuesday by officers delegated directly from Washington, D. C., to inspect schools classified as "essentially military" thruout the country. Maj. James W. Curtis and Capt. Ralph C. Bing, both of the Chief of Infantry's office, will be in charge of the Marmion inspection.

On the first day the inspectors will begin with a review and inspection, and will then pass on to practical demonstrations and tests of the entire battalion, of sections, squads, and individuals.

Theoretical tests will be given in the class rooms on the second day. Top ranking essentially military schools are given honor rating, just as among high school units.

SUBURB'S FIRST MUSIC FESTIVAL SET FOR TONIGHT

Naperville's first community music festival, bringing together talent from the community and North Central college, will be held tonight in Pfeiffer hall on the college campus. The choir of 160 voices directed by Arthur Hill from the grade schools will take part.

The program also will present the North Central college orchestra and the Black Hawk orchestra of Aurora. In three ensemble numbers, the 90 piece orchestra will accompany a chorus of from 150 to 200 voices.

Members of the planning committee include Gordon Bowman of the Naperville Y. M. C. A.; Prof. C. C. Pinney of the School of Music and director of the Methodist choir, Mrs. Grace Fredenhagen, director of the Grace church choir and the men's chorus of the Naperville Y. M. C. A.; Miss Alberta Siewert, director of the choir of the Congregational church; Arthur Hill of the Naperville public schools, and Prof. Hermanus Baer, director of men's glee club of the college.

AUSTIN CHURCH BROTHERHOOD TO GIVE CONCERT

The fourth annual spring music festival of the Brotherhood of the Mission Covenant church of Austin will be held at 8:15 o'clock Tuesday evening at the church, Iowa street at Mayfield avenue. The Male chorus directed by Clarence Nordquist and accompanied by Miss Edith Nordquist will sing in English and Swedish. It will be assisted by the faculty string trio of North Park college consisting of Howard Silberer, pianist; Edgar Borup, violinist, and Alice Lawrence, cellist. Mrs. Walter Jacobson will be at the organ.

Samuel P. Platt Foundation Members Will Attend Play

Members and friends of the Samuel P. Platt foundation will hold a theater party at 8:30 o'clock Wednesday evening in the Jewish People's institute. Proceeds will go to charity. The play presented by the institute players will be "The Second Man."

Like Holland, Only It's Elmhurst

Holland may be having a difficult time these days as a country in war-torn Europe, but only the happier side of life in the lowland will be emphasized at the tulip festival Thursday afternoon at the Elmhurst Methodist church. Active in the program that will dramatize "A Little Dutch Doll Shop," left to right, are Mrs. Alma Fellows, Mrs. Viola Fredricksen, Mrs. Viola Mae Keir, and Betty Jane Fellows. Mrs. E. E. Stebens is general chairman. Others active in the project include Mrs. G. W. Corney, Mrs. George E. Fleming, Mrs. E. B. Henderson, Mrs. W. S. Morlan, and Mrs. D. F. Wilcox, members of the women's society of the church. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Miller Meets His 8,400 Boys All Over Land

J. C. Miller has 8,400 boys. When he takes trips he meets them in Mexico, California, or New England. He reads about them in the paper when they win promotions or get medals. Some are building bridges or writing books and some stand all day in one spot in a factory. But all of them learned something from Mr. Miller.

J. C. Miller.

When Crane High school, 2245 Jackson boulevard, celebrates its 50th anniversary tomorrow, Tuesday and Wednesday, alumni of all ages and degrees of success will doff their hats to Mr. Miller, member of the first Crane faculty, Oak Park historian and hobbyist. Mr. Miller's most extensive hobby is collecting memories for himself and writing them down for historical societies.

Book of Memories.

He has most of them filed away in his den where he works on all his hobbies. The den is a delight to stamp collectors, wood workers and authors of history books. Mr. Miller can lean back in his great leather chair, take out a black book from a cabinet and open it to a certain place. Then the first Crane faculty, by way of letters and notes, is assembled again. Classes start all over in an old stone building on the north side of Monroe street, east of Halsted, and 50 years begin again.

Here is something new for 1890. Chicago's school board is opening the fourth manual training high school in the United States. Mr. Miller, young graduate of Worcester Polytechnic school, hears of the need for teachers. He addresses a letter to James F. Claplin, the man responsible for assembling a faculty from engineers, draftsmen and foundrymen from all over the country. Here was a faculty of men who weren't trained to be teachers.

Wins Him a Job.

The letter won Mr. Miller the job of wood work instructor. He came before the school shops were opened, rented a room in a stone house on West Adams street across the street from a spacious green lawn and garden plot called Jefferson Park. The park, too, is now only a part of Mr. Miller's black book.

There were 111 pupils the first year at Crane and 10 teachers. There was $15,111 spent the first year for salaries and supplies. Mr. Claflin died a few months after the classes opened and A. R. Robinson came from Dore Elementary school to be the new principal.

In 1892 mothers and fathers came to see 11 boys in wing collars and tight blue serge pants graduate from

AUSTIN KIWANIS CLUB READY TO CELEBRATE 19TH ANNIVERSARY

The 19th anniversary of the Austin Kiwanis club will be celebrated at 6 o'clock Thursday evening with a banquet and program in the Austin Y. M. C. A., 501 North Central avenue. Leonard P. Taylor is chairman of the program committee. A colored sound movie, "An Evening in Mexico," will be presented by R. L. Roberts. The music program will be given by the Taylor Harmonetts. Dr. A. E. Dennison is president of the Kiwanis.

YOUNG AVIATORS, KIWANIANS TO DO BLACK FACE

Young aviators of Oak Park and village Kiwanians will black their faces Wednesday night for charity. Proceeds of the minstrel show to be given in the Lowell school, 954 Lake street, Oak Park, by the Playground Aviation school and the Kiwanis club will be added to the underprivileged children's fund.

Thru the coöperation of the Kiwanis club, Richard Dick of United Air lines was obtained as ground school instructor for the Oak Park Playground Aviation school. The course has included a study of civil air regulations, navigation and meterology.

Allan F. Beyers is director of the benefit minstrel. Edwin M. Duzan is general chairman, assisted by Schyler H. Baldwin. Others on the committee are: Arrangements, L. A. Bain, chairman; Robert F. Glaesel and Clifford G. Postlewait; tickets, W. R. James, chairman; Gordon Berg, Harold Barclay, H. M. Leaf, Alfred Christensen, Sherwin Felthouse, and William Thon.

Publicity, Fred Grove, chairman; W. A. Leuhring and Gordon Berg; finance, Herman Wittrock, chairman; J. A. Anderson and Frank A. Ramsey; properties, A. Von Plachecki, chairman; Peter Schannon, Stanley Wrzosek and Arden M. Santschi.

Stage, Ed J. Faltysek, chairman; G. W. Henzler and John Ensweiler; costumes and makeup, Fred Litsinger, chairman, and C. F. Callaway.

The aviation school members, in addition to ground courses, do actual flying. At the beginning of 1936 when the aviation club started there were no flyers. Today there are 16 certified pilots with more than 2,000 logged hours in the air.

They are Dorothy Ring, commercial pilot with instructor rating; William Hewitt, commercial pilot; Richard Dick, private pilot with instrument rating; Richard Airey, private pilot. Other private and solo pilots are Neil Daniels, Fred C. Muntwyler, John Musengo, Richard Sleight, Lew A. Weimer, Charles Bostlemann, Frank Bostlemann, Mary McDonnell, Robert Muir, Harry Padvers, Harriette Rhoads, and Jo Thompson.

State Women's Clubs to Meet in Convention

Club leaders from every community in the city's west side and from every suburb will meet hundreds of women from every city, town, and village in Illinois when they crowd into the loop tomorrow morning for the state convention of the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs.

Mrs. J. Marc Fowler.

The convention will open at the Hotel Sherman with the words of a pioneer west side club woman, Mrs. J. Marc Fowler, a past president of the 6th district and of the Illinois federation. For many years she has been a board member for the general federation. Mrs. Fowler recently was presented with a Pioneer medal by the Austin Woman's club, where she has been a member for 32 years.

The Golden Jubilee luncheon will be held at noon tomorrow when three pioneer women will be selected to represent the state. Women in the receiving line will be dressed in old fashioned costume and antiques will be used to decorate the dining room.

Others to Participate.

In addition to Mrs. Fowler, a number of west side women have been scheduled to participate in the convention program which will continue thru Thursday. Miss Hermina Wulf, president of the Junior Woman's Club of Forest park will be one of the speakers for the Wednesday morning meeting of Junior Club women. On Wednesday afternoon at the junior and senior meeting, Miss Irene Nelson, president of the Austin North End Junior Woman's club, will give a report.

At the junior round table conferences Wednesday, Miss Gladys Schultz, president of the Junior Auxiliary of the Cicero Woman's club, will report on the American Home department. Miss Vivian Bartlett, president of the Brookfield Junior Woman's club, will report on Park Ridge School for Girls.

Three members of the 6th district are now state officers. Mrs. F. Percy Boynton, past district president, is recording secretary. Mrs. Francis J. Waindle is state chairman of motion pictures and Mrs. Alfred L. Jacobs is state chairman of junior club women.

Banquet on Thursday.

After a number of round tables, meetings of department chairmen, reports and plans for the 51st club year for Illinois women, the convention will end with a banquet Thursday evening. The speaker will be Dr. Franklin Bliss Snyder, president of Northwestern university.

The 6th district will be represented at the convention by the following delegates:

Lehman, district 91, Forest Park; Theodore Fuller, district 92, Broadview; Miles W. Haupt, district 92½, Westchester; Ernest Masters, Lyons, and Frank Kohout, Berwyn, district 103.

Others are Ralph Westcott, River Forest, and Thesle T. Job, Oak Park, district 200; Charles H. Vial and Myrtle Abrams, district 204, La Grange; Ross O. Hinkle and Anna W. Ludlow, district 208, Riverside; H. W. Ewert, district 209, Maywood.

Drama Lecturer to Close Institute Series Thursday

Prof. Frank H. O'Hara, author of "Today in American Drama," will end his 10 lecture series on "Great Plays" Thursday evening in the Jewish People's institute, 3500 Douglas boulevard. He will discuss the plays of George Bernard Shaw, Cowen's "Family Portrait," and Carroll's "Shadow and Substance." The series ends the 1939-'40 season of lecture courses.

RAIL SCHEDULES FOR LILAC DAY SENT TO CLUBS

50 Trains Will Bring Blooms to City.

The 12th annual "Share Your Lilacs" campaign conducted by the Chicago Plant, Flower, and Fruit guild and THE TRIBUNE was given new impetus last week when guild and suburban railroad officials worked out train schedules for bringing the lilacs into the city. The flowers will be taken to hospitals and other institutions that care for the sick and shutins.

A fleet of more than 50 trains on six railroads has been assigned to transport the lilacs free from the suburbs to stations in Chicago where they will be picked up by TRIBUNE trucks and taken to the hospitals. The cooperating railroads are the North Western, Illinois Central, Rock Island, Aurora and Elgin, North Shore Line, and the Burlington.

Schedules Sent Out.

The completed train schedules have been sent to guild chairmen of 85 garden clubs for use in completing their plans for lilac day. The Milwaukee, Pennsylvania, and South Shore lines also may furnish lilac trains if it develops later that more cars are needed.

Detailed instructions for cutting and shipping the blooms so they will be fresh when they reach the hospitals are being prepared by flower guild officials and the Allied Florists Association of Illinois. The instructions are to be sent to more than 2,000 garden club members before lilac day.

Cool Weather Brings Delay.

Continued cool weather has further delayed opening of the fragile blossoms and no date has been set for their distribution. Altho buds started opening on many of the bushes in the south and west suburbs more than a week ago, there still is little indication as to when they will be ready to cut.

Mrs. Stanley D. Grace of Highland Park, chairman of the guild's general committee, says her organization again will provide means for all who have lilacs to share them with the sick. Guild committees of garden clubs in the various suburban communities will arrange for loading the bouquets on trains.

The list of garden club presidents and guild committee chairmen was revised recently. Here are the names and addresses of the new club presidents and guild chairmen in this area:

Wheaton Garden club—Mrs. Ralph Roscher, guild chairman.

East Side Garden Club of Geneva—Mrs. Charles Marstiller, president; Mrs. Edward Nelson, guild chairman.

Berwyn Garden club—Mrs. K. L. Preston, president.

Naperville Garden club—Mrs. Lyle Sullivan, president; Miss Rosa Schmidt, guild president.

Villa Park Garden club—Mrs. Victor Kust, president; Mrs. Harry A. Brown, guild chairman.

Lombard Garden club—Mrs. Raymond L. Frick, guild chairman.

Glen Ellyn Garden club [Iris chapter]—Mrs. J. C. Kreamer, president; Mrs. Fritz Lundgren, guild chairman; [Scilla chapter]—Mrs. H. M. Stark, president; Mrs. R. D. Robertson, guild chairman; [Aster chapter]—Mrs. R. C. O'Hair, guild chairman; [Poppy chapter]—Mrs. H. C. Duvall, president; Mrs. C. A. Hoye, guild chairman.

West Chicago Garden club [Columbine unit]—Mrs. W. G. Buchanan, guild chairman; [Iris unit]—Mrs. Rose Bohnfleth, president; Mrs. May Diershaw, guild chairman.

MOTHERS' CLUB OF HIGH SCHOOL TO SEE PAGEANT

The Mothers' club of Providence High school, Central Park avenue and Monroe street, will observe Mothers' day with a program at 2:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon in the school auditorium. The Rev. John Brown, pastor of St. Malachy's Catholic church, 2248 West Washington boulevard, will speak. Mrs. Harry W. Snow is chairman of the program. Students at Providence will present a pageant, "The Seven Ages of Woman," depicting the life of a woman from birth to motherhood.

LILAC TIME PHOTO CONTEST ANNOUNCED FOR LOMBARD VISITORS

In connection with this year's Lilac and Tulip time in Lilacia park, Lombard, a photo contest is being conducted by the Lombard park district open to all visitors to the park during the flower blooming season.

Subject matter must be confined to the park area itself, but may be concerned with a wide variety of views from colse-ups of individual flowers or shrubs to vistas that include visiting persons or groups.

First prize will be two lilac bushes of blooming size in winner's choice of color. Second and third prizes will be one lilac bush of blooming size in winner's choice of color. Photographs entered in the competition must be mailed or delivered to L. W. Hagerman, superintendent of the Lombard park district, not later than July 1.

ALL the while Benjamin Premack worked as a physical education teacher, studied at De Paul law school and then went into business, he wanted to be an opera singer. Tonight he will sing in opera for the first time. He is cast as Manrico in Verdi's "Il Trovatore" to be presented by the American Opera company in the Chicago Woman's Club theater, 62-72 East 11th street. While Mr. Premack was studying law and physical education and going to his business at 812 North Wells street, he was practicing daily by humming arias from "Aida" and "Carmen." Tonight the public will hear him.

MISS ROSE NEMEROSKI, 22 years old, knows her groceries. She was chosen from among several thousand clerks as Chicago's perfect grocery clerk. The choice was made by the Retail Clerks International Protective association which based its selection on the girl's appearance, business personality, manner of speaking, knowledge of stock, general knowledge of business, ability to appraise patrons, and patience. Miss Nemeroski works in a store at 555 West North avenue and lives at 1506 South Kolin avenue.

RECENT resignation of Ed Christensen as X-ray technician at the Hinsdale sanitarium that he might do special work for a group of hospitals in Chicago and suburbs, probably had the approval of "Peggy." Altho she is a talkative person, Peggy has no voice of her own. She is a character with whom Mr. Christensen, with ventriloquism as a hobby, has entertained audiences not only in the west suburban area but in all parts of the country. Ed discovered his ability as a ventriloquist when he was seven and has practiced it more than 30 years.

MR. AND MRS. JOHN J. COBURN, 5833 West Ohio street, celebrated their golden wedding anniversary recently with a dinner for 100 friends in the Central Plaza hotel. Mr. Coburn, an attorney, was born in the town of Clyde and is a descendant of a pioneer family that settled in the west area. The Coburn homestead still stands in the village of Justice.

Mr. Coburn is a member of the old Cook County Democratic club and in ex-Governor Dunne's "History of Illinois" is credited with being the first promoter of the forest preserve. He is a graduate of Northwestern law school where he was a classmate of William Jennings Bryan. He practiced law for almost 60 years. He is a member of the Illinois State Bar association, the Art institute, and the Chicago Historical society.

The former Anna Valentine, Mrs. Coburn, is a member of a pioneer family which settled in Livingstone county. Her parents moved to Chicago when she was a child. The Coburns are parents of five sons and daughters: Mrs. Richard R. Hipp, Santa Barbara, Cal.; Archie Coburn, junior partner in his father's office; Mrs. Richard Hughes, 5801 Fulton street; Mrs. Edward Flynn, Oak Park, and Mrs. Richard Hill, 5833 West Ohio street. There are six grandchildren.

A west side man who has actively supported the Catholic Youth organization boys' summer camp is Henry Schultz, 2628 South Kedvale avenue. He arranged a number of benefits during the winter to raise funds for the camp, which will open June 24 in Palos Park. The boys who will get the free outing period will be selected by the pastors of the archdiocese.

Hias Men's Organization Is to Install Officers

Installation of officers of the Hias Men's Organization of Chicago will be held Saturday evening at the Covenant club, 10 North Dearborn street. William J. Robinson will be master of ceremonies and Rabbi David Graubert will give the benediction. The Hias organization was formed to aid Jewish immigrants. Isadore Katz is president.

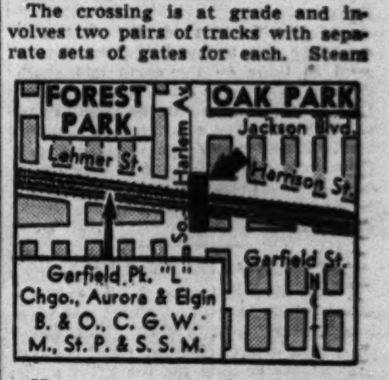
745 TRAINS AND 17,000 VEHICLES CROSS DAILY

Motor Council Asks End of Hazard.

Hearing on a proposed grade separation at Harlem avenue near Harrison street on the borderline of Oak Park and Forest Park was asked in a formal petition recently filed before the Illinois Commerce commission by the West Area council of the Chicago Motor club.

Five railroads, the Baltimore and Ohio, the Chicago Great Western, the Minneapolis, St. Paul and Sault Ste. Marie, Chicago, Aurora and Elgin, and Chicago Rapid Transit lines, are named in the action.

The crossing is at grade and involves two pairs of tracks with separate sets of gates for each. Steam trains of the three railroads use the south tracks and the elevated lines the north set. A watchman operates all gates from a tower between the tracks and there is a crossing guard to signal when the gates should be raised and lowered. Harlem avenue [route 42A] is a four lane street at the point and carries a large volume of auto, truck and bus traffic.

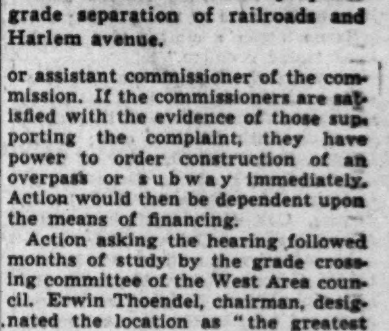


How the proposed subway on Harlem avenue would separate motor traffic from three railroads and two suburban electric lines. Extent of construction is shown in heavily shaded areas.

How Plans Differ.

In the event of an overpass, Lehmer-Garfield streets would probably be under the overpass, but Harrison street would not be affected. An underpass would mean partial depression of Harlem avenue six or eight feet, which would take Lehmer-Garfield streets down for a slight slope leading into Harlem avenue, and again Harrison street would not be affected. Level of the railroad tracks also would be raised six or eight feet, providing a clearance of 12 to 14 feet.

Public hearings on the petition may be scheduled in Chicago within three weeks. The number of interested parties may make it necessary to have several meetings before an examiner or assistant commissioner of the commission. If the commissioners are satisfied with the evidence of those supporting the complaint, they have power to order construction of an overpass or subway immediately. Action would then be dependent upon the means of financing.



Arrow indicates site of proposed grade separation of railroads and Harlem avenue.

Action asking the hearing followed months of study by the grade crossing committee of the West Area council. Erwin Thoendel, chairman, designated the location as "the greatest potential grade crossing menace to mtorists on the west side of Chicago." His statement is based on a survey of the vehicular and train flow at the location, and accident reports of Oak Park and Forest Park.

Four Accidents in 1939.

Numerous fatalities have occurred at the crossing during the last decade. In 1939 four crashes were recorded. Possibilities of future collisions are indicated by the traffic volume. In one day, Nov. 28, 1939, Rapid Transit and Chicago, Aurora and Elgin trains over the crossing numbered 723 and the number of steam trains 22. The last traffic count for a 24 hour period was taken several years ago, but even then totaled nearly 17,000 vehicles. This includes buses carrying hundreds of persons.

In addition to the possibilities of collision indicated by statistics, area council members point out that the necessity of keeping gates lowered for passage of trains results in traffic jams that extend for several blocks in both directions from the crossing.

"Civic leaders who have devoted much of their own time and effort to a solution of the grade crossing problem in metropolitan Chicago are rendering a service of untold value to motorists of the area," said President Charles M. Hayes of the motor club. "Too often problems of this sort are ignored by the average citizen."

PERILOUS OGDEN AVENUE.

Anybody who has ever tried to walk across Ogden avenue at any of its principal intersections on the west side knows that it is one of the worst pedestrian hazards in the city. Not only is the street so wide that people can hardly walk across on one interval of the traffic signal lights, but the diagonal intersections also extend the walking distance and complicate the problems with cross traffic moving in as many as three directions at once.

Similar problems in other sections of the city are being solved, I understand, by building safety islands which give walkers a place of refuge and force automobiles to keep in their proper lanes. This safety device will not be used on Ogden avenue, I am told, because the street falls under the jurisdiction of the park district rather than the bureau of streets.

If some west side citizens interested themselves in the matter, perhaps the park district could be persuaded to adopt the plan for Ogden avenue. T. L. J.

THINKS RENTS TOO HIGH.

Rents for decent apartments in Austin are going up and up, but why? Most of the vacant apartments are in old buildings and need a lot of repair, but if you are forced to live in that neighborhood on a limited budget, you can't get anything for your money except good transportation.

Certainly families on the west side should be able to find living quarters as good as those on the north and south sides at comparable rents, but at present that is not true. As soon as families can afford a car, they move out of the district. If real estate men would consider these facts and reduce rents, they could keep their renters for longer periods of time and also attract others to the neighborhood. J. M. D.

FAVORS APARTMENT IDEA.

I was pleased to see A. W.'s letter about building up the near west side with liveable apartment houses. This property, most of it condemned, could provide comfortable housing for the great numbers of working people on the west side who now live in dirty, squalid flats. Certainly, it is a fine idea from a humanitarian viewpoint, as well as a money-making idea for real estate men.

proved, indicated their organizations would file intervening petitions with the motor club.

"We want an underpass at the location to fit with our future plans," said James A. Howe, president of Oak Park. "A year ago, residents of the south part of the village expressed themselves in a public policy vote by a margin of three to one for a combination of elevated tracks and depression of roadways thru the village. I feel certain that federal as well as county and state assistance can be obtained in financing this badly needed project."

Walter J. Kelly, chairman of the West Area council, said: "So many people are concerned and so many lives endangered at the crossing that it is no longer a matter of a simple local traffic problem."

Members of the grade crossing committee of the council, in addition to Chairman Thoendel, are C. H. Bullen, Franklin Park Kiwanis club; R. H. Cooper, Oak Park Chamber of Commerce; Roy F. Nix, River Forest Chamber of Commerce; Emile O. Bloche, Oak Park Optimists' club; James E. Bulger, Chicago Motor club; Representative Arthur M. 5 CLOSED BANKS REPAY $62,000 TO DEPOSITORS

8,600 to Benefit by First Quarter Outlay.

Some 8,600 depositors of five of the closed state banks on the west side and in West Cook county suburbs received $62,000 more of their money during the first 1940 quarter. This is shown in new statements made public last week by State Auditor Edward J. Barrett.

The statements, showing the condition of the receiverships as of last March 31, are based in the main on regular reports made to the state auditor by Charles H. Albert, general receiver for all but two of the closed state banks in the county.

The institutions that made new payments in the opening quarter are the Baker State, the Berwyn State, the Brookfield State, the Commerce Trust and Savings, and the Congress Park State. The distributions of all except the Berwyn State were the final ones.

The Congress Park State made the largest proportionate return. It distributed $5,500, or 18 per cent, among its 500 depositors. The Berwyn State and Brookfield State made 5 per cent disbursements. The Baker State repaid 4 per cent, and the Commerce bank 2.5 per cent.

Here are summarized new statements for the first group of west side and west suburban banks, with the best available estimates of the future outlook for depositors:

Adams State—Total receipts, $62,941. Paid on prior claims, $200,402. Paid depositors, $67,315, or 17 per cent. Costs: Receivers, $4,154; legal, $19,773; clerical, $44,152; interest, $22,774; advanced to protect assets, $153,784, with $147,582 refunded. Cash, $5,509, none of it applicable to the debt to the general creditors.

Ashland State—Total receipts, $364,879. Paid on prior claims, $114,410. Paid depositors, $75,558, or 27 per cent. Costs: Receivers, $5,108; legal, $14,205; clerical, $39,813; interest, $681; advanced to protect assets, $115,107, with $114,966 refunded. Cash, none. No estimate of the remaining payout possibilities is available at this time.

Baker State—Total receipts, $222,952. Paid on prior claims, $46,407. Paid depositors, $64,686, or 41 per cent. Costs: Receivers, $3,402; legal, $7,707; clerical, $26,615; interest, $1,986; advanced to protect assets, $42,824, with $42,136 refunded. Cash, none. There will be no further returns to the depositors.

Berwyn State—Total receipts, $474,104. Paid on prior claims, $144,253. Paid depositors, $163,810, or 30 per cent. Costs: Receivers, $6,123; legal, $24,983; clerical, $35,818; interest, $597; advanced to protect assets, $86,661, with $80,096 refunded. Cash, $11,856. There may be 5 per cent more eventually.

Berwyn Trust and Savings—Total receipts, $170,123. Paid on prior claims, $52,962. Paid depositors, $37,278, or 30 per cent. Costs: Receivers, $342; legal, $4,826; clerical, $30,110; interest, $2,407; advanced to protect assets, $36,855, with $28,959 refunded. Cash, $5,341. The final distribution will amount to about 5 per cent.

Brookfield State—Total receipts, $188,541. Paid on prior claims, $57,675. Paid depositors, $41,997, or 25 per cent. Costs: Receivers, $4,264; legal, $5,211; clerical, $28,757; interest, $303; advanced to protect assets, $50,332, with $47,228 refunded. Cash, none. No further returns to depositors can be expected.

Cicero Trust and Savings—Total receipts, $481,570. Paid on prior claims, $84,096. Paid depositors, $170,572, or 25 per cent. Costs: Receivers, $10,105; legal, $40,712; clerical, $57,392; interest, $48; advanced to protect assets, $98,127, with $65,104 refunded. Cash, $20,525. It still appears the payout may reach 35 per cent.

Citizens State Bank of Melrose Park—Total receipts, $342,283. Paid on prior claims, $115,005. Paid depositors, $27,017, or 5 per cent. Costs: Receivers, $9,672; legal, $23,873; clerical, $40,617; interest, $1,817; advanced to protect assets, $103,224, with $96,046 refunded. Cash, $18,054. The present payout percentage may some day be duplicated.

Columbia State Savings—Total receipts, $1,050,673. Paid on prior claims, $124,211. Paid depositors, $528,480, or 42.5 per cent. Costs: Receivers, $16,638; legal, $30,189; clerical, $90,775; interest, $1,016; advanced to protect assets, $193,745, with $169,658 refunded. Cash, $28,792. Perhaps another 5 per cent may be realized.

Commerce Trust and Savings—Total receipts, $810,435. Paid on prior claims, $234,010. Paid depositors, $462,578, or 80.5 per cent. Costs: Receivers, $10,315; legal, $38,350; clerical, $36,520; interest, $1,442; advanced to protect assets, $26,476, with $19,110 refunded. Cash, $710. No further returns are in prospect.

Congress Park State—Total receipts, $70,519. Paid on prior claims, $11,890. Paid depositors, $17,822, or 63 per cent. Costs: Receivers, $1,237; legal, $2,858; clerical, $10,375; interest, $296; advanced to protect assets, $19,572, with $19,295 refunded. Cash, none. The most recent repayment was the final one.

Crawford State Savings—Total receipts, $1,025,799. Paid on prior claims, $339,553. Paid depositors, $240,567, or 25 per cent. Costs: Receivers, 12,592; legal, $55,483; clerical, $60,253; interest, $8,299; advanced to protect assets, $277,990, with $248,790 refunded. Cash, $36,059. It appears there will be from 5 to 10 per cent more for the depositors.

Similar figures for another group of west side banks will be available for publication in these columns soon.

Girl Scouts to Dedicate Four Way Lodge on Sunday

Four Way Lodge, 95th street and Archer avenue, will be dedicated by Girl Scouts in a special ceremony at 2 o'clock next Sunday afternoon. Tree planting will be part of the program. The site of the Four Way Lodge is new. The lodge building proper was moved this spring from the former grounds at 123d street and Southwest highway. In addition, sleeping quarters and an outdoor dining room have been built on the hillside of the plot.

Member of Comedy Cast

Miss Kay Theriault, 1212 South 50th avenue, Cicero, is a member of the cast of "Poor, Dear Edgar," a three act college comedy, to be presented Friday night by the Hawthorne Players at the Austin town hall.

OGDEN AVENUE DESTINED TO BE 'GOLDEN ROUTE'

Fete to Mark Turning on of Sodium Lights.

Ogden avenue thru Berwyn will be christened "golden avenue" when the new sodium vapor lighting system will be officially turned on at a celebration planned May 26 by the Ogden Avenue Business and Property Owners' association.

Heralding the transformation of one of the busiest thorofares in the area from dimness that has contributed to traffic hazards to an attractive night scene, there will be music and speech making. Thousands are expected to join in the rejoicing.

Musical organizations invited to take part in the celebration are the Morton High school band, the Veterans of Foreign Wars band, and the American Legion drum and bugle corps.

In Charge of Program.

Heading the comimttee in charge of the program are Tom Jansky, president of the Ogden Avenue association; C. E. Anderson, vice president, and J. L. Sichta, treasurer.

President Jansky said business men and property owners in the vicinity of Ogden avenue were proud of the new lighting system which they believed would remove one of the greatest traffic hazards in the suburban area.

Anton Janura, mayor of Berwyn, other city officials and leaders of nearby communities will take part in the celebration. Organizations on invitation list are the Berwyn and Chicago safety council, the Chicago Motor club, the General Electric company, the American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Campfire Girls, the Berwyn Chamber of Commerce, South Berwyn Business and Civic association, and the Chicago Junior Association of Commerce.

State to Be Represented.

Representatives of the state highway department, including H. H. Harrison, traffic engineer of the Illinois division of highways, will be in attendance.

At a recent test of the lights, which extend between Lombard and Harlem avenues, engineers in charge had an opportunity to try the east end of the system. The Chicago Motor club also made extensive tests to get accurate measurement of the difference in visibility under the new and the old lights.

Members of the board of the Ogden Avenue Business and Property Owners' association, which is staging Thursday night's celebration, are J. E. Anderson, A. I. Patyk, Walter Schroeder, George Nepil, John C. Jira, Charles J. Beranek, Sam Mravic, Charles J. Karas, Jerry Cervak, Lester Larson, and John J. Aimone.

Betrothed

Miss Sarah Elizabeth Burks, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Burks, 821 South Harvard avenue, Villa Park, whose engagement to Maxwell A. Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard L. Johnson, 6949 Bennett avenue, Chicago, recently was announced. Miss Burks is a student at Beloit college. Mr. Johnson is attending the University of Chicago medical school.

Installation.

The annual installation and luncheon of the Alice Krandel Charity club will be held Saturday afternoon in the St. Clair hotel. Mrs. Fannie Chern will preside.

THREE TEACHERS TO BE GREETED AT GRADS' RALLY

Marshall High Alumni in Homecoming Friday.

Old alumni and young one so new they haven't yet had time to frame their diplomas, will come back to Marshall High school Friday evening for the annual homecoming. They will pay tribute to three women who together have given more than a century of service to Marshall students.

One of the teachers is "Aunt Mary," who was Miss Abbe to hundreds of boys and girls from 1895 to 1932. Another is Miss Maude Morey, who stood in a Marshall classroom from 1895 to 1923. The third special guest is Miss Marie Werkmeister who is retiring this year after 40 years on the Marshall faculty.

Reservations for the 6:30 o'clock dinner may be made with Miss Myra Morgan, secretary of the Alumni association.

Reception at 6 o'Clock.

The program will open with a reception at 6 o'clock. The alumni meeting will be called to order at 6:45 o'clock by Edgar R. Leighty, president of the association.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred. Huebenthal will direct the 7 o'clock sing. George A. Beers, Marshall principal, will give the address of welcome. George Masslich will introduce Miss Morey and Miss Abbe. George Cassell will introduce Miss Werkmeister.

Miss Mary Zimmerman will present A. Adrian Albert, professor of mathematics at the University of Chicago, who was recently awarded the Cole prize by the American Mathematical association.

Music on Program.

The music program will be presented by a trio consisting of Bernice Tobin, cello soloist; Robert Nadel, vocalist, and Oscar Chausow, violinist. Dancing will begin in the gymnasium at 8:30 o'clock.

Among the graduates who will talk over old times will be Edward J. Hughes, secretary of state; Judge Robert O'Connell, Judge John Gutknecht, Al Horna, Municipal court bailiff; Prof. Samuel H. Nerlove, and George F. Cassell, assistant superintendent of schools. Judge Gutknecht of the class of 1906 will be installed as president of the association, which numbers 30,000 graduates and former students.

OBSERVES 40TH YEAR AS PARISH SCHOOL LEADER

Herman Voigt.

The 40th anniversary of the installation of Herman Voigt as principal of St. Paul's Parish school, Melrose Park, recently was commemorated at St. Paul's Lutheran church, Lake street and 11th avenue, in the west suburb.

Mr. Voigt was graduated from Concordia Teachers' college when it was located at Addison before its removal to River Forest. When he became principal of St. Paul's parish school in 1899 it had an enrollment of 50 pupils. Three years late it became necessary to increase the school's facilities and a four room brick building was erected and dedicated in 1903. Further growth of the school required the construction of an annex.

In 1924, a parish hall was erected, and the following year, the enrollment reached 650 pupils, largest in the Missouri synod at the time. Mr. Voigt's duties have included administration and teaching of the eighth grade. He served as director of the senior choir and of the junior choir which he founded. During his 40 years at St. Paul's he has witnessed the graduation of more than 2,000 boys and girls.

Reunion Guests

MISS MARIE WERKMEISTER.

MISS MARY ABBE.
[Gibson Photo.]

Tribute will be paid to Marshall teachers at the reunion of former students and alumni which will be held Friday evening in the high school, Adams street and Kedzie avenue. George Cassell will introduce Miss Marie Werkmeister, who is retiring this year after 40 years on the Marshall faculty. Miss Mary Abbe, known to hundreds of former students as Aunt Mary, served Marshall from 1895 to 1932. She will be remembered with a testimonial at the reunion.

Legion Notes

Surface Lines post of the American Legion recently was notified that its rifle team had won the rifle championship of the United States. In a contest covering 28 states, the Surface Lines team dethroned the Silver Bow team of Butte, Mont. In addition to capturing the McNutt trophy and the national championship, three members of the team won the first three individual honor medals: J. A. Nielsen, 294; M. P. Nielsen, 293, and Andy Nygaard, 292.

Announcement is made by the service department of the American Legion that William R. Gephart may have his honorable discharge certificate by calling and identifying himself at the offices, 127 North Dearborn street.

"Never saw anything like it!" "Those ads are certainly bringing in the customers!"

Are you selling all the people right in your own neighborhood who might trade with you?

For more than 12 years, large and small businesses located in many neighborhoods and suburbs of Chicago have proved conclusively that there is no better way to build sales and profits than by running a consistent schedule of low-cost advertising in the Sunday Tribune Metropolitan sections.

During 1939, a total of 745 neighborhood enterprises used this advertising plan to get a greater share of the patronage of the families who can best trade with them.

One or more of these five sections—North, Northwest, West, Southwest, and South—are edited for and read exclusively by the families in your trading area.

For more information about this time and result-tested plan for increasing your sales, call SUPerior 0100—Metropolitan section advertising.

MILLER MEETS HIS 8,400 BOYS ALL OVER LAND

Crane High Instructor Pens His Memories.

Crane, then called the Chicago English High Manual Training school. These 11 were the first Chicagoans who would go into factory shops educated in literature, mathematics and the fine arts, yet trained for their work.

Destroyed by Fire.

Another year is important in Mr. Miller's black book. On the afternoon of Nov. 12, 1896, the school foundry had been running steadily and the chimneys became red hot. That night, when every one had gone home, fire broke out and the shops were destroyed. The roof and valuable sets of drawing instruments dropped down into the basement along with hundreds of dollars worth of machinery.

The next year the shops were started again in a factory building at 123 South Jefferson street. Mr. Miller took a job with the National Fiber company right after the move but in 1907 he went back to Crane and taught until his retirement in 1935, watched the school spread over an entire block on Jackson boulevard.

As to success and students, Mrs. Miller thinks the slow boy, the dullard, gets to taste it most. Those boys, among his 8,400 who had to study hard and grasped slowly, he says, were the ones who became the foremen, the superintendents and company presidents.

Forget Too Easily.

"You see," says Mr. Miller, "those are the boys who take a long time to learn and so take a long time forgetting what they know. The fellow who learns quickly does just as quick a job of forgetting."

Things have changed at Crane since Mr. Miller started there; the name, the number of students, the methods of teaching. The manual training boy of yesterday learned how to make true joints. All year long he made parts of chairs, parts of desks or houses. He never built a complete article.

"This seemed silly to me," says Mr. Miller, "when the boys were finished they could make a joint but they had nothing they could use. So one day the boys all made little stools. Then they could actually use their handiwork."

Mr. Miller lives in a frame home with a wide veranda that he built for his bride 45 years ago. He has three pictures of her in his den. He also has letters from engineers thanking him for advice. He has articles on woodworking and prizes for suggestions. And he has 8,400 boys, in addition to his only son, who are doing something of what he taught them.

Dance Chairman

[Koehne Photo.]

Miss Mary Kay Hampsch, 120 South Euclid avenue, Oak Park, is in charge of the Starlit Swing, which will be held Saturday evening in the St. Edmund's school auditorium, Pleasant street and Oak Park avenue. The dance is being arranged by the Consolata club at St. Edmund's, of which Miss Hampsch is president.

BAPTIST CHURCH PLANS SUMMER RADIO PROGRAM

A radio program is being planned for the summer months by the Messiah Baptist church, 2930 Flournoy street, as a golden anniversary offering to the congregation. The program, which will be heard every Tuesday night over station WCBD at 6:30 o'clock beginning June 4, is entitled "The Prophet's Chamber."

Fifty years ago this Wednesday the Messiah church was organized at Washtenaw avenue and Flournoy street. Later a larger building became necessary, lots were purchased at the present address, and the new church was dedicated in 1896.

Sixteen pastors have served the church since its founding. The 16th, the Rev. Robert J. Bulkley, is a graduate of the Moody Bible institute and a former student of the Northern Baptist Theological seminary.

Constipation Relief That Also Pepsin-izes Stomach

When constipation brings on acid indigestion, bloating, dizzy spells, gas, coated tongue, sour taste, and bad breath, your stomach is probably loaded up with certain undigested food and your bowels don't move. So you need both Pepsin to help break up fast that rich undigested food in your stomach, and Laxative Senna to pull the trigger on those lazy bowels. So be sure your laxative also contains Pepsin. Take Dr. Caldwell's Laxative, because its Syrup Pepsin helps you gain that wonderful stomach comfort, while the Laxative Senna moves your bowels. Tests prove the power of Pepsin to dissolve those lumps of undigested protein food which may linger in your stomach, to cause belching, gastric acidity and nausea. This is how pepsinizing your stomach helps relieve it of such distress. At the same time this medicine wakes up lazy nerves and muscles in your bowels to relieve your constipation. So see how much better you feel by taking the laxative that also puts Pepsin to work on that stomach discomfort, too. Even finicky children love to taste this pleasant family laxative. Buy Dr. Caldwell's Laxative—Senna with Syrup Pepsin at your druggist today!

ADVERTISE IN THE TRIBUNE

'STUDENT PRINCE' NEXT ON CHICAGO THEATER OF AIR

Opera Guild Will Hear Claire, Gorin, Peerce.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Sigmund Romberg's tuneful "Student Prince," most popular of all operettas, is to be presented on the second broadcast of the Chicago Theater of the Air next Thursday evening. "The Student Prince" will be aired over the coast to coast network of the Mutual broadcasting system from 9 to 10 o'clock with Marion Claire, famous soprano; Igor Gorin, young baritone of the concert, opera and radio, and Jan Peerce, Radio City Music hall tenor, as the three stars.

They will be supported by the augmented W-G-N Concert orchestra and chorus under the direction of Henry Weber and a cast of distinguished radio actors. William A. Bacher will produce and direct the show. Noel B. Gerson wrote the adaptation.

Members of the Illinois Opera guild will be special guests of "The Student Prince" broadcast. The guild is active in stimulating interest in the Chicago Opera. The guild last year organized committees to sell opera tickets and subscriptions. It bought all of the boxes on Thursday nights and made the seats available free to more than 2,000 worthy music students. Mrs. James G. McMillan of Winnetka is president.

Ran 62 Weeks in Chicago.

"The Student Prince" has been viewed by hundreds of thousands of persons since first produced by J. J. Shubert in New York in 1924. It's first Chicago run continued for 62 weeks. At one time 12 stock comppanies were presenting it simultaneously.

With its setting in old Heidelberg in the gay days before the turn of the century, "The Student Prince" tells the story of Karl Franz, handsome young prince of Karlsberg, and of his poignant, short-lived romance with the beautiful Kathie, the little waitress beloved of all Heidelberg students, before he is called away from his studies to assume his duties as ruler of his country.

Miss Claire will sing the rôle of Kathie; Jan Peerce will be heard as Karl Franz, the student prince, and Igor Gorin will portray the singing rôle of Dr. Engel, the kindly teacher and adviser of Karl.

In the dramatic cast will be the fine company of actors that performed in "Bittersweet," the first operetta presented by the Chicago Theater of the Air.

This cast includes Alice Hill, Olan Soule, John Goldsworthy, Frances Carlon, Marvin Mueller, Butler Mandiville, Willard Waterman, Van Dyke, Stan Harris, and Barry Drew.

Miss Claire was starred in the first production of the series. She also is featured on THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE Symphonic hours at 9 p. m. Sundays on W-G-N-Mutual.

Gorin Hails Operetta Series.

Igor Gorin, youthful baritone, has interrupted his nation-wide concert tour for this broadcast. Gorin, who has traveled 60,000 miles since last November, is in Chicago already for rehearsals.

"Operetta," he said yesterday, "is just about the finest radio entertainment. One rarely hears a musical variety program without some light opera selection appearing on it. Operetta tunes outlive those on the hit parade. They have a great place in the heart of the public."

"I love working in operettas," he continued, "particularly when Bill Bacher is producing them."

Bacher, he said, gave him his first big opportunity. Bacher came across Gorin in an audition in New York in 1935; took him to the west coast for Hollywood hotel where they worked together for several years.

Proud of Citizenship.

Gorin came to America in 1935 from Vienna. Ten days after he arrived he applied for first citizenship papers and only a few weeks ago he received his final papers. He is extremely proud to be an American. Born in the Ukraine he hasn't always been too certain at times of his citizenship. That portion of the Ukraine has been switched back and forth between Russia and Poland several times during his lifetime.

Gorin was graduated from the Vienna conservatory and became the star baritone of the Czecho-Slovakia state opera. In Europe he was hailed for his performance in "Rigoletto" and as Figaro.

Besides his operatic, radio and concert activities Gorin has made one movie, "Broadway Melody," and is preparing to do another, now being written by Frances Marion. The story is concerned with the Finnish war. He is also a recording favorite.

Peerce Once a Violinist.

Jan Peerce, radio and concert favorite, was born on the east side of New York. He started his career as a violinist, played for 10 years in orchestras. His vocal talents were recognized with the opening of the Radio City Music hall. Last season he gave successful recitals in Carnegie and town halls in New York.

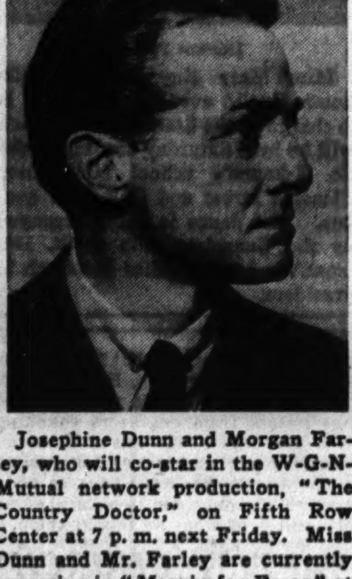
Guest Stars



Josephine Dunn and Morgan Farley, who will co-star in the W-G-N-Mutual network production, "The Country Doctor," on Fifth Row Center at 7 p. m. next Friday. Miss Dunn and Mr. Farley are currently appearing in "Margin for Error" at the Grand Opera house.

JOSEPHINE DUNN, MORGAN FARLEY ON W-G-N SHOW

Guests on 5th Row Center Next Friday.

Josephine Dunn and Morgan Farley will be co-starred in W-G-N-Mutual's Fifth Row Center program at 7 p. m. next Friday in a special presentation of Donald Spatz's drama, "The Country Doctor." The program is a weekly presentation of W-G-N and the Mutual chain and is produced by Blair Walliser.

Miss Dunn and Mr. Farley are currently appearing in "Margin for Error," Claire Booth's mystery drama at the Grand Opera house.

"Country Doctor" concerns a young physician who refuses to administer an injection which would continue the life of a patient for at least another 24 hours, but under conditions of great suffering. The patient dies and the physician is accused of breaking the strongest unwritten laws of the profession—maintaining life at any cost.

Rôles Are Reversed.

Barred from the city's hospital, his practice taken away from him, he and his nurse take up life again in a small town. By an ironic twist of fate, he himself becomes involved in a similar situation, but with the rôles reversed. This time the physician is the patient who, if saved, would live the rest of his life in darkness, never able to again practice medicine.

Josephine Dunn, taking the feminine lead as Nurse Ann Gibson, is known to moving picture fans for her parts in such screen productions as "Excess Baggage" and "Murder at Dawn."

Played in England.

Morgan Farley, who portrays the doctor, has been a leading figure of the stage both here and in England. He played Cassius in "Julius Caesar" with the Mercury players last year. He also has been featured in "Candida," "Romeo and Juliet," and in "An American Tragedy."

The overture and musical background of the radio play will be provided by the W-G-N dance orchestra under the direction of Harold Stokes.

WHAT DO YOU THINK?, NEW WOMAN'S QUIZ, STARTS TOMORROW

"What Do You Think?" a quiz program for every woman, makes its bow on W-G-N's program schedule tomorrow and will be heard each weekday in the future from 12:15 to 12:30 p. m. Alan Scott will conduct the program, which will be presented from the studios of W-G-N.

A group of women will attend the broadcast each day on the invitation of the sponsor, who will issue tickets to the program, and from the studio audience four will be selected to answer questions sent in by listeners. Listeners having questions accepted will receive $1 for each query. Women who are selected to answer right or wrong to the questions on the air will be paid $5 per program.

Ethel Winser to Start Book Series on Tuesday

Ethel Reid Winser, literary authority, will launch a new series of radio programs titled "Off the Bookshelf" over WJJD on Tuesday. The programs will be heard each Tuesday and Thursday evening at 6:45 p. m.

CARTUNE-O, NEW QUIZ, ON W-G-N NEXT THURSDAY

"Cartune-O," new musical quiz game, will make its bow over W-G-N at 7:30 p. m. next Thursday. Groceries and cash prizes amounting to $265 will be given away to listeners. Harold Stokes and the W-G-N Dance orchestra will play tunes which listeners will be asked to identify by checking the cartoons which illustrate the tunes played.

The new radio game is both a test of musical knowledge and an intelligence test. The game, however, is not difficult.

NORTHERNERS TO FEATURE HERBERT SONGS TUESDAY

The Northerners will feature songs by Victor Herbert in their broadcast from 9:30 to 10 p. m. Tuesday on W-G-N. Irene Verner will be the soloist. The entire Northerners cast will join in the presentation of songs from Herbert's "Rose of Algeria," which include the opening chorus and "Rose of the World."

Miss Verner will sing for her solo, "Solveig Song," by Edvard Grieg. The octet will sing "When You Wore a Tulip," "It's Tulip Time in Holland," "Any Old Port in a Storm," "The Singing Hills," and "O Dry Those Tears."

Hargrave Is Versatile.

William Hargrave, featured baritone on "Johnny Presents," has plenty of variety in his vocal assignments. On the air he sings many a virile, dramatic marching song, while in the Mecca Auditorium opera he intones arias.

AMERICAN SPIRIT AND STRENGTH ON MIDDAY HOUR

The theme of the Midday Service for this week is "The Spirit and Strength of America." The program, under the direction of Dr. John L. Dickson, is broadcast at 12:35 p. m. daily except Saturday and Sunday over W-G-N. Speakers:

Monday, May 13—Dr. E. Robb Zaring, former editor Northwestern Christian Advocate, Evanston.

Tuesday, May 14—Dr. Philip Seman, Jewish Peoples institute.

Wednesday, May 15—The Rev. Cyril K. Richard, Sauganash Community church.

Thursday, May 16—The Rev. Prof. Ferdinand J. Ward, De Paul university.

Friday May 17—Prof. Victor R. Pearson, Augustana college, Rock Island, Ill.

REBUILT HOME SHOWS RESULT OF SKILL IN PLANS

Even Attic Transformed to Useful Space.

BY LOUISE BARGELT.

Excellent planning has gone into the recently modernized home of Mr. and Mrs. Lew Shalett, 5144 South Cornell avenue. The result is that the home has been given that peculiar quality the French call l'esprit. The architect, Bertram Goldberg, 820 North Michigan avenue, has rebuilt the house for the greatest possible usefulness to all the family, and Mrs. Shalett has added personal touches to each room, according to its intended "purpose in life."

While the major and amazing portion of the transformation was centered on the interior, the brick exterior underwent some changes.

Originally the house had an old fashioned porch on each side of the front entrance pillars. These porches were ripped off and neat brick and flagstone terraces substituted. The front was landscaped, and a secluded garden area provided at the back of the house.

Has Amateur Stage.

Inside the home, skilful planning made possible a number of extra rooms. As it stands now the plan is spacious and open. It contains not only a gloriously comfortable basement recreation room and refreshment counter, a maid's room and bath, a work room and laundry and heater room but a completely and uniquely finished attic suite.

In this suite, which is for the use of the girl and boy of the family, there is a real stage with dressing rooms, footlights, spotlights, and so on, for amateur theatricals of all kinds, at one end of the attic; and at the other end, two separate study corners with bookcases and work tables, typewriters and desks.

On the first and second floors, there are now three bathrooms and a powder room.

New Winding Stairway.

One of the principal structural changes was the installation of an entire new stairway, which winds from the first floor to the attic. This new stairway is wide and open, and light, where the original stairs were narrow and dark. Another change on the first floor which adds to the spacious effect is the fact that there are no doors between the main living room, study, and dining room.

Entrance is made into a large and inviting central hall, dominated by two massive pillars. These were kept, as well as the finely beamed ceilings, and are as striking and inviting as the great oval fireplace on the north living room wall.

The woodwork here has been painted white, the walls a quiet green, the carpeting is beige, and there are Venetian blinds and draw drapes at the windows.

At the right of the entrance is a deep built-in wardrobe with sliding doors. Mrs. Shalett has no closets and closet doors in her home. Thruout the house there are these vast, commodious wardrobes, with their doors which slide silently back and forth.

From the west end of the living room you enter a quite captivating little circular, alcove study.

Italian Cabinet Work.

The cabinet work thruout the house was for the most part handmade by an Italian craftsman. In the light, beautiful dining room there are a buffet and dining table of dark mahogany, with the fine detail of a rare "antique," and dining chairs in ebony finish, with soft green and yellow striped upholstery. The walls are a quiet lemon yellow, and the draw drapes at the windows repeat, in their pattern, the "pillars" in the hall.

The large, handsomely remodeled kitchen is L-shaped, and ends in a most unusual breakfast corner.

At the top and back of the wainscot there is a deep iron container built in the wall. This holds soil and water for the plants and vines which are growing on two sides of the nook.

Upstairs Hall Gone.

Another most unusual feature of this kitchen are the sliding doors at the "floor to ceiling" cabinets.

No story, however short, is complete without mention of the excellence of the layout and treatment of the second floor bedrooms.

On this floor a central hall, "huge" as second floor halls once were, was eliminated, and space was salvaged for an additional room, this a charming study, with book lined walls, for Mrs. Shalett.

Besides this study, there are three bedrooms and three baths.

The boy's bedroom and bath are smartly tailored with a masculine air. The walls of the bedroom are covered with striped wall paper.

The girl's bedroom is essentially feminine, with pale blue walls and blue satin backed beds. The bathroom has painted walls, hand decorated with "Pandora" boxes and gay butterflies.

The master bedroom has soft yellow walls and a deep blue carpeting, with an alcove for the beds which has its walls papered in yellow and gray paper.

This Week in the Garden

Monday, May 13.

Cultivation of plants must not be neglected. There are many types of tools now available for special uses, such as narrow hoes to get in between closely planted material, but the careful gardener needs very few tools to carry on his work. A common hoe, a steel toothed rake, a spade, a lawn mower are about all that are needed. Tools always should be cleaned every time they are used.

Tuesday, May 14.

Do not be in a hurry to plant tender plants out of doors for a late frost may injure them. Wait until about Memorial day before removing house plants out of doors. Get the window boxes in condition for planting. Well planted boxes are an asset in any place. The person without an outdoor garden can enjoy window boxes and many delightful effects can be obtained from them. There are plants suitable for every situation unless it is too dark and even then changes can be made of the plant material. Grow the rosy morn petunia in the sun and the Boston fern, holly fern, asparagus fern, English ivy, and similar plants in the shade. Be sure the soil is rich. Sow annuals in the box, such as sweet alyssum and portulaca for fine bloom.

Wednesday, May 15.

This is a late season and garden work will come along in rapid succession. See that the plants are fertilized with a complete plant food to give them a good start. Shrubs in many gardens are neglected because they are hardy and able to withstand adverse conditions, but when the soil is cultivated around them, food supplied, and water given as needed, they respond with vigorous growth, luxuriant foliage, and high grade flowers. Do not overplant. Close planting can only result in few flowers and weak plants. This does not apply to carpet bedding, edging, and similar conditions where certain effects are desired.

Thursday, May 16.

It is an excellent practice to mulch newly planted shrubs and trees. A light mulch of cut grass, leaves, peat moss, or other material will keep the soil from drying out and keeps down weeds. The mulch should be left all summer. Mulch perennial borders as soon as the weather becomes hot. Roses and fruit trees are much benefited by a mulch. Flowering hedges such as the flowering quince, spiræas, deutzias, lilacs, and others should be trimmed after the flowering period.

Friday, May 17.

If the delphinium plants show signs of being affected with black, twisted, and deficient growth, dust with Bordeaux. Scatter some on the ground around each plant. Try spraying gladioli when the foliage is about 12 inches long with a mixture of two teaspoonsful of Paris green, two pounds of brown sugar, and three gallons of water. Spray once a week for the control of thrip. Keep spraying delphiniums, hollyhocks, and phlox with Bordeaux or dust with sulphur. Watch for oyster shell scale and spray with nicotine soap solution. The scale hatches at about this time and the young are easily controled.

Saturday, May 18.

Root lice or aphids on plants may be largely controled by using tobacco stems as a mulch. The stems can be purchased from supply houses by the bale. Tobacco dust worked into the soil also is effective. Spray fruit trees before the blossoms drop as a protection against the codling moth.

SYMPHONIC HOUR OFFERS ANGELUS FEATURE TONIGHT

The Chicago Tribune Symphonic hour will dedicate its third Sunday evening broadcast to Mother's day. Tonight's broadcast—from 9 to 10 o'clock—over W-G-N and the nationwide Mutual network will feature the singing of Soprano Marion Claire, the W-G-N Symphony orchestra and chorus, directed by Henry Weber, and a special dramatic interlude before an invited audience representing the Chicago Association of Commerce.

The Rev. John C. Evans, religious editor of THE TRIBUNE, will be the speaker of the evening.

Highlighting the broadcast will be a dramatization with special musical effects of Millet's painting, "The Angelus," a feature bringing to life the humble peasant and his wife portrayed in the picture, with a background of music from "The Angelus," by Jules Massenet, and the Intermezzo from "Cavalleria Rusticana," by Pietro Mascagni.

Color Picture in Drama Section.

"Listeners will be invited to turn to the first page of THE SUNDAY TRIBUNE's drama section, which today presents a full color picture of Millet's painting, offering an artistic complement to the radio presentation.

Miss Claire, accompanied by the full chorus and the Symphony orchestra, will join in this unusual dramatic scene. The "Angelus" feature was written by William A. Bacher, who directs the production of the Symphonic Hour, as well as the Chicago Theater of the Air series, heard on W-G-N.

The program:

Overture Coriolanus	Beethoven Orchestra.
Wie bist du meine Koenigen	Brahms Miss Claire.
The Sleep that Flits on Baby's-Eyes	John A. Carpenter Miss Claire.
Bridal Song Serenade	Goldmark Orchestra.
The Joy of the Hunters	Von Weber Octet and orchestra.
The Angelus Dramatization	Miss Claire, chorus, orchestra, and dramatic cast.
Evening Talk	The Rev. John C. Evans.
The Lord's Prayer	Albert H. Malotte Miss Claire.
First Movement from D Minor Symphony	Cesar Franck Orchestra.

Miss Claire, who is vocal soloist on the Symphonic Hour programs, will be starred with Jan Peerce and Igor Gorin in the Chicago Theater of the Air operetta, "The Student Prince," next Thursday evening on W-G-N.

WALLER YOUTHS TO BE GUESTS AT CITIZENS' RALLY

Supt. Puffer Will Speak on W-G-N Program.

Maurice C. Lipman.

Noble J. Puffer, Cook county superintendent of schools, will speak briefly on the seventh "Citizens of Tomorrow" half hour radio program, sponsored by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, to be heard on W-G-N from 7 to 7:30 o'clock Wednesday night. The entertainment will feature Waller High school and 600 of its students with their principal, Maurice C. Lipman, will be present in the W-G-N audience studio. The Waller mixed chorus, directed by Mildred Tess, will sing two numbers, the Waller school song and the Cossack Lullaby.

This show will be the 7th in a series of 11 program which are dedicated to the youth of America. With Supt. Puffer will be more than a score of county school superintendents and high school principals.

Girls to Attend.

Additional guests will be 28 high school girls who have been designated for their outstanding work in the Citizen Pilgrims program of the Daughters of the American Revolution chapters in and near Chicago.

Three pretty Waller girls will lead the cheering section. They are Shirley Aussen, Pat Gladkey and Clare Meyer. Under the direction of the school's R. O. T. C. the national and school colors will be posted just before going on the air.

Philip Maxwell, a member of THE TRIBUNE staff will be the "principal" and master of ceremonies on the show, which will include "Charlie Jones," every high school's principal, and wise cracking "Jerry," who in real life is Miss Dorothy Gregory, a 16 year old senior at Maine Township High school.

Alumni to Listen.

Thousands of Waller alumni will be listening in. This group will include William Chandler, athetic director at Marquette university, Milwaukee, Wis.; Oscar G. Mayer, president of the Chicago Association of Commerce; Fred H. Heidbring, professor of English at Northwestern university; Herbert E. Hyde, noted organist and composer of Chicago, and Mrs. William B. Walrath, founder of The Cradle, in Evanston.

Chicago's only public girls' high school, Flower Technical, will be featured on the broadcast of Wednesday, May 15. The last of this series of "Citizens of Tomorrow" will be held on June 12.

ST. JOHN CADET GUARDS CHOSEN FOR HEIL VISIT

Cadet Captain Robert Arens of 6825 Constance avenue has been appointed commander of the honor guard to Gov. Julius Heil of Wisconsin for the occasion of his visit to St. John's Military academy, Delafield, Wis., scheduled for May 28. The governor's annual visit includes an inspection of the academy's R. O. T. C. regiment.

Other Chicago cadets appointed to official positions in the guard are Charles E. Bachman, 6859 Oleander avenue, commander of the 2d platoon; William H. Jacob, 6120 North Knox avenue, guidon bearer; Norbert C. Smith, 6201 North Knox avenue, a sergeant, and Roy G. Mitchell, 5653 Winthrop avenue, a guide.

Rice Jr., Stevens hotel, and Eugene L. Solomon, 14 West Elm street.

4 ARE AWARDED HONOR RATING AT GLENBARD HIGH

Miss Shirley Eclov, Robert Reynolds, Miss Frances Weigle, and John Malm are honor winners of this year's graduating class at Glenbard High school. Miss Eclov has a record of 30 A's, Robert Renolds has 28 A's, and Miss Weigle and John Malm each have 27 A's and one B.

Because of the tie between the latter two, all will speak on the commencement program, and only two speakers will be chosen by the class.

Miss Eclov is editor in chief of the "Glen Bard." She is president of the French club, vice president of the Girl Reserves, and vice president of the Latin club.

Robert Reynolds won a first division rating for his bass solo at the state band contest. He is eidtor of the annual, treasurer of the French club, and secretary of the Hi-Y. He has 14 honor points.

Miss Weigle is a member of the brass sextet which won a first at the state band contest.

John Malm is president of the senior class and of the "G" club. In his freshman and junior years he won the class honor medal and has twice been president of his section. In his junior year he was vice president of his class and was chosen lieutenant governor in the elections sponsored by the American Legion.

Receive Legion Plaque

For winning third place among the honor high schools at the R. O. T. C. federal inspection last spring, student officers of the St. Mel regiment received a bronze plaque last week from Cook County council of the American Legion. Here Cadet Colonel George Buess, commander of the school regiment (left center) receives the plaque from Stanley G. Rud. Cadet Lieutenant Colonel Peter Sweers, executive officer (left), and Brother James, director of the high school, look on. This spring's federal inspection will take place Friday morning at Garfield park.

OAK PARK'S HOT POLITICAL FIGHT NEARING CLOSE

Scouts to Elect Village Rulers Saturday.

Oak Park will have a new village president on May 25. There will be nearly 1,000 voters going to the polls next Saturday to elect new officials for the village. After the three weeks' campaign and election is over, they will hold office for one day only.

The speeches, parades, election and civic day when village offices will be taken over by the newcomers is a part of the citizenship training project of the Oak Park district of Boy Scouts.

"The idea isn't to learn all the tricks that can be played in politics," says C. M. Arnold, scout executive, "but to get experience in conducting a good, clean campaign from an unbiased point of view. The scouts are doing everything."

This week rallies are being held in school rooms, church basements and the playgrounds as the three parties, the Eagles, the Explorers and the Southern, go into action. Brass bands, banners and speeches are proclaiming the candidates' fitness for the day's job.

One Arrest Last Year.

Last year the boy chief of police made an arrest. The young president sat in the village hall and the assessors, collectors and directors made inspections of the public works.

Petitions were received more than a week ago at scout headquarters. Scouts running for president had to have at least 50 signatures on their petitions. At the deadline, Saturday, April 27, the scouts who had qualified for this office were Charles Sayre, the Eagle party; Charles Kramer, Explorer party, and Kenneth Harwood, Southern party.

Three boys obtained 30 signatures so their names could go on the ballot as candidates for village clerk. They are Richard Peterson, Eagle party; Robert Rinnan, Explorers and Wallace Foley, Southern. Six of a list of boys will be elected trustees. Eagle party candidates are Paul Hamer, Fred Stresen-Reuter, Warren Hedstrom, Ruel Lehman and James Hotchkiss. The Southern party has two candidates, Bob Bonthron and Bob Oertel. The Explorers are Martin Schultz, George McNichols, Fred Irland, Bob Knuepfer, Bob Anderson, and Donald Wolgemuth.

For Library Director.

Thirty signatures were required on the petitions for library director. The Eagles have James Doran and the Southern party has Theodore Sophie as candidates. Six were named by the Explorers, Bob Weber, Arthur Schwanke, David Willoughby, Bremond Birch, Arthur Block, and Bob Grundin.

Other candidates are: town clerk, all with 30 signatures, Gordon McClure, Alan Weess, Nick Theodorou; township assessor, 30 signatures, Doyle Gracey, Roger Dreffein; town supervisor, 30 signatures, Ed Linquist; town collector, 30 signatures, Jack Flindt; justice of the peace, 30 signatures, Paul Walker, Stanley Adel, Bill Midesell, Jim LeGros, Jack Adams, Bill Scott, Al Simonini, Harry Lustgarten, Bob Frost, and Wallace Golbeck.

Town constable, 30 signatures, Jack Rezab, Donald Fager, Ralph Graziano, John LeGros, Clarence Kuklinski, Bill Drennan, and Owen Hanson.

Polls will be open Saturday at the Carroll, Barrie, Stevenson, Field, and Anderson playgrounds. Senior scouts will be stationed at each booth and voters must produce their scout credentials.

St. Angela's Altar Society to Hold Spring Luncheon

St. Angela's Altar and Rosary society will hold its spring luncheon at 12:30 o'clock Tuesday noon in the Midwest Athletic club. Mrs. Edward McMahon is president. Mrs. Warner Robertson and Mrs. Joseph Donovan, chairmen, are assisted with arrangements by Mrs. John Dalton, Mrs. Stephan Eitzenhoefer, Mrs. John Hughes, Mrs. Charles Moore, Mrs. John McGinnis, and Mrs. Michael Spellman.

—St. Mel—

Promotion of seven cadets of the St. Mel High school R. O. T. C. regiment has been announced by Capt. George W. Busbey, military instructor. Those appointed captains were First Lieuts. Anton Giger, John Nolan, Alexander Magee, and Cadet Alexander Borris, who was thereby restored to the rank which he had lost because of poor academic standing. Second Lieut. Frank Friedmansky was made a first lieutenant, and Cadets Michael Russo and John Riley were appointed sergeants.

SEMINARY TO OFFER MUSICAL PLAY FOR MAY DAY PROGRAM

As part of the May day program May 24 Jennings seminary, Aurora, will present the musical one act play, "The Dress Rehearsal," which has for its setting a boarding school for girls in England.

Miss June Sterling.

Members of the cast include Miss June Sterling, Miss Shirley Parks, Miss Madeline Fornier, Miss Patty Trett, Miss Catherine Stange, Miss Theresa Wilkimirski, Miss Geraldine Webster, Miss Elizabeth De Wall, Miss Bette Barstow, Miss Ruth Russell, Miss Janice Bloom, and Miss Jeanette Pugh.

Miss June Sterling, who will take the rôle of the school principal, resides at 191 East Walton street, Chicago.

Club Plans Frolic.

The Condors Athletic club of Melrose Park will present its seventh annual frolices Saturday in the Bellwood Memorial park ballroom, Eastern avenue and Washington boulevard, Bellwood.

BOOST IN RANK IS GIVEN TO 48 IN CRANE R. O. T. C.

Edward Danish Is Made Sergeant Major.

Forty-eight promotions in the Crane Technical High school R. O. T. C. regiment have been announced by Sergt. James C. Pinneo, military instructor. Topping the list is First Sergeant Edward Danish, who was given the rank of regimental sergeant major, this being the first time since 1937 a cadet was so honored.

Sergeants promoted to first sergeants are William Adler, Angelo Ciccotti, Richard Dzwonkiewicz, and James Thompson. TEMPLE ALUMNI GIVING BENEFIT DRAMA TONIGHT

Proceeds to Aid Memorial Scholarship Fund.

"Not Guilty," the annual spring play of the Washington Boulevard Temple alumni, will be presented this evening in the temple, 25 North Karlov avenue, to earn money for the Henry Lurie memorial scholarship fund which pays the expenses of alumni at various colleges and universities.

Members of the cast are Nancy Lurie, Fred Hillman, Rosanne Marschak, Homer Goldberg, June Deutch, James Schwartz, Shirley Singer, Herbert Zimmerman, Lillian Blum, Philip Anoff, Seymour Glerman, Harry Spigle, Ruth Keller, Aaron Rosenberg, Edward Brodsky, Bernard Benesch, Muriel Levin, George Silverman, June Pollak and Al Goldstein. The director is Miss Zelma Hertzberg and business managers are Harris Zimmerman and Bernard Sang.

◆

Officers will be elected at a meeting of Garfield Park B'nai B'rith auxiliary at 8 o'clock Tuesday evening in Washington Boulevard temple community hall. Mrs. David Aron is president and Mrs. David Olshan is in charge of the program.

A membership luncheon will be held at 12:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon in the Belmont hotel. The final event of the annual earning fund drive will be a luncheon on Saturday, June 1, in the Drake hotel.

A Mothers' day program will be presented at 10:30 o'clock Saturday at a meeting of Washington Boulevard temple sisterhood in the community house of the temple. After the morning religious service, new officers and directors will be installed. Rabbi Samuel Schwartz will deliver the sermon. The afternoon musical program will be given by Dianna Brodsky, pianist; Ruth Keller, vocalist; Lois Elsner and Rema Englehart, dancers.

◆

A meeting of Austin B'nai B'rith auxiliary will be held at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon in Columbus park recreation center, Central avenue and Congress street. Officers will be elected and Florence Bourke Ellis will give a book review and a résumé of current events.

◆

Election of officers will be held at a meeting of Chicago Lawndale B'nai B'rith auxiliary at 8 o'clock tomorrow evening in the Midwest Athletic club, 6 North Hamlin avenue. Mrs. Saul Cohe, chairman of the nominating committee, will present the slate of officers. Mrs. Maurice Hershenhouse, vice president and program chairman, will introduce Muriel Hunkelman, radio artist, in a monolog, "Wives of the Sages" written by Ben Aronin.

Lawndale auxiliary will entertain more than 500 members at a good will luncheon Saturday at the Knickerbocker hotel. Mrs. Jules Chernyk, chairman of conservation, is chairman of the party assisted by Mrs. Lewis Wolf, Mrs. Min Hadesman, Mrs. Jane Marivitz, Mrs. Helen Schwartz, Mrs. Edward Block and Mrs. Emil S, Gollubier. The choral group will sing, led by Mrs. Martin Gerber, and Mrs. Edward Glick will direct a program of skits, monologs and novelties.

Mrs. Albert R. Schneider, president of Lawdale auxiliary, will present the organization with an American flag, given by the woman's district grand lodge to the first place winner in the Chicago membership campaign. Mrs. Abe Nelson, Mrs. Erwin Barge, and Mrs. Louis Marlib are membership chairmen.

LEGION TO GIVE AMERICAN FLAG TO FLOWER HIGH

Two events of interest to parents are scheduled at Flower High school, 3545 Fulton boulevard, this week. At 11 o'clock tomorrow morning the 6th district of the American Legion auxiliary will present an American flag to the school. Mrs. G. C. Gentry will make the presentation speech.

Open house for parents of junior and sophomore students will be held Thursday afternoon. The welcome will be made by Dorothy Smith, president of the junior class, and Miss Florence Althaus will direct her speech students in a play, "A North American in Mexico."

The music will be presented by the Flower orchestra and chorus directed by Mrs. Lydia Cleaver. Dr. Sophie Theilgaard, principal, will give an address. Refreshments will be served after a tour of the building.

STUDENTS TO DANCE IN A SPRING SETTING SATURDAY AT MORTON

Margaret Bishop.

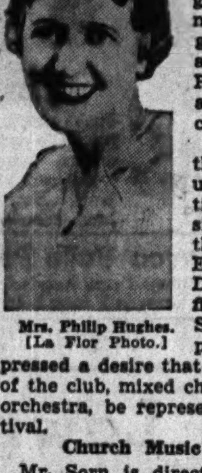
A garden scene, with wisteria and phlox climbing a garden gate and pale spotlights moving slowly overhead, will be the background for the spring prom Saturday night at Morton Junior college. Margaret Bishop and Charles Paynter, sophomore president, will lead the right wing. Left wing leaders will be Violet Janda and Joseph Sakala, freshman president. Thomas Callahan is chairman of the prom committees. Heads of subcommittees are Eugene Kowalski, Irvin Winsch, Rose Kasalovsky, Eleanor Chleboun, George Topinka, Ed Vojak, and John Carroll.

May Queen Attendant

The senior attendant to the May queen at Carleton college chosen by her classmates is Miss Molly Forbes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Bruff Forbes, Oak Park. The May fete will be held Saturday on the college campus, Northfield, Minn. Members of the May queen procession are young women chosen on the basis of their contribution to good college citizenship.

ELGIN MUSICIANS READY TO GIVE MAY FESTIVAL

Mrs. Philip Hughes to Be Chairman.



Mrs. Philip Hughes.
[La Flor Photo.]

Commemorating the tenth anniversary of its organization, the Elgin Musicians' club will present a May festival program tomorrow night in the Elgin High school auditorium. Mrs. Philip Hughes again will be chairman.

Thru the years, the club has been under the direction of local musicians, including the late Thomas E. Perkins and Dr. Robert Scofield. Franklin C. Sorn, this year's president, has expressed a desire that all departments of the club, mixed chorus, piano, and orchestra, be represented in the festival.

Church Music Director.

Mr. Sorn is director of music at Holy Trinity Lutheran church, Mrs. Hughes, before coming to Elgin, was a member of the faculty of the Minneapolis School of Music. She has been one of the state officers in the Illinois Federation of Music clubs.

Rehearsals for the festival have been under the direction of Miss Marion Laffey, Miss Charlo Byars, and Miss Jane Hampton. Miss Byars, director of the music at the First Methodist church in Elgin, is in charge of the chorus. Among the numbers she will present is the "Ballad for Americans," a modern cantata in which Richard Lea, baritone, will have a solo part.

Miss Hampton, organist at the First Methodist church in Elgin, has scheduled two piano numbers, one a six piano ensemble, "The Turkish Patrol," by Beethoven, and a concerto for three pianos. Margaret Sweeney, harpist, will be guest artist.

Will Handle Tickets.

Ticket sales are in charge of a committee headed by Mrs. B. R. Sharp, and Mrs. Merle Smith has made arrangements for the choral group. Mr. and Mrs. Chauncey Wells are in charge of the music library. Miss Elma Engelbrecht and John Fletcher will be responsible for the properties. Floral settings will be provided by Mrs. Ernest J. Butler, and Mrs. Milton Jacobs. Dr. L. J. Hughes is in charge of auditorium arrangements.

The Elgin Musicians' club was planned to create a loan fund for deserving students in music, and at the same time present a program to the community at a reasonable price.

Isabellans to Meet.

St. Angela's circle, No. 502, Daughters of Isabella, will meet at 8:30 o'clock tomorrow evening in clubroom B of La Follette park.

SUCCEED IN LIFE THO BOTH ARE DEAF AND MUTE

Edward Miners Feted on Golden Jubilee.

BY MILDRED WILDS.

Fifty years ago last Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Edward Miner were married. For the half century he earned the living and she did the housework. They had seven sons and daughters and shared the grief when two of them died.

In all that time Mr. and Mrs. Miner have never heard each other's voice. No word has ever been spoken between them. Last Sunday they greeted 100 friends who came to the golden anniversary party at their home, 3151 Fulton street.

Anna Traub was 16 years old when she met Edward Miner. He took her home from a party. They had been guests of the owner of a biergarten at Broadway and Clark street for the owner's parents were deaf mutes. And Anna Traub hadn't spoken a word nor heard a sound since early childhood. Neither had Edward Miner, who entered the Jacksonville School for the Deaf when he was 10.

Then They Eloped.

A year later when Edward Miner asked her father if he could marry her, the answer was a definite no. "How could a deaf-mute support a wife?" growled the practical German father. So they eloped that Sunday and were married in the lobby of the old Grand Pacific hotel, Clark and Jackson street, by Dr. Philip Gillete, superintendent of the Jacksonville school.

Mr. Miner could support his wife. He has never been out of work from his wedding day until he retired four years ago at the age of 69. He was never heard an alarm clock but he has never been late for work. He learned the printing trade in the Jacksonville school and practiced that for a year. He didn't like it so he switched to machine shop work.

He worked in the assembly department of a toy safe factory, worked for several bicycle companies. His children had handmade bicycles which he fashioned from scraps. When he left one bicycle company he was given a letter. It read: "The bearer of this is the best man in the wheel turning and assembly line that I have ever met. He is a thoro mechanic and I found it less trouble to instruct him then even first class men without his handicap."

Given Another Letter.

When bicycle making no longer was a profitable business, he was given another letter from a second company— "Our giving up the cycle manufacturing business is the only reason for his leaving us," it read.

During the world war he inspected airplane motors and won a medal for excellence. He worked as an inspector for a roller skate company and checked comptometers. He couldn't hear the keys but he could tell by the touch if they were in line.

Mrs. Miner had the task of rearing her children without ever speaking a word. Altho the children were perfectly normal, they had to communicate with their mother by signs and motions. Mr. Miner trained a hunting dog to watch the children. When they were in danger or crying somewhere, the dog would tug at Mrs. Miner's skirt.

An electric light flashes when the door bell rings. Mr. Miner rigged up this system of lights for the back and front doors. The sons and daughters, Edward, Mrs. Ruth Woodville, Mrs. Lillian Woodville and Loran Miner, all reside near their parents and come in every day. Mrs. Thomas Frost, another daughter, lives in Texas.

Enjoy Picnics, Movies.

The family has resided in Beloit, Wis.; Peoria, Aurora, and Chicago. The parents go to picnics, dances, and the movies. They 'listen' to the radio by placing their hands on the sound box to feel the vibrations. They attend church at the Midwest Mission for the Deaf, 431 South Wabash avenue.

The sons and daughters wish they could same day hear their mother's voice. But Mrs. Miner, who also celebrated her 67th birthday last Sunday, says, by means of the sign language which her daughter interprets, "We haven't missed anything in life. There are compensations for everything."

And Mr. Miner can laugh heartily at his eight grandchildren and his four great-grandchildren, even tho he does not make a sound.

Arranging Dance

Miss Eleanor Charters, dance chairman for the Oak Park Hairdressers' guild, is making arrangements for a spring party and supper-dance which will be held Saturday in the Knickerbocker hotel.

CRANE EVENING SPANISH CLUB PLANS CONCERT

Music Students Are to Give Program.

Vocal and instrumental music students of the Balatka Academy of Musical arts will be presented in a concert at 8 o'clock Wednesday evening by the Spanish club of the Crane Evening High school and the Crane Evening Social Activities club. The program will be given in the Lane school auditorium, 2245 Jackson boulevard.

Dr. Luis G. Flores, Spanish teacher in the evening school, is a chairman on arrangements. The special guests will be Señor Diego J. Fallon, consul of Colombia; Señor Martin Lliraldi, acting consul of Cuba, and Miguel G. Calderon, consul of Mexico.

No Admittance Charge.

The Balatka academy orchestra will be conducted by August L. Quiriconi. There will be no admittance charge.

Luis M. Flores will play two piano solos, a Mendelssohn march and the Paderewski minuet. Albert Price, baritone soloist, will sing Rasbach's "Mountains" and Tchaikowski's "The Pilgrim." Other soloists will be Earl Dore, pianist; Albert Ricciarelli, violinist; Corrado Vaselli, tenor, and Werner Giering pianist.

Gives Spanish Dances.

Chita Chavez will give her own interpretation of two Spanish dances. Accordion soloist for part two of the program will be Arnold Sanders playing Greer's "Flapperette" and Frosini's "Carnival of Venice." Bertille McDougall, soprano, will sing "The Cradle Song" by Brahms and "Il Bacio" by Arditi.

Gino Raffaelli will play two violin selections and Walter Krolikowski will play a Liszt series. The program will end with a group of Mexican songs by Salvador Mendoza. Accompanists for the orchestra will be Lilly Quiriconi and Earl Dore.

THIRD UNITARIAN CLUBS ARRANGE FORUM AND DANCE

Two major events on the spring calendar for the Third Unitarian church, 301 North Mayfield avenue, are scheduled for this week. The Rev. Edwin H. Wilson, pastor, is general chairman.

At 7:30 o'clock this evening the 20-40 club will hold a round table discussion on "Can Democracy Save Education?" The leaders of the discussion will be Miss Eleanor Andersen and James Durlacher. A dance will be held after the meeting.

The Junior alliance will hold a spring frolic at 8:30 o'clock Friday evening in the church basement. Tickets may be purchased from the alliance members. The program will include games, dancing, and refreshments.

Camp Fire Girls.

The Cal-wa-han-ka Camp Fire Girls group will meet at 3:15 o'clock Friday afternoon in Altgeld park fieldhouse. Phyllis Lamb, president of the group, will call for reports. Mrs. Christine Lamb is guardian of the group.

RAIL SCHEDULES FOR LILAC DAY SENT TO CLUBS

50 Trains Will Bring Blooms to City.

The 12th annual "Share Your Lilacs" campaign conducted by the Chicago Plant, Flower, and Fruit guild and THE TRIBUNE was given new impetus last week when guild and suburban railroad officials worked out train schedules for bringing the lilacs into the city. The flowers will be taken to hospitals and other institutions that care for the sick and shutins.

A fleet of more than 50 trains on six railroads has been assigned to transport the lilacs free from the suburbs to stations in Chicago where they will be picked up by TRIBUNE trucks and taken to the hospitals. The cooperating railroads are the North Western, Illinois Central, Rock Island, Aurora and Elgin, North Shore Line, and the Burlington.

Schedules Sent Out.

The completed train schedules have been sent to guild chairmen of 85 garden clubs for use in completing their plans for lilac day. The Milwaukee, Pennsylvania, and South Shore lines also may furnish lilac trains if it develops later that more cars are needed.

Detailed instructions for cutting and shipping the blooms so they will be fresh when they reach the hospitals are being prepared by flower guild officials and the Allied Florists Association of Illinois. The instructions are to be sent to more than 2,000 garden club members before lilac day.

Cool Weather Brings Delay.

Continued cool weather has further delayed opening of the fragile blossoms and no date has been set for their distribution. Altho buds started opening on many of the bushes in the south and west suburbs more than a week ago, there still is little indication as to when they will be ready to cut. Gardeners all over Chicagoland have reported prospects for a heavy crop of blooms.

Mrs. Stanley D. Grace of Highland Park, chairman of the guild's general committee, says her organization again will provide means for all who have lilacs to share them with the sick. Guild committees of garden clubs in the various suburban communities will arrange for loading the bouquets on trains.

The list of garden club presidents and guild committee chairmen was revised recently. Here are the names and addresses of the new club presidents and guild chairmen in this area:

Thimbles and Thumbs Garden club—Mrs. Robert C. Munnecke, 9064 South Pleasant avenue, guild chairman.

Garden Club of Morgan Park—Mrs. John Akenhead, 11536 Bell avenue, guild chairman.

Morgan Park Woman's club—Mrs. Clyde Stow, 2556 West 116th place, president; Mrs. Robert E. Black, 2258 West 107th place, guild chairman.

BACK OF YARDS COUNCIL PLANS BOYS' OUTINGS

Back of the Yards Neighborhood council will send several hundred boys to summer camp this year, according to Sigmund Wlodarczyk of the packingtown youth committee. Funds raised by the council for this project will be matched by the packinghouse workers' organizing committee of the C. I. O.

Bishop Bernard J. Sheil, honorary director of the council, has authorized the board to award three scholarships to the Lewis Holy Name Technical school. These scholarships represent $1,300 and will cover the four year course. Competitive examinations will be conducted for the awards.

A recreation program for summer is being planned with the coöperation of the Catholic Youth organization and the park district. It will be for the 80,000 persons in the back of the yards district. At the last council meeting the acquisition of a new recreation center at 48th and Aberdeen streets was announced.

The council represents 127 agencies, including churches, organized labor, both A. F. of L. and C. I. O., business, civic, fraternal, social, and athletic groups.

ACADEMY BAND TO AID BENEFIT FOR CHILD HOME

The Morgan Park Military Academy band, conducted by Capt. Elliott Orr, and the Morgan Park Academy Grenadiers, directed by Capt. John Storr, will take part in the benefit program for the Morgan Park Home for Dependent Children at 8 o'clock Monday evening, May 20, at the Englewood Masonic temple ballroom, 6739 South Yale avenue. Appearing on the program will be May Barron, mezzo soprano, Doris Jeanne Peterson, xylophonist, and J. Charles Gilbert, baritone. Philip Jorgensen, concert pianist, will play, and Paul Mallory, tenor, will be one of the soloists. Mrs. Frank J. Spencer is president of the home, and Mrs. Frank M. Fulton, 317 West Marquette road, is chairman of the benefit.

Village Focal Point Found in Adams' Garage

BY GLADYS PRIDDY.

If residents of Columbus Manor, a subdivision southwest of Oak Lawn, should ever choose a community shrine, that shrine would be the A. C. Adams garage! And if they should go on and name a community First Lady, well that person probably would be Mrs. Adams.

Nearly every organization in Columbus Manor held its first meetings in the Adams garage—the woman's club, the community church, the ladies aid, the health council. The Columbus Manor library is in the Adams garage, and the infant welfare station used to be there.

There are two reasons for the great activity back of the Adams house at 9520 South Moody street. One is that the garage was, for a long while, the only available meeting place, and the other is that Mrs. Adams is the organizer of all the groups that meet or have met there.

Beginning of Story.

The whole story began when Mr. and Mrs. Adams and their son, Arthur, moved to Columbus Manor from Brookfield five years ago. At that time, Mr. Adams was employed in Clearing, and he wanted a home near his work.

The house had to be what Mrs. Adams calls "a shoe box," but good planning has resulted in comfort all 'round. Mrs. Adams decided beforehand where she wanted the icebox and the stove, her piano and her couch, and the walls were built to fit the furniture.

There are three subdivisions in Columbus Manor, and the Adamses were the first in their particular one, Mrs. Adams' first community activity came by way of being the self-appointed greeter for every other new family. She invited them in for their first meal—"when they were tired from moving and the gas wasn't turned on."

Now 300 Families.

The families came rapidly. There are 300 now. Soon there were young folks with nowhere to go, nothing to do.

"In the city, they were used to going to the movies," Mrs. Adams explains, "but here, going to the movies meant bus fare, too. Nearly every family moved out to Columbus Manor to economize and to try to get a home. They didn't have the extra money for bus fare and movies."

Mrs. Adams came to the rescue with her first organization, the club for teen age young folks. She started that four years ago, and there were 300 members and guests at one Halloween party!

She welcomed her group every Friday evening. They had parties in the garage, and, when the weather was good, went on picnics. For transportation, Mrs. Adams would persuade some one to lend a truck. She had to discontinue that club last year when her husband lost his position and she found employment for herself.

Organized Woman's Club.

Mrs. Adams organized the Columbus Manor Woman's club, district 3, Illinois Federation of Women's clubs, three years ago. First, she gathered information on how to form such a club, then invited nine of her neighbors in for tea, and the club was started! This particular group has worked much in conservation and also sponsors the small library in the Adams garage.

When Mrs. Adams knew that her garage was to be used for the woman's club meetings, she thought the place should have a floor. Her husband and son put in the cinders and gravel, but they couldn't get the whole thing finished in time.

Mrs. Adams went to work. Her sister-in-law, a cripple, mixed the cement with her hands. Mrs. Adams smoothed out the floor. "It isn't such a good job, but we had it laid in time for the meeting."

Forms Uncles' Club.

Mrs. Adams had an uncle in Oak Forest infirmary. She used to make regular trips to see him. When he died, she thot of the many men there who had no one to visit them, to bring them small gifts. She knew that the Oak Forest women patients were quite well remembered and that there were four men to one woman at the infirmary.

So, two years ago she organized the Adopt Your Uncle club. Members now have 18 "uncles" at Oak Forest. They take the men on picnics at Palos Park and visit at the hospital.

Of course, there are babies in Columbus Manor, and Mrs. Adams eventually did something for them. She says, "When my own son was a baby, I disregarded the advice offered at a welfare station. I can see now where I made mistakes, so I thot if the mothers here had a welfare station, maybe they could avoid those errors."

Founds Welfare Station.

Mrs. Adams scrubbed the garage, furnished the scales, doctor's gowns and other equipment, arranged for a doctor's services thru the county, and Columbus Manor had a welfare station.

It was all pretty expensive. Finally the welfare station was moved to the public school, which is some distance from the Manor homes. Now the station has been abandoned.

Naturally such a public spirited woman would think of the religious side of community life. She recalls that it was in September of 1936 that she took six youngsters one Sunday morning and went out to the garage and had Sunday school. Now there are 146 in that Sunday school. O, yes, it has outgrown the garage, but so have nearly all the other organizations that used to meet there.

Not only has the Sunday school

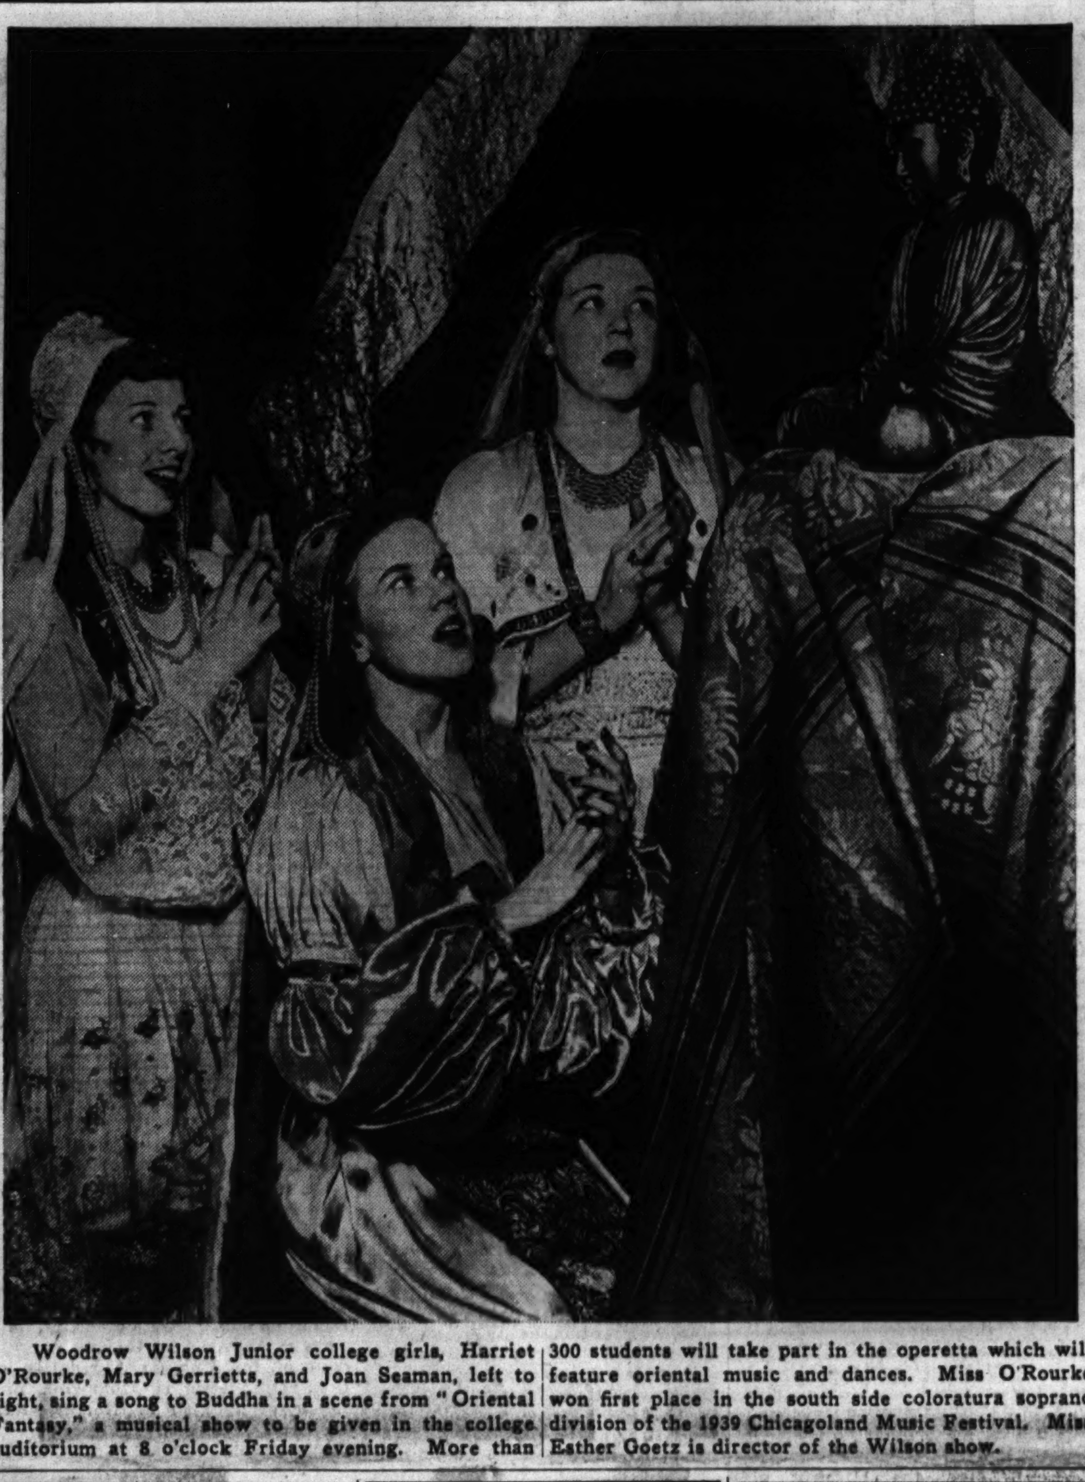
Oriental Fantasy at Wilson College



Woodrow Wilson Junior college girls, Harriet O'Rourke, Mary Gerrietts, and Joan Seaman, left to right, sing a song to Buddha in a scene from "Oriental Fantasy," a musical show to be given in the college auditorium at 8 o'clock Friday evening. More than 300 students will take part in the operetta which will feature oriental music and dances. Miss O'Rourke won first place in the south side coloratura soprano division of the 1939 Chicagoland Music Festival. Miss Esther Goetz is director of the Wilson show.

MAY FESTIVAL IS SCHEDULED FOR OGDEN PARK

Will Open Tomorrow to Last Thru Friday.

A May festival is planned for Ogden park at the fieldhouse, 65th street and Racine avenue, beginning tomorrow and continuing thru Friday. Robert Bantz, park supervisor, announced the event.

Dramatic productions, a choral concert, handicraft demonstrations, and exhibits of practical and ornamental objects will be on the festival program.

Offer Musical Comedy.

"Dude Ranch," a musical comedy, will be given tomorrow at 8 o'clock by members of the Englewood Opera company under the direction of Beecher Norton. In the cast are Shirley Zacker, Clarence McDonald, Carl Timmerman, Mary Ellen Convery, Harry Herman, Beverly Burton, Eleanor Sahr, Bernard Sern, Jerry Merrell, William Kean, William Gradissher, Manuel Salazer, and Michael Valentas.

On Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock the Fellowship Friars will present "The Passing of the Third Floor Back." Charles Smith is the director. Members of this cast are Harold Harms, Florence Smith, Robert Buckley, William Rovick, Ben Smithton, Loretta Johnson, George Ramsay, Osleyn Duffy, Dorothy Scholfield, Mary Ackerman, and Lil Thomas.

Those in Charge.

Demonstrations and exhibits are jointly in charge of Mrs. James Dore, president of the Ogden Park Quilting club, and Miss Florence Cavanaugh and Robinson Johnson, park staff instructors. The articles on exhibit are those made by students in the various creative activities conducted by the Chicago Park district.

On the general festival committee are Charles Quinn, secretary of the Ogden Park Civic association; Mrs. Dore, Mrs. Owen Daniels of the Neighborhood Woman's club, Beecher Burton, Charles Smith, and Miss Marcella Dore.

SOLEMN NOVENA TO BE HELD IN ST. RITA SHRINE

Tomorrow the solemn Novena in honor of the Augustinian nun, St. Rita of Cascia, will open in the Shrine of St. Rita, 63d street and Oakley avenue. The general intention of the service, in response to an appeal from Pope Pius XII., will be world peace.

Five services daily have been arranged. High mass will be celebrated at 9 o'clock each morning for all those participating and for members of the St. Rita society. Other services will take place at 2:15 and at 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon, and at 7 and 8 o'clock in the evening.

A solemn outdoor procession in honor of the saint will be held next Sunday. The Novena will close May 22.

LEO SCHOOL MOTHERS WILL OFFER SPRING LUNCHEON WEDNESDAY

Mrs. H. J. Sterk.
[Hoffman Photo.]

The Leo High school Mothers club will hold its annual spring luncheon in the Red Lacquer room of the Palmer House at 12:30 o'clock Wednesday. Chairman is Mrs. H. J. Sterk, 3938 West 62d street and co-chairman is Mrs. William Berls, 1461 West 71st place.

They will be assisted by Mrs. J. J. Mangan, 9240 South Laflin street; Mrs. F. E. Gardner, 8050 Sangamon street; Mrs. B. P. Kline, 7042 South Perry avenue, Mrs. B. E. Battershell, 7540 Sangamon street; Mrs. R. E. Youngs, 7356 Luella avenue; Mrs. L. L. Eck, 7525 Carpenter street; Mrs. V. C. Mahoney, 8151 Morgan street; Mrs. E. L. Mannott, 8216 South Wabash avenue.

Mrs. R. E. Glass, 7927 Princeton avenue; Mrs. F. E. Trunk, 1723 West 83d street; Mrs. E. A. Kopshaver, 7931 South Bishop street; Mrs. J. J. Callan, 7051 Peoria street, and Mrs. Earl D. Parro, 8133 Champlain avenue, president of the club.

PLAN LUTHERAN CHORAL SERVICE IN SUBURB TODAY

Lutheran schools from Matteson, Richton, and Chicago Heights will participate in a Lutheran education and song service at 8 o'clock tonight in St. Paul's church, 14th street and Chicago road, Chicago Heights.

Children from the schools will give a choral program. The event is a unit in a group of five arranged by the Chicago Heights Teachers' conference.

Included in the conference are Lutheran schools in Ash Grove, Beecher, Blue Island, Calumet City, Chicago Heights, Coopers Grove, Crete, Eagle Lake, Homewood, Kankakee, Lansing, Matteson, Oak Glen, Orland Park, Richton, Riverdale, Steger, Tinley Park, and Woodworth.

RIDGE MISSION UNION TO HOLD ANNUAL MEETING

The Rev. J. L. McLaughlin, secretary of the Chicago Bible society, and Dr. Albert D. Helser, Sudan Interior mission, Nigeria, South Africa, will be the principal speakers at the annual meeting of the Ridge Mission union Wednesday. The session will begin at 10 o'clock in the morning at St. Paul's Union church, 94th street and Winchester avenue. A luncheon will be served at 12:30 o'clock. The afternoon meeting will begin at 1:30 o'clock. Women of the community are invited to attend.

Roller Skate Club Plans 2d Anniversary Tomorrow

The Duo Rollers of Chicago, a roller skating club, will hold a second anniversary party tomorrow evening at the roller rink at 111th street and Western avenue. Club officers are Frank Premba, president; Don O'Hara, vice president; Ann Sullivan, secretary; Betty Esterlein, treasurer, and Walter Kubulius, sergeant at arms.

CADETS OF NINE UNITS SHINE UP FOR INSPECTION

Honor Rating Hangs on Performance.

The second week of federal inspection of Chicago's high school R. O. T. C. units begins tomorrow.

Besides seven city public high schools, this week will see the inspection of the St. Mel Parochial High school unit and that of Waukegan Township High school. The schedule is as follows [in the event of rain the inspection will be held in the school gymnasium]:

Monday—Fenger, 9 a. m., school campus, 11220 South Wallace street; Morgan Park, 1:15 p. m., Morgan Park Military academy campus, 2200 West 111th street.

Two on Tuesday.

Tuesday—Englewood, 9 a. m., Hamilton park, 72d street and Normal avenue; Kelly, 1:15 p. m., school campus, 4136 South California avenue.

Wednesday—Foreman, 9 a. m., school campus, 5100 Belmont avenue; Steinmetz, 1:15 p. m., Riis park, 6100 Fullerton avenue.

Thursday—Waukegan, school campus, Waukegan, Ill.

Friday—St. Mel, 9 a. m., Garfield park, Washington boulevard and Hamlin street; Tilden, 1:15 p. m., International amphitheater, 42d and Halsted streets.

At each school from 15 to 30 cadets, depending on the size of the R. O. T. C. unit, receive medals. Awards are given by the R. O. T. C. headquarters for efficiency, neatness, success in recruiting, and rifle marksmanship. One medal for each 50 cadets is awarded by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE—gold for upperclassmen and silver for freshmen. Other medals are awarded by the American Legion, the Reserve Officers' association, the Veterans of Foreign Wars, the United Spanish War Veterans auxiliary, and the Daughters of the American Revolution.

These medals are presented in the Chicago public schools at the time of inspection. At St. Mel and Waukegan presentation will not be made until later in the year.

Kelly.

Capt. Chester Parker, officer's efficiency medal; Maj. Eugene J. Gasior, a duplicate bar for the same medal; 1st Sergeant Anton Stalun, noncommissioned officer's efficiency medal; Second Lieutenant Van H. OUR TOWN

Paragraphs About People You May Know

ROBERT C. McNULTY, son of Dr. and Mrs. C. J. McNulty of 2219 East 70th place, took third place in the national Catholic oratorical contest recently at the University of Notre Dame, thus adding a placque to the collection of trophies he has won during the last few years. A junior at Mount Carmel High school, Robert was one of three Chicago boys to advance to the finals of the tournament and the only one to receive an award. His address was entitled "Thank God We're Americans." At Mount Carmel he is known for his excellent work in the dramatic society.

OUR TOWN'S favorite character this week is Rufe Pickett of Blue Island. Rufe, who has been brakeman on the Rock Island railroad suburban lines for 20 years, has earned himself a reputation as a genuine "homespun philosopher" with a flair for telling whimsical anecdotes in a North Carolina dialect. He likes to tell stories and speculate so much that he contributes "Rufe Pickett's Weekly Letter" to the Moore County News of Carthage, N. C., and weekly columns to the Elkhart [Ind.] Truth and the Blue Island Sun Standard as a hobby. Enthusiastic friends liken his prose style to that of Artemus Ward, Josh Billings, George Ade, and [occasionally] Mark Twain.

He is known as North Carolina's Good Will Ambassador No. 1 and has been given lifetime passes to the state's biggest theaters. A born "joiner," he is a life member of the Elks, Shriners, Odd Fellows, Masonic Scottish Rite, Knights Templar, and the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen. Two of his favorite listeners are his wife and 7 year old daughter, Sally Jean.

A south sider who will feel partly responsible for providing so much outdoor enjoyment for poor Chicago boys at the C. Y. O. summer boys' camp in Palos hills this summer is Mrs. Helen Billings, 6838 South Prairie avenue. Mrs. Billings sponsored many of the parties held this winter to raise funds for the camp, which charges no fees. Boys who attend are selected by pastors in the Chicago archdiocese. Each summer about 500 needy youths from the city are given a two weeks' stay at the camp.

The Service club of Mrs. Ellsworth tent, Daughters of Union Veterans of the Civil War, will meet Wednesday for a noon luncheon in the G. A. R. temple, 6236 Princeton avenue.

Circus Time for Junior School

All dressed up in tulle and a tiara and with his front teeth missing is Russell Bruce, "ballerina" in the Morgan Park Military academy junior school circus, which will take place in the school gymnasium at 8 o'clock Thursday evening. Russell is balancing on the back of Walter Bittner, the circus clown, and the ringmaster in the boots and high hat is Stanford Gibrich. All of the boys in the circus are under 10 years old.

SPONSORS SEEK TO KEEP YOUTHS OUT OF STREETS

Equipment Sought for Some Areas.

Southwest side younger children will have 203 playlots this spring. Already, the yards are being put into condition by local recreational, civic, service, and business organizations. This year, many of the off-the-street lots will be furnished for the first time with playground equipment, it was announced last week by Peter J. Peel, chairman of the Chicago Recreation commission's play spaces committee.

Under the present plan, the commission coördinates the efforts of all neighborhood recreation committees, the National Youth administration workshops, and the WPA recreation leadership project. Thru this system, the neighborhood supervised play areas are possible.

Seek Play Equipment.

Back of the Yards Neighborhood council is sponsoring the most extensive program for its 160,000 square foot playlot at Damen avenue and 47th street. The council, with the Rev. Bernard Sokolowski as chairman, is now engaged in a campaign to raise $1,000 for materials with which NYA boys will build three backstops, bleacher stands, sand boxes, and benches. The whole area will be fenced.

Special projects include the erection of softball backstops at the St. Salomea church playlot, 118th street and Prairie avenue; at Christ the King church lot, 93d street and Hamilton avenue; at the playot sponsored by R. W. Ahearn at 56th street and Merrimac avenue, and on the McKay Parent-Teacher association sponsored plot at 70th street and Western avenue.

Woman's Club Aids.

The Southtown Neighborhood Woman's club and Mrs. J. P. Kerrigan have announced that they will fence the lot they sponsor at 703-11 West 62d street. The space will be equipped with sandboxes, see-saws, hand bars, two swings, and a set of climbing bars. At the Bethlehem Creche settlement lot, 5414-24 Shields avenue, there will be additions to the present apparatus, and additions will be made also at St. George church plot, 4053 Wentworth avenue, and the Union Avenue Methodist church area, 4362 Union avenue.

The 120,000 square foot playlot between 7415 and 7421 Vincennes avenue and 7414 and 7422 Wentworth avenue, sponsored by W. J. Petrick, 7414 Wentworth avenue, will undergo a complete repair job on softball backstops, basketball backboards, see-saw, swings, and slides. Equipment will be painted also.

Further development is scheduled for the lot at 77th street and Maryland avenue, sponsored by Sam Fishleder, 7525 Cottage Grove avenue, and the playlot at 74th street and Evans avenue, sponsored by Ald. Roy E. Olin [8th], and C. O. Olander, 7411 Cottage Grove avenue.

Used as Pattern.

In explaining the success of Chicago's playlot system, Chairman Peel said: "Now in its fourth year, Chicago's playlot system is being used as a pattern by other communities in the country as one of the most effective ways of providing supervised recreation for our children and eliminating traffic worries from the minds of parents."

Edward L. Burchard, executive secretary of the recreation commission, described the development of the city's more than 600 playlots as an outstanding record of coöperation of governmental, civic, social, and church agencies.

Committee chairmen of the various districts, locations of the playlots, and sponsors follow. In general, where sponsors are not listed, there is no supervision so far arranged.

Voice of the Southwest Side

Readers of the Metropolitan Section are invited to contribute to this column on matters of neighborhood interest. Readers should confine themselves to 200 or 300 words. Full names and addresses must be given. No manuscripts will be returned. Address Voice of the Southwest Side, The Tribune.

BROKEN SIDEWALK.

Many of our children out here in Bridgeport have to play on the sidewalks. But in our immediate neighborhood, along the west side of Farrell avenue, they can't even play there. The pavement is so broken up that it is dangerous to walk on it, let alone play on it. It seems to me that every time I look in the paper, I see a story about streets being fixed somewhere. I do hope sometime that I'll pick up a paper and see a story to the effect that the entire west side of Farrell avenue is getting a beauty treatment. BRIDGEPORTER.

ANOTHER DANGER POINT.

I noticed a story in last Sunday's TRIBUNE about a channelization and safety program for dangerous intersections on the southwest side. There was no mention of the intersection at 81st street and Vincennes avenue. Stoplights have been requested for this crossing, but the survey showed that there weren't enough cars passing there to warrant the lights. I don't know how many cars have to cross streets to install stoplights, but I do know that enough cars use the 81st street-Vincennes avenue intersection to make accidents. Recently, a young man was hit, and a baby was knocked from her carriage in intersection mishaps, to recall only two of the accidents there. I do hope something is done soon to make that crossing safer. E. K. E.

THE SUNDAY EVENING CLUB.

Just wanted to let you know that the column story in THE TRIBUNE on April 28 [on the deficit of the Chicago Sunday Evening club] was very much appreciated. Mr. Barnes has been hearing about it from various sources, and some good contributions have come in as a result. CLARA E. RANDALL.

SEEK TO LESSEN TRAFFIC DELAYS AT RYAN WOODS

Motor Council Advises Change in Lights.

An appeal to county police authorities for a solution to the traffic problems on 87th street between Western and Damen avenues was made last week by the South area council of the Chicago Motor club. The action resulted from reports on the problem at the regular meeting of the council recently at the Chicago Beach hotel.

Representatives of civic groups said that traffic is blocked in both directions particularly on Sunday afternoons. The difficulty is attributed to two causes: [1] cars parked on 87th street near the Dan Ryan woods section of the forest preserves, and [2] the timing of the stop-lights on Western avenue. The signals, it is asserted, have a much longer green light for north-south traffic than for the 87th street cars, altho on Sundays the volume on both streets is about the same.

Cite Need for Signals.

Discussion of traffic control at seven other intersections involved requests for signal lights. The one urged most by its sponsors is at Ashland avenue and 50th street where two persons were killed in 1939 and 19 were injured. Four collisions have occurred there so far this year. Children from St. Augustine's Catholic school and St. Martin's Lutheran school use the crossing.

The city traffic engineers announced the following progress on other signal light installations by the council: Installation at 81st street and Vincennes avenue is before the state highway department for approval; construction is under way for the 95th street and Jeffery avenue lights; and work is completed on signals at 63d street and the inner drive.

It was announced that petitions are being circulated among store owners and residents for elimination of parking on the east side of East End avenue between 79th street and South Chicago avenue. This recommendation is made by the council to facilitate traffic and provide a clear street for the use of fire department apparatus.

Plan Boulevard Repairs.

Ald. William A. Rowan [10th] reported to the council that some money had been appropriated for repairs on Indianapolis boulevard from 100th to 106th streets and that Avenue L would be paved from 100th to 106th streets.

The council also is requesting city traffic engineers to erect school warning signs on both sides of 85th street on Damen avenue. This street soon will be opened under the Wabash railroad and children of the Foster Park grammar school must cross at this corner.

SEWAGE DITCH PROBLEM STILL WAITS SOLUTION

Oak Forest Leader Says Cleanup Is Coming.

John Anderson, president of the Taxpayers' Protective and Improvement association of Oak Forest, recently announced with a show of satisfaction that the Oak Forest sewage problem had been solved. Now, after a long walk up and down the Oak Forest drainage ditch, Anderson said: "It's going to be solved."

The Oak Forest sewage situation has been an issue since earlier this season when residents of Bremen township complained about the drainage ditch. On Feb. 3, Frank Venecek, superintendent of the Oak Forest infirmary, appealed to the county board to safeguard that institution from a possible outbreak of typhoid fever such as occurred at Manteno. He pointed out that 25 infirmary employés live in the subdivision and might bring a disease into the institution before realizing that they were ill. The institution uses city water and disposes of waste thru the Chicago sanitary district.

The Oak Forest neighborhood is unincorporated and the township supervisor, assessor and clerk would be considered the health authorities in ordinary matters. The state's attorney's office has expressed doubts that the township officials could force action on the ditch.

State Board Powerless.

The state board of health lacks authority until an epidemic breaks out. On March 4, the county board adopted the interim zoning ordinance. Some residents of Oak Forest believed this would remedy the situation, but it applies only to new homes.

While some residents urged incorporation of the subdivision in order to form a health board, others opposed the measure, fearing increased taxation.

Finally the improvement association was organized, with the avowed purpose of cleaning up the ditch. Members hired Paul Fremont at 25 cents per month apiece to collect the trash. They believed the matter settled.

Forget Own Sewers.

Then John Anderson, with a TRIBUNE reporter, took a look-see. They discovered that improvement association members themselves had forgotten that their own sewers were draining into the ditch.

Chief offenders, it was found, did not live in the less desirable areas, but in the "better" portion of Oak Forest. Some violations were found on Lamont street between 154th and 155th streets. There, as in other spots, the sink water runs out of pipes into the trench.

This trench zigzags thru the area. In rainy weather, the ditch fills and water backs up into small bayous. As dry seasons come on, the water stays in stagnant pools in these bayous. There is also an unpleasant odor from the ditch and the backwater puddles."

Families Are Warned.

After Anderson's hike, he called a meeting of the improvement association. Sixty members attended at the Arbor Park school. And 11 new members joined, so that now the association has 120 on the roll.

Anderson notified all families living along the trench to stop throwing cans, garbage, and other refuse into it. Improvement association members agreed to sign a petition for filling in or straightening the ditch and to present the petition to the county board.

Venecek said he would warn infirmary employés who were sending sewage and refuse into the trench that the violation must stop.

Ditch 12 Miles Long.

The drainage ditch begins at Mokena, runs northeast thru Tinley Park, Midlothian, and Robbins into the canal. It is 12 miles long.

Oak Forest was originally settled in 1909 by infirmary employés. Anderson moved there in 1929, when he retired from the contracting business. He lost his "retirement fund" in three months, so he went into the hatchery business.

This summer he's going to build a new home. He's past 50 and thinks a man "shouldn't work himself to death." That's why, he says, he wants to keep Oak Forest a country place, where every one has room to be comfortable. About that sewage problem, tho, he insists that Oak Forest is really going in for a housecleaning program.

Last week he thought the subdivision's ditches were free of rubbish, but this week, well—he says he guesses he made a mistake.

Study of a Champion

The winning shot! Richard Virbick, 10 years old, of 944 West 35th street, has just taken a first place in the preliminary marble king contest, sponsored by the Chicago Boys' clubs, in a playoff on the roof of the Valentine branch, 3400 South Emerald avenue. Southwest side preliminary playoffs are taking place there and at Ogden Hill branch, 6405 South Hermitage avenue, as well as in schoolyards and small parks. Winner of the all-city tournament will be sent to New York by John Hayes, ex-marble champion of Woodlawn and Hyde Park, for the national finals in June.

In Piano Recital

[Mandel Photo.]

Mary Theos, the 11 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Theos, 2443 South Keeler avenue, will be presented in a recital sponsored by Bertha Ott at Kimball hall Friday evening at 8 o'clock. A pupil of Lillian Korecky Sternes, Mary was selected as a winner in a contest originated by the Society of American Musicians for piano students. Other winners in the contest will play in the recital.

Constipation Relief
That Also
Pepsin-izes Stomach

When constipation brings on acid indigestion, bloating, dizzy spells, gas, coated tongue, sour taste, and bad breath, your stomach is probably loaded up with certain undigested food and your bowels don't move. So you need both Pepsin to help break up fast that rich undigested food in your stomach, and Laxative Senna to pull the trigger on those lazy bowels. So be sure your laxative also contains Pepsin. Take Dr. Caldwell's Laxative, because its Syrup Pepsin helps you gain that wonderful stomach comfort, while the Laxative Senna moves your bowels. Tests prove the power of Pepsin to dissolve those lumps of undigested protein food which may linger in your stomach, to cause belching, gastric acidity and nausea. This is how pepsinizing your stomach helps relieve it of such distress. At the same time this medicine wakes up lazy nerves and muscles in your bowels to relieve your constipation. So see how much better you feel by taking the laxative that also puts Pepsin to work on that stomach discomfort, too. Even finicky children love to taste this pleasant family laxative. Buy Dr. Caldwell's Laxative—Senna with Syrup Pepsin at your druggist today!

'STUDENT PRINCE' NEXT ON CHICAGO THEATER OF AIR

Opera Guild Will Hear Claire, Jorin, Peerce.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Sigmund Romberg's tuneful "Student Prince," most popular of all operettas, is to be presented on the second broadcast of the Chicago Theater of the Air next Thursday evening. "The Student Prince" will be aired over the coast to coast network of the Mutual broadcasting system from 9 to 10 o'clock with Marion Claire, famous soprano; Igor Gorin, young baritone of the concert, opera and radio, and Jan Peerce, Radio City Music hall tenor, as the three stars.

They will be supported by the augmented W-G-N Concert orchestra and chorus under the direction of Henry Weber and a cast of distinguished radio actors. William A. Bacher will produce and direct the show. Noel B. Gerson wrote the adaptation.

Members of the Illinois Opera guild will be special guests of "The Student Prince" broadcast. The guild is active in stimulating interest in the Chicago Opera. The guild last year organized committees to sell opera tickets and subscriptions. It bought all of the boxes on Thursday nights and made the seats available free to more than 2,000 worthy music students. Mrs. James G. McMillan of Winnetka is president.

Ran 62 Weeks in Chicago.

"The Student Prince" has been viewed by hundreds of thousands of persons since first produced by J. J. Shubert in New York in 1924. It's first Chicago run continued for 62 weeks. At one time 12 stock companies were presenting it simultaneously.

With its setting in old Heidelberg in the gay days before the turn of the century, "The Student Prince" tells the story of Karl Franz, handsome young prince of Karlsberg, and of his poignant, short-lived romance with the beautiful Kathie, the little waitress beloved of all Heidelberg students, before he is called away from his studies to assume his duties as ruler of his country.

Miss Claire will sing the rôle of Kathie; Jan Peerce will be heard as Karl Franz, the student prince, and Igor Gorin will portray the singing rôle of Dr. Engel, the kindly teacher and adviser of Karl.

In the dramatic cast will be the fine company of actors that performed in "Bittersweet," the first operetta presented by the Chicago Theater of the Air.

This cast includes Alice Hill, Olan Soule, John Goldsworthy, Frances Carlon, Marvin Mueller, Butler Mandiville, Willard Waterman, Van Dyke, Stan Harris, and Barry Drew.

Miss Claire was starred in the first production of the series. She also is featured on THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE Symphonic hours at 9 p. m. Sundays on W-G-N-Mutual.

Gorin Hails Operetta Series.

Igor Gorin, youthful baritone, has interrupted his nation-wide concert tour for this broadcast. Gorin, who has traveled 60,000 miles since last November, is in Chicago already for rehearsals.

"Operetta," he said yesterday, "is just about the finest radio entertainment. One rarely hears a musical variety program without some light opera selection appearing on it. Operetta tunes outlive those on the hit parade. They have a great place in the heart of the public."

"I love working in operettas," he continued, "particularly when Bill Bacher is producing them."

Bacher, he said, gave him his first big opportunity. Bacher came across Gorin in an audition in New York in 1935; took him to the west coast for Hollywood hotel where they worked together for several years.

Proud of Citizenship.

Gorin came to America in 1935 from Vienna. Ten days after he arrived he applied for first citizenship papers and only a few weeks ago he received his final papers. He is extremely proud to be an American. Born in the Ukraine he hasn't always been too certain at times of his citizenship. That portion of the Ukraine has been switched back and forth between Russia and Poland several times during his lifetime.

Gorin was graduated from the Vienna conservatory and became the star baritone of the Czecho-Slovakia state opera. In Europe he was hailed for his performance in "Rigoletto" and as Figaro.

Besides his operatic, radio and concert activities Gorin has made one movie, "Broadway Melody," and is preparing to do another, now being written by Frances Marion. The story is concerned with the Finnish war. He is also a recording favorite.

Peerce Once a Violinist.

Jan Peerce, radio and concert favorite, was born on the east side of New York. He started his career as a violinist, played for 10 years in orchestras. His vocal talents were recognized with the opening of the Radio City Music hall. Last season he gave successful recitals in Carnegie and town halls in New York.

Among the songs which will be heard in "The Student Prince" are "Golden Days," a duet featuring Peerce and Gorin; "Student Serenade," "Marching Song," "Drinking Song," "Deep in My Heart, Dear," the beautiful love duet with Marion Claire and Peerce; "Old Heidelberg," "Youth and Laughter," and "Gaudeamus Igitur."

CARTUNE-O, NEW QUIZ, ON W-G-N NEXT THURSDAY

"Cartune-O," new musical quiz game, will make its bow over W-G-N at 7:30 p. m. next Thursday. Groceries and cash prizes amounting to $265 will be given away to listeners. Harold Stokes and the W-G-N Dance orchestra will play tunes which listeners will be asked to identify by checking the cartoons which illustrate the tunes played.

The new radio game is both a test of musical knowledge and an intelligence test. The game, however, is not difficult.

Ethel Winser to Start Book Series on Tuesday

Ethel Reid Winser, literary authority, will launch a new series of radio programs titled "Off the Bookshelf" over WJJD on Tuesday. The programs will be heard each Tuesday and Thursday evening at 6:45 p. m.

HOLLIS SHAW TO SING TOMORROW WITH TEMPLETON

Hollis Shaw.
[Kesslere Photo.]

Four years ago in New York Alec Templeton, the pianist and impersonator, was so impressed with the singing of a young soprano on a local station that he vowed to help her if he ever got a chance. Tomorrow night at 8:30 this soprano, Hollis Shaw, now a Broadway star, will make a guest appearance on Templeton's show over WMAQ-NBC.

A vivacious blonde, Miss Shaw, who sings everything from operatic arias to swing, will be heard in "All the Things You Are" which she introduced last fall in the Broadway production, "Very Warm for May."

LENAUD SISTERS TO BE GUESTS ON STOKES SHOW

"Romance in Rhythm," directed by Harold Stokes, will feature a return engagement of the double piano team, Evelyn and Hazel Lenaud, from 9:30 to 10 p. m. tomorrow on W-G-N and the Mutual network. The vocalists will be Edna O'Dell, Lawrence Salerno, and the Four Shades of Blue.

The Lenaud sisters, who were guests last February, have attracted wide attention thru many recitals and radio engagements. The Lenauds will play "Hungarian Rhapsody," "Russian Rag," and "The Butterfly."

Edna O'Dell will sing "End of the Rainbow," and with the chorus she will do "I'm Comin' Virginia." Salerno will do "Deep River." The Four Shades of Blue will harmonize in the new novelty hit, "Woodpecker Song."

SYMPHONIC HOUR OFFERS ANGELUS FEATURE TONIGHT

Dedicate Special Program to Mother's Day.

The Chicago Tribune Symphonic hour will dedicate its third Sunday evening broadcast to Mother's day. Tonight's broadcast—from 9 to 10 o'clock—over W-G-N and the nationwide Mutual network will feature the singing of Soprano Marion Claire, the W-G-N Symphony orchestra and chorus, directed by Henry Weber, and a special dramatic interlude before an invited audience representing the Chicago Association of Commerce.

The Rev. John C. Evans, religious editor of THE TRIBUNE, will be the speaker of the evening.

Highlighting the broadcast will be a dramatization with special musical effects of Millet's painting, "The Angelus," a feature bringing to life the humble peasant and his wife portrayed in the picture, with a background of music from "The Angelus," by Jules Massenet, and the Intermezzo from "Cavalleria Rusticana," by Pietro Mascagni.

Color Picture in Drama Section.

"Listeners will be invited to turn to the first page of THE SUNDAY TRIBUNE'S drama section, which today presents a full color picture of Millet's painting, offering an artistic complement to the radio presentation.

Miss Claire, accompanied by the full chorus and the Symphony orchestra, will join in this unusual dramatic scene. The "Angelus" feature was written by William A. Bacher, who directs the production of the Symphonic Hour, as well as the Chicago Theater of the Air series, heard on W-G-N.

The program:

Overture Coriolanus..........Beethoven
Orchestra.
Wie bist du meine Koenigen..........Brahms
Miss Claire.
The Sleep that Flits on Baby's Eyes
..........John A. Carpenter
Miss Claire.
Bridal Song Serenade..........Goldmark
Orchestra.
The Joy of the Hunters..........Von Weber
Octet and orchestra.
The Angelus Dramatization..........
Miss Claire, chorus, orchestra, and dramatic cast.
Evening Talk..........
The Rev. John C. Evans.
The Lord's Prayer..........Albert H. Malotte
Miss Claire.
First Movement from D Minor Symphony..........Cesar Franck
Orchestra.

Miss Claire, who is vocal soloist on the Symphonic Hour programs, will be starred with Jan Peerce and Igor Gorin in the Chicago Theater of the Air operetta, "The Student Prince," next Thursday evening on W-G-N.

Similar Features Planned.

In connection with the dramatization, Mr. Bacher, who originated this new radio technique, has announced that every Sunday night the Symphonic Hour will offer a similar feature bringing to life the great figures of history and of the arts, blending the finest in music thru the medium of radio dramatics.

Next Sunday's Symphonic Hour will be presented before another invited audience representing the Chicago Association of Commerce guests.

'AMERICA SINGS' REPLACES FIBBER DURING SUMMER

"America Sings," featuring Meredith Wilson and his 32 piece orchestra, will be the summer replacement program for Fibber McGee and Molly when the comedy team signs off the air for a 13 week vacation starting Tuesday, July 3, 9:30 p. m.

Written by Don Quinn, who turns out the McGee scripts, "America Sings" will be produced by Cecil Underwood and announced by Harlow Wilcox, both members of the current McGee staff.

In format, the program will be familiar songs of America, presented in novel arrangement. Several outstanding radio personalities will be added to the program before the summer show is actually launched.

Mother of Crosby Boys Guest Today on Bandwagon

As a pleasant Mother's day interlude, Mrs. Harry Crosby, mother of Bing and Bob Crosby, will extend greetings to Bob Crosby during the Bandwagon broadcast at 6:30 p. m. today over WMAQ. Bob Crosby and his Bobcats will be heard from Chicago and his mother will speak from Hollywood.

Carrie Carter Auditioners

Virginia Payne (center), Carrie Carter of the Carters of Elm Street show, dropped around to meet some of the aspiring actresses who may turn out to become members of the popular serial's cast. Miss Jeanne Pilkington (left), 17 years old, a Hirsch High school student, and Mrs. Jerry Sternburg (right) are among the 1,206 W-G-N applicants who tried out for the Carter talent search. Both expect to win in the contest which offers a two week "paid vacation" of $112.50 per week.

LEHAR MELODIES SCHEDULED FOR MELODY PAGEANT

"The Pageant of Melody," under the direction of Henry Weber, will feature themes from Franz Lehar in a program of popular concert music with the W-G-N Concert orchestra and Kathryn Witwer, Attilio Baggiore, and the octet, from 9:15 to 10 p. m. Wednesday on W-G-N and the Mutual network.

Miss Witwer, Baggiore, and the octet will join with the orchestra in the Lehar numbers, which include "Carnival," "Love Is a Pilgrim," "Say Not Love Is a Dream," and "Starlight Guards."

Baggiore will sing for his solo, "Di Miei Bollente Spiriti" from Verdi's "La Traviata." Miss Witwer will sing an aria from the opera "Louise," by Gustave Charpentier.

"Farewell," an original composition by Adolf Hoffmann of the W-G-N musical staff, will be sung by the octet, with Mr. Weber playing the piano accompaniment.

STEELMAKERS PLAN SALUTE TO MOTHERS TODAY

A musical tribute to Mother's day will be aired on Mutual's coast to coast "Musical Steelmakers" broadcast over W-G-N at 7:30 p. m. today.

The Musical Steelmakers' orchestra will present a special arrangement of "Songs My Mother Taught Me." Tenor Ardenne White will sing "That Wonderful Mother of Mine," and lovely soprano Dorothy Ann Crowe selects "The Sweetest Story Ever Told" for her solo spot.

The guest headliner on this all-employé show from the land of steel will be 17 year old pianist Eleanor Bidka. Her father works in the Wheeling factory carpenter shop.

NORTHERNERS TO FEATURE HERBERT SONGS TUESDAY

The Northerners will feature songs by Victor Herbert in their broadcast from 9:30 to 10 p. m. Tuesday on W-G-N. Irene Verner will be the soloist. The entire Northerners cast will join in the presentation of songs from Herbert's "Rose of Algeria," which include the opening chorus and "Rose of the World."

Miss Verner will sing for her solo, "Solveig Song," by Edvard Grieg. The octet will sing "When You Wore a Tulip," "It's Tulip Time in Holland," "Any Old Port in a Storm," "The Singing Hills," and "O Dry Those Tears."

1,206 GIRLS, WOMEN TRY OUT ON W-G-N IN CARTER TALENT HUNT

More than 2,000 requests for tryouts on W-G-N for applications in the Carrie Carter Talent Search, conducted by the Carters of Elm Street program, were received when the deadline for entries was reached last Wednesday. And in three weeks 1,206 girls and women stepped before a W-G-N microphone and showed their dramatic ability.

Those who showed real radio talent will be recalled for further auditions and will compete against winners from other Mutual stations to determine the national winners.

As suggested by Virginia Payne, star of "The Carters," each winner will be given a two week assignment with the Carters' company, playing over W-G-N-Mutual daily at a salary of $112.50 a week. All travel and living expenses will be paid for the fortnight.

Guest Stars

Josephine Dunn and Morgan Farley, who will co-star in the W-G-N-Mutual network production, "The Country Doctor," on Fifth Row Center at 7 p. m. next Friday. Miss Dunn and Mr. Farley are currently appearing in "Margin for Error" at the Grand Opera house.

DR. CUTTER TALKS WITH A. B. MILLS ON HOSPITAL DAY

In observance of National Hospital day, Dr. Irving S. Cutter, dean of Northwestern university's medical school and health editor of THE TRIBUNE, and Alden B. Mills, managing editor of the Modern Hospital magazine, will appear on the Northwestern University Reviewing Stand this morning. Dr. Cutter and Mr. Mills will discuss "Ten Million Americans in the Hospital" on the broadcast over W-G-N and Mutual from 10:15 to 10:30 a. m.

Dr. Cutter and Mr. Mills will examine progress made in recent years in the United States in expansion of hospital facilities. Among the questions they plan to discuss are: Are there adequate hospital facilities in the United States? Are these facilities available to all who need them? What's the future outlook?

JOSEPHINE DUNN, MORGAN FARLEY ON W-G-N SHOW

Guests on 5th Row Center Next Friday.

Josephine Dunn and Morgan Farley will be co-starred in W-G-N-Mutual's Fifth Row Center program at 7 p. m. next Friday in a special presentation of Donald Spatz's drama, "The Country Doctor." The program is a weekly presentation of W-G-N and the Mutual chain and is produced by Blair Walliser.

Miss Dunn and Mr. Farley are currently appearing in "Margin for Error," Claire Booth's mystery drama at the Grand Opera house.

"Country Doctor" concerns a young physician who refuses to administer an injection which would continue the life of a patient for at least another 24 hours, but under conditions of great suffering. The patient dies and the physician is accused of breaking the strongest unwritten laws of the profession—maintaining life at any cost.

Rôles Are Reversed.

Barred from the city's hospital, his practice taken away from him, he and his nurse take up life again in a small town. By an ironic twist of fate, he himself becomes involved in a similar situation, but with the rôles reversed. This time the physician is the patient who, if saved, would live the rest of his life in darkness, never able to again practice medicine.

Josephine Dunn, taking the feminine lead as Nurse Ann Gibson, is known to moving picture fans for her parts in such screen productions as "Excess Baggage" and "Murder at Dawn."

Played in England.

Morgan Farley, who portrays the doctor, has been a leading figure of the stage both here and in England. He played Cassius in "Julius Caesar" with the Mercury players last year. He also has been featured in "Candida," "Romeo and Juliet," and in "An American Tragedy."

The overture and musical background of the radio play will be provided by the W-G-N dance orchestra under the direction of Harold Stokes.

TOM, DICK, HARRY START MORNING SHOW TOMORROW

After a two year absence Tom, Dick, and Harry will again broadcast their songs and comedy on W-G-N. Starting tomorrow they will be heard Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays at 10 a. m.

The theme, "Rub-a-Dub-Dub, Three Men in a Tub," will introduce the boys in a program designed to help to break up and cheer up otherwise dull mornings. As it was two years ago—and for the same sponsor—Ed Allen will again announce the show. Bob Trendler will provide piano accompaniment.

WHAT DO YOU THINK?, NEW WOMAN'S QUIZ, STARTS TOMORROW

"What Do You Think?" a quiz program for every woman, makes its bow on W-G-N's program schedule tomorrow and will be heard each weekday in the future from 12:15 to 12:30 p. m. Alan Scott will conduct the program, which will be presented from the studios of W-G-N.

A group of women will attend the broadcast each day on the invitation of the sponsor, who will issue tickets to the program, and from the studio audience four will be selected to answer questions sent in by listeners. Listeners having questions accepted will receive $1 for each query. Women who are selected to answer right or wrong to the questions on the air will be paid $5 per program.

REBUILT HOME SHOWS RESULT OF SKILL IN PLANS

Even Attic Transformed to Useful Space.

BY LOUISE BARGELT.

Excellent planning has gone into the recently modernized home of Mr. and Mrs. Lew Shalett, 5144 South Cornell avenue. The result is that the home has been given that peculiar quality the French call l'esprit. The architect, Bertram Goldberg, 820 North Michigan avenue, has rebuilt the house for the greatest possible usefulness to all the family, and Mrs. Shalett has added personal touches to each room, according to its intended "purpose in life."

While the major and amazing portion of the transformation was centered on the interior, the brick exterior underwent some changes.

Originally the house had an old fashioned porch on each side of the front entrance pillars. These porches were ripped off and neat brick and flagstone terraces substituted. The front was landscaped, and a secluded garden area provided at the back of the house.

Has Amateur Stage.

Inside the home, skilful planning made possible a number of extra rooms. As it stands now the plan is spacious and open.. It contains not only a gloriously comfortable basement recreation room and refreshment counter, a maid's room and bath, a work room and laundry and heater room but a completely and uniquely finished attic suite.

In this suite, which is for the use of the girl and boy of the family, there is a real stage with dressing rooms, footlights, spotlights, and so on, for amateur theatricals of all kinds, at one end of the attic; and at the other end, two separate study corners with bookcases and work tables, typewriters and desks.

On the first and second floors, there are now three bathrooms and a powder room, where formerly there was only one bath; a study for Mrs. Shalett on the second floor, and a library on the first floor.

New Winding Stairway.

One of the principal structural changes was the installation of an entire new stairway, which winds from the first floor to the attic. This new stairway is wide and open, and light, where the original stairs were narrow and dark. Another change on the first floor which adds to the spacious effect is the fact that there are no doors between the main living room, study, and dining room.

Entrance is made into a large and inviting central hall, dominated by two massive pillars. These were kept, as well as the finely beamed ceilings, and are as striking and inviting as the great oval fireplace on the north living room wall.

The woodwork here has been painted white, the walls a quiet green, the carpeting is beige, and there are Venetian blinds and draw drapes at the windows. These drapes in the living room are figured with arresting red flowers—a note repeated in the papered walls of the powder room at the left of the entrance door.

Sliding Door Wardrobes.

At the right of the entrance is a deep built-in wardrobe with sliding doors. Mrs. Shalett has no closets and closet doors in her home. Thruout the house there are these vast, commodious wardrobes, with their doors which slide silently back and forth.

There are likewise no radiators visible. These were recessed in the walls—convectors, they are called now—and the change was made when new hot water gas fired boiler was installed.

From the west end of the living room you enter a quite captivating little circular, alcove study. It seems very far, indeed, from the "world around," with its high, small windows, its built-in bookcases of satiny cypress, and plaques on the wall from some old baronial castle, centuries back.

Italian Cabinet Work.

The cabinet work thruout the house was for the most part handmade by an Italian craftsman. In the light, beautiful dining room there are a buffet and dining table of dark mahogany, with the fine detail of a rare "antique," and dining chairs in ebony finish, with soft green and yellow striped upholstery. The walls are a quiet lemon yellow, and the draw drapes at the windows repeat, in their pattern, the "pillars" in the hall.

The large, handsomely remodeled kitchen is L-shaped, and ends in a most unusual breakfast corner.

At the top and back of the wainscot there is a deep iron container built in the wall. This holds soil and water for the plants and vines which are growing on two sides of the nook.

Upstairs Hall Gone.

Another most unusual feature of this kitchen are the sliding doors at the "floor to ceiling" cabinets.

No story, however short, is complete without mention of the excellence of the layout and treatment of the second floor bedrooms.

On this floor a central hall, "huge" as second floor halls once were, was eliminated, and space was salvaged for an additional room, this a charming study, with book lined walls, for Mrs. Shalett.

Besides this study, there are three bedrooms and three baths.

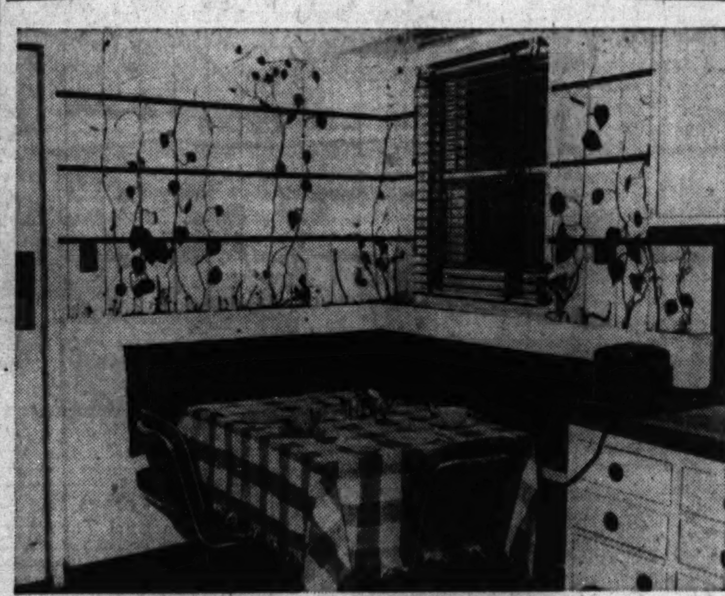
The boy's bedroom and bath are smartly tailored with a masculine air. The walls of the bedroom are covered with striped wall paper.

Bedroom in Blue.

The girl's bedroom is essentially feminine, with pale blue walls and blue satin backed beds. The bathroom has painted walls, hand decorated with "Pandora" boxes and gay butterflies.

The master bedroom has soft yellow walls and a deep blue carpeting, with an alcove for the beds which has its walls papered in yellow and gray paper.

Vines Around Kitchen Nook



A most unusual kitchen, a part of a beautiful piece of modernization work. Here we see a breakfast corner, with specially designed cabinet work and green vines climbing a trellis of horizontal red wood strips and vertical steel bars. Owners of the remodeled home are Mr. and Mrs. Lew Shalett, 5144 South Cornell avenue, Chicago. The architect is Bertrand Goldberg, 820 North Michigan avenue.

This Week in the Garden

Monday, May 13.

Cultivation of plants must not be neglected. There are many types of tools now available for special uses, such as narrow hoes to get in between closely planted material, but the careful gardener needs very few tools to carry on his work. A common hoe, a steel toothed rake, a spade, a lawn mower are about all that are needed. Tools always should be cleaned every time they are used.

Tuesday, May 14.

Do not be in a hurry to plant tender plants out of doors for a late frost may injure them. Wait until about Memorial day before removing house plants out of doors. Get the window boxes in condition for planting. Well planted boxes are an asset in any place. The person without an outdoor garden can enjoy window boxes and many delightful effects can be obtained from them. There are plants suitable for every situation unless it is too dark and even then changes can be made of the plant material. Grow the rosy morn petunia in the sun and the Boston fern, holly fern, asparagus fern, English ivy, and similar plants in the shade. Be sure the soil is rich. Sow annuals in the box, such as sweet alyssum and portulaca for fine bloom.

Wednesday, May 15.

This is a late season and garden work will come along in rapid succession. See that the plants are fertilized with a complete plant food to give them a good start. Shrubs in many gardens are neglected because they are hardy and able to withstand adverse conditions, but when the soil is cultivated around them, food supplied, and water given as needed, they respond with vigorous growth, luxuriant foliage, and high grade flowers. Do not overplant. Close planting can only result in few flowers and weak plants. This does not apply to carpet bedding, edging, and similar conditions where certain effects are desired.

Thursday, May 16.

It is an excellent practice to mulch newly planted shrubs and trees. A light mulch of cut grass, leaves, peat moss, or other material will keep the soil from drying out and keeps down weeds. The mulch should be left all summer. Mulch perennial borders as soon as the weather becomes hot. Roses and fruit trees are much benefited by a mulch. Flowering hedges such as the flowering quince, spiræas, deutzias, lilacs, and others should be trimmed after the flowering period.

Friday, May 17.

If the delphinium plants show signs of being affected with black, twisted, and deficient growth, dust with Bordeaux. Scatter some on the ground around each plant. Try spraying gladioli when the foliage is about 12 inches long with a mixture of two teaspoonsful of Paris green, two pounds of brown sugar, and three gallons of water. Spray once a week for the control of thrip. Keep spraying delphiniums, hollyhocks, and phlox with Bordeaux or dust with sulphur. Watch for oyster shell scale and spray with nicotine soap solution. The scale hatches at about this time and the young are easily controled.

Saturday, May 18.

Root lice or aphids on plants may be largely controled by using tobacco stems as a mulch. The stems can be purchased from supply houses by the bale. Tobacco dust worked into the soil also is effective. Spray fruit trees before the blossoms drop as a protection against the codling moth.

VILLAGE FOCAL POINT FOUND IN ADAMS' GARAGE

grown, but so has the church that came to go with it. Mrs. Adams organized that, too. Three months ago it was incorporated as the Columbus Manor Community Bible church, and last Sunday the members, 50 of them, met at 9530 South Merton avenue to lay the cornerstone of a real church home. The lot was donated by Mrs. C. A. Scrogan as a memorial to her husband.

Altho the church will be a fine building, the Sunday school children have been selling "bricks" to raise funds. Three church members have mortgaged their homes to finance the structure. So far, the Bible church has had student ministers. The Ladies aid is quilting to help the building fund.

Altho the Adams house has only four rooms downstairs and two attic rooms upstairs, it has accommodated guests occasionally. More than once, a destitute or needy family has moved in with the Adams, sleeping in the house and cooking in the all purpose garage!

SEWER PROJECT IS OPEN TODAY FOR INSPECTION

Open for inspection from 10 to 5 o'clock today is the Beverly-Calumet sewer project. The public may see the recently constructed outfall and gate chamber on the north bank of the Calumet-Sag channel at Laflin street, two blocks east of Ashland avenue.

Parts of the sewer are larger than a subway, according to the bureau of sewers. The Beverly-Calumet project will serve 13 square miles, bounded by 87th street, 131st street, Western-Leavitt on the west, and Wentworth-Halsted on the east. It is estimated that 55,000 persons live in that area. The 26 miles of sewers vary in size from 17 feet in horizontal diameter to 2 feet.

DISTRICT CLUBS TAKING PART IN STATE CONCLAVE

Enter Exhibits in Three Contest Divisions.

Mrs. E. W. Leggott. [Marshall Studio.]

First prize winners in the art, literature, and press contests of district 3, Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs, will be in state competition at the federation convention in Hotel Sherman beginning tomorrow. There will be a district 3 art and scrap book exhibit at the convention. Mrs. E. W. Leggott, who is finishing her second term as district 3 art chairman, will show 50 paintings from the Ridge Art association. Several of her own paintings will be included.

The federation convention will open with the Golden Jubilee luncheon tomorrow.

From Beverly Hills.

Representting the Beverly Hills club will be Mrs. F. O. McDermott, Mrs. R. H. Greene, Mrs. J. W. Hopkinson, and Mrs. C. T. Dunn, who will be among the hostesses at the luncheon. They will wear the same old-fashioned gowns which they donned for their 50th anniversary club meeting.

Among district 3 club members who will take part in convention activities is Mrs. Harold Simms of the Morgan Park organization. She is in charge of table decorations for tomorrow's jubilee luncheon.

Delegates from the West Lawn club, another third district group, are Mrs. George Herbold, president, and Mrs. William E. Wallace, newly elected second vice president. Alternates are Mrs. O. J. Bergman and Mrs. Edna Smith.

Representing the Englewood Woman's club will be Mrs. William Johnson, president, Mrs. John O. Kotal, and Mrs. Ernest VanDuser.

Other Club Delegates.

Mrs. W. A. Hanson, first vice president of the Chicago Lawn Woman's club, is a delegate to the state convention along with Mrs. A. C. Stevesson, newly elected president of Chicago Lawn and retiring publicity chairman of that club and of the 3d district. Alternates are Mrs. H. E. Reinsch and Mrs. H. T. Simpson. Mrs. Simpson will serve as convention registrar.

The convention program will include a lecture on Tuesday afternoon by Haldore Hanson, free lance writer and former foreign correspondent, on "Propaganda in the News." Press chairmen will meet for a round table on their problems on Wednesday afternoon at 3:45 o'clock. The convention meetings will continue thru Thursday.

SCHOOL DISTRICT BALLOT RESULTS ARE ANNOUNCED

Lists of new members of Cook county elementary and high school boards are being compiled from the returns of the April 13 election. Those chosen will serve for three years.

New members in the southwest area are: August Otto, president, district 116, Lemont; Ezra McClaughry, district 118, Palos Park; G. A. Braasch, clerk, district 119, Palos Park; John Jedlicka, district 120, Palos Park; Jacob Dyke, clerk, district 125, Blue Island; James Murray, 126, Worth; Perry F. Hoag, secretary, and William G. Schimmel, member, district 130, Blue Island; E. G. Fairbank, president, district 142, Tinley Park; Lee P. Smith, secretary, district 145, Oak Forest; Mrs. Iva Miller and Mrs. Ruth Delano, district 152, Harvey; Albert W. Schrum, district 157, South Holland; Harry T. Van Duco, clerk, district 171, Chicago Heights; Clarence Dockweiler, district 173, Chicago Heights; Carl Braun, district 174, Chicago Heights; Simon R. Engstrand and Clyde Hayes, district 194, Steger.

In high school district 218, Dr. Frank W. Tracy of Blue Island is the new president. Louis J. Biedenkopf, Worth, is a newly elected member.

Maid Marion

Jane Emerson of 6433 South May street will play the part of Maid Marion Thursday and Friday evening and Saturday afternoon when the seniors of the Academy of Our Lady present "Sherwood," the Robin Hood play by Alfred Noyes, in the school auditorium, 95th and Throop streets.

Chairman for Dinner Party

Members of Pi Iota Tau sorority will be hosts to mothers at a dinner party Tuesday evening at the Chez Paree. Chairman is Miss Mary Regan, 8727 South Sangamon street (above). Her assistants are Miss Marian Himmelwright, Miss Naydene Benson, and Miss Olivia Teeling.

$18,500 IS PAID TO DEPOSITORS OF CLOSED BANK

8,000 Gain Thru Citizens Trust Refund.

Only one southwest side closed state bank in the first group made a new repayment during the initial 1940 quarter, and no immediate additional returns for any banks in this group are forseen.

This was disclosed last week with the release by State Auditor Edward J. Barrett of statements showing the condition of some of the Cook county state bank receiverships on March 31. His reports are based on periodic information submitted to him by the bank receivers. Charles H. Abers is general receiver for all except two of the closed state banks in Cook county.

The only southwest bank, to pay out additionally in the quarter under examination was the Citizen Trust and Savings. It made a final return of about $18,500 to its 8,000 depositors, which represents about 1.7 per cent of the total debt to them. The bank has repaid 31.7 per cent since it suspended on Aug. 5, 1930.

Here are summarized new statements for the first group of southwest side banks, along with the best available estimates as to the future outlook for depositors:

Auburn Park Trust and Savings—Total receipts, $684,791. Paid on prior claims, $162,980. Paid depositors, $251,728, or 47½ per cent. Costs: Receivers, $6,172; legal, $22,240; clerical, $48,301; interest, $350; advanced to protect assets, $166,111, with $159,658 refunded. Cash, $26,904. Indications are that the payout may rise to about 55 per cent.

Bank of Harvey—Total receipts, $965,113. Paid on prior claims, $244,101. Paid depositors, $533,024, or 85 per cent. Costs: Receivers, $7,175; legal, $24,194; clerical, $55,490; interest, $4,217; advanced to protect assets, $78,733, with $76,308 refunded. Cash, $18,177. Another 5 to 10 per cent is foreseen.

Brainerd State—Total receipts, $203,665. Paid on prior claims, $52,110. Paid depositors, $82,306, or 38.5 per cent. Costs: Receivers, $4,233; legal, $8,791; clerical, $26,864; interest, $217; advanced to protect assets, $17,374, with $13,340 refunded. Cash, $8,269. The final distribution may add about 5 per cent to the total.

Brighton Park State—Total receipts, $567,857. Paid on prior claims, $236,215. Paid depositors, $140,691, or 40 per cent. Costs: Receivers, $5,433; legal, $29,581; clerical, $39,854; interest, $10,075; advanced to protect assets, $89,400, with $76,055 refunded. Cash, $16,604. About 10 per cent more may eventually be paid.

Bryn Mawr State—Total receipts, $442,709. Paid on prior claims, $131,856. Paid depositors, $158,788, or 32 per cent. Costs: Receivers, $6,247; legal, $19,278; clerical, $45,035; interest, $537; advanced to protect assets, $55,737, with $44,313 refunded. Cash, $25,227. It appears there may be from 3 to 5 per cent more ultimately.

Central Manufacturing District—Total receipts, $4,513,300. Paid on prior claims, $1,696,748. Paid depositors, $1,127,600, or 45 per cent. Costs: Receivers, $11,735; legal, $83,567; clerical, $214,176; interest, $11,302; advanced to protect assets, $911,967, with $778,227 refunded. Cash, $167,715. Estimates of the total payout remain at about 60 per cent.

Chicago Lawn State—Total receipts, $1,217,854. Paid on prior claims, $391,496. Paid depositors, nothing. Costs: Receivers, $15,157; legal, $54,706; clerical, $101,882; interest, $2,151; advanced to protect assets, $487,148, with $449,359 refunded. Cash, $157,011, none of it available for the debt to depositors, who can expect little.

Citizens Trust and Savings—Total receipts, $1,024,349. Paid on prior claims, $477,836. Paid depositors, $339,455, or 31.7 per cent. Costs: Receivers, $19,139; legal, $35,288; clerical, $95,862; interest, $1,554; advanced to protect assets, $55,213, with $51,247 refunded. Cash, none. There is nothing left for the depositors.

Commercial Bank of Chicago Heights—Total receipts, $721,787. Paid on prior claims, $162,430. Paid depositors, $363,073, or 80 per cent. Costs: Receivers, $8,397; legal, $17,975; clerical, $53,742; interest, $84; advanced to protect assets, $91,196, with $90,456 refunded. Cash, $24,887. The total may rise another 5 to 10 per cent.

Commonwealth Trust and Savings—Total receipts, $559,121. Paid on prior claims, $382,923. Paid depositors, $19,861, or 5 per cent. Costs: Receivers, $4,464; legal, $17,403; clerical, $46,567; interest, $29,089; advanced to protect assets, $30,605, with $25,964 refunded. Cash, $1,357. The percentage previously paid may eventually be duplicated.

Depositors State—Total receipts, $3,134,880. Paid on prior claims, $886,317. Paid depositors, $709,634, or 33.5 per cent. Costs: Receivers, $9,906; legal, $72,901; clerical, $134,543; interest, $38,116; advanced to protect assets, $906,047, with $771,828 refunded. Cash, $112,876. The payout may be increased another 5 to 10 per cent.

Similar figures for another group of southwestern banks will be available for publication here in an early issue.

De La Salle Mothers' Club Will Meet Next Thursday

The De La Salle Mothers' club will meet for the last social period of the year on Thursday, at 2 o'clock, at De La Salle, 3455 South Wabash avenue.

CALUMET PARK CLASSES TO GIVE 'VARIETY SHOWS

At least 100 persons are expected to participate in the "May Review" to be sponsored by the park district at the Calumet park fieldhouse, 98th street and the lake, tomorrow and Tuesday evenings. Both performances will begin at 8 o'clock.

The artcraft division under the guidance of Miss Georgia Chingren, the girls' physical education division led by Miss Hazel Anderson and the drama section presided over by Miss Grace Keleher will contribute part of the entertainment.

A maypole dance, a one act comedy entitled "Extra Papers," presented by the Lake Side Players; a fashion show, games and an exhibition of gymnastic activities of the girls' groups will be featured on the program.

MEET TO STUDY WAYS TO MAKE CHILDREN HAPPY

Social Workers Are to Confer Tuesday.

Games to play on sidewalks, in crowded backyard areas, and indoors will be demonstrated at the third annual summer program workers institute sponsored by the community council of the stockyards district on Tuesday at the House of Happiness, 3052 Gratten avenue. Registration will begin at 3:30 o'clock in the afternoon, and the discussions will continue until 10 o'clock in the evening. The council represents 40 agencies.

Miss Georgene Bowen, head resident of the Bethlehem Creche settlement, is chairman of the program committee. She explains that many children in the stockyards area will benefit directly from this conference thru the improved program the workers attending will be able to execute.

Assisting in Plans.

Assisting Miss Bowen with plans are J. T. Neufeld, Elsie Anderson, E. A. Stanley, and Wilbur Lawall. Miss Marguerite Sylla, head resident of the University of Chicago settlement, is president of the community council, which has served the district for 22 years.

After registration Tuesday, there will be group discussions on "How to Make Trips Meaningful," "One Day Camp," and "Nature Study." From 5:30 to 6:30, street and playground games will be demonstrated. After a picnic supper, workers will be shown exhibits and demonstrations of rhythm instruments, a first aid, paper craft, boat building, and playhouse building.

Take Up Summer Plans.

Last on the schedule is a panel discussion of the principles and objects of the summer program. Leaders will be Miss Nellie Wagar, chairman of the vacation schools of the Chicago Church federation; Miss Regina O'Connell, Catholic Youth organization, and Prof. Ross Snyder, University of Chicago.

Thru a special grant, 120 boys and girls who could not otherwise have a camping experience, will be taken to Camp Pottawattomie at Winamac, Ind., for a week beginning June 23.

Auburn Park Council K. C. Plans Benefit Card Party

Auburn Park council of the Knights of Columbus will sponsor a card party Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock in the Auburn temple, 7834 South Union avenue. Proceeds will finance a junior baseball team for boys of 13 to 17 years old and for the council's softball team. In charge are Tom Cole Jr. and Harry Cox.

HISTORICAL UNIT TO RECALL EARLY ENGLEWOOD DAYS

Meeting Observes Fiftieth Year of Annexation.

A campaign for funds and a contest for location had brought the Christopher Columbus Memorial exposition site to Jackson park. The elevated railroad trains—three or four cars pulled by small locomotives burning anthracite—were running all the way out to Normal boulevard. It was prophesied that the unsightly steel would ruin the 63d street business prospects.

That was Englewood 50 years ago—Englewood of the year 1890 when on April 14 the question of annexation was submitted to the Chicago council. The plan had been authorized and approved by the voters of both Englewood and Chicago almost a year before, June 29, 1889, so the annexation proceedings were formalities only.

Exhibits of Old Days.

In celebration of 50 years as part of the city of Chicago, the Englewood Historical association will meet in the Hiram Kelly branch library, 6151 Normal boulevard, at 8 o'clock Tuesday evening. There members will look over the exhibits of Englewood memorabilia arranged by Miss Minnie S. Clark, librarian.

There will be Miss Frances McChesney's carefully mounted pictures of the Lewis-Champlin school, pictures taken over a period of 49 years. Miss McChesney was the second grade teacher for many terms.

There is a picture of Samuel Goss and his wife and children sitting in their automobile, the first privately owned car in Englewood. Fire Marshal George Byrnes' horse, Garry Owen, gazes out of an old snapshot. And there's a tally-ho filled with 'way-back-when dandies bound for Washington park racetrack.

Claude L. Williams, principal of Wentworth school where a 50th anniversary observance took place last week, will speak to the historical association on "The History of Englewood and Its Schools."

Talk on Club Work.

Mrs. William F. Wigger, a past president of the Englewood Woman's club, will tell of the work of women's clubs in the district. Harry Himmel, chairman of the Southtown Planning association, will discuss the 1940 program.

"A Newcomer Studies Englewood's Problems," is to be the subject of the Rev. Donald Harrington's address. George Gordon, choir director of the Englewood Methodist church will lead community singing.

The Tuesday evening event is a sort of preview of a community-wide celebration which is tentatively planned for autumn. Willis E. Tower, president of the historical association, will enlist the coöperation of other community organizations for the golden anniversary plans.

The historical association itself is one of the newer groups in the area. It was formally organized in 1937 with Miss Clark, branch librarian at Kelly since 1917, and her assistant, Mrs. Viola Neeson, now branch librarian at Hamilton park, as leaders.

250 Active Members.

The Englewood group, now affiliated with the Chicago Historical society, has 250 active members and 625 on the mailing list.

A complete history of Englewood goes back to 1681 and LaSalle's account of his expedition from the mouth of the St. Joseph river in Michigan to the Illinois river. Therein the original residents of Englewood are mentioned. They are the Mascoutin Indians.

The Miami, Illinois, and Sauk Indians also had villages in the territory south and west of Checaugua, the Indian name for the French fort, Creveceur. Early in the 18th century, before the Indians had ceded their land rights in the territory to the United States government, the land about Chicago was taken up, according to information in "The Story of Englewood," by Gerald E. Sullivan. The land where Englewood is now located is believed to have been registered in the government land office in 1840 or 1842 by a man named Wilcox.

Railroad Changes Name.

Until 1868, the area was known as Chicago Junction. It became officially Englewood on General Order 14 of the Michigan Southern & Northern Indiana railway. The order read, "The name of the station at Chicago Junction has been changed to Englewood." The order was signed by Charles R. Hatch, general superintendent.

Crowned Today

Verna Jablonski of 4916 South Karlov avenue will be crowned queen of the May in a ceremony at 2:30 o'clock today in Lourdes High school, 56th street and Komensky avenue. Her attendants will be girls chosen from each division of the school.

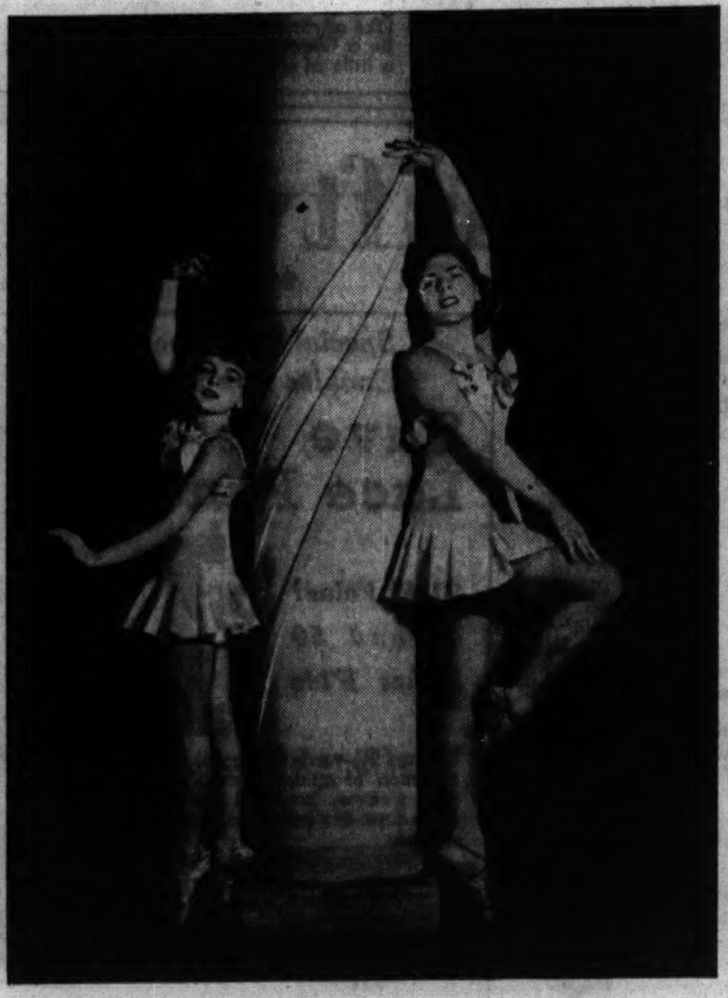
Will Dance for Veterans



Margaret and Helen Werr, the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Werr, 10334 South Hamilton street, will dance at Hines hospital in a show for the patients on Wednesday. The girls are the nieces of Judge Cecil Corbett Smith of the Municipal court. [Theatrical Photo.]

OUTING FOR GIRLS TO OPEN SEASON AT CAMP CUTTEN

Englewood 'Y' Tells Summer Schedule.

An outing for 100 members of the Illinois League of High School Girls Athletic Associations starting June 9 will open the 1940 season of Camp Cutten, the Englewood Y. M. C. A. camp on Hastings lake near Lake Villa. This was announced last week by Nelson C. Brewer, chairman of the camp committee.

From June 16 to 23 there will be 110 school patrol boys at Cutten. Other periods for boys are: Englewood Kiwanis group, June 25 to July 6; Englewood area, July 6 to 19, and July 19 to Aug. 1, Englewood-Southtown area.

Four Weeks for Girls.

Four weeks are set aside for girls. The outings will be from Aug. 1 to 14 and from Aug. 14 to 27, according to the schedule. To date 425 reservations have been made for boys and girls. Reservations are taken at the Englewood "Y."

In the learn-to-swim campaign sponsored by the Englewood Kiwanis club and the Y. M. C. A. recently 174 boys and girls of the 540 enrolled could swim 25 feet or more after the instruction. Many others learned to swim from 10 to 24 feet.

Winning Writer

[Carlos Photo.]

Winner of the short story prize in the annual creative writing contest sponsored by the English department of Mundelein college is Miss Annette Specht, 10301 South Leavitt street, a senior at the college. She will receive her award on June 3 at commencement. Her winning story was published in the College Review, of which she was editor. The publication won all-American honors in a recent nation-wide survey.

SOUTHWEST SIDE TO HAVE THREE SAFETY RALLIES

Three traffic safety programs arranged by the Keep Chicago Safe committee are scheduled for the southwest side this week. Parents are invited to join Boy Scouts for a safety rally Wednesday evening at troop 363 headquarters in the Millard Congregational church, 2301 South Central Park avenue. George Fleming, general chairman of Mayor Kelly's Keep Chicago Safe committee, will lecture.

Three traffic sound films, "The Chance to Lose," "Bicycling With Complete Safety," and "Man at the Wheel," will be shown.

Thursday afternoon, Mr. Fleming will talk to 500 pupils of the Mason elementary school, 1830 South Keeler avenue. This program will be conducted by Miss Virginia M. Gill. Two safety films will be shown.

Mr. Fleming's third safety talk on the southwest side is set for Friday morning at Lindblom high school, 6120 South Hamlin avenue. There he will speak to 620 students and augment his lecture on the observance of traffic rules for cyclists with two sound films. Walton A. Smith is in charge of this meeting.

PLAN 137 SUPERVISED PLAY SPOTS

CADETS OF NINE UNITS SHINE UP FOR INSPECTION

Honor Rating Hangs on Performance.

The second week of federal inspection of Chicago's high school R. O. T. C. units begins tomorrow.

Besides seven city public high schools, this week will see the inspection of the St. Mel Parochial High school unit and that of Waukegan Township High school. The schedule is as follows [in the event of rain the inspection will be held in the school gymnasium]:

Monday—Fenger, 9 a. m., school campus, 11220 South Wallace street; Morgan Park, 1:15 p. m., Morgan Park Military academy campus, 2200 West 111th street.

Two on Tuesday.

Tuesday—Englewood, 9 a. m., Hamilton park, 72d street and Normal avenue; Kelly, 1:15 p. m., school campus, 4136 South California avenue.

Wednesday—Foreman, 9 a. m., school campus, 5100 Belmont avenue; Steinmetz, 1:15 p. m., Riis park, 6100 Fullerton avenue.

Thursday—Waukegan, school campus, Waukegan, Ill.

Friday—St. Mel, 9 a. m., Garfield park, Washington boulevard and Hamlin street; Tilden, 1:15 p. m., International amphitheater, 42d and Halsted streets.

At each school from 15 to 30 cadets, depending on the size of the R. O. T. C. unit, receive medals. Awards are given by the R. O. T. C. headquarters for efficiency, neatness, success in recruiting, and rifle marksmanship. One medal for each 50 cadets is awarded by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE—gold for upperclassmen and silver for freshmen. Other medals are awarded by the American Legion, the Reserve Officers' association, the Veterans of Foreign Wars, the United Spanish War Veterans auxiliary, and the Daughters of the American Revolution.

These medals are presented in the Chicago public schools at the time of inspection. At St. Mel and Waukegan presentation will not be made until later in the year.

South side cadets who will receive medals this week are as follows:

Fenger.

Lieut. Col. Gregor Larsen, officer's efficiency medal; Staff Sergeant Charles Anderson, noncommissioned officer's efficiency medal; Corporal Emil Nigro, band efficiency medal; Cadets Clayton Pederson, Robert Heisler, and Robert Burnham, neatness medals. Tribune medals have been earned by Corporals George Douglas, Edward Sjoholm, Ralph Skogh, and Cadets Harold Frantzen, Lawrence Erickson, Robert Swynenburg, and Alfred Pizzato.

To Capt. James Golio will go the Reserve Officers Association medal; Sergt. Roy Gustafson, United Spanish War Veterans Auxiliary medal; Sergeants David Johnson and Joseph Turturillo, D. A. R. medals; Staff Sergeant Edward Szekely, American Legion Auxiliary medal; Corporal Edward Nelson, Roseland Legion Post medal; and Capt. Gino Nicoli, Veterans of Foreign Wars medal.

Englewood.

Capt. Elyseo J. Taylor, officer's efficiency medal; Corporal Alvin J. Johnson, noncommissioned officer's efficiency medal; Staff Sergeant Audley Connors, band efficiency medal; Corporal Victor Gilliam, rifle marksmanship medal; Corporal Richard B. Porter, recruiting medal; Cadets Philip Youngstrum and Charles F. Silzer, neatness medals. Tribune medals will go to Sergt. Julian Wilkins, Corporal Archie L. Tyler, and Cadets Fred C. Webster, Leon Wilburn Jr., and Edward B. Stackhouse.

Sergt. Richard K. Eubanks, United Spanish War Veterans Auxiliary medal; Corporal Donald L. Davies, Reserve Officers Association medal; Cadet Donald Leahy, Veterans of Foreign Wars medal; Cadet Albert Pratscher, Legion Auxiliary medal; Sergeants George Demos, Thomas Harris, Cadets Sam Yalanzon and James H. Houke, Square Legion Post medals. J. C. Thompson, school principal, will give posture medals to Corporals Walter T. Truman and Edward W. Lewis and Cadet Wayne Peterson.

Tilden.

Lieut. Col. Eugene E. Stark, officer's efficiency medal; Master Sergeant Chester O. Nelson, noncommissioned officer's efficiency medal; Capt. Robert W. Farison, band efficiency medal; First Lieutenant Walter Landini, recruiting medal; Cadet Edward Michals, rifle marksmanship medal; Cadets William Saunders, Jeffery Barnes, James Millet, and Alvin Schreiber, neatness medals. The following will receive Tribune medals: Sergeants Ejner Fulsang, Edward Campbell, and Carl Labus, Corporals George Thompson, Ralph Summerhill, Joseph Ganns, and Walter Smolka, and Cadets Robert Thompson and Robert Chilenkas.

Other recipients are: Second Lieutenant Harry G. Smith, Reserve Officers Association medal; Sergt. Nicholas Fuhs, United Spanish War Veterans Auxiliary medal; Corporal Harold Wierzbanowski, Veterans of Foreign Wars medal; Second Lieutenant Jack Schmidt, Legion Auxiliary medal; Maj. Arthur Olson, James J. Zientek Legion post medal. Stock Yards Legion post will give medals to Majors Russell Pearson and Robert Edwards, Corporal James Hickey, and Cadet Willard Meiner, and a plaque to the outstanding company.

Circus Time for Junior School

All dressed up in tulle and a tiara and with his front teeth missing is Russell Bruce, "ballerina" in the Morgan Park Military academy junior school circus, which will take place in the school gymnasium at 8 o'clock Thursday evening. Russell is balancing on the back of Walter Bittner, the circus clown, and the ringmaster in the boots and high hat is Stanford Gibrich. All of the boys in the circus are under 10 years old.

SEEK TO LESSEN TRAFFIC DELAYS AT RYAN WOODS

Motor Council Advises Change in Lights.

An appeal to county police authorities for a solution to the traffic problems on 87th street between Western and Damen avenues was made last week by the South area council of the Chicago Motor club. The action resulted from reports on the problem at the regular meeting of the council recently at the Chicago Beach hotel.

Representatives of civic groups said that traffic is blocked in both directions particularly on Sunday afternoons. The difficulty is attributed to two causes: [1] cars parked on 87th street near the Dan Ryan woods section of the forest preserves, and [2] the timing of the stop-lights on Western avenue. The signals, it is asserted, have a much longer green light for north-south traffic than for the 87th street cars, altho on Sundays the volume on both streets is about the same.

Cite Need for Signals.

Discussion of traffic control at seven other intersections involved requests for signal lights. The one urged most by its sponsors is at Ashland avenue and 50th street where two persons were killed in 1939 and 19 were injured. Four collisions have occurred there so far this year. Children from St. Augustine's Catholic school and St. Martin's Lutheran school use the crossing.

The city traffic engineers announced the following progress on other signal light installations by the council: Installation at 81st street and Vincennes avenue is before the state highway department for approval; construction is under way for the 95th street and Jeffery avenue lights; and work is completed on signals at 63d street and the inner drive.

It was announced that petitions are being circulated among store owners and residents for elimination of parking on the east side of East End avenue between 79th street and South Chicago avenue. This recommendation is made by the council to facilitate traffic and provide a clear street for the use of fire department apparatus.

Plan Boulevard Repairs.

Ald. William A. Rowan [10th] reported to the council that some money had been appropriated for repairs on Indianapolis boulevard from 100th to 106th streets and that Avenue L would be paved from 100th to 106th streets.

The council also is requesting city traffic engineers to erect school warning signs on both sides of 85th street on Damen avenue. This street soon will be opened under the Wabash railroad and children of the Foster Park grammar school must cross at this corner.

Present at the meeting were: Roy F. Healy, Ridge Civic council; Frank X. Rydzewski, Russell Square Improvement association; Clarence J. Bohling, Edward J. Bohling, and Hugh McCluskey, East Side Chamber of Commerce; J. E. Bulger, Chicago Motor club; Wm. J. Butcher, Highland District Business association; Roland B. Dean, Stony Island Park Civic association; Wm. H. Doyle, Grand Crossing Property Owners' association; Frank Dubish, Hegewisch Chamber of Commerce; William Gibson and Frank M. Stanley, South Chicago Chamber of Commerce; George R. Hedges, South Chicago post, American Legion; Fred Henderson, Southtown Planning association; James B. Leibforth, North Beverly Improvement association; Mrs. C. C. Lively, South Side federation; Glenn E. Miller, Des Plaines Valley Improvement association, Lockport; Herman Ordas, Morgan Park Improvement association; Thomas Owens, Calumet Gateway-Avalon Park Civic council; Sid Sachs, Woodlawn Business Men's association; J. G. Strader, 55th Street Business Men's association; Frances Yore, Town of Lake Chamber of Commerce; H. W. Lee, Elaine Miner, W. G. Newbould, Edward Ringl, and Horace F. Wulf.

SOUTH SIDERS HELP TO RAISE $30,000 AS JEWISH HOSPITAL AID

A. Morris Krensky.
[Bloom Photo.]

A number of south siders have been named to assist in connection with the spring drive for $30,000 begun recently by the Chicago Committee of the National Jewish Hospital at Denver. The hospital is the oldest nonsectarian philanthropy devoted to the free care of America's tuberculous poor. It includes such developments as a department of vocational therapy and rehabilitation and a research laboratory.

South siders assisting A. Morris Krensky, chairman of the committee, are Rabbi Morton M. Berman, Aleck L. Bernstein, Isadore Brown, Albert Ellbogen, Leon Goodman, Joseph F. Grossman, Michael Hammer, Edith Harris, Ralph Helperin, Abe Kline, Max Kroloff, Benjamin Leven, Charles Louer, Dr. Louis L. Mann, Samuel Nerlove, Philip Sachs, S. D. Schwartz, Albert Steindler, and Mrs. Meyer L. Straus.

South side sponsors of the hospital include Edith Abbot, Sophronisba P. Breckinridge, Dr. Joseph Bolivar De Lee, the Rev. Charles Whitney Gilkey, Louis Gottschalk, William Ogburn, and Dr. Maud Slye. South side medical associates of the hospital are Dr. Jerome G. Finder, Dr. Noah Levin, and Dr. I. I. Ritter.

Aid Society Party.

Installation of officers for the Institutional Aid society will take place at a luncheon and card party on Tuesday beginning at 12:30 o'clock in the East End Park hotel. Mrs. Nettie Kallis is the new president and Mrs. Sophia Schamberg is vice president.

POLISH CHORAL GROUPS SING IN WHITING TONIGHT

Six Choirs to Join with St. Adalbert's.

Six south area guest choirs will assist St. Adalbert choir, Polish-American singing society, in celebrating its 15th anniversary this evening with a concert and ball in the St. Adalbert parish auditorium, Whiting. Guest choirs will be Paderewski of East Chicago, Dembinski of South Chicago, Zygmunt Balicki of South Bend, Chopin of Gary, Helen Paderewski of Indiana Harbor, and Lira of Kensington.

The Whiting choir will be directed by Prof. Paul Szawica for the second consecutive season. Selections will include "Zuave March" by Vincent Baluta; "Tales from Vienna Woods" by Johann Strauss; and "Polish Folk Song Medley" by Vincent Baluta. Special guest will be Walter Panka, national president of the Polish Singers' Alliance of America, of which the Whiting choir has been a member for several years. Stephen Wroblewski district president, and other district officers also will be present.

Organized in 1924.

A ball will be held after the concert. The Whiting choir was organized in 1924 but was not made a formal society until 1925, with the assistance of the Rev. Joseph Zielinski, then pastor of St. Adalbert's church and now in South Bend. A short time later it became affiliated with the Polish Singers' Alliance.

Anthony A. Guzek, who was president of the choir for seven consecutive years before retiring in 1934, is an honorary life member. Current officers are Al Dobrowolski, president; Martha Walczak, vice president; Jean Bazarko, recording secretary; Florence Bunchek, financial secretary; Joseph Olejarcz, treasurer; Raymond Bunchek, librarian; Helen Banaszak, assistant librarian; Edward Banaszak, sergeant-at-arms; Joseph Rokosz, assistant sergeant-at-arms; and Walter Olszewski, Helen Gradek, and Ann Murzyn, trustees.

Members of Committee.

Arrangements for the concert and ball are being made by a committee headed by Joseph Wawrzyniak, past president. Others on the committee are Florence Bunchek, Martha Walczak, John Kulik, and Joseph Kujawa.

St. Felicitas Mothers' Club Elects Officers Tuesday

Next Tuesday at 1:30 p. m. the St. Felicitas Mothers' club will hold its monthly meeting in the social rooms, 84th street and Blackstone avenue. Following the business meeting an interesting picture, "Trees to Tribune," with sound effects, will be shown. Refreshments will be served by the mothers of children in the first and second grades. Election of officers also will take place. Mrs. Frank A. Nessinger is president of the club.

RAIL SCHEDULES FOR LILAC DAY SENT TO CLUBS

50 Trains Will Bring Blooms to City.

The 12th annual "Share Your Lilacs" campaign conducted by the Chicago Plant, Flower, and Fruit guild and THE TRIBUNE was given new impetus last week when guild and suburban railroad officials worked out train schedules for bringing the lilacs into the city. The flowers will be taken to hospitals and other institutions that care for the sick and shutins.

A fleet of more than 50 trains on six railroads has been assigned to transport the lilacs free from the suburbs to stations in Chicago where they will be picked up by TRIBUNE trucks and taken to the hospitals. The cooperating railroads are the North Western, Illinois Central, Rock Island, Aurora and Elgin, North Shore Line, and the Burlington.

Schedules Sent Out.

The completed train schedules have been sent to guild chairmen of 85 garden clubs for use in completing their plans for lilac day. The Milwaukee, Pennsylvania, and South Shore lines also may furnish lilac trains if it develops later that more cars are needed.

Detailed instructions for cutting and shipping the blooms so they will be fresh when they reach the hospitals are being prepared by flower guild officials and the Allied Florists Association of Illinois. The instructions are to be sent to more than 2,000 garden club members before lilac day.

Cool Weather Brings Delay.

Continued cool weather has further delayed opening of the fragile blossoms and no date has been set for their distribution. Altho buds started opening on many of the bushes in the south and west suburbs more than a week ago, there still is little indication as to when they will be ready to cut. Gardeners all over Chicagoland have reported prospects for a heavy crop of blooms.

Mrs. Stanley D. Grace of Highland Park, chairman of the guild's general committee, says her organization again will provide means for all who have lilacs to share them with the sick. Guild committees of garden clubs in the various suburban communities will arrange for loading the bouquets on trains.

The list of garden club presidents and guild committee chairmen was revised recently. Here are the names and addresses of the new club presidents and guild chairmen in this area:

Thimbles and Thumbs Garden club—Mrs. Robert C. Munnecke, 9064 South Pleasant avenue, guild chairman.

Garden Club of Morgan Park—Mrs. John Akenhead, 11536 Bell avenue, guild chairman.

Morgan Park Woman's club—Mrs. Clyde Stow, 2556 West 116th place, president; Mrs. Robert E. Black, 2258 West 107th place, guild chairman.

Hold Luncheon Today.

Nu Beta Nu sorority will hold the annual mother-daughter luncheon today at 3 o'clock in the Normandy house, 800 North Tower court.

OUR TOWN

Paragraphs About Some Folks You Know.

CHESTER L. PRICE of 7735 Colfax avenue was reëlected treasurer of the Chicago Federated Advertising club at the club's annual meeting recently. Mr. Price is well acquainted with his position, since he has held it ever since the club was organized in 1934. Another Our Towner, Gordon P. St. Clair, 5116 Blackstone avenue, was elected first vice president of the organization, which is the only city-wide club in Chicago covering all branches of advertising. From 75 charter members it has grown to include 626 current members and 15 affiliated clubs. Its purposes are to guard the ethics of advertising, to develop talent, and to promote Chicago as an advertising center.

ONE of the sturdiest Scots in this county is Mrs. Katherine McDonald of 1516 East Marquette road, who celebrated her 91st birthday recently. Still keen of eye and bright of smile, she has lived to see four succeeding generations of her family, since she has seven grandchildren, three great-grandchildren, and two great-great-grandchildren. Mrs. McDonald confidently expects to reach the century mark. The only thing she knows that is older than herself is an easy chair which, she says, is more than 100 years old. She brought it from her home in Hamilton, Scotland, when she came to America 66 years ago. She has resided in Chicago for 62 years. Mrs. McDonald has four daughters, Mrs. Jane Hawkins and Mrs. Alice Ward, who reside with her; Mrs. Joan Wheeler, 446 Oakdale avenue, and Mrs. Catherine Walker of Villa Park, and one son, James, who resides with her.

A south sider who will feel partly responsible for providing so much outdoor enjoyment for poor Chicago boys at the C. Y. O. summer boys' camp in Palos hills this summer is Mrs. Helen Billings, 6838 South Prairie avenue. Mrs. Billings sponsored many of the parties held this winter to raise funds for the camp, which charges no fees. Boys who attend are selected by pastors in the Chicago archdiocese. Each summer about 500 needy youths from the city are given a two weeks' stay at the camp.

One of the few successful candidates for the certificate of certified public accountant in the recent examinations conducted by the state board of examiners is Aaron A. Ross of 6550 University avenue. Aaron is a senior at the Northwestern university school of commerce and will receive his degree in June.

The annual reunion of the South Shore Y. M. C. A. campers and their dads will be held at the South Shore Presbyterian church on Tuesday evening. Dinner is to be served by the women's circle of the church. The boys will discuss camp life with their old friends, cooks, directors, and camp leaders. This year boys of the South Shore Y. M. C. A. will go to camp at Camp Kilbourne, Bloomingdale, Mich., during August.

ROBERT C. McNULTY, son of Dr. and Mrs. C. J. McNulty of 2219 East 70th place, took third place in the national Catholic oratorical contest recently at the University of Notre Dame, thus adding a placque to the collection of trophies he has won during the last few years. A junior at Mount Carmel High school, Robert was one of three Chicago boys to advance to the finals of the tournament and the only one to receive an award. His address was entitled "Thank God We're Americans." At Mount Carmel he is known for his excellent work in the dramatic society.

DR. OSCAR A. BENSON, pastor of the Salem Lutheran church, 74th street and Calumet avenue, was elected president of the Illinois conference of the Augustana synod during the recent annual meeting in Detroit, Mich. At a reception for him Wednesday evening the Rev. Edward P. Nelson, pastor of Siloam Evangelical Lutheran church in Blue Island and president of the Southern Chicago district of Lutheran churches, will be guest speaker, and all pastors of this district have been invited to attend.

Dr. Benson has held the pastorate of the Salem church for the last eight years, and previously had served in churches in Pennsylvania and New Jersey. His wife, Mrs. Effie Benson, was elected vice president of the Women's Missionary society of the Illinois conference when that body met in Galesburg, Ill.

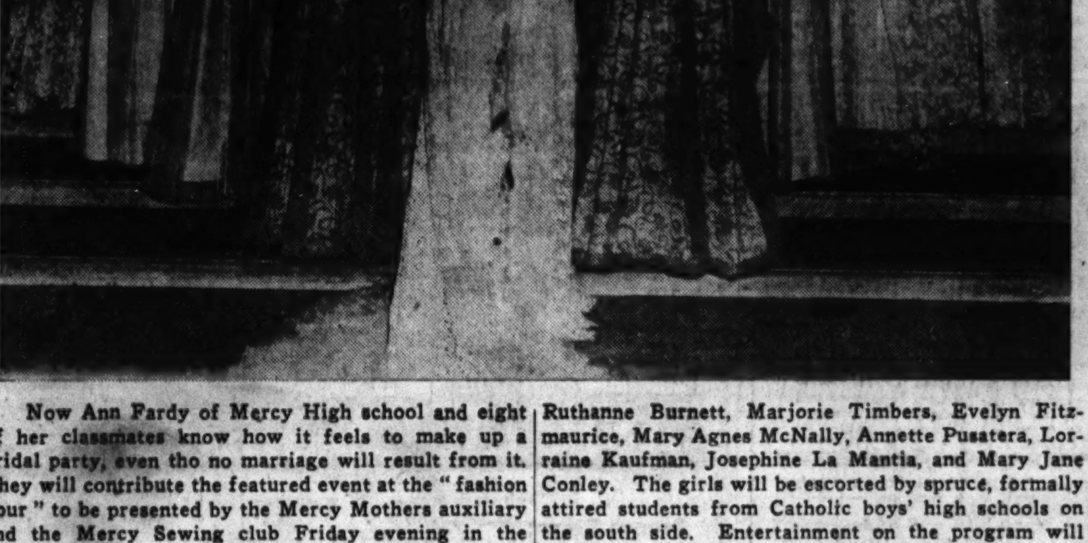
OUR TOWN'S favorite character this week is Rufe Pickett of Blue Island. Rufe, who has been brakeman on the Rock Island railroad suburban lines for 20 years, has earned himself a reputation as a genuine "homespun philosopher" with a flair for telling whimsical anecdotes in a North Carolina dialect. He likes to tell stories and speculate so much that he contributes "Rufe Pickett's Weekly Letter" to the Moore County News of Carthage, N. C. and weekly columns to the Elkhart [Ind.] Truth and the Blue Island Sun Standard as a hobby. Enthusiastic friends liken his prose style to that of Artemus Ward, Josh Billings, George Ade, and [occasionally] Mark Twain.

He is known as North Carolina's Good Will Ambassador No. 1 and has been given lifetime passes to the state's biggest theaters. A born "joiner," he is a life member of the Elks, Shriners, Odd Fellows, Masonic Scottish Rite, Knights Templar, and the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen. Two of his favorite listeners are his wife and 7 year old daughter, Sally Jean.

Federation forum at Mercy High school, 8101 Indiana avenue, will hear a talk by John A. Zvetina, professor of constitutional history at Loyola university, on "The Balkans," tomorrow evening at 8:30 o'clock. Vincent L. Knaus is chairman of the forum committee.

To help their husbands remodel and refurnish their clubhouse, women members of the Jackson Park Yacht club will give a benefit bridge luncheon tomorrow at the Columbia Yacht club, Randolph street and the lake. Mrs. Thomas J. Naninga, 6946 Paxton avenue, is chairman of the committee in charge of the event.

Looks Like a Real Bridal Party



Now Ann Fardy of Mercy High school and eight of her classmates know how it feels to make up a bridal party, even tho no marriage will result from it. They will contribute the featured event at the "fashion hour" to be presented by the Mercy Mothers auxiliary and the Mercy Sewing club Friday evening in the school auditorium, 8101 Indiana avenue. Ann, as bride, will play the leading role, assisted by (left to right) Ruthanne Burnett, Marjorie Timbers, Evelyn Fitzmaurice, Mary Agnes McNally, Annette Pusatera, Lorraine Kaufman, Josephine La Mantia, and Mary Jane Conley. The girls will be escorted by spruce, formally attired students from Catholic boys' high schools on the south side. Entertainment on the program will be supplied by the orchestra, glee club, dramatic club, and music department of Mercy High school.

KEEP CHILDREN OFF STREETS IS BASIS OF IDEA

Many Groups Lend Aid to Work.

South side children will have 137 supervised spots for recreation this summer in addition to community playgrounds. The play spaces are empty lots which will be put into shape under the direction of neighborhood recreational, civic, service, and business organizations for the use of younger children who might otherwise be forced to play in the streets.

The program will be more valuable this year because playground equipment will be furnished for many of the "off-the-street" playgrounds, Peter J. Peel, chairman of the extension play space committee of the Chicago Recreation commission, announced last week.

The commission serves as the coordinating agency for the neighborhood recreation committees, the workshops of the National Youth Administration and the recreational leadership project of the WPA, in making possible planned play areas.

Equipment for Lots.

Equipment to be installed in many of the lots includes softball backstops, basketball backboards, see-saws, swings, slides, sandboxes, horizontal bar, and horseshoe courts.

According to Edward L. Burchard, 7550 South Crandon avenue, executive secretary of the recreation commission, the development of more than 600 playlots thruout the city to supplement playgrounds is an indication of the way recreational commissions, civic, service, and business organizations, public spirited citizens, and governmental agencies are working together for the betterment of the community.

One of the south side's most ambitious programs is being undertaken by the Jubilee temple, 114 East 59th street, and the 5th Ward Recreation club, 5936 South Michigan avenue, for their 40,000 square foot playlot at the northeast corner of 59th street and Michigan avenue. These sponsors are supplying the NYA workshop with the material to build two horseshoe courts, two see-saws, two sandboxes, and a horizontal bar.

Softball Is Planned.

Softball backstops are to be erected on the Woodlawn Boys' club and St. Cyril's church playlot at 64th street and Dante avenue, the Cornell Charity club's lot at 5335 South Wabash avenue, for which Mrs. Elvie S. Porter, 4823 Calumet avenue, is also a sponsor, and the lot at 115th street and Union avenue, sponsored by the Brennan P.-T. A.

The 120,000 square foot playlot between 7415 and 7421 Vincennes avenue and 7414 and 7422 Wentworth avenue, sponsored by W. J. Petrick, 7414 Wentworth avenue, will undergo a complete repair job on softball backstops, basketball backboards, seesaw, swings, and slides. Equipment will be painted also.

Further development is scheduled for the lot at 77th street and Maryland avenue, sponsored by Sam Fishleder, 7525 Cottage Grove avenue, and the playlot at 74th street and Evans avenue, sponsored by Ald. Roy E. Olin [8th], and C. O. Olander, 7411 Cottage Grove avenue.

Location of south side playlots and sponsors who have been listed up to the present are as follows:

SOUTH CENTRAL DISTRICT.

THERE'S MONEY IN GOOD LAWNS.

Property owners who complain about the depreciation of their neighborhoods' rental value should pay a little attention to what the park district is trying to do with its "save the lawn" campaign each year. Here is something really worth while from a practical as well as a beautifying angle. Clean alleys, swept sidewalks, neatly trimmed hedges, and cultivated grass have a tremendous pulling power to the average Chicagoan, and often may prove strong factors in attracting renters to certain neighborhoods.

There are many neighborhoods on the south side, I am sure, that could profit from ambitious attempts to renovate the small grounds about their property.

Pride of city, of neighborhood and of ownership should compel any one to enlist in this clean-up drive whole heartedly, and I am happy to notice that the cleanest and prettiest sections of the city seem to be attracting most of the renters.

L. E. J.

IT'S THOSE I. C. TRACKS AGAIN.

A short time ago everybody out here on the south shore got steamed up about depressing the Illinois Central railroad tracks. There were petitions, mass meetings, speeches and whatnot, and for a while I thought maybe something would actually be accomplished. But what happens? There is less and less talk, as tho it were being hushed up, and by now most people I know have forgotten about the idea.

Meantime we're still being periled by those fast trains at street level. C. K.

WALLER YOUTHS TO BE GUESTS AT CITIZENS' RALLY

Supt. Puffer Will Speak on W-G-N Program.

Noble J. Puffer.

Noble J. Puffer, Cook county superintendent of schools, will speak briefly on the seventh "Citizens of Tomorrow" half hour radio program, sponsored by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, to be heard on W-G-N from 7 to 7:30 o'clock Wednesday night. The entertainment will feature Waller High school and 600 of its students with their principal, Maurice C. Lipman, will be present in the W-G-N audience studio. The Waller mixed chorus, directed by Mildred Tess, will sing two numbers, the Waller school song and the Cossack Lullaby.

This show will be the 7th in a series of 11 program which are dedicated to the youth of America. With Supt. Puffer will be more than a score of county school superintendents and high school principals.

Girls to Attend.

Additional guests will be 28 high school girls who have been designated for their outstanding work in the Citizen Pilgrims program of the Daughters of the American Revolution chapters in and near Chicago.

Three pretty Waller girls will lead the cheering section. They are Shirley Aussen, Pat Gladkey and Clare Meyer. Under the direction of the school's R. O. T. C. the national and school colors will be posted just before going on the air.

Philip Maxwell, a member of THE TRIBUNE staff, will be the "principal" and master of ceremonies on the show, which will include "Charlie Jones," every high school's principal, and wise cracking "Jerry," who in real life is Miss Dorothy Gregory, a 16 year old senior at Maine Township High school.

Alumni to Listen.

Thousands of Waller alumni will be listening in. This group will include William Chandler, athetic director at Marquette university, Milwaukee, Wis.; Oscar G. Mayer, president of the Chicago Association of Commerce; Fred H. Heidbring, professor of English at Northwestern university; Herbert E. Hyde, noted organist and composer of Chicago, and Mrs. William B. Walrath, founder of The Cradle, in Evanston.

Chicago's only public girls' high school, Flower Technical, will be featured on the broadcast of Wednesday, May 15. The last of this series of "Citizens of Tomorrow" will be held on June 12.

NEGRO EXHIBIT TO HAVE SONG, POETRY CONTEST

Truman K. Gibson Jr., executive director of the American Negro exposition to be held in the Coliseum this summer, has announced that a song writing contest and a poetry contest will be held in conjunction with the exposition. The purpose is to find an official song for the event and to obtain poems celebrating Negro progress to be exhibited in the literary section.

Negro writers thruout the nation, as individuals or teams, are eligible to enter as many original songs or poems as they wish. The entries must be based on the exposition's theme, which is the glorification of the Negro's progress and status today after 75 years of emancipation. All entries become the property of the exposition unless accompanied by stamped, self-addressed envelopes for return.

Cash awards of $50 and $25 will be given to first and second place winners in each contest.

TABOR LUTHERAN CHURCH TO NOTE 40TH BIRTHDAY

Ceremonies Are to Last Thru the Week.

This will be a week of celebration for the Tabor Lutheran church, 80th street and Escanaba avenue, which is to observe its 40th anniversary. Beginning with the regular service at 10:45 o'clock this morning, festivities will include a reunion, a banquet, a choral program, a service and a pageant.

The Rev. Frank R. Carlson, pastor for the last 14 years, will deliver the sermon this morning. At 4 o'clock this afternoon the reunion will be held with the Rev. John A. S. Landen, former pastor now stationed at Ludington, Mich., in the pulpit.

Banquet on Thursday.

The anniversary banquet will be held on Thursday evening in the South Side Swedish club. Two hundred and fifty persons are expected to be present at the banquet, including many community leaders.

The 50-voice senior choir, the junior choir and the men's glee club will combine to present a spring festival Friday evening in the church. Irving Thunander directs the choral groups.

After the morning service next Sunday, sponsored by the Sunday school, a celebration service will be held. Dr. C. O. Benson, newly elected president of the Illinois conference of the Augustana synod, will deliver the address. Feature of the program will be a historical pageant describing the church's 40 years of service.

Church Built in 1903.

The congregation has grown from 50 members to 530 in 40 years. The present structure, which replaced the original frame building, was built in 1903. Besides the Rev. Mr. Landen, the Rev. Carl D. Bostrom of Akron, O., and the Rev. A. F. Bergstrom of St. Matthew's church, 80th street and Aberdeen avenue, former pastors, will be present for the celebration.

Gustaf Thunander, 7807 Saginaw avenue, is chairman of the anniversary committee, assisted by L. E. Larson, 7740 Marquette avenue, and L. F. Nelson, 7950 Muskegon avenue. Mrs. Folke Syrian, 7823 Saginaw avenue, is in charge of tickets for the banquet. Mrs. L. E. Larson has been the church organist for 25 years.

Cooking Demonstration.

Dowling council of Ladies of Isabella will hold a cooking demonstration on Thursday at 7:30 o'clock at 1904 West 35th street. Mrs. Sadie Fallon is grand lady of the council.

1 CLOSED BANK MAKES PAYMENT IN 1ST QUARTER

Chatfield Trust Divides About $40,000.

Only one south side closed bank in the first group made a new disbursement to depositors during the opening 1940 quarter, according to new statements issued last week by State Auditor Edward J. Barrett.

These statements show the condition of the receivership as of March 31. They are based mainly on regular reports made to Barrett by Charles H. Albers, general receiver for all except two of the Cook county state banks that still remain in receivership.

The south side bank that made the new repayment during the quarter was the Chatfield Trust and Savings. It divided about $40,000 among its 3,300 depositors. This represented about 14.7 per cent of the total debt to general creditors, and was the final one before the end of the receivership, which will come as soon as the courts order it.

The Chatfield bank has repaid a total of 62.2 per cent of the funds on deposit when it closed its doors permanently on June 22, 1932.

Here are summaries of the new figures for the first group of south side banks, with the best available estimate on what the depositors can expect further:

Binga State—Total receipts, $744,483. Paid on prior claims, $77,117. Paid depositors, $295,650; or 27.5 per cent. Costs: Receivers, $23,865; legal, $44,352; clerical, $73,656; interest, $488; advanced to protect assets, $189,892, with $744,483 refunded. Cash, $39,459, none of it applicable to the debt to depositors, whose recoveries may amount to 35 per cent.

Calumet City State—Total receipts, $225,625. Paid on prior claims, $10,955. Paid depositors, $64,298, or 20 per cent. Costs: Receivers, $4,981; legal, $19,183; clerical, $39,930; interest, $1,365; advanced to protect assets, $76,383, with $78,247 refunded. Cash, $8,526. Only a small final distribution is forecast.

Chatfield Trust and Savings—Total receipts, $236,934. Paid on prior claims, $16,589. Paid depositors, $164,927, or 62.2 per cent. Costs: Receivers, $2,203; legal, $7,351; clerical, $26,682; interest, $489; advanced to protect assets, $18,690, with $18,690 refunded. Cash, none. The depositors can expect nothing more.

Chatham State—Total receipts, 629,159. Paid on prior claims, $212,413. Paid depositors, $135,520 or 15 per cent. Costs: Receivers, $8,462; legal, $45,861; clerical, $67,100; interest, $1,483; advanced to protect assets, $123,049, with $108,030 refunded. Cash, $35,568. Only a small additional repayment is all that can be promised.

Cheltenham Trust and Savings—Total receipts, $371,879. Paid on prior claims, $16,297. Paid depositors, $223,088 or 83 per cent. Costs: Receivers, $8,357; legal, $21,430; clerical, $27,893; interest, none; advanced to protect assets, $74,812, with $68,812 refunded. Cash, none. No estimate as to the future repayment outlook is available.

Cottage Grove State—Total receipts, $1,232,881. Paid on prior claims, $671,492. Paid depositors, $47,324, or 5 per cent. Costs: Receivers, $5,237; legal, $40,698; clerical, $71,549; interest, $46,023; advanced to protect assets, $318,728, with $288,499 refunded. Cash, $31,825, none of which is earmarked for the general creditors, who can, however, expect perhaps a duplication of the present payout.

Similar figures for another group of south side banks will be available for these columns at an early date.

St. Philip Neri Women's Club Will Give Luncheon

The 18th annual spring luncheon of the St. Philip Neri Women's club will be held in the South Shore Country club at 12:30 o'clock Friday. Mrs. Leonard L. [Couper Studio.]

New officers of the Windsor Park juniors are Miss Shirley Thompson, president; Miss Florence Wenger, vice president; Miss Jane Dickson, recording secretary; Miss Charlotte Apeland, treasurer; Miss Edwina Kappes, program chairman; Miss Shirley Ozment, ways and means chairman, and Miss Doris Hess, press chairman.

South Bryn Mawr Juniors.

Members will give a Mothers' day tea today at 2 o'clock at the home of Juanita and Mildred Coombes, 7938 Euclid avenue. A short program has been planned.

South Bryn Mawr juniors are planning to present a year's subscription to a magazine printed in braille to a district 2 blind woman. Another project is the gift of a fully equipped suitcase to a girl dismissed by the juvenile court.

New officers of this club are Miss Pauline Bodeman, president; Miss Sulvia Balkey, vice president; Miss Jaunita Coombes, secretary; Miss Dorothy Bumba, treasurer, and Miss Evelyn DeRango, press and publicity chairman.

New President

Miss Irene Teets, 5468 Harper avenue, is the new president of the South Side Alumnae Association of Kappa Delta sorority, which will hold its monthly meeting Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. R. E. Ross, 5525 Blackstone avenue. After a buffet supper a report will be given concerning the recent rally held at Beloit college for Kappa Deltas of Wisconsin and northern Illinois.

CHORUS TO GIVE CONCERT SUNDAY IN MORGAN PARK

The Euterpean Oratorio chorus will close the 40th year since its organization by singing Dvorak's "Te Deum" at 3 o'clock next Sunday afternoon in the Morgan Park Baptist church. The singers also will present "The Cross of Fire," by Max Bruch. Guest artists will be Eunice Steen Lamont, lyric soprano, and John MacDonald, bass-baritone. Mark Hallett will conduct. John Anderson will be organist, and Russell Hayton, pianist. George K. Walton is president of the chorus.

STYLE EXHIBIT IS PLANNED BY HIRSCH HIGH P.-T.

Induction of Officers Also Scheduled.

A style show, annual reports of officers, and installation of officers for the next school year will be features of the Hirsch High school P. T.-A.'s final meeting of the year at 1:30 o'clock Thursday afternoon in the social room of the school, 7740 South Ingleside avenue. Mrs. Paul H. Hahn, president of the organization, will be in charge of the meeting.

After the annual reports have been given, Mrs. Thomas J. Stephenson will install the following officers: Mrs. Michael L. Levin, president; Mrs. J. R. Wielgot, first vice president; Mrs. N. O. Owens, second vice president; Miss B. A. Jackson, third vice president; Mrs. W. J. Barnes, recording secretary; Mrs. H. S. Button, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. G. A. Heinisch, treasurer.

The style show will be given by Hirsch students. A tea and social hour will conclude the meeting.

Kenwood P.-T. A.—The meeting Wednesday evening will be called "Father's night." A minstrel show will be presented by the fathers, led by Allen D. Holloway, 4933 Dorchester avenue, as interlocutor. Walter A. Erley, 1346 Madison Park avenue, and Robert Schiller, 5144 Dorchester avenue, will assist him. Refreshments and a social hour will follow the meeting.

O'Keeffe P.-T. A.—The fifth annual hobby show of the school will be held in the shelter court of the playground from 3 until 9 o'clock Friday. Stamps, coins, handicraft, puppets, rugs, and photographs will be on display. Mrs. Gerald G. Lascoe, recreation chairman, will be in charge of exhibits, which have been made by pupils of the school.

Wadsworth P.-T. A.—Free health examinations for children entering kindergarten next September and February will be held in the school at 9:30 o'clock Wednesday morning. Children must be accompanied by adults. All who pass will be given health certificates.

Doctors who have volunteered their services for the tests are W. F. Halsteen, C. H. Johnson, J. W. Wall, Daniel E. Clark, C. F. MacAtee, and Paul E. Williams.

Officers to be installed at the Wednesday afternoon meeting of the Wadsworth P. T. A. are Mrs. E. S. Layton, president; Mrs. Norman Saunders, first vice president; Mrs. E. A. Wagner, second vice president; Mrs. Dorothy DePree, third vice president; Mrs. H. H. Arnold, recording secretary; Mrs. Charles O. Miller, corresponding secretary; Mrs. C. C. White, treasurer, and Mrs. Charles Foster, southeast council delegate. Annual reports of officers and chairmen also will be made.

Park Manor P.-T. A.—"Summer Plans for Children" will be the subject open for discussion among members of the parent education group at the meeting Wednesday afternoon in the school assembly hall. Ernest L. Rea, superintendent of Grand Crossing park, will be guest speaker. He will show a talking picture of park activities and will explain its facilities. Mrs. Wallace Hurter, 7311 Rhodes avenue, parent education chairman, will preside.

Bryn Mawr P.-T. A.—The annual open house and hobby show will be held from 1 until 3 o'clock Thursday afternoon and at 9 o'clock in the evening. Fathers' night will begin at 8 p. m. with an address by Dr. H. D. Edgren, assistant professor of physical education at George Williams college. Music will be furnished by the Hirsch High school choir and a gymnasium demonstration will be given by upper grade children.

Caldwell P.-T. A.—The final meeting of the year will be held Tuesday afternoon in the school gymnasium. Mrs. Mildred J. Rylands, principal, will address the parents and convention delegates will review briefly events at the state convention. Officers will be installed after outgoing officers have given reports on the past year.

Coles P.-T. A.—Free physical examinations for children who will enter school during the next two semesters will be given at 9:30 o'clock tomorrow morning. A doctor, dentist, and nurse will give the tests. Mrs. Raymond Wragg is chairman of the plan, which is known as the "summer roundup."

Hyde Park High School P.-T. A.—A reception and tea will be given for the faculty in the social room of the school from 2 until 4 o'clock Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. Daniel W. McFall, 7224 Yates avenue, first vice president, and Mrs. Lawrence Lindsay, 5642 Dorchester avenue, social chairman, are planning the program. Hiram B. Loomis, former principal and honorary member of the P.-T. A., will be special guest.

Arthur Dixon P.-T. A.—The executive board will meet at 1 o'clock tomorrow afternoon in the teachers' lunch room of the school. Mrs. Newton Raiser, 8238 Vernon avenue, president, will preside.

PARADE TO OPEN MOTHER'S DAY AT ST. THEODORE'S

Men and young men of St. Theodore's parish will march in a Mother's day parade beginning at 63d and South Wood streets at 7 o'clock this morning. The St. Augustine parish Boy Scout drum and bugle corps will lead the marchers. The parade will break ranks at the church at 62d and South Paulina streets. Members of the St. Theodore Holy Name society, sponsor of the parade, will meet tomorrow evening in the church hall. William Wilkens, chairman of the entertainment committee, has arranged a special program.

Recently a Bride

Miss Margaret Jernegan, daughter of Prof. and Mrs. M. W. Jernegan of 5711 Kimbark avenue, was married recently to Edward Krueger, son of the Rev. and Mrs. Edward Krueger of Sheboygan, Wis. The wedding took place in Hilton Memorial chapel of the University of Chicago. Both attended the University of Wisconsin. Prof. Jernegan is a member of the department of history of the University of Chicago.

HISTORICAL UNIT TO RECALL EARLY ENGLEWOOD DAYS

Meeting Observes Fiftieth Year of Annexation.

A campaign for funds and a contest for location had brought the Christopher Columbus Memorial exposition site to Jackson park. The elevated railroad trains—three or four cars pulled by small locomotives burning anthracite—were running all the way out to Normal boulevard. It was prophesied that the unsightly steel would ruin the 63d street business prospects.

That was Englewood 50 years ago—Englewood of the year 1890 when on April 14 the question of annexation was submitted to the Chicago council. The plan had been authorized and approved by the voters of both Englewood and Chicago almost a year before, June 29, 1889, so the annexation proceedings were formalities only.

Exhibits of Old Days.

In celebration of 50 years as part of the city of Chicago, the Englewood Historical association will meet in the Hiram Kelly branch library, 6151 Normal boulevard, at 8 o'clock Tuesday evening. There members will look over the exhibits of Englewood memorabilia arranged by Miss Minnie S. Clark, librarian.

There will be Miss Frances McChesney's carefully mounted pictures of the Lewis-Champlin school, pictures taken over a period of 49 years. Miss McChesney was the second grade teacher for many terms.

There is a picture of Samuel Goss and his wife and children sitting in their automobile, the first privately owned car in Englewood. Fire Marshal George Byrnes' horse, Garry Owen, gazes out of an old snapshot. And there's a tally-ho filled with 'way-back-when dandies bound for Washington park racetrack.

Claude L. Williams, principal of Wentworth school where a 50th anniversary observance took place last week, will speak to the historical association on "The History of Englewood and Its Schools."

Talk on Club Work.

Mrs. William F. Wigger, a past president of the Englewood Woman's club, will tell of the work of women's clubs in the district. Harry Himmel, chairman of the Southtown Planning association, will discuss the 1940 program.

"A Newcomer Studies Englewood's Problems," is to be the subject of the Rev. Donald Harrington's address. George Gordon, choir director of the Englewood Methodist church will lead community singing.

The Tuesday evening event is a sort of preview of a community-wide celebration which is tentatively planned for autumn. Willis E. Tower, president of the historical association, will enlist the coöperation of other community organizations for the golden anniversary plans.

The historical association itself is one of the newer groups in the area. It was formally organized in 1937 with Miss Clark, branch librarian at Kelly since 1917, and her assistant, Mrs. Viola Neeson, now branch librarian at Hamilton park, as leaders. C. B. Roden, librarian of the Chicago Public library, encourages a program of organizing historical societies at the various branches.

250 Active Members.

The Englewood group, now affiliated with the Chicago Historical society, has 250 active members and 625 on the mailing list.

A complete history of Englewood goes back to 1681 and LaSalle's account of his expedition from the mouth of the St. Joseph river in Michigan to the Illinois river. Therein the original residents of Englewood are mentioned. They are the Mascoutin Indians, believed to be a branch of the Pottawatomies.

The Miami, Illinois, and Sauk Indians also had villages in the territory south and west of Checaugua, the Indian name for the French fort, Creveceur. Early in the 18th century, before the Indians had ceded their land rights in the territory to the United States government, the land about Chicago was taken up, according to information in "The Story of Englewood," by Gerald E. Sullivan. The land where Englewood is now located is believed to have been registered in the government land office in 1840 or 1842 by a man named Wilcox.

Railroad Changes Name.

Until 1868, the area was known as Chicago Junction. It became officially Englewood on General Order 14 of the Michigan Southern & Northern Indiana railway. The order read, "The name of the station at Chicago Junction has been changed to Englewood." The order was signed by Charles R. Hatch, general superintendent.

The new name was suggested by Mrs. H. B. Lewis who took it from the name of her former home in New Jersey.

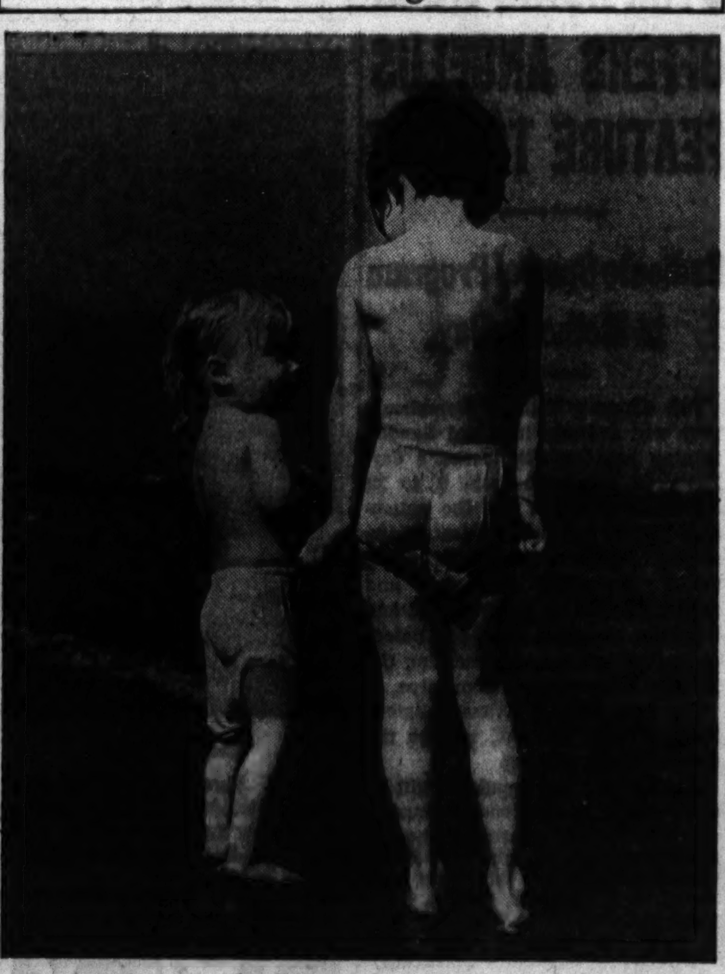
REALTY OWNERS READY TO HOLD ANNUAL MEETING

The annual meeting of the Oakland-Kenwood Property Owners' association will take place at 6:30 o'clock tomorrow evening in the Hyde Park hotel, 1511 Hyde Park boulevard. Newton C. Farr, president of the organization, will preside and will call for reports of officers and committees. Twenty directos will be elected.

Herbert U. Nelson, executive vice president of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, will be guest speaker. His address will be entitled "The Importance of Maintaining and Improving Older Residential Neighborhoods in Chicago." He will explain in detail the recently announced plan which provides for FHA insurance of mortgages in depreciated areas.

Current officers of the association are Mr. Farr, president; Albert H. Veeder, vice president; Charles Leindecker, vice president; Clarence Poffenberger, treasurer; John A. Sullivan, secretary, and J. V. O'Neill, business manager.

Prize Winning Photo



It was a lucky day for Edmund Coy, 1515 East 63d place, when he came upon these sun worshipers dipping their toes in the surf at Jackson park beach. This picture, which he titled "Droopy Drawers," won first place for him in the annual salon conducted by the Associated Camera clubs of the Chicago area recently. One thousand and sixty prints were entered in the competition. Mr. Coy is a member of the Jackson Park Camera club, which won the cup for having the most prints accepted at the salon.

JACKSON PARK CAMERA CLUB AGAIN WINNER

Has Most Prints O.K.'d at Annual Salon.

The Jackson Park Camera club, for the second consecutive year, has won the cup for having the most prints accepted at the annual salon conducted by the Associated Camera Clubs of the Chicago area. The cup was presented last Thursday evening at the annual dinner at the Edgewater Beach hotel. Thirty-four clubs entered 1,000 prints in the contest, of which 120 were accepted. Seventeen of those accepted were made by Jackson Park club members.

Edmund Coy of 1515 East 63d place won first prize in the amateur division with his picture entitled "Droopy Drawers." Honorable mention ribbons went to Edward Reszel, 7003 Oglesby avenue, and Harry Howe, 7255 Euclid avenue. All the pictures accepted will be exhibited at the Marshall Field galleries beginning tomorrow anh continuing until May 30.

Camera Club Exhibitors.

Exhibitors in the Jackson Park Camera club are R. M. Stevens, 1448 East Marquette road; George Hayes, 7521 Essex avenue; Franklin Raymond, 5236 Greenwood avenue; Miss Frieda Zylstra, 5308 Kenwood avenue; Ed Reszel, 7003 Oglesby avenue; Charles Lindsay, 6557 Ingleside avenue; J. F. Abernathy, 7130 Cyril avenue; Earl Christensen, 5336 Drexel avenue; Andrew Tau, 6730 Jeffrey avenue; Harry Howe, 7255 Euclid avenue; Edmund Coy, 1515 East 63d place; W. R. Simmons, 4715 Ellis avenue; M. M. Clemeau, 6356 Greenwood avenue; James Baker, 5332 Blackstone avenue; J. F. Hodgeson, 1640 East 68th street, and Miss Marguerite Giezentanner, 6200 Kenwood avenue.

Kodachrome slides will be shown by Miss Margaret Raymond, 5308 Kenwood avenue, and Miss Frieda Zylstra, 6308 Kenwood avenue.

Organized in 1938.

The club, which was sponsored originally by the park district, was organized in October, 1938. It has 125 members. Its present headquarters include a large meeting and exhibition hall, complete dark rooms, and a regulation studio. Once a month the club provides a model on "studio night" and members comprising the audience for the demonstration under Andrew Tau may do their own "shooting." Later the members' pictures are discussed in an open meeting on "criticism night."

Constipation Relief That Also Pepsin-izes Stomach

When constipation brings on acid indigestion, bloating, dizzy spells, gas, coated tongue, sour taste, and bad breath, your stomach is probably loaded up with certain undigested food and your bowels don't move. So you need both Pepsin to help break up fast that rich undigested food in your stomach, and Laxative Senna to pull the trigger on those lazy bowels. So be sure your laxative also contains Pepsin. Take Dr. Caldwell's Laxative, because its Syrup Pepsin helps you gain that wonderful stomach comfort, while the Laxative Senna moves your bowels. Tests prove the power of Pepsin to dissolve those lumps of undigested protein food which may linger in your stomach, to cause belching, gastric acidity and nausea. This is how pepsinizing your stomach helps relieve it of such distress. At the same time this medicine wakes up lazy nerves and muscles in your bowels to relieve your constipation. So see how much better you feel by taking the laxative that also puts Pepsin to work on that stomach discomfort, too. Even finicky children love to taste this pleasant family laxative. Buy Dr. Caldwell's Laxative—Senna with Syrup Pepsin at your druggist today!

'STUDENT PRINCE' NEXT ON CHICAGO THEATER OF AIR

Opera Guild Will Hear Claire, Gorin, Peerce.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Sigmund Romberg's tuneful "Student Prince," most popular of all operettas, is to be presented on the second broadcast of the Chicago Theater of the Air next Thursday evening. "The Student Prince" will be aired over the coast to coast network of the Mutual broadcasting system from 9 to 10 o'clock with Marion Claire, famous soprano; Igor Gorin, young baritone of the concert, opera and radio, and Jan Peerce, Radio City Music hall tenor, as the three stars.

They will be supported by the augmented W-G-N Concert orchestra and chorus under the direction of Henry Weber and a cast of distinguished radio actors. William A. Bacher will produce and direct the show. Noel B. Gerson wrote the adaptation.

Members of the Illinois Opera guild will be special guests of "The Student Prince" broadcast. The guild is active in stimulating interest in the Chicago Opera. The guild last year organized committees to sell opera tickets and subscriptions. It bought all of the boxes on Thursday nights and made the seats available free to more than 2,000 worthy music students. Mrs. James G. McMillan of Winnetka is president.

Ran 62 Weeks in Chicago.

"The Student Prince" has been viewed by hundreds of thousands of persons since first produced by J. J. Shubert in New York in 1924. It's first Chicago run continued for 62 weeks. At one time 12 stock companies were presenting it simultaneously.

With its setting in old Heidelberg in the gay days before the turn of the century, "The Student Prince" tells the story of Karl Franz, handsome young prince of Karlsberg, and of his poignant, short-lived romance with the beautiful Kathie, the little waitress beloved of all Heidelberg students, before he is called away from his studies to assume his duties as ruler of his country.

Miss Claire will sing the rôle of Kathie; Jan Peerce will be heard as Karl Franz, the student prince, and Igor Gorin will portray the singing rôle of Dr. Engel, the kindly teacher and adviser of Karl.

In the dramatic cast will be the fine company of actors that performed in "Bittersweet," the first operetta presented by the Chicago Theater of the Air.

This cast includes Alice Hill, Olan Soule, John Goldsworthy, Frances Carlon, Marvin Mueller, Butler Mandiville, Willard Waterman, Van Dyke, Stan Harris, and Barry Drew.

Miss Claire was starred in the first production of the series. She also is featured on THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE Symphonic hours at 9 p. m. Sundays on W-G-N-Mutual.

Gorin Hails Operetta Series.

Igor Gorin, youthful baritone, has interrupted his nation-wide concert tour for this broadcast. Gorin, who has traveled 60,000 miles since last November, is in Chicago already for rehearsals.

"Operetta," he said yesterday, "is just about the finest radio entertainment. One rarely hears a musical variety program without some light opera selection appearing on it. Operetta tunes outlive those on the hit parade. They have a great place in the heart of the public."

"I love working in operettas," he continued, "particularly when Bill Bacher is producing them."

Bacher, he said, gave him his first big opportunity. Bacher came across Gorin in an audition in New York in 1935; took him to the west coast for Hollywood hotel where they worked together for several years.

Proud of Citizenship.

Gorin came to America in 1935 from Vienna. Ten days after he arrived he applied for first citizenship papers and only a few weeks ago he received his final papers. He is extremely proud to be an American. Born in the Ukraine he hasn't always been too certain at times of his citizenship. That portion of the Ukraine has been switched back and forth between Russia and Poland several times during his lifetime.

Gorin was graduated from the Vienna conservatory and became the star baritone of the Czecho-Slovakia state opera. In Europe he was hailed for his performance in "Rigoletto" and as Figaro.

Besides his operatic, radio and concert activities Gorin has made one movie, "Broadway Melody," and is preparing to do another, now being written by Frances Marion. The story is concerned with the Finnish war. He is also a recording favorite.

Peerce Once a Violinist.

Jan Peerce, radio and concert favorite, was born on the east side of New York. He started his career as a violinist, played for 10 years in orchestras. His vocal talents were recognized with the opening of the Radio City Music hall. Last season he gave successful recitals in Carnegie and town halls in New York.

Hat's a Record!

Here's some millinery fashioned by a mad platter hatter. This chapeau of Marion Mann's, songstress with Bob Crosby's orchestra, was fashioned from a Crosby recording of "Smoky Mary" plus some ribbons and a few notes left over from a jam session. The Crosby crew, playing at the Blackhawk, is heard over W-G-N-Mutual nightly and over NBC Saturday nights.

CALUMET CIVIC CHORUS TO GIVE CONCERT FRIDAY

Miss Helen Diana Bartush, mezzo-contralto of the Chicago City Opera company, will be a soloist at the second annual spring concert to be given by the Calumet Civic chorus on Friday evening at Fenger High school. Miss Bartush's selections will include works by Tschaigowsky, Grieg, and Debussy.

During the concert the winner of the music scholarship given by the chorus will sing. The $150 scholarship may be used for study wherever the winner chooses.

Accompanists for the chorus will be Dorothy Tissing Boersma and Eugenia Radius Kortenhoven.

HOLLIS SHAW TO SING TOMORROW WITH TEMPLETON

Four years ago in New York Alec Templeton, the pianist and impersonator, was so impressed with the singing of a young soprano on a local station that he vowed to help her if he ever got a chance. Tomorrow night at 8:30 this soprano, Hollis Shaw, now a Broadway star, will make a guest appearance on Templeton's show over WMAQ-NBC.

A vivacious blonde, Miss Shaw, who sings everything from operatic arias to swing, will be heard in "All the Things You Are" which she introduced last fall in the Broadway production, "Very Warm for May."

WHAT DO YOU THINK?, NEW WOMAN'S QUIZ, STARTS TOMORROW

"What Do You Think?" a quiz program for every woman, makes its bow on W-G-N's program schedule tomorrow and will be heard each weekday in the future from 12:15 to 12:30 p. m. Alan Scott will conduct the program, which will be presented from the studios of W-G-N.

A group of women will attend the broadcast each day on the invitation of the sponsor, who will issue tickets to the program, and from the studio audience four will be selected to answer questions sent in by listeners. Listeners having questions accepted will receive $1 for each query. Women who are selected to answer right or wrong to the questions on the air will be paid $5 per program.

SYMPHONIC HOUR OFFERS ANGELUS FEATURE TONIGHT

Dedicate Special Program to Mother's Day.

The Chicago Tribune Symphonic hour will dedicate its third Sunday evening broadcast to Mother's day. Tonight's broadcast—from 9 to 10 o'clock—over W-G-N and the nationwide Mutual network will feature the singing of Soprano Marion Claire, the W-G-N Symphony orchestra and chorus, directed by Henry Weber, and a special dramatic interlude before an invited audience representing the Chicago Association of Commerce.

The Rev. John C. Evans, religious editor of THE TRIBUNE, will be the speaker of the evening.

Highlighting the broadcast will be a dramatization with special musical effects of Millet's painting, "The Angelus," a feature bringing to life the humble peasant and his wife portrayed in the picture, with a background of music from "The Angelus," by Jules Massenet, and the Intermezzo from "Cavalleria Rusticana," by Pietro Mascagni.

Color Picture in Drama Section.

"Listeners will be invited to turn to the first page of THE SUNDAY TRIBUNE's drama section, which today presents a full color picture of Millet's painting, offering an artistic complement to the radio presentation.

Miss Claire, accompanied by the full chorus and the Symphony orchestra, will join in this unusual dramatic scene. The "Angelus" feature was written by William A. Bacher, who directs the production of the Symphonic Hour, as well as the Chicago Theater of the Air series, heard on W-G-N.

The program:

Overture Coriolanus.................Beethoven
Orchestra.
Wie bist du meine Koenigen.............Brahms
Miss Claire.
The Sleep that Flits on Baby's Eyes
.......................John A. Carpenter
Miss Claire.
Bridal Song Serenade...............Goldmark
Orchestra.
The Joy of the Hunters............Von Weber
Octet and orchestra.
The Angelus Dramatization..............
Miss Claire, chorus, orchestra, and dramatic cast.
Evening Talk..........................
The Rev. John C. Evans.
The Lord's Prayer..........Albert H. Malotte
Miss Claire.
First Movement from D Minor Symphony.......................Cesar Franck
Orchestra.

Miss Claire, who is vocal soloist on the Symphonic Hour programs, will be starred with Jan Peerce and Igor Gorin in the Chicago Theater of the Air operetta, "The Student Prince," next Thursday evening on W-G-N.

Similar Features Planned.

In connection with the dramatization, Mr. Bacher, who originated this new radio technique, has announced that every Sunday night the Symphonic Hour will offer a similar feature bringing to life the great figures of history and of the arts, blending the finest in music thru the medium of radio dramatics.

Next Sunday's Symphonic Hour will be presented before another invited audience representing the Chicago Association of Commerce guests.

Melody Maker

[Seymour Photo.]

Sylvia Rhodes, formerly songstress with Ace Brigode's orchestra, is now featured on the Marathon Melodies program over NBC Friday evenings.

LENAUD SISTERS TO BE GUESTS ON STOKES SHOW

"Romance in Rhythm," directed by Harold Stokes, will feature a return engagement of the double piano team, Evelyn and Hazel Lenaud, from 9:30 to 10 p. m. tomorrow on W-G-N and the Mutual network. The vocalists will be Edna O'Dell, Lawrence Salerno, and the Four Shades of Blue.

The Lenaud sisters, who were guests last February, have attracted wide attention thru many recitals and radio engagements. The Lenauds will play "Hungarian Rhapsody," "Russian Rag," and "The Butterfly."

Edna O'Dell will sing "End of the Rainbow," and with the chorus she will do "I'm Comin' Virginia."

Dr. Poteat to Address Sunday Evening Club

Dr. Edwin McNeill Poteat, author, preacher, and poet, will address the Chicago Sunday Evening club in Orchestra hall, delivering an address over WIND at 8:15 o'clock tonight.

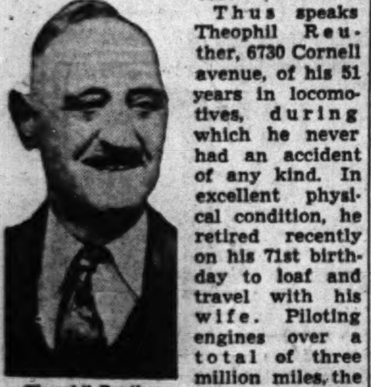
'WATCH TRACK!' IS SLOGAN OF ENGINE DRIVER

Theophil Reuther, 71, Has Perfect Safety Record.

"Well, maybe it's all luck, but, by gosh, you've got to watch your track, too!"



Theophil Reuther.

Thus speaks Theophil Reuther, 6730 Cornell avenue, of his 51 years in locomotives, during which he never had an accident of any kind. In excellent physical condition, he retired recently on his 71st birthday to loaf and travel with his wife. Piloting engines over a total of three million miles, the equivalent of 120 trips around the world, had caused him to look forward to a quieter life.

"I was always very particular about my engine in the roundhouse before every run," he says, in trying to explain his perfect safety record. "I examined it thoroly, to be sure that nothing needed attention. You've got to be on the alert, if you realize what a responsibility the job carries. Why, sometimes you have 10 or 11 cars behind you, containing up to five or six hundred persons."

Steady Nerves the Answer.

Steady nerves—the result, he believes, of abstaning from liquor and never cheating himself out of sufficient rest—were the roots of his calm vigilance. He can't remember ever having had the slightest fear in an emergency.

During recent years he drove the Illinois Central's Panama Limited on the Chicago-Champaign lap of the New Orleans run. On the day of his retirement Mrs. Reuther was one of his passengers for the first time and about 150 employés were present to bid farewell. Mrs. Reuther was impressed by "the tough railroad men with tears running down their faces who came up to shake hands with him."

From J. L. Beven, president of the company, he received a personal letter thanking him for his 46 years of service. Mr. Beven wrote, "the record you have hung up is one of which any man could well be proud . . . the Illinois Central is truly a better railroad for you having been with it."

Feels Life Is Good.

While he now owns a lifetime pass good for any road in the country, he is in no hurry to go train riding. Nevertheless, he feels that his life has been a good one and he knows he'll miss those daytime journeys thru Illinois' rich farm country which, he says, amounted to "a day's outing."

"It wasn't work, it was play for me in recent years. When I sped along on nice days I'd lean out of the cab and wave to the farmers I'd begun to feel friendly toward, and I noted how many cows they had then, and what stage of plowing they were in. I saw them in all seasons, in good times and bad, when they built barns and when they gathered their crops. Another thing I'll miss is the patchwork of colors spread over the rolling prairies in spring and fall, followed by the gradual change in hues."

The anecdote he likes to recall most concerns the time in Colfax, Ill., when he was arrested by the police for sleeping under his train. Mr. Reuther and his fireman had pulled a circus train into a side track in Colfax one night in 1905 after having gone without sleep for 48 hours. Building a 12 hour fire in the engine, they chocked its wheels so it couldn't be moved and crawled between the rails underneath for a warm doze. Their dreams were interrupted, however, when a crowd of excited townsfolk demanded that the police rout them out and find them a safer lodging for the night.

Born in Michigan.

Born near Ann Arbor, Mich., in 1869, Mr. Reuther's first job was in a florist's greenhouse. Thinking the work was too hard, he became a fireman on the Michigan Central line. Two and a half years later he changed to the Chicago and North Western road and on July 14, 1894, started four years' service as a fireman on the Illinois Central before becoming eligible to be an engineer. For 18 years he piloted freights before being assigned to passenger trains.

His first locomotive was engine No. 325, a "midget." In 1933 he was put on the gold striped Panama Limited, the road's latest model. He has never had a suburban train, which he dismisses as "too much like streetcars."

Eight months ago a regular physical checkup proved that for his age he was one of the healthiest men in the company ranks. His hobbies are following baseball and fishing.

Carrie Carter Auditioners

Virginia Payne (center), Carrie Carter of the Carters of Elm Street show, dropped around to meet some of the aspiring actresses who may turn out to become members of the popular serial's cast. Miss Jeanne Pilkington (left), 17 years old, a Hirsch High school student, and Mrs. Jerry Sternburg (right) are among the 1,206 W-G-N applicants who tried out for the Carter talent search. Both expect to win in the contest which offers a two week "paid vacation" of $112.50 per week.

Mother of Crosby Boys Guest Today on Bandwagon

As a pleasant Mother's day interlude, Mrs. Harry Crosby, mother of Bing and Bob Crosby, will extend greetings to Bob Crosby during the Bandwagon broadcast at 6:30 p. m. today over WMAQ. Bob Crosby and his Bobcats will be heard from Chicago and his mother will speak from Hollywood.

1,206 GIRLS, WOMEN TRY OUT ON W-G-N IN CARTER TALENT HUNT

More than 2,000 requests for tryouts on W-G-N for applications in the Carrie Carter Talent Search, conducted by the Carters of Elm Street program, were received when the deadline for entries was reached last Wednesday. And in three weeks 1,206 girls and women stepped before a W-G-N microphone and showed their dramatic ability.

Those who showed real radio talent will be recalled for further auditions and will compete against winners from other Mutual stations to determine the national winners.

As suggested by Virginia Payne, star of "The Carters," each winner will be given a two week assignment with the Carters' company, playing over W-G-N-Mutual daily at a salary of $112.50 a week. All travel and living expenses will be paid for the fortnight.

'BABIES COST MONEY' TOPIC OF ROUND TABLE

"Babies Cost Money" will be the subject for discussion on the University of Chicago Round Table at 1:30 p. m. today over WMAQ. The broadcast, which falls on Mother's day and coincides with the opening of hospital week, will deal with the problems of maternal welfare, hospitalization, and standards of medical care in different sections of the country. Taking part will be Dr. Martha Elliott, assistant chief of the children's bureau, Washington, D. C.; Dr. Fred L. Adair, chief of service at the Chicago Lying-In hospital and chairman of the department of obstetrics and gynecology, University of Chicago, and Louis Wirth, associate professor of sociology and chairman of the social science research committee, University of Chicago.

CARTUNE-O, NEW QUIZ, ON W-G-N NEXT THURSDAY

"Cartune-O," new musical quiz game, will make its bow over W-G-N at 7:30 p. m. next Thursday. Groceries and cash prizes amounting to $265 will be given away to listeners. Harold Stokes and the W-G-N Dance orchestra will play tunes which listeners will be asked to identify by checking the cartoons which illustrate the tunes played.

The new radio game is both a test of musical knowledge and an intelligence test. The game, however, is not difficult.

Hargrave Is Versatile.

William Hargrave, featured baritone on "Johnny Presents," has plenty of variety in his vocal assignments. On the air he sings many a virile, dramatic marching song, while in the Mecca Auditorium opera he intones arias.

JOSEPHINE DUNN, MORGAN FARLEY ON W-G-N SHOW

Guests on 5th Row Center Next Friday.

Josephine Dunn and Morgan Farley will be co-starred in W-G-N-Mutual's Fifth Row Center program at 7 p. m. next Friday in a special presentation of Donald Spatz's drama, "The Country Doctor." The program is a weekly presentation of W-G-N and the Mutual chain and is produced by Blair Walliser.

Miss Dunn and Mr. Farley are currently appearing in "Margin for Error," Claire Booth's mystery drama at the Grand Opera house.

"Country Doctor" concerns a young physician who refuses to administer an injection which would continue the life of a patient for at least another 24 hours, but under conditions of great suffering. The patient dies and the physician is accused of breaking the strongest unwritten laws of the profession—maintaining life at any cost.

Rôles Are Reversed.

Barred from the city's hospital, his practice taken away from him, he and his nurse take up life again in a small town. By an ironic twist of fate, he himself becomes involved in a similar situation, but with the rôles reversed. This time the physician is the patient who, if saved, would live the rest of his life in darkness, never able to again practice medicine.

Josephine Dunn, taking the feminine lead as Nurse Ann Gibson, is known to moving picture fans for her parts in such screen productions as "Excess Baggage" and "Murder at Dawn."

Played in England.

Morgan Farley, who portrays the doctor, has been a leading figure of the stage both here and in England. He played Cassius in "Julius Caesar" with the Mercury players last year. He also has been featured in "Candida," "Romeo and Juliet," and in "An American Tragedy."

The overture and musical background of the radio play will be provided by the W-G-N dance orchestra under the direction of Harold Stokes.

'AMERICA SINGS' REPLACES FIBBER DURING SUMMER

"America Sings," featuring Meredith Wilson and his 32 piece orchestra, will be the summer replacement program for Fibber McGee and Molly when the comedy team signs off the air for a 13 week vacation starting Tuesday, July 3, 9:30 p. m.

Written by Don Quinn, who turns out the McGee scripts, "America Sings" will be produced by Cecil Underwood and announced by Harlow Wilcox, both members of the current McGee staff.

In format, the program will be familiar songs of America, presented in novel arrangement. Several outstanding radio personalities will be added to the program before the summer show is actually launched.

NORTHERNERS TO FEATURE HERBERT SONGS TUESDAY

The Northerners will feature songs by Victor Herbert in their broadcast from 9:30 to 10 p. m. Tuesday on W-G-N. Irene Verner will be the soloist. The entire Northerners cast will join in the presentation of songs from Herbert's "Rose of Algeria," which include the opening chorus and "Rose of the World."

Miss Verner will sing for her solo, "Solveig Song," by Edvard Grieg. The octet will sing "When You Wore a Tulip," "It's Tulip Time in Holland," "Any Old Port in a Storm," "The Singing Hills," and "O Dry Those Tears."

Ethel Winser to Start Book Series on Tuesday

Ethel Reid Winser, literary authority, will launch a new series of radio programs titled "Off the Bookshelf" over WJJD on Tuesday. The programs will be heard each Tuesday and Thursday evening at 6:45 p. m.

Guest Stars

Josephine Dunn and Morgan Farley, who will co-star in the W-G-N-Mutual network production, "The Country Doctor," on Fifth Row Center at 7 p. m. next Friday. Miss Dunn and Mr. Farley are currently appearing in "Margin for Error" at the Grand Opera house.

LEHAR MELODIES SCHEDULED FOR MELODY PAGEANT

"The Pageant of Melody," under the direction of Henry Weber, will feature themes from Franz Lehar in a program of popular concert music with the W-G-N Concert orchestra and Kathryn Witwer, Attilio Baggiore, and the octet, from 9:15 to 10 p. m. Wednesday on W-G-N and the Mutual network.

Miss Witwer, Baggiore, and the octet will join with the orchestra in the Lehar numbers, which include "Carnival," "Love Is a Pilgrim," "Say Not Love Is a Dream," and "Starlight Guards."

Baggiore will sing for his solo, "Di Miei Bollente Spiriti" from Verdi's "La Traviata." Miss Witwer will sing an aria from the opera "Louise," by Gustave Charpentier.

"Farewell," an original composition by Adolf Hoffmann of the W-G-N musical staff, will be sung by the octet, with Mr. Weber playing the piano accompaniment.

TOM, DICK, HARRY START MORNING SHOW TOMORROW

After a two year absence Tom, Dick, and Harry will again broadcast their songs and comedy on W-G-N. Starting tomorrow they will be heard Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays at 10 a. m.

The theme, "Rub-a-Dub-Dub, Three Men in a Tub," will introduce the boys in a program designed to help to break up and cheer up otherwise dull mornings. As it was two years ago—and for the same sponsor—Ed Allen will again announce the show. Bob Trendler will provide piano accompaniment.

Radio City Music Hall to Present Sinfonietta

The première of Maurice Baron's transcription for orchestra of variations from the "Forellen" quartet of Schubert will be a highlight of the sinfonietta program of the Radio City Music hall at 11 a. m. today over WCFL-NBC. With Erno Rapee conducting, the orchestra also will play the "Pelleas and Melisande" suite by Sibelius, and Debussy's "Petite Suite." Henrietta Schumann, pianist, will play the first movement of Rubenstein's Concerto in D minor.

FIND HEATTER IS ONE OF BUSIEST MEN IN RADIO

Commentator Heard Over W-G-N Sundays.

Gabriel Heatter, W-G-N-Mutual's New York news and personality commentator, is one of the busiest of all radio commentators. He is at present heard five days weekly on Mutuel stations or on WOK, Newark, local programs at intervals totaling thirty-five minutes each day. On W-G-N, he is heard at 8:45 p. m. each Sunday.

Heatter's dramatic voice came into national prominence during the Bruno Richard Hauptman trial at Flemington, N. J.

His description of what happened at the trial won him thousands of listeners and three commercial accounts. Heatter's present series of programs include the dramatization of figures and events in the days beside giving an account of the highlights of the news.

A background of twenty years experience with several Metropolitan papers has adequately prepared Heatter for his present series. Beside his newspaper work he was for many years editor of "the Shaft," a magazine devoted to activities in the steel industry.

Added to this string of activities, he has had published in more than one hundred newspapers a syndicated series of articles entitled "Bread and Butter Problems of Industry."

A thumbnail sketch: Tall, heavy set, brown eyes, thinning hair. . . . possessor of two qualities—a winning smile and a hearty, congenial greeting. . . . Favors brown and blue tweeds in dress. . . . Unlike most news commentators has no "ghost" but writes all of his material himself beside doing all of his research work and editing.

DR. CUTTER TALKS WITH A. B. MILLS ON HOSPITAL DAY

In observance of National Hospital day, Dr. Irving S. Cutter, dean of Northwestern university's medical school and health editor of THE TRIBUNE, and Alden B. Mills, managing editor of the Modern Hospital magazine, will appear on the Northwestern University Reviewing Stand this morning. Dr. Cutter and Mr. Mills will discuss "Ten Million Americans in the Hospital" on the broadcast over W-G-N and Mutual from 10:15 to 10:30 a. m.

Dr. Cutter and Mr. Mills will examine progress made in recent years in the United States in expansion of hospital facilities. Among the questions they plan to discuss are: Are there adequate hospital facilities in the United States? Are these facilities available to all who need them? What's the future outlook?

Back on W-G-N

Tom (Bud Vandover), Dick (Marlin Hurt), and Harry (Gordon Vandover), top to bottom, who will return to W-G-N at 10 a. m. tomorrow for a new Monday, Wednesday, and Friday series.

AMERICAN SPIRIT AND STRENGTH ON MIDDAY HOUR

The theme of the Midday Service for this week is "The Spirit and Strength of America." The program, under the direction of Dr. John L. Dickson, is broadcast at 12:35 p. m. daily except Saturday and Sunday over W-G-N. Speakers:

Monday, May 13—Dr. E. Robb Zaring, former editor Northwestern Christian Advocate, Evanston.

Tuesday, May 14—Dr. Philip Seman, Jewish Peoples institute.

Wednesday, May 15—The Rev. Cyril K. Richard, Sauganash Community church.

Thursday, May 16—The Rev. Prof. Ferdinand J. Ward, De Paul university.

Friday, May 17—Prof. Victor R. Pearson, Augustana college, Rock Island, Ill.

REBROADCASTING OF SHORT WAVE SHOWS APPROVED

The Federal communications commission has amended its rules and regulations to permit standard and noncommercial educational broadcast stations to pick up and rebroadcast the noncommercial programs of international broadcast stations. It was specified, however, that such rebroadcasting shall be on a noncommercial basis.

Briefly, this means that any broadcast station or a noncommercial educational station in the United States may, upon authority of the station originating the international program, pick up and retransmit the same for the benefit of its listeners. This applies to the program of any international broadcast station, whether it is located within or outside of the United States.

This action was taken on the basis of recommendation by a special committee of the commission that, where possible, domestic listeners should enjoy the benefits of noncommercial international broadcasts.

STEELMAKERS PLAN SALUTE TO MOTHERS TODAY

A musical tribute to Mother's day will be aired on Mutual's coast to coast "Musical Steelmakers" broadcast over W-G-N at 7:30 p. m. today.

The Musical Steelmakers' orchestra will present a special arrangement of "Songs My Mother Taught Me." Tenor Ardenne White will sing "That Wonderful Mother of Mine," and lovely soprano Dorothy Ann Crowe selects "The Sweetest Story Ever Told" for her solo spot.

The guest headliner on this all-employé show from the land of steel will be 17 year old pianist Eleanor Bidka. Her father works in the Wheeling factory carpenter shop.

CLEVELAND PREACHER WILL BE SPEAKER AT SUNDAY EVENING CLUB

Dr. E. McN. Poteat.

Dr. Edwin McNeill Poteat, pastor of Euclid Avenue Baptist church, Cleveland, O., who has not addressed the Sunday Evening club since his first appearance in 1937, will speak tonight in Orchestra hall on "The Defections of Simon." Clifford W. Barnes will preside and the scripture will be read by William E. Goodman.

Dr. Poteat is a southerner and built up his pulpit fame while pastor of Pullen Memorial Baptist church in Raleigh, N. C. His preaching is popular with student youth in whom he is reported to see "an intelligent opposition to social conditions conducive to war." His best known published book is "These Shared His Passion."

The music at the preliminary meeting will be furnished by Christ Evangelical Lutheran church of Chicago under the direction of Erhardt Bergstrasser. The informal Bible talk will be given by Hudson H. Pittman.

Study of a Champion

The winning shot! Richard Virbick, 10 years old, of 944 West 35th street, has just taken a first place in the preliminary marble king contest, sponsored by the Chicago Boys' clubs, in a playoff on the roof of the Valentine branch, 3400 South Emerald avenue. Southwest side preliminary playoffs are taking place there and at Ogden Hill branch, 6405 South Hermitage avenue, as well as in schoolyards and small parks. Winner of the all-city tournament will be sent to New York by John Hayes, ex-marble champion of Woodlawn and Hyde Park, for the national finals in June.

COUNTY R. O. A. SELECTS A NEW OFFICIAL STAFF

Capt. Charles H. Blumenfeld, an attorney, was elected president of the Cook county chapter of the Reserve Officers association at a recent meeting. Capt. Blumenfeld is in the coast artillery reserve and resides at 1523 Fargo avenue. He succeeds Maj. Marvin H. Dixon, field artillery reserve, of 7601 Sheridan road.

Capt. Charles Blumenfeld.

Other officers elected were Capt. Andrew VanEsso, infantry reserve, of Highland Park, first vice president; Capt. James C. Hamilton, infantry reserve, 10 South La Salle street, second vice president.

Capt. Arthur E. Mealiff, medical administration reserve, 431 Winneconna parkway, third vice president; Capt. John V. Boltz, infantry reserve, 6604 Olympia avenue, treasurer, and Lieut. R. B. Parsons, field artillery reserve, 8123 South Maryland avenue, secretary.

Grigst Memorial Club Tea Planned for Next Sunday

The Grigst Memorial club will hold its fifth annual tea from 2 until 5 o'clock next Sunday at the Chicago Beach hotel. Miss Ann Burk Kuper, dramatic reader, will present cuttings from a recent New York stage production. Miss Jeanne Garfunkel, vice president of the club, is in charge of arrangements, assisted by Miss Shirlee Grombach, president, and Miss Ruth Heyman, publicity chairman.

MAY FESTIVAL IS SCHEDULED FOR OGDEN PARK

Will Open Tomorrow to Last Thru Friday.

A May festival is planned for Ogden park at the fieldhouse, 65th street and Racine avenue, beginning tomorrow and continuing thru Friday. Robert Bantz, park supervisor, announced the event.

Dramatic productions, a choral concert, handicraft demonstrations, and exhibits of practical and ornamental objects will be on the festival program.

Offer Musical Comedy.

"Dude Ranch," a musical comedy, will be given tomorrow at 8 o'clock by members of the Englewood Opera company under the direction of Beecher Norton. In the cast are Shirley Zacker, Clarence McDonald, Carl Timmerman, Mary Ellen Convery, Harry Herman, Beverly Burton, Eleanor Sahr, Bernard Sern, Jerry Merrell, William Kean, William Gradissher, Manuel Salazer, and Michael Valentas.

On Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock the Fellowship Friars will present "The Passing of the Third Floor Back." Charles Smith is the director. Members of this cast are Harold Harms, Florence Smith, Robert Buckley, William Rovick, Ben Smithton, Loretta Johnson, George Ramsay, Osleyn Duffy, Dorothy Scholfield, Mary Ackerman, and Lil Thomas.

Those in Charge.

Demonstrations and exhibits are jointly in charge of Mrs. James Dore, president of the Ogden Park Quilting club, and Miss Florence Cavanaugh and Robinson Johnson, park staff instructors. The articles on exhibit are those made by students in the various creative activities conducted by the Chicago Park district.

On the general festival committee are Charles Quinn, secretary of the Ogden Park Civic association; Mrs. Dore, Mrs. Owen Daniels of the Neighborhood Woman's club, Beecher Burton, Charles Smith, and Miss Marcella Dore.

ST. BERNARD'S HOSPITAL AIDS SPONSOR PARTY

The auxiliary of St. Bernard's hospital, 6337 Harvard avenue, will hold a card party and dance Friday evening in the auditorium of the nurses' home. Proceeds from the party will go to the children's ward.

Mrs. Joseph D. Cain, 7956 Jeffery avenue, president of the auxiliary, is chairman, assisted by the following committees: Awards, Mrs. M. E. Creighton, 8045 Paxton avenue; Miss Marie Colman, 6423 Kenwood avenue, and Mrs. Frank Uall, 7336 Clyde avenue. Tickets, Mrs. R. M. Schneider, 6932 Eggleston avenue, and Mrs. T. J. O'Leary, 6838 Yale avenue.

Door, Mrs. Elizabeth Cody, 6444 Harvard avenue, and Mrs. Thomas Moroney, 6432 Yale avenue. Cards, Mrs. Madeline Colman, 6423 Kenwood avenue, and Mrs. Alice E. Hymann, 8145 Prairie avenue.

Camera Club Will Conduct Steel Mill Tour on Sunday

The Lens Camera club will conduct a photographic tour thru northern Indiana's steel mills next Sunday. The group will take pictures of the steel mill industry for the second annual photographic exhibit at the Coliseum from Aug. 18 to Sept. 2 in connection with the American Negro exposition. Amateur photographers interested in joining the party are asked to telephone Miss Mabel McCullough at Fairfax 3368.

REBUILT HOME SHOWS RESULT OF SKILL IN PLANS

Even Attic Transformed to Useful Space.

BY LOUISE BARGELT.

Excellent planning has gone into the recently modernized home of Mr. and Mrs. Lew Shalett, 5144 South Cornell avenue. The result is that the home has been given that peculiar quality the French call l'esprit. The architect, Bertram Goldberg, 820 North Michigan avenue, has rebuilt the house for the greatest possible usefulness to all the family, and Mrs. Shalett has added personal touches to each room, according to its intended "purpose in life."

While the major and amazing portion of the transformation was centered on the interior, the brick exterior underwent some changes.

Originally the house had an old fashioned porch on each side of the front entrance pillars. These porches were ripped off and neat brick and flagstone terraces substituted. The front was landscaped, and a secluded garden area provided at the back of the house.

Has Amateur Stage.

Inside the home, skilful planning made possible a number of extra rooms. As it stands now the plan is spacious and open. It contains not only a gloriously comfortable basement recreation room and refreshment counter, a maid's room and bath, a work room and laundry and heater room but a completely and uniquely finished attic suite.

In this suite, which is for the use of the girl and boy of the family, there is a real stage with dressing rooms, footlights, spotlights, and so on, for amateur theatricals of all kinds, at one end of the attic; and at the other end, two separate study corners with bookcases and work tables, typewriters and desks.

On the first and second floors, there are now three bathrooms and a powder room, where formerly there was only one bath; a study for Mrs. Shalett on the second floor, and a library on the first floor.

New Winding Stairway.

One of the principal structural changes was the installation of an entire new stairway, which winds from the first floor to the attic. This new stairway is wide and open, and light, where the original stairs were narrow and dark. Another change on the first floor which adds to the spacious effect is the fact that there are no doors between the main living room, study, and dining room.

Entrance is made into a large and inviting central hall, dominated by two massive pillars. These were kept, as well as the finely beamed ceilings, and are as striking and inviting as the great oval fireplace on the north living room wall.

The woodwork here has been painted white, the walls a quiet green, the carpeting is beige, and there are Venetian blinds and draw drapes at the windows. These drapes in the living room are figured with arresting red flowers—a note repeated in the papered walls of the powder room at the left of the entrance door.

Sliding Door Wardrobes.

At the right of the entrance is a deep built-in wardrobe with sliding doors. Mrs. Shalett has no closets and closet doors in her home. Thruout the house there are these vast, commodious wardrobes, with their doors which slide silently back and forth.

There are likewise no radiators visible. These were recessed in the walls—convectors, they are called now—and the change was made when new hot water gas fired boiler was installed.

From the west end of the living room you enter a quite captivating little circular, alcove study. It seems very far, indeed, from the "world around," with its high, small windows, its built-in bookcases of satiny cypress, and plaques on the wall from some old baronial castle, centuries back.

Italian Cabinet Work.

The cabinet work thruout the house was for the most part handmade by an Italian craftsman. In the light, beautiful dining room there are a buffet and dining table of dark mahogany, with the fine detail of a rare "antique," and dining chairs in ebony finish, with soft green and yellow striped upholstery. The walls are a quiet lemon yellow, and the draw drapes at the windows repeat, in their pattern, the "pillars" in the hall.

The large, handsomely remodeled kitchen is L-shaped, and ends in a most unusual breakfast corner.

At the top and back of the wainscot there is a deep iron container built in the wall. This holds soil and water for the plants and vines which are growing on two sides of the nook.

Upstairs Hall Gone.

Another most unusual feature of this kitchen are the sliding doors at the "floor to ceiling" cabinets.

No story, however short, is complete without mention of the excellence of the layout and treatment of the second floor bedrooms.

On this floor a central hall, "huge" as second floor halls once were, was eliminated, and space was salvaged for an additional room, this a charming study, with book lined walls, for Mrs. Shalett.

Besides this study, there are three bedrooms and three baths.

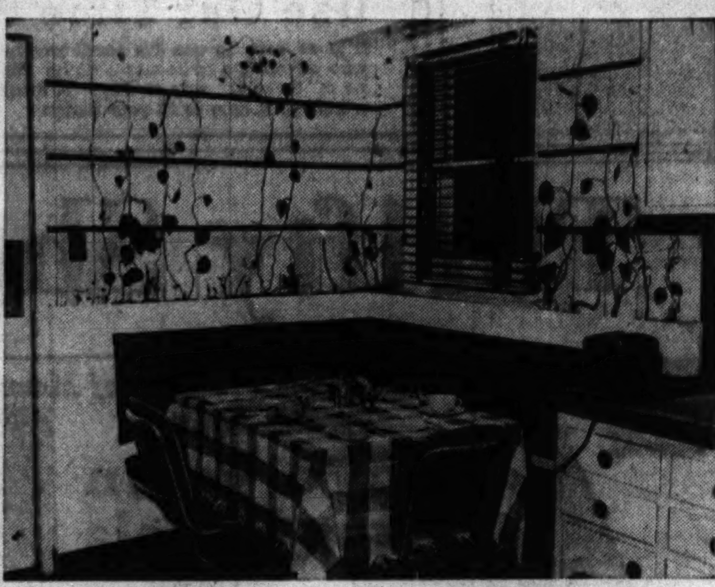
The boy's bedroom and bath are smartly tailored with a masculine air. The walls of the bedroom are covered with striped wall paper.

Bedroom in Blue.

The girl's bedroom is essentially feminine, with pale blue walls and blue satin backed beds. The bathroom has painted walls, hand decorated with "Pandora" boxes and gay butterflies.

The master bedroom has soft yellow walls and a deep blue carpeting, with an alcove for the beds which has its walls papered in yellow and gray paper.

Vines Around Kitchen Nook



A most unusual kitchen, a part of a beautiful piece of modernization work. Here we see a breakfast corner, with specially designed cabinet work and green vines climbing a trellis of horizontal red wood strips and vertical steel bars. Owners of the remodeled home are Mr. and Mrs. Lew Shalett, 5144 South Cornell avenue, Chicago. The architect is Bertrand Goldberg, 820 North Michigan avenue.

This Week in the Garden

Monday, May 13.

Cultivation of plants must not be neglected. There are many types of tools now available for special uses, such as narrow hoes to get in between closely planted material, but the careful gardener needs very few tools to carry on his work. A common hoe, a steel toothed rake, a spade, a lawn mower are about all that are needed. Tools always should be cleaned every time they are used. Keep the mower clean and the knives sharp; to avoid dulling the knives go over the lawn and collect all pieces of wood, wire, and everything else that will interfere with the cutting blades. Keep the mower well oiled. Never make a practice of adjusting the knives, but keep them sharp. Keep down weeds at all times. Keep all beds well edged. Tie up all vines. Cut back rampant growths on shrubbs. Water plants only when they need water.

Tuesday, May 14.

Do not be in a hurry to plant tender plants out of doors for a late frost may injure them. Wait until about Memorial day before removing house plants out of doors. Get the window boxes in condition for planting. Well planted boxes are an asset in any place. The person without an outdoor garden can enjoy window boxes and many delightful effects can be obtained from them. There are plants suitable for every situation unless it is too dark and even then changes can be made of the plant material. Grow the rosy morn petunia in the sun and the Boston fern, holly fern, asparagus fern, English ivy, and similar plants in the shade. Be sure the soil is rich. Sow annuals in the box, such as sweet alyssum and portulaca for fine bloom.

Wednesday, May 15.

This is a late season and garden work will come along in rapid succession. See that the plants are fertilized with a complete plant food to give them a good start. Shrubs in many gardens are neglected because they are hardy and able to withstand adverse conditions, but when the soil is cultivated around them, food supplied, and water given as needed, they respond with vigorous growth, luxuriant foliage, and high grade flowers. Do not overplant. Close planting can only result in few flowers and weak plants. This does not apply to carpet bedding, edging, and similar conditions where certain effects are desired. Prune all early flowering shubs soon after flowering to obtain new wood for next year's bloom. Better strawberries will be grown if the bed is fertilized as the buds are forming.

Thursday, May 16.

It is an excellent practice to mulch newly planted shrubs and trees. A light mulch of cut grass, leaves, peat moss, or other material will keep the soil from drying out and keeps down weeds. The mulch should be left all summer. Mulch perennial borders as soon as the weather becomes hot. Roses and fruit trees are much benefited by a mulch. Flowering hedges such as the flowering quince, spiræas, deutzias, lilacs, and others should be trimmed after the flowering period. Usually a hedge is best when severely cut for a dense undergrowth is desired. Fertilizer scattered along the sides of privet hedges and spread under will promote rapid growth.

Friday, May 17.

If the delphinium plants show signs of being affected with black, twisted, and deficient growth, dust with Bordeaux. Scatter some on the ground around each plant. Try spraying gladioli when the foliage is about 12 inches long with a mixture of two teaspoonsful of Paris green, two pounds of brown sugar, and three gallons of water. Spray once a week for the control of thrip. Keep spraying delphiniums, hollyhocks, and phlox with Bordeaux or dust with sulphur. Watch for oyster shell scale and spray with nicotine soap solution. The scale hatches at about this time and the young are easily controled.

Saturday, May 18.

Root lice or aphids on plants may be largely controled by using tobacco stems as a mulch. The stems can be purchased from supply houses by the bale. Tobacco dust worked into the soil also is effective. Spray fruit trees before the blossoms drop as a protection against the codling moth. Get a regular spraying calendar from the state experiment station. Cover the fences along the sides of the yard with annual flowering vines for they are most effective and make excellent backgrounds for perennials and annuals. The morning-glory, hyacinth bean, moon vine, and others are fine for the purpose. Sow a few gourds for the children. When planting seeds be sure to work the ground until it is a fine seedbed. Sow seeds thin rather than thick.

* * *

Officers will be elected and plans for Poppy day and the Memorial day parade will be made tomorrow night at a meeting of Jane A. Delano post at 8 South Michigan avenue.

* * *

Commodore Vanderbilt post will hold its sixth annual card party and entertainment Saturday night in the mural room of the Morrison hotel. Proceeds will benefit the sixth annual Boys' State at Springfield, Ill. Commander Michael J. Ronayne, in charge of arrangements, will be assisted by Warren E. Jones, executive chairman, and Neil D. Hyde, ticket chairman.

* * *

The junior group of Van Buren unit will hold a model meeting Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock at Marquette park fieldhouse, 67th street and Kedzie avenue. Mrs. Adeline Schlipf, junior adviser, has planned the program. Guests will include Mrs. Fannette Carlson, president of the unit; Mrs. Evelyn Gentry, district director, and Mrs. Essel Hewitt, district junior adviser.

SCHOLARSHIPS IN U. OF C. TEST ARE ANNOUNCED

Nineteen full scholarships and 22 half scholarships were awarded thru the 28th annual competition for prize scholarships to the University of Chicago recently. Sixty-five contestants from 53 high schools in all parts of the United States were either winners or honorable mentions. Thirteen hundred contestants took the examinations in Chicago and 16 other cities in the United States.

The competition offered six points for a full scholarship worth $300, three points for a half scholarship worth $150, and one point for honorable mention. The second year class of the university's four year college, with 21 points, led the list of winners for the first time in the history of the tests.

South area schools which scored are Hyde Park, Fenger and Thornton Township of Harvey. South siders who won full scholarships were Barbara L. Smith, 5621 Drexel avenue, of the university four year college; and Doris Westfall, 6825 Cornell avenue, of the same college. Winners of half scholarships from the south area are Paul E. Becker, 11121 Vernon avenue, Calumet High; Fred B. Crandall, Chicago Heights, Bloom Township High; Alberta C. Menzel, Homewood, Thornton Township High, and Norman A. Phillips, 68 East 102d place, Fenger High.

Plan Mothers' Tea

FLORENCE MILLER.

HELEN LOEB.

Miss Florence Miller, 5224 Ingleside avenue, and Miss Helen Loeb, 1621 East 69th street, are co-chairmen of the annual Mother's day tea to be given by Beta chapter of Lambda Sigma Phi sorority this afternoon at Kentucky Serves a Meal, 600 Rush street. Mothers of members and pledges will be special guests and a formal initiation of pledges will take place.

Boy Scouts to Present Hobby Show for Parents

Boy Scouts of Troop 1500 will entertain their parents and friends with a hobby show and a one act skit at St. John's Methodist church, 74th street and Jeffery avenue, at 7:30 o'clock Friday evening. A motion picture travelog in natural colors entitled, "A Journey Thru the Deep South," will also be presented by Dr. Eugene H. Wells.

Opera Subscription Drive to Open

By Edward Barry

The Chicago Opera company puts its case before the public tomorrow with the opening of the drive for 1940 season subscriptions. For many months the company has been busy with the 1,000 details involved in a season of opera and it will continue to be busy for many months to come. However, enough details are settled now to permit an announcement of general plans.

Mrs. Walter R. Kirk

The 1940 season will run six weeks—Nov. 2 to Dec. 14. It will consist of 36 subscription performances and at least one special nonsubscription performance. Subscription performances are scheduled for Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Friday, and Saturday evenings and Saturday afternoon. The Friday series will be a popular priced one sponsored by the board of education. The one special performance so far announced will fall on Saturday, Nov. 2, and will constitute both a gala opening of the 1940 season and a celebration of the 30th anniversary of the beginning of resident opera in Chicago.

Prices for season tickets (exclusive of boxes) range from $6 to $30 for the regular subscription cycles, $4.50 to $15 for the school board series. Persons who subscribe now, and who pay for their locations before June 15, will be allowed a 10 per cent discount from these prices. If payment is made between June 15 and Aug. 15, 5 per cent discount will be allowed.

Box subscriptions are $180 to $360 for each cycle except the Friday. The Friday price is $120. No discounts are allowed on box prices.

For the Nov. 2 performance season subscribers are given the benefit of the regular 10 per cent and 5 per cent reductions, provided

Symphonic Hour to Present Mother's Day Interpretation of Beloved Masterpiece

By Leon Harpole

ONE of the world's most famous and best beloved paintings will come to life this evening in the main studio of radio station W-G-N.

The two bowed, reverent peasants of Millet's "The Angelus" will lift their heads and speak in a living picture which the Chicago Tribune symphony under the direction of Henry Weber, the station's augmented chorus, Miss Marion Claire, and a cast of picked radio actors will dramatize during the third of W-G-N's new Symphonic Hours. For this the magic of music and of Mother's day has been woven into a moving presentation by William A. Bacher, who is directing and producing the Symphonic Hour.

Studio guests for this performance will be members of the Chicago Association of Commerce. They and the radio audience will hear an interpretation of the Millet masterpiece which draws a touching romance from the hearts of the simple, toilworn souls who pray while the angelus sounds softly at eventide.

Well chosen for dramatic interpretation is Millet's noble painting, which is reproduced in color across the top of this page. It is the artist at his best in compassionate understanding of simple human nature. It draws deep from the wellsprings of elemental human emotions; it is endowed with timelessness and universality of sentiment.

This French master, who was born in 1814, was able to put upon canvas the poetry and dignity of peasant life so notably because he himself was of peasant origin and because during his youth he himself wrested a scanty living from the soil for his fatherless family. He knew the hardship of poverty thruout almost all of his life, and was possessed of a tender, abiding sympathy with his people.

After years of privation in peasant fields, after further years of hardship as a struggling painter, Millet at last came into honor among his countrymen. Nine of his paintings were hung at the great exhibition at Paris in 1867; among these were "The Angelus," which is now in the Louvre at Paris, and the well known "The Gleaners." For this collection Millet was awarded a first class medal; the following year he was made a chevalier of the Legion of Honor.

Fame and fortune had come late to this lover of his lowly fellow man. He died in 1875, leaving uninitiated, except for charcoal sketches, a commission from the government of France. But he speaks eloquently down the ages thru his canvases. Said his great friend, Rousseau, "Under the garb of a peasant he hides thoughts worthy of Vergil."

This, then, is the story behind "The Angelus." For a new appreciation of its greatness, have it at hand for study at 9 o'clock this evening as the Symphonic Hour begins.

'Little Foxes' Unforgettable Drama

By Cecil Smith

"The Little Foxes," as it may currently be seen at the Selwyn theater, with Tallulah Bankhead as its star, is so unforgettable a theater piece that I cannot resist the impulse to dilate further upon its extraordinary merits, even at the risk of becoming boring and repetitious.

(Vandamm photo)
Tallulah Bankhead

The present production, perhaps more than any other serious drama in several seasons, indicates the power and emotional sweep of which the modern theater is capable, but which it too often fails to attain. The receptive playgoer, leaving the theater after a performance of "The Little Foxes," says to himself or to his companions: "This is what the theater is really for!"

From the beginning of the play to the final curtain not a moment goes by idly, nor is a single opportunity wasted, so far as I can discern. Each act rises with cumulative force to a final curtain of a gripping nature, and each successive act somehow manages to surpass the tension created by the preceding one. When I first saw "The Little Foxes" I was so carried away by the finish of the second act that a minute or more elapsed after the descent of the curtain before I even realized that I had been sitting in a theater. And this, I must confess, has not happened to me at any other play in a number of years.

There is, of course, no point in pretending that most of the characters portrayed in "The Little Foxes" are pleasant people. But strong drama usually results from the clash of primitive and frequently unpleasant motives. And Regina Giddens, the rapacious heroine impersonated by Miss Bankhead, is one of the most vivid stage portraits imaginable, a woman to be respected for her drive and hated for her implacable selfishness, a violent and many-sided character worthy of all Miss Bankhead's resource. Regina Giddens may not be any one you would pick for your best friend, but she is important and interesting enough to make an evening in her presence an exciting experience.

'Little Foxes' Unforgettable as Fine Drama

Herman Shumlin, who produced "The Little Foxes," made it a point of honor to deliver to Chicago and the nation precisely the cast with which the drama won its year long success in New York. This attitude, which is fortunately becoming increasingly popular with all far-seeing eastern producers nowadays, has preserved intact an ensemble of immaculate workmanship and unsurpassed team play.

• • •

Perhaps the most striking feature of the cast is the contrast between Miss Bankhead and Patricia Collinge. As pathetic Birdie, the aristocratic southern woman who had been forced to marry a parvenu and who took to solitary drinking to forget her unhappiness, Miss Collinge is the perfect antithesis of her domineering stage sister-in-law. And Miss Collinge is one of the few actresses in the country who could stand up completely against the brilliant competition of Miss Bankhead.

From the technical viewpoint the direction of the performance is of a quality we used to associate exclusively with such groups as the Abbey theater and the Moscow Art Players. Pace and timing are miraculous. In the first act, for instance, there is a difficult scene in which a piano duet played by Miss Collinge and Eugenia Rawls is counterpointed against conversation by Miss Bankhead and several others. The clarity with which the alternating elements of the situation are alternated, balanced, and brought into a single focus is an example of uncommonly expert direction. Without forgetting that we have seen a good many skilfully directed plays recently I should say that "The Little Foxes" is the most perfectly fused stage totality since "Amphitryon 38."

Kurt Katch, the despicable German consul who gets murdered every night in "Margin for Error," at the Grand Opera house, is now living out a neat little irony in his personal life. He now earns his living, in his first English speaking part, as a caricature of a Nazi official. Yet he himself is a German-Jewish refugee, and not many months ago he was ousted from 20 years' acting in German theaters by the order of a real life Nazi official.

Mr. Katch at one time knew Adolf Hitler, in Munich back in the early 1920s. At that time, according to his report, nobody took Hitler seriously except the small group of cronies who kept him company when he chose to visit the Toneisel, the favorite late evening hangout of Munich stage folk. "He was a joke with his salutes," Mr. Katch recounts. "But he had a sense of humor. 'You don't do it right,' we would tell him when he held his hand out in a Nazi salute. We would clench our hands in Fascist style. 'No,' he would say, smiling, holding his hand open, palm down. 'This way I can trap you better.' And he would smack down quickly with his palm."

"Margin for Error" now begins its second week as a Theater Guild and American Theater society subscription play. The subscription period ends Saturday, but the play will continue at the Grand Opera house indefinitely afterward.

• • •

Percy Waram, the roofraising exponent of the titular part in the best-selling "Life with Father" at the Blackstone theater, is no newcomer to the Chicago stage. Without going beyond my own collection of programs of plays I have seen I find four important previous engagements. He was last here as Sir Walter Raleigh in Maxwell Anderson's "Elizabeth the Queen," which played at the Illinois theater [whose site is now a parking lot on Jackson boulevard] in 1931. [Just a few months earlier, in the fall of 1930, Lillian Gish, who now plays Mother, had appeared here in "Uncle Vanya."] George Bernard Shaw's "Major Barbara," which, like "Elizabeth the Queen," was a Theater Guild production, brought Mr. Waram to the Blackstone in 1929 in the rôle of Bill Walker. In 1927 he played a considerable engagement at the Adelphi theater as Sir Guy Charteris, with Florence Reed in "The Shanghai Gesture." In 1923 he was the General Manager of Rossom's Universal Robots in the original cast of "R. U. R." at the Cort theater [now also replaced by a parking lot].

• • •

My old playbills also brought to light a few other interesting reminiscences. Harry Mestayer of "The Man Who Came to Dinner" appeared at the Great Northern in 1924 as Raoul Barton in a memorable performance of "Leah Kleschna." One of his co-performers in that cast was Claudette Colbert, since risen to greater glory, but lesser histrionic power, before the movie camera. Helen Flint of "The Man Who Came to Dinner" played with Richard Bennett in "The Barker" at the Blackstone in 1924. Miss Flint's present colleague, Diana [nee Doris] Dalton, appeared in the Harris, where she now is again, with Dennis King in "Petticoat Fever" in 1936. Eugenia Rawls of "The Little Foxes" was Jane Bennet in "Pride and Prejudice" at the Harris in 1936. Muriel Kirkland, lately in town in "Abe Lincoln in Illinois," was one of her sisters. And O. Z. Whitehead, the Clarence of "Life with Father," was seen as Justin in "Madame Bovary" at the Grand Opera house in 1937.

• • •

For only one more week will Philip Barry's gay epigrams be heard and Katharine Hepburn's fresh charm be beheld on the stage of the Erlanger theater. "The Philadelphia Story" closes Saturday night. It has been the Theater Guild's sole representation in our entire season. All five of the other subscription plays were presented by other producers. In the offing for next year are more Guild productions, however. Now that William Saroyan's "The Time of Your Life" has won both the New York Drama Critics' circle prize and the Pulitzer prize, it will almost undoubtedly tour in the fall. The newer Saroyan play, "Love's Old Sweet Song," with Walter Huston, is a success in New York and will presumably also come here next year. Also Robert Sherwood's play on the Finnish war, "There Shall Be No Night," in which Alfred Lunt, Lynn Fontanne, Richard Whorf, and Sydney Greenstreet have achieved another smash hit. When Franchot Tone returns from the movies in September Ernest Hemingway's and Benjamin Glazer's "The Fifth Column," also a Theater Guild production, will resume performances in New York preparatory to touring. If all goes well, therefore, next season ought to bring at least four Theater Guild plays.

• • •

Lafayette Mulligan, silent for some weeks, has crashed thru with another letter. "It is refreshing," he writes, "to read in your columns that 'The Man Who Came to Dinner' is not to be made into a motion picture for at least another year, since a cinema sale would automatically deprive many thousands here and in New York of a chance to see this brilliant comedy as acted by Messrs. Webb, Woolley, and their associates. At the same time it is interesting to speculate upon the screen possibilities of 'The Man Who Came to Dinner.' That octopus from William Beebe and those cockroaches from Prof. Metz will certainly come to life, while the penguins from Admiral Byrd will not be permitted to remain idle in the crate. They will have to strut their stuff, for in Hollywood nothing that is paid for is permitted to loaf on the job."

Sonny Vale, composer of "The Lady Is Right," which the Chicago Repertory group will present week-ends beginning May 25 at Forester's theater, 1016 North Dearborn street, claims to "run the gamut of nine different musical expressions" in his score. His exposition of these nine styles is a bit vague: "Some like it sweet and some like it hot; some like it boogie-woogie and some like it slow; some like it hi-de-ho and some like it symphonic; some like it blue and some like it happy; some like it romantic and some like it rhythmatic; and some just like it." A little more specifically, the producing group promises solo numbers accompanied by dances, choral arrangements, romantic duets, hymns, spirituals, and swing pieces.

The second edition of "Pins and Needles," the celebrated revue presented by members of the International Ladies' Garment Workers union, will go on a cross-country tour, starting Aug. 1. No date is available for the Chicago booking.

Lunts Star in Drama Dealing with the War

By Burns Mantle.

NEW YORK [Special].—There was considerable excitement in the local play mart last week. Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne started it by giving a performance of Robert E. Sherwood's newest drama, "There Shall Be No Night," that set a first night audience cheering and brought forth a variety of critical opinions.

These opinions ranged from charges that the play was propaganda urging us into the European war to rhapsodical declarations that it was, to the contrary, a sanely reasoned, tho impassioned, protest against war and all the bestialities into which men are sinking because of their continued acceptance of war as a means of worldly adjustments.

As is usual in such cases, I suspect the truth can be found between these extremes. "There Shall Be No Night" is inspirational drama insofar as it is based on the burning convictions of its author, and is played with an inspired passion of sympathetic interest by Mr. Lunt and Miss Fontanne.

• • •

Let me tell you a little of the play's history. Mr. Sherwood caught the idea for it from a radio broadcast from Helsingfors to which he was listening some months ago. So fired was he with enthusiasm for the idea that he put everything else aside and worked with it exclusively, telling all inquirers that he was doing a revision of a former play of his called "Acropolis."

He finished the play, which he then called "Revelation," the week the Lunts were playing a series of benefit performances in New York for Herbert Hoover's Finnish relief fund. He took a freshly typed copy to them as they were packing for the trip to their Wisconsin farm and asked that they read it when they got there. They were going home for a long, long rest after two years of touring.

Lynn Fontanne.

On the train Miss Fontanne finished the play first and wired Mr. Sherwood that she would be ready for rehearsals within the month. Mr. Lunt read it after her and was ready to start back to New York the following day.

The play came quickly to production, with these three enthusiasms back of it. And it has had a variety of experiences since then. Mostly they have been stirring experiences, with cheering and sometimes weeping audiences, and with wildly enthused and sometimes puzzled criticisms. But always there has been agreement that "There Shall Be No Night" is an impressive drama of amazing liveliness, and that the Lunts have never, in all their distinguished careers, been more impressively the superior actors that they are.

• • •

There is a feeling among some reviewers that the Sherwood drama is less creative than it should be because it is taken literally from facts of history in the making. It is as alive and timely as this morning's headlines.

It is the story of Finland's defense against the great bear, but it is as easy to substitute Denmark, or Norway, or Poland for Finland and get the same emotional reaction. It is the story of a great Finnish scientist, a research worker in the study of insanity, a winner of the Nobel prize, who struggles to rationalize what he has learned with what is happening in a stricken world.

He could not believe, in the Finland of February, 1938, that the invasion would come. He fought it with argument and reason. The world could not be torn apart by men who had lost their wits. Granted that we were, all of us, threatened by infection, by the twin terrors of cancer and insanity, still the intelligent would find a way to keep man from blindly groping his way back into the jungle.

• • •

Thus the doctor reasoned with his friends, and with his overpatriotic son, and with himself. But the invasion came, and his son died at the front, and he was drawn into the conflict.

In a beleagured school house in the north, surrounded by a half dozen others on patrol, he delivered a last pathetic little talk on the darkness of the mind that was threatening the world. But from the threat hope as well as despair should spring. As prophesied in the Revelations of the Old Testament, one day men should be revealed to themselves, "and they shall see His face and His name shall be in their foreheads, and there shall be no night there."

It is a weighty theme, but it lifts the play because of the poignancy and simple truth with which it is handled. There is always the feeling that these people are living, are neighbors to all right thinking humanity, never that they are only characters in a play.

In the end, with the little family torn apart, the home ruined, the future filled with an ominous rumbling, the doctor's wife and his old uncle are prepared to make their last stand. They will be at their windows, waiting with their rifles, and as the invaders swing around the corner of the street they will fire. Then the house will be burned and the end for them will have come.

• • •

Robert E. Sherwood.

I side with those who read into the Sherwood text, as any one must who knows him for the pacifist he is [see the preface to his "Idiot's Delight"], propaganda for a human search for understanding and peace rather than propaganda for war. Naturally, there are speeches that spring honestly from character and that can be twisted one way or another. The one that has caused most discussion is a reference by a radio commentator from America to America's attitude toward the war as that of a Pontius Pilate who would wash his hands of the whole affair. But this speech is quite in character, and is neither approached nor sustained as an argument of the dramatist.

Cast and production are masterly. Mr. Lunt did the staging, and with the same enthusiasm and feeling for the play's reality that his acting as the scientist betrays. Richard Whorf plays the radio man, and also designed the sets. Again, they are both fine jobs. Miss Fontanne is the American born wife of the doctor, and she, too, is superbly real. Sidney Greenstreet plays the uncle, and in support are Maurice Colbourne, Elizabeth Fraser, and Montgomery Clift.

• • •

The drama critics had been waiting for "There Shall Be No Night" before awarding their annual prize to the season's best play of American authorship. They voted a week ago and selected, by an 11 to 7 majority vote, William Saroyan's "The Time of Your Life."

Your correspondent, as a dissenter, was and is a little disappointed in them, but there isn't much that can be done about drama critics. They have a flair for the unusual and the experimental in the theater, growing weary of familiar patterns and emotions. But they carry their stand for originality beyond reason, I think, when they pass by so fine a play as Sherwood's in favor of the bizarre work of a promising but still undisciplined and unproved newcomer.

I am strengthened in my resentment in this particular instance because the night before the critics' meeting a second Saroyan play, "Love's Old Sweet Song," was produced and proved, by the confessions of even the Saroyanantics themselves, a fairly dull and formless affair, with nothing more than a few scenes of incidental comedy to relieve it.

There is some talk of Eddie Dowling reviving "The Time of Your Life" to cash in on the critics' award. In any event, it will be toured next fall.

Chez Singer's Kin in Midst of War

Reverberations of the guns at Narvik, Norway, punctuate the between-shows chatter backstage at Chez Paree these nights. Everett West, young romantic tenor now singing in his third engagement at the Chez within little more than a year, is a Norwegian and he and his brother own an interest in a fish cannery and a silver fox farm on the outskirts of Narvik. Many of his relatives live in that part of the country. As frequently as possible Everett listens to short wave broadcasts for news of the fighting.

West's most recent singing triumph was scored last Monday night when he appeared as the featured guest star of the Hour of Romance, broadcast over W-G-N and the Mutual network.

Recordings

RCA-Victor is now putting out a series of black label classics which will be warmly welcomed by those whose budgets permit only a small expenditure for records. These black seal records are repressings of records originally made some years ago and of European recordings which have never before been released in this country. They sell at prices far lower than the new red seals.

The quality of the black seal records is good. Maria Jeritza's voice sounds quite creamy in the "Liebestod" from Wagner's "Tristan and Isolde." Beniamino Gigli's is passionate and resonant in two lush Latin songs, Leoncavallo's "Mattinata" and De Curtis' "Torna a Surriento." Fritz Kreisler's playing of some Schubert and Weber is so successfully re-recorded that the vitality of the original is kept intact.

Black seal records come in albums and single disks both. Several of the standard symphonies of Mozart, Beethoven, Schubert, Brahms, and Tschaikowsky are now ready. There is an English recording of the Grieg piano concerto. The single disks include songs by Amelita Galli-Curci, Margarete Matzenauer, John McCormack, Enrico Caruso, and Reinald Werrenrath. There are instrumental solos by Ignace Jan Paderewski, Fritz Kreisler, Artur Rubinstein, and Yehudi Menuhin, and orchestral pieces conducted by Frederick Stock, John Barbirolli, and Pablo Casals.

All these are electrical recordings. All have been made from matrices which have been newly molded from the master matrix.

The Victor company stresses the fact that the appearance of an artist or an orchestra in the black label classics does not mean that he or it has been withdrawn from the red seals.

New Ballets

Two new ballets, the works of important choreographers, were added to the répertoire of the Vic Wells ballet of London during April. The first was "The Wise Virgins," created by Frederick Ashton. Music by Bach was used, as arranged by Constant Lambert and orchestrated by William Walton. Scenery and costumes were designed by Rex Whistler. Ninette de Valois choreographed the other item, "The Prospect Before Us." For this Constant Lambert arranged and orchestrated some pieces by William Boyce. Roger Furse designed the costumes and décor after Rowlandson.

Vaudeville

Groucho Marx.

Vaudeville on the stages of the loop picture palaces takes a sharp upward swing this week with the advent of several valuable attractions. The Marx Brothers — Groucho, Chico, and Harpo—are currently creating a madhouse of the Chicago theater with their latest show, "Go West." This is a 70 minute spree that will serve as the basis for their next film. Their company of 35 involves besides themselves the Frazee Sisters, song duo; Robert Grandin, former W-G-N tenor; Ann Lee, Chicago songstress and dancer; Louise Squires and Peggy Carroll of the films; Darlene Walders, specialty dancer; Alden Chase; the dance team of Sethma and Rudolph, and the Cactus Cuties, dancing chorus directed by Bobby Connolly. On the screen is "It All Came True," with Ann Sheridan, Jeffrey Lynn, and Humphrey Bogart. On Friday the incoming stage show will feature Bob Hope with Jerry Colonna and Brenda and Cobina, none of whom should need introduction.

Friday also will see the Oriental theater's welcome return to a single feature-stage show policy, following its successful showing of "Gone with the Wind." The vaudeville bill will be headed by the popular Milton Berle, fresh from his first dramatic engagement in "See My Lawyer." Other important stars will succeed Berle in later weeks, while all the films will be first showings in Chicago.

Jimmie Lunceford, "The Harlem Express," and his much recorded orchestra offer the week's swing music at the State-Lake theater. His accompanying all-Harlem revue entertains with such acts as the Three Dandridge Sisters, Swan and Lee, the Miller Brothers and Lois, Willie Smith, the Lunceford Glee club, and Jimmie Crawford, tom-tom beater.

At the Rialto theater Myrna Dean adds to her laurels with another week's holdover. Joan Carroll has joined her for the stage performance, and Charles Country and Kenny Brenna continue to supply the comedy. "Guilty Parents" is the motion picture.

CHICAGO PLAYBILLS

CONTINUING:

Chicago's Shortcomings as Ranking Musical Center Noted

City Is High on Quantity, but Quality Is Low

By Cecil Smith.

How many Chicagoans have reflected upon the fact that this city is now one of the most active musical centers in the whole world? While I have not made any actual tally, I am sure it could easily be established that only New York City, in the whole world, supports a larger total number of concert, recital, and opera performances in a year than Chicago now does.

With activity in the European musical centers diminished, despite many courageous efforts to keep things going, this country alone remains in a confident position to maintain a vigorous and diversified musical life. In South American cities and in Mexico, to be sure, there is a goodly amount of music to be heard, but the quantity is still comparatively small, and public taste runs primarily to opera—except, to some extent, in Mexico, where Carlos Chavez has awakened a growing enthusiasm for symphonic music.

As I look back over the musical season that now begins to scatter toward its close, I can, of course, recall many arresting and valuable musical events. Of these it would be pleasant to speak. But there are also several startling deficiencies in our musical life, all of which must be brought to light and corrected before we shall have earned the right to call Chicago a fully developed musical metropolis.

What has happened to chamber music in Chicago? Virtually the only music for small groups Chicago heard this season was provided in three poorly rehearsed programs of Hans Lange's Chamber orchestra and four poorly rehearsed concerts by the Saidenberg symphonietta. The Pro Arte quartet, the Coolidge quartet, and the Kolisch quartet were all conspicuous by their absence. The entire literature of string quartet music, including many of the supreme masterpieces of the world, lay totally neglected.

This condition is not unfortunate; it is shameless. In years gone by a chamber music society sponsored concerts by leading groups at popular prices. This organization has now either disbanded or retired into ignominious silence, and nobody has arisen to take its place. With the exception of the universities, even the music schools make no conscientious effort to bring their talented performers together for self-effacing and artistic chamber music performances. Between the exploitation of single individuals and the concerts of full size orchestras, Chicago has forgotten the existence of half the world's instrumental music.

• • •

In the lyric theater our record has not been much better. Next year, for the first time in a decade, we shall have an opera company we can be proud of. This is an enormous step ahead. Meanwhile, however, what are we doing in the way of experimentation in smaller musical performances in the theater? Evidently the Salzburg Opera Guild came here in vain, for nobody has seized upon the valid idea that chamber opera, exquisitely performed and expertly staged, occupies a different niche and employs a wholly different repertory from that of full size grand opera.

Public support of the dance has declined appreciably in the last two seasons, especially support of local dance groups. The importation of the Littlefield ballet two years ago dealt a body blow to local dance enterprise, for the opera ballet provided at least a nucleus of work for a permanent dance organization. The record of the last year in local dance production is downright shocking, and argues that Chicago dancers—many of whom are thoroly capable—now have no means of appearing before the public.

Lincoln Kirstein's American ballet caravan has made a place for itself in New York and on the road as the ballet counterpart of a chamber orchestra or a chamber opera company. A ballet company does not need to be large or plushy in order to be artistically stimulating. Chicago cannot be proud of itself until it supports a permanent local dance group of high competence and artistic imagination.

• • •

Another area in which Chicago is still backward is the production of new music. Only the Illinois Symphony orchestra, without which our musical life would be infinitely poorer, has consistently and creatively attempted to bring the city abreast of current developments in contemporary music. The Chicago Symphony orchestra plays some new music, but not nearly enough, and not nearly enough of it daring or experimental. Even a tepid novelty, it seems, causes many of the Friday subscribers to wince.

Solo recital programs, for the most part, run according to formula. The amount of recent violin literature, to cite only a single example, which remains unplayed here is appalling. Visiting recitalists have train fares and managerial fees to pay and they are not likely to risk their immediate popularity by venturing off on new paths. Local recitalists find it enough of a struggle to establish themselves and keep themselves established, and they are not going to risk anything for the cause of new music either.

• • •

We need a modern music organization in Chicago, like the once flourishing International Society for Contemporary Music, which weakly gave up the ghost when the depression set in, or like New York's League of Composers [tho without the cult element that curses this otherwise useful group]. We cannot continue forever upon the assumption that only museum pieces are worth putting on public display.

In summary, I should say that our musical life is extensive, but uncourageous. The old rut is a comfortable one, and nobody wants to be the first to steer out of it. Quantitatively Chicago is one of the most important musical centers in the world. Qualitatively—well, what do YOU think?

HERE ALL OF THESE DAYS

"Some of These Days" is back in Chicago. Sophie Tucker, who long ago outlived the soubriquet, "Last of the Red Hot Mammas," is the new star of the Chez Paree show.

Notes of Music and Musicians

Chicago's Musical guild spends some of its energies in the worthy task of selecting thru auditions and presenting in debut recitals young musicians who merit them. Two of the four chosen during the last season will be heard tomorrow night in Kimball hall, Adele Modjeska, violinist, and John Toskey, pianist. The latter is a native of Chicago and has received most of his training from Aletta Tenold. Miss Modjeska comes from Hammond, Ind., but has studied here with Amy Neill and Stella Roberts. To tomorrow's concert she will contribute performances of Vieuxtemps' concerto No. 4 in D minor and items by Desplanes, Bach, Bloch, de Falla, and Wieniawski. Representative works by Bach, Chopin, Brahms, Scriabin, and Debussy will exhibit Mr. Toskey's talents.

Tuesday night's recital in Kimball hall will be given by Lillian Sugar, soprano. Her program specializes in German lieder, listing songs by Mozart, Mendelssohn, Wagner, and Erich Zeisl. Other numbers include an aria from Goetz's "The Taming of the Shrew," two Negro spirituals, arias by Gluck and Handel, and songs by Olmstead, Herbert Hughes, and Frank Bibb. Kurt Adler will accompany.

Lillian Sugar.

Another vocal recital is scheduled for Kimball hall on Wednesday. This one will be sung by Adeline Zach, mezzo-soprano. On her varied program are compositions by Gluck, Scarlatti, Verdi, Gretchaninoff, Medtner, Schubert, Satie, Bizet, La Forge, Horsman, and others.

The Woman's Club theater will be the scene of Michael Signorelli's recital on Thursday night. The tenor of the Chicago City Opera company will sing arias from "Fedora," "L'Arlesiana," "Werther," "Andrea Chénier," and "L'Italiana in Algeri." The aria from the last named opera is famous for its difficult and high coloratura passages. The accompanist will be Leo Kopp.

Three of Bach's Brandenburg concertos will be played on a concert in the University of Chicago's Mandel hall tonight. They will be played by the orchestra of the university's Collegium Musicum under the direction of Siegmund Levarie. Helen Kotas will play the first horn part in the first concerto. In the fourth Wesley Krogdahl will perform the first flute part. Jean Williams, pianist; Lucy Nielson, violinist, and Mr. Krogdahl will have the solo parts in the fifth concerto.

Goldie Guy Martin, pianist, and La Julia Rhea, soprano, will be presented in recital by the Tougaloo College Alumni of Chicago at the Du Sable auditorium, 49th and State streets, this afternoon at 4 o'clock.

The Woman's Concert Ensemble of Chicago, directed by Fanny Arnsten-Hassler, will give the first performance of George H. Shapiro's arrangement for small orchestra of Loeillet's Sonata No. 2 for oboe on its program in the Auditorium hotel this afternoon. Also to be played will be Bach's Second Brandenburg Concerto, Eric Coates' London Suite, a serenade by Beethoven, and Mazaninni's "Zamboanga." Paula Zwane, soprano, will be the guest artist.

Richard Czerwonky will give the third and last of his violin recitals in the De Paul University Little theater, 64 East Lake street, at 4 o'clock today. The program follows:

Chaconne	Vitali-Charlier
Concerto, B Minor	d'Ambrosio
Two Fragments: Mirage; A Carnival of Life	Czerwonky
Mélodie	Tschaikowsky
Prison	Radie Britain
Pièce en forme d'Habanera	Ravel
Impromptu	Leach
Hejre Kati	Hubay

For its last concert of the season the Lake View Musical society will meet at the Chicago Woman's club, 72 East 11th street, Monday at 2 o'clock. The program will feature the winning compositions of its recent local contest: Radie Britain's String quartet, Theodora Troendle's "The City," and choral works by Miss Britain and Emma Menke. Those performing will include Margaret Conrad, Lucile Johnson, Goldie Gross, Helen Krumm, Miss Troendle, Catherine Baker, Lilyan Sacks, May Barron, Bertie Long, and Alma Wallace Randall.

At the Woman's Club theater the American Opera company is continuing to give Sunday night performances and will duly present Verdi's "Il Trovatore" there tonight. The cast will have Florence Brown as Leonora, Mildred Solarz as Inez, Berenice Lakin as Azucena, Benjamin Premack as Manrico, Vincent Lawrence as Count di Luna, Robert Ladoff as Ferrando, and Martin Boughan as Ruiz. The conductor again will be Giovanni Berrafato.

The first of this week's vocal recitalists will be Marion Schroeder, soprano, appearing in the Civic theater this afternoon. Chicago born and trained, Miss Schroeder is now established here as a performer and teacher. She has sung leading rôles in the two Greek operas presented at the Civic Opera house, "Marco Bozzaris" and "Peruze"; she is soprano soloist at St. James' Episcopal church, and she is a member of the W-G-N octet. Edgar Nelson will accompany her in today's program, which lists the following songs and arias:

Marion Schroeder.
[Connelly Photo.]

Vergin, tutto Amor	Durante
Quia respexit, from the Magnificat	Bach
Ch'io mi scordo di te	Mozart
Cradle Song, from "The Maid of Pskov"	Rimsky-Korsakoff
Pastorale	Stravinsky
Song of the Little Fish	Arensky
Minuet	Tanieff
Ganymede	Schubert
Auftrage	Schumann
O liebliche Wangen	Brahms
Mir glaenzen die Augen	Trunk
Après un rêve	Fauré
La Pluie and Hymne au Soleil, from "Miarka"	Georges
Three popular Greek songs	Ravel
A Feast of Lanterns	Bantock
Slumber Song	Hoffmann

Giovanni Polifronio, violinist, will give his annual recital in Kimball hall today. With Irma Irene Zinter at the piano, he will play Tartini's "Devil's Trill" Sonata, Beethoven's Concerto, and pieces by Liszt, Wieniawski, and Paganini. The assisting artist will be Claire Menard Schulte, soprano, who will be heard in two groups of songs.

The annual dramatized performances of Mendelssohn's "Elijah," by the united choirs of the New First Congregational church, Ashland and Washington boulevards, will be given a week from tonight, May 19; Friday, May 24, and Sunday, May 26.

Opera to Open 1940 Drive for Subscriptions

they pay for their seats when they pay for their regular subscription. The opera that night will be Verdi's "Aida."

The Chicago Opera company is a direct successor to the Chicago City Opera company, which functioned from 1935 to 1939, inclusive, and is part of the long line of resident companies which have been giving opera here for 30 years. The Auditorium was used from 1910 to 1929, the Civic Opera house from 1929 to the present.

Chairman of the board of the newly reorganized company is Chauncey McCormick. The president is Walter Kirk. Mrs. Kirk is active in the box committee. Jason F. Whitney is vice president, Abner Stilwell treasurer, William D. Saltiel secretary, James C. Thompson business manager.

Chauncey McCormick is chairman of the operatic advisory board which consists of Mrs. Charles Swift, John Alden Carpenter, and Frederick Stock. Mayor Edward J. Kelly of Chicago is honorary chairman. Mrs. John Alden Carpenter will serve as chairman of the woman's board.

The artistic direction of the newly reorganized company has been placed in the hands of Henry Weber. He long served the opera as conductor, and took over the temporary post of musical director immediately after the death of Paul Longone last summer. His experience includes radio and general concert work, as well as opera. He has been musical director of W-G-N since 1934, and has appeared many times as conductor of the Grant park concerts.

Virtually no announcements regarding répertoire and personnel for the 1940 opera season have yet been made. However, the greatly increased backing which the company has lately secured and the efforts which have already been made to improve standards promise well for a gala season. A person buying a season ticket immediately, even tho he has no definite idea of what his investment will bring him, is not taking too much of a gamble. Subscriptions will be received at the company's office, 20 North Wacker drive. The telephone is Randolph 9229.

An important première is due tomorrow evening when Fritz Siegal, concert master of the Seattle Symphony orchestra, presents a first Chicago performance of the Ernest Bloch violin concerto with the Illinois Symphony orchestra. Izler Solomon will conduct. The Studebaker theater will house the concert.

Fritz Siegal.
[Nelidoff Photo.]

Mr. Siegal is the dark, fiery little man who served as concert master of the Illinois Symphony orchestra from 1936 to 1939 and who made several successful solo appearances in Chicago. His playing has a fervor and seriousness which should make him a sympathetic interpreter of a major work by the fervent and serious Bloch.

Ernest Bloch has received little of the general publicity which has made the names of innovators like Schönberg and Hindemith so famous, but he ranks nevertheless as one of the most important of living composers. He has gone his own way, as every completely sincere creative artist must, and has used only that part of the contemporary musical idiom which could be useful and natural to him. His music, therefore, has no arbitrary modernism in it—no effects which are meant simply to be arresting or up-to-date.

Bloch has been more successful than any other Jewish composer in giving much of his music a pronounced racial character. This does not mean that he makes extensive use of actual Hebraic melodies. Rather, he manages by more subtle means to inject into his work the intensely serious and mystical quality of Jewish literature and religion.

Bloch was born in Switzerland 60 years ago. He has spent some of his life in the United States, engaged in pedagogical work in Cleveland and San Francisco. His music has made its way steadily, if unspectacularly. Reference to the program book of the Chicago Symphony orchestra, to take a local example, reveals the fact that Bloch's name has appeared 22 times during the last quarter century.

The violin concerto is a recent work, having been completed only in 1938. Joseph Szigeti, Hungarian violinist, has become its best known exponent.

Besides the concerto, tomorrow night's concert promises Dvorak's "Carnaval" overture and the second symphony of Borodin.

All Educational Units Urged to Co-Operate

Which university for my son?—which college for my daughter?—what is the endowment at college A?—what is the faculty rating at college B? Answers to these and other questions will be found in "Higher Education," by Dr. John Evans, education editor. On sale at Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street, or Tribune Tower. Price, 10 cents, by mail, 13 cents.

By the Rev. John Evans.

The processes of education have become so diverse that the natural relation of the sundered parts is almost impossible to discover. This opinion was recently expressed by A. W. Merrill, superintendent of public school at Des Moines, Ia., at a meeting of the American Council on Education where he took educators to task for becoming individualistic.

Mr. Merrill argued that neither coöperation nor coördination any longer prevailed in education because school people at all levels have taken the doctrine of the division of labor too seriously.

"Our very devotion to the purpose for which we strive gives a wrong perspective," he said. "Our own little field, or piece of work, by its closeness shuts out of our sight other work and other workers; and what we do not see we fail to appreciate."

This has resulted, Mr. Merrill maintained, in the school being broken up into levels which know nothing of each other; the secondary school and higher education are separated on the basis of subject matter, and barriers are erected which hamper understanding and sympathy.

• • •

To remedy the existing situation, Mr. Merrill enunciated as fundamental principles:

1. Recognition that the education of any individual is a continuous process from the kindergarten thru college;
2. Recognition that school subject matter is interrelated and interdependent;
3. Recognition that the result depends largely on the personality of the pupil and his individual reaction.

Success in coöperation demands that teachers forego any distrust or antagonism to workers in fields other than their own, Mr. Merrill urged, and that in the preparation for his career was the best time for a teacher to learn this appreciation of other peoples' attainments.

"Surely there is no more hopeful field for developing this idea of coöperation than in the preparation of teachers. The prospective teacher who enters college has himself been the object of much experimental practice by former college graduates, therefore it should not be difficult to get this prospective teacher into a sympathetic state of mind which would lead to an appreciation of coördination," said Mr. Merrill.

Concluding his argument, Mr. Merrill declared that secondary schools provide a natural laboratory for training teachers during their college education, and he suggested that such a laboratory program should be implemented by a period of apprenticeship after the ordinary practice of teaching.

Educational Notes

St. Norbert college, West De Pere, Wis., is campaigning for $500,000 for a rebuilding program to relieve crowded conditions on the campus. This includes the construction of a student residence hall to accommodate 400 students, and the removal of the high school day department from the campus to a site where it can be operated as a separate unit. Frank Hoffman of Manitowoc is diocesan campaign chairman.

The goal of $225,000 for the debt liquidation of the Wesley foundation at the University of Illinois has been reached. Launched 18 months ago by Bishop Ernest Lynn Waldorf, with J. R. Jackson of Freeport as co-chairman and H. P. Scott, business secretary of the foundation, cash and pledges for the required amount were secured from 20,000 individuals. Approximately 500 Methodist churches in Illinois met in full their quotas, according to P. L. Windsor, treasurer of the fund.

Dr. Malcolm S. MacLean, director of the general college at the University of Minnesota, has been elected sixth president of Hampton institute, Virginia. Announcement was made by J. Henry Scattergood, chairman of the board of trustees, at a special meeting of faculty and students held last week at Hampton. Dr. MacLean will deliver the commencement address on May 20, and take office on July 1.

Alumnæ of Blue Mountain college will convene on Saturday, May 18, at Blue Mountain, Miss., for their annual meeting. Miss Lucile Schilling, 3251 Kenilworth avenue, Berwyn, president of the Chicago Alumnæ association, announces that invitations have been sent to former students in 46 states and in foreign countries.

Speakers for the social science seminary at Rockford college June 7 and 8 have been announced by Prof. Leslie Koempel, chairman of the joint faculty-alumnae committee. Prof. Hardy Wickwar and Miss Prudence Ross, district certification representative of the IERC will both speak on "The Expanding Rôle of Government in Social Work." Dr. Dorion Cairns will address the Saturday morning group on "The Conflicting Philosophies in Nazi Germany"; Prof. Isabel Abbott will discuss "British Foreign Policies," and Dr. Meno Lovenstein will read a paper on "Economics and the War."

U. of I. Concert.

During the next, its fiftieth anniversary season, the Chicago Symphony orchestra will journey to the University of Illinois to play on the school's symphony series for 1940-'41. The date will be Oct. 29.

C. P. A. EXAMINATION
. . . . NEW CLASS PLAN

Thoroughly tested over 3 years, this new plan embodies strikingly different and efficient methods. The quizzer method (so effective in preparation for the bar examinations), an optional laboratory period of 3 hours each Saturday afternoon for practice in answering problems under examination room conditions, an intensive review of accounting, continuous coaching by successful C.P.A.'s, thorough study of A. I. A. examination problems, and consultation at any time with an experienced C.P.A.—these are some of the facilities and services.

Evidence of our success in coaching for the examinations is seen in the fact that over 10% of the C.P.A.'s in the U. S. are LaSalle members. Furthermore, if you fail in passing the examination, we will continue coaching you without further cost until you do pass.

These loop evening classes begin the week of May 26 and continue for 25 weeks. Classes meet once a week—one on Tuesday, one on Thursday and one on Friday—at 6:30 P. M. The cost is moderate and convenient payment terms can be arranged.

A PICTURE OF "OOMPH"

At last the "oomph" girl, Ann Sheridan, comes into her deserved own! She's been cast in an "oomphful" picture! See "It All Came True" (Chicago).

Only an HOUR Show—BUT a GOOD One

By Mae Tinee.

Good Morning!

ONE HOUR (CROWDED).

SUPPOSING—

You have just ONE HOUR—one IDLE hour to spend BEFORE

Your TRAIN leaves or

You have to MEET your better, ssh!

—OTHER—half, or

Keep that LUNCHEON date or do

The DOZEN and one things or BE the

DOZENS or more PLACES one often has on the CALENDAR, preceded by an IDLE HOUR. WHAT

Would you DO with that HOUR?

Well NOT, you say, go to see a MOVIE what

With DOUBLE FEATURES and everything. THO,

You say, there'd be nothing you'd like BETTER

THAN to see a movie. But you have JUST one HOUR.

Just ONE idle HOUR!

Well, all the above chatter and LARGE CAPITAL LETTERS are

For one thing ONLY, to REMIND you that there IS in Chicago's

LOOP, a theater that has a ONE HOUR SHOW.

It advertises the FACT on its MARQUEE [Webster says a marquee is a field tent but I know better] AND

On the wall inside is an ILLUMINATED clock which permits you

To see for YOURSELF that marquees don't LIE. [Sometimes.]

This is the TELENEWS Theater on State street. Its Program consists of ALL the newsreels. ALL the LATEST war news. FASHIONS and PERSONALITIES also

Parade before you—and you find your one IDLE hour

An hour CROWDED with interesting information.

Because this house shows all FACT and NO fiction

It has nothing for a REVIEWER to Review, CRITICALLY. But it has SO MUCH

To offer the person who CAN only or

CARES only to spend a SHORT time in a

MOVIE theater, that I just thought I'd

Give it a GREAT BIG hand this SUNDAY MORNING.

See you tomorrow.

The Drums of Fu Manchu

Turn to THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE Comic Book magazine for the next episode of "The Drums of Fu Manchu," the new movie thriller which is scheduled to be shown at numerous theaters thruout the Chicago area.

High Prestige of Conductors Recent Trend

By Edward Barry.

Today the symphony orchestra conductor is the cock of the musical walk. His prestige is greater than that of any other artist, interpretative or creative. His postures and gestures and facial expressions receive more attention than the music itself. Men and women who are hazy as to the difference between Richard and Johann Strauss, and who are quite willing to go thru life without ever becoming intimately acquainted with either of them, will nevertheless put down sizable sums of good American money for the privilege of sitting in an auditorium behind the finely tailored back of some podium idol of the day. The sight of those slim hands seeming to call the music out of silence and to mold it into exquisite shapes, an occasional glimpse of that pleading, cajoling, or threatening face in profile—this is widely regarded not merely as a musical experience but as the most ecstatic musical experience which it is given to man to undergo.

It is interesting to recall the fact that this conductor who stands so commandingly before the orchestra, and who seems more important than all the composers from Palestrina to Virgil Thomson lumped together, is a phenomenon of only the day before yesterday. For many centuries music progressed satisfactorily without him, and it is not certain that the art would immediately languish and die if by reason of some unthinkable calamity his ministrations were suddenly to cease.

True, the conductor in his capacity of time beater goes back very far, but the methods of the pioneers do not bear any strong resemblance to those of their successors. And the difference in prestige is greater still.

• • •

The first "conductors" were noisy and uncouth fellows who marked time by means of recurrent nonmusical sounds of one type or another. In ancient Egypt one or two men would be delegated to clap their hands in rhythm in order to keep the musicians together. Among the early Greeks three methods of time beating were in use. One was to beat upon a stool, another to click with one's foot, the third to snap one's fingers. It is difficult to reconcile any of these processes with the dignity of 20th century conductors.

It is strange that so seemingly simple an idea as a visual, and therefore silent, indication of the beater should have been long in coming. Yet the truth is that the noisy methods of marking the time persisted in one form or another for more than 2,000 years. In the late middle ages organists were still tapping their benches with their keys—playing their instruments at the same time by heaven knows what miracles of contortion!

• • •

In the meantime silent beating was finding favor here and there and various ancestors of the baton had begun to make their appearance. It was early realized that the time beater's motions would be more easily seen and understood if he held something long, or at least large, in his hand. Scrolls and staffs were used, also kerchiefs tied to sticks.

Many were the varieties of conducting experimented with during early modern times. The organist or harpsichordist would direct from his instrument by means of violent motion of head, body, and sometimes hands. The principal violinist would bob his head around in rhythm, the while he would continue to saw away on his instrument. In emergencies he had to cease playing altogether and use his bow to give an incisive beat. These methods, by the way, are still in use with church choirs and small instrumental ensembles.

When groups of musicians became larger and scores more complicated, and when the necessity of keeping the conductor free from all other responsibilities was at last clearly seen, other problems began to arise. Was it polite for the director to turn his back on the audience and give his full attention to the orchestra? Those who answered this question in the negative tried facing the audience and compelling the orchestra to pick up the beat from behind. Others turned sideways as a compromise. Still others stood in the middle of the orchestra and whirled about at intervals.

• • •

Astonishing tho it may seem, the 19th century was well along before the stage was set for the appearance of the modern conductor. Orchestras had grown large, the baton had replaced the keys and scrolls and sticks of other times, and the art of composition had developed in a way which made it impossible any longer to put up with the often perfunctory, mechanical performances of the past. While classical music undoubtedly suffered somewhat from the stiffness inherent in the old time methods, romantic music—the characteristic music of the 19th century—would suffer very much more. It would, in fact, be incomprehensible. Problems of nuance, color, and balance had to be worked out with the greatest nicety. Performances had to be personalized somewhat. This is where the modern conductor stepped into the picture. As responsibilities grew, the prestige of the conductor's job grew. The men who now assumed direction of the orchestras of Europe were bigger men in every way than the vast majority of those who had preceded them.

• • •

However much one may deplore many of the mannerisms of the present day, it is impossible not to admit that the modern conductor is largely responsible for the flexibility and expressiveness of modern orchestral performances and for the vastly improved technical and musical competence of the average orchestral musician. For the conductors of the middle and late 19th century found that no perfunctory running thru of the piece was sufficient preparation for public performance and they began insisting on more and more rehearsals. They used this rehearsal time to work out special effects of phrasing, accent, color, etc., in an effort to give the music an expressive power undreamt of in earlier days. They also, almost as a by-product of this effort, compelled the orchestra men to be cleaner technically and more intelligent musically than orchestra men had ever had to be before.

This development which began with Berlioz and Wagner and Liszt, and which continued with Von Bulow and Richter and Muck, has gone on right to the present time. The conductor of 1940 contrasts spectacularly with the prototype of 1820 in that he is responsible not only for the tempo and the metrical precision of the performance but also for the thousand minor details which go to make up a particular "interpretation." Orchestra music can now be performed with much the same flexibility and humanness and expressive power that has always rendered the work of the soloist so moving.

DANCES IN WALNUT ROOM

Betty O'Brien is one of the Jane Hadley dancers whose fresh and smartly conceived routines give something of a musical revue air to the nightly floor shows in the Walnut room of the Bismarck hotel. Art Kassel's orchestra is a featured attraction.

South's contract is six no trump. West opens the heart queen. Would you rather have the North-South hands and try to fulfill the contract, or the East-West hands and try to defeat it?

Answer—You should choose the East-West hands and defeat the contract, but in order to do so your defense must be very shrewd.

Dummy's heart king wins the first trick and the diamond king is played. If West, winning with the blank ace, makes the "natural" return of a spade or a heart, declarer can take the rest of the tricks. Suppose West continues with a heart. Dummy wins and every diamond is cashed, followed by the ace-king of spades. With three cards left, dummy holds the spade five, the heart four, and the club six; East's cards do not matter; South holds the A-Q-J of clubs. West cannot safely reduce to three cards. He must hold a spade and a heart to overlay dummy, hence cannot guard his club king. Whatever he lets go, declarer can take the rest.

If, however, at the third trick, after West takes his diamond ace, he immediately shifts to a low club, directly up to South's major tenace, he prematurely knocks out South's entry, and tho he gives South two club tricks on the spot, these with the nine cold tricks in dummy will be one trick short of contract. And the squeeze can never be executed.

Since the earliest days of bridge—long before contract swept the country and the world—mathematically minded players have wrestled with all sorts of formulas—simple, advanced, and metaphysical—by means of which high card combinations might be evaluated precisely. Thus, over the years, the long suffering bridge public has been deluged, inundated, and drowned by "point counts" sired by at least a dozen different "authorities." Bridge wars have been fought over the respective merits of five points for an ace, three points for a king in one system, and four points for an ace, three points for a king in another. Some of these systems have contented themselves with full digits; others, more meticulous or more ambitious, have toyed with fractions, in the effort to appraise more truly the potentialities of an isolated jack. The public, always laudably anxious to improve its bidding, has conscientiously tested these esoteric formulas, but after an honest effort to add such a string as 4, 3, 1½, 2, 3½, 5, ½ in a short enough time to forestall the glares of the opponents [should the total be one-half point below bidding requirements, it would mean the player would have to make an unethical "pass" after a long hesitation] has abandoned calculus in favor of the more rapid and a least equally accurate trick counting.

An amusing and undoubtedly typical account of the tribulations befalling bridge mathematicians is given by Robert S. Burger in the current number of The Bridge World Magazine. Mr. Burger moans:

"The first thing I want you to understand is that I'm a mathematician. Everything, so far as I'm concerned, translates itself into numbers. They go whirring around in my brain for most of the 24 hours; they form themselves into neat little patterns and thereby fill me with admiration and awe; if there are odds against anything I must compute them or suffer terribly.

"Inevitably I became interested in bridge. I learned the game chiefly by reading the bridge columns; I was comparatively far advanced in it long before I played it for the first time. Then followed the essential period of practical experience, with its lessons taught me by thousands of errors and hundreds of irate partners. I developed to the point where soon I could hold my own in any company; so I believed, at least; so I believe now.

"All the popular methods for computing high card values filled me with horror. They were so hopelessly illogical, so completely unmathematical. I accepted two basic premises: First, that the values of any cards, or combinations of cards except ace, ace-king, ace-king-queen, king-queen, and king-queen-jack depended on the position of other related cards, and second, that the odds against winning the third trick in a suit were considerably greater than the odds against winning the first or second. Tentatively I put the actual trick taking value of an honor on the third trick at half its apparent value. On these two bases I built my own system which, while apparently it's not terribly different from the standard systems, I consider immeasurably superior to any of them and which I continued to use until last week. I recognized that it was less than completely accurate, but I minimized its defects to myself.

"Unfortunately, I had eventually to succumb to my own logic.

"I had called a king doubleton half a quick trick. So had every one else. The theory to which I subscribed, as did apparently every one else, was that the value of the king depended upon which opponent held the ace. If it were held by the righthand opponent it would make; if by the left hand opponent it would not. But there was a fourth player in the game: the player sitting opposite, and unless the possibility of his holding the ace were taken into account, the system was fallacious.

"For a long time I did nothing about this; then, recently, the burning desire for complete accuracy overcame me and I decided to revise it. The king became two-thirds of a quick trick, the king-queen one and a third. [I continued to divide third round values by two.] The ace-king-jack I first counted as two and a third; then I decided that if the queen were held by partner, it, and not the jack, would take the third trick, so I cut its value down to two and a sixth. The A-J-x became one and five-eighteenths, the A-J-10 one and seven-eighteenths. I confess that when I had to start cutting quick tricks into eighteenths I was rather uncomfortable; I'd imagined that the numbers would be more considerate. But there I was, and eighteenths weren't going to frighten me.

"Then I realized that the king singleton was worth one-third of a quick trick and a queen singleton one-eighteenth of a quick trick. This troubled me too, but still I continued.

"I began to be really discouraged when I came to the Q-J combination. Suppose my partner held the king. Either the jack, the queen, or the king would have to take care of opponents' ace [act as blocking back, if you like], but which was I to assign to blocking and which two to trick taking? I pondered. I thought first I'd give the highest cards credit for trick taking and the lowest for taking care of opponents' honors. It was an easy answer, but it didn't satisfy me. Not logical enough. No; I'd divide up the trick taking value of touching cards between them.

"I don't know whether you get the full implication of this yet. It was some time before I did.

"Suppose I held the ace. All my theories were based on the undoubted fact that the ace was exactly one quick trick, no more, no less, at all times. But if my partner held the K-Q-J-10 there were two and a half quick tricks to be divided equally among five cards. My cherished ace was worth only half a quick trick! Worse, if between us we held all 13 cards, it was worth only five-twenty-sixths.

"Come to think of it, if between us we held all 13, it wasn't worth anything, because quick trick value should mean defensive value. That brought up another problem. I'd have to find separate values for singleton aces, doubleton aces, tripleton aces, and so on down the line.

"I wasn't beaten yet. I started with the ace singleton and began desperately to enumerate all possible holdings of the 12 other cards. I realized that after I had listed all the various distributions I'd have to make allowances also for the individual cards, since touching cards affected each other's values. But—simply enumerating all possible distributions did not take into account the fact that each hand was limited to 13 cards! The only way I could overcome that would be to list every possible combination of cards in a hand of bridge. I don't have the figures at hand for this, and I don't want to compute it now, but I know that the possibilities reach an idiotic figure, and I'm 26 years old, and I may some day want to spend some time doing something else besides computing quick trick values. I chucked the idea completely. Perhaps I shouldn't have, but I trust you won't mind; I chucked it.

"No, I haven't stopped playing bridge. I'm going to play Tuesday night. But from this moment on I have never heard of quick tricks."

An article by Mr. Culbertson appears in the feature section of The Tribune each weekday.

Drama Notes

Maurice Schwartz.

The final performance of Sholem Asch's Yiddish drama, "Salvation," will be given in the Civic Opera house tonight by the Yiddish Art theater. Maurice Schwartz heads the distinguished cast, which also includes Judith Abarbanel, Julius Adler, Isadore Cashier, Anna Appel, Morris Strassberg, and Ben Zion Katz.

The season's last production at the Goldwyn theater opens tomorrow night, to play two weeks, with a single matinée on Thursday of this week. The bill is "Goodbye Again," by Allan Scott and George Haight.

Directed by Martin Magner, Edna Ferber's "Stage Door" continues in its third week at the Guild theater, 616 Church street, Evanston. Performances are given each night from Thursday thru Sunday.

Admirers of Clare Boothe may wish to refresh their memory about "Kiss the Boys Goodbye" at performances May 19, 20, and 21 by the Hudson Players at Forester's theater, 1016 North Dearborn street.

The annual Ann Arbor drama festival opens tomorrow evening at the Lydia Mendelssohn theater, Ann Arbor, Mich. Five plays will be given, each for a week. The initial bill is Shaw's "Pygmalion," with Ruth Chatterton and Barry Thomson. Beginning May 20, Mady Christians, Joseph Holland, and Louis Calhern will play in Shakespeare's "A Winter's Tale." "The World We Make" will be offered May 27, with Herbert Rudley in his original rôle; Madge Evans, Tito Vuolo, and Kasia Orzazewski. The American première of St. John Ervine's "Boyd's Shop" will take place June 3, with Whitford Kane in the title rôle. The festival will close the week of June 10 with Molnar's "The Guardsman," featuring John Emery and Carrie Bridewell.

Weems Opens at the Aragon Tuesday Night

One of those occasional "career" engagements that make the Aragon and Trianon ballrooms famous as creators of name bands comes to a temporary close tonight when Aragon patrons hold a farewell party for Dick Jurgens.

Dick leaves for a three month tour and will be succeeded on Tuesday night by Ted Weems—the man who practically runs a vaudeville unit that is wired for very sweet sound. Jurgens' stay, with a rare breath catching trip out of town, dates back over the months, and in popularity compares with the long tenure of Wayne King and the perennial appearances of Griff Williams at the southside Trianon. King literally waltzed himself into national fame at the Aragon, and Griff, famous as all get out on the west coast, solidified his midwestern popularity to such an extent that he is now ensconced as the prime favorite of the Stevens hotel's Continental room.

Ted Weems will have Red Ingle and Elmo Tanner doing their comedy, Perry Como singing ballads under a blue spot, and Marvel Maxwell, who has been boosted into national prominence as America's most typical granddaughter, in her usual singing rôle.

Hal Kemp steps out south to the Trianon for three days [May 31, June 1 and 2] after closing at the Empire room of the Palmer House. Jack McLean, again the maestro of the Trianon, will take over the Aragon those days.

• • •

Still resplendant in the pastoral setting of the Blossom festival, the Marine dining room of the Edgewater Beach hotel brought Bernie Cummins back to Chicago last week-end as the first of its summer name bands. The Cummins music is sweet, but with a vigor that comes from an understanding of the essential elements of swing.

Featured with Bernie is pretty Connie Barleau, a swing songstress who controls her energy as well as does the Cummins band. Walter Cummins, balladeer, is another featured vocalist. Stars of the evening's entertainment programs are the Dorothy Dorben dancers, whose routines continue to retain a freshness and simple authenticity that matches the atmosphere of the Marine room.

Ralph [Cookie] Cook. [Bloom photo].

That the day of comedy teams is not dead is being proved nightly in Harry's New Yorker, where Ralph [Cookie] Cook and his two stooges pack a slapstick whose reverberations recall the halcyon days of vaudeville. Cookie, the marathon madman altho perfectly capable of soloing an evening, knows too well the value of team play, and gets the best from Pat Dennis, persistent heckler, and King Tut Bibbs, the toothless tiger of the titters. Their most recent skit is a happy burlesque of the old soft shoe routine. Highs in hilarity, however, are reached during their baseball skit, with its idiotic reiteration of strange names, and the Swami Ribber show—with Cookie as a magician who is constantly amazed to find that his tricks really work.

Supporting Cook in the current show are Margie Kelly, blonde dancer; Hart and Allison, adagio comedians; June Glory, tap acrobat; Alan Rogers, Irish tenor, and Winnie Hoveler's chorus.

Something of a departure for L'Aiglon restaurant was made Monday night when Manuel Contreras and his rhumba orchestra opened for an indefinite stay. Contreras' music is paced by his own trumpet, which he plays with a whispering effect that is well suited to the intimacy of L'Aiglon and the type of tunes in his répertoire. To avoid overemphasis on the Latin motif, Contreras devotes his dinner concerts to popular tunes and lighter classics of all nations. Conchita, a sparkling bit of Mexican beauty, is the featured singer.

For interim entertainment, L'Aiglon offers Isobel De Marco and her accordion.

Major openings scheduled for late in the week were the Chicago debut of a Chicago boy, Bud Freeman, and the return of Stuff Smith, both in the Panther room of the Hotel Sherman, and Tony Cabot's reappearance at Villa Moderne, out in the suburban circuit. Lee Wiley is the third featured act on the Panther room program. Jacqueline Panette, singer, the O'Connor family, the Aquillo brothers, Jack Turner, and the Duffins fill out the Villa Moderne show.

Boswelling the Bistros:

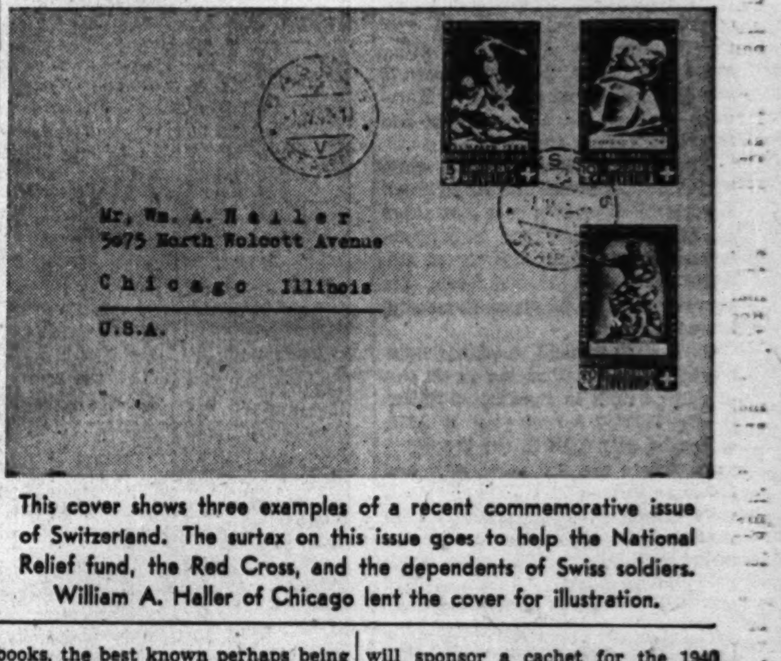
Sugar flows into the hot spot that is the Blackhawk restaurant about June first, when Blue Barron and his sweet band come in to pick up Bob Crosby's fallen torch. . . . About that same date the Colony club will be presenting a newcomer to this part of the country, Carl Ravazza, golden voiced young maestro who has been kicking up a great deal of applause during long runs in Los Angeles and San Francisco smart spots. . . . Chez Paree now says it definitely will stay open for the summer, continuing a name policy with a new show May 24. . . . This in spite of the announcement that Bon Air country club will open May 31 with an as yet unsigned name band and show. . . . Charlie Baum bows Thursday at the Palmer House, with a show that honors Merriell Abbott. . . . Marion Odmark, whom the café clique knows as career and charm girl Number One, is the author of a clever magazine article panning careers. . . . Sight of the week: Griff [Continental Room] Williams, who had just been host to a circus monkey a few nights before, climbing a lovers' tree on a suburban estate of a warm Sunday afternoon. . . . Will Osborne, Ted Weems, and José Manzanares are listed for Beach Walk engagements this summer at the Edgewater Beach hotel.

Symphony for Toledo.

Toledo, O., will get its first regular symphony season starting next fall. A preliminary concert was given on May 6 in the Paramount theater with Lily Pons, soprano, as guest soloist. This first symphony orchestra will be directed by George King Raudenbush.

The Stamp Collector

—By Richard McP. Cabeen—



This cover shows three examples of a recent commemorative issue of Switzerland. The surtax on this issue goes to help the National Relief fund, the Red Cross, and the dependents of Swiss soldiers. William A. Haller of Chicago lent the cover for illustration.

Mr. Cabeen will answer questions about stamps, except concerning values. Do not ask where stamps may be sold, as the Stamps and Coins advertising section adjoining contains offers to buy and sell. Inclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope for reply.

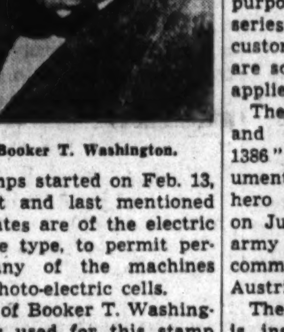
A 3 cent purple commemorative stamp will be issued on July 10, 1940, in connection with the 50th anniversary of the admission of Wyoming to statehood. The new stamp will be placed on first day sale at Cheyenne, Wyo., and will be available at other postoffices thruout the country on the following day or as soon thereafter as distribution will permit.

The stamp will show the Wyoming state seal, which reproduces the "Victory of Louvre" statue. In this the draped figure of a woman holds a staff with a banner inscribed "Equal Rights," symbolical of the political equality of women in Wyoming, the first state to grant women the right of suffrage. Other features of the seal represent live stock and mining.

Inscribed on pillars at right and left of the central motif are the titles, "Livestock," and "Grain" at the left, and "Mines" and "Oil" at the right.

The stamp will be of large size and arranged vertically as was the recent Pan-American Anniversary issue. While definite announcements have not been made concerning first day cover service, it is supposed that collectors may obtain up to 10 first day covers thru the postmaster at Cheyenne. Covers should not reach Cheyenne more than two weeks before the event.

The 15th example of the Famous Americans series of commemorative stamps was the 10 cent brown value of the educators' group which was issued in honor of Booker T. Washington, noted Negro teacher. This stamp was placed on first day sale on April 7 at Tuskegee Institute, Alabama, an institution organized by Mr. Washington.



Booker T. Washington.

The design measures 85-100 by 98-100 inch, and conforms in design to others of this group. The curved plates for the rotary presses contain 280 stamp subjects in four panes of 70 each. Plates bearing numbers 22533, 22534, and 22535 were made during January and the printing of the 10 million stamps started on Feb. 13, using the first and last mentioned plates. All plates are of the electric eye, convertible type, to permit perforation on any of the machines controled by photo-electric cells.

The portrait of Booker T. Washington which was used for this stamp was taken by Harris and Ewing, Washington, D. C., and bears the reference number B-14111. William A. Roach furnished the design, Charles A. Brooks engraved the portrait, Carl T. Arlt the frame, and James T. Vail and William B. Wells the lettering.

Booker Taliaferro Washington was born in Franklin county, Virginia, about 1858 or 1859. He began his life in a one room cabin, but moved to Malden, W. Va., after the civil war and worked in salt furnaces and in coal mines, and in spite of the arduous labors of the day, possessed energy enough to attend night school. In 1872 Washington walked and begged rides across the Virginias to attend the institute at Hampton, Va. After graduating in 1875 he returned to Malden and taught school for two years. During the next two years he studied at Wayland seminary in Washington, and in 1879 became an instructor at Hampton in Gen. S. C. Armstrong's American Indian educational scheme, where under his guidance the night school became an important feature.

In 1881 he was selected to organize and take charge of a Negro normal school at Tuskegee, Ala., for which the state had made an appropriation of $2,000. This opened in July, 1881, under the most primitive circumstances, but has since grown to be the foremost Negro school for industrial education. In the promotion of the interests of Tuskegee, Washington made many addresses thruout the country, and wrote numerous books, the best known perhaps being "Up from Slavery."

During his life he received the degree of master of arts from Harvard, and the honorary degree of doctor of literature and laws from Dartmouth. His labors in the interests of Negro education brought about his early death at Tuskegee on Nov. 14, 1915.

The first day figures for the educators' group of the Famous Americans stamps is as follows: 1 cent, Horace Mann, Boston, Mass., March 14—629,576 stamps sold, 186,854 covers postmarked; 2 cent, Mark Hopkins, Williamstown, Mass., March 14—370,605 stamps sold, 140,286 covers postmarked; 3 cent, Charles W. Eliot, Cambridge, Mass., March 28—301,506 stamps sold, 155,708 covers postmarked; 5 cent, Frances E. Willard, Evanston, Ill., March 28—247,032 stamps sold, 163,507 covers postmarked, and 10 cent, Booker T. Washington, Tuskegee Institute, Ala., 233,363 stamps sold, 163,507 covers postmarked.

By resolution of the Swiss Federal Council the receipts of the annual Swiss Independence day collections on Aug. 1, 1940, will be equally divided among the National Relief Fund for Swiss soldiers and their families, the Red Cross, and needy dependents of Swiss soldiers who do not receive support from the national relief fund.

To increase the receipts for those purposes the postoffice has issued a series of four stamps instead of the customary single value. The stamps are sold with a surtax which will be applied to the benefits mentioned.

The 5 centime value, green, red and gray, is inscribed "Sempach 1386" and shows the Winkelried monument at Stans. Winkelried was the hero of an engagement at Sempach on July 9, 1386, in which the Swiss army defeated a much larger force commanded by Duke Leopold III. of Austria.

The 10c value, yellow, red and gray, is inscribed "Giornico 1478." This recalls the battle in the canton of Ticino in which a small Swiss force fought off a large Milanese army.

The 20c value, red and gray, is captioned "Calven 1499," and pictures Benedict Fontana, who led 6,000 men of the Grisons canton to victory in the Calven defile near Münster on May 22, 1499.

The 30c value, blue, red and gray, is inscribed "1914 Les Rangiers 1918" and recalls the Swiss mobilization during the world war. Les Rangiers is an important pass in the northwestern part of the country and is now heavily fortified. It was temporarily guarded in 1870-'71, and again from 1914-'18.

Dr. S. W. Sukumlyn of Chicago, has shown this department duplicate copies of Scott's No. 606, vertical coil, perforated 10 horizontally, which have a plate mark in the shape of a well defined and moderately heavy dot near the upper right tip of the flag of the left numeral "2." This variety is evidently constant but it may not be possible to determine the number of the plate from which it was printed.

F. Roth, 3627 South 61st avenue, Cicero, Ill., will sponsor a Memorial day cachet May 30. Do not send covers, but send only the stamp which you wish used and 1c additional for forwarding. Any stamp donation or use of commemoratives will be appreciated.

The sixth annual exhibition of the Peoria Collectors club will be held at the Y. M. C. A., May 24-26. There will be an auction Saturday afternoon and the annual banquet that evening. All collectors and friends are invited.

The San Francisco Junior Chamber of Commerce, c/o Cachet Director, 333 Pine street, San Francisco, Cal., will sponsor a cachet for the 1940 opening of the Golden Gate International exposition. Send covers, any number, addressed and stamped with first class postage, to reach the director by May 20.

War Is Keeping Many Exchange Students Home

Growing importance of the United States as a harbor for culture during the war in Europe was indicated recently by reports showing that the number of Americans going abroad to study has been cut 75 per cent, while the number of European students in this country has increased 4.7 per cent.

University officials said that, while 8,000 Americans were studying abroad [mostly in Europe] a year ago, there are now only about 2,000. This group is comprised almost entirely of students who were abroad when the war began and who chose to remain, it was said.

On the other hand, the total number of foreigners studying in schools of college rank in the United States in the 1939-'40 school year is 8,275, compared with 7,904 in the preceding year. There are 255 more men and 116 more women here. These figures were compiled by the committee on friendly relations among foreign students, sponsored by the Young Men's Christian association.

• • •

The largest organization sponsoring exchange fellowships is the Institute of International Education, established in 1919 by the Carnegie endowment for international peace. Reports from this source showed the decrease in American students going to the European centers of learning and also indicated that, despite the increase in foreign students here, the war is keeping many European students at home.

Of 164 Americans named by the institute to study abroad this year, only 20 have gone to Europe. About half of the 160 Europeans scheduled to come here have arrived.

Spain, Hungary, Norway, and Bulgaria were the only countries to send the full number of students under the institute's scholarships. Seven of the 102 students named to go to France went there. Germany received only 1 of the 43 Americans scheduled to go.

Hungary stands alone as having attracted the quota number of American students—7.

• • •

The box score for South American countries tells a different story. All but 6 of the 58 South American students named by the institute have come to the United States this year. In 1930 there was only one exchange student from there. Further increases are expected by the institute.

These reports tend to support assertions made in Chicago last week by Dr. Ben M. Cherrington, chief of the state department's division of cultural relations. He predicted that growing numbers of South American students coming to this country would encourage the creation of a "Paris" and "Vienna" in the United States and said that the war had thrown the western hemisphere on its own cultural resources.

Rhodes scholarships, which form the exchange system between the United States and Great Britain, have been suspended for the duration of the war.

• • •

One-third of 96 Americans who had been named to study in England under Rhodes scholarships were there when war broke out, and only 15 remain. Arrangements were made for the others to continue studies in the United States, with the aid of free tuition or scholarships in many colleges and universities. The Carnegie Foundation gave $25,000 for grants to those needing funds.

A similar trend is reported by the Guggenheim Memorial Foundation, which awards fellowships for research and creative work in various educational fields and the fine arts.

Not one of the 67 Guggenheim fellows recently announced for 1940 will study in Europe. Eleven will do research work in South America and Mexico. For study in the United States the foundation named 13 residents of Latin America.

• • •

Illinois schools now have the following numbers of foreign students: University of Chicago, 126; University of Illinois, 71; Northwestern university, 49; Loyola university, 20; Wheaton college, 18, and others, 34.

The prospect is that the present total of foreign students in this country will be maintained or even increased. Refugees from central Europe are expected to at least balance the decline in fellowships awarded and accepted caused by the war.

COMEDY IN FINAL WEEK

Joseph Cotten appears on behalf of Philip Barry's comedy, "The Philadelphia Story," which begins its final week at the Erlanger theater tomorrow night.

Drama Fellowships

Seven $1,000 fellowships have been awarded for the 1940-'41 season by the National Theater conference to people who have qualified as outstanding workers in university and community theaters. The awards have been made possible by a Rockefeller Foundation grant to the conference, and they will enable the fellows to obtain practical training in theater arts in qualified institutions. The fortunate recipients are George Franklin Blair, assistant graduate director of the Indiana university theater and director of the drama loan service of the university; Robert Lynn Gault, instructor in speech and dramatics at Hiram college; Robert Stanton Gill, graduate student in the department of drama at Carnegie Institute of Technology; Gerard L. Gentile, technical director of the Eldred Hall theater at Western Reserve university and of the municipally-owned Cain Park summer theater of Cleveland Heights, O.; Vincent Joseph Jukes, technical director of the school of dramatic art at Ohio university and assistant professor of dramatic art and speech there; Clark Glamis Kuney Jr., actor and director in the University of Maine's experimental, educational theater, and Richard Moody, technical director and acting-director of the Illini Theater guild of the University of Illinois.

Yaddo Festival

After a year's lapse the Yaddo Music Period, a festival devoted to the study and performance of American music, will be resumed and will be held during the week from Sept. 1 to 8. The Yaddo estate in Saratoga Springs, N. Y., is the site of the festival. Richard Donovan, Roy Harris, Otto Luening, and Quincy Porter constitute the guiding committee. They have extended an invitation to all composers to submit works for chamber orchestra, or any combination of its constituent elements; serious works for the piano, and songs with piano or other instruments. Scores must be in by June 15. All of them will be tried out during the discussion period. Those which are deemed worthy will be played in public on a series of three or four concerts and will be recorded.

BALINESE ROOM SINGER

Dale Evans is the young Chicago singer whose voice and charm add another attractive element to the Balinese room of the Blackstone hotel. She appears with Pliner and Earle's orchestra.

Family's Life with Father on Sunday Happy

With the following reminiscences, Mrs. Katherine B. Day concludes her reminiscences of New York life of a bygone day, written especially for THE SUNDAY TRIBUNE in connection with the current engagement of "Life with Father" at the Blackstone theater:

Sunday was a day which the family spent together. After a fine big breakfast and leisurely cigar, Father wound and set all the clocks. He finished just in time to get his hat and stick for church. In the meanwhile, the family had all been scurrying around like mad to get ready; boys were sent back to get their hair brushed, or nails scrubbed, and Mother at the last moment would have to hurry into her church clothes. Somehow or other they all arrived on the front stoop on time and started off for church

• • •

Sometimes the sermon was too long and the boys began to wiggle, but otherwise there was no rebellion at going to church. Every one went to church. Anyway, there were plenty of things for boys to watch and there was always the chance that the minister might say something to displease Father. At any rate, Father never took sermons quietly. And after church there was that wonderful Sunday dinner of roast beef and browned potatoes to look forward to. And, during the season, strawberry ice cream from Sherry; otherwise, it was vanilla with a fine chocolate sauce.

After dinner and a nap, Father and Mother were ready to start out to see Grandma and Grandpa Day, or Uncle Hal and Aunt Addie. Some of their cousins were sure to be calling, too, and, altho they could not play any games, the boys always managed to have a good time. Grandma Day was very gentle and while she would never do anything that would be unseemly on Sunday she did feel that the young should not have too much expected of them and provided pictures and books. The children were content, too, to curl up near the fire and listen to the conversation of the grown-ups.

• • •

There was generally not time enough to walk home from Twenty-fifth street so there was a little excitement from the ride on the horsecar. The boys knelt on the seats and looked out while Mother and Father debated some point which had come up in the conversation during the visit.

When at last they were home, Father held the door while they all filed past and then shut it firmly but with satisfaction. Father liked to feel that his whole family was there; safe, protected and with him. In short, this was his home.

Sinclair Lewis Award,

Sinclair Lewis has announced he is offering a scholarship to the dramatic school of the Berkshire Playhouse at Stockbridge, Mass., for next summer. The scholarship will be awarded to the young woman between 18 and 25, who writes the best 300 word analysis of any character in his latest novel, "Bethel Merriday"—the analysis to be made from the point of view of an actor about to interpret the character on the stage. [The book traces the career of a girl who reaches the professional stage via the summer stock companies.] The scholarship will include living expenses and transportation as well as tuition. Mr. Lewis, Betty Field, and Kenyon Nicholson will be the judges, and the contest is being conducted under the auspices of Doubleday Doran, Mr. Lewis' publishers. Competing articles must be in by May 15.

Current Music News

Winners of the annual student contests of the Society of American Musicians will make their awarded appearance on a recital Friday night in Kimball hall. Joan Alizier and Diana Brodsky will represent the primary division; Mary Theos, Genevieve Czerwinski, Millicent Pine, and Sylvia Gordon the junior division, and Richard Feinberg and Harriet Kaplan the senior division. All are pianists with the exception of Miss Gordon, who is a violinist.

◆

Brahms and Tschaikowsky will have their lives and music discussed and played at the next adult music appreciation concert by the American Concert orchestra in the Illinois Music Concert hall, 632 North Dearborn street, on Friday at 8:15. Ralph Cissne will both lecture and conduct.

◆

Two works by Daniel Protheroe will be sung at the Central church service in Orchestra hall this morning—the anthem, "Whoso Dwelleth," and the tenor solo, "What Is There Hid in the Heart of a Rose?" to be sung by Evan Evans. "The King of Love My Shepherd Is," by Shelley, also will be performed by the choir. Archer Lambuth, organist, will offer pieces by Macfarlane, Palmgren, and Wachs.

◆

A New York newspaper informs us that John Barbirolli, conductor of the New York Philharmonic-Symphony, will direct the Chicago Symphony orchestra during the Ravinia festival between July 22 and Aug. 3. One of the national music magazines also announces that Nicolai Malko, Russian conductor, will be guest director at Ravinia park for the week prior to Mr. Barbirolli's tenancy. These announcements remain to be confirmed by the Ravinia festival committee, which should state its plans for the coming summer shortly.

Goosens' Symphony.

Eugene Goossens gave the first performances of his First Symphony on April 12 and 13 in Cincinnati with that city's symphony orchestra. It is his first major work since his opera, "Don Juan de Mañara."

Capital Abuzz with Charm—and Delegates

By Cousin Eve.

WASHINGTON, D. C. Washington is abuzz with charming people, is enjoying gorgeous weather, and there is nothing to do but be amused. And, incidentally, circle round the beautiful city and country gardens. But primarily one is here for the Red Cross meet, and wearing its red, white, and blue badge.

Even the trip to Washington had charm. We tried a new road and train this time, a long, silvery, sinuous one, that slithered thru country laced with leafage lightly green.

We wended our way along rivers and streamlets, tender young woods and fruit trees like bridal bouquets, in the green ecstasy of early spring. Traveling, too, the Charles Deweys on Red Crossing bent, and Mrs. Dudley Root, chic as Paris itself, en route to wangle a passport for the French Riviera.

The Mayflower is a diverting inn. Every one in its lobby is a delegate to something, a senator, a somebody. Every day has its convention, every night its ball and banquets. Last week it was the chamber of commerce, next week the Scientists of America and their many garden parties, while this week the Red Cross and Colonial Dames of America hold the center of the scene.

• • •

It is easy to spot the lady delegates to the exclusive convention of Colonial Dames. They represent another world, mostly, than the present day world of Washington. Delicate features, hair like Queen Alexandra's in the nineties, skirts to the ankle, slight hauteur. One admires what they represent, quality, standards, ancestry harking back to colonial times, and a way of life which they hope to perpetuate.

Mrs. John Crerar, president of Chicago Colonial Dames, and Mrs. David Cook Jr. are together at the Mayflower, and as I met them were lunching with Miss Helen Jones, erstwhile of Chicago, and Robert Buell of the state department, nephew of Mrs. George Meeker.

Miss Jones has a beautiful estate with an old colonial house down on the Potomac, and the handsome diplomat is home again from the far places of the earth where his career took him—Peking, Ceylon, Persia, Paris.

Chicago members of the Red Cross gayly bedight in badges and spring prints [at least the women were] met Sunday afternoon at the James Nicholsons' party. Mr. Nicholson is just back from six months in Berlin and war wracked Poland, having left Wayne Chatfield-Taylor behind in Europe.

• • •

Guests sat in a merry circle hoping to hear all about the war from the inside, but there was nary a word from the Red Cross executive on that subject. There are 100 Illinois delegates in Washington, but those at the tea were only Chicago friends and included Mr. and Mrs. James Forgan, Mrs. Richard T. Crane, Mrs. Frederic Upham, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dewey, Mrs. Irene Sidley, Mrs. Richard I. Stearns, Mrs. Richardson Dunham, Mrs. Clarence Mitchell, who alternated for her mother, Mrs. C. G. King, Mrs. Clive Runnells, and Mrs. Dudley Root.

We drove Mrs. Crane home to Georgetown in the early dusk, to the quaint yellow brick house where she is visiting Mrs. Crane Chadbourne. Together they have been doing the Maryland and Virginia gardens, 33 in three days. I call that hard work, but they felt that a few houses and their surrounding estates were worth it: Namely Mrs. Cissy Patterson's Dower house in Maryland and the Carrolls' estate near Baltimore. It was fascinating scouting round Georgetown, where in the springtime purple evening mist each queer little domicile had a mysterious shut-in face, under veils of purple dotted wisteria vines.

Over there, they said, lived Martha Granger Krock, and beyond the hill, Alexander Kirk's big house, one of 15 he owns the world over. And nearer still, the Robert Woods Blisses at Dumbarton Oaks.

• • •

Red Cross has a beautiful setting in Washington. White marble buildings, a splendid grassy garden court, and flaming azaleas banked against the white walls. The opening session in Constitution hall was impressive, a pageant of workers in uniforms, touched with all the colors of the spectrum, music by the United States Navy band, and a line of executives on the stage to make one pop-eyed.

There was Norman Davis, the national chairman, presiding, an urbane and charming man. There were Eliot Wadsworth of Boston and James Forgan of Chicago, Mrs. August Belmont of New York, elegant and distinguished. She is the former actress, Eleanor Robson, who ended her stage career when she married the New York capitalist. There, too, sat Miss Mabel Boardman, wealthy, popular Washington hostess, who, at 83 years, is a Red Cross head of personnel in the United States. And also Mrs. Henry P. Davison of New York, widow of the former Red Cross chairman, and Dr. Frank Graham, president of the University of North Carolina, who made the wittiest speech of all. In the last war Dr. Graham was a marine, and from marine corps to college president is some jump, n'est ce pas?

Succeeding Miss Boardman when she retires from her post in October after a quarter of a century of active service is a Chicago woman, Mrs. Dwight Davis, the former Pauline Morton. Mrs. Davis is charming looking, with flashing black eyes, blonde hair, and dimples. She is full of life and fire, and was chic at dinner in a sky blue crêpe frock with a longish jacket beaded in Chinese red. The Dwight Davises now own the house in Decatur place that belonged to Martha Cadman, who married Max Karolik of Chicago, young Russian singer, some years ago. The venerable philanthropist, Mrs. Karolik, now keeps to her Newport house, and Mrs. Davis has the prettiest spring garden in Washington, all pink tulips, fleur de lis.

• • •

A garden party in the Red Cross garden was a mild and agreeable social interlude with the central committee shaking hands nobly with every delegate and there are 1,600 of us. All over the lawn the guests spread, drinking orangeade. A lady springing gracefully over a flower bed in pink suit and hat proved to be Mrs. Howard Fenton, accompanied by her husband. Another in slate gray motor corps costume and smart billy cock hat was Mrs. C. Norton Goodwin. She has a house at Warrenton this spring next to the North Wales Hunt club, and was in town for the Red Cross meet.

The chief excitement among delegates was the White House garden party Thursday afternoon at 2:15. That may seem a queer hour for a garden party to the uninitiated, but Mrs. Roosevelt was staging another garden party at 4 p. m., and so the Red Cross had to bolt its lunch and go then or never.

• • •

It was a very hot day, 86 in the shade, and the first persons I met were Mrs. Richard T. Crane and Mrs. Charles S. Dewey plodding about in the deep grass of the lawn under the burning sun. The Marine band was making tremendous effect, and hundreds of guests were gathered round the portico where the First Lady appeared at 10 minutes before 3. In a large flare up green hat and green silk print in large design, Mrs. Roosevelt bowed to her guests, saying she couldn't shake hands with all, so she should press her own hands as a symbol of greeting. After a few words about the Red Cross and its purposes, our hostess said it would be well if we didn't push or shove to get near her, as she could see us much better where we were. So saying, she took a few steps among the Red Cross delegates, and then the loud speaker announced it was 3 p. m. and we must be on our way. "The grounds have to be cleaned up for the next party," said the big voice, in a new version of the old saying, "Here's your hat, but don't hurry."

Way off under the trees, in a far corner of the garden, were three red canvas tents where orangeade was being ladled out with little cakes and sandwiches on the side. In the White House flower beds were a jumble of many spring flowers, all sorts and kinds, and the grass was richly rural in unbarbered simplicity.

The Howard Fentons of Chicago, Mrs. Clive Runnells, Mrs. R. I. Stearns, Mrs. Martin Schwab, Mrs. Frederic Upham, and Roger Holden were among Chicagoans who accepted White House hospitality. In order to enjoy this garden party and to compare it with garden parties at Buckingham palace, the Elysee in Paris, and similar events in Berlin and Rome, I cut short a handsome luncheon at the Japanese embassy in Massachusetts avenue, and tore away.

• • •

His excellency, Kensuke Horinouchi and Mme. Horinouchi are old friends of mine from Tokio, at the time when the ambassador was junior foreign minister of Japan. It was wonderful to see them again in this beautiful embassy, quite the loveliest in Washington. In style it is pink white with a black roof, jade green blinds, Georgian period with an oriental air, a tapis vert and neatly cobbled court with bright pink azaleas banked at the outer gates. The major domo asked me to look at the luncheon place, before going in. It showed 30 places at one long table. Mme. Horinouchi, who is young and handsome, wore blue western dress, and I remembered well how lovely she was in Japan in magnificient kimono and obi which cost a fortune and looked so simple.

The Harinouchis had a wonderful palace in Tokio with a perfectly green garden, no other color, that was a dream of beauty. Here in Washington they have a wide terrace overlooking the forest of young green leaves and pink and white dogwood of Rock Creek park.

The table was decked in huge silver bowls of fruit with two floral pieces à la Japanese, single iris, and single stems of lillies of the valley in silver holders. One of my table mates was Mrs. Stanley Hornbeck, rather recently married to the erudite oriental scholar, author, and erstwhile head of things oriental in the state department. Mrs. Hornbeck herself is somewhat highbrow, being author of tomes on education.

• • •

Coming away in a rush I was fascinated with the new Venezuelan embassy across the street in Massachusetts avenue. It is acutely modern, a one and a half story bungalow effect in white stone, exceedingly handsome. Then we passed the Hungarian legation. The touch and go of Washington is tremendous. Nobody is missed, as a rule, but everybody knows that the charming Hungarian envoy and his wife go nowhere anymore. Can it be that coming events already are casting their shadow?

For the last few years Harold Sims of Montreal and Mitzie, his beautiful Danish wife, were official hosts of the British embassy. Mitzie had planned to give me a party this year and I was looking forward no end to seeing them again. Harold Sims died at his desk in the British embassy on Monday night and overwork for the war was the reason. And so the brilliant, glittering wheel of life goes whirling

Jewish Women to Demonstrate Their Pursuits

What does the Chicago section of the National Council of Jewish Women accomplish along educational, philanthropic, civic, and cultural lines? A question such as this cannot be disposed of in a word, therefore the council will hold a demonstration day tomorrow from 1 to 5 o'clock in the afternoon and from 7 to 10 o'clock in the evening in the fifth floor auditorium of the Medical and Dental Arts building, 185 North Wabash avenue.

After a business meeting at 2 o'clock the department of service to the foreign born will present a skit, "Before the Office Opens," showing the manner in which refugees are helped in gaining admittance to this country and in becoming naturalized citizens. Miss Vera Teplitz, director of Council camp in Wauconda, Ill., will speak on "Council Camp: What It Is and What It Does." The camp committee will give a Punch and Judy show.

• • •

Tea will be served at the end of the afternoon program, which will include a group of songs by Miss Emma Ortner, Viennese contralto.

Mrs. Benjamin I. Morris will open the evening meeting at 8 o'clock with a discussion of the council's work. A movie of "A Day in Council Camp" will be shown with Miss Teplitz as commentator. The meeting will close with a recital by Miss Magda Lengyel, Hungarian violinist.

Mrs. William H. Sahud is chairman of the affair, assisted by Mrs. Isadore Pilot.

Mrs. Morris, reëlected president, will take over the duties of her office, as will the newly elected officers, Mrs. Moses Levitan, second vice president; Mrs. Pilot, recording secretary; Mrs. Milton Tigerman, treasurer, and the 30 members of the board of directors.

• • •

Dr. Jan Papanek, attaché from Czecho-Slovakia to Washington, will be the speaker at the annual spring luncheon and installation of officers of the Bohemian Woman's Civic club, to be held at 12:30 o'clock tomorrow noon in the Red Lacquer room of the La Salle hotel. Mrs. Jerry Gregor, program chairman and newly elected president, has arranged for Milo Luka, formerly of the Chicago Civic opera, to present a group of songs. The Misses Vera and Nada Hajdas and Blazena and Vlasta Potuznik, Czecho-Slovakian refugees, will appear in several dances.

Mrs. Jerry Gregor.
[Monfort Photo.]

Mrs. Otto Kerner, past president, will be in charge of the installation of officers. Mrs. Frank G. Ratajik will be the new first vice president; Mrs. Frank J. Bartuska, the second vice president; Mrs. James Vesely, third vice president; Mrs. Ernest F. Macha, recording secretary; Mrs. Jaroslav G. Mican, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. Anton Urbanek, treasurer. Mrs. Paul B. Marek, Mrs. Edward Roubik, Miss Emily Fiala, Mrs. James J. Matejka, Mrs. Thomas M. Filas, Mrs. Jacob Schejbal, Mrs. Allan J. Hruby, Mrs. John Cervenka, and Mrs. John Konecny are on the board of directors.

• • •

The Chicago branch of the American Association of University Women will hold its annual business meeting and buffet supper at 6 o'clock on Friday at the International house, 1414 East 59th street. The biannual election of president, second vice president, treasurer, and two directors will be conducted.

At 10:30 o'clock this morning members of the Grandmothers' Club of Chicago will meet at the Hotel Morrison as guests of the Chicago Temple Methodist Episcopal church, for a Mother's day service at which the Rev. John Thompson will officiate. Following a business meeting at 2:30 o'clock, at which plans will be discussed for the organization of a Red Cross unit, Francesca Falk Miller will present one of her recent plays. The program has been arranged by the May birthday committee, with Mrs. Josephine Goodyear and Mrs. Isabelle Thompson as cochairmen. Mrs. Grace Gray is president of the club.

• • •

Members of the Social Economics club will meet for the last time this season at a luncheon and card party at 12:30 o'clock Tuesday in the Marine dining room of the Edgewater Beach hotel. Mrs. Stafford B. Light, retiring president, will introduce her successor, Mrs. G. H. Stidham, and the other newly elected officers, Mrs. D. H. Darnold, first vice president; Mrs. Dwight Hillyer, second vice president; Miss Louise Companion, recording secretary; Mrs. S. G. Olsen, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Ladd Kerbechek, treasurer, and Mrs. A. C. Fregd, co-treasurer.

"The Position and Work of the Cook County Hospital in the Care of the Indigent Ill" will be discussed by Dr. Charles Marshall Davison, newly elected medical superintendent of the hospital, at a meeting of the Alliance of Business and Professional Women of Chicago. Miss Winifred Brainerd, director of occupational therapy at the Presbyterian hospital, will be in charge of the affair, which will take place at 6:30 o'clock tomorrow evening at the Chicago Woman's club.

The 17th anniversary of the Blind Service Association, Inc., will be celebrated on Wednesday evening in the South ballroom of the Stevens hotel. The program will start at 8 o'clock. Mrs. Gottfried D. Bernstein is president of the organization.

The St. Mary's alumnae will give their annual tea for graduates at 3 o'clock May 19 in the school parlors. Mrs. C. O. Bockleman and Miss Mary Rita Kochler are in charge of the program.

Mrs. Gottfried D. Bernstein.

TO BE WED ON JULY 27

Miss Constance McClure, whose engagement to Robert E. Davis, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. Heath Davis of Hubbard Woods, has been announced by her mother, Mrs. Russell Hunter McClure of Elyria, O. The wedding will take place on July 27 in the Christ church in Winnetka.

Opera Company's Club Auxiliary to Plan Season

The Clubwoman's auxiliary of the Chicago Opera company will outline plans for the coming season at a meeting at 10:30 o'clock Tuesday at the Chicago Woman's club. Permanent opera, a longer opera season, and tickets at popular prices are among the aims of this organization. Mrs. Harry L. Canmann is president, and other officers are Mrs. Burnett D. Warner, president of the Chicago Woman's club, who is first vice president; Mrs. Frank P. Whitmore, president of the Chicago district of the Illinois Federation of Music Clubs, who is second vice president; Mrs. Walter H. Tallant, recording secretary; Mrs. Douglas Malloch, corresponding secretary; Mrs. E. R. Wuerttemberger, financial secretary; Mrs. Alma K. Anderson, treasurer.

Lake Forest's Fabulous Farm to House Show

By Judith Cass.

Next week-end brings the long heralded Lake Forest flower show, which should be about the loveliest and most interesting the club ever has had, for it is to be given on one of the last big estates in Lake Forest. Mill Road farm, Albert D. Lasker's fabulous place that he has given to the University of Chicago, is to be the setting for the show. The whole house, the greenhouses, and the garages will be used for exhibits, and the entire estate, with the exception of the golf course, will be on display.

There are 415 acres in the estate, which has been one of the show places of the north shore since Mr. Lasker acquired it about 15 years ago. The house, designed by David Adler, is in the style of a French provincial manor house and is furnished thruout in antiques. Mr. Adler and his sister, Mrs. Frances Elkins of Monterey, Cal., planned the decorations of the interior except for two rooms, which were redone by Samuel Marx last winter.

• • •

The clipped hedges are especially noted, and so are the vistas that are due chiefly to James L. Greenleaf of New York, who visited the farm in 1931. All the planning south of the swimming pool, including the pigeon court, was after his design. Mr. Adler had chosen the location of the buildings and had laid out the cutting gardens, tennis courts, orchards, terraces, and pool. He also suggested the many clipped hedges.

The late Mrs. Charles W. Hubbard of Winnetka supervised the planting along the front drive and planned the taxus circle at the junction of the main drive, house avenue, and recreation building entrance. So many experts have combined their talents and knowledge to make Mill Road farm the exquisite, perfect place it is.

• • •

On the days of the flower show the recreation building will be used as a movie house with a continuous program. Light refreshments will be served around the pool. Admission will be $1 for an adult and 50 cents for a child. Advance tickets may be obtained from Mrs. William Burry Jr., 909 North Elmtree road, Lake Forest, but tickets will be on sale on the 18th and 19th [the days of the show] at the main gate.

Mrs. William A. P. Pullman and Mrs. Phelps Kelley are co-chairmen of the show committee, with Mrs. Burry, Miss Marion Clow, Mrs. Charles S. De Long, Mrs. Thomas C. Dennehy Jr., Mrs. Howard W. Fenton, Mrs. Albert D. Farwell, Mrs. Charles C. Haffner Jr., Mrs. Alfred E. Hamill, Mrs. John T. Pirie Jr., Mrs. Edward K. Welles, and Mrs. Kirk Williams as chairmen of subcommittees.

• • •

On Wednesday morning at 11 o'clock friends of the Frontier Nursing service will gather at the Fortnightly club to hear gallant and valiant Mary Breckenridge, founder, speak and show new colored slides of her work. Mrs. Donald R. McLennan is chairman of the Chicago committee, in whose name invitations to the meetings were issued.

St. Mark's guild will hold a flower market and food sale on Saturday from 10 until 5 o'clock in the patio of The Little Traveler in Geneva. The profits from the sale will go to the building of the church's new rectory.

• • •

The ways and means committee of the Cordon has chosen a novel way of raising funds for the club. It has asked for donations of art objects, silver, books, music, sculpture, paintings, jewelry, and other odds and ends, useful and otherwise. These will be auctioned on Friday night beginning at 7:30 o'clock. Preceding the auction a buffet supper will be served.

The Dunham Woods Riding club has invited its members to "doff your overalls, drop your hoe, don your best bib 'n' tucker and come to a planters' dinner and ball on Saturday." Every one who lives in Wayne, where the club is situated, is a planter, so it is a fitting sort of party for that community. Mrs. Stephen Harrington is chairman of the entertainment committee, with Mrs. Samuel Insull Jr., Mrs. Richard Burke, Mrs. Rae Johns, Mrs. Lawrence E. Denman, and Arthur Farwell as her chief assistants.

HELPS PLAN FLOWER SHOW

Mrs. Kirk Williams is a member of the committee in charge of the flower show to be held next Saturday and Sunday on the estate of Albert D. Lasker by the Lake Forest Garden club.

Wrigleys Build a Flying Field at Lake Geneva

By Rose Cour.

The building of a private landing field at Green Gables Farm at Lake Geneva places the Philip K. Wrigleys among the up-to-the-minute country home hosts who seek to furnish every comfort and convenience for their guests. Fences have been removed and grading and seeding are now in progress on what formerly were grain fields of Green Gables Farm, part of the William Wrigley estate which adjoins the Philip Wrigley place. Among the Wrigley guests who arrive on wings are Justin Dart, George Madigan, and George F. Getz.

LAKE GENEVA.

While Mr. Wrigley himself is not a flyer, there are a number of his lake shore neighbors who fly their own planes, including Jack Vilas Sr., Ralph Isham, William C. Grunow, Daniel Peterkin Jr., William Stauber Jr., and Edward and Earl Blomeyer. During the last two winters, when arriving for winter sports, the Blomeyer sons have come swooping down from the sky upon the ice covered lake in front of the country home of their parents, the E. C. Blomeyers.

• • •

Because of the rapidly growing numbers of Chicago-Lake Geneva flyers there has been considerable discussion recently regarding a plan to build a community landing field on the large tract of low flat land at Williams Bay that borders on the beach, a main state highway, and lies within 200 feet of the Chicago and North Western railway station. This property is part of the estate of Norman W. Harris, who also has evinced an interest in aviation. All of which, say many enthusiasts, points to a not far distant date when a Lake Geneva flying club will share popularity with the yacht clubs and country clubs of the lake.

Mr. and Mrs. David Crawford and their two sons will be among the new residents this summer, having leased the attractive Sidney Smith cottage. The Crawfords were recent guests across the lake at Fair Lawn, the country home of Mr. and Mrs. Earle Zimmerman and Mrs. Charles H. Wacker.

• • •

Other newcomers will be Mr. and Mrs. Oscar F. Mayer, who recently purchased a beautifully wooded tract of lake shore land, part of the Otto Young estate which adjoins the Smith place on the east shore of Geneva bay.

The Mayers also will have as their neighbors Mr. and Mrs. Fred J. Koch and St. Anne's School for Girls, which occupies Younglands, the large stone mansion designed from a 15th century Italian palace. Younglands was the summer home of the late Otto Young and was presented to the Order of St. Anne [Episcopal] more than a year ago by Mr. Young's granddaughter, Mrs. Koch [Gwendolyn Heyworth].

The second summer season at St. Anne's will open officially July 9, altho on July 4 it will act as host to the Jack and Jill Players of Chicago when they will present "Heidi" in the natural amphitheater on the grounds. "Heidi" will be the first of a series of children's classics to be staged one afternoon each week during the summer at St. Anne's by Miss Marie Agnes Foley, director of the Jack and Jill Players.

Club to Sponsor Institute Series to Study Library

As a sequel to the recent organization of the Friends of the Chicago Public library, the Woman's City club will sponsor a weekly series of five institutes, beginning Friday afternoon, to study the library, its services, and its needs. Particular attention will be given to the recent library survey and its recommendations.

Mrs. Harry M. Mulberry.
[Koehne Photo.]

Carl B. Roden, librarian of the Chicago public library, will open the series Friday with a discussion of library finance, state and federal aid, and a possible legislative program. Miss Pearl I. Field, branch librarian, and Mrs. Laura Hughes Lunde will speak on personnel and civil service problems May 24. Miss Alice Farquhar, reader's adviser, and Miss Agatha L. Shea, in charge of children's work at the branch libraries, will be among the speakers at succeeding meetings. Mrs. Harry M. Mulberry is chairman of the series.

The Woman's City club, in conjunction with the Illinois Congress of Parents and Teachers, also is sponsoring a series of study classes on "Community Coöperation in the Interests of Youth" on Thursdays thru June 13. The classes, which have been arranged by Mrs. H. H. Siddall with Mrs. David Fechheimer's coöperation, are free to members of both organizations.

Week to Bring Convention of State Isabella

There are some 8,000 women in Illinois, members of the state circle, National Circle of the Daughters of Isabella, whose primary interest lies in assisting the clergy to care for underprivileged families, orphans, old people's homes, and crippled children's hospitals. Altho they have been carrying on their work for many years, they will hold their annual convention this week to discuss ways and means of promoting philanthropy still further. Delegates from the 60 circles in Illinois will meet with other members of the organization on Thursday and Friday in the Red Lacquer room of the Palmer House.

The convention will open with a solemn high mass in Holy Name cathedral, with the Rev. Edward F. Farrell of Peoria, state chaplain, officiating. Among the church dignitaries who are planning to attend the services or the convention session are His Excellence Samuel A. Stritch, archbishop of Chicago; the Rev. Bernard J. Sheil, and the Rev. William O'Brien, auxiliary bishop of Chicago. Mrs. Carolyn B. Manning, national regent, will come from her home in New Bedford, Mass.

Mayor Edward J. Kelly will extend a welcome at the opening session, and the convention will close with a banquet in the Grand ballroom on Saturday evening.

Stamp collectors who also are music lovers, will take a special pride in the 5 cent commemorative stamp of Edward MacDowell, which is to be issued at Peterborough, N. H., tomorrow. The Chicago MacDowell association, of which the composer's wife is honorary president, will issue official MacDowell cachets, the sale of which will increase the fund for the perpetuation of the MacDowell grave at Peterborough.

Mrs. Samuel V. Robuck.

Mrs. MacDowell will be one of the special guests at the Chicagoland Music Festival luncheon, to be held on Aug. 16 at the Stevens hotel. Philip Maxwell of THE TRIBUNE is director of the festival.

On May 19 at 8:15 o'clock the Chicago and Illinois MacDowell Allied Arts association will meet at the Allerton hotel for a musical program, to be presented by Gardner Read, composer; Hilda Bryant, soprano, and Millicent Cooke, pianist. Mrs. Samuel V. Robuck is president.

• • •

A carnival, card party, and bunco will be in the nature of a farewell to Mrs. Beulah Christian Mayher, retiring president of the Lake Shore Business and Professional Women's club. The affair, sponsored by the officers and board of directors of the club, will be held at 8 o'clock tomorrow evening in the New York World's Fair lounge of the Stevens hotel. Donna Lee Collins is chairman.

What normally is merely the Grand ballroom of the Hotel Sherman will become the Latin Quarter of Paris next Saturday evening when the Hotel Women's Association of Chicago holds its annual card party for the projected home for retired hotel women. Students from a dozen foreign countries will present their respective folk dances in costume and an unusual international dance. A portion of the proceeds will be donated to a fund to aid students stranded by the war. Mrs. Georgia A. Hunt is president of the association.

The Outing Association for Crippled Children, founded by Mrs. Emma Haskell, has provided summer outings for children from the Spalding and Jahn schools and from orthopedic clinics in Chicago for the last 40 years. On Thursday the association will benefit from a card and bunko party which the Spalding Alumni association is sponsoring at the Austin Town hall, 5610 West Lake street. Miss Anna Zuck and Miss Mary Sharkey are co-chairmen.

Members of the Chicago Mount Holyoke club, of which Mrs. Maurice Elgutter is president, will hear a book review by Miss Katharin Flowers at their annual meeting at 6:30 o'clock Wednesday at the Chicago College club. Miss Flowers, a candidate at the June election of alumnae trustees of the college, will discuss Erika Mann's "The Lights Go Down," Feuchtwanger's "Paris Gazette," and Sir Nevile Henderson's "Failure of a Mission." A business meeting will be devoted to election of officers.

The Northern Illinois branch of the National League of American Pen Women will celebrate its eighth anniversary at a luncheon at 1 o'clock Saturday afternoon at the Blackstone hotel. Francesca Falk Miller, newly elected national second vice president, will be the special guest. A business meeting will be held at 11 o'clock for election of officers and reports.

• • •

Members of the Soroptimist Club of Chicago will hold a meeting Tuesday evening at Harvey's, 320 South Michigan avenue, to discuss plans for the entertainment of the delegates who will stop in town on their way to the biennial convention of the Federation of Soroptomist Clubs in Salt Lake City. The convention will be held from June 18 to 21.

Mrs. Royden J. Keith, president of the Illinois Federation of Music Clubs and honorary member of the Organized Women Musicians, and Philip Maxwell will be special guests at the annual spring luncheon of the Iota chapter of Mu Phi Epsilon national music honor society on Wednesday. The luncheon at 12:30 o'clock will be followed by a program presented by Janis Porter, soprano; Ruth Slater, contralto; Marion Jaffray, pianist; Edith Anthony, flutist, and Elizabeth Anthony, harpist, with Frances Grund and Martha McCormick as accompanists. Proceeds will be given to the scholarship fund.

Members of the Jewish Big Sisters will have a final pep breakfast tomorrow at the Covenant club before their Maytime frolic to be held next Sunday in the Grand ballroom of the Stevens hotel. Reports will be made by Mrs. Harold Shlensky, chairman of the junior Good Fellows, and by Mrs. E. David Handler, Mrs. Harry Rosset, and Mrs. Nathan Levitetz, co-vice chairmen.

Leo Buntman will give an illustrated lecture on Jewish contribution to art from the 18th century to the present on Saturday evening in Recital hall, Auditorium building. The program, sponsored by Yaldai Ammi, will include a song recital by Jennie May, soprano. Mrs. Milton Shapiro and Mrs. Michael Leishin are in charge of the affair, which will be given for Polish refugee children.

• • •

At a recent meeting of the Protestant Women's Service club Mrs. E. H. Anderson of Oak Park was elected president. Mrs. Arthur W. Nelson will be first vice president; Mrs. F. E. Sparks, second vice president; Mrs. S. P. Smurr, recording secretary; Mrs. H. T. Hunter, corresponding secretary; Mrs. J. E. Replogle, treasurer, and Mrs. W. L. Gregg, assistant treasurer. The directors are Mrs. J. C. Clasper, Mrs. Norman Holdsworth, Mrs. L. Marshall, Mrs. W. C. Lamoreaus, and Mrs. H. M. English.

Members of the Fine Arts forum will hold a May breakfast at 12:30 o'clock Thursday at the Arts club. The luncheon of the Conference of Club Presidents and Program Chairmen will be held May 25 at the Stevens hotel.

The Railway Woman's Association of Chicago will hold its final meeting of the season at a tea Saturday afternoon in the Boulevard room of the Stevens hotel. Mrs. Margaret Bailey, welfare chairman of the association, is in charge of the party, which will include bridge and a fashion show.

THIRD*
IN CARSON'S SERIES OF FINE CHINA AND GLASSWARE PRESENTATIONS

FEW chinas possess the proud reputation of Royal Worcester English bone, for underlying its apparent fragility is a strength not common to others. The "Normandy" pattern is pictured here in all its splendor. Sprays of claret-colored flowers tinged with gold on a luminous ivory background create this flawless service, that brides and matrons alike will cherish. One can visualize with clarity the beauty of a table set with "Normandy" and enhanced with the glitter of Fostoria crystal reflected in the soft luster of English Shell silver.

Water Colors on Exhibition at Art Institute

By Eleanor Jewett.

It is curious how words can be twisted to serve a turn. For a great many years the International Water Color exhibit held each year at the Art institute included miniatures. The late Robert Harshe, director of the institute, considered miniatures on a par with painted photographs and gradually but completely weeded them out until after successive yearly rejections the miniature painters of the country understood the inflexibility of his attitude and refrained from sending.

This year in the International Water Color exhibition at the Art institute there is a little landscape by Gertrude Abercrombie. It was admitted to the show after some discussion because it is an oil and therefore technically disqualified [this being a water color exhibit], but it got in under the nomenclature "miniature." Those in authority dug down thru the years to the time when miniatures were always a part of the exhibition so they could hang Miss Abercrombie's cool little oil. This action is pleasant for Miss Abercrombie, but what of our miniature painters? Is it fair to admit an oil painting masquerading as a miniature [it is nearly swallowed in the depths of a huge white frame] and then to bar the authentic miniature?

The water color show this year includes the work of several men whose outside exhibitions have been startlingly fine. Among them are Andrew Wyeth [see his one-man show at the Carson Pirie Scott gallery], Donald Mills [an All-Illinois Society of the Fine Arts' find], Herb Olsen [who was first introduced at the O'Brien galleries] and Irene Bianucci, whom we discovered at a Chicago Society of Artists' exhibit.

◆

A very beautiful and thrilling exhibit which has opened in New York, and which it is hoped will be shown later in Chicago, is that of Persian art under the auspices of the Iranian institute. The exhibit is made up of hundreds of masterpieces belonging to private collectors, many of which have never before been shown in this country. Among other famous miniatures Mrs. John D. Rockefeller is lending a page from the Demotte Shah Nama, a miniature which famous authorities agree is the most beautiful Persian painting in existence.

Silver, pottery, tapestry, carpets, bowls—each rare and of great value, each beautiful, richly flavored, exotic, irreplaceable—make up this stunning exhibit that no one who goes to New York in the near future should miss. The exhibition is at One East 51st street, and will be on view thru the summer. It is under the direction of Arthur Upham Pope.

◆

The Annual Spring Salon of the All-Illinois Society of the Fine Arts will be held from May 18 to August 31 in the third floor corridor gallery, Stevens hotel. The show is the most professional the society has yet had and the most beautiful. There is an amazing amount of fine painting in it. The All-Illinois draws on the entire state for its membership and its painters have not let it down. There is SUPERB painting in this show. We guarantee you will be astonished and delighted. [This does not stand if you are a WPA'er or a modernist; that type of picture is impressively missing.]

◆

Art Center Chicago, Fine Arts building, is showing thru May the work of the midwest's foremost industrial designers. The actual products, in many cases, are included in the exhibit, in addition to photographs, drawings and blue prints. A large field is covered—from musical instruments to refrigerators. It is a fascinating show.

◆

An exhibition of paintings by Camilla Kenyon is on view at the Drake hotel, sponsored by the All-Illinois society of the Fine Arts. The exhibit will run to June 1 and is most delightful. Mrs. Kenyon has brought back a sheaf of gay paintings from her recent trip to Mexico. Landscapes, flower studies and a portrait or two make up the show.

◆

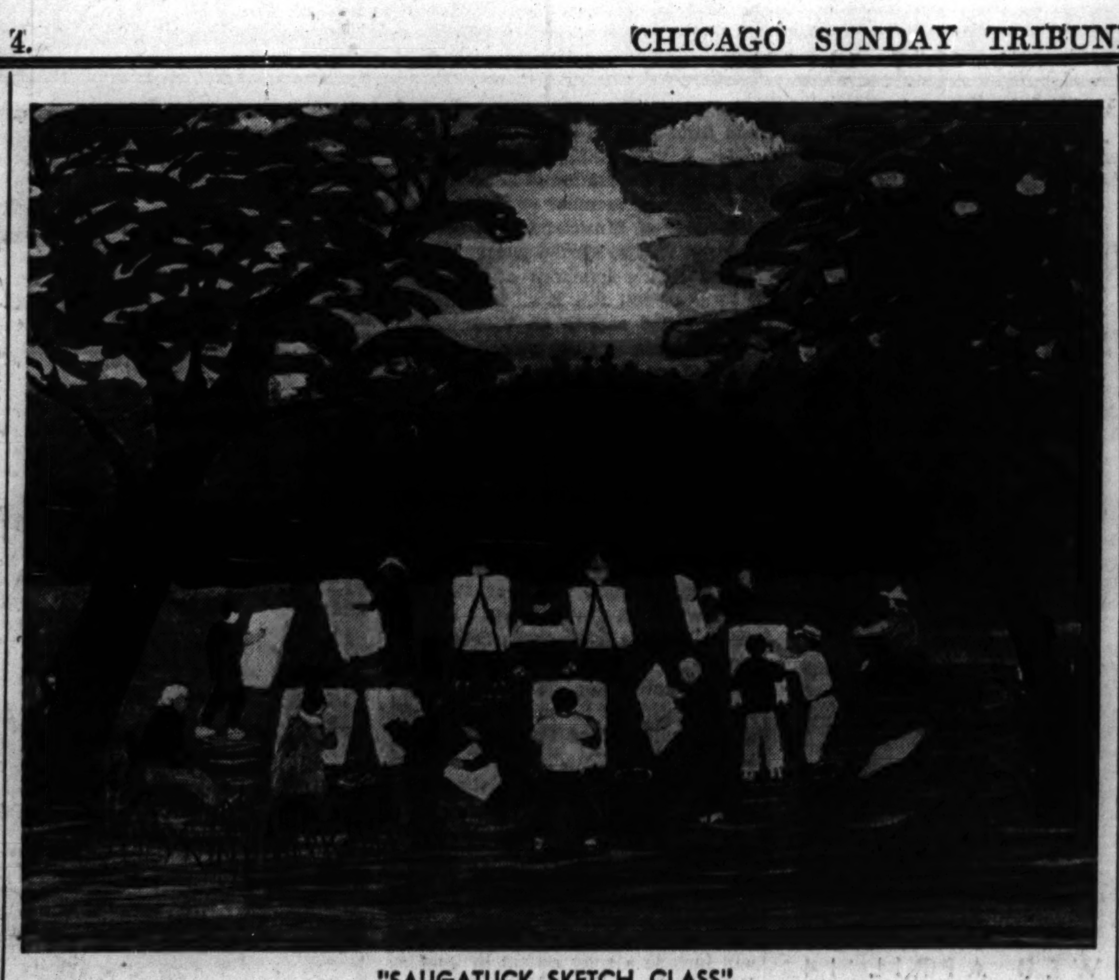
The North Shore Art Guild has an attractive exhibit at the Club Woman's bureau, Mandel Brothers. This art organization is one of the friendliest, busiest and most progressive of any in Chicago. The laughing quality of the present show reproduces exactly the character of those who make up the membership; they take art in their stride, enjoy it and try to contribute something in its name that is worth while. The organization has professional and amateur artists, but not one is an amateur at dispelling gloom. For a gay show, an amusing show, we give you the North Shore Art Guild's present exhibition.

◆

The Chicago Galleries association, 215 North Michigan avenue, has a stunning exhibition for May. The first one-man show by Jessie Arms Botke since Mrs. Botke moved to California is an outstanding feature of the exhibition. Mrs. Botke is famous for her beautiful and decorative canvases of birds and flowers. This is one of THE shows not to miss in May. Mattie Lietz is also showing at the galleries with a definitely fine group of pictures; the third feature of the exhibition is portraits by Frank L. Johnson, a new member and not a well-known painter, but one who will be known; his portraits are remarkable.

◆

The Hoosier Art gallery, 211 West Wacker drive, is showing the work of Glen Mitchell and Charles Reiffel thru May 31. It is a strong show, well worth seeing. It brings Mr. Mitchell back with a representative exhibit of his work after an absence of a number of years.



"SAUGATUCK SKETCH CLASS"

Walter J. Sherwood, well known official of the Art institute, makes his debut as a painter with this amusing picture in the current International Water Color exhibition at the Art institute.

Hull House Is to Celebrate Its 50 Years

Hull House and its neighbors and friends from far and wide will celebrate the 50th anniversary of the historic settlement house with 10 days of festivities, beginning next Friday.

Gerard Swope, once a resident of Hull House and former president of the General Electric company; Mayor Fiorello H. La Guardia of New York City and President Robert M. Hutchins of the University of Chicago will be among those participating in the celebration.

Mayor Edward J. Kelly officially will open the festivities at 5:30 o'clock Friday when trees recently planted in the two blocks south of the settlement will be dedicated to the memory of Jane Addams, founder of Hull House.

A homecoming and get together for Hull House "alumni" will follow, with Mayor Kelly and James C. Petrillo, an "alumnus," as principal speakers, and reminiscences from other alumni in order.

• • •

Open house is scheduled for all day Saturday, with the première of "Halsted Street—1940," a living newspaper created and enacted by Hull House neighbors, that evening.

Next Sunday evening four unions closely associated with Hull House—the Amalgamated Clothing Workers' union, the Chicago Teachers' union, the Social Service Employés' union, and the International Ladies Garment Workers' union—will present a program of entertainment, and heads of the unions will speak briefly.

Monday evening, May 20, there will be an open forum on "European Swords and American Ploughshares," with Clarence E. Pickett, executive secretary of the American Friends' Service committee, as speaker.

Dr. Alice Hamilton, adviser to the United States department of labor on occupational disease, will return to Hull House, with which she was associated for years, to speak at a dinner Tuesday evening, May 21. Helen Hall, director of the celebrated Henry street settlement in New York City, and president of the National Federation of Settlements, and Bishop Bernard J. Sheil also will speak at this dinner.

• • •

Open house will be held again Wednesday. There will be a neighborhood street fair late Thursday afternoon.

A civic tribute to Jane Addams will be presented Thursday evening with Dr. Hutchins, Mr. Swope and Mayor La Guardia as speakers, and Mrs. Joseph T. Bowen, 81 year old president of Hull House, as chairman. A neighborhood party and street dancing will follow.

Friday afternoon there will be a children's circus, with another performance of "Halsted Street—1940" that evening. Open house will be held Saturday.

The celebration will conclude with a concert by the Hull House Symphony orchestra and a tea on Sunday afternoon, May 26, at the Joseph T. Bowen Country club, and a final performance of "Halsted Street—1940" at Hull House in the evening. Miss Charlotte Carr, head resident of Hull House, is in charge of the celebration.

Miss Thelma Brook Is Bride of Harold Simon

Miss Thelma Brook, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Brook of Chicago, became the bride of Harold Simon on April 21 at the Blackstone hotel. Mr. Simon, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Abraham Simon of Urbana, Ill., received a master's degree from the University of Illinois. His bride, a graduate of the University of Illinois, received a doctor of law degree from the University of Chicago.

WEDDINGS

Wedding and engagement announcements must be signed by a member of the family, and must bear the address and telephone number of the signer. Announcements must reach the society editor by Tuesday noon preceding the Sunday of publication. Please print names.

Marjorie Ziegler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter S. Ziegler of Los Angeles, Cal., formerly of Chicago, to D. Richard Amirkhan of Oakland, Cal., son of the Rev. V. B. Amirkhan of Fresno, Cal. The wedding took place yesterday.

Emeline Gabriella Stritzel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Stritzel, 2415 Logan boulevard, to Matthew Jerome Kasprzyk, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Kasprzyk. The marriage took place yesterday in St. John Berchmans church.

Shirley Martin, daughter of Mrs. Carolyn Martin, 1441 Berteau avenue, to John J. Kalvelage, yesterday at St. Alphonsus church.

Ardella Swislovsky, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hyman Swislovsky, 1527 South Lawndale avenue, to George Jacobs, son of Louis Jacobs, 1522 South Millard avenue, to take place June 16 at Congregation Anshe Tiktin.

Helen Eisman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Eisman of Miami Beach, Fla., and Virginia Beach, Va., to Dr. Herman C. Gornstein of Chicago Heights, Ill., son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Gornstein of Chicago, on April 21.

Lorraine Erma Dominguez, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Dominguez, 849 Lill avenue, to Clinton Thomas Foster Jr., of Baltimore, Md. The wedding took place at 10 o'clock yesterday morning in the Seminary Avenue Federated church, and was followed by a breakfast at the Belmont hotel.

Eleanor Ritz, daughter of Mrs. George W. Ritz, 6630 Kimbark avenue, to Dr. William Bennett Burke, on April 20 at St. Colombanus church. A reception followed at the Sherry hotel.

Charm Is Best Dish to Serve at Dinnertime

If you would like information on the sharing of the wedding responsibilities and the budgeting of the wedding expenses, write for our pamphlet, "Wedding Budgets." On this mimeographed page are six sample budgets at the $300, $600, and $1,000 levels. By Helen Bartlett.

There are a few persons in this world, some of whom we have met, who do not enjoy eating. They eat only to keep alive and are patiently waiting for the day when adequate nourishment for the individual will be embodied in little tablets with the pill purveyor's instructions to "take one three times a day."

The majority of people enjoy the business of eating, we are glad to say. And that is well. Besides pampering their palates they enjoy the easy, comfortable sociability afforded by the dinner hour. Dinner is, or should be, much more than just feeding the inner man. It also should provide mental and spiritual fodder. In fact, the pleasure and the success of the meal depend much more on the presence of these abstract things than on the food which is set upon the table. Dinner in a household which is gracious, tho poor, can far supersede extravagant service and expensive food by sheer force of charm.

• • •

Much is accomplished by the hostess doing the very best she can within her limitations, and by being proud of what she has rather than apologetic for what she has not; by good company, interesting conversation and other such mental stimulation making the food and the service secondary.

Table talk always should be pleasant. Aside from that, topics are unlimited. One should refrain from discussing illnesses, injuries, and disturbing tragedies that might, in any way, influence the pleasure of others at the table. Neither should the food be picked apart, actually or verbally. It can be very upsetting to those who started out with a sharp, healthy appetite to have a persnickety member among those present find fault with this dish or that, or audibly refuse certain vegetables. Neither should there be any bickering, whining, fault finding, quarreling, or other disagreement among the children at the table.

• • •

Families, no matter what their degree of wealth, should make the dinner hour an occasion. Every member of the family should be imbued with the desire to be pleasant, entertaining and gracious to everybody at the table, and to give the impression that such is their daily habit, whether guests are present or not. In some homes it is the one hour of the day when the entire family convenes, all the more reason it should be made an event, and something worth coming home to.

Miss Harriet Shackleton Engaged to John P. Mead

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Shackleton of 6253 Sheridan road announce the engagement of their daughter, Harriet, to John P. Mead of Evanston. Miss Shackleton is a graduate of the University of Michigan. Her fiancé was graduated from the University of Illinois and the University of Michigan law school. The wedding will take place in the fall.

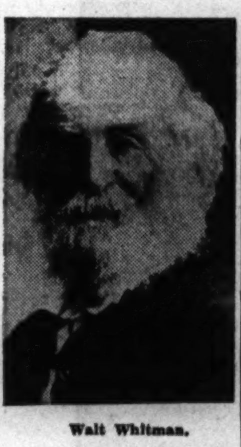
When Chicago Was Young

By Herma Clark

Letters from Martha Freeman Esmond to her friend Julia Boyd of New York.

Chicago, March 27, 1892.

Dear Julia: Walt Whitman's death was the most important item in today's paper, I thought, as I read our TRIBUNE at the breakfast table. Somehow, I was startled to know that he had attained the age of 73, for he gave the impression of vigor and youth, even tho he was often referred to as "The Good Gray Poet." He seemed timeless, but he has at last paid his debt to nature. I was interested to read that he had a mausoleum prepared in the cemetery at Camden, N. J., and that he had directed that his parents' bodies should be placed there, too.



Walt Whitman.

Do you like his poetry? I can't say that it pleases me. Being rather conventional, I enjoy Whittier, Longfellow, Lowell, Holmes, Bryant, and Emerson better, among our American poets. Yet I don't feel as Swinburne did that Whitman's Muse was "a drunken apple woman, indecently sprawling in the slush and garbage of the gutter amid the rotten refuse of her overturned fruit stall." His poetry doesn't suggest garbage to me. Nor do I like Dante Rossetti's criticism of Whitman, for the English poet expressed himself as "happy in loathing 'Leaves of Grass.'" But there is too much emphasis on the bodily functions to suit me, in Whitman's verse.

I can delight in him, when he expresses the grief of the nation in

"O Captain, my Captain, our fearful trip is done,
The ship has weathered every rock, the prize we sought is won."

I can enjoy his lines, in less conventional meter, about Nature in her wild moods, as in his apostrophe in Platte Canyon. But when he writes of "celebrating himself," he repels me. Saint Paul wrote that he kept under his body and brought it into subjection, whereas Whitman does just the opposite . . . reveling in bodily appetites. His motto seems to be to do just as one pleases, and on no account to question whether one is doing right. I am old fashioned enough to prefer the Bible teachings, which urge man to look upward, to delight in the things of the spirit. Longfellow's beautiful "Ladder of Saint Augustine" offers a nobler lesson than Whitman's. You remember how the poet quotes Augustine as saying that one's vices may become a ladder on which to rise. . . .

"The low desire, the base design,
Which makes another's virtue less,
The pleasures of the ruddy wine
And all occasions of excess;

All these must first be trampled down
Beneath our feet, if we would gain
In the bright field of fair renown
The right of eminent domain."

Yet some of Whitman's phrases are arrestingly lovely, and I enjoy the "feel" of such first lines as "When Lilacs Last in the Dooryard Bloomed"; "Look Down, Fair Moon"; "Cavalry Crossing a Ford"; "By the Bivouac's Fitful Flame"; "Song of the Banner at Daybreak." In each of these I can see a painting. Can't you? A white haired woman plucking lilac branches for Memorial day; moonlight on a river; blue coated horsemen urging tired steeds across a stream; soldiers resting by a camp fire; our flag "catching the gleam of the morning's first beam." All suggest stirring pictures. Whitman is certainly a master of words.

I was distressed to read that he disliked being known best as the author of "O Captain, My Captain" and that he once exclaimed, when it was praised in his hearing: "O damn 'My Captain.'" That really hurts me.

No. Whitman, tho an interesting character, can never be to me what Longfellow and Whittier have been. Lacking in humility, he seems to court publicity and to use startling expressions just to make a sensation. But I think of him kindly, remembering that he was a tender nurse of wounded soldiers in army hospitals during the civil war. So I say: "May he rest in peace."

With much love, your old friend,
MARTHA FREEMAN ESMOND.

Foot Notes.

Walt Whitman [1819-1892] was a storm center in the literary world, from the publication of "Leaves of Grass" in 1855. William Lyon Phelps says of the "Leaves": "There are poems of amazing originality and beauty and there are passages which should never have been printed," but he pays tribute to Whitman's genius and to his mastery of the striking phrase.

By the Illinois River.

Is there a lovelier section of the state than the Illinois valley? Speaking before the flourishing and efficient women's clubs of Pekin and Ottawa, whose members dressed in costume to help visualize the days of "bustles and bangs," we reveled in the charm of springtime along the Illinois river. Added to its natural beauty are its associations with early explorers, Marquette, Joliet, La Salle, and Tonty. At Ottawa, we saw the interior of the old John Hossack mansion overlooking the river, a house rivaling those of Natchez and containing memories even more stirring than those of the southern city. In the basement of this beautiful house, Abolitionist Hossack sheltered many fugitive slaves, and, on trial in October, 1860, before Judge Drummond in Chicago for this offense, he defended himself with eloquent simplicity, referring the jurist to the "oldest law book in existence, the Book of Books." In justification for his act, he recited solemnly the verse: "Thou shalt not deliver unto his master the servant which is escaped from his master unto thee; he shall dwell with thee; even among you. . . . Thou shalt not oppress him." And then, closing his Bible, Hossack went on: "When He that directs the steps of men conducts a poor, oppressed, panting fugitive to my door, and there I hear his bitter cry, I dare not close my ear against it, lest in my own extremity, I cry for mercy and shall not be heard."

Convicted of violating the fugitive Slave act and sentenced to 10 days in jail and a fine of $100, Hossack suffered little, for "Long John" Wentworth took him driving every day and Chicago citizens banqueted him and paid his fine. The Hossack home is owned and occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Godfrey, whose ample means and good taste have kept it in beautiful condition, a delight to lovers of historical houses.

Art Notes

Some 30 abstractions by Leger are on view to June 1 at the Katharine Kuh gallery, 540 North Michigan avenue. This is the last exhibition Mrs. Kuh will hold until fall. She is leaving early in June for Mexico. The current exhibition will be liked by those who can feel enthusiastic about abstract painting. Several of the designs resemble Indian motifs; one can visualize them in the right place as lending a clever decorative note to a modern interior, but any alignment of these with pictures by Degas, Renoir, Eakins, Homer, Inness, etc., etc., leaves them distressingly in the cold. They are not pictures; they are expressions in color of theoretic calculations.

◆

A brilliant and beautiful group of recent paintings by Hovsep Pushman is at the Anderson galleries, 526 South Michigan avenue. Pushman is too well known for the marvelous quality of his work to need more than a word now. On all scores this is a MUST show.

◆

An exhibition of the Index of American Design is at the Lake Shore Athletic club during May. The show is made up in large part of "plates" which have never been shown before.

Federation's Convention in Week's Plans

By Betty Browning.

The Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs has planned its 45th annual convention, opening tomorrow at the Hotel Sherman, as a "review of women's achievements with an eye to their future responsibilities." This summary of the program was given by Mrs. William T. Bruckner of Hinsdale, president of the federation.

Mrs. William T. Bruckner.

Since the General Federation of Women's Clubs, of which the Illinois federation is one of the largest units, now is celebrating its golden jubilee, the convention will open with a jubilee luncheon tomorrow noon. Gowns of the period during which the general federation was founded will be worn by many of the women at the luncheon.

• • •

Girl students of the Illinois college at Jacksonville will present a skit showing an early meeting of the Ladies' Education society. This skit, in which authentic costumes will figure, first was presented in 1918 when the Jacksonville club celebrated its 85th year. The Ladies' club chorus of Morgan Park will repeat a program used at a club musical in 1891, and pioneer clubwomen selected from all parts of the state will be cited by Mrs. William Hart.

Mrs. Edward J. Lehman.
[Paul Stone-Raymor Photo.]

Mrs. Edward J. Lehman, general federation director from Illinois, and Mrs. Richard M. McClure, chairman of the local convention board, are in charge of arrangements for the luncheon.

• • •

Mrs. Mary Oakes, 99 year old charter member of the Rogers Park Woman's club, who has been named the official Illinois federation mother, will be a special guest, representing the federation's pioneer members.

Presidents of clubs organized 50 or more years ago—the Ladies' Education society of Jacksonville, oldest in the United States; the Arché club, the Argyle Park Portia club, the Arlington Heights, Blue Island, and Chicago Women's clubs, the Hyde Park Travel club, the Irving Park, Millard avenue, Morgan Park, Ravenswood, and Evanston Women's clubs, the Woman's Library club of Glencoe, the Friends in Council of Quincy, and the Orleans Woman's Country club—also will be special guests.

• • •

From the past the 1,200 convention delegates will turn to the present and the future at succeeding sessions. Six department heads of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, including Mrs. Fred R. Lufkin of Elgin, press and public chairman; President Franklyn Bliss Snyder of Northwestern university; Ralph McCallister, director of the adult education council of Chicago; Clark G. Kuebler, instructor in classical languages at Northwestern university; Noble J. Puffer, superintendent of schools of Cook county; Clifton M. Utley, director of the Chicago council on foreign relations; Jens Jensen, landscape architect, and Haldore Hanson, author and foreign correspondent, will be among the speakers at the conference.

Tomorrow evening Mr. Kuebler will speak on "The Defense of the Citadel." Mr. Puffer will discuss "Visual Education in Cook County" Tuesday morning, and Mr. Jensen will talk on "Garden Design" at the same session.

"Propaganda and Our Newspapers" will be Mr. Hanson's topic Tuesday afternoon, and Mrs. Gustave Ketterer of Philadelphia, Pa., the general federation's legislative chairman, also will speak at this session.

• • •

President's night will be observed Tuesday evening with a discussion by Mr. Utley on "The Foreign Situation and Our Relation to It." The president's reception will follow.

Miss Agnes Samuelson of Des Moines, Ia., education chairman of the general federation, will discuss "The Purpose of Education" Wednesday morning. A symposium on public welfare also will be presented, with Dr. Philip L. Seman, chairman of the Chicago recreation commission; the Rev. Ralph A. Gallagher, professor of sociology at Loyola university, and Mrs. F. Jefferson Redfield, chairman of the Cook county hospital occupation therapy committee, among the speakers.

Dr. Louise Burnham Dunbar, assistant professor of history at the University of Illinois, and a writer and lecturer, will speak on "The Place of the United States in International Relations" at the close of the Wednesday morning session.

• • •

The junior clubwomen, ranging from 16 to 30 years of age, will have a separate business session Wednesday morning. They will meet jointly with the seniors Wednesday afternoon, and Mrs. David S. Long of Harrisonville, Mo., junior chairman of the general federation, will be a special guest. Following a junior dinner there will be another joint session with the seniors that evening. James Bradley-Griffin, recitalist, will present the play, "The American Way."

Thursday morning Frank Abner Hecht Jr., Chicago civic worker, will speak on "Rackets," and Dr. Joseph L. Baer, clinic professor of gynecology and obstetrics at Rush Medical college, will discuss "How Illinois Can Improve Maternity Care." Mr. McCallister will speak on "The Public Library—a People's University" at this same session, and Mrs. T. V. Moore, chairman of public safety of the general federation, also will speak.

• • •

Thursday afternoon Mrs. Carl L. Schrader of Boston, Mass., fine arts chairman of the general federation, will speak on "Our American Culture—the Fine Arts"; Dr. Earl De Long, instructor in political science at Northwestern university, on "The Merit and Demerit System in Illinois Civil Service"; Miss Edith C. Krogh, manager of the women's division of the American Enterprise association, on "The American Woman—Active or Passive," and De Loss Walker on "Help and Hope in This Day of Confusion."

Dr. Snyder will discuss "The University and the Community" at the final banquet session Thursday evening.

Two officers will be elected by convention delegates. There is a contest for the office of treasurer between Mrs. Fred Bauchhenss of Chicago, the federation's present auditor and finance chairman, and Mrs. N. M. Anderson of Fairbury, Ill., former 17th district president. Mrs. Louis E. Wedel of East St. Louis, former 22d district president, is unopposed for vice president of the southern region.

Among the special events planned for delegates will be attendance at a broadcast of "Citizens of Tomorrow" at 7 o'clock Wednesday evening, in the audience studio of station W-G-N. Waller High school will take part in the program.

WILL RESIDE IN DETROIT

Miss Jane Frye, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Frye of Glen Ellyn, who is to be a June bride. She and Gordon R. Ferguson of Wheaton will be married the evening of June 21 in Bond chapel at the University of Chicago. A reception will follow at the Stevens hotel. Mr. Ferguson, a graduate of Beloit college, will take his bride to Detroit to live. Miss Frye attended Lawrence college and the Goodman Theater school.

Our Wedding Gift Advisory Board, with their experience of running homes, knows what a bride needs. They also haven't forgotten what they received as wedding presents, what they made use of and what is still in hiding.

With this to go on, our Gift Advisory Board has gathered together in the Gift Section, Seventh Floor, a complete selection of gifts, the practical, beautiful, and the nonsensical but all definitely on the wanted side and at prices to fit shoe-string or extravagant purses.

Brides-to-be are advised to make up their own preference lists with VIRGINIA AUSTEN, director of our Gift Advisory Board, who is here to give a valuable service to brides, their friends, and relatives. Her "BRIDAL REGISTER" records patterns and preferences of brides and is a welcome guide to all well-intentioned givers!

Parties Fete Brides Elect at Pasadena

By Ruth Billheimer.

PASADENA, CAL. Each week-end now is crammed with parties for brides elect, and leafing thru the calendar one picks out as two of the most interesting the Al Fresco buffet luncheon given yesterday by Mrs. Norman L. Goss [Jean Ericson of Chicago] honoring jointly Miss Georgia Clifford, fiancée of Kenneth Hempstead Hess of Chicago and Wayne, Ill., and Miss Josephine Smith, whose troth to John McWilliams III. has just been announced—and the all day sports and bridge luncheon at the Valley Hunt which two of her bridesmaids gave for Miss Deborah Bassett [also of an old Chicago family] who becomes the bride of Norman Hammond Wakeman of San Gabriel on June 19, immediately following her graduation from Scripps college. Hostesses were Scripps friends, Little Mae MacKeown and Arneil Petrie of Honolulu.

Mrs. Goss' guests included a majority of Chicago names: Mrs. Herbert G. Clifford [Virginia Montgomery], mother of Georgia; her sister, Mrs. Richard M. Illsley [Elizabeth Montgomery]; two newcomers, Mrs. Edwin Price Jr., and Mrs. William Onderdonk, both of Winnetka; Miss Carolyn Crossett, until recently of Chicago; Mrs. Albert Harris MacLeod, a bride of last June, whose husband is the grandson of the Albert W. Harrises of Chicago and Pasadena; Mrs. David Rhodes and Mrs. Kenneth Rhodes, wives of two sons of the Joseph Foster Rhodeses; Mrs. Morris Mothershead, Miss Judy Ridgway, daughter of the Carroll Ridgways; Miss Anna Parsons Clifford and Miss Barbara Morris, daughter of Mrs. Armour Morris and cousin of the hostess, who will entertain for Miss Morris June 1. Miss Morris becomes the bride of Cyril Kerrin in the Armour estate gardens here June 21.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Pond and their daughter, Miss Barbara Pond, have issued invitations to a cocktail party Wednesday which will honor Miss Mary Elizabeth Spencer, daughter of Mrs. Earl E. Spencer, former Evanstonian, and her fiancé, Charles Ruggles Westbrook. The young Richard Westbrooks of Winnetka, who are here to be in the wedding Saturday, will entertain for the two, as will the benedict elect's parents, Mr and Mrs. Edward S. Westbrook, who have chosen the scene of the party as the Los Angeles Country club.

Here for a fortnight divided between Mrs. John H. Hardin and Mrs. Kenneth T. Price [Frances von Hofsten] is Miss Louise Wood, daughter of the late Mrs. Ira Couch Wood. Miss Wood will lecture in Pasadena before going to Media, Pa., near Philadelphia, where she is to make her eastern lecture tour headquarters. She has been in River Forest for the last year and a half. Miss Wood and Mrs. Price were Bryn Mawr schoolmates and Winnetka friends. Mrs. Hardin is an old friend of Miss Wood's mother.

Little Ann Bruce, daughter of the Eugene Leslie Bruces [Gertrude Gaylord] and granddaughter of the George Snow Gaylords, is two years old and her mother gave a party for her the other day. Barbara Ann Byrne, daughter of the former Barbara Boisot, was one of the tiny guests.

Mrs. Edgar Johnson Goodspeed, now of Bel-Air, entertained informally at luncheon for Mrs. David K. Bjorke of Westwood Hills. Her guests included Mrs. Ernest Price of Chicago.

Back in Santa Barbara from an extended vacation in Chicago are the Charles Deere Wimans, who are now planning many parties for the summer aboard their yacht, Patolita.

Capital Abuzz with Charm—and Delegates

on, but without the Simses, a glamorous couple, happy, popular. And Mitzie Sims was the belle and beauty of Washington.

Mr. and Mrs. James Forgan invited the Chicago delegation to the Mayflower for cocktails before the big dinner downstairs whose tables were spreading all over like a prairie fire. The Forgans were as usual in great form, and the hostess lovely in white tulle, all chic for the speakers' table. One cocktail party is much like another, but into this came unexpectedly Donald and Margaret Herrick Forgan, who ran down from New York for the dinner.

• • •

The banquet was beflagged, crowded, uproarious with military band and patriotic feeling. The evening speakers were Supreme Court Justice Stanley Reed, whose stunning wife was a picture in classical black, unjeweled, seated at the right of Norman Davis.

And then came Norman Somerville, chairman of the Canadian Red Cross. They were both brilliant speakers, our Supreme court judge and our Canadian visitor. Mr. Justice Reed explained that Red Cross was first and foremost emergency relief. There is emergency now, there are always emergencies. The tall, heavy featured justice spoke not one word too much. Mr. Sommerville had raised five million and some odd hundred thousands for Canadian Red Cross, and knowing himself as a surefire speaker he talked informally and with authority. We heard about Lady Astor's hospital for Canadians on the lawn at Cliveden; we heard of supplies and aid sent Finns, Norwegians, Poles and English troops—it was a fantastic record of executive ability; construction versus destruction. After the brilliant dinner was over and with the uplift still over us, Mary Runnells, Suzy Stearns and I caught a taxi and started for Lincoln's memorial. The air was hot and soft, the park as black as Egypt. We wanted to see how it would all look with indirect lighting—the giant blimp that is the capitol, the tall shaft that is the shadowy monument, and the Greek temple that keeps before us the glory of the great and good President.

The figure of Lincoln sitting in the half light was for us the climax of our Red Cross journey. Away across the water was the dim shape of the Jefferson monument, sprung up among the cherry trees of Japan. It was really marvelous, our taxi ride in the dark.

Miss Betty Gillogly and Robert S. Fletcher Wed

The marriage of Miss Betty Harlan Gillogly, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph E. Gillogly of 2228 East 70th place, to Robert Stewart Fletcher took place at 4:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon in the Bryn Mawr Community church. The Rev. Theodore K. Vogler officiated at the ceremony, which was followed by a reception at the South Shore Country club.

War Dwindles Paris Colony of Norwegians

By May Birkhead.

PARIS. The Norwegian colony in Paris, like many other groups, has dwindled as a result of the war. Among those who are left there is anxiety about the fate of their relatives, especially those who have connections in Oslo. Mrs. Edward Sparrow, of Norwegian-American birth, the former Miss Groth, whose father was American and mother Norwegian, is the wife of an American investment banker. They have long resided in Paris.

At the time of the peace conference in 1919 Miss Groth was in charge of the press section, and was noted for her literary skill and general efficiency. She was in Geneva during the organizing stage of the league of nations. She has never given up literary work, and is preparing some articles on Norway. She and her husband plan to go soon to the United States, where they sent their children at the outbreak of the war, and her mother is soon to follow them. Mrs. Sparrow is much concerned over the fate of many relations who were in invaded Oslo and the surrounding region.

Mrs. Holma, the former Alice Gade, whose husband spent some time in Iceland—in the Norwegian diplomatic service—remained in Oslo late last autumn while she came on to Paris, has recently been convalescing in the American hospital. She has now recovered, but has been most anxious to have news from her husband. Recently, after many attempts to get word, she finally received news from the Norwegian legation here that he is alive, but that was all she could learn.

The Baron de Wedel-Jarlsberg, for some years dean of the foreign diplomatic corps in Paris, has passed to his rest. His wife was born Palmer, and was a sister of May Palmer, who married the late Chauncey M. Depew. When the Baroness de Wedel-Jarlsberg—first married to a German capitalist, Von André—was in London and Paris she took those capitals by storm, what with her beauty and resources for lavish entertainment. She was often remarked in the company of her intimate and brilliant friend, Lady Randolph Churchill. The Von Andrés had a home in Paris, in the Bois de Boulogne, near Longchamp, a property later acquired by the famous parfumeur, François Coty. Later they had one of the handsome old mansions in the Rue de Presbourg. A few years before the world war Von André died in Paris, on Grand Prix day. She married Baron de Wedel-Jarlsberg about 1915, and in her older days, with her white hair and classic features, remained a strikingly beautiful and distinguished figure.

Mme. Eide Norena, of Norwegian birth, the famous prima donna who has often appeared with success at the opera in Paris, at the Metropolitan in New York, and at the Chicago opera, was in Cannes when Norway was invaded, and came on to Paris with her husband, Henry Blackmer, to learn what news she could of friends and relatives in Oslo and vicinity.

Home Owners' Queries

Milwaukee. [To the Home Builders' Editor]—Is there any good bleach which can be used on cement which has grown a bit soiled and gray between the tiles of a bathroom floor?

J. Frank.

Answer: You might try javelle water or some bleaching liquid which contains chlorine.

* *

Chicago. [To the Home Builders' Editor]—Can you give me formula for a buttermilk and starch treatment for walls? I have read of such a treatment as protection against dust, etc.

J. Kane.

Answer: Make up a thin, transparent mixture of starch, add a little buttermilk to thin it further, and apply with a whitewash brush.

* *

Chicago. [To the Home Builders' Editor]—Is there any special paint available for storm sash and screens to keep them from sticking?

J. King.

Answer: You can reduce paint considerably with turpentine to make a "lighter" coat. Or use a thin coat of spar varnish to which just enough coloring matter has been added for good coverage.

* *

Chicago. [To the Home Builders' Editor]—We are having trouble with mildew which collects around our baseboard. Last winter it was very bad. What causes it and what can we do?

Lane B.

Answer: Lack of insulation is probably causing it. Moisture in the room condenses—and it is greatest at the lower part of the room. Ventilate your house as well as possible to relieve the condition. And consult an architect regarding ways and means to remedy condition.

Marion Rosenblat to Be Bride of Jerry Saperston

Travel Now, Pay Later, New Railroad Plan

By Frederic Babcock.

Prediction that the field of travel will be opened up to a new and much larger public this summer was made last week, following the announcement that henceforth tours and vacations can be taken on the deferred payment plan.

Seventy-five railroads—representing nearly every major line in America—are sponsoring the plan. Tourist agencies and travel bureaus are cooperating. So are banks and other financial houses. Railroad men look upon it as the biggest travel inducement since the introduction of Pullman cars.

• • •

Here is the way it works:

The prospective traveler goes to a ticket office or a travel agency and applies for credit to the amount of the cost of his proposed trip. The application is passed upon within 24 hours. If the routine credit inquiry indicates his ability to meet monthly payments, he is notified that his ticket is ready for him. No collateral is required. Nor is there a down payment. His signature is all that's needed. The only proviso is that the total cost of the trip must be $50 or more.

If the price is $100 or more, the traveler will have 12 months in which to pay it back. It it's between $50 and $100, he may have six months, or 12 months, depending on the bank making the loan. The charge for interest and handling is 8 per cent.

The announcement on behalf of the railroads was made in Chicago last Tuesday by H. W. Siddall, chairman of the Transcontinental and Western Passenger associations, and C. A. Fox, chairman of the Central Passenger association.

"It is intended especially for those many thousands of Americans who want to travel but who 'can't spare the money just now,'" Mr. Siddall explained. "It brings assurance that the slogan, '1940 Is Travel America Year,' is really going to mean something. From now on, nearly every salaried person and wage earner can travel and pay later. It will be possible for the average man to take his whole family on a holiday trip or vacation in the same manner he would buy his car or radio—on the installment plan.

"I have discussed the matter with officials of large travel agencies and they are all enthusiastic about it. They agree that it's going to give a big impetus to tourism on this continent."

• • •

"This is the finest proposition I've ever run across in my experience as a railroad man—and I've been in the business a long while," said Mr. Fox. "All of us are highly sanguine about its success. Economists tell us it is probably the most dramatic and far-reaching step ever taken by the roads in their efforts to make rail travel a commodity which can be enjoyed by the whole public."

Mr. Fox predicted that, tho the service covers any form of railway travel, its largest use will be for vacations and recreational trips.

"Credit will not be confined to the cost of transportation alone," he said. "It may be used for Pullman accommodations, all-expense tours—including hotel rooms and meals—sightseeing, side trips, and any service sold thru a railroad ticket office."

• • •

The plan will go into effect May 20. It will not be limited to travel by rail; trips to such places as Hawaii, Alaska, Canada, Mexico, Central and South America, and the West Indies are included, provided a part of the journey is over an American railroad.

Asked about the participation of the two major Canadian lines, Mr. Siddall said: "They hope to be able to come in later—maybe next year."

Popular Forests.

ASHEVILLE, N. C.—More than a million persons visited North Carolina's three national forests in 1939. The Pisgah and Nantahala forests in the mountains were especially popular with campers, as well as with those who went for a shorter stay. Additional camping facilities have been built for the 1940 season.

It Looks Like a Busy Summer for Wisconsin

MADISON, WIS.

Beginning with blossom festivals this month, Wisconsin's 1940 calendar of recreational events includes Indian ceremonial dances, a mid-July snow festival, boat races, concerts under the stars, and a rowboat derby. In addition there will be regular performances by summer theater companies at Port Washington, Williams Bay, Oconomowoc, and Fish Creek, and Sunday afternoon motion pictures on the estate of Frank Lloyd Wright near Spring Green.

Both of the opening events of the season are in Crawford county, near the Mississippi. The Kickapoo valley apple blossom festival is at Gays Mills, where huge orchards cover the countryside. The annual opening of the Villa Louis, 100 year old baronial mansion at Prairie du Chien, is a colorful celebration, with townspeople dressed in antebellum costumes. There is new interest in the event this year, with the opening of a new museum containing relics and curios of the early French, Indian, and British days.

Here are some of the scheduled fêtes:

MAY 12—Gay Mills—Kickapoo Valley apple blossom festival [southwest, Crawford county, highway 131].

MAY 19—Prairie du Chien—Annual opening of Villa Louis [southwest, Crawford county, highways 60, 35].

SEPT. 15 — Monroe — Annual Swiss cheese festival [south, Green county, highways 11, 81, 69].

A Straight Line Is Not Shortest on Pyramid

MEXICO CITY.—The shortest distance between two points may be in a straight line everywhere else, but not when you climb the Pyramid of the Sun at Teotihuacan, near Mexico City. The easiest way to reach the top is by a zig-zag route over the 222 steps, and it's less tiring.

Rocky Mountain Park to Observe Its Silver Jubilee

ROCKY MOUNTAIN NATIONAL PARK, Colo.—One of the longest parades in the history of northern Colorado, a pageant of progress in the Rockies, is to feature the silver jubilee celebration of this park, June 15 and 16.

Cities and communities which have shared in the growth of Colorado as one of the leading vacation states will take part in the procession.

Rocky Mountain National park was established in 1915. In the first year 31,000 persons came here. Today the annual attendance is more than 600,000, making the park one of the heaviest visited vacation areas in the west.

A ski jumping contest and golf and bowling tournaments will form part of the jubilee program.

Where the Buffaloes Roam.

Each summer more than 5,000 persons visit the Bison range, in the Rockies of western Montana. The 19,000 acre range lies between Arlee and Dixon, close to the Flathead Indian reservation. It is devoted to the propagation of buffalo.

THE VOICE OF THE TRAVELER

Letters regarding travel conditions and experiences are welcomed. Address: Travel Editor, Chicago Tribune.

THE NEARBY PLACES.

Chicago, May 7.—To the Travel Editor: Spring is here and summer is approaching, and people are thinking about places to visit.

I believe it would be a splendid idea for some of your readers to send in to the Travel section descriptions of the places they have visited not too far from Chicago and the points of interest en route.

Reports on the Great Smoky mountains, the Ozarks, and similar scenic areas would be welcomed by a great many prospective travelers. Letters regarding our neighboring states also would be useful. If one report were to be published each Sunday your readers would cut it out and save it for future reference.

I read The Tribune Travel section every Sunday, and I am always disappointed when the stories regarding nearby districts are meager. I believe articles about inexpensive trips to various parts of this country, Canada, Mexico, Central America, and the West Indies also would encourage more persons to take advantage of the opportunities offered.

Personally, I should like to have information on a tour from Chicago to the Great Smokies, giving the places of interest en route and details as to overnight cabins, hotels, and the most scenic routes. The journey I should like to take would be done in easy stages and would require about eight days. E. W.

MAIL FOR SHUT-INS.

Grayslake, Ill., May 5.—To the Travel Editor: The Travel section of The Sunday Tribune—including the advertising—is the most interesting part of your paper. I particularly enjoyed Margaret Lofland's letter, printed April 21.

Since I am ill, collecting travel folders and the like has become a hobby of mine. I should be very happy to receive scenic postcards from anywhere and everywhere. My address is Box 205.

Mrs. George Frear.

Rockford, Ill., May 8.—To the Travel Editor: Kindly place the name of Reuben Celander, Halsted road, Rockford, on your list. He is paralyzed from the waist down and is now confined to his bed. He was shot in the spine by bandits while he was trying to protect his aged father in a holdup. His hobby is collecting stamps. He would be delighted to hear from your readers. A. G. Lewis.

Chicago, April 30.—To the Travel Editor: Some one whom we do not know sent my daughter's name and address—Catherine Bersac of 7755 Sheridan road—to your paper as a shut-in, and she has received many letters as a result. We appreciate the kindness of all these people, but regret that the time and effort they spent could not have been given to invalids. It is heartening to know there is so much kindness left in this world. Would it be possible to retract the statement. Rose G. Bersac.

THANK YOU DEPARTMENT.

Grovertown, Ind., May 6.—To the Travel Editor: My name appeared in "The Voice of the Traveler" April 14, and I received many cards and letters. I wish I were able to answer each one, but that is impossible. So I ask the senders to accept my thanks, thru The Tribune, for making my 49th birthday such a happy event. Mary Mueller.

Chicago, May 5.—To the Travel Editor: A sincere "thank you" for the thoughtfulness shown by your readers when I became a shut-in. Now I would like to give you the name of another shut-in here: Mrs. Lupe Cardenas, 5601 North Pulaski road, Chicago. She is a lonely Mexican girl, who would appreciate hearing from travelers and other readers.

Anne Kohout.

Davis, Ill., May 2.—To the Travel Editor: I should like to thank you and all readers who have been so kind to Mrs. Jess Roenneburg of Davis, whose name I sent in several months ago. She is paralyzed on the left side and is forced to remain in bed. The mail has been a constant source of pleasure for her, and she has received a great deal of happiness from it.

Here is the name of another invalid: Mrs. J. T. Swanson of the Livingston County sanitarium, Pontiac, Ill. She, too, would appreciate hearing from your readers. M. K.

Game Ranger's Wife Battles Wily Leopard

To the Sunday Editor: Following my recent letters in The Sunday Tribune, I received so many requests from your readers for more stories of my experiences as a game ranger's wife in Tanganyika, Africa, that I felt encouraged to send another article describing an unpleasant event early this year. I might add that every detail is absolutely true.

—Eleanor Rushby.

By Eleanor Rushby.

Thru the jungle very softly,
Comes a shudder and a sigh.
It is fear, O little hunter, it is fear.
—Kipling.

MOROGORO, TANGANYIKA, AFRICA.

Day has broken at last, cheerless, exceedingly cold and gray, but welcome nevertheless. Thru my bedroom window the myriads of trees on the hillside show hazily, while those in the gully, only a few yards from my room, stand out boldly, festooned with tropical creepers and with their roots buried in the undergrowth.

Hembe, my kitchen boy, heavy eyed from lack of sleep, has wandered off to the kitchen to warm himself at the fire and to make tea for me. In this room my little 3 year old daughter and my infant son sleep heavily after much weeping.

• • •

I hate leopards! We always have had them here on our little coffee farm, but my hate dates from the time when I was alone here with little Kate, my husband having gone on safari as "white hunter" to a sportsman from South Africa.

One very sultry night I retired to bed, leaving the bedroom door wide open onto the veranda on account of the heat, but taking the precaution of leaving my storm lamp burning dimly and placing a loaded service revolver on the bedside table. Across the threshold of my room lay Barney, a fine Airedale, which I was keeping for an absent neighbor.

At 2 in the morning I was awakened by a startled grunt from Barney, followed by a scuffle on the veranda. I caught up the dim lamp and the revolver and ran outside, where in the poor light I made out two dark, struggling shapes in the flower garden.

The forms were indistinct, but I could hear the noise of a body being dragged and I guessed that a leopard had gotten Barney. I hastily fired a shot in the hope of frightening the brute, but for a moment the struggle continued unabated. I fired two more shots and the pair rolled over the edge of the terrace, Barney reappearing in a moment to stand dazed in the garden, while I heard the leopard's rapid scurry thru dried leaves of wild fig, which lay thickly below the terrace.

• • •

I rushed to Barney and dragged him indoors and then, foolishly, began to feel afraid. I hurried to shut doors and windows and was glad when my house boy appeared looking unfamiliar in a blanket and carrying a heavy club. He had heard the shots and came from his hut as speedily as he could to investigate.

He examined Barney for wounds while I mixed a strong solution of permanganate of potash. All the wounds were made by claws. There were bad ones about the head, ears, and shoulders, and two deep gashes on the throat which must have just missed the jugular vein.

When daylight came, we examined the tracks in the garden. Altho everything had happened so quickly, a deep furrow was scored in the garden where Barney had put up his fight, showing that the leopard did not have it all his own way.

The boy thought that Barney must have had the brute by the throat, and I was hoping that his wounds and the noise of the shots would frighten him off for good. Tracks also were found of a fair sized cub, and marks in a tree about 20 yards from the house which the leopard climbed, probably after I fired the shots.

• • •

That night I shut my bedroom door, and soon got up to shut the windows, too, for the leopard laid siege to the house, making the worst blood curdling noises. I know no other voice which has such a weakening effect upon me. I can control myself if I am awake, but if suddenly aroused by it from sleep, my mouth is dry and my legs feel weak and boneless. Actually, we were safe enough in the house, but with doors and windows shut the atmosphere in the bedroom was stifling and I usually lay wide eyed and with nerves taut, under my mosquito net, until daybreak.

The boys were unnerved, too, altho I allowed them to sleep on the living room floor. None of them had ever known a leopard so noisy and so fearless. Every night with her evil, unsatisfied cry she prowled around the house and the outhouses, visiting especially the places to which the dogs had been during the day.

After three nights I felt worn out and was very relieved when two bachelor neighbors, having heard of my plight, came about 10 miles with a trapgun which they set up among some shrubs on the edge of my flower garden.

That night the leopard sniffed all around the gun and I had the added strain of waiting for the bang, and wondering what I should do if the beast were only wounded. However, the leopard was too wily to be caught that way.

• • •

Another week of ghastly nights went by, and then a tsetse research officer visited the farm. He could not stop but was very sympathetic and left his shotgun and some cartridges with instructions for me to "blow the brute's head off if it came again." I laughed at the time, and agreed to try, but did not feel so brave that evening and sent for the local native Nimrod to support me with his muzzle loader. That night, when the leopard came, we made an effort which probably would cause an audience to roar with laughter if seen on the stage.

The lamp was lighted in a carefully darkened room, and when we thought the leopard was near the outdoor kitchen, four of us rushed out bent on settling it for good. The kitchen boy carried the lamp and a spear, the houseboy a mattock which he considered less dangerous to himself than the revolver I offered him, Laza, the village hero, had his popgun and I the shotgun.

The leopard even appeared amused and disappeared into the long grass with a derisive grunt.

At dawn next day, I decided to play the coward and sent a runner to Mbeya for a taxi. We slept that night at the hospital after Kate had been given a sedative, for she seemed feverish and had a heat rash from sleeping in such a stuffy atmosphere. Later we went by lorry to Hukuyu, where we remained with friends until my husband's return from safari.

• • •

In the three months we spent on the farm after that, the leopard only once visited the vicinity of the house when my husband was at home, altho it came four times when he happened to be away for the night. One day our native foreman remarked that it was a very clever leopard because it always knew when the "bwana" was home and stayed away. When I scoffed at the idea he said: "Well, memsahib, what about the baboons? They never come when the bwana is here, but the day he goes on safari they come. The mansahib knows—."

And, indeed, strange as it sounds, this is perfectly true.

On the one occasion it did come the leopard avoided the house, but we heard him grunting in the kalonga [gully] a few yards away. We rose quietly, according to arrangement, my husband taking his rifle while I took revolver and torch. Unfortunately, as I stepped on the veranda, I accidentally kicked the dog's enameled food bowl and made a clatter. The noise must have startled the leopard, for when we reached the gully we could hear her grunting on the opposite side.

• • •

It was drizzling and the knee deep grass was unpleasantly wet, so my husband sent me back to bed, and taking the torch as well as the rifle, tried, without luck, to find the leopard. Still, it seemed frightened and did not trouble us during the weeks that elapsed before my husband became a government official and we went to the northern province, There I had no unpleasant experiences, for I either accompanied him on safari or stayed in a post with other officials. At one of these our second son was born.

In December the game department sent my husband back to the Mbeya area to coöperate with the veterinary department in the antirinderpest campaign. In order to reach the infected buffalo, he had to pass close to our farm, and completely forgetting my previous trouble with leopards, I elected to go with him as far as the farm to wait there until his return north. Alas, the first news that reached us upon our arrival was that the leopard was still ranging around, supported by a large male leopard.

Our neighbor had lost several sheep and goats, and the natives had lost young beasts and dogs, as well as chickens and goats. Traps of all kinds had been tried without success, and poisoned baits were put out, but with no better luck. The leopard would not touch anything but what she killed herself.

We heard also that a former neighbor had been mauled the previous week by a man-eating leopard, and this news did nothing to add to my peace of mind. My daily walk with the children loses a great deal of its attraction when there are leopards about.

• • •

However, for the three nights my husband spent here there was no sign of the leopard, and I began to take heart and wandered about along overgrown paths with the children. One night, the second since my husband's departure, was a hideous repetition of the previous leopard haunted ones, only now there are two children to wake and cry. The snarling of the leopard is nerve racking in the extreme, and it distresses me to see a child frightened.

"Mummy, what's making that noise?" my little daughter inquired again and again. "I think it must be a daddy donkey calling to a mummy donkey in the dark," said I foolishly.

The leopard noise does, in fact, resemble the last sickening notes of a donkey's cry. "Well, mummy," she would wail, "send it away. I don't like it."

Her distress communicated itself to the baby, who howled lustily in sympathy, and I thought, with a kind of grim amusement, of my friends in civilized places dancing in the new year amid all the trappings of civilization.

And yet, I am not to be pitied. Nights such as these are unpleasant, indeed, but when my husband returns I know that fear will vanish and once more I shall feel secure, happy, and grateful to this country for all it has shown me of beauty and of peace.

Paper Pageant at Kalamazoo

Kalamazoo, Mich.—The story of the growth of a giant industry in the Kalamazoo valley will be dramatized in Pageant of Paper as the highlight of a festival here May 29, 30, and 31.

The pageant, with more than 750 persons taking part, will be given in the new Waldo football stadium at Western State Teachers' college.

Kalamazoo has been a "paper city" since 1866, when the first mill was established. There are now six big mills here.

THE TRIBUNE TRAVELERS' GUIDE

TOURS—CRUISES

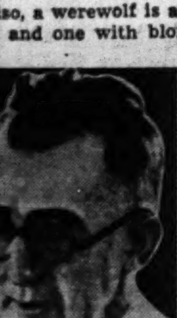
'Werewolves' Haunt Folk of Virgin Islands

By Anson Brown.

A werewolf is a human being who changes his skin about sunset for one of natty fur and spends the night going around frightening the women. At least, most of the colored folk down here will tell you that.

ST. JOHN, VIRGIN ISLANDS.

Also, a werewolf is a white man by day, and one with blond hair. Maybe I'm lucky to have brown hair, for as yet I haven't been accused of spending my nocturnal hours stalking unsuspecting females in the dark jungle growth. But my friend, Wilbur Davis, was said to be a werewolf, and he came within an ace of carving his initials on the Pearly Gates because of it.



Wilbur Davis, alias the Werewolf.

To know Davis is to know a kindly, wrinkled gentleman with some of the attributes of Charles Butterworth. I could scarcely imagine him in wolf's clothing, jaws dripping with fire. But that's the way it was.

• • •

In 1932 he had a little studio on one of the dazzling beaches here. He is a good artist, and he used to spend peaceful hours making superb etchings on tile for the tourists to buy. His studio was known as the Shoe Box and was anchored down with discarded elevator cables which ran completely over the roof. Thus, in case of a hurricane, he wouldn't find himself gurgling somewhere in the middle of the Caribbean.

Davis took his meals at the little fishing club near by and would spend the evenings there with his rum and his friends, seldom getting back to the Shoe Box until well on to midnight. Naturally, the walk was a dark one, but he knew the path so well that he never missed his way, never stumbled into the rough holes.

Things had not been going too well with the natives of St. John. There had been a drouth, Carlow's store had burned to the ground, two babies had died in one month. The Negroes were grumbling, saying that some outside force had entered their island to upset things. They were certain it was nothing less than a werewolf. But who could it be? They held a conference. Yes, Davis was a white man and what little hair he had was blond. So he was elected.

Now, Davis knew nothing of this. He was peacefully eking out a living in the Shoe Box.

• • •

It was after midnight when he woke up suddenly. He rolled over, and looked out thru the mosquito netting. The moon was streaming in. All was still. He spied a form, a vague black mass of humanity crouched in the corner of his room. He leaped from his bed, enshrouded in the netting, but not before the "thing" dove thru the open window. Davis recognized the "thing." It was Bernard, his black houseboy.

Later Davis learned that Bernard had been posted by the other Negroes to watch and see if and when the master changed his skin. And Bernard reported to his cohorts he had seen the skin hanging on the back of a chair. That was where Davis hung his shirt every night.

A week or so later there was no moon. Davis had stayed unusually late at the fishing club. It was pitch black when he started back to his bed. He walked along the trail in perfect contentment. Land crabs scuttled away as he came near their holes. There was no wind to rustle the leaves. Only the crunching of his soles on the rocky pathway made any sound. He came to the dip opposite Cinnamon bay and paused a minute to see if he could hear the distant waves laughing on the shore.

• • •

There was a great commotion ahead of him. There were grunts and a clashing of knives. He froze on the spot. There were thrumps and thuds and then a crashing into the wilderness. After that, silence. He was frightened. He thought he could see a body on the path ahead of him. He approached gingerly. There was a form lying in the road, but in the darkness he couldn't make it out. What form of murder was this?

He struck a light. There was flesh, bleeding flesh, on the roadway—a corpse, hacked to pieces. He knelt down and placed a hand on the still head. It was the head of a baby donkey. The natives had put a curse on Davis.

The next day, however, the owner found his dead beast on the road. Werewolves or no werewolves, he wasn't going to let the other colored folk make a fool of him. He complained to the local commissioner. A few persons were thrown in jail and the werewolf enthusiasm faded out. Davis had had enough. He left his beloved paradise and went back to St. Thomas.

Summer Fishing Meet at Miami

MIAMI, Fla.—With the annual migration of sailfish and blue marlin to Florida waters from the Caribbean sea and Yucatan straits, Miami is preparing to hold its first metropolitan summer fishing tournament, June 16 to Aug. 4.

Game fish are said to be bigger and scrappier in the summer than at any other time of the year. The world's record 730 pound blue marlin was caught in June, 1939.

Rules governing the midwinter tourney, just concluded, will apply to the summer contest. Cash prizes total $1,200. Rods and reels, cane and bamboo poles, and hand lines may be used.

"Inland Seas" Carry Tourists Out of Chicago

For many years America's "inland seas," the Great Lakes, have been offering a convenient means of access to the great vacationland that lies north of Chicago.

Each year the cruise season begins about mid-June.

This year the offerings range from short trips across any of the lakes to two weeks' journeys.

• • •

The tourist may select his cruise on the basis of the type of country he likes to visit. If he wishes to see cities, he may choose a cruise that includes Detroit, Cleveland, and Buffalo. He may also visit Duluth and Montreal. If he prefers the country, he has such places as Georgian Bay and Mackinac Island.

This year Isle Royale, in Lake Superior, is being included as a port of call on at least one of the long cruises. This island is primitive, wild, picturesque and covered with virgin forests. There are no roads, and, since it is the plan of the national park service to preserve the area in its wilderness state, automobiles will not be permitted.

• • •

On the island are many unusual natural features. One of the beaches is covered with semi-precious stones. Hundreds of moose are to be found in the heavy timber, and for the person who likes a little mountain climbing there are many rocky ledges which offer fine sport. The island may be reached by means of a short boat trip from Copper Harbor, on the upper peninsula of Michigan; from Duluth or from Grand Portage, Minn.

Near Isle Royale, on the Canadian shore, are the twin cities of Fort William and Port Arthur, which are visiting points for some of the Lake Superior cruises. These cities are the gateway to the west for Canada, and along their waterfronts rise tremendous grain elevators.

The Georgian Bay section of Lake Huron is one of the favored cruise areas. In 1615 Samuel de Champlain, founder of New France, first entered this region, and today, with the exception of occasional fishing villages and summer resorts, it maintains the unspoiled naturalness Champlain found three centuries ago. There is situated Grand Manitoulin Island, said to be the world's largest on an inland sea.

• • •

In the Georgian Bay section are found the North channel, the white cliffs of bare rock near Killarney, and Parry sound, center of the 30,000 islands. Swimming, boating, tennis, horseback riding, golf, speedboating among the islands, and fishing for black bass, muskellunge, trout, and other Northern game fish are the major sports in this region.

Historically the country bordering the Great Lakes is dotted with landmarks and relics. At Midland, Ont., one can visit the Jesuit Martyrs' Shrine on the site of old Fort Ste. Marie, the central mission station of the Jesuit missionaries from 1639 to 1649. On Mackinac Island are Fort Mackinac, built in 1780; Fort Holmes, built by the English during the War of 1812; the Protestant Mission church, and Marquette Park, with its monument to Father Marquette.

Passing up the St. Mary's river from Lake Huron toward Lake Superior, ship's officers point out the old chimneys and magazine of St. Joe Island—all that remains of the historic fort.

A variation of the straight Great Lakes cruises is the trip from Queenston, Ont., eastward thru Lake Ontario, the St. Lawrence seaway, and then up the Saguenay river. That trip gives the tourists an opportunity to visit both Montreal and Quebec.

Spain Seeks to Bring About Its Reconstruction

By Alex Small.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MADRID, SPAIN. Spain is one of the oases of peace in the troubled European continent. But, so far as information is concerned, it might as well be at war. That is not merely because its neighbors are so occupied with their own troubles that they cannot be bothered finding out what is going on to the south.

This is being written a year after the time when the bloody and bitter civil war came to an end. Still all news which leaves the country must pass a censorship. So must all letters, even personal ones; they are, at any rate, likely to be opened and read. The newspapers appear to be under rigid control. Whatever the cause, the news in them comes nearer to zero than in belligerent countries such as France.

Beyond that, Spain has gone over to the economic system of self-sufficiency [autarchy], now the general rule in Europe. Business contacts with the outside world have been reduced to the minimum. It is freely admitted the country needs capital and exchanges of products, but for the time being no one seems disposed to get the cycle started, or, as the Washington New Dealers put it, to get the pump primed.

• • •

Spain is wrestling with the problems of reconstruction. Its difficulties have been caused, naturally, by a civil war which lasted nearly 33 months [July, 1936, to April, 1939], and during which the destruction of life, property, and of economic resources was immense—certainly for Spain, which has not been wealthy in modern times.

Without attempting a thoro analysis of the troubles of Spain [practically impossible, anyway, because of the difficulties of getting reliable statistics and other data], I am recording here the impressions of one traveler and what he sees of Spanish life in passing.

At the border station of Irún, facing Hendaye in France, I had my first experience with a money control more severe than I have known in nine other countries which practice it. Had I any Spanish pesetas? If so, I would have to give them up; not a single one can be imported into Spain.

Foreign money? My small amount of French francs—250 [about $5 today]—was allowed to pass. Then I had to show and have a count made of travelers' checks in dollars. The amount was recorded twice, once on a leaf of my passport, once on a special sheet which I must keep, have all exchange transactions entered on it, and surrender when I leave the country.

• • •

This system allows not the slightest loophole for any fooling with the currency—selling dollars, for instance, at a rate other than the one fixed by the government, which is about 12.50 pesetas to the dollar. The only places I have been able to exchange my dollar checks have been banks registered and entitled to carry on exchange operations. Each time I must present the money sheet I got at the border, have the amount of dollars sold recorded, and the rate, and get the stamp of the bank.

When I leave Spain, the border control will add up the amounts exchanged, count the checks I have left, and make sure that the total tallies exactly with the total I am credited with bringing into the country. If there should be any discrepancy, it will be just too bad for me.

In other countries with controlled currencies I have always met foreign residents who boasted they could sell dollars [or any sound money] at rates better than the official ones. This is called "trading on the Black Bourse." Here I have heard no such boast, and I do not see how the most ingenious crook could possibly do it without getting into trouble. He would have to risk smuggling the foreign money into the country [that is, risk years in jail], so that the amount would not be entered on his money sheet.

• • •

Irún and all this northern border were the scenes of heavy fighting in the early days of the Spanish war [1936], Irún itself being more than half destroyed. It remains that way. The heaps of rubbish which encumbered the center of the town have been carted away, but the broken walls of houses are still there, neither rebuilt nor torn down. Windowless apartment houses stand empty, mere shells.

A Spanish vice consul from France was driving me the 22 kilometers to San Sebastian, where I expected to get the train to Madrid. Four times, as during the war, we were stopped by armed guards at crossroads, wanting to see safe conducts. Why? I asked my Spanish companion.

"There's still a number of reds in the hills about here," he told me. "They've been in hiding. Then one day they're forced out, maybe by hunger, and they try to get away into some big town where they may escape notice. Every day these guards catch at least one of them. These fugitives naturally are the worst—ringleaders who committed atrocities and who know they'll have to answer for their crimes."

• • •

At San Sebastian I entered a coffee house and had my first experience with small change. For my 5 peseta note I got three 1 peseta notes back, then some postage stamps. That was three weeks ago. Since then I have received just two coins in Spain—two pieces of nickel with holes in the center, worth one-quarter peseta each.

Spain is as completely on a paper money basis as any country can be. The single peseta [worth officially 8½ American cents] is in paper, as are all higher denominations. For fractions of the peseta you get postage stamps, usually; sometimes street car or subway tickets. The use of postage stamps as money I have seen occasionally before [for example, in France in 1921], but only for temporary emergencies. Here it is an established institution, and no one seems to know when it will end.

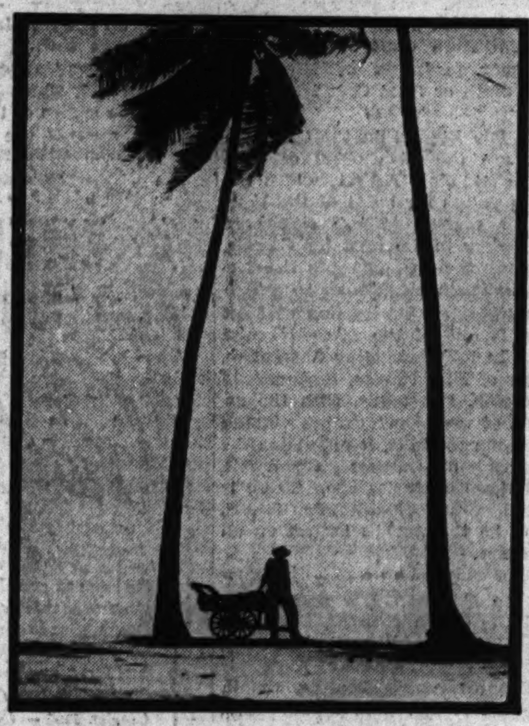
After visiting an exposition of "war material captured from the enemy," I got my train for Madrid. There are two a day—one morning, one evening—which seems to be the general rule between the capital and all other main points. The result is that all trains are crowded to bursting. Sleepers you are told to reserve at least three days in advance, and ordinary seats some hours, even a full day, ahead.

• • •

This train got to Madrid only two hours behind time, which is considered a respectable performance. Since then I have been on trains which, between Madrid and Seville, were more than five hours late.

As we came near this city, signs of the war ended a year ago became more numerous. On sidings at little stations I saw flat cars with field guns tied to them. Here was part of an armored train with its light guns still bristling thru the apertures of the armor. There was a locomotive, inert forever, with jagged holes in the side of the boiler, where it was struck by shell fragments.

Beside the tracks were gangs of men working, clad in nondescript costumes—partly overalls, partly bits of army uniform. Near them stood armed guards. The laborers were the prisoners of war of a war which has long since ended.



BETWEEN THE PALMS

Ludington Plans a Memorial for Pere Marquette

LUDINGTON, Mich.—Students and faculty of Marquette university and representatives of Loyola, the Universities of Detroit and Notre Dame, the Knights of Columbus, and Catholic Daughters of America, will gather here Saturday, May 18, to honor Pere Marquette, missionary priest who died on the dunes south of Ludington 265 years ago.

Sod will be broken for a permanent memorial at the death site. The speaker at the afternoon service is to be the Rev. Gilbert J. Garraghan, authority on the history of the Mississippi valley and of Marquette.

In the evening Samuel H. Ranck, Grand Rapids public librarian, will give an illustrated address, showing pictures he has taken while retracing the route followed by Marquette.

Biggest Island.

Australia is the largest island in the world—so big, in fact, that it is often referred to as a continent. It contains 2,974,581 square miles. Despite the fact that Australia could easily support 150,000,000 people, only about 6,000,000 persons live there and most of the interior is still unexplored.

Yellowstone Is Wildest of All National Parks

By Alden Powell.

Of all the national parks the wildest and most universal in its appeal is Yellowstone. It is the oldest of them and is filled with more natural wonders than any other region on earth.

These superlatives are merited when one speaks in terms of geysers, mud volcanoes, petrified forests, paint pots, and canyons, for the first reports of its marvels in 1807 were skeptically received. Hearers dubbed John Colter's discovery "Colter's Hell" and let it go at that. Twenty years later Jim Bridger's descriptions of these same marvels were called yarns.

Only a handful of frontiersmen visited the region during the 60 years after its discovery because it lies atop the Continental divide and is snowbound for nine months out of every normal year. The settling of the west brought it into prominence and the section, with its fascinating oddities and awe-inspiring mountains and waterfalls, became a national park.

• • •

Every school child knows or has heard of "Old Faithful," the geyser which erupts within two or three minutes of a specified time, usually every 60 to 80 minutes. No press agent could have thought up a more impressive prologue than the long roll of subterranean thunder which heralds the hissing plume of water which soars aloft to a height of 140 feet, spreads and wavers, and after four minutes dies away to a mere wisp of steam. It has been estimated that this geyser discharges in a single day enough water to service a small city.

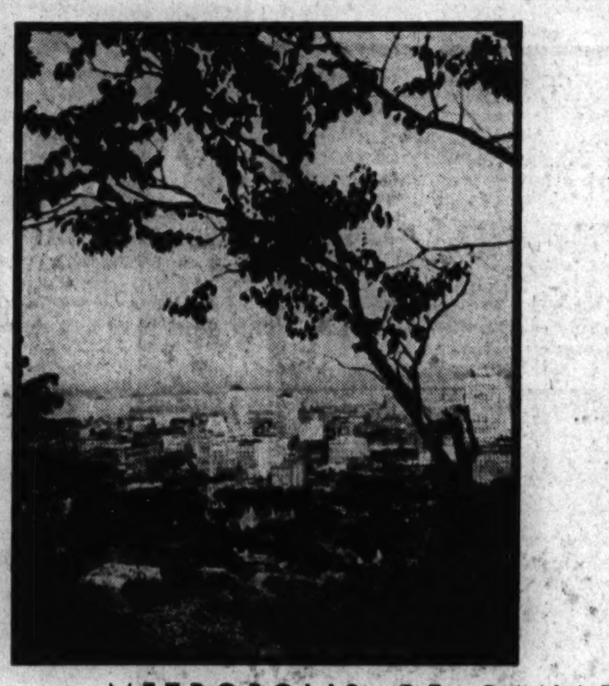
Geysers are not the only interesting sights in the basin of geysers. There is the Fountain paint pot, a hot spring of colored clay; Morning Glory pool, so called because of its delicately tinted cone, and Sapphire pool, which is as blue as the gem for which it is named. Mineral deposits have built up unusual terrace and sponge formations.

• • •

Yellowstone lake, with its shore line 100 miles long, is among the largest mountain lakes known. To the east are the snowy peaks of the Absorakas. To the south lies Mount Sheridan, all the remains of an extinct volcano. On the West Thumb shore are a number of brilliant "paint pots," an active geyser and a boiling spring which rises from the lake bottom.

The canyon of the Yellowstone is one of the most colorful known. Its colors, laid on in wide washes, range from crimson to emerald and cobalt, white, amber, and fade out to gray. Its walls do not drop sheer, but slope gradually in strange carvings, the work of time, to the narrow green river which winds along far below.

Bears have made Yellowstone famous. These ingratiating beggars lumber out into the road and sit up very tamely and wave for food and particularly sweets. While they are tame the visitor is cautioned not to make friends with them or to get between a mother and her cubs.



METROPOLIS OF CANADA

This view of Montreal was taken from Mount Royal, near the heart of the city, with the St. Lawrence river in the background.

MORE OR LESS PERSONAL

A new steamship office made its debut in Chicago Friday when the Delta Line opened up in the Marquette building, 140 South Dearborn street. The line has started a series of 49 day cruises from New Orleans to South America, with stops at Rio de Janeiro, Santos, Buenos Aires, Pernambuco, Montevideo, and Bahia.

A. C. E. Schmidt, dean of Chicago travel agents, has moved his office from 8 South Michigan avenue to 2442 North Orchard street.

Nauvoo, Ill., capital of the Mormon empire a hundred years ago, will be the goal of a pilgrimage next Sunday. SEE this Page of American History

Only 12 Hours Drive from Chicago

The "Hermitage," home of Andrew Jackson, the most colorful figure in American history and seventh President; the tomb of James K. Polk, who as eleventh President added more territory to the Union than any other man; the original tailor shop of Andrew Johnson, seventeenth President; the battlefields of Shiloh, Ft. Donelson, Nashville, Murfreesboro, Franklin, Lookout Mountain and Missionary Ridge. To see these hallowed spots is to gain a new appreciation of the early struggles in the building of a Nation.

You'll find all of Tennessee differently beautiful and enchanting—a land of contrasts and enjoyment. "JOYOUS VACATION DAYS," a big, colorful 40-page book, pictures and describes the beauty and wonders of Tennessee. It's FREE. Get yours now.

National Parks

● Magnificent forests and boundless prairies . . . mesas, mountains and curious land formations—these are America's National Parks. Bryce Canyon is a giants' amphitheater in Utah filled with fantastic shapes and strange colors . . . Glacier, in Montana, has unsurpassed mountain scenery . . . Grand Canyon, in Arizona, is a water-cut, 217 miles long and 18 miles wide . . . Yellowstone, in Wyoming, has more geysers than the rest of the world . . Mesa Verde, in Colorado, contains the ruin of a great Indian cliff-dwellers' city, and Rocky Mountain, also in Colorado, paradise of big game hunters during the last century, is now America's largest wild animal refuge. ● Consult the advertisments in the Travelers' Guide today, or let the Chicago Travel Bureau help you plan a trip to the National Parks, or to any other part of the world which may interest you. This department of the Chicago Tribune Public Service office can supply you with information about steamship, railroad, bus and plane travel, cost of transportation and accommodations en route for trips and tours everywhere. Services are free. The Tribune Travel Bureau sells no tickets—gets no commission from the sale of tickets. So feel free to call in person, write or telephone.

The accompanying color map shows the newest theaters of war in Europe, the countries of the Netherlands, Belgium, and Luxemburg, invaded by the Germans, and their locations in respect to Germany, France, and England. Especially significant, as is disclosed by the map, is the nearness of the countries now attacked, to England itself. Military experts believe that German strategy now has as its object an intensive air bombardment intended to destroy the port of London, an important cog in the British economic machinery. The invasion of the low countries may make it possible for Germany to establish air bases less than 135 miles from London. Before the new invasion it would have been necessary for German planes to fly approximately 450 miles in order to reach the British metropolis without violating the neutrality of Holland and Belgium. Readers of The Tribune are advised to retain this map for the purpose of following the progress of the war in the territories newly affected.

Cotton Returns to Dispel the Fashion Blues

By Rea Seeger.

A summer without cotton would be dull and stuffy, a season without the fun of going back to simple, natural and exquisitely fresh clothes. After weeks of clinging crêpes, flashing satin, nets, laces, brocades, the glitter of spangles, sequins, and beads, nothing short of cotton could revive the flagging spirits of the career girls as well as the sophisticates, the shoppers in town and those who spend the next three months in the country.

• • •

Cotton starts at the beginning. Some of the snappiest of new underlayers or foundations are of cotton, spanking white dimities, shirtings, and the dainty dimities in old-fashioned, sprigged floral patterns. Even the side panels, the lace bra tops, and the shoulder straps are of cool, immaculate cotton, cotton that stays in that fresh, spotless condition to the end of a season. Lingerie is spotlighted because of the crisp, cool, allure of silky mulls, batistes, dotted swiss and organdies. Petticoats, costume slips, matching nightgowns, and negligees, housecoats, and the lovely, old-fashioned combing jackets are here to charm again because of their cotton content, a guarantee for the most fastidious women that personal daintiness is possible every minute of the sultriest day.

Daytime dresses in kindergarten checked or plaid gingham, run the dresses of similar style, made of tissue ginghams, chambray, and dotted swiss, a telling race for popularity. Simple but effective two-piece summer suits are a boon for the traveler and the career girl. These are made of pastel or bright colored, smooth chambray, of piqué, and of seersucker. All tub with ease and speed. Textile wizards have made cottons sunproof and waterproof, and have processed most of it to withstand wrinkling, shrinking, and wilting.

• • •

Seersucker, no longer a simple country cousin, comes and stays in town or goes globe trotting in the smartest of suits, tailored as smartly as wool. Seersucker covers the newest play clogs and huge carryall bags for money and knitting; fashions hats, belts, gloves, play clothes, blouses, and separate jackets. Plaids, bold and precise checks, together with the old timers in brown, dubonnet, red, and blue, fine stripes, and some of the most exotic of color mixups come in seersucker. And, startle as you will, the most effective dinner and country club party frocks are of the lowly cotton material.

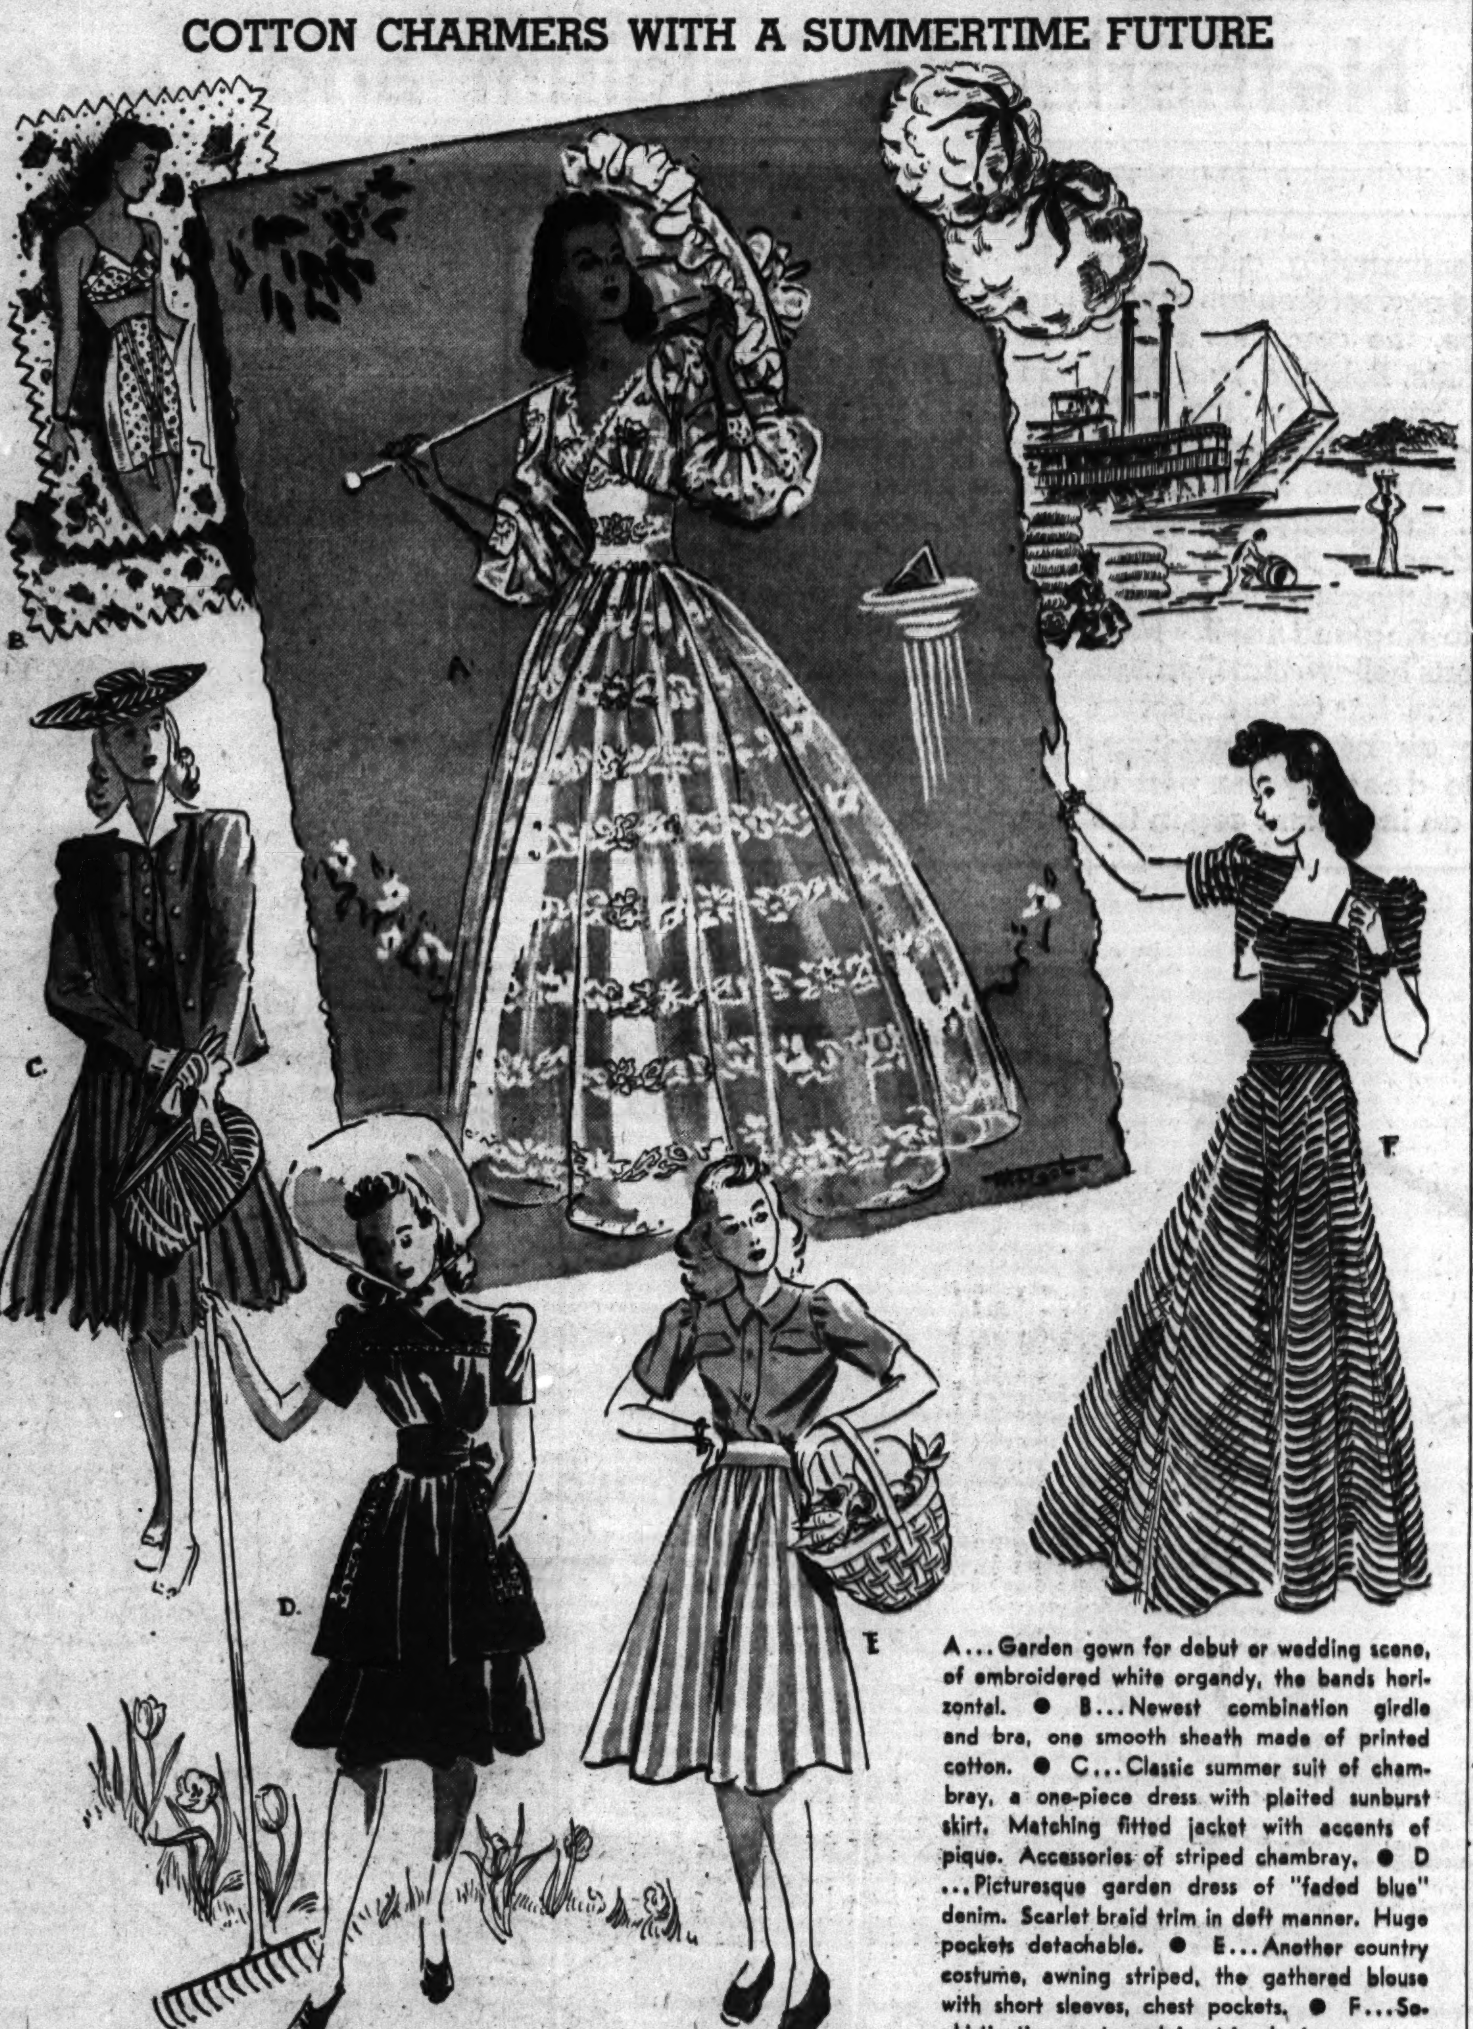
Piqué is another spotlight stealer. Dinner costumes, tailored dresses, classic tennis dresses, shorts, and all-in-ones, dream dancing gowns with dozens of yards in the wide, spreading skirt, wedding gowns that can march down the aisle of a cathedral as well as thru a garden path are of piqué. Dinner jackets with a fine military cut and swagger are of snow white piqué. So are cartwheel and small hats. Gloves, belts, bags, and even a summer leash for your dog use up bales of cotton in this trimmest of summer materials, piqué.

• • •

Organdies and all the distantly related marganzas, organzas, net, eyelet embroidery, and embroidered swiss are, this summer, destined for the loveliest of garden party gowns, these romantic, full-skirted gowns matched with parasols of the same sheer cotton. Ruffles, tucks, fine handwork, yards of fine lace give them all that fragile, ethereal grace so long missing. What a summer it's going to be, and how the masculine half of the audience will applaud and approve.

Sketched are six cotton charmers with a summer future.

COTTON CHARMERS WITH A SUMMERTIME FUTURE



A ... Garden gown for debut or wedding scene, of embroidered white organdy, the bands horizontal. ● B ... Newest combination girdle and bra, one smooth sheath made of printed cotton. ● C ... Classic summer suit of chambray, a one-piece dress with plaited sunburst skirt. Matching fitted jacket with accents of pique. Accessories of striped chambray. ● D ... Picturesque garden dress of "faded blue" denim. Scarlet braid trim in deft manner. Huge pockets detachable. ● E ... Another country costume, awning striped, the gathered blouse with short sleeves, chest pockets. ● F ... Sophistication portrayed in striped pique.

A FRIEND IN NEED

By Sally Joy Brown.

If you are in need, perhaps I can help you. If you have household articles or clothing you no longer use, please let me place them with needy families. Address correspondence to Sally Joy Brown, The Chicago Tribune, Chicago, Ill. Activities of this department are sponsored by the Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.

Today we're presenting a number of requests for items which may be found in the average household, in the hope that during moving or house cleaning, readers will be conscious of the great need for such items and will pass along extra articles, rather than save them for that vague "some day" when an equally vague "some one" may want them. We know a number of actual persons badly in need at this very moment, so won't you help them, if possible, rather than return your surplus articles, after a dusting, to uselessness in storage space?

• • •

Mrs. T.'s letter is a graphic presentation of the need which exists in many poor homes.

"Dear Miss Brown: I have been in need of beds for a long time, but I had hoped to be able to get some without having to ask your aid.

"I have six children, ranging in age from 10 to 17 years. Five are in school, and the oldest has rheumatic fever and a rare skin ailment which keeps her from obtaining work. My husband was severely injured while working and received $9 a week for his time off. He now is permanently invalided, and unable to help at all. We live in a basement flat and my 13 year old daughter has had several severe attacks of asthma due to the dampness.

"I am writing to you in the hope that some reader may have a few beds to discard, and I also would appreciate a dresser or chest of drawers. My boys actually are sleeping on the floor with a thin pad to serve as mattress."

A friend has promised to call for items offered to this family. The address is on the west side of the city.

• • •

Miss D., caseworker on the far south side of the city, is anxious to obtain a 9x12 rug for a family. The father has a severe arthritic condition, plus a cardiac involvement. He is helpless and probably never will be able to work again. The family manages well on a meager budget, but cannot supply a rug. The floor is bare, and it is difficult to keep the room warm.

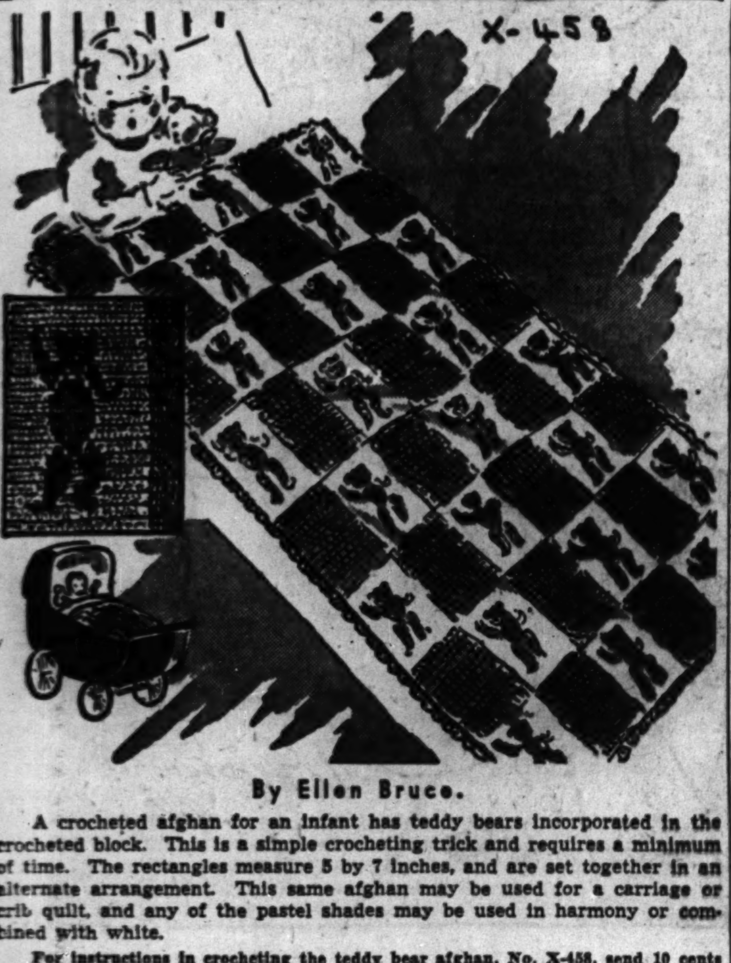
Another family in the district needs a high chair for the youngest of three children. The father died recently, and the mother is not well. It is difficult for her to carry or hold the baby. The worker will arrange to call for items offered.

Mr. D. earns $20 a week, altho he is handicapped by illness, and endeavors to support a family of nine. It is impossible to purchase household needs, and we hope readers have discarded mattresses [full size], rugs, living room pieces, or dishes which can be contributed.

Mrs. F. is the widowed mother of six children. Since her husband's death, just prior the birth of the youngest child, the family has been supported by relief. The home is poorly furnished, and they need a dresser, a chest of drawers, linoleum, dining room chairs, and a few living room pieces.

Both of the above mentioned families are on the south side of the city. The worker will arrange transportation of any obtainable items.

Baby's Crocheted Afghan

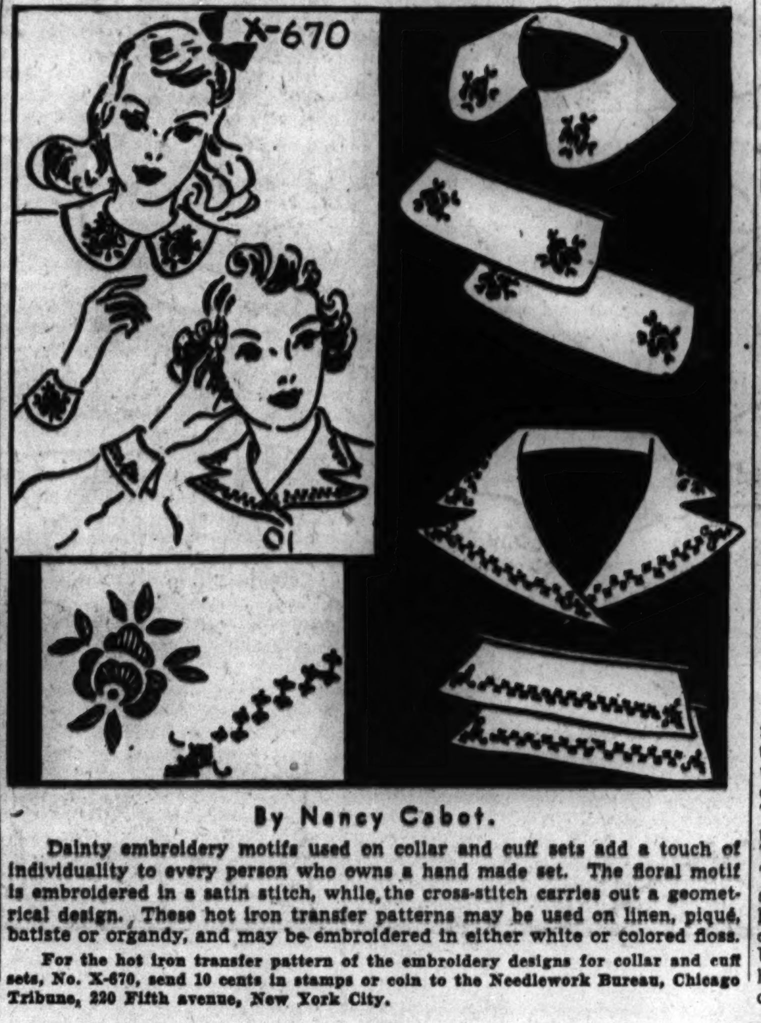


By Ellen Bruce.

A crocheted afghan for an infant has teddy bears incorporated in the crocheted block. This is a simple crocheting trick and requires a minimum of time. The rectangles measure 5 by 7 inches, and are set together in an alternate arrangement. This same afghan may be used for a carriage or crib quilt, and any of the pastel shades may be used in harmony or combined with white.

For instructions in crocheting the teddy bear afghan, No. X-458, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

Dainty Embroidery Motifs



By Nancy Cabot.

Dainty embroidery motifs used on collar and cuff sets add a touch of individuality to every person who owns a hand made set. The floral motif is embroidered in a satin stitch, while the cross-stitch carries out a geometrical design. These hot iron transfer patterns may be used on linen, piqué, batiste or organdy, and may be embroidered in either white or colored floss.

For the hot iron transfer pattern of the embroidery designs for collar and cuff sets, No. X-670, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

Why Not Have Light Food at Bridge Party?

By Mary Meade.

[Copyright: 1940: By The Chicago Tribune.]

"You'd be performing a good service for a lot of women if you'd write about lightweight, nonfattening, bridge party food," an acquaintance said to me recently.

She declared that the usual bridge party fare is too rich and full of calories to be kind to the feminine figure. Furthermore, she emphasized, women go home from bridge parties with their own appetites blunted and, often as not, because of this, are careless about preparing a satisfactory dinner for their families.

• • •

It does seem as tho it would be better for all concerned, including the hostess who often takes a great deal of trouble to make her rich food attractive, if bridge parties would turn themselves into tea parties when eating time comes.

Cups and cups of tea—green, black, mint, or herb-flavored . . . won't put on pounds or kill an appetite for dinner. There might be tiny simple sandwiches to go with the tea, lettuce or watercress, with very little butter. It's as easy to be sociable over tea and a sandwich as over a huge slab of some fancy kind of whipped cream pie. And one feels much better afterward.

• • •

Pies, cakes, nuts, and rich candies are fattening and filling, so these should be forgotten when plans for bridge food are underway. Frozen salads and ice creams had better be left for dinner at home afterward.

Perhaps these are the kinds of refreshment which would best fit our specifications of "nonfattening" and "nonfilling" bridge foods. Any of them may be prepared as attractively as you please, with pretty china and dainty table accessories.

LIGHTWEIGHT BRIDGE PARTY FOOD.

1. Tea with tiny watercress sandwiches. Lemon slices served with tea.
2. Chilled fruit juice [tall glasses] with celery seed wafers.
3. Afternoon coffee with whole wheat, sliced radish sandwiches [tiny ones].
Hot spiced tea punch with tiny plain cookies.
5. Fruit ice or sherbet with tiny plain cookies.
6. Crisp raw vegetable salad with mineral oil dressing and rye wafers.
7. Fresh fruit salad with mineral oil dressing or none at all. Melon, strawberries, and fresh pineapple are eligibles for this type of refreshment.
8. Jellied raw vegetables or jellied fruits with mineral oil dressing, if any, and simple wafers.
9. Any simple dessert such as lemon snow pudding, which contains gelatin and egg white, but no whipped cream, with small plain cookies.
10. A chilled slice of watermelon, honeydew, or honeyball, all by itself.

Probably it will take courage for the first hostess to set forth simple refreshments such as these, but I'm pretty sure that she will be rewarded with the gratitude of her guests after they get over the first surprise at this deviation from the normal course. There should be fewer of those oft heard sighs which precede "going off my diet just this once," fewer deadened appetites when dinner time comes, and more pleasing dinners at home.

Miss Meade contributes daily to the feature pages of the Chicago Tribune, guiding housewives to the best knowledge of cookery and hostessing. When writing for information, please enclose a stamped self-addressed envelope.

For Gastric Pains Coat the Stomach Lining

Many medical clinics now use bismuth for acid stomach pains. Bismuth coats the stomach lining on the sensitive parts, thus preventing the irritating action of digestive secretions and foods. Udga Tablets contain bismuth and other valuable ingredients in a balanced formula. They have been praised by thousands. Try a 25c box of Udga for relief of stomach pains, indigestion, gas pains, heartburn, burning sensation, bloat and other conditions caused by excess acid. Udga Tablets are safe to use and must help or your money refunded. At good drug stores everywhere.

"Of course I know, Foolish Face. It's like sliding down a rainbow and finding the pot of gold at the end . . ."

It was a little after 8 on the following morning when Lois called from her bedroom:

"Awake, Tom?"

"Wide awake," came the not very truthful reply, as he yawned and stretched his long, lean body.

"I'll get breakfast while you wash. You'll find clean towels in the bathroom—and everything else you need."

"Bet you have no razor."

"You lose the bet. There's a silly little silver plated safety whooziz—on the second shelf."

So Tom did a great deal of splashing and, being that type of man, of whistling while he splashed; and, presently, he faced Lois across a small table set with a substantial meal. He looked approvingly at orange juice, cereal, toast, bacon, and eggs; as approvingly at the girl.

"Swell!" he exclaimed.

"The food—or I?"

"Both." He helped himself to his third cup of coffee. "Sort of like being married, isn't it?"

"Not at all. When we're married I expect to have the butler bring the breakfast tray to my bed."

"Which proves that you were born in the uncivilized wilds of Central Asia."

"That so?"

"Never the butler when a lady is in bed—but your personal maid."

"I stand corrected."

Then she became serious. "Have you any idea about the robbery?"

"Let's consult Ward Conners."

"Who's he?"

"Private detective chap."

"But—we can't afford——"

"Don't worry. He and I are pals. I got to know him when dad called him in to locate a Chinese bronze stolen from his collection." He went to the telephone. "I'll give him a ring . . ."

An hour later they were closeted with the detective who listened to their story, asked shrewd questions about Lois' early life in Turkestan, and made numerous notes, including descriptions of the supposed robbers and the drunken man who had accosted her.

"I'll get busy at once," he promised.

"One more thing——" began Tom.

"A clew?"

"Yes. As to the state of our finances. We aren't exactly flush."

"Forget it! If you find the lilac jade and it turns out to be worth a mint you can slip me a piece of change. If you fail—well—I'll write it off to profit and loss . . ."

"And to friendship. Damned decent of you, old man."

Tom and Lois left.

"What's the next thing for us to do?" she demanded as they walked down the street.

"Sit tight and wait till we hear from Ward. He's a regular Sherlock Holmes. I guess he'll visit your apartment and the Club Bombay. And he'll snoop over every inch of ground, sniffing around for cigar ashes and hair pins—and O—bits of limburger."

A Report Comes In on the Two Strangers

But Tom Ferguson was mistaken. The other's method was much more matter of fact. It consisted in employing enough operatives who spent enough money and asked enough questions, discreet or indiscreet, suave or hard boiled. Thus, during the next 48 hours they filtered up and down Broadway, Seventh avenue and Park, thru hotels, saloons, clubs, foreign consulates, railroad and steamship agencies. Bit by bit, by pumping or paying, bullying or flattering, they gathered information. Bit by bit Ward Conners dovetailed it, sent off several cablegrams, received replies, drew certain logical conclusions, and a few days later a typewritten report on his desk told Tom and Lois rather triumphantly what he had discovered:

"Knox Bradford lived at the Ritz-Carlton under his own name. Lived well, settling his bills on the dot and giving lavish tips. Early in April he was joined by the other, the oriental. And, since the Britisher used his own name, it's reasonable to infer that his friend did likewise. He registered as Mehmet Khan Ertogrul. Quite a mouthful—eh . . .?

"Aristocratic," commented Lois, who was familiar with oriental nomenclature.

"Right," agreed the detective. "Seems he belongs to a princely Tartar family from Russian Central Asia, once held high military rank under the tsar, has a magnificent record for bravery, and is well known socially in London, Washington, and Paris." He flipped over the report sheet, read, continued: "The man who annoyed you wasn't drunk at all."

"So I suspected," said Tom.

"We ran him to earth at the Green Room club. He's John Manners, an actor out of a job, and was hired by Bradford, who told him he'd wished to meet Miss Winters for a long time, had tried often, had always failed, and wanted to stage this little comedy—rescue the fair damsel in distress and earn her blushing thanks."

"All fine and dandy," remarked Tom. "But—the main point—where are these two precious numbers?"

"On their way to Calcutta. Half an hour after the robbery, judging by the time Miss Winters gave me, they checked out of the Ritz, went to Long Island, chartered a private plane—night-flying, mind you—for Panama, to connect with a fast Dutch liner bound for Calcutta. They arranged passage by wireless. They're evidently in a hurry."

"Well—let's cable Calcutta. Start extradition proceedings."

"What," Ward Conners smiled, "would the charges be?"

"Robbery. Theft. What else?"

"Not enough."

"Surely—with what we know . . ."

"What we think we know! Can you persuade police and district attorney to think likewise? You'll have your work cut out trying to prove to them that it's anything but a brazen publicity stunt. A dancer's jewels lost, stolen, or strayed. Not diamonds for a change. But a mysterious piece of lilac jade."

"But," Tom pointed at the typewritten report, "there is your testimony—the things you discovered."

"A private detective, too, isn't above suspicion when it comes to publicity. Of course we may succeed—ultimately. Get the extradition papers. But the red tape we'll have to unwind! And, by the time we've unwound it, Bradford and what's-his-name—his oriental side-kick—will have flown the Calcutta coop. . . ."

"And," agreed Lois, "be on their way to Central Asia."

Ward Conners turned to her.

"I'm afraid you'll have to kiss your lilac jade farewell. And the same goes for the juicy fee I meant to charge you."

"Neither the one nor the other!" declared Tom.

"What d'you think you're going to do?"

"Something!"

"What?"

"Something!" Tom repeated, defiantly; and, out on the street, said to Lois: "Let's go!"

"There's an Automat right round the . . ."

"No, no! I'm not speaking of lunch, you wretched, underfed, materialistic little shrimp! I mean—let's go to India, the orient! After those two crooks . . ."

She stared at him.

Was he in earnest? Seemed so. He looked so eager, so enthusiastic.

"Tom," she objected, "how can we?"

"Where there's a will, there's a way."

"An ancient and richly bewhiskered bromide. And, like most of them, wrong."

"O"—crossly—"you remind me of father. Always throwing cold water!"

"Which cools the fevered brow."

"If you had a few corpuscles of real, red blood . . ." He growled; went on after a while, pleadingly: "Be a sport! Let's go!"

"All right. Let's!"

She laughed as she said it. Yet somehow she was half in earnest; at least in her wish.

Why—if Tom and she could go to the orient! Could find a way!

And, suddenly, she was as eager and enthusiastic as he. Not altogether—neither she nor he—because of the probable value of the little jade. More because upon success—rather, the golden substance which cements success—was based, they thought, much of their future happiness. Besides, Lois was influenced by another and deeper motive—a motive of sentiment. For the amulet had been her father's last gift to her; he had bade her guard it; she had failed; and she must regain it. Yet, finally, the strongest driving power was their keen, youthful longing for romance, the glow and sweep and zest of it . . .

"Just imagine!" exclaimed Tom. "The orient! Won't it be great? I'll have a chance of hearing oriental music, the genuine stuff, not Tin Pan Alley. It'll help me with the tunes I'm going to write for Winthrop Meredith. Say—I really owe those two highbinders a vote of thanks."

And then, all at once, Lois, being a woman, hence practical, asked a leading question:

"How'll we get to Calcutta? It'll cost money, you know."

Tom was slightly dashed.

"That's so," he admitted. "Any idea how much we'll need?"

"No."

"I'll find out."

So, when they had reached her apartment, he telephoned to a travel bureau. Fifteen hundred dollars—and that would mean penny-pinching and inside cabins and no comfort to speak of—was the least they could do it on.

"A whole lot of dough," sighed Tom, "and I won't ask dad."

"Of course not!"

"Not that he'd come thru—if I did ask him. The old boy's no push-over for a heavy touch."

"Got any savings, Tom?"

"Don't be a silly goose! Not a cent."

"Nor I."

Their Trinkets Go to a Pawnbroker

They looked at each other, crestfallen; and again it was the practical sex which suggested:

"Three gilt balls!"

"Eh . . .?"

"Pawn shop. What have you . . .?"

"My watch and studs. My cigaret case . . ."

"My earrings—my silver anklets—the amulet chain . . ."

"Come on!" His enthusiasm was returning. "I know a place on Eighth avenue . . ."

Sam Braunstein, the pawnbroker, was familiar from past experiences with Tom's face as well as with his watch. He liked the former, did not think much of the latter nor of the other trinkets spread on the counter for his appraisal. So, after strenuous haggling, Tom and Lois left the shop richer by precisely one hundred and ninety dollars.

"Which," she commented, "won't get us even as far as Liverpool."

"I'll borrow the rest."

"Where?"

"I've friends on Broadway," replied Tom optimistically.

Too optimistically.

For Broadway was in a parlous state. Plays were closing every week. No new plays were opening. Despondent actors, hoofers, singers, musicians, comedians high and low were tramping the pavement and crowding the Astor lobby and the theatrical agencies and Gray's drug store and lying to each other about the Hollywood offers which they had refused.

All afternoon Tom scurried about between 34th street and Columbus circle, unable to raise a dollar. The last man whom he approached was Joe Jacobs, a vaudevillian out of a job who was standing on a corner, scanning the advertisments in the Billboard, the theatrical and circus trade weekly.

"You haven't been hitting the pipe, have you?" he mocked when Tom mentioned his request. "If I had any dough I'd buy myself a series of beefsteaks. And what d'you want all that jack for? Going to start a soup kitchen for starving hams?"

"I want to go to Calcutta."

"Calcutta, Indiana?"

"Calcutta, India."

"No kidding?"

"No kidding."

Joe Jacobs raised an eyebrow. His personal ambition was to own a tidy little Queen Anne—or almost Queen Anne—house in Great Neck, Long Island. Why anybody should wish to go to India or, for that matter, anywhere not within commuting distance of Broadway, was beyond him.

"You're crazy with the heat, Tom," he decided.

"Not a bit of it. I've my reason."

"Cross your heart?"

"Cross my heart!"

"Hm—I lay you long odds your reason wears a skirt." A pause. "Okay. There's a way."

"O"—excitedly—"honest to God, Joe?"

"Ever hear of Ben Einstein?"

"Who's he?"

"An old timer in the profesh. Has been taking theatrical companies to the far east for many years. Here"—Joe Jacobs pointed at a quarter page advertisment in the Billboard—"feast your orbs upon this!"

Tom took the paper.

The advertisment read:

BANK ON THE GRAND OLD MAN!

Listen, folks! I'm going to India with a musical show! I own this show! She's a bird with teeth! She's sure to knock the heathens for a row of potted geraniums! Calcutta is our first stop and—take it from me, boys and girls, she's no one-night petroleum tank. I'm going to clean the Britishers and Hindus over there out of all the mazuma they got. So come with me—and get your share! I still need a female hoofer, a low comedian, and a couple of musicians who can double in brass. Come and sign up with THE GRAND OLD MAN if you want to hear the east a-calling and the greenbacks a-rustling!

Come!

We're off a week from Saturday to the land where elephants gambol in the fields and tigers purr before the hearth and little brown cuties give you the eye and rajahs wash your step-ins and B. V. D.'s free of charge except for what they swipe!

So wire!

WIRE COLLECT!
BEN EINSTEIN
THE GRAND OLD MAN
17 Clark street
Chicago

"Great!" exclaimed Tom when he had finished. "May I tear out the ad?"

"Take the whole paper. I'm thru with it."

"Thanks, Joe."

Tom hurried round to Lois' apartment.

"All aboard for Calcutta!" he cried.

"O . . .?"

"Take a look!"

She read the advertisment and laughed.

"What do you think?" she asked. "Is it genuine?"

"'Wire collect!'" he quoted. "Tells a tale, I guess."

He went to the nearest Western Union office, telegraphed Lois' and his own terms and qualifications to Ben Einstein and received the latter's reply that same evening:

"OKE BY ME STOP TAKE NEXT TRAIN SAN FRANCISCO. MEET ME SATURDAY AFTERNOON GOLDEN WEST HOTEL. [SIGNED]

"THE GRAND OLD MAN."

"I wish," said Lois, "the Grand Old Man had suggested something about paying our railroad fare."

"We've a hundred and ninety bucks. It'll be just about enough with what Jim Abrams owes us."

"Don't forget to let your father know."

"I'll write him by air mail . . ."

Late on Saturday afternoon they reached San Francisco and went to the Golden West hotel. There they found a telegram from Freeman Ferguson which was simple and to the point: "You are both very crazy. God bless you!" and inquired for the impresario who introduced himself a few moments later and hustled them into a taxicab, explaining they would go straight to the ship, as they were sailing on the early morning tide.

He was a short, pudgy man, with a round, rosy face, black, friendly eyes, and hairy, eloquent hands—hands that he waved enthusiastically as he told them:

"The show's a wow. 'Pigs in Clover.' Swell title, ain't it? Wrote it myself. Book, lyrics, gags, music, everything. Funny as hell, but classy. No pie throwing—see . . .? And them people out in India is starved for real, tony entertainment. All they gets, besides their native, piebald hoochee-koochee, is a few highbrow British hams with mushy voices and a full sized Shakespeare répertoire—and once in a while a number three road company from Australia who sing coon songs with a cockney accent and have an idea 'On a Bicycle Built for Two' is the latest Broadway hit."

Yvonne Fleury Makes an Uncordial Entrance

He smiled at them and they smiled back. They liked the garrulous little man.

"You kids married?" he demanded

"Going to be," replied Tom.

"Okay. But better be careful. I guess I'll put you in separate cabins."

Tom flared up.

"Look here——" he began.

But his indignation was lost on the other who continued pleasantly:

"Me—I'm broad-minded. But—gee! —there's the wife."

"Whose?"

"Mine!" sighed Ben Einstein. "Compared to her the original Plymouth Rock was this here Sodom and Gomorrah. Yvonne Fleury—that's her professional monnicker. Heard of her, haven't you?"

"No," was Lois' truthful rejoinder.

"Don't let on—for heaven's sake—that you haven't! She useter be in grand opera. She's never forgotten it. And—take it from me—don't you forget it either!" Again he sighed. "It's she who holds the money bags and . . ."

All at once he was silent, and—for no particular reason except that he was a married man—looked guilty as the taxi stopped and a woman stepped up to him. She was tall, lean, thin-lipped, extremely conscious of her recent hair wave, and dressed in unseasonable, unreasonable tweeds.

"Ah——" she exclaimed dramatically and somehow accusingly in a resonant contralto—"there you are, Benjamin!"

His greeting was hearty but insincere:

"Hello, hello, hello, sweetie-pie!"

He presented Tom and Lois. Yvonne Fleury lifted a lorgnette; stared at them; inclined her head majestically, and boomed out a chilly:

"How do you do?"

Then she turned on her heel and walked away, while Tom suggested in a stage whisper:

"Not very cordial—eh—— . . .?"

"Cordial as hell—for her!" said the Grand Old Man. "You don't know the half of her. And, if you're lucky, you never will!"

But the rest of the company made up for Yvonne Fleury's unfriendliness. They were people whom neither Broadway nor Hollywood had ever heard of. Middle aged tenth-raters drifting aimlessly from one-night stand to one-night stand. Decent in their own way; and so tolerant; so ready to like and be liked, so eager to live and let live.

They did not complain, tho the ship on which they sailed the next morning and on which they were the only passengers was a freighter, a disreputable, creeking, malodorous old tub that rolled, pitched, swayed, and bucked. They did not complain, tho the food was wretched, the water strongly flavored with chloride of lime, and they were herded like cattle in a few uncomfortable staterooms.

For there was their undying optimism. And there was India, the Golden East, to look forward to.

India . . .

The high, shining adventure waiting for them beyond the horizon, beyond the horned moon!

As it was of India, of their own high, shining adventure, of their quest for the lilac jade, that Lois and Tom were talking that first afternoon out of San Francisco . . .

The last man he approached was Joe Jacobs, a vaudevillian out of a job, scanning the advertisments.

GIVEN YOUR HEART TO A DOG TO TEAR

By ALEC WAUGH

(Copyright: 1940: By Alec Waugh)

FOREWORD A weary, faithful old dog, the last link between two lives that had met, merged, and parted again proves to be the vital factor in a decision that is to affect the lives of two youngsters. This is the story of a devotion that made itself felt far beyond the ordinary boundaries of a dog's world.

Osborne had not seen Molly for seven years. What, he wondered, did she look like now?

AT THE TOP of his morning's mail was an envelope in his sister's handwriting. He noted its presence there with irritation. Long experience had taught Hugh Osborne that Phyllis never wrote unless she wanted something.

"I look on you as a kind of uncle, you're so much older," she would say.

Which he was; by 16 years; and which had been well enough when the gap of half a generation had been set in the relationship of 26 and 10, and avuncular generosity had been tested by expeditions to the zoo, and supplications to intercede with parental discipline on such problems as concerned the frequency of theater tickets. It was a very different situation now, when their respective ages were 21 and 37; and he was expected to act as an intermediary on such very much less clement issues as concerned latchkeys, allowances, and unchaperoned acquaintance.

What on earth did she want now, he wondered.

"Hugh Darling, I'm going to be a nuisance—a ghastly nuisance," the letter started. "But I'm in trouble, real trouble and you're the one person who can help me. It's about John." John? Osborne paused, his memory searching the lengthy gallery of young men who had disturbed over the last four years his sister's peace of mind; John? no, he could not place him. He resumed his reading. "We're crazy about each other; really crazy," he read on. "We want to be married right away. At least John does; and I would, desperately, if only I could be certain it was fair to him. But I can't be, not quite, it's the money part. We've enough to live on, just. But it would mean desperately hard work, not spending one unnecessary farthing; no travel, no entertaining, nothing, and is that fair to John? I can't be sure it is. Because it is important for him, it really is, at this stage of his career, to get about, to see people. An architect after all——"

An architect, so that was who John was. Osborne recalled a tall, untidy youth, with one of those thin hard boned faces that often develop in later life a look of real distinction; an uncomfortable young man, who did not smoke, who kept fidgeting with his tie and pulling at his hair; yet had managed, nevertheless, to give Osborne the impression that one day he might amount to something. So that was who John was.

And it was in order that everything should be made easy for this John, that John might be able, in Hollywood parlance, "to go places and to do things" that Phyllis was proposing to her uncle-brother that her marriage, for the first few years, should be endowed to an annual extent of two hundred pounds.

No, no, really, he thought, this was the limit; this time she had gone too far.

Only one thing about the letter pleased him: Nowhere was the word "loan" mentioned. The Danegeld was demanded as a gift.

From his wife's room next door came the tinkle of a breakfast tray. He pushed the letter into his pocket, examined his reflection in the glass, satisfied himself that the knot of his dark blue spitalfield silk tie was correctly centered in his stiff white collar, then tapped upon her door.

In his hand he carried a small sealed packet. At the sight of it she clapped her hands.

"If you aren't the most thoughtful husband"

"Did you imagine I'd forget?"

He had written on the card that accompanied the diamond clip, "On the anniversary of my happiest day, to thank you for my six happiest years."

"Darling," the eyes that looked up at him were tender.

"That is true, that really is?"

"Did you need reminding?"

She smiled, fondly.

"Six years, it's a long time, you know. That other time, that first time after all. . . ."

"That was another kind of thing."

"Was it? I suppose it was. But you were in love, to begin with anyhow. That used to worry me so, once. If that first marriage of yours could be shipwrecked so completely within three years, what was there to stop . . ."

But he laid his hand across her mouth, stopping this flow of nonsense at its source. Voices on the stairs heralded the children's visit.

A Little Problem Is Settled in a Jiffy

There were two of them, a boy and girl, 5 years old and 3. It was with shouts and bounds that they had chased across the landing but outside the door they paused to recover breath, entering finally with the staid gait to which their weekly dancing classes had accustomed them.

"I say, do you know?" It was the girl's invariable prelude. She would stand with her eyes very wide, an expression of the most solemn earnestness upon her face. "I say, do you know when Putsi and Truddy tore the rug and Ada said . . ." you would imagine that she was about to announce the fall of the Guelph dynasty as she embarked on the trailing anacoluthon of an utterly pointless saga about their two dachshunde and the parlor maid.

Her brother at her side listened with the condescendingly approved attention of a schoolmaster who hears a favorite pupil recite a lesson; prompting with an occasional "No, when Putzi jumped up what Ada said . . ."

It was a pantomime with which Osborne was familiar. Without detaching his attention, he picked up the pile of letters that lay by his wife's breakfast tray. Two of them were still unopened.

"Here's one from Doreen. It feels like an invitation."

"Open it and see."

It was to a cocktail party for the Wednesday of the following Friday.

"Isn't that the day we're dining with the Marchants?"

"It's on our way. We could go there changed."

"If we accept, we ought to ask them to our box at Lord's."

"And they don't like the Williamses."

"That's what I was thinking."

"Why ask the Williamses, then? We don't owe them anything."

"We could work them into something else sometime."

"Anything, any time."

In 30 seconds, in the interval of being good parents to two exactingly possessive infants, the problem had been settled. How easily they had arranged it, too. How easily they arranged everything for that matter. Whereas once . . .

He smiled, remembering how many discussions, how much acrimony would have been involved 12 years ago, in that other marriage before any solution to so simple a problem could have been reached and then unsatisfactorily with a feeling of grievance on one side if not on both. Suave mari magno. . . . He could afford to smile from this safe harbor.

Was there a single issue of domestic life on which he and Molly had not contrived to quarrel? They had been so young. Twenty and 24. How could one help quarreling at that age. One had not learned forbearance, patience, tolerance. How could one hope to make a success of marriage? Twenty and 24.

Word Comes About an Old, Dear Friend

And how old was this John of Phyllis'? Twenty-four, 25? Only a few months older than he himself had been. It was absurd. Of course it was. Why on earth should he pay out money that he could ill afford so that Phyllis could make for herself the same ultimate atmosphere of friction that he had created for himself 13 years ago. Why should he, why, in heaven's name?

"I'm sorry, very sorry, my dear Phyllis," his letter started.

The moment he had finished the dictation of his morning's mail, he set himself to his uncongenial task, with instructions that he was not to be disturbed for 20 minutes.

"You must know that no one is more anxious than I am to see you happy, but under the particular conditions . . ." he paused. The words came laboredly. He had progressed no farther than the second paragraph when the sharp summons of the telephone shattered his concentration.

"Didn't I say I wasn't to be disturbed?" he snapped.

"I know, sir, but it's Mrs. Burnham. I thought you would want to speak to her."

"O . . . we . . . yes . . . put her thru. . . ."

Embarrassed, confused, bewildered, he listened for the voice that once had so enchanted him, that later had so ripped his nerves.

He waited anxiously. It was six years since he had heard her voice, since the announcement of her remarriage had lifted from his conscience the burden of a moral responsibility and from his scale of living the very fettering obligation of mounting alimony. At the news that she was on the line his spirits sank. Had this second marriage of hers broken? Was she back on his hands again?

But no, it was not that.

"You mustn't think me silly. I'm sorry to be worrying you. I know how busy you are. But I thought you'd want to know. It's about old Woolley. He's getting old, 13 is old even for a poodle. He's very rheumatic. He must be in pain half the time. It isn't kind keeping him alive. The vet's coming round this morning. I thought you'd like to know. I wondered—you were so fond of him, perhaps you might want to say good-by to him."

She spoke in that quick, breathless, staccato fashion that had been one of her first attractions for him, that later had been one of the traits in her that had exasperated him the most. "Will you never come to the point?" he had thought as she had rushed sentence after sentence against the circumference of her subject. Even now after all these years he felt his impatience rise as the short sentences rattled one upon the other:

"The vet won't be coming round till 12. I live quite close. University Mansions. Just off the Edgware road. It wouldn't take you 20 minutes."

The sentences clattered on. But he was scarcely listening. Woolley, the absurd black ball that they had bought on the afternoon of their engagement, that they had named after the Kent cricketer because that morning Woolley had made a century at Lord's. Woolley the squiggling puppy that had welcomed him on his return each evening from his office. Woolley the proud, handsome dog that had bounded ahead of their walks over the heath. He had not seen Woolley for seven years, he had pictured him still as the proud, high stepping dog. Woolley old and rheumatic, at his tether's end. It was like the sudden opening of a porthole on a windy day. "I'll be round at once," he said.

University Mansions was designated in the postal records as W. 1. A large red brick block of flats, it had been described as "the acme of modern comfort" when its gables of Edwardian Gothic rose over the Praed street reaches of the Edgware road. Before the war it had enjoyed a brief season of fashionable patronage, but now in an age of air conditioning and central heat, it was clearly about to qualify for the status of a tenement.

Osborne had not seen Molly for seven years. What, he wondered, did she look like now. It was with a certain trepidation that he wondered that. Would the Molly of today bear to the Molly that he had married the same relation that this deteriorating block of flats bore to the trim Victorian cottage on the edge of the Heath beyond the Vale of Health where they had begun 13 years ago the honeymoon of their first year of marriage? She had been little and dark and plump with ragamuffin ways. Had she grown blowsy, fat, ill-kempt?

Osborne Meets Again His Old Dog, Woolley

He was afraid of that, but he need not have been. In a long holland smock, with white cuffs and collar and small bow tie, she had on this hot June morning the unexpectedly dewey freshness of ripe blackberries in a country lane. As she took his hand, her scent, a blend of tuberose, that had once thrilled him so, and later he had condemned as "oriental," struck upon his senses like a phrase of dance music.

"It is nice of you. I'm afraid he'll be a shock to you. He's got so fat. But he will be pleased. Woolley"—she called out, "Look who's come to see us. Twoodie."

The use of that old pet name, so familiar once, long buried now

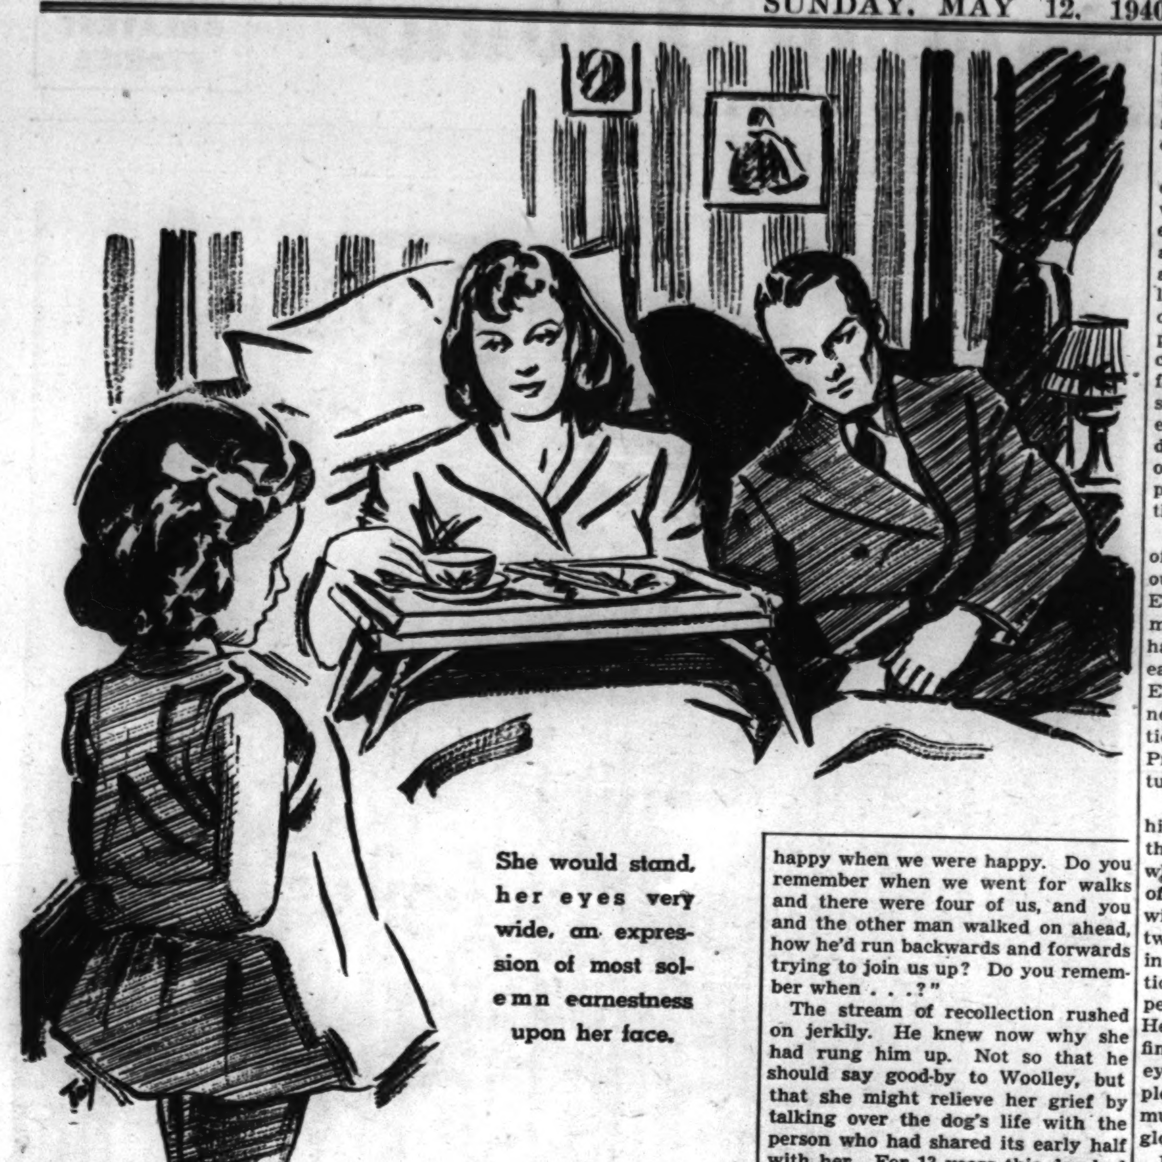
NEXT SUNDAY—"ASK YOURSELF," A NEW SHORT STORY BY MARGARET LEE RUNBECK



She would stand, her eyes very wide, an expression of most solemn earnestness upon her face.

among the memories rarely recalled of that courtship period, would have struck vibrations from a chord nostalgic sentiment, had not another chord quivered more insistently.

At the name "Twoodie" a quiver had shaken the thick mass upon the carpet; a bark had come from it; a grotesque object struggled to its feet, shuffled across the carpet, a back leg trailing, trying to wriggle its hind quarters to wag its tail. The hair that fell over the eyes was gray and straggly; the center of the back was bald. There was no line of waist. Nothing remained of the dog that he remembered except a trick of lifting the upper lip over the teeth, in a kind of laugh. Nothing but that remained, the laugh and the quiver of recollection that had shaken the mass of flesh, at the sound of his old master's name.

"Woolley, my poor Woolley." There was a pouffe beside the fireplace. Seated there, he drew the dog's head upon his knees, drawing his hands slowly over the heavy head, unable to trust himself to speak, as Molly's voice rushed on.

"A dog never forgets, at least a poodle doesn't. He'd always go back to his first master, no matter how long after. You saw how he looked up when I said 'Twoodie.' Do you remember my telling you about my brother Robert and his dachshund?"

Memories of Their Early Days Return in a Rush

She was started on an anecdote with which he was long familiar, breaking the story in midcurrent and beginning on another in the way that had so charmed him when he had thought of her inconsequent ramblings as "pretty chatter" and had so infuriated him later when he had labeled it "silly gabble"!

"It's so strange to see him old. Do you remember that day at Hendon when we thought we'd lost him?"

It was in the first autumn of their marriage, in the days before snub-nosed Morris Cowleys had ruined Hendon as a picnic center. They had taken a bus from the war memorial at Golder's Green. It was before the tube had come out to Colindale, it was the Hampstead tube then, not the Edgware Line. In those days the tops of buses were uncovered. They had sat in the front seat with Woolley lying over their feet like a hot water bottle.

They had picnicked in the shadow of a hedge long since cut down by speculative builders that had looked out over the Welsh Harp. The sun had been warm upon their faces. He had dozed as her voice ran on from this anecdote to that. Dozed till he had been roused by the cry: "Woolley. Where is he? I can't see him." Over 12 years ago, but would he ever forget the agonized anxiety of that long search, the shouting till his voice was hoarse; with Molly whimpering at his side, "If only we'd had his name put upon the collar." Would he ever forget that, or the relief when at the very moment when they had started to abandon hope, Woolley had emerged wet and dusty, reeking of the filth in which he had rolled luxuriantly. "And I only bathed him yesterday," had been her plaint.

"He was so full of life too. Do you remember how he pestered us that day at Chagford?"

That too was a vivid memory. It was in the second year. The early part of it. They had gone to Devonshire for a golfing holiday. They had breakfast in bed. It was wet and they had idled there, the gas fire lit, when suddenly, with the unexpectedness that can make a happy marriage a more spontaneous adventure than the most intense intrigue, they had found themselves in love. At that very moment Woolley had decided on a display of filial devotion, had jumped on the bed, pranced on the pillows, snuggled his nose between their heads, trying to lick both their faces simultaneously. Would Osborne ever forget the noisy romp that had been their lovemaking; of how laughing and breathless she had said, "One really has to be in love to laugh like this."

"And do you remember how upset he got that day we quarreled about Janet's invitation?"

It hadn't been their first quarrel, not by many weeks. But one of their most typical. She had been away, visiting for a couple of days. There had been a letter addressed to her in Janet's script. It bore a penny stamp. The flap was turned over a post card. Clearly it was an invitation. To fix the date, to arrange his own diary, he had opened it.

"By the way," he had said on her return, "I accepted for a party of Janet's on Friday week." It had been the signal for one of their fiercest rows; as absurd as it had been symptomatic. "You open my letters, what do you mean by opening my letters?" That was how it had begun. "You knew it was an invitation? Yes, I daresay you did. But why should you accept it in my name? How did you know that I would want to go?"

That was how it had gone on. Finally, a point of recrimination had been reached, when their whole social life had become a corpse under the dissecting knife. "You're always complaining that I don't like people till I've got to know them. That's why you accepted that invitation on your own; to force me into a position where I couldn't possibly refuse." On and on the flood of recrimination streamed, and all the time the poodle, realizing that they were quarreling, had barked between them with an insistence that had forced them finally to abandon or rather postpone the issue; to declare an armistice.

"He always knew when we were quarreling; as some dogs know when thunder's coming, he could only be happy when we were happy. Do you remember when we went for walks and there were four of us, and you and the other man walked on ahead, how he'd run backwards and forwards trying to join us up? Do you remember when . . .?"

The stream of recollection rushed on jerkily. He knew now why she had rung him up. Not so that he should say good-by to Woolley, but that she might relieve her grief by talking over the dog's life with the person who had shared its early half with her. For 13 years this dog had been her friend; she was absorbed by sorrow. That was what his presence in this hour meant to Molly.

But for himself, who had not seen Woolley for seven years, the hour had a different meaning.

For him the past had been suddenly re-created. With the heavy head pressed against his knee, with the tangled curls rough beneath his hand, there passed in a stream of pictures before his mind those days of youth when they had loved and quarreled, when they had quarreled because they were too young, because they were too in love, the carefree, improvident days when they had done madcap things, of those days of which Woolley, so limp and helpless now, was the final symbol, days that were as distant for her as they were for him.

A Dog Is Last Link to Those Days of Old

More distant probably. He lifted his eyes, looked around him. The room in which they sat was a sure index to what her life was now. It was a bright and cheerful room with light, gay, chintz curtains and chair covers; with Turner reproductions on the walls, with a large bowl of roses in the window. There was nothing expensive in her room. But it had a well cared for look.

He had fancied, remembering the ragamuffin she had been, that he would find in a dreary locality like University Mansions a slovenly background suitable to some one who had gone to seed. He had not, tho. Just as she herself had stayed fresh and pretty, so was her home neat and bright. She had made of her life in her different way very much the same kind of thing that he had made of his.

On a table against the window a child's books and drawing materials were stacked in a tidy pile; an exemplary child, no doubt, who would appear at breakfast with clean hands and well brushed hair. The days were long past when doors had been locked on breakfast trays. On the mantelpiece were a couple of invitation cards. Molly was ready enough now for the mild amusement of an occasional cocktail party; the days when each invitation was the signal for disagreement were as much a thing of the past as this sick and tired poodle, Woolley, the last reminder, the last link with the old days.

The sun was shining with promise of a long day's heat when he walked out into the noisy garishness of the Edgware road. He had a heavy commitment of work ahead of him. He had hoped to get away from his office early, to watch an hour or so of the Essex match at Lord's. But he did not turn northward to the tube station. He turned westward down Praed street, taking the same side turning he had taken 13 years before.

He paused; and something under his heart went round and over. Yes, there it stood, the same dark shop where, in a distant summer, a bundle of black wool squiggling against a window pane had laid its spell upon two young hearts. And there standing before the window, the reincarnation of himself and Molly, young love personified, were two young people. Her hand lay upon his arm; upon her finger was an engagement ring. Her eyes were bright. Her voice was pleading. "Darling, he's a pet; we must, we really must." Her voice was glowing.

He smiled wryly as they pushed thru the door into the shop. What had Kipling written?—"You've given your heart to a dog to tear." Did they realize as they pushed open the shop door that they were not only buying themselves a dog, they were buying pain for themselves, 12 or 14 years from now, such pain as at this moment was tearing Molly's heart.

Did they realize that? Probably. But who at such moments looked ahead, figuring out the cost? They realized that, but did they realize that that knowledge was only half the truth? It was not only a dog that would be dying in 14 years; something else would have died, many summers before that; the youth in their hearts, the capacity to do wild things, to quarrel over nothings. They might be together still, that couple.

When that puppy grown into old age lay for the last time between them, its head heavy upon their knees, they might be bound by a deep devotion, by mutual sympathy, by trust and confidence. The death of this dog that they were buying now might be a shared sorrow; one of those shared things that constitute the sum of marriage. It might; or it might not. That lay on the gods' knees. One thing alone was certain. Youth would have left their hearts. The day would be past, long past, when they locked doors on breakfast trays.

In his pocket was his sister's letter. That morning he had shrugged impatient shoulders. But at home he had been surrounded by his "family man," his "middle-aged" responsibilities. At his office desk he had started an admonitory letter. But at his office he had been surrounded by filing cabinets, typewriters sales charts; the testimonies to a planned prosperity. In a home such as his, in an office such as his, it was by a standard of prudently planned future that one assessed importance. But here, standing in front of a dog shop window, with the picture of the past before his eyes, with the sound in his ears of a voice that glowed, it was less easy to be sure of what was and what was not important.

Was it really wisdom to plan the future, to figure out the cost? Was one deterred from the purchase of a dog by the knowledge that one was buying one's own sorrow 10 or 15 years ahead? Did the knowledge that love, or at least one side of love, was transitory hold one back from love? Did youth's improvidence ask counsel of the cooled blood of middle-age?

His office was in Holborn, but it was to the Charing Cross Tube station that he booked a ticket. His bank was in Whitehall.

"My ledger, please," he said.

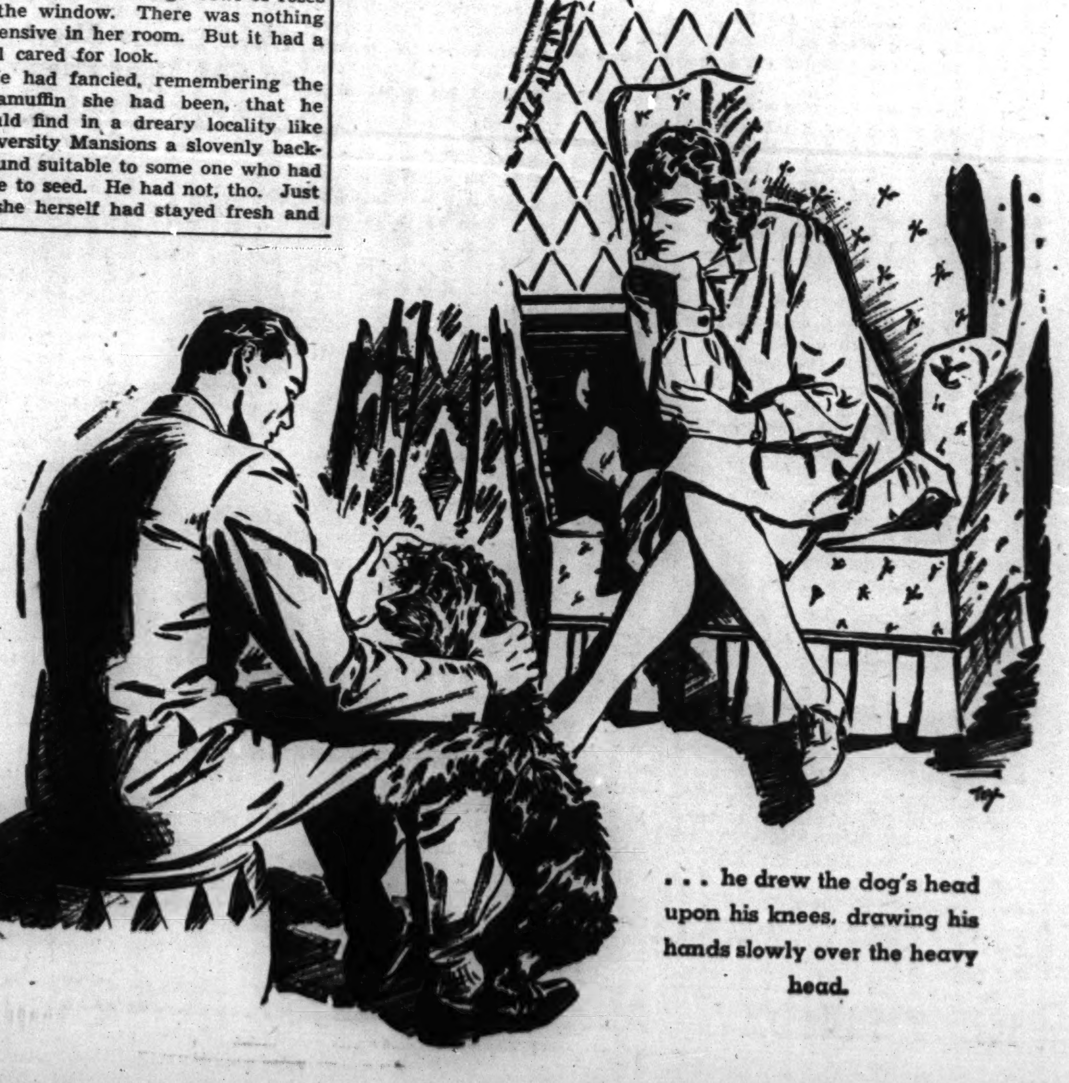
Experience Approves What Youth Sought

His account was substantially in the black. Three hours earlier prudence would have warned him to weigh the various dangers of the moment, the wavering nature of the world's markets in view of the world's unrest. But now in the light of memory the present was more insistent than the future—whatever the next years might hold there was that long black entry now

What was it in the last analysis that his sister had really asked of him? What else but the chance to enjoy to its fullest, the reckless improvidence of youth. She had not known what she was asking for. But he, in his experience, did. The chance to savor first love at its highest, in its fullest measure was his for giving.

How much was it that she had asked him for, two hundred? Yes, but one always underestimated one's expenses. Things always cost more than one expected.

He was in no mood to figure out the cost. He could manage three. Let her have those few years at their best and freshest, without worries, uncomplicated. He signed the banker's order. Whatever else in life came twice, that did not come. Whatever happened Phyllis would have unspoiled the memory of these next years. The gods themselves could not recall their gifts.



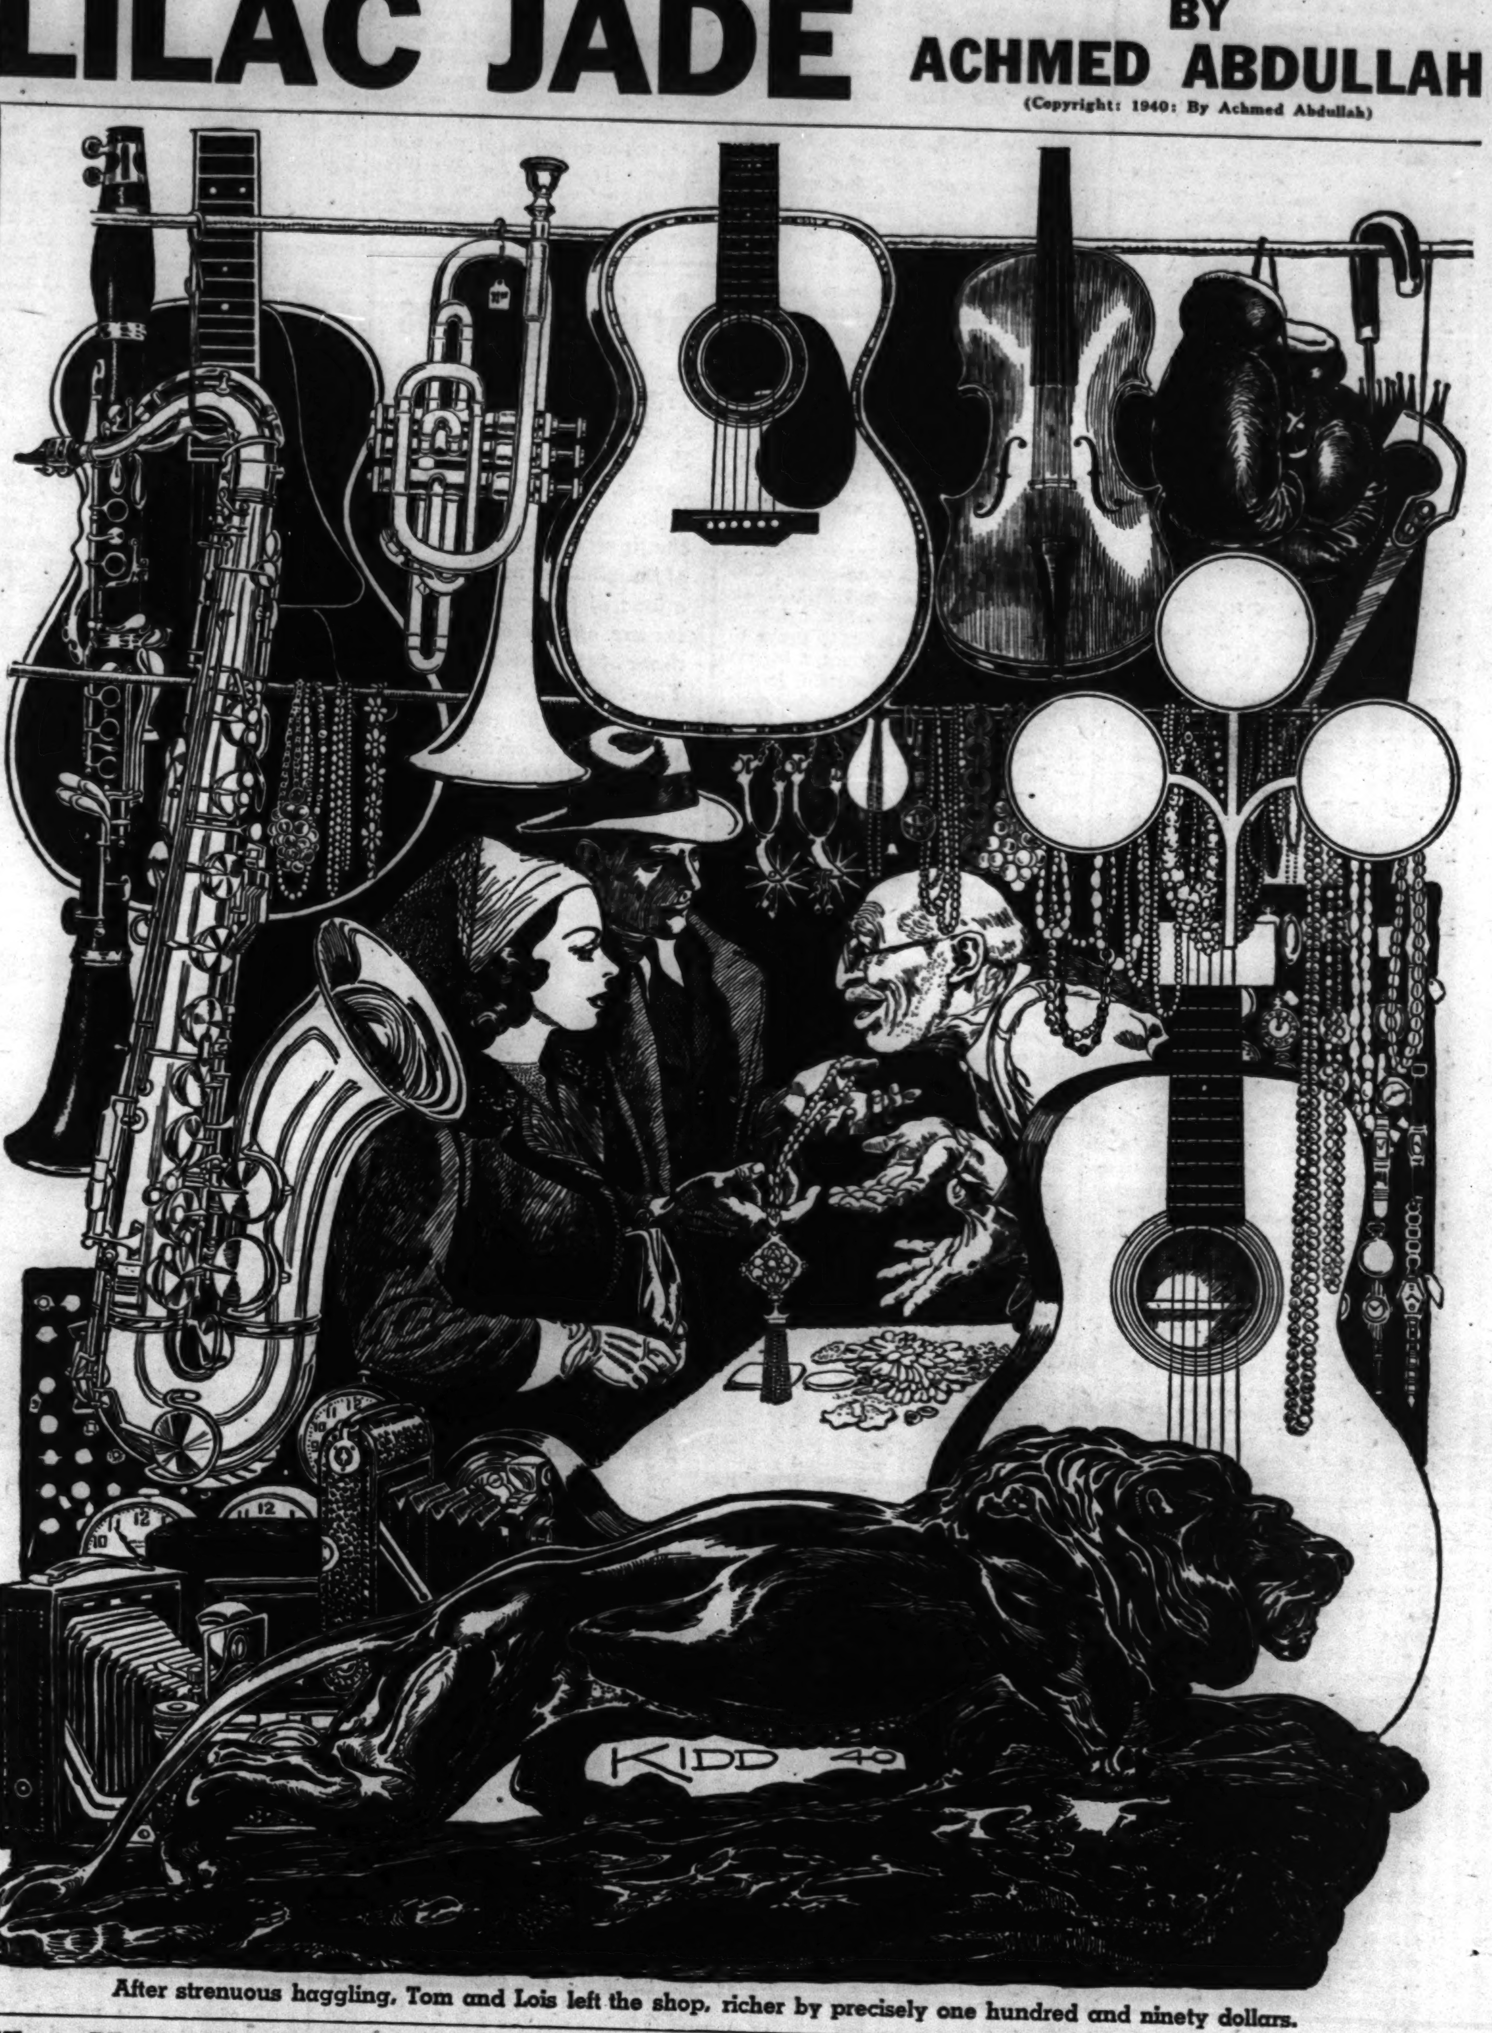
. . . he drew the dog's head upon his knees, drawing his hands slowly over the heavy head.

THE LILAC JADE

BY

ACHMED ABDULLAH

(Copyright: 1940: By Achmed Abdullah)



After strenuous haggling, Tom and Lois left the shop, richer by precisely one hundred and ninety dollars.

What Has Gone Before

At the Bombay club in Manhattan, Lois Winters whirls into the dance she learned as a child in Chinese Turkestan, unaware that Bradford, formerly her father's business partner, and Mehmet, an Asiatic, are watching to be sure she is the girl with the lilac jade. Nor does she know that Freeman Ferguson, her sweetheart's father, is also present, bent on breaking up her romance and making his son, Tom, give up his career as a violinist and return to the automobile business. Tom refuses, and his father talks to Lois, but she wins him over and promises she will not marry Tom until he has made a success on his own. That night Lois finds her apartment ransacked, and she tells Tom the story of the lilac jade. A wandering Buddhist monk gave it to her father, saying it meant untold riches. The next night Tom receives a fake message that prevents him from taking Lois home after the show. On her way home a drunken man annoys her, and Bradford and Mehmet come to her assistance and give her a glass of water that is drugged, then take her home. Finding the message is a fake, Tom telephones Lois and gets no answer.

INSTALMENT III.

TOM hurried out of the booth, the drug store; jumped into a taxicab, and gave Lois' address.

"And step on the gas, will you?"

He was terribly worried. For more than one reason.

For he had not found his father at Grand Central. He had waited by the barrier; the Detroit train had pulled out, and no sign of the older man.

So Tom had telephoned to the hotel where his father kept a suite by the year, to be told by the desk clerk that Freeman Ferguson had not been there since his last visit, a little over a week ago.

It had puzzled Tom. Once more—luckily he had not thrown it away—he had looked at the visiting card which the Western Union boy had brought.

Scribbled words.

Perhaps—a sudden thought—a forgery . . .

But—why? What could it mean? What was at the back of it? Why should anybody . . .?

Unless—yes! That must be it!—unless some one had wanted to get him out of the way.

But, again, why?

Because of—Lois?

Yes!

What else could it be?

So he had telephoned to her. She had not answered. And why hadn't she?

Dear Lord God—why hadn't she?

"Driver! Please! Step on the gas!"

"The red light was agin' me . . ."

"To hell with the red light!"

At last the taxicab stopped in front of the house. Tom was up the stairs, two steps at a time. He rang the bell, once, twice, three times; then, as, inside the apartment, there was silence, he hammered at the door with his fists.

"Lois!" he cried, his heart beating with great thumps as of a drum. "Lois!"

Lois and Tom Find the Jade Is Gone

Vaguely, as if from across a vast distance, she heard the voice, the hammering. She came out of her faint, slowly, painfully; but was unable to rise.

"Tom" . . . she spoke just the one word, in a thin, pitiful whisper.

He heard.

"Let me in, Lois!"

O, what had happened to her . . .?

He rattled at the knob; gave it a twist. And the door opened, had not been locked behind by Lois' late escort.

Tom rushed in.

"Lois!" he cried again.

The room was in darkness. He groped for the electric switch, found it, snapped it on. He saw her stretched out on the couch, hardly stirring, her dark eyes drowsy as with drugs.

And the place—once more it had been ransacked, turned upside down. Things were scattered all over the floor. And—O—he noticed as he approached the couch, grew white with rage—her dress—torn open it was, disordered, as if the thieves, whoever they were, had searched her . . .

Her!

He knelt by her side.

"What happened?" he begged. "What—what did they do to you?"

She finished a glass of water—and, after a while, in that same weak voice, related to him all she recalled; and then, suddenly, as her hand went to her throat in a nervous gesture, she gave a startled exclamation:

"It's gone!"

"What?"

"The lilac jade."

"Must have dropped it somewhere."

"No, no! The chain is here. But—don't you see?—they cut off the locket with some sharp instrument."

They looked at each other.

"So that's what they were after," he said slowly. "That's why they wanted me out of the way."

"What do you mean, Tom?"

He described his wild-goose chase to Grand Central station.

"It's easy to be clever after the event," he added. "But the burglars the other day—the fellow with the English intonation who claimed to be Edward Goveen—the forged message to me—the drunken man, no more drunk than you and I, who accosted you—Murat refusing to interfere—all part of the same plan, the same plan."

She closed her eyes.

"I've such a headache," she said, "and such a queer, bitter taste in my mouth. You think they . . .?"

"Drugged you? Of course. The glass of water they brought from the cabaret."

He went to the bathroom and came back with a bottle of eau de cologne. He bathed her forehead and wrists with the fragrant liquid.

"Your father," he told her, "knew what he was talking about. The lilac jade is valuable. And others, at least the two men who robbed you, know it, too. I wonder who they are. Can you describe them?"

"One was olive-skinned, hook-nosed, black-eyed. An Asiatic, I'm sure of it. The other—tall, lean, monocled—was British. Very British. Chiefly his voice . . ." she broke off; thought; continued: "You know—his voice, when we were in the taxicab, seemed vaguely familiar. I was already getting drowsy—with the drug, I suppose. And yet—his voice purring in my ear—it reminded me of . . ."

"The fake Edward Goveen?"

"And somebody else."

"O . . .?"

"The voice seemed to bring back pictures, impressions of former years, of my childhood in Kashgar, of my father . . ." She frowned; searched her memory; exclaimed suddenly: "I know!"

"Yes . . .?"

"Bradford! Knox Bradford! Father's former business partner—that's who he is! Years ago—I was a child at the time—they had a row." She gave a little giggle. "Father—I remember—used most dreadful language. Called him a crook, a cheat, a skunk. Knocked him down. Threw him out of the house. Bradford left Kashgar . . ."

"Are you sure he's the same man?"

"He used to wear a beard. Still, I'm positive."

"And, having once been your father's partner, the very man to know about the jade . . ."

They were silent. Then she said:

"Dad tried so hard to tell me the secret of the jade before he died. His eyes—O—they were despairing. His poor lips—moving in a last, brave effort." She drew Tom down to her. "Do you love me?" she whispered.

"With all my heart."

"Then—will you help me get it back?"

"You bet!"

"Shall we call the police?"

"Nothing of the sort. No lengthy police red tape. It would take days to trace the thieves. Would give them a chance to put distance between them and us . . ."

"What can we do?"

"We'll talk about it in the morning, Lois. Go to sleep now."

"All right." She rose. "Will you come around early tomorrow?"

"No."

"No?"

"I'll spend the night right here."

"You—what?"

"I can't leave you here alone. After all the excitement, the way you were drugged. I'll sleep in the parlor."

"What about the conventions?" she smiled.

"To hell with 'em!"

"Tom," she laughed, "I'd never have imagined that you would be so bossy."

"Why not? Am I not Freeman Ferguson's one and only son? Which reminds me—kiss me good night!"

"Is that an order, Colonel?"

"Absolutely. Snap into it!"

She lifted her small face toward him. She had to stand on the toes of her little feet. He was so tall.

They Present Their Problem to Detective

He held her close. And he thought, with that romantic quirk of the imagination—a musician's, an artist's imagination—which often was his:

"It is as if you were walking down a long, barren, dusty road—alone and bored and unhappy. And you happen to turn the corner—and you meet this girl . . ."

She put Tom's right hand against her heart.

"Life"—she said gravely—"we must live it together . . ."

"Life," he whispered, "used to be two things—yours and mine. Now it is one. Ours!"

"I love you!" she said.

"And I love you!"

A silence.

"Do you know," he asked, "what love is like?"

YOUR CHILDREN by Gladys Huntington Bevans

Nature Meant Parents to Be Child's Guides

By Gladys Huntington Bevans.

[Copyright: 1940: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

"Darling!" she enthused over the telephone, "we're going to the coast. Bill has to, and we'd like to have your Marylin go with us, so I won't have to go to bed with Nan every night and can go places with Bill! Darling! Do let her. She can make up school. We'll only be away three weeks!"

The story's true. It came roundabout to me. Nan is 8 and she won't go to bed unless her mother lies down with her and stays there until she's asleep.

On top of this story my mail brought the enclosed letter:

"Will you send me what advice you have for my sister who lives in another city? Her child has so dominated her life in her seven short years that the mother is even too weary to write to you herself."

Several other letters contain statements such as:

"My little boy insists upon playing the radio all evening."

"My little girl won't go to bed when I send her. She is determined to stay up, especially if we have company or there is anything going on."

"My daughter won't come home from parties until they are over, no matter how late. She says the other boys and girls will think she is a baby and being bossed by me."

• • •

To begin with, it's bad for a child to dominate his parents. It's also bad for the parents to be dominated. It seriously affects their adult life. But that statement doesn't carry the reverse either; it doesn't follow that the parents should dominate their child.

Any one who has read this column knows that I do not ever advocate the domination of children by their parents; that I believe in a child having all possible freedom; that I believe in treating a child as a person to be respected and loved and reasoned with, and to be guided with firmness and tact.

But there is a great difference between domination and guidance. No parent should be dominating. But all parents should guide and control their children.

• • •

Nature has put us in this position. She has made us the parents of our children.

In all except the lowest forms of life, this means that she has fitted us to protect and teach our offspring and she expects us to do so.

What nature does is for the preservation of the race. If we do not control and guide our young we cannot protect them from danger or rear them so that they are fit to hold their own, to take their place in the world.

What fits us to do this is our maturity and our experience. Presumably we know more about living than our children do. Also the young, by their very nature, physical and mental and emotional, need some one to look up to, to depend upon. They even crave this, in varying degrees at different ages. Here and there a 9 year old, given decisions to make too complicated for his capacity, has been heard to say: "You decide for me, dad. You know better." And teen age young people, for all their aspect of poise and even cockiness, are not sure inside, and crave advice and even firm control at times. It gives them a sense of security to know that a mature and wise father or mother is behind them.

For these reasons children must not dominate their parents. We must not allow the young and inexperienced to take prerogatives that do not belong to them.

We must not allow them to make decisions they are not fitted to make and, indeed, often do not [deep down] want to make.

• • •

We must not let them grab the tiller and try to be crew and captain all in one.

It is not well for children completely to dominate their parents.

This domination by a child usually comes about very gradually, and also imperceptibly. Little by little the parents yield. And one fine day it is an accomplished fact: Their child has the upper hand.

This result comes about from two, well, we might call them attitudes. The first probably is responsible for behavior such as that of young Nan, who wouldn't go to bed without her mother lying down and staying with her until she fell asleep. Mothers like Nan's start by yielding to every whim. They hate to deny their child anything. Once past little childhood these children often meet with resistance from this overindulgent mother, but they soon discover that persistence, or teasing, whining, tears, or tantrums will wear the resistance down, and they get their own way.

The other attitude of parents which results in a child who dominates a household may be this, and it may be a sincerely arrived at conviction: The mother believes that children should have complete freedom, learn by experience, be put on their own, and be forced to make their own decisions. With this mistaken idea their child seldom achieves the sense of security and poise they anticipate, because he is put thru a "forcing process," expected to cope with facts and situations before he is ready to do so. But what does happen is that he usually winds up by "ruling the roost."

• • •

Children can't be turned loose. They can't be given absolute freedom. They can't be allowed to do everything they wish.

Nature doesn't work it out that way. The higher we go in the life scale the longer the protectiveness and teaching of the young is practiced by the parents. The fish spawns and with a very few exceptions swims away. But the quail drags a "broken" wing and imperils her life to draw danger from her nest, because she has a job to do with the nestlings before they can be left to their own devices. The mother and father ape both are stern and loving mentors to their funny, worried looking baby for a long time in his childhood.

Our maturity and years of living and experience give us the right to guide [but not dominate] our children. We must guide them wisely and sympathetically, but with a sure touch [however humble we may feel about it]. This "sure touch" carries conviction to them of our fitness for the job. And the whole procedure is for their good and ours, too, as human beings.

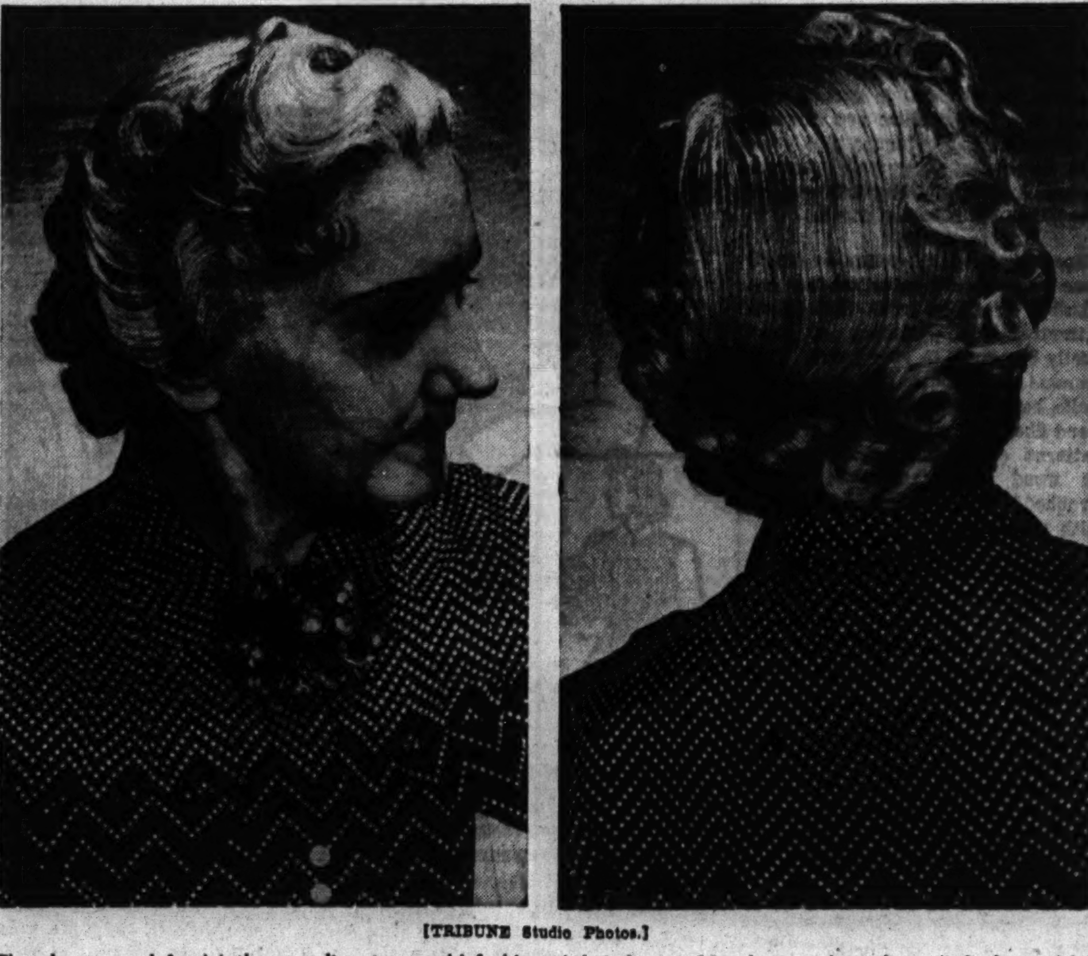
Thru the Looking Glass



[TRIBUNE Studio Photos.]

There's no need for Mother to cling to an old fashioned hairdress. Here's one that she will find youthful and flattering, particularly so if she has locks of snowy white. Parted on one side, the hair swings high on the right, the ends forming a soft coil on top. At the temples the hair sweeps back in soft waves, the ends looping over a smooth, molded crown. Soft curls that turn upward create a becoming neckline. This hairdress is created by a member of the style committee of the Chicago and Illinois Hairdressers' association.

Mrs. Frank M. Hall, Waupun, Wis.: Why won't they cover raisins in the package with some paper treated against raisins "sticking" to it?

* *

Georgia Sawyer, Chicago: Here is how we've solved the problem of keeping our children, 8, 9, and 11, from getting too restless on our warm weather motor trips. When quarrels are in the air we put them out of the car and tell them to start a race to a certain point on ahead. They have a good run and when our car catches up with them they are ready to climb in—breathless but content to ride a "while longer" without fussing.

* *

Mrs. Jerry Graham, Grand Rapids, Mich.: It seems to me it would help if cheese manufacturers dated their cheese according to its particular stage of ripening, and you could be sure of getting sharp or mild cheese as you preferred.

* *

Mrs. Clarence Snetsinger, Barrington, Ill.: Why won't they put out dial phones with numbers which are luminous in the dark and will "glow" if you have to put in an emergency call in a hurry?

* *

Mrs. Paul Martin, Chicago: Here's a help I've discovered. After washing and drying oil silk shower and window curtains I find that if I wipe both sides of curtains with linseed oil and let oil dry thoroly all the water marks are removed and the curtains soft and shining like new.

* *

Letty Lane, Champaign, Ill.: I have eliminated any trouble from cutworms with my tomato plants. Just before I plant them I wrap a strip of newspaper around each plant, leaving just the top leaves and the roots out. Such protection seems to discourage unwelcome cutworms.

* *

Eleanor May, Chicago: I find a little thought on treatment of the closets in my apartments has helped in more ways than just to beautify them. I painted my linen closet blue last month—to help keep my linens from yellowing; I gave a clothes closet a coat of cedar paint—to which I added color—to make it more moth resistive, and then for my closet shelves and dresser drawers I used a nice perfumed paint.

* *

Mrs. Gladys Turner, Chicago: It would be a blessing if some stickproof paint were invented for screen frames and storm windows. Why doesn't some one invent such a paint and save a lot of worry and wrestling with screens and storm windows when the seasons change?

* *

Mrs. Freda Patten, Chicago: I have a window in my kitchen for just kitchen herbs such as chives, fennel, etc. My pots match my color scheme and I stick neat garden labels in the pots, and always have herbs for all occasions when I need them.

* *

Mrs. Cora Brooks, St. Paul, Minn.: I think I hit on a unique mirror treatment in my kitchen and will pass it on. I have two windows which are set closely together, so I shopped around and bought a slim mirror strip which I put between them. I appreciate the chance for a "glimpse of myself" when the bell rings now at my front door.

Summer Dress Field Varied in Offerings

By Bettina Bedwell.

That groggy look you may have noticed on the faces of the women who wander up and down shopping streets may very well be the result of a prolonged contact with dress departments in several stores. I've noticed a tendency in myself to dizzy spells since I did the research necessary to give you a digest of summer dress possibilities. The folks who are on the giving end of the dress styles have spread themselves to gigantic proportions to offer such a stupendous spread of models, and you go haywire trying to come to a decision. To pick one, or even several, dresses to wear this summer, out of an array so rich would be a tax on a master mind. It's like trying to pick the best orchid from a conservatory full of prize specimens.

• • •

About the only way to escape complete bewilderment of wealth in choice seems to be to make some tentative decisions before you submit yourselves to the test of purchase. Whatever you want or need is certain to be obtainable. I've no doubt about it. If you take stock of your own private world, where you'll be wearing said dresses after purchase, you can walk up to dress counters with more assurance of getting them and not something more suitable elsewhere than on your own back. A little inventory of your body lines, a memorandum of climatic conditions ahead, and a determination to choose dresses that will abet your personal charm and daintiness will be assets to take along on your shopping tour.

I think one of the first factors to consider in such decisions is a little added comfort, which will, you can be sure of it, augment the charm of your appearance. Steer clear of skin-fitted waists unless you've a cool summer ahead of you. Choose easy skirts no matter where you live, skirts you can move gracefully in, even tho they seem straight and undeviating to the eye. You can, of course, have skirts as full as you like this summer. Look well at the sleeves of the dress you pick, and make sure the armholes do not bind movements, and if they're short, or moderately full, your sleeves will be more comfortable and therefore more attractive.

• • •

Color in your summer dress deserves attention. I am convinced that any woman can wear pretty colors in summer. It also can be practical. If you choose printed silk you may wear black with white, navy with white, or brown with white and look dainty and fresh. Red with white is delightfully cool looking in hot weather, and gay, too. Nothing is more attractive than clear green with white. In a one-color dress you may choose any clear color, a beige, gray, blue, or a pretty pastel. Sheer black spiced with pink, vivid blue, or white is practical and appetizing in a summer dress. So is sheer navy. All white is, of course, enchanting, but only when it's immaculate, and that isn't easy if you go to business. I think that one white dress in a summer wardrobe, a washable dress, does wonders for any woman.

And if you can't have a white dress, you certainly can have a white hat, and white washable cotton or silk gloves, that help enormously in advancing personal daintiness. Sheer straw hats are a summer millinery item that will make wearing one a pleasure.

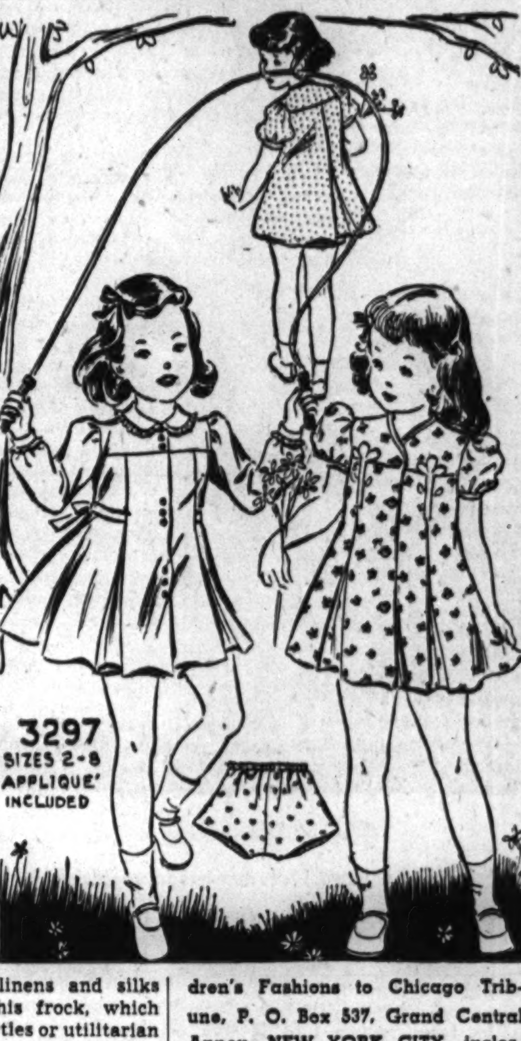
• • •

A charming and chic summer dress in navy blue sheer crêpe is a Paquin model. This is a two-piece, and the hip length waist has that fine handwork the French do so magnificently, in the shape of all-over chevron tucks. A ruffle of white organdy around the neck is a bow to daintiness, and the emerald green belt makes a splash of color contrast. The skirt is plaited, with plaits stitched to the hips.

A simple tailored dress, designed by Schiaparelli, is printed with big motifs in bright green and red on white ground. It's that rare thing, a "personal" print. The waist is soft below a fitted shoulder yoke, and has very short sleeves and an easy skirt. Very sophisticated and chic.

From Nicole de Paris comes a dress as fresh and tasty as a stick of peppermint candy. It's made of bright red and white striped chiffon, made into a shirtwaist dress, with white organdy collar and cuffs.

Clotilde Children's Patterns



Dresses with panties to match are popular with the youngest set. The pattern today fashions two or more different frocks, depending upon the styling you choose to employ. One version illustrated uses a ruffle-trimmed collar and long, full sleeves captured into snug wristbands. Buttons are used in groups of three on this model, and there's a belt from the sides around to the back. Inverted plaits lend grace to this princess frock.

The other version dispenses with a collar and merely binds the high V neckline and the short, puffed sleeves with contrasting material, the same that is used for the clever applique at the shoulder yoke. [Incidentally, the pattern for the applique is included at no extra cost.]

Both printed and plain cottons, linens and silks make up well in this frock, which may be dressy for parties or utilitarian for everyday wear. The pattern for the matching panties is included.

Style No. 3297 is designed for sizes 2, 4, 6 and 8. Size 4 requires 2½ yards of 35 inch material for long-sleeved dress; 2 yards for short-sleeved version; ⅞ yard for panties.

Sixth Woman Fire Warden on Duty at Pine Hill Post

High up in the Pine Hill fire tower sits Mrs. Hope Andrews, the sixth woman to be fire warden there. Altho still confined within four walls, she now commands a view of most of Rhode Island and part of Connecticut. She is on duty from 9 to 5. For some reason, either design or accident, a woman always has been chosen to "man" the Exeter fire tower.

Words from a Good Child

By Eleanor Jewett.

The things I do of every day
Are things my mother says I may!
And very pleasant things they are
Like riding up town in her car
Or listening while she reads to me
Of men on shore and ships at sea.
Sometimes we go into a shop
And she says "yes" to ball and top;
Sometimes the ice cream man we meet
And we have ice cream on the street.
Sometimes we buy balloons, sometimes
I give the organ monkey dimes—
But all the things I do and play
Are things my mother says I may.

Queries and Answers on the New Decor

By Edith Weigle.

Spring means new fabrics, new combinations of colors, new wallpapers and tones of paints—new decorative schemes. In the mail bags have come a number of readers' questions on the fascinating subject of home furnishings, and today we'd like to print the most-often-asked ones, with the 1940 answers.

These questions give you a quick survey of the high points in the season's fashions in attractive rooms.

1. What are the smartest colors, this spring?

Answer: The Victorian hues: plum, garnet, "dirty" green, gold, yellow; also, the pastel tones we've seen before and will continue to see: light gray, pink, chartreuse, beige, putty, blue, blue-green. A few vivid colors for accent only: bright tangerine or orange-red, cherry red, emerald green, bright gold.

2. Are colored ceilings still good?

Answer: Yes, if you wish you can use patterned wallpapers, especially designed for the ceiling, in light colors, or you can tint the ceiling with calcimine or paint. The ceiling color must, of course, be part of the room's scheme, not a tone introduced arbitrarily.

3. Is white woodwork still being used?

Answer: This depends on the type of house or apartment. White woodwork is not a fad; it is always in good taste.

4. Are Venetian blinds as popular as ever?

Answer: Yes.

5. Is there anything especially new in summer furniture?

Answer: Yes, the new treatment of rattan pieces which gives them the color of pickled pine is brand new, and beautiful.

6. What materials are smartest for summer windows and for slip covers?

Answer: Striped chintzes, floral linens and sateens and cretonnes, textured cottons, sail cloth, plaid taffetas [for windows], embroidered batiste and organdy [for windows], bed ticking.

7. What is the smartest of the home furnishings fashions just now?

Answer: Victorian, with plenty of modern touches.

What is the most distinguished?

Regency.

8. Are there any new furniture materials?

Answer: Yes, there are several. The photograph today shows pieces made of a new, strong, transparent plastic, called lucite, which looks like glass, but is much stronger. [The tables in the picture are of this material.] Another, now being used on summer furniture, is called tenite, comes in colors and looks a little like celluloid strips, but is much tougher and is said to be impervious to weather.

9. Is wallpaper in the style picture?

Answer: Very much so.

10. Are light toned floor coverings fashionable?

Answer: That depends on the type of room. With modern furniture in modern apartments, yes. In houses built some years ago—the type with dark woodwork and floors, no.

Make your bedroom one of the prettiest rooms in your home! How to do it is told in the booklet, "Beautiful Bedrooms," by Edith Weigle, Tribune furniture stylist. New Flavor Note.

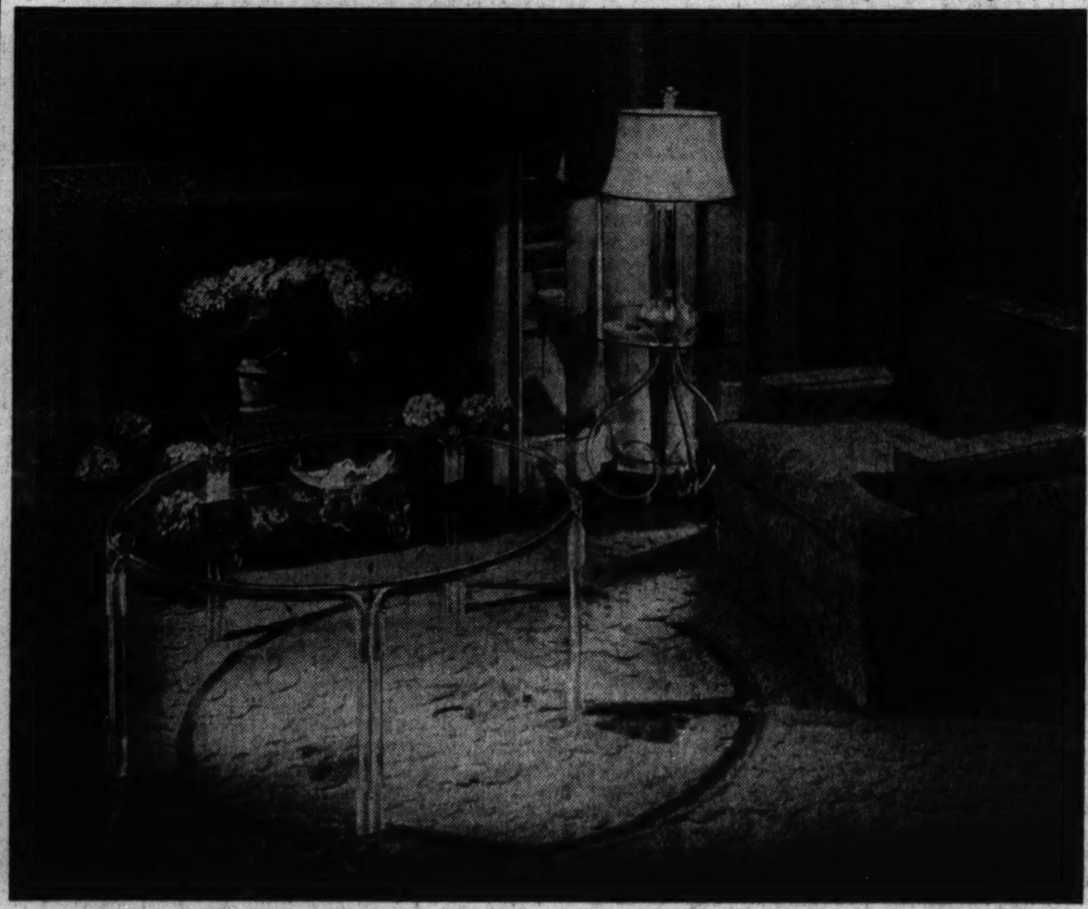
Try this new flavor note: Sprinkle shredded almonds over fruit pies or cobblers during the last 5 minutes of the baking time. It's especially grand for cherry tarts.



[Hedrich Photo.]

Among the newest of man-made materials is lucite, a transparent substance that looks like glass but is much stronger. Above you see a large round table, a lamp table, and a small plant table constructed of the new material.

On the House

By Louise Bargelt.

Should you happen to have a room in your house with its walls finished in a heavily textured, extremely "bumpy" surface, the sort of finish popular more than a decade ago, there is a plaster filler you can use to eliminate those bumps and crevices to make your wall surfaces smooth and smartly modern and in fine shape for paint or paper.

* *

Specially prepared colors to match your very special color scheme are possible at slight extra cost in an attractive wall surfacing for practically any room in your home. This economical treatment, for new or old walls, has a base of finely compressed wood fibers. It comes in tile or plain patterns or in replicas of marble or wood panels with a special "rubbed" finish which you can clean with soap and water.

* *

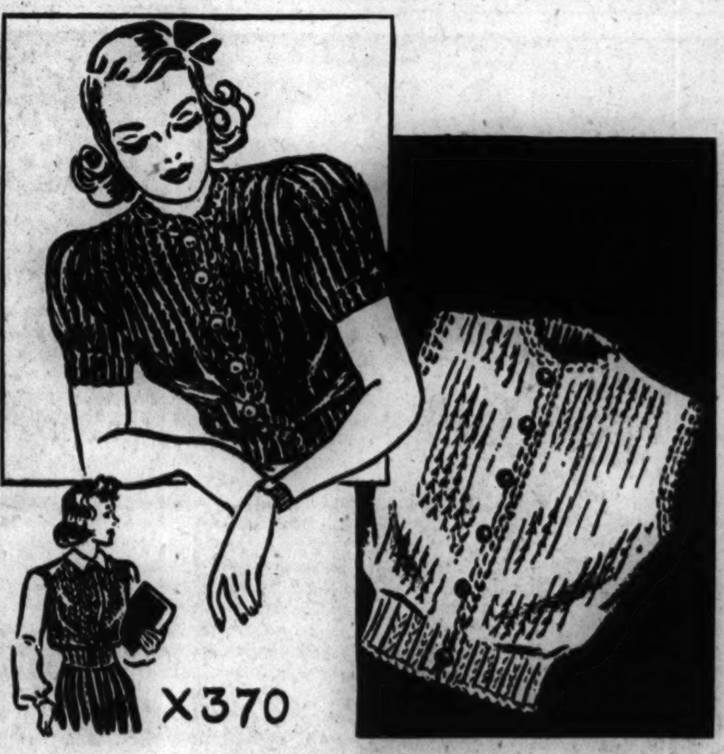
Where you are planning to plaster a new room or replaster an old one, check on a method of treatment which colors the plaster. This inexpensive method permits an attractive wall surface.

* *

For an aging awning which is in need of color to freshen it for the hot weather ahead, a treatment with special glue size, followed by a specially mixed paint will do the work—at no great effort or expense.

[For further information on above items, please send stamped, addressed envelope to Louise Bargelt, Home Builders' Editor, the Chicago Tribune.]

Unusual "Chubby" Sweater



By Jean Macdonald.

The delightfully new rope wool, which has captured the fancy of knitters, is the type of yarn which is knitted with large wooden needles. This chubby, hand knitted sweater may be created in two days, and is the essence of simplicity with the utmost of style. It may be made sleeveless or with short sleeves, depending upon the individual and the occasion for which it is worn. It is available in 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, and 42 inch bust measurements.

For instructions in knitting the short sleeved, chubby sweater, No. X-370, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

Numerology

By Evelyn Holmes

May 12, 1940.

The combination of 1 and 2 resulting in a 3, suggests a vocation which is artistic and expressive, but also has originality and detailed work. The accumulation of detail is not agreeable to either 1 or 3, but it must be done to bring out the full qualities of 12. Since 12 is the number of sacrifice, we can see that those with this birth date have to learn to give more than take in their work. They must be tactful, but not subordinate. If May 12 is your birth date, you ought to be hard at work by now, setting your house in order, your business, your budget, and your life. Bring order out of chaos, and don't rebel against restrictions and limitations this year. Your freedom comes in 1941.

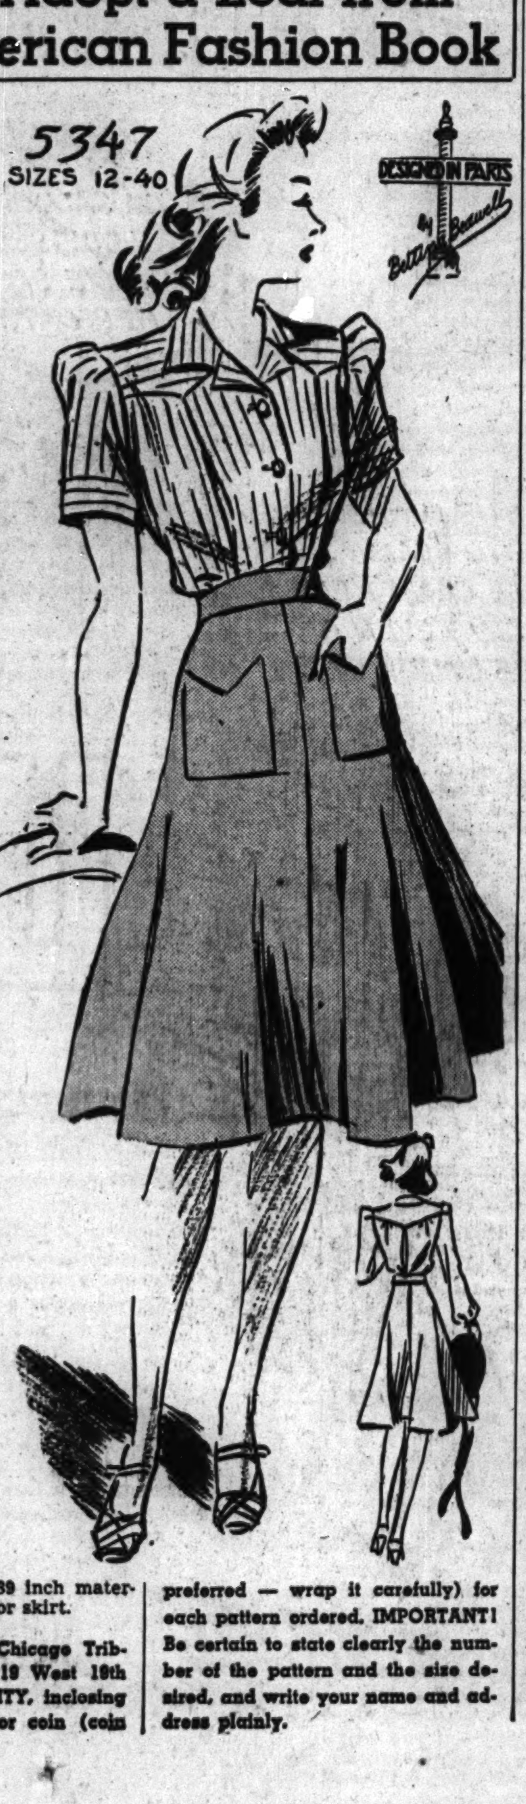
French Adopt a Leaf from an American Fashion Book



Busy, active enterprising American career women have given a leaf from their book to the French. While our Latin sisters always have inclined toward less utilitarian modes, their way of life generally not demanding practicality of them, the war situation abroad has forced many changes, fashion being one of the fields affected. So the good old American shirtwaist dress is now, perforce, a French favorite. One of the latest Parisian versions of it is presented in our pattern today.

This costume, with its typical shirtwaist top, glorified by inverted bodice plaits and an interesting shoulder yoke, and with its big pockets on the flared skirt, may be made in either one or two piece fashion, in all one fabric and color, or it may base its claim to chic on the contrast principle. The original is in two pieces, the blouse of vertical striped chambray in peppermint colors, and the skirt in pale blue piqué. It is an attractive costume, and I think we can say the ingenious French have added a little of their own spice to our American dish.

Style No. 5347 is designed for sizes 12, 14, and 16, and 36, 38, and 40 inch bust measurements. Size 16 requires 2½ yards of 39 inch material for blouse, 3 yards for skirt.

Address orders to Chicago Tribune Paris Patterns, 119 West 19th street, NEW YORK CITY, inclosing 15 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred — wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be certain to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired, and write your name and address plainly.

ENOUGH STOCKINGS TO LAST A YEAR—AND I CALL THEM A GIFT!

I am one of these rare women with enough silk stockings for a year. And if you want to know how I did it, here's the story in a nutshell . . .

① We had wanted a new vacuum cleaner for ages but felt we'd have to pay at least $60 for one. Finally, George persuaded me to see G-E's new cleaner. It sounded so wonderful I was sure it must be expensive!

② Nevertheless, I stopped at my G-E dealer's for one of their three-minute demonstrations. Well, that cleaner had everything! And the price was fully twenty dollars less than we had expected to pay.

③ Well, my dear, I was so delighted I went on a silk stocking spree. Thanks to the money-saving price of my G-E Vacuum Cleaner I have enough stockings to last for months and months.

Unlucky me! Just when we were supposed to leave for our picnic, the kitchen drain got stopped up. But . . .

Lucky me! I married the right man, bless him. For out he dashed for a can of Drāno, and soon we were off, leaving Drāno to do the work. "You see," explained the man of my choice, "Drāno digs right down through the grease and muck, and cleans the drain thoroughly." He was right, as usual! And since then, I've been keeping the drains clean. A teaspoonful of Drāno goes down the drain each night after the dishes are done—and all's well!

"When Grandmother was a Bride

Maxwell House Coffee was already a part of the Old South's tradition of gracious living . . ."

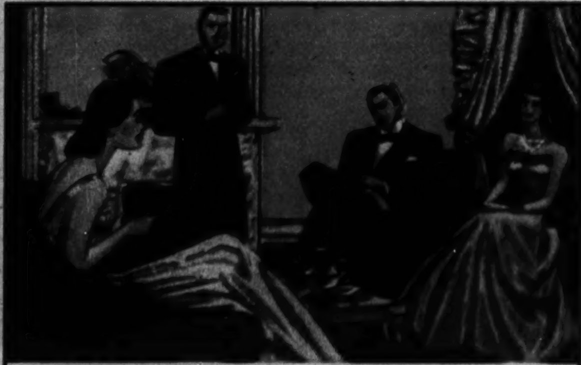
"...And today my guests applaud when I serve this

NEW MAXWELL HOUSE...NOW SO MUCH RICHER...BETTER THAN EVER!"

says Miss Elizabeth Cecil Cary
OF RICHMOND, VA.

"You're right, Miss Cary!" hostesses throughout the country are agreeing. "There never has been any coffee to compare with the marvelous New Maxwell House!"

Copyright, General Foods Corp., 1940



When first you taste it, you, too, will discover a coffee that is far richer, mellower, more deliciously fine-flavored. And you'll join the millions who are saying, "The old Maxwell House was wonderful—but this New Maxwell House is even better!"

And Here's the Secret!

First, the famous Maxwell House blend has been enriched with extra-flavored coffees from the highlands of Central and South America. And second, these marvelous coffees are roasted by a new method, called Radiant Roast, which assures you all the full, rich flavor.

Maxwell House is packed in the super-vacuum can . . . so you get Roaster-Fresh coffee, just as it comes from the roasting ovens. There are two grinds—drip and regular. Get the New Maxwell House today!

SOMEONE OUGHT TO TELL HER ABOUT RY-KRISP

Reducer's ABC's

Don't let ugly fat rob you of romance
Lose weight this proven Ry-Krisp way

A slim, alluring figure is sure to win a man's admiration, so why not try streamlining your figure the Ry-Krisp way. This plan involves no strenuous exercise, no drastic diet, no specially prepared food.

Just 3 Easy Rules to Follow

A. Eat sensibly. Using the Ry-Krisp booklet as a guide, a normal person can lose about 7 pounds a month.

B. Exercise moderately . . . just to help keep skin and muscles firm and avoid needless wrinkles.

C. Enjoy 2 or 3 Ry-Krisp wafers as bread at each meal. Only 20 calories per wafer yet Ry-Krisp is a source of energy, rich in vitamin B_1 and supplies bulk to help stimulate natural elimination.

Its crispness and coaxing rye flavor make Ry-Krisp an ideal every-meal bread, especially delicious with salads, soups, juices, cheese or spreads.

Ry-Krisp comes in the red-and-white checkerboard box, has the name baked into every wafer. Served in restaurants and tearooms, on trains and planes. To be sure of getting 20-calorie wafers, ask for Ry-Krisp by name.

Free Reducing Booklet—Plan for losing about 7 pounds a month. State whether booklet is for man or woman. Address Ry-Krisp, 754-L Checkerboard Square, St. Louis. Offer good only in U. S. and Canada.

Hot-weather hit: Cabbage salad in green pepper, radishes, cold cuts, toasted Ry-Krisp. For delicious, low-calorie meals you may enjoy while reducing, see Ry-Krisp booklet. Send for it today.

Charming Southern Belle

Before the Première—Miss Nancy Calhoun, charming debutante daughter of Mrs. Andrew Calhoun, entertains at "Tryggvesson," the spacious family mansion on lovely old Pace's Ferry Road. (Below) Leaving for Atlanta's "Gone With the Wind" Ball.

Clever Young Columnist

Susan Jones Medlock, bright young reporter, originated the Atlanta Journal column called "Peachtree Parade" in which she records Society's doings. (At Right) In a box at the ball she gathers highlights for her column.

—BOTH ARE SOUTHERN BEAUTIES AND BOTH HELP KEEP THEIR SKIN LOVELY WITH POND'S

We interviewed Miss Calhoun

QUESTION: So many Georgia girls have "peaches-and-cream" complexions, Miss Calhoun. How do they do it? It's easy to see you have the answer!

ANSWER: "Well, really, I'd say Pond's 2 Creams are the answer—at least for me! Morning and evening I cleanse my skin carefully with Pond's Cold Cream to make sure every trace of make-up is removed. And before putting on fresh powder, I always spread on a light film of Pond's Vanishing Cream."

QUESTION: Do these two Creams do anything else for your skin?

ANSWER: "Yes, much more. You see, besides cleansing, regular use of the Cold Cream softens my skin and brings a warm glow, and the Vanishing Cream helps protect it against weather—smooths little roughnesses right away, too!"

We talked with Susan Medlock

QUESTION: Isn't it a tough beauty assignment to hurry straight from a newspaper office looking fresh enough to "cover" a society party?

ANSWER: "No, because I always keep jars of the 2 Pond's Creams right in my desk—ready to freshen up my complexion in a jiffy. Pond's Cold Cream is just perfect for a thorough, easy cleansing. It leaves my skin feeling so sweet and clean—and soft! Then, before make-up, I use Pond's Vanishing Cream."

QUESTION: Do you mean you get a quicker and better effect with your make-up when you use both Pond's Creams?

ANSWER: "My, yes, and I'll tell you why: Pond's Cold Cream cleanses and softens my skin. Pond's Vanishing Cream is a different kind of cream—it's a non-greasy powder base that takes make-up smoothly—keeps it mighty nice for hours."

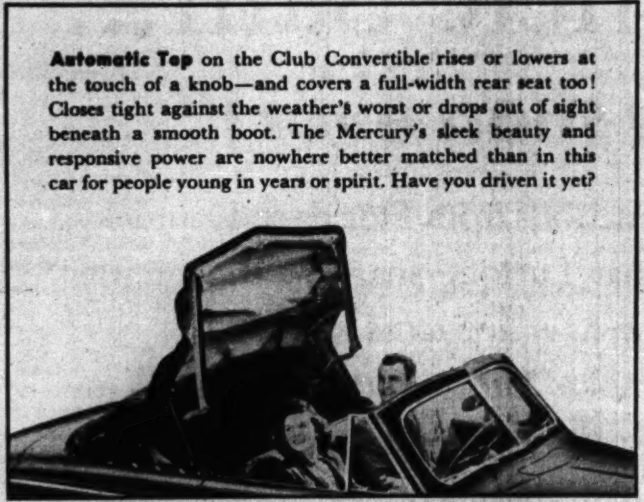
It's Time to Roam!

LIKE TO GET AWAY and hobnob with Spring in a long, low Mercury Club Convertible? Its sails are trimmed for adventure, and its look of power is no empty promise—there's a big V-type, 8-cylinder engine under the hood. An engine so perfectly balanced with the car's weight that gas mileage is extraordinary—owners report up to 20 miles per gallon! That broad front seat is really made for three—notice how Mercury streamlines flare out over the running boards to pick up extra width inside!

Visit the new Ford Expositions at the two Fairs, New York and San Francisco, 1940

Extra charge for white sidewall tires as illustrated on both cars

Automatic Top on the Club Convertible rises or lowers at the touch of a knob—and covers a full-width rear seat too! Closes tight against the weather's worst or drops out of sight beneath a smooth boot. The Mercury's sleek beauty and responsive power are nowhere better matched than in this car for people young in years or spirit. Have you driven it yet?



You can welcome weather or ignore it in the Mercury 8 Convertible Sedan—brand-new example of the body-maker's art. All the comforts of a big sedan and the fun of a fleet open car rolled into one! Room for six big people to enjoy the famous Mercury Ride, the ride that's even smoother this year with the help of special levelized, stabilized-ride construction.

War Comes Back to the Land of the Vikings

By
JOHN A. MENAUGH

AGAIN HISTORY is being made in Scandinavian lands—Norway, Sweden, and Denmark—out from which a millennium ago poured the viking hordes to overrun Europe and range the unknown seas.

Merciless pagans, the vikings, or sea rovers, doted on war. Their chief god was Odin, the deity of wisdom, poetry, and war, who presided in a special heaven for heroes called Valhalla at the banquets of the spirits of those slain in war. Odin also was the god of the harvest, but the vikings were not farmers.

The era of the vikings began in A. D. 790, when several ships' crews of them landed on the coast of England, swarmed into the town of Dorchester, and butchered the constable there who objected to their rough ways. After that first raid the vikings, or "Danes," as they were called by the Anglo-Saxon chroniclers, whether their homes were in Denmark, Sweden, or Norway, appeared with growing frequency and in increasing numbers. They sacked the town of the island on Lindisfarne, off the coast of Northumberland, and raided Ireland, conquering the people there and setting up their own king, Olaf the White. They conducted numerous raids against the Frankish empire, invaded London and Rochester, and sailed up the Rhone river to Valence. Capturing Luna and Pisa in Italy, they engaged in a siege of Constantinople. With 700 ships and 40,000 men they sailed up the Seine and laid siege to the city of Paris, retiring only after they had been bought off with a huge sum.

No land within striking distance was safe from these fierce sea rovers. They besieged towns in Flanders, Brabant, and Picardy, invaded Germany, and swarmed into the east to found a kingdom among the North Slavs, which later came to be known as Russia.

So utterly lacking in fear were the vikings that they ventured westward over the unexplored oceans to the very rim of what then was believed to be a flat world, to discover and colonize Iceland, to discover the shores of Greenland, and eventually to reach the coast of the continent of North America. It was Leif the Lucky (son of Eric the Red, the discoverer of Greenland) who in A. D. 1000 found the North American mainland. He called it Vinland, because of the presence along its shores of growing grape vines. His exploit is considered to have been about the last important one of the viking era. At the time that it was accomplished a large part of England was under the rule of a king who also was the king of Denmark and Norway.

Early in the ninth century, as the vikings were in the midst of their depredations, a young monk named Anskar, a native of Picardy, journeyed to Scandinavia and established a mission there. It was more than a hundred years later, however, before Christianity began to take a firm hold on the people there, and it was not until after the beginning the 11th century that the Swedish King Olof Skötkonung accepted the faith of Christ. Not long after the beginning of the 12th century Rome sent a Scandinavian bishop to Greenland, and the belief is held in some quarters that this bishop once actually visited Vinland, on the mainland of North America. Conversion to Christianity seems to have made the Scandina-

Disorder in the Courts!

How New York Gang Rule Handcuffed Justice

● This is another instalment of the amazing disclosures of New York's unholy alliance of crime and politics as presented by the authors in the book "Gang Rule in New York." Earlier stories have described the careers of Jimmy Hines, Arnold Rothstein, and Dutch Schultz.

By CRAIG THOMPSON and ALLEN RAYMOND

(Copyright: 1940: By Craig Thompson and Allen Raymond.)

Ciro Terranova, right, the racketeer involved in the Roman Gardens holdup, appears in New York magistrate's court on vagrancy charge. (Tribune photo.)

THERE is an old saying in New York gangdom, "You gotta be wired."

The wire is the link between crime and the courts; the device whereby the criminal with political influence can walk right thru the barricade of police set up to protect the citizen. The wire is the connection between the criminal with political influence and the police court, or court of first instance, which in New York is known as the Magistrates' court.

The wire may be a district leader. Frequently it is. It may be a shyster lawyer who has reached a coöperative understanding with a magistrate or a clerk of the Magistrates' court, or both. It may be the magistrate himself—since that guardian of the people's justice is a creature of politics and is made or broken by the district politician, who in his turn may be made or broken by gunmen.

The Magistrates' court is composed of 55 judges, appointed by the mayor, usually upon the recommendation of district leaders, for 10 year terms at a salary of $10,000 a year. Before La Guardia became mayor, a place upon that magistrate's bench was the reward for a lawyer so active in district politics that he became a valuable henchman of the district leader.

• • •

To a district leader a courtroom was not a place where a man should be dealt with according to his crime, rather it was a place where old ties of political coöperation should be strengthened and where new ones might be made as the opportunity arose. James W. Brown, a Bronx leader, showed Seabury that. He was asked whether indeed he had petitioned Magistrate Jesse W. Silbermann to free one Philip W. Grabsky, fur dealer, who had beaten up a competitor. Brown said that of course he had. "That's the way we make Democrats," he commented.

The magistrate, Silbermann, removed for the good of the public during the ensuing cleanup, was merely living by the rules of the political system which produced him. He was a hard worker for the Democratic party of his district for several years before the outbreak of prohibition.

In 1920, he asked Brown for a magistrate's job, as reward for services rendered. Brown took the matter up with Charles F. Murphy, then Tammany boss, and Murphy took the matter up with Mayor Hylan, who gave Silbermann the job for an unexpired term in 1920, and renewed the appointment for a full 10 year term in 1922. Silbermann's sponsor for reappointment to the bench was higher in the political hierarchy than Brown. It was Edward J. Flynn, who was later to become Democratic boss of the Bronx, then New York secretary of state under Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, and still later, under the administration of Roosevelt as President, the United States commissioner to the New York World's Fair. Three of the most conspicuous bootleggers and beer barons of the illicit 1920's, Dutch Schultz, Joe Noe, and Harry Block, received commissions and badges as deputy sheriffs, during prohibition. The sheriff was Edward J. Flynn.

Once magistrates were on the bench, the professional politicians who had brought about their appointment had a custom of using their names and titles, with all the prestige which the rank of judge carried among their constituents, as advertisment of their own political power.

The system which produces the wire between the underworld and the courts has its origin in the district primaries, where criminals have helped district leaders win their posts by thuggery in fraudulent elections, and where they have risen from the hired men of the district leaders, here and there, to be their masters. In New York, it is not in elections between parties, nor in reliance upon occasional reform mayors, that the criminal wire to the courts may be disconnected.

Gang rule is established by voting phony election rolls in the choice of party leaders, to whom all public officials, elected and appointed, are under obligation.

II.

Among the more festive activities in the civil government of New York, which is not completely hard labor in the public service are the political dinners, given from time to time by persons and groups with axes to grind, to the Hon. Mr. Such-and-Such, when the wine flows freely and the scented air is laden with music and oratory. Here the fat cats of politics are buttered up for contributions to the party's campaign chest, and the wares of potential candidates are exhibited to buyers.

Sometimes these dinners are at the Biltmore or Commodore, with 1,500 to 2,000 persons present at $10 per head, and a neat little profit may be taken off at the close by hard bitten promoters. Occasionally they are in less pretentious public houses, such as Cavanagh's or the Roman Gardens, the Bronx, where on Dec. 7, 1929, a banquet was laid for 70 guests in honor of Magistrate Albert H. Vitale, a veteran of nine years on the bench and 22 in practical politics.

• • •

The dinner was given to Hizzoner the magistrate by the Tepecano Democratic club, of which he was the leader. Former Magistrate Michael N. Delagi was chairman of the club's board of directors. Ostensibly the dinner was in honor of Magistrate Vitale's return to the scene of his usefulness from a vacation. But as events turned out, the dinner had other purposes, and other results.

At 1:30 a. m., when the merriment had subsided momentarily and Magistrate Vitale was making a speech, seven gunmen walked into the banquet hall displaying their pistols in a businesslike fashion. Seated at the tables, doing honor to the distinguished guest of the evening, who was their pal and everybody's friend, were other gunmen, as well as a veteran police detective, Arthur C. Johnson, and two court attendants, John Monico and Dominick LaClare. These last three men had guns of their own. Detective Johnson, during 20 years of service on the force, had accumulated a record for bravery. Yet nobody bothered the invading banditti.

Two of them walked straight up to Magistrate Vitale, and pointed their pistols at him. Others stood at the exits with weapons trained upon the crowd. One walked up to Detective Johnson, covered him, and said: "So you're a cop, are you? Keep still and you won't get drilled."

The detective and the two armed attendants kept quiet while the bandits took their guns away from them.

The gunmen proceeded to rob the guests, even taking $62 from Ex-Magistrate Delagi and $40 from Magistrate Vitale. The total loot of the gunmen was jewelry valued by the losers at about $2,500, and approximately $2,000 in cash. As the banditti departed they took with them the guns belonging to Police Detective Johnson and the two court attendants, and went away from there in an automobile, which was waiting at the curb outside with motor running and a confederate at the wheel.

Once those gunmen fled from the banquet hall, the fat was in the fire. Had not a detective of New York's finest been robbed of his gun, and had not a brave man failed to give battle? Detective Johnson and the two jurists, Delagi and Vitale, knew what that meant. The city of New York has a sensitive regard for the renown of its police force for courage.

There was a little delay for conference after that holdup at the Roman Gardens before the affair was reported to the police. According to Detective Johnson, Magistrate Vitale asked for the time in which to make some inquiries, and to see whether he could not get the policeman's vanished pistol. Two hours and 30 minutes after the robbery, the detective was called to the Tepecano Democratic club, and into the magistrate's political headquarters. There on the desk, in front of Vitale, was the stolen gun. Detective Johnson asked the magistrate, he said, how he got it. The magistrate answered that he could not say.

Detective Johnson asked him if he had any idea who perpetrated the outrageous holdup. The magistrate replied that he did not know, but he had an idea it was staged by some of the "boys from downtown, around Kenmare street." That meant that it was the work of gangsters from the political bailiwick of Albert Marinelli, later to become Tammany leader of the 2d assembly district, who was still later to resign the office of New York county clerk, under fire.

This explanation of Magistrate Vitale's, however, did not satisfy Johnson, nor the police department, nor the newspapers. All went to work to obtain more information. Nor did it satisfy Chief Magistrate William McAdoo, the head of the bench upon which Vitale was sitting. The chief magistrate also asked for a further explanation.

First object of inquiry was the personnel at that political dinner. It was made public that seven men with police records were among the 70 invited by the directors of the Tepecano Democratic club to do honor to the magistrate. These guests were named as Ciro Terranova, John Savino, James Savino, Joseph Catania, James Catania, Paul Marchione, and Daniel J. Iamascia.

Of these seven, Ciro Terranova, the artichoke king, was known to all political and criminal New York at that time as a gangster and racketeer of considerable stature. Even the man on the street knew who Terranova was.

Danny Iamascia, with nine arrests, was one of Dutch Schultz's bodyguards, and Schultz in those years was one of the city's most formidable killers and racketeers. Danny's brother, Anthony J. Iamascia, an officer of the Tepecano Democratic club, was a bondsman doing business around the court over which Magistrate Vitale presided, as was his father before him, who also was named Anthony. Both of the Catanias and both of the Savinos were gunmen belonging at one time or another both to the mob led by Terranova, extortionist and leader of the Unione Siciliana, and of the mob led by Schultz. Their reputations in all that neighborhood were matters of common, street corner knowledge, and Magistrate Vitale knew all about them.

As a practical politician as well as a magistrate, Vitale was a pal of theirs and an associate of other gangsters. Within the courtroom over which he had been called to preside, Vitale was a front man for the mobsters that were the source of his power, and a protector of gangsters from the penalties of the law.

Within the ranks of Vitale's Tepecano Democratic club was also Deputy Sheriff Salvatore F. Mancuso, of the Bronx, a brother of that Judge Francis X. Mancuso of the Court of General Sessions who resigned under fire after the collapse of the City Trust company in which he was interested; a collapse that led to the jailing of State Bank Examiner Joseph Warder. Among the 300 members of that political club, according to the police, were 28 men with police records.

This nest of criminals over which Vitale presided was a political force to be reckoned with, and there was little surprise, under the political system, that he should become a magistrate. Following the holdup dinner in the Roman Gardens, however, Vitale became too hot for his old political associates of the Democratic party to handle, and they joined the Republicans in seeking to get rid of him.

Police Commissioner Whalen forwarded charges against him to the Bar association, which made a report concerning him to the appellate division of the Supreme court. As a result of that report, he was ousted from his place on the bench.

E. J. Flynn

Albert Vitale

According to Mr. Whalen's information, the magistrate had been close enough to the underworld so that shortly after the murders in the Hotsy Totsy club, in 1929, which caused Legs Diamond to become a fugitive from justice, the magistrate took part in a conference with the fugitive at Joe Ward's Uptown club.

Forwarded also to the Bar association by Mr. Whalen was an account of the appearance of a thief named Charles Fawcett before the magistrate, a yarn which indicates the way a magistrate can turn loose a politically protected malefactor when the proper pressure is exerted. The tale of that robbery and courtroom drama runs as follows:

On the night of Aug. 8, 1928, Joseph C. Harth, the proprietor of a small store in the Bronx, was called from his shop to a telephone next door. No sooner had he left the place than Fawcett entered it and walked over to the cash register. He opened it. According to Walter Krakauer, proprietor of another store, he went out of his place of business to the sidewalk when Harth was telephoning, and looked into the window of Harth's establishment. There, he said, he saw Fawcett, with his hands full of money, closing the cash register. He yelled, and Fawcett came out, running past him. Krakauer continued to yell, and ran after him, attracting the attention of Traffic Policeman Richard Hannigan, who collared Fawcett.

• • •

The identified thief was taken before Magistrate Gottlieb for a preliminary hearing and held in $1,000 bail. The case against him was set down for the court over which Magistrate Vitale had charge. Before the hearing, Harth and Patrolman Hannigan, by appointment, met a lawyer named Frederick Kaplan who told the policeman and complainant he had been sent by Arnold Rothstein—a name to conjure with—to ask that they drop the case. Harth, the shopkeeper, refused. The case went to trial before Vitale.

When Harth was called to the witness stand he tried to tell the circumstances under which he had been called to the telephone in the store next door, but Magistrate Vitale cut short his testimony. The complainant, he said, being out of the store, obviously did not know anything about what happened when he was away. Vitale asked the assistant district attorney whether he had any witnesses who could tell what occurred, and Krakauer, the next door neighbor, was called.

"What do you know about this case?" he was asked.

"I saw this complainant come into my place, and I told my brother there must be something wrong."

Kaplan, the lawyer, jumped to his feet. "I object to the latter part of that answer," he said, "and I move to strike it out."

"Motion granted," the magistrate answered.

"Go ahead," said the prosecutor.

"I went out of the store 15 or 20 seconds after he came in and I looked into the complainant's store," continued the witness.

"What did you find when you looked in there?" he was asked.

"I saw this defendant in the act of pushing the register drawer closed, with his hands full of money," the shopkeeper testified. "He just put that in his pocket as I looked in."

"Did you see this defendant taking the money out of the register?" he was asked.

"Yes," he replied. "It wasn't right in the register—his hand. I didn't see him take it out of the register, but I seen him with his hands full of money closing the drawer."

"I move to strike out the last part of that answer," said Kaplan, the lawyer.

"Strike it out," said the magistrate. He turned to the arresting officer, Hannigan. "Have you anybody that saw the defendant taking the money out of the register, officer?

"No," said Hannigan.

"Case dismissed," said Vitale.

Altho the dinner in the Roman Gardens was explained and interpreted in various ways by various persons concerned in it, and altho each succeeding explanation served only to deepen the mystery, and elicit jeers from a skeptical press, Vitale had to go. He had betrayed the system by which he lived, in all its nakedness, to the eyes of the public. More notables than Vitale were living by that alliance of politics and crime; and it was up to the beneficiaries to silence outcries and to offer up scapegoats.

One of these scapegoats was the Detective Johnson who had lost his gun and had it returned to him. With the newspapers clamoring for an explanation, the police department, as representative of the administration of Mayor Walker, had its chance to tell what it was all about. The department seized that chance at the departmental trial of Detective Johnson.

Inspector Joseph J. Donovan, chief of the criminal detection bureau, mounted the stand. The whole affair, according to Inspector Donovan, was due to the anxiety of a welching gangster to get back into his possession a written contract he had signed with some professional killers from Chicago to wipe out Frankie Yale and Frank Marlow. These imported killers from Chicago had done their work well, for a fee of $30,000, as stipulated in the contract.

Then, according to the only police department version of the Roman Gardens banquet ever made public, the man who had hired those two killings performed reneged upon his written bargain. That man was named as Ciro Terranova. Terranova, according to the police, paid the killers from Chicago an advance on account of $5,000. When they killed Yale and Marlow, and demanded the other $25,000, he declined to pay. The Chicago killers, the police said, then threatened to turn the murder contract over to the police.

At this juncture, said Inspector Donovan, Terranova sent word to Chicago that he would like to see that contract, just to refresh his memory, as he could not remember signing any. The killers were notified that if they or their representatives would bring it to a dinner in the Roman Gardens, and Ter-

1 cup canned or cooked tomatoes (drained)
1 cup tomato juice (from drained tomatoes)

Mix flour with salt, pepper and paprika. Pound flour mixture into steak, then cut into serving pieces. Brown meat in hot melted Spry in skillet and place in casserole. Brown onions lightly in Spry in which meat was browned and place over meat. Add drained tomatoes to meat.

Add remainder of flour mixture to Spry in skillet and blend thoroughly. Add tomato juice and cook until thick and smooth, stirring constantly. Pour sauce over meat in casserole. Cook, covered, in moderate oven (375° F.) 1 hour. Uncover and cook 1 hour longer, or until tender. Serves 4.

See what wonderful flavor this "economy dish" has. Purer Spry blends the tangy seasonings together, distributes their savory goodness through every morsel. Do all your frying with Spry. Use Spry for tender, flaky pastry, too — delicate, delicious cake!

(All measurements in this recipe are level.)

Bake with Spry, too. Spry cakes are lighter cakes!

"AN' FOLKS, you get these lighter cakes with less work," says Aunt Jenny. "For Spry creams so easily. That's one of the three extra advantages it brings you. Read about 'em below, at right.

"Notice Spry's gleamin' whiteness. Spry looks purer an' it is! Fries without unpleasant smell or smoke an' foods are so delicate-tastin'. Spry pastry an' cakes are, too. You'll love 'em. Get Spry today. It's been top of the class for quality right from the start!"

Looking at Hollywood with Ed Sullivan

Bette Davis, right, and Geraldine Fitzgerald in a scene from a Goulding "tear jerker"—"Dark Victory."

Edmund Goulding—"Mr. Versatility"

Hollywood.

SOME CRITICS use stars to rate pictures critically; thus a four-star picture means that it is extra good. Hollywood, however, has switched this idea in pictures where Director Edmund Goulding is involved. His pictures are rated as three-handkerchief or four-handkerchief flickers, because no director in the industry has so boomed the sales of the handkerchief makers. Not that Goulding is an indiscriminate tear jerker, but it so happens that his "Dark Victory," his "The Old Maid," his "White Banners," and his remake of "One Way Passage" have been calculated to make women sob lustily. Perhaps his forte for this sort of thing is explained by the fact that his wife, Dancer Marjorie Moss, was doomed to early death. Certainly that has influenced his talent, but actually he always must have had the sensitive perception that distinguishes all of his work.

And when you say all of his work you cover a wide range of activities. Goulding is director, writer, and song writer, a brilliant wit and raconteur, and articulate on any subject that you care to introduce. His song "Love, Your Magic Spell Is Everywhere" was something he penned for Gloria Swanson's "The Trespasser." He does that sort of amazing things as part of his routine duties. He turned out "Dancing Mothers" in seven days. He was responsible for Richard Barthelmess' hugest success, "Tol'able David."

Just how many stories he has sold to the movies is a matter of record, but how many stories he has never completed is beyond calculation. Over a studio commissary table, Goulding swiftly outlines a story idea and a producer eagerly purchases it in this oral synopsis form. The task then is to get hold of Goulding to finish it, because he forgets them as quickly as he conceives them.

You can always tell a big man by the way he acts toward the little fellow, and his bigness can be gauged by his considerate treatment of the extras who work in his pictures. The extras give him everything they've got, because he makes them feel they are as important to the picture as the stars, and he always takes time out to explain the scene to them. Directing a large group for a scene in "Till We Meet Again," he told them: "There are so many of you here today that it would be impossible to tell you individually what you should do. You know how to act. You've all experienced similar situations in your own lives. All I ask is that you act naturally, and even if you're hungry, don't knock over the camera and lights when you make a dash for the food. Remember, there's plenty more where this came from." At another time, before filming a scene with 150 extras, he addressed them: "Ladies and gentlemen: Remember you are all important actors and actresses in this scene. Whether it is good or bad depends on you." Where most directors would have had to reshoot the scene a dozen or more times, he got a good scene the very first try.

He always comes to work in a yachting outfit, tho he doesn't own a yacht. His double-breasted blue coat with the brass buttons is a familiar sight at Warners'. He addresses all male players as "old boy" and women as "darling" or "sweetheart." He calls his cameraman "boss." When he is directing a picture he supplies every smoker in the company every morning with a cigar. He uses psychology with actors.

Goulding is an 18-hour-a-day man. His alarm clock wakes him up at 5:45 a. m., and he is at the studio by 7 a. m. Long before the actors arrive he's on the set, supervising preparations, directing the placing of camera and lights, and going over the script. He has his office on the set. It consists of a roped-off space in which are a long table and half a dozen straight-backed chairs. On the table is a sign, "Please Keep Off the Table." He conducts rehearsals and story conferences and also does script rewriting in the "office." His private secretary, Louise Stuart, is always on duty in the "office," ready to take dictation, type letters, or take memos from Goulding on an idea for a screen story, an advertising campaign, or any other of the 57 varieties of brainstorm he may get.

He received his training in the theater with Sir Herbert Tree at His Majesty's theater in London. He worked with the great personages of the stage—Ellen Terry, Mrs. Pat Campbell, and Constance Collier. When he came to Hollywood he wrote the screen plays for "Dante's Inferno," "The Fool," "The Man Who Came Back," and other silent screen classics. His career was interrupted by the World war and he served thruout with the British forces, seeing a lot of action in France. Goulding is the man who persuaded King George to write a letter to every American soldier arriving in England to make him forget his homesickness for America. And before the war was over he founded the English Speaking union, which consisted of billeting American doughboys in British homes during leaves from the front, thereby cementing the sentimental ties.

Goulding and his wife, whose death may have influenced his talent.

Among his lesser works, comparatively, were "Reaching for the Moon," Douglas Fairbanks Sr.'s first big talking success, which Goulding directed, and wrote in collaboration with Irving Berlin; "Rip Tide," Norma Shearer's big success, which he wrote and directed; Nancy Carroll's biggest hit, "The Devil's Holiday," which he wrote, directed, and for which he composed the music; and "Sally, Irene, and Mary," which he merely directed.

In photographing a picture he uses what he calls the newsreel method. He doesn't pose his actors or restrict them too rigidly with chalk marks indicating where they must halt at a given point in a scene. He has the camera follow the actors, and if a hand comes too close to the camera lens or some one moves a bit out of focus he believes it only contributes to the modern news photo idea of realism. The result is a sort of motion picture candid camera photography.

Goulding explains that extracting tears is a science. You can turn them on or off like a spigot, provided you have a capacity for feeling and an understanding of the emotions that produce tears. He believes the reason he's been successful with tear-evoking dramas such as "Dark Victory" and "Till We Meet Again" is that he doesn't permit the heroine to feel sorry for herself. It's sound psychology and something to which the sympathy seekers in general should give a little thought!

VOICE OF THE MOVIE FAN

Letters published in this department should be written on one side of the paper. If you wish a personal reply please inclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Dear Mae Tinée: Please print this open letter to Universal Pictures and the team of Dunne and Boyer in your Voice of the Movie Fan column.

We are a group who so enjoyed "When Tomorrow Comes" that we feel you should make a sequel to it. The picture had many unfinished story possibilities in it—for instance, Miss Dunne had a fine singing voice, Mr. Boyer was a concert pianist. Why not carry the story on from the present ending and have her go on to fame and fortune as a concert singer and eventually have them booked on the same program?

We felt that the wife (marvelously played by Barbara O'Neil) would eventually jump off the liner or from some tall building—anyway, couldn't this be arranged? At any rate, a sequel with a happy ending. How about it, Mae Tinée? Hopefully yours,

IRIS MAITLAND.

Editor's note: Attention, Universal Studios!

Dear Miss Tinée: I recently went to a good movie where I saw the picture "Green Hell." In that picture there appeared a very beautiful and attractive girl by the name of Joan Bennett (I must adore her a lot). Please if it is possible print a picture of her and also a few facts about her. Thanking you and hoping I haven't bored you so very, very much, I am, very truly, SEVER NANES.

JOAN BENNETT

Editor's note: Joan is the daughter of Richard Bennett and Adrienne Morrison. Constance is her sister. She was born in Palisades, N. J., Feb. 27, 1910, has blue eyes, and weighs 110 pounds. Her hair, naturally blonde, she now wears black. She's now Mrs. Walter Wanger. A picture of her? Sure!

Dear Miss Tinée: Having seen Roy Rogers, the cowboy actor, I've been wondering what his address is, and a few more things about him. Being very fond of cowboys and horses, I love to write to the cowboys. I am 13 and in eighth grade. BETTY MAE WEAVER.

Editor's note: Well! I reckon you'll be going west, young woman, one of these days! Glad to help you out. Mr. Rogers was born in Cody, Wyo., Nov. 5, 1912. He's 5 feet 10¾ inches tall and weighs 155 pounds. He's with Republic Pictures.

Disorder in the Courts!

ranova saw his signature upon it, he would pay the $25,000.

An agent of the Chicago killers was thereupon sent to the dinner, carrying the precious contract, and Terranova staged the whole holdup to get it back in his possession.

Terranova was arrested, in fact, and charged with the holdup, but after the storm of public concern died down, the racketeer was released.

How Vitale was able to return the gun which the bandits took away from Detective Johnson is perfectly patent. He was to a certain degree a member of the gang involved in the holdup, and by the exigencies of politics in the Tepecano Democratic club, of which he was an officer, the ally within the system of civil government itself of those criminals against which that government is supposed to protect the citizen.

His degree of exposed turpitude was such that the appellate division threw him off the magistrates' bench, but he was left still a member of the bar, and as such an officer of the courts. He is a practicing lawyer in New York today.

A lawyer and a politician. How lightly the lawyer-politicians held that ouster of their pal from the magistrates' bench by the appellate division was evidenced June 8, 1930, three months after he had been shaken loose from his gown. Another dinner in honor of Vitale was given on that date by the Federation of Italian-American Democratic clubs. No gunmen held up that affair, and perhaps there were guaranties before it occurred that no gunmen would.

For among the notables at the speakers' table, turned out to do honor to his ousted magistrate, the pal and protector of thieves and murderers, were Secretary of State Edward J. Flynn, General Sessions Judge John J. Freschi, the late Supreme Court Justice Salvatore A. Cotillo, Supreme Court Justice Louis A. Valente, Magistrate Joseph Raimo, Magistrate Thomas Aurelio, and ex-Magistrate Delagi.

THOUSANDS HAIL WONDERS OF NEW TEEL LIQUID WAY TO BEAUTIFY TEETH

Discovery of Revolutionary New Dentifrice Cleansing Agent Hailed Marvel of Modern Science

Works Utterly Without Abrasives; Can't Scratch Tooth Enamel

EVERYWHERE thousands hail the wonders of Teel—quit tooth pastes, powders for this amazing new liquid dentifrice.

The four-year development of the scientists of the famous Procter & Gamble Research Laboratories, Teel is revolutionary in principle—in action. Not powder. Not paste. Utterly free from pumice, grit. No abrasives whatever. No acid. No bleach. Entirely new.

A Revolutionary New Idea

Teel's beautifying action results from a remarkable discovery. A patented, new, super-cleansing, foaming agent. Not soap—yet multiplies over 30 times in the mouth! In all but certain exceptional cases, dingy, film-dulled teeth brushed daily the Teel way appear whiter, brighter, more beautiful.

Wholly non-abrasive, Teel is not only safe for enamel. But marvelously smooth for gum massage. Many claim for it extra advantages of a mouthwash—teeth "feel" so amazingly clean; mouth gloriously refreshed.

To Help Avoid Bad Breath

Teel's super-charged tiny bubbles sweep, surge, foam over enamel—between teeth. To help brush get out decaying food particles, cause of much bad breath. Thus, Teel helps avoid this offense. Your breath sweeter. Safer.

Then too, the Teel way is so economical. Only a few drops required. Thickened, will not roll off brush. No mess. No waste. Often a month's brushings in the 10¢ size.

Get Teel today from drug, department or 10¢ stores. Brush your teeth morning and night. Visit your dentist regularly for check-up. With this proper care, see how much more beautiful your teeth look.

Teel FOR TEETH

Proper dental care can make a lot of difference in the beauty and "clean feel" of your teeth. See for yourself!

NEW Wonder-Liquid Takes Place of TOOTH PASTE and POWDER

Contains no pumice, grit or abrasives of any kind. Cannot scratch tooth enamel. Safe for gum massage.

Tests Prove... that even if you could get an ordinary burner FREE you'd be money ahead to buy a TIMKEN OIL BURNER

TIMKEN OIL HEAT IS A BETTER BUY AT ANY PRICE

The Timken Wall-Flame Oil Burner (above) has long been recognized as the quality leader in the oil burner industry . . . the last word in automatic home heating equipment.

Now, recent tests by Timken Dealers show it is also the most economical burner to operate.

Actual "before-and-after" records in homes previously equipped with other burners prove Timken Wall-Flame Burners save up to 25% on fuel and electric costs over ord'nary burners.

The reason: The Timken Wall-Flame Burner is basically better. It places the blue-hot Wall-Flame right in the firebox so the furnace or boiler can absorb its LIVE HEAT. It has a patented Chromium Steel Flame-Rim that gets more heat from each drop of oil. It is extra quiet, extra dependable because it has only one moving part (which even oils itself).

If you want to save more than the cost of your burner during the next few years . . . if you want the utmost in comfort, convenience and cleanliness—if you want more for your money—buy a Timken Wall-Flame Oil Burner NOW. Have it installed in your present furnace or boiler this Spring—pay nothing till Fall.

"Thats Where My Money Goes" - 2

RAYNER, DALHEIM & CO. MUSIC PRINTERS CHICAGO

A NEW BAND on the horizon is that of Ken Harris. Now playing on what might be called the resort circuit, Harris is forging his way into select circles with a type of instrumentation he calls "tone style"—designed to weave an organlike richness of sound into the syncopated rhythm pattern of modern dance music.

Harris comes naturally by his flair for conducting an orchestra. His father, James Harris, directed a band during the World war. Two sailors, right handy with musical instruments, frequently came to "sit in" with the band. Their names were Paul Whiteman and Rudy Wiedoeft.

HERE ARE THE WORDS TO "THAT'S WHERE MY MONEY GOES"

1—Dick Davis ran a barber shop, the swellest in the town,
And shaved the aristocracy for many miles around.
He had ten men all hustling and working 'round the place,
While money kept a-coming in from scraping every face;
But on one cloudy afternoon his help went on a strike.
Said they: "Dick, where's our wages, why don't you treat us right?
We've been a-working for you, yes, very near a year.
You say you have no money, Dick; where did it disappear?"

2—Now, Dick, he is a worried man, the barbers want his life.
They just found where his money goes, he spends it on his wife.
The other day a real swell girl came down the thorofare,
Which made a lot of sporty boys all tip their hats and stare.
Just then Dick Davis walked around as proud as he could be,
And to them sporty fellows said, "She belongs to me.
I bought that hat and diamonds, and also all them clothes,
But now she's gone a-shopping, so that's where my money goes."

CHORUS—Why, boys, my money goes to buy my wifey's clothes;
I buy her everything to keep her in style.
She's worth her weight in gold, this little lady;
So, boys, that's where my money goes.

Like father, like son; the younger Harris organized a high school orchestra. He found himself directing the group over the piano keys. The band played numerous high school dances in Vallejo, Cal., and the boys eventually decided that it would be a sensible thing to make music their careers.

Engagements around Vallejo kept them in demand until the local hotel tendered Harris his first contract. The big break came when Warner Brothers' radio station spotted them on a west coast network.

With eight years' experience as an orchestra leader behind him and with several of his original band members still in the pit, Harris moved eastward with his "tone style" music and immediately caught the fancy of Gus Edwards, who has fathered many a budding theatrical career. Now he's on the way up.

That's where HIS money comes from.

For Height of Beauty—S-t-r-e-t-c-h!

Here Are Simple Exercises That Have Been Designed to Increase Stature

By ANTOINETTE DONNELLY

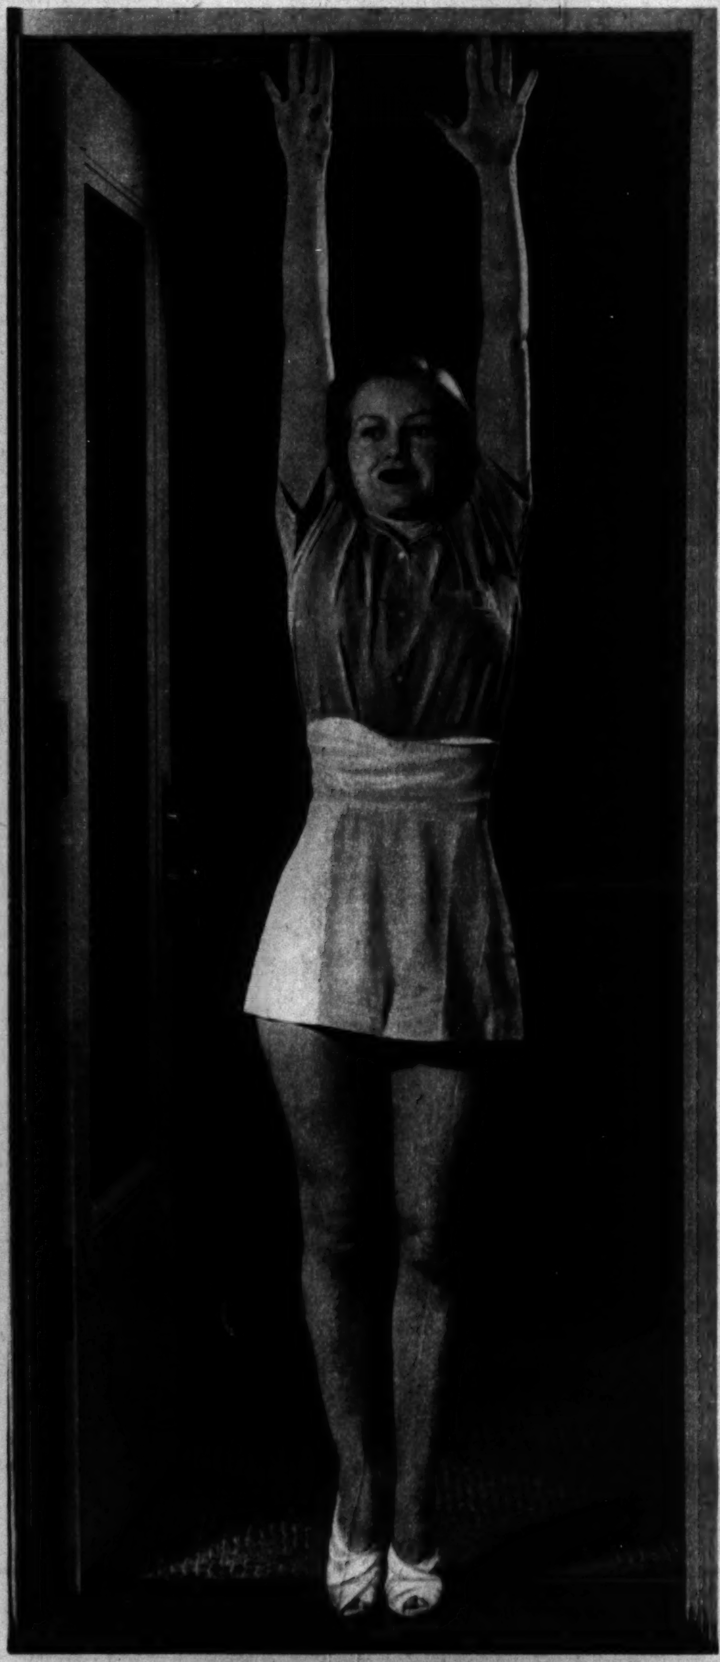
(Copyright: 1940: News Syndicate, Inc.)



EXERCISE NO. 1

AN EXPERIMENT that has long been in my mind has just been completed with more satisfying results than expected. (Expectations ran high before I got to work on it.)

I wanted to see if that feverishly desired height small women crave couldn't be accomplished by other than spike-heel elevation.

Yes, it is to you girls of 5 feet 1, 2, or 3 that I point a way of adding inches to your height in a manner that's bound to make you lovelier to look at.

Two months ago I stood a certain young woman of 18 up against the wall in her three-inch heels and measured her height first with her high heels on and in the slumped position which was her ordinary habit. The shoes were removed and in her stocking feet again this young woman, whom we shall call Peg for convenience, was measured, but after she had raised her chest, pulled in her abdomen, and lifted her head tall, as a head should be carried, with the chin held level, not uptilted. According to the strict measurement tally this body straightening alone made a difference of exactly one inch in height. Mind you, an inch taller with the shoes off and the body held erect than with the high heels on!

Fine and good so far, but Peg had a terrible time trying to hold herself correctly and walk in the manner which lent her the additional height. It was a strain. It might be said here, as with so many, many small young women who put their faith in the foot-damaging high heels, that her walk was that of an oldish woman; no spring of youth in it whatsoever; a sort of "clog lifting" with every step; no such thing as sole flexibility, which is one of the delightful characteristics of youth.

Well, in line with today's physical instruction advance in posture correction, it was realized that telling Peg to "stand up straight" was not the proper approach. Something had to be done to strengthen the spine, to strengthen the muscles of chest and abdomen, and to give flexibility to foot and leg. So Peg was put under oath, so to speak, to perform certain exercises daily with that end in view, at the same time checking and rechecking herself thruout the day on her former slumping trend.

EXERCISE NO. 2

And, believe it or not, but please do believe it, she measures today, after two months of work on herself, 1⅛ inches taller. Her original height was 5 feet 1, today 5 feet 2⅛. She's wearing smart shoes, but shoes she can wiggle her toes in, with heels in which she's not pitched forward, throwing her body out of alignment, as heels do.

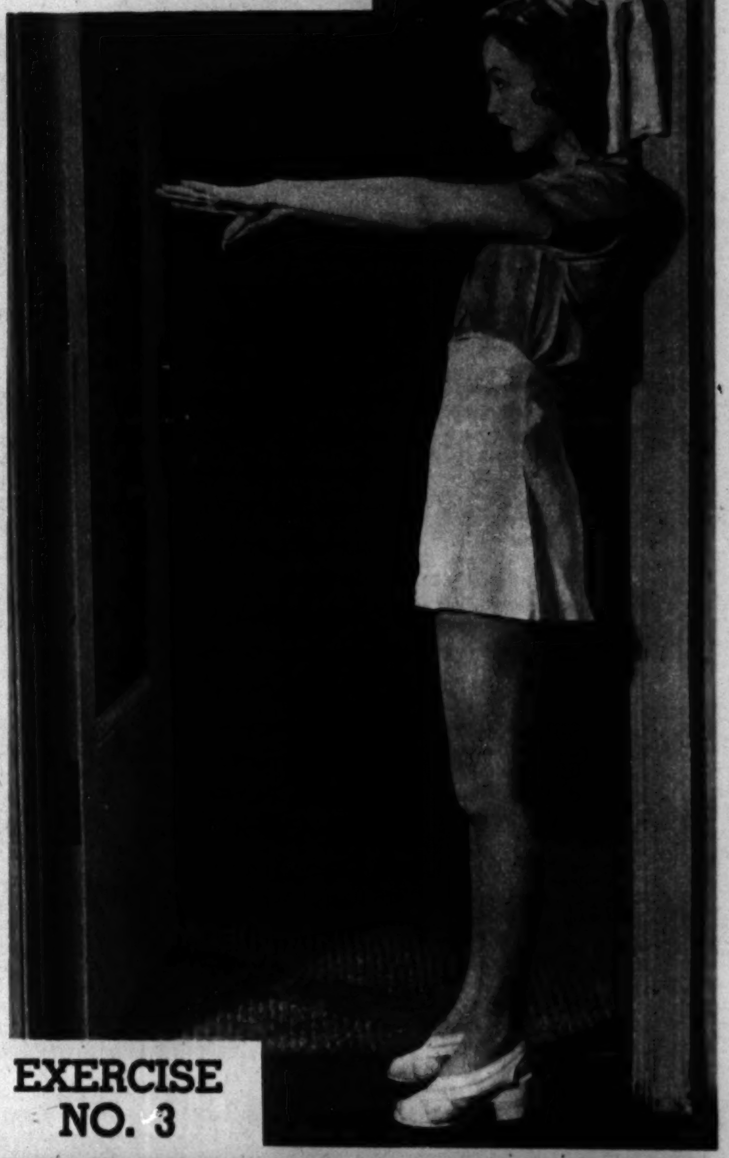
Stretching was the principle upon which all exercises were founded.

No. 1—This is a simple doorway stretch. Choose a doorway, the top of which can barely be reached at first. Begin with hands forward, raise them high, high, higher, coming up on the toes and reaching for the top of the high doorway. Relax. Repeat. Relax. Repeat.

No. 2—Flat against a wall surface, with chin in; the trick is to climb the wall with the head. This involves keeping head, shoulders, and derriere close to the wall and stretching up and up and up with the head. Ten times at a session in the beginning was ordered, with increase to 20, relaxing between each wall stretch. In doing this you get the feeling that some one is lifting you up by the ears.

No. 3—This exercise was ordered for back muscle strengthening and back straightening, with particular value lent the back of the neck and its straighter support. With head against wall (a folded towel for protection) and shoulders flat against wall, feet forward 18 inches and arms extended front, the derriere is lowered to the wall and brought forward again, but with no displacement of original position of head and shoulders. Forward, back; forward, back. Twenty times.

For a bit of relaxation between the exercise movements Peg bent forward from the waist, letting arms fall down in front, but all muscles relaxed. Then a stretch down with the hands on 1, a little further down on 2, further on 3, and floor on 4, if she could make it. Then she swung the arms up in front and on up and up until overhead, but stretching on this up movement of hands and arms.



EXERCISE NO. 3

From Nature's Palette

● Full color pictures of the plants and trees mentioned here are reproduced on page one of today's Picture Section.

● The lilac, familiar in America since colonial days, is native to Europe and Asia and is one of the oldest of the cultivated shrubs. It was brought to New England by early colonists and spread westward across the country with the settlers in covered wagons. Even today many old homesites are marked only by clumps of lilac bushes, planted years ago beside pioneer doorways. The lilac blooms profusely and is exceedingly tolerant of soils and exposures. There are many varieties with brilliant and fragrant blossoms. The blooms usually are at their best in Chicagoland about the middle of May.

● One of the most distinctive members of the maple family is the white maple, also called river maple. Looking at a tree of this species from a distance may cause one to mistake it for one of the more common soft maples, but the first gust of wind which turns the leaves upward ends all question about the tree's identity. The under sides of the leaves are silvery white, and these silver banners wavering in the wind make the white maple one of the most outstanding members of this tree family.

● One of the tallest and best known of the trees which grow in moist ground and bottom lands is the balsam poplar. Often growing to a height of 80 to 90 feet, it grows best along the borders of streams and lakes and other areas where it can absorb much moisture. Many years ago fishermen in the Great Lakes area used the outer bark of this tree as a substitute for cork to float their nets. The wood also may be used for making paper pulp.

This Lustre-Revealing Shampoo
Brings out the Glamour in You

UP TO 33% MORE NATURAL LUSTRE

Revealed In Hair By This Glorifying Shampoo

Dramatically Highlights Your Beauty and Charm

YOUR mirror tells a thrillingly different story after you try this magic-like shampoo! Even dull and drab-looking hair suddenly reveals untold beauty and natural satiny sheen you may never suspect is hidden there!

Called Special Drene—it actually reveals up to 33% more natural lustre and brilliance of color in hair. And does it easily, quickly! Without requiring any special shampooing skill. Nor tedious rinsing with lemon or vinegar. And helps leave your hair manageable after washing.

Lustre-Meter tests. At Procter and Gamble's experimental beauty shop—women had one side of their hair shampooed with Special Drene, the other side with a fine soap. When examined under a scientific Lustre-Meter, the Special Drene washed side clearly showed up to 33% more lustre and brilliance than the soap washed hair. And the hair felt smoother and silkier, too!

No wonder women by thousands have switched from soaps to this amazing shampoo. For Special Drene uses a revolutionary, patented cleansing ingredient—that is not just a soap. Yet foams instantly into creamy lather. Sweeps away dirt, grease and loose dandruff. And most amazing—does not leave dulling film (bathtub ring) on your hair as soaps do.

Many leading hairstylists recommend Special Drene as an ideal shampoo before expert beauty services—permanent waving, tinting and finger waving.

Economical—dilute it! Special Drene gives 5 times more lather than soap in hardest water. So a single tablespoonful—mixed with ¼ cup of water—is enough for a thorough shampoo. Gives rich suds that spread quickly and rinses easily from the hair.

Why not look your loveliest? Switch now—as thousands have—to this sensational Special Drene Shampoo. Get it in the blue and yellow package at drug, department and 10¢ stores today! See how thrillingly it glorifies your hair!

vians less quarrelsome. After the 11th century, altho civil wars still raged among them, they virtually quit raiding other lands.

Norway, because of its barren, mountainous terrain, was a land of poor prospects. Sweden possessed more fertile soil and thus was adaptable to farming. Denmark, smallest of the three countries, but with rich agricultural lands and clever merchants, early took the lead among the three states, its geographical position permitting it to control the entrance to the Baltic sea. The Danes, in early days being more numerous than the Swedes or the Norwegians, naturally dominated the Scandinavian scene.

The death in the 11th century of Knut the Great (Canute), king of the Danish empire of Denmark, Norway, and England, caused this empire to break apart, after which the Danes concentrated on expansion along the Baltic. Gradually, under warrior kings, Denmark became the most powerful nation in the Baltic region, finally asserting its mastery over not only Norway but Sweden as well.

• • •

It was thru the Union of Kalmar that the three countries were united under the headship of Denmark—a union engineered by Queen Margaret of Denmark, widow of King Hakon of Norway and a member of the still-existent ruling house of Oldenburg. In 1397 the youthful Eric of Pomerania, grandnephew of Queen Margaret, was crowned king of Denmark, Norway, and Sweden in the Swedish fortified city of Kalmar. Altho Eric wore the crown, Queen Margaret, who was a forceful person, actually ruled for him up to the time of her death in 1412.

When the domination of Denmark was established over the whole of Scandinavia thru the Union of Kalmar, the extent of which is shown in the first of the four colored maps on page one of this section, Denmark had a population of 750,000, Sweden of 450,000, and Norway of 250,000—a total less than half that of the city of Chicago today.

War Returns to Land of the Vikings

The land that now is Finland was a part of the Union, having been Swedish territory prior to the founding of the Union.

Norway and Sweden soon broke away from the Union, and in 1448 it was dissolved, but nine years later it was revived and the three nations were reunited under Christian I. of Denmark The hold upon Norway thereafter until the 19th century was easily retained, since the Norwegians thruout most of the time were too weak numerically to resist. This Danish king maintained only a weak hold on Sweden, however, and altho the Kalmar Union was renewed after his death, the Swedes were in frequent revolt. A later Danish king, Christian II., was a ruthless ruler. He crushed all resistance in Sweden. Historians have placed upon him the blame for the Stockholm massacre, in which more than a hundred important citizens of the Swedish city were beheaded in the public square. Ever since that time the Swedes have referred to this Danish sovereign as "the Tyrant."

After occupying the throne of the three countries for 11 years Christian finally was forced to quit his job and flee to Holland. This was in 1523, the same year that a young Swedish nobleman, Gustavus Ericsson, better known as Gustavus Vasa, definitely broke the Danish yoke so far as Sweden was concerned. Gustavus became king of Sweden, founding the famous Vasa dynasty, which lasted until 1818, when Marshal Bernadotte of France came to the throne as Charles XIV. The house of Vasa gave Sweden 15 separate rulers. Altho Sweden, with the crowning of Gustavus, now was free and independent, Norway remained under Danish control.

At this stage of history the reformation began to extend its influence over Scandinavia. Denmark and Norway cast their lots with Protestant Germany at the start of the Thirty Years' war, presently were defeated at Lutter by the Catholic forces of Tilly, and were forced to withdraw from the conflict. As the Thirty Years' war drew near its end the Danes became involved in a war with Sweden. Victorious on land and sea, the Swedes forced the Danes in 1645 to cede to them the large island of Gothland and a number of lesser islands and to relinquish their claims to Bremen and Verden on the North sea. Soon afterward Denmark joined a league against the Swedish King Charles X., but this sovereign, by a surprise move, overran all of the mainland of Denmark. Thereupon the Danes were compelled to cede to Sweden the island of Bornholm. That was in 1658, and for a long while afterward Denmark took no important part in European affairs.

Returning to Sweden and the founding of the royal house of Vasa by Gustavus I., we find that the Swedes rapidly were rising in power and prestige. It was during the reign of Gustavus that the reformation was introduced into Sweden. Gustavus was definitely a reformist. After his death his eldest son came to the throne as Eric XIV., but he was deposed and murdered by his brother, who succeeded as John III. This new monarch obtained for his son, Sigismund, the crown of Poland, and after the death of his father Sigismund became also king of Sweden. The job of ruling two countries was too big for Sigismund. While he was busy in Poland his uncle seized the Swedish throne, setting himself up as King Charles IX.

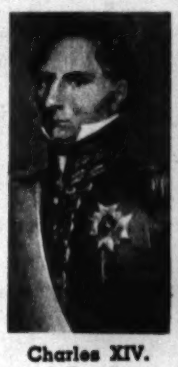
One of Charles' chief claims to fame lay in the fact that he was the father of the famous King Gustavus II., commonly called Gustavus Adolphus. First to occupy the attention of Gustavus Adolphus was a war with Denmark; then he engaged in a conflict with the Russians, which ended in 1617 when Moscow ceded to Sweden the territories of Ingria and Karelia. Almost at once Gustavus then began a war with Poland, which won for him certain cities to the west of Livonia and brought his frontier farther south along the Baltic coast. The Thirty Years' war, previously mentioned in connection with the Danes, drew the attention of Gustavus. He intervened in it on the side of the Protestant forces, landed an army in Pomerania, and shattered the power of the Catholic league when he defeated Tilly at Leipsig. At the battle of Lützen he soundly whipped Wallenstein, only to lose his life on the battlefield. This was in 1632.

Thru his ability as a conqueror Gustavus Adolphus was able to expand Sweden territorially and to put it in the position of a first-class power. The second map on page one shows the Scandinavian countries when Sweden was at the height of its prestige, a short while after the death of Gustavus.

• • •

Gustavus Adolphus had been dead only 22 years when Charles X. came to the Swedish throne, to find the country near bankruptcy from the expense of maintaining a huge army. He decided that the only way to keep up a military machine profitably was to employ it in war. He therefore resolved to conquer all the Baltic lands. Already Sweden held Finland, Karelia, Ingria, Estonia, and much of Livonia, besides Bremen and Verden, west of Denmark, and western Pomerania. Charles attacked Poland first, precipitating a general war that before long involved much of northern and eastern Europe. Finally, after much fighting, a peace was arrived at in which Poland ceded a part of Livonia to Sweden. Then the Swedes turned on Russia and as a result of their successes won important Swedish districts long held by Denmark. By this time Sweden was completely exhausted from too much war.

During the reign of Charles XI., who was the son of Charles X., Sweden was in a military decline. A Swedish army was defeated at Fehrbellin and all of Pomerania was lost. Soon, however, France compelled Brandenburg, which had defeated the Swedes, to restore Swedish Pomerania. When Charles XII., son of Charles XI., came to the throne a plan was afoot among European powers to partition Sweden. But Charles was courageous and clever. He made an alliance with England and Holland, suddenly invaded Denmark, and compelled that country to sue for peace. The Russians under Peter the Great had invaded one of the Baltic provinces of Sweden, but at the battle of Narva, Charles, with only 8,000 men, defeated 40,000 Russians and put the czar to flight. The Swedes next turned against the Saxons and the Poles and forced them to ask for peace.



Charles XIV. of Sweden

Eventually Charles determined to settle with the Russians for good. He smashed into Russia with a powerful army, but there encountered a terrible winter that did to his army what another dreadful winter did to Bonaparte's army many years later. Finally, at the battle of Poltava, Charles was defeated by the Russians. He met his death at the siege of a town in Norway in 1718, but two years before this virtually all Swedish territories in Germany had been taken away from him.

Sweden ceded to Hanover the territories of Bremen and Verden and abandoned most of its province of Pomerania. After the Russian victories the czar's government restored to Sweden all of Finland and a part of the adjacent Karelia, retaining, however, Ingria, Estonia, Livonia, and the larger portion of Karelia. Sweden, badly beaten and impoverished, held beyond its own frontiers only a small section of Pomerania and the country of the Finns.

After this Sweden played no important rôle in European affairs. When the War of the Austrian Succession broke out France urged the Swedes to attack Russia. This conflict, badly managed by the Swedes, saw the Russians victorious. Again they conquered Finland. Yet they restored to Sweden all but the southern part of the conquered territory. During the remainder of the 18th century Sweden managed to hang on to the small remnant of its outlying possessions—a portion of Pomerania and most of Finland. In 1808, under Gustavus IV., the Swedes once more went to war with the Russians. This conflict terminated with the cession to Russia of all of Finland and the Aland Islands.

• • •

The Swedes, with the former Marshal Bernadotte as their heir apparent, had fought against Napoleon, while the Danes, under Frederick VI., had espoused the Corsican's cause. In the grand settlements that followed the Napoleonic wars Sweden was compensated for the loss of Finland to Russia by being given Norway. But the Norwegians, who had not been consulted in the matter, declared that it was contrary to international law to dispose of an entire kingdom without the consent of its people.

A meeting was convened at Eidsvold, where on May 17, 1814 (126 years next Friday), a constitution, framed upon the basic laws of America and France, was adopted. It made the Norwegian national assembly a single-chamber institution and gave the king no absolute veto or right of dissolution. The Danish governor of Norway, Prince Christian Frederick, was elected king. The Eidsvold meeting is pictured on page one.

This action on the part of the Norwegians caused Bernadotte to invade Norway. There was some minor fighting for a few days, and then the invaders began negotiations with the Norwegians. A convention at Moss proposed that Norway should accept the Swedish king as their sovereign, but that the Eidsvold constitution should remain. Thus came about the personal union of Sweden and Norway, that was not dissolved until 35 years ago, when one of the sons of King Frederick VIII. of Denmark was elected king of Norway and took the name of Haakon VII. The third map on page one shows Scandinavia during the union of Sweden and Norway.

Bernadotte ascended the throne of Sweden in 1818, founding the present ruling house of the country. Gustavus V., the present king, is the fourth in the line from Charles XIV., who was Marshal Bernadotte.

Modern times have brought few territorial changes in the Scandinavian countries. In 1864 the Danes lost to Germany the duchies of Schleswig and Holstein, but as a result of the World war that part of Schleswig predominantly Danish was restored to Denmark.

Another result of the World war was the establishment of the independent republic of Finland, which within recent months has undergone a disastrous war with Russia. The fourth map on page one shows Scandinavia as it is today.

THE TRUTH ABOUT CORNS

WHAT CAUSES THEM · HOW TO GET RID OF THEM

Felt pad (C) relieves pain by removing pressure. Special formula (D) acts on corn, gently loosens it so it can be lifted right out.

• Science shows that corns are caused by pressure and friction which pack a mass of dead cells into a plug whose base presses on sensitive nerves. Home paring only gives temporary relief because it usually affects only the surface—means risk of infection.

But now this scientific method makes it easy to remove corns. Put a Blue-Jay pad neatly over the corn. It relieves pain quickly by removing pressure. The medicated formula gently loosens the corn so it can be lifted right out. Simply by avoiding the pressure and friction which caused your corns, you can prevent their return.

Don't suffer needlessly. Follow the example of millions and get Blue-Jay Corn Plasters today—only 25c for 6.

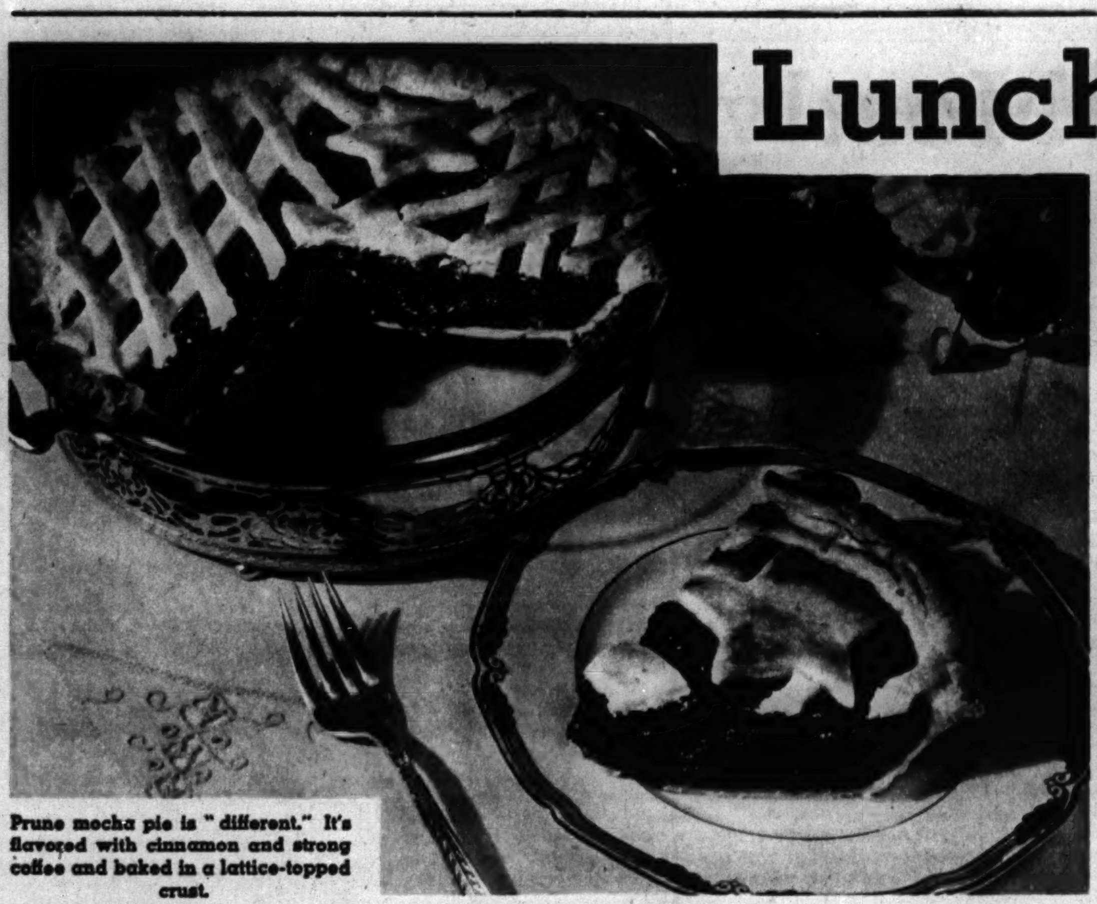
Luncheon Fit for an Epicure



Prune mocha pie is "different." It's flavored with cinnamon and strong coffee and baked in a lattice-topped crust.

Prune Pie Is Last Word on Menu

By MARY MEADE

HERE'S a luncheon menu to delight the heart and the appetite of an epicure: Broiled pineapple scallops; tossed watercress, tomato, cucumber, and green onion salad; hot rolls, prune mocha pie, and milk, tea, or coffee. Because the prune pie is a substantial dessert, it is fitting that the luncheon course itself be fairly light, as it is in this menu plan.

If you haven't some skewers like the ones in the picture, or similar to them, better shop for some, for they're handy for dozens of other foods besides the scallops—cubed meat and mushrooms, for one example.

You'll need long strips of bacon for the skewered scallops and pineapple. And canned pineapple "gems." Place a small, tender scallop and a pineapple chunk at either end of each bacon strip and roll the bacon around them toward the center. Skewer two or three of these bacon-wrapped delectables together and broil them until the bacon is crisp and the scallops are done, turning once during broiling. Broiling will take six minutes or so. Scallops don't need longer cooking than this.

• • •

Cinnamon and strong coffee make the prune pie quite different from the usual prune pie, and certainly no less good to eat.

PRUNE MOCHA PIE

2½ cups cooked prunes
1 cup freshly made strong coffee
¾ cup undiluted evaporated milk
1 cup sugar
¼ cup cornstarch
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon cinnamon
Pastry for double crust

Pit the prunes and cut them into small pieces. Combine with the coffee in a saucepan. Blend milk, sugar, cornstarch, salt, and cinnamon. Add to prunes and coffee and stir until well blended. Cook, stirring constantly, until thick. Cool slightly and pour the mixture into a pastry-lined pie pan. Cover the top of the pie with lattice strips. Bake in a hot oven, 450 degrees, for 15 minutes. Reduce heat to 375 degrees and bake 15 minutes longer.

The lattice strips should be cut before the filling is put into the lower crust, so that once the pastry is filled there is little delay before it goes into the oven. A pastry jagger which may be purchased in the household section of almost any department store may be used to cut the strips if desired. It will give a lacy, scalloped effect to the top of the pie.

Coarsely broken nut meats may be added to the prune pie filling, too, if you like nuts in fruit pies.

Broiled bacon-wrapped scallops and chunks of pineapple on skewers make one of the most delicious of luncheon treats. A tossed vegetable salad is an excellent accompaniment.

Speed Test for Army Planes

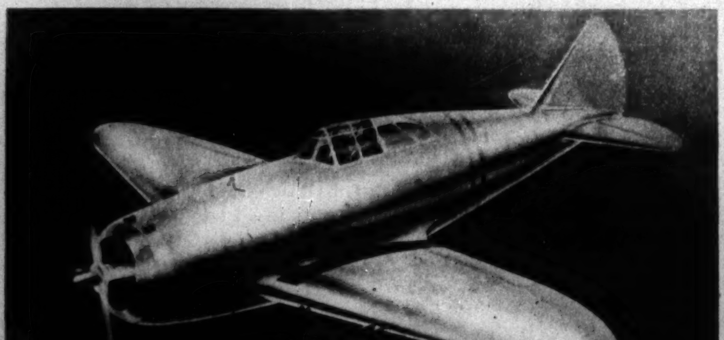
By WAYNE THOMIS

AN INDICATION of the performance that can be expected from the army air corps' newest types of pursuit airplanes—the XP-41, YP-43, and P-44 models, now going into production at the Republic Aircraft corporation's plant at Farmingdale, L. I.—was given a few weeks ago in a flight made from Burbank airport at Los Angeles. The pilot was Jacqueline Cochran, wife of Floyd Odlum, financier. The airplane was a new experimental Republic plane that is a prototype of the even newer army ships.

Jacqueline Cochran and the Republic plane in which she set speed mark.

This ship averaged between 324 and 330 miles an hour for 2,000 kilometers—about 1,243 miles. The timers have not agreed even yet on the exact speed, but they know that the flight established a new world's record for the distance. The best previous speed made under record conditions was 311 miles an hour in the summer of 1939 by two German pilots in the Nazis' best bomber, the Ju-88—with two 1,200-horsepower Junkers motors.

There are many fighting planes in the world capable of 300 to 350 mile an hour speeds.



Artist's sketch of the P-44.

The Germans have three or four pursuit models, the British at least two, and the French two. But all those machines are short-range affairs. Their fuel tanks hold enough gasoline for only 1⅓ hours at full throttle, where they obtain their great speeds. By conserving fuel and cruising at 250 to 280 miles an hour they can stay aloft just under three hours.

The air corps' new XP-41.

But Miss Cochran's ship was in the air for 3 hours 44 minutes 47 seconds on her flight, and she landed with plenty of fuel for at least another hour of operation at the same speed, according to airport attendants. The flight was a round trip between Burbank and a point near Las Vegas, N. M., and it was timed from Mount Wilson. She flew most of the way at 16,000 feet, and it is important to remember that whatever the wind conditions, they did not assist, because she flew almost due east for half way and then reversed her direction, heading back almost due west.

Every air force commander in the world has been demanding a high-performance pursuit plane capable of escorting bombers on missions up to 1,500 miles. Experience in Europe has shown that an escort of fighters is essential if bombers are not to suffer severe beatings from interceptor fighters. Apparently the new Republic ships are the answer to this universal prayer, for Miss Cochran's plane is an intermediate step between the United States army's P-35 pursuit ships and the later models Republic now is building.

The history of Miss Cochran's plane is unusual. It is the No. 13 plane that was the Republic company's experimental ship. According to word from the factory, it was built up piece by piece, tested, changed, and studied as the engineers went about developing the new series of ships. For example, the wings of her ship were built without a fuselage to go with them. They were planned as a design improvement on the P-35 wing.

The fuselage was developed quite independently of the wings when the army asked Republic for an improved fuselage design. It was constructed, submitted to the army for study with a conventional set of P-35 wings, and then it lost these wings one day when the plane was groundlooped at Floyd Bennett field, New York, by Alex Seversky, the former head and the founder of the parent company from which Republic was stemmed.

Subsequently the wings and fuselage were brought together to make the airplane that Miss Cochran borrowed from the factory for her flight.

This wing is a new section, or curve, that was developed by the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics. It is supposed to have superior speed, lift, and stall characteristics. It also is constructed so that the landing gear, instead of being retracted into streamlined blisters that bulge below its lower surface, can be sunk entirely within the wing and perfectly streamlined so that it presents no drag in flight. Also the wings have a wider span, and the dihedral or angle at which they are set in relation to the fuselage was altered to give an unbroken sweep from fuselage to tip.

Housing for the enormous load of fuel carried by Miss Cochran's plane is the entire center wing panel. This is a feature of all Republic planes. This center section is made fuel-tight and self-sealing thru the spraying of the inner surfaces of the section with a rubber compound.

Republic engineers say they can give no details of Miss Cochran's plane nor of the later pursuit types. They say, however, that they are all much larger than the P-35, P-36, and P-40 family of pursuit planes. This group weighed about 6,000 pounds and had wing spans of about 36 feet. The new ships will have greater span and weight.

Primarily this suggests that they will have engines of greater power. While Republic's engineers' lips are sealed, it is learned that the new P-43s and P-44s will have 1,600-horsepower two-row Cyclones and the new double Wasp engines that deliver 1,800 horsepower at 20,000 feet and approximately 2,000 horsepower for takeoff at sea level. With these giant engines the airplanes are expected to have top speeds of about 450 miles an hour at great heights. They also will carry fuel for from 1,100 to 1,500 miles range.

Diagrammatic photo of a typical grain elevator, showing the important working details.

ONE OF THE immediate effects of war is a vastly increased demand upon the grain centers of the world. An invention that has helped make America and Canada the largest wheat producing area in the world is the familiar country grain elevator.

All over the western plains of America, along the railroad tracks in every town, stand grain elevators, sometimes six in a row. Very tall and with their characteristic sloping roofs that descend in steps like a head and shoulders, grain elevators tower like giant wooden Indians above the otherwise unspectacular levelness of plains villages. Despite their utilitarian purpose, they have been so universally accepted and are so dramatic in appearance that they are among America's most significant contributions to architecture.

A question which at once strikes the traveler in the west is: Why is this particular head-and-shoulders form so universal in grain elevator architecture? And what is the practical reason, anyway, for raising grain up so high in a tower?

Probably the best way to tell the story is from the grain producing farmer's point of view. Granaries, or places for storing grain, are probably as vital as any single factor in the economy of the modern world. Without them there could be little or no distribution of daily bread from the sparsely settled agricultural countries to the densely populated industrial regions of the earth. But the old word "granary" is being replaced with "grain elevator," and this invention is much more than merely a place of safe storage. In its modern form in America it provides automatic handling of the grain both in loading and unloading, it gives the grain proper ventilation for long storage, and it enables the needy farmer to get money for his crop at the time of storage rather than requiring him to find a buyer in a flooded market.

Here is the way it works: A farmer drives his truckload of spring wheat to town. He heads straight for one of the tall grain elevators by the railroad tracks and drives up the ramp into the tunnel that goes thru the ground floor of the building. He stops on the scales to have his full truck weighed. The man in the office records the weight, from which the weight of the empty truck will later be deducted to determine how much grain the farmer actually delivered.

Next the farmer opens the back of his truck and lets his grain pour out into a funnel-shaped bin under a grating in the floor of the tunnel. The truck may be still standing on the scales, making it simple to weigh it the second time.

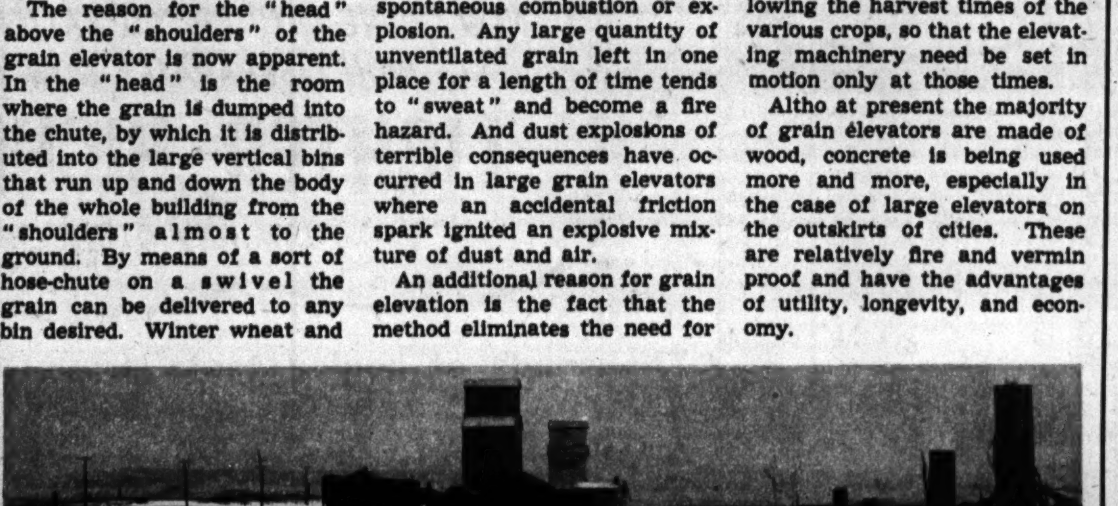
The pipe in the "head" of the elevator that distributes grain to various bins thru openings.

As soon as the bin under the floor is full the elevator machinery is started up. The motive power is usually a gasoline motor, and in some small grain elevators a portable engine is hauled up outside and the mechanical energy transmitted by belt lines. In either case an endless chain of buckets is put into operation, automatically scooping up the grain from the bin under the floor and raising and dumping it into a chute at the very top of the elevator.

The reason for the "head" above the "shoulders" of the grain elevator is now apparent. In the "head" is the room where the grain is dumped into the chute, by which it is distributed into the large vertical bins that run up and down the body of the whole building from the "shoulders" almost to the ground. By means of a sort of hose-chute on a swivel the grain can be delivered to any bin desired. Winter wheat and spring wheat, corn, oats, and barley, each goes to its separate bin. Because the bins are tall and narrow and high in the air, they can be easily ventilated. That is important both to the dryness and good preservation of the grain and to the safeguarding against spontaneous combustion or explosion. Any large quantity of unventilated grain left in one place for a length of time tends to "sweat" and become a fire hazard. And dust explosions of terrible consequences have occurred in large grain elevators where an accidental friction spark ignited an explosive mixture of dust and air.

An additional reason for grain elevation is the fact that the method eliminates the need for power in removing it from storage. Gravity alone forces the grain out of the bins, making it pour out of chutes into box cars or trucks as it is needed at any time of year. Altho power is required in raising grain for storage, the grain is stored during relatively short periods following the harvest times of the various crops, so that the elevating machinery need be set in motion only at those times.

Altho at present the majority of grain elevators are made of wood, concrete is being used more and more, especially in the case of large elevators on the outskirts of cities. These are relatively fire and vermin proof and have the advantages of utility, longevity, and economy.



Utilitarian in every detail, the grain elevator is also a significant architectural feature of the inland American landscape. (Tribune photos by Guy Murchie Jr.)

When Worming for Tape, Round (ascarid) and Hook Worms

You Cannot Worm Your Dog WRONG

—if you follow the sound, "no-guess," commonsense Pulvex Worming Method.

The Pulvex Worming Method (embodied in every package of Pulvex Combination Treatment Worm Capsules) insures your worming your dog properly for those worms . . . even though you've had no worming experience. It is so sure that many breeders of champion dogs say the Pulvex Worming Method is the method the average dog owner should use. Here's why—

Your dog can have Tape, Round (ascarid), Hook or any combination of those worms at the same time. Your dog should, therefore, always be wormed for all those worms whenever you worm him.

Contrary to common belief, no single-type capsule made can expel all those three worms. Two distinct types of capsules must be used. Each package of Pulvex Capsules contains two types of capsules which, when given a few days apart, will expel Tape, Round (ascarid) or Hook Worms—not just one or two kinds of worms.

Avoid worming your pet wrong for those worms. Worm only with Pulvex Capsules. Packaged two ways: for puppies; for dogs. Either type 50c. At Drug, Pet, Dept. stores.

Wrong Diet Big Cause of Illness

WHEN a veterinarian who has spent more than 30 years of active practice in canine medicine makes the statement that about 80 out of 100 cases of sickness in dogs are due to errors in diet, he emphasizes the fact that far too many dog owners are either careless or indifferent to the problem of giving the proper foods to their pets. The man who made this statement was Edwin Reginald Blamey, the veterinarian who writes for the American Kennel Club Gazette. In expanding his statement about errors in diet Blamey added that it's usually the pet dog, living a more or less sedentary life, which has the most trouble with sickness due to improper feeding.

Altho one of the oldest working terrier breeds, the Lakeland terrier is among the latest additions to the dog fancy of the United States and therefore uncommon in homes or shows. It averages about 17 pounds in weight, may be blue, blue and tan, black and tan, mustard, and other colors, and has a hard, dense, wiry coat. This specimen, Ch. Egton Brigit of Howtoun, owned by Mrs. Emma Schultz, won its championship at the Chicago dog show. (Tribune photos.)

The dissertation on feeding the grown dog which Dr. Blamey wrote for the Gazette emphasizes many of the points which this department has discussed for the benefit of novice owners.

The novice dog owner is handicapped from the beginning by the advice given him by the person from whom he buys the pet, says Dr. Blamey. Here are some excerpts from Dr. Blamey's article:

"Too many breeders and almost all dog stores are vague in their directions about diet. The usual answer to the query on feeding is: 'Give him anything. Scraps from the table will do.'

"When a meal is placed before a dog in normal health the animal eats very rapidly. There is an absence of mastication. The food is seized and swallowed. The saliva of a dog is a lubricant and contains very little if any starch-digesting ferment. The bolus of food is only masticated when it is too large to swallow. Even then mastication is only carried on until the mass is softened and shaped properly.

"The teeth and their arrangement in the mouth are suitable only for tearing and softening food. All the dog's teeth are pointed when perfect. Old dogs, which have worn out their teeth on sticks, stones, and bones, frequently present flattened surfaces corresponding to the crowns of the teeth in the human and herbivorous mouth. This is due to unnatural wear and is never a natural condition in freshly erupted teeth.

"The diet of the adult dog should consist mainly of meat. The other articles of diet are mostly roughage. Many old-time dog fanciers hold to the one-meal-a-day method of feeding. I am opposed to such a method, especially for dogs which live a confined city life. I find it much better to feed a dog twice a day, because the stomach is not overcrowded at either feeding and the rest between meals allows the gastro-intestinal glands a chance to recuperate and fill with digestants for the next feeding.

Once known as the pit terrier, pit bull, and the pit bull terrier, the official name of this breed today is the Staffordshire. It represents a cross between bulldogs and terriers. The dog pictured is Smokey II., owned by Mrs. Arthur E. Soden. It was best of breed at a recent large dog show.

"Overfeeding is a common fault among dog owners. Gross overfeeding leads to serious cases of indigestion and should be avoided."

As this column has pointed out many times, dogs have little or no sense when it comes to choosing a food that is good for them, leaving food when they have eaten enough, and selecting fresh foods. Dr. Blamey stresses this point about dogs eating more than they need. He says:

"It is the nature of the dog to eat more than is necessary to balance body waste. This results in a gradual increase in the dog's weight. It gets soft and inactive.

"Frequently a dog will be seen to drink copiously immediately after eating. This should not be allowed, because the water dilutes the heavily burdened gastric secretion in the dog's stomach. If such a condition occurs it is necessary to remove the dog's bowl [of water] until at least half an hour has elapsed."

Blamey's ideas on when to feed are interesting. He says:

"Dogs should be encouraged to rest a while after eating. It is natural for a dog to eat a large meal at night. In my experience the average dog does not care for breakfast, so I always plan to feed twice a day. About one-third the total ration should be given at noon and about two-thirds at 6, 7, or even 8 p. m.

"There is only one time in a dog's life when it is advisable to allow bones. That is during the teething period, from four to six months. When bones are given as an aid to teething it is better to select large ones, such as ribs, knuckles, and large steak bones. Never allow bones from poultry, lamb, or veal. They are all dangerous, even to the point of causing death."

KNOW YOUR CAMERA

By ANDREW B. HECHT, Ph. D.

(Managing Editor, Popular Photography Magazine.)

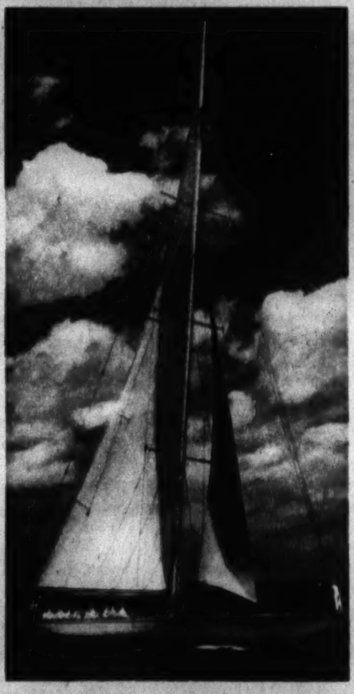
Sailing Time Opens Wide Field for Photographer

ONCE AGAIN sails dot the water front, and the time has come for pictures which are among the most attractive and easiest to take. Sailing boats of all classifications are so highly pictorial in appearance that it is difficult not to photograph them well, so long as you follow a few elementary rules and keep your eyes open for whatever picture subject may present itself to your lens.

For one thing, there is always plenty of light along the water front, so that you will have no difficulty getting a fully exposed negative. On the contrary, you may have to cut down on the light by stopping down the lens diaphragm, by shooting at high shutter speeds, or by using the slower types of film. Box camera owners will do well to concentrate entirely on the slower films, as their cameras lack higher speeds and small diaphragm stops. But they, too, can count on getting good pictures of sailing boats.

The boats are easily accessible and offer an endless variety of picture material. You can photograph them from the end of a pier, from bridges, or, best of all, riding in a boat that is fairly fast and easy to maneuver. You need freedom of movement if you want to photograph the boats from all angles, trying for a variety of lighting effects.

There are certain "natural" types of boat pictures you can aim to get. Not recommended is the so-called "owner's view," a broadside shot of the boat showing plenty of detail, but at the same time giving the effect of a picture from a catalog. When you photograph boats you usually want to get action, and there is no better way of giving the impression of fast action than to shoot the boats at an angle when they are either approaching the camera or going in the opposite direction. An action shot of this kind need not include the entire boat. It can concentrate on just part of the boat, which will appear bigger in the picture and show more detail. In a case like this you had better watch the people on the boat you are snapping. Shoot only if they are concentrating on handling their boat. If they are looking at your camera and waving at you, chances are that the picture will lose in effect.



A yellow filter brought out cloud detail in this yachting shot and darkened the sky for contrasting it against the sails.

Action shots are, of course, not the only boat pictures worth taking. You can get interesting pictures in a lull, or of boats tied up at the pier. When shooting subjects of this kind watch for reflections of the sails and the boats on the water. The quieter the water is the better your reflection picture will be. Some of the most interesting boating pictures don't show the boat itself at all, but only its reflection.

Naturally, sails are the most characteristic thing about a sailing boat, and you will want them to show up to best pictorial advantage. It is not always simple to get sufficient contrast between the sails and the sky. Your best bet is to try for one of two basic effects—show the sails white against a darkened sky, or show them dark against a light background.

To get white sails, photograph them when direct sunlight is hitting the sails. Use a yellow or a red filter. Both darken the sky without darkening the sails, thus helping them to stand out against the sky. The red filter also darkens the water.

If you want dark sails against a light sky you are aiming for a silhouette effect. This calls for shooting against the light, at a time when the boats and their sails stand between your camera and the sun. The best time to get this type of picture is in the late afternoon, when the sun is low.

When taking pictures from a boat in motion you will have to use shutter speeds of 1/100 sec. or faster to get sharp pictures. Otherwise you will get the effect of camera motion, regardless of how steady you hold the camera. On choppy water you may have to use speeds of 1/500 sec. or higher.

Protect your camera against spray. Some photographers cover the entire camera with a transparent bag, letting the lens jut out. The lens itself can be protected to some extent with a lens shade, which you should use anyhow to cut out some of the light reflected by sky and water. Wipe the lens frequently, and, of course, don't drop your camera overboard.

An extreme low angle serves to eliminate other than nautical background from this picture. Tilting the subject suggests motion. (Posed by Virginia Grey.)

Gems of American Eloquence

● American eloquence has played an important part in the history of our country. From a long list of famous speeches The Tribune is selecting gems of American eloquence which are being presented in this, the Graphic Section, every Sunday. The content of these speeches is important both historically and politically. Persons learning to speak in public will find in them helpful lessons. Speakers and writers can learn a great deal from studying their style. This is the forty-ninth of the series.

ALEXANDER HAMILTON STEPHENS of Georgia, vice president of the Confederate States of America, was a statesman of marked ability and an orator of national fame. Both before and after the Civil war he served in the United States house of representatives. He was governor of Georgia for a few months, dying in office in Atlanta on March 4, 1883. One of Stephens' most famous speeches was that made in the house on Feb. 12, 1878, on the occasion of the unveiling of F. B. Carpenter's painting, "The Signing of the Emancipation Proclamation." An excerpt from this address follows:

"As to this institution called slavery in the southern states many errors existed, and many exceedingly unjust prejudices. Prejudice! What wrongs, what injuries, what mischiefs, what lamentable consequences have resulted at all times from this perversity of the intellect! Of all the obstacles to the advancement of truth and human progress in every department of knowledge, in science, in art, in government, and in religion, in all ages and climes, not one on the list is more formidable, more difficult to overcome and subdue, than this horrible distortion of the moral as well as intellectual faculties.

"I could enjoin no greater duty upon my countrymen now, north and south, as I said upon a former occasion, than the exercise of that degree of forbearance which would enable them to conquer their prejudices. One of the highest exhibitions of the moral sublime the world ever witnessed was that of Daniel Webster, the greatest orator I ever heard, combining thought with elocution, when after Faneuil hall was denied him he in an open barouche in the streets of Boston proclaimed in substance to a vast assemblage of his constituents—unwilling hearers—that they had conquered an uncongenial clime; they had conquered a sterile soil; they had conquered the winds and currents of the ocean; they had conquered most of the elements of nature, but they must yet learn to conquer their prejudices.

"I would say this to the people of the north as well as to the people of the south.

"Indulge me for a moment upon this subject of the institution of slavery, so called, in the southern states. Well, Mr. President and Mr. Speaker, it was not an unmitigated evil. It was not, thus much I can say, without its compensations. It is my purpose now, however, to bury, not to praise, to laud, 'nor aught extenuate.'

"It had its faults, and most grievously has the country, north and south, for both were equally responsible for it, answered them. It also, let it be remembered, gave rise to some of the noblest virtues that adorn civilization. But let its faults and virtues be buried alike forever.

"I will say this: If it were not the best relation for the happiness and welfare of both races, or could not be made so, morally, physically, intellectually, and politically, it was wrong and ought to have been abolished. This I said of it years before secession, and I repeat it still. But, as I have said, this is no time now to discuss those questions.

"I have seen something of the world and traveled somewhat, and I have never yet found on earth a paradise. The southern states are no exception. Wherever I have been I have been ready to exclaim with Burns:

But O! what crowds in every land
Are wretched and forlorn!
. . . . . .
Man's inhumanity to man
Makes countless thousands mourn.

"It was so at the south. It was so at the north. It is so yet. It is so in every part of the world where I have been. The question of the proper relation of the races is one of the most difficult problems which statesmen or philanthropists, legislators or jurists, ever had to solve."

Certainly here is a noble plea to mankind to conquer its prejudices. Of all evils, as Stephens points out, prejudices are the most difficult to overcome, yet here he calmly reasons for a general forbearance to defeat this obstacle to human progress. It will be noted that he employs no high-sounding phrases, no beautiful figures of speech, no fiery arguments. He relies merely on simple, straightforward statements, as can be seen, to produce a masterpiece.

Reprints of the first 25 "Gems of Eloquence" may be obtained at Tribune Public Service Offices, Tribune Tower or 1 South Dearborn street, Chicago. Price, 25 cents for portfolio of 25, or 2 cents each for individual selections.

ER A...I REALLY SHOULDN'T OUGHTA STAY...I AIN'T VERY HUNGRY... BUT, SAY, THEM THINGS DO LOOK GOOD! WHAT ARE THEY?
POST TOASTIES...TRY 'EM! YOU'LL FIND THEY MAKE THE SWELLEST-TASTING BREAKFAST GOING!
YES, YOU SEE, MR. WRENCH, WE BELIEVE IN STARTING THE DAY OFF RIGHT...AND NOTHING BRIGHTENS UP BREAKFAST MORE THAN A BIG BOWLFUL OF THESE CRISP, DELICIOUS, GOLDEN FLAKES OF FLAVOR-FILLED CORN!
PASS MR. WRENCH SOME MORE POST TOASTIES, ROGER. HE'S ONLY HAD 3 BOWLFULS!
GEE, FOLKS...THIS IS THE FINEST FEED I'VE HAD IN MONTHS. I DON'T KNOW HOW TO THANK YOU FER INTRADUCIN' ME TO POST TOASTIES!
THAT'S SIMPLE—JUST LET US OFF EASY WITH THAT BILL OF YOURS!
O-KAY, MA'AM! IT'S WORTH IT TO LEARN ABOUT A SWELL BREAKFAST LIKE THIS...SO JUST GIVE ME A BUCK AND WE'LL BE EVEN!

DON'T MISS the Jones Family in 20th Century-Fox's Next Smash Hit "ON THEIR OWN" At Your Local Theatre

WHY POST TOASTIES TASTE BEST—COST LESS!

"YOU GET SO MUCH MORE CRISPNESS AND FLAVOR"

"To start your family's day with a smile—serve crisp, tempting Post Toasties! These delicious corn flakes are made from a special kind of corn that's better than other kinds—more tender, far richer in flavor. Post Toasties are packed with food-energy, too!" ... Mrs. Jones

"TOPS IN ENJOYMENT—AND LOW IN PRICE!"

"The extra enjoyment of crisp, flavor-filled Post Toasties doesn't cost you more—it actually costs you LESS! Post Toasties are less than a penny a bowlful ... most other cold cereals cost far more—some TWICE as much!"* ... Lucy Jones

"4 EXTRA SERVINGS—AT NO EXTRA COST!"

"Look at the NET WEIGHT on a package of Post Toasties. Compare it, and the price, with other cold cereals. You'll find that on the average Post Toasties give you 4½ ounces more for every dime you spend—4 big extra servings at no extra cost!"* ... Granny Jones

'AND,' SAID THE COUNTRY MOUSE, 'IF THIS IS YOUR TOWN LIFE, I WILL GO BACK TO MY FIELDS AND STREAMS.'
POPPY, CAN ANIMALS TALK?
LOLLYPOP, CAN YOU TALK?
FOOLISH QUESTION! WHY NOT, JUDY?
BUT YOU SEE, PEOPLE WOULD EXPECT MORE OF US IF THEY KNEW WE COULD.
CAN OTHER ANIMALS TALK?
CAN THEY! COME ON AND WE'LL FIND OUT.
HI, JERRY! JUDY HAS JUST FOUND OUT THAT WE ANIMALS CAN TALK.
YES, IT'S ALL NEW TO ME.
SO?
WELL, HOP ON AND WE'LL GO FOR A RIDE. I FEEL LIKE A LITTLE JAUNT.
IT'S KIND OF YOU, JERRY, BUT BE CAREFUL OF US.
I WAS ALWAYS AFRAID OF HORSES BEFORE.
YOU JUST HADN'T GOT ACQUAINTED, THAT'S ALL.
HELLO, ESTHER, I JUST BROUGHT A COUPLE OF YOUNG FRIENDS TO CALL.
WON'T YOU COME IN? THE PLACE ISN'T VERY NEAT.
BACK WE GO. MY MASTER MAY BE LOOKING FOR ME.
HERE HE COMES NOW. WE WON'T SAY A WORD ABOUT THIS.
NO, NOT ABOUT YOU FOLKS TALKING OR ANYTHING.

Now—ANOTHER LEADING WASHER MAKER SAYS "USE OXYDOL FOR STILL WHITER, BRIGHTER WASHES"

MAKERS OF FAMOUS APEX WASHERS NOW OFFICIALLY RECOMMEND NEW HIGH-TEST OXYDOL AS THE SOAP TO USE IN WASHERS OLD OR NEW APEX GOES OXYDOL!!

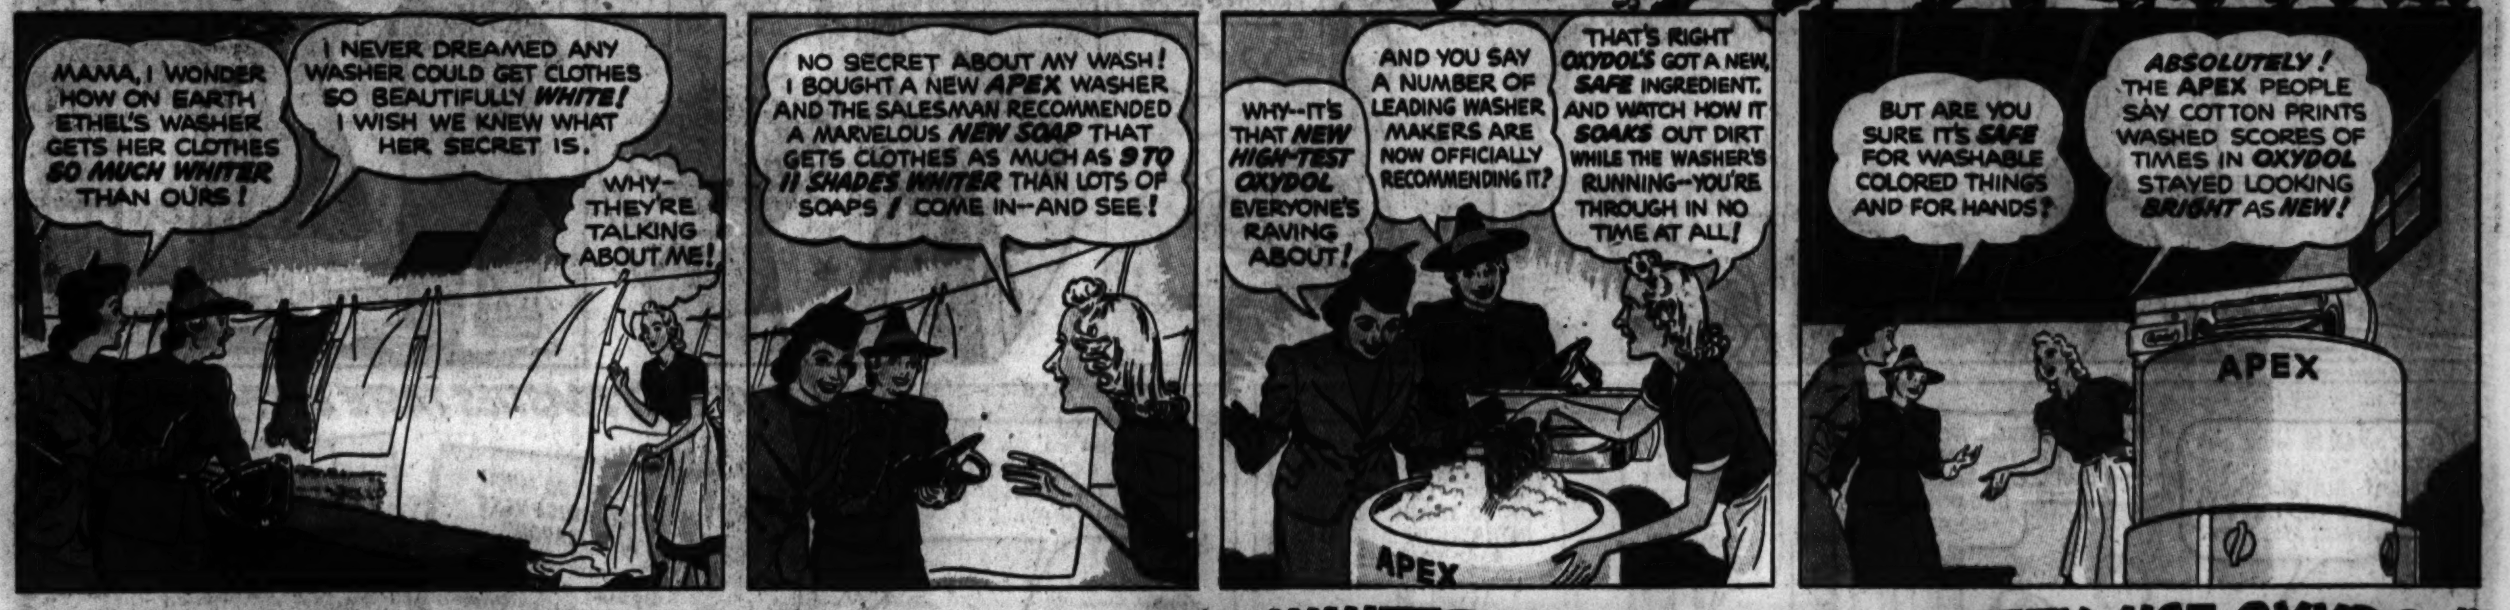
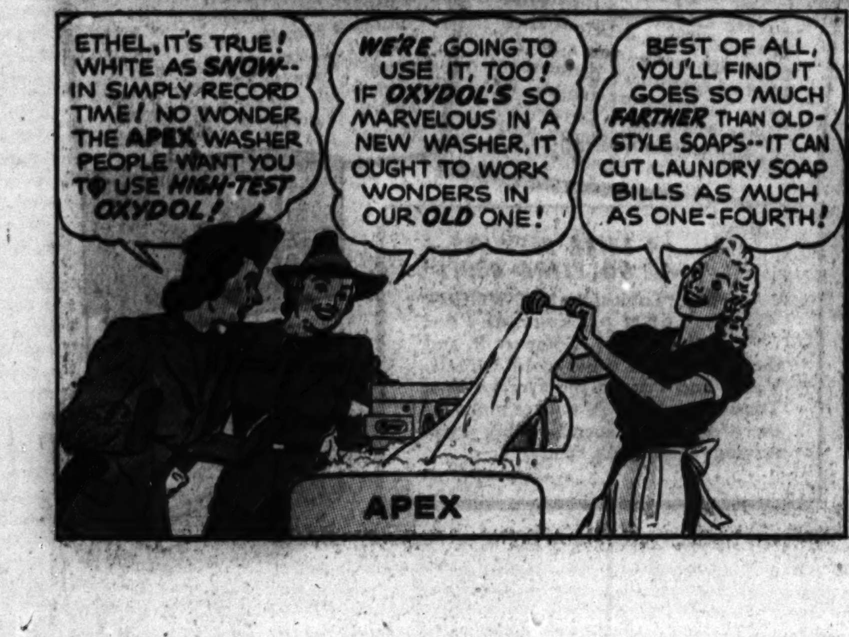
APEX



MAMA, I WONDER HOW ON EARTH ETHEL'S WASHER GETS HER CLOTHES SO MUCH WHITER THAN OURS!
I NEVER DREAMED ANY WASHER COULD GET CLOTHES SO BEAUTIFULLY WHITE! I WISH WE KNEW WHAT HER SECRET IS.
WHY—THEY'RE TALKING ABOUT ME!
NO SECRET ABOUT MY WASH! I BOUGHT A NEW APEX WASHER AND THE SALESMAN RECOMMENDED A MARVELOUS NEW SOAP THAT GETS CLOTHES AS MUCH AS 9 TO 11 SHADES WHITER THAN LOTS OF SOAPS! COME IN—AND SEE!
WHY—IT'S THAT NEW HIGH-TEST OXYDOL EVERYONE'S RAVING ABOUT!
AND YOU SAY A NUMBER OF LEADING WASHER MAKERS ARE NOW OFFICIALLY RECOMMENDING IT?
THAT'S RIGHT OXYDOL'S GOT A NEW, SAFE INGREDIENT. AND WATCH HOW IT SOAKS OUT DIRT WHILE THE WASHER'S RUNNING—YOU'RE THROUGH IN NO TIME AT ALL!
APEX
BUT ARE YOU SURE IT'S SAFE FOR WASHABLE COLORED THINGS AND FOR HANDS?
ABSOLUTELY! THE APEX PEOPLE SAY COTTON PRINTS WASHED SCORES OF TIMES IN OXYDOL STAYED LOOKING BRIGHT AS NEW!
APEX



ETHEL, IT'S TRUE! WHITE AS SNOW—IN SIMPLY RECORD TIME! NO WONDER THE APEX WASHER PEOPLE WANT YOU TO USE HIGH-TEST OXYDOL!
WE'RE GOING TO USE IT, TOO! IF OXYDOL'S SO MARVELOUS IN A NEW WASHER, IT OUGHT TO WORK WONDERS IN OUR OLD ONE!
BEST OF ALL, YOU'LL FIND IT GOES SO MUCH FARTHER THAN OLD-STYLE SOAPS—IT CAN CUT LAUNDRY SOAP BILLS AS MUCH AS ONE-FOURTH!
APEX

"FOR WHITER WASHES WITH SAFETY—USE OXYDOL"

FAMOUS APEX WASHER PEOPLE NOW SAY!

No matter whether your washer is old or new—here's news! Now comes a new soap so utterly amazing that a number of leading washer makers now recommend it exclusively for use in their washers!

For example, makers of famous Apex washers now say: "For whiter washes with SAFETY, we officially recommend new High-Test OXYDOL—for use in washers old or new."

These authorities recommended new High-Test Oxydol only after seeing proof that it gives these amazing results:

(1) Gets white clothes as much as 9 to 11 shades whiter than a large number of popular soaps tested. Actual Tintometer shades—proved by our laboratory tests.

(2) Cup for cup, gives up to 3 TIMES THE SUDS of these same soaps—suds stand up as much as 2 to 3 times longer.

Yet is SAFE for washable colors, fabrics and hands. So safe that even cotton prints given the equivalent of more than a full year's washing in our laboratories showed no perceptible sign of fading—came out looking bright and fresh as new!

New High-Test Oxydol can be money-saving, too. Penny for penny, it goes so much farther than less economical soaps, it can cut laundry soap bills as much as one-fourth!

So get Oxydol today—for white, bright washes with safety. No matter what soap you now use—we believe it will pay you to try the new OXYDOL, as a number of leading washer makers officially recommend. Procter & Gamble.

JOY IS TALKING TO BOTTLES, A PILOT WHO ONCE FLEW FOR HER FATHER--BOTTLES WAS FIRED FOR CONDUCTING A RUM-RUNNING BUSINESS ON THE SIDE--
SO YOU WANT ME TO CAUSE THIS SMILIN' JACK FELLOW TO LOSE HIS PILOT'S LICENSE--YOU MUST HATE HIM A LOT!
NO--I LOVE HIM--PAPA PUT TH' BIG BRUTE IN CHARGE OF ALL MY FLYING--AN' TH' MORE HE BOSSED ME TH' MORE I HATED HIM--BUT FINALLY-- YES, AND NOW THAT I'M IN LOVE WITH HIM I LEARN HE'S ENGAGED TO ANOTHER GIRL----A BLIND GIRL---
I GET IT! FINALLY YOU REALIZED TH' REASON YOU HATED HIM SO--WAS BECAUSE YOU CARED FOR HIM!
--SHE WON'T MARRY JACK AS LONG AS SHE'S BLIND--BUT JACK IS SAVING TH' SALARY I PAY HIM TO FINANCE AN OPERATION ON HER EYES!
I SEE--IF JACK LOSES HIS JOB, THIS OTHER GIRL WON'T GET HER EYESIGHT BACK--SHE AND JACK WON'T MARRY--AND YOU WILL HAVE A CHANCE!!
IT MAY SOUND KINDA MEAN--BUT IT'S TH' ONLY WAY I CAN PREVENT TH' MARRIAGE--I WON'T LOSE JACK--I'M DESPERATE--
--BESIDES, ALL'S FAIR IN LOVE AND WAR, ISN'T IT?
SO THEY SAY--WELL, SHELL OUT TH' DOUGH AN' I'LL DO TH' JOB FOR YOU!
DON'T DO ANYTHING THAT'LL HURT JACK---WHAT ARE YOUR PLANS?
DON'T KNOW YET--BUT I'LL JUS' CAUSE HIM TO BREAK SOME MINOR AIR REGULATION----NOTHING SERIOUS!
DID YOU SAY YOU'RE HAVING JACK FLY YOUR TEN-PLACE JOB TO TH' FACTORY TO HAVE THE UPHOLSTERY CHANGED?
YES, I'M HAVING THE INTERIOR DONE OVER TO MATCH MY NEW SPRING ENSEMBLE!
WOT A WACKY DAME! I PITY THIS POOR SMILIN' JACK--SMILIN' JACK! SAY, IT JUS' CAME TO ME--
SNAP
--HE USED TO FLY FOR TH' COAST GUARD--HE'S TH' OFFICER THAT WAS--RESPONSIBLE FOR A PAL O' MINE BEING SENT UP TH' RIVER!
NOW I'LL REALLY DO THIS JOB UP RIGHT----LE'S SEE--I'LL NEED ABOUT A FOOT OF GAS PIPE!
--AN' A PINT OF THIS HUNDRED PROOF CORN WILL CINCH TH' JOB!
THIS IS TH' SHIP JACK'S GONNA FLY--I'LL HIDE IN TH' LAVATORY!!

DARI-RICH
CHOCOLATE FLAVORED DRINK
Invites You to WIN ONE OF THESE 1110 PRIZES!

Enter the BIG JINGLE CONTEST! open to Everybody

Just Do These 2 Easy Things:

● On entry blank below, fill in last line completing the jingle. Sign your name and address.

● Mail entry blank, together with bottle cap (or reasonable facsimile thereof) from Dari-Rich Chocolate Flavored Drink, to Dari-Rich, Chicago. That's all there is to it! It's fun—and so easy—how can you help winning one of these 1110 wonderful prizes?

Here Are the Easy Rules:

1 On free entry blank (lower right corner this ad), or on your own paper, write (or print) your "last line," using enough words to complete the jingle. Your "last line" may express any idea you think completes the thought, as long as last word rhymes with "KATE." Write (or print) your name and address.

2 Mail your entry blank, together with bottle cap (or reasonable facsimile thereof) from Dari-Rich Chocolate Flavored Drink, to Dari-Rich, Chicago.

3 Send as many entries as you wish, but each entry must be accompanied by a bottle cap (or reasonable facsimile thereof) from Dari-Rich Chocolate Flavored Drink.

4 Contest closes June 15, and all entries must be postmarked on or before midnight that day.

5 Entries will be judged for originality, aptness and suitability, and the decision of the judges will be final. Please do not send anything except your "last line" entry, your name and address, and a Dari-Rich bottle cap. No entries will be returned, and all entries, contents, and ideas therein become the property of Bowey's, Inc., maker of Dari-Rich. Duplicate prizes will be awarded in case of ties.

6 Everyone can enter this contest except employees of Bowey's, Inc., their advertising agency, and the families of these employees. This contest applies only to continental United States, and is subject to all Federal, state, and local laws and regulations.

7 Names of winners of major prizes will be announced over the Dari-Rich radio program, "News and Rhythm," as soon as possible after contest closes, and their prizes will be sent to them the same day. Other winners will be notified by mail. Complete printed list of winners will be mailed to anyone writing to Bowey's, Inc., Chicago, after July 1, 1940.

THIS OFFER EXPIRES JUNE 15, 1940

HERE ARE SOME HINTS!

First—try Dari-Rich yourself—find out why "Kate" loves that marvelous Dari-Rich chocolate flavor! Then—write your "last line"—it may express any idea that you think completes the thought of the jingle—make your last word rhyme with "Kate." For instance—your last line might be, "With me it sure does rate," or, "For this drink there is no duplicate." Just examples to show you how easy it is—you've probably thought of a better last line already!

You may enter as many last lines as you wish, accompanying each entry with a Dari-Rich bottle cap. You do not need entry blanks for these additional last lines—just write on your own piece of paper.

Now—go ahead! Send your entry at once—you may win a 17-jewel Bulova wrist watch! An insured Monark bike! A Majestic portable radio! Any one of the 1110 big prizes may be yours for 5 minutes' work and fun!

But don't delay!

SEND IN YOUR LAST LINE QUICK!

George Gets His WINGS
...And Mr. Coffee-Nerves gets the gate!
WE'VE BEEN ENGAGED TWO YEARS... AND I'M GETTING TIRED OF THIS DELAY ! DON'T YOU WANT TO MARRY ME ?
GEORGE, DARLING, WHY ARE YOU SO IRRITABLE ? I'LL MARRY YOU THE DAY YOU GET YOUR PILOT'S LICENSE !
IF SHE REALLY LOVED YOU SHE WOULDN'T CARE WHETHER YOU HAD WINGS PINNED ON YOUR CHEST OR NOT !
MR. COFFEE-NERVES
WELL, YOU CAN'T PUT ME OFF ANY LONGER ! I'M TAKING MY FINAL TEST FLIGHT IN THE MORNING !
OH, NO, YOU'RE NOT ! THE CAPTAIN SAW YOU ALMOST CRACK UP THAT PLANE TODAY !
SPYING ON YOU, WAS HE ? OR MAYBE THIS SNOOPING SERGEANT RAN AND TOLD HIM ABOUT IT !
MR. COFFEE-NERVES
YOUR NERVES MAKE YOU A MENACE IN THE AIR AND A NUISANCE ON THE GROUND. YOU'RE NOT READY FOR YOUR WINGS YET !
OH, YEAH ? SAY... IF YOU HAD MY INDIGESTION YOU'D BE IN THE HOSPITAL !
IF THIS SNOOP WAS AS GOOD AS HE THINKS HE IS.... HE WOULDN'T BE SO FRESH WITH HIS ADVICE !
WHY HAVE YOU GOT IT IN FOR ME ? I'VE JUST GOT TO TAKE THAT FLIGHT ! THIS MEANS EVERYTHING TO ME ! MY GIRL WON'T MARRY ME UNTIL I GET MY WINGS !
SORRY, BUDDY... CAPTAIN'S ORDERS. AND IF YOU FEEL AS BAD AS YOU SAY, YOU'D BETTER REPORT TO THE DOCTOR !
LAY OFF THAT DOCTOR ! WHEN HE GETS THROUGH WITH YOU, YOU'LL HAVE YOUR WINGS ALL RIGHT.... AND A HARP !
MR. COFFEE-NERVES
SO THE DOCTOR SAID YOU HAVE COFFEE-NERVES ? WHAT DID HE ADVISE ?
HE SAID QUIT COFFEE AND DRINK POSTUM INSTEAD ! BUT, SHUCKS, THAT'S BUNK ! I'LL GIVE UP AVIATION AND GET A JOB SOMEWHERE !
THAT'S THE FIRST SMART THING YOU'VE SAID SINCE YOU TOLD THAT DOCTOR WHAT YOU THOUGHT OF HIM !
MR. COFFEE-NERVES
IF YOU GIVE UP TRYING, GEORGE, YOU'LL GIVE ME UP, TOO ! I WON'T MARRY A QUITTER !
OH, ALL RIGHT. IF YOU FEEL THAT WAY ABOUT IT, I SUPPOSE I'LL HAVE TO TRY POSTUM !
CURSES ! THAT WASHES ME OUT ! POSTUM ALWAYS PUTS ME INTO A TAILSPIN !
ARTHUR
SAY... THIS POSTUM IS WONDERFUL ! IT'S THE MOST DELICIOUS DRINK I'VE TASTED IN A LONG TIME !
I HOPE GEORGE TURNS OUT TO BE AS GOOD A HUSBAND AS HE IS A PILOT !
HE WILL... HE'S BEEN JUST MARVELOUS SINCE HE SWITCHED TO POSTUM !
TAKE A TIP FROM ME... IF YOU'VE GOT COFFEE-NERVES ...SWITCH TO POSTUM ! THERE'S A REASON !

MANY PEOPLE can drink coffee without any ill effects. But many others—and all children—should never drink it.

So if you're nervous or, irritable, if you can't sleep, or if you have nervous indigestion—and you think coffee-nerves may be responsible—by all means switch to Postum.

For Postum simply can't fray your nerves—it contains no caffein or stimulant of any kind.

And Postum is delicious! Lift a steaming cup to your lips. You'll notice it has a distinctive, full-bodied flavor all its own—a cheering, satisfying goodness that has made it the favorite drink in millions of American homes.

So if coffee upsets you, drink Postum, instead. And then—even in two short weeks—see if your nerves aren't steadier. See if you don't feel brighter and happier—thanks to switching to Postum.

Postum comes in two forms: Postum, made as you make coffee; and Instant Postum, made instantly in the cup. Economical, too—costs less than ½¢ a cup. A General Foods Product.

MOTHER-

Give Your Child This Protecting Food-Drink

Ovaltine is the protecting food-drink that thousands of well-informed mothers today are giving just as religiously as they give such things as orange juice, to help safeguard their children's health.

Ovaltine has always been a source of the precious Vitamins A, B and D—and the minerals Calcium, Phosphorus and Iron. Now in the light of new scientific knowledge, Ovaltine has been enriched and fortified in these vital food elements that are so necessary to robust health, healthy nerves or hearty appetite.

In addition, new, improved Ovaltine furnishes important body-building proteins . . . carbohydrates for quick food-energy that every growing child so urgently needs!

Thousands of rundown men and women, too, take Ovaltine regularly for the "vitality lift" it fosters when they are exhausted or overtired. And at bedtime, as an aid to sound sleep and clear-eyed morning freshness.

In the interest of your child's health get a can of the new improved Ovaltine at your grocery or drug store today. (Note special offer in coupon at the right.)

IT'S NEW! IT'S EXCITING! IT'S A RIOT OF FUN!

Get this beautiful new 2-in-1 shaker FREE!

NOW—here's your big chance to get your very own new 1940-Model Orphan Annie Shake-up Mug—without sending a single penny! It's the swellest-looking shaker-upper you ever saw. In brand-new colors. A deep forest green and a flashing crimson. And there's a big colored picture, right on it, of Orphan Annie and her faithful dog, Sandy.

It's a 2-in-1 Gift! Here's why. First, you see, it's a shaker-upper! For mixing delicious, frosty, new Sweet Chocolate Flavored Ovaltine shake-up drinks. But that isn't all! Because the minute you slip off the shiny red shaker-top—PRESTO! there you have a swell big mug, all ready to drink from. It's both a shaker-upper and a drinking mug, all in one!

Our Regular Price 50¢—Offered Free! This thrilling new Shake-up Mug is made of genuine Beetleware—smooth as a glass-agate and almost as hard to break. Our regular price for this big 8-ounce 2-in-1 shaker-upper is 50¢. But now, with this amazing offer, you can get one of these brilliantly colored new 1940-Model Shake-up Mugs ABSOLUTELY FREE!

Here's All You Do! Just ask your Mother to get you a can of Sweet Chocolate Flavored Ovaltine today! Tell her it's the famous protecting food-drink she's heard about, that gives you so many of the important things every boy and girl must have in food to enjoy real peppy good health. Exciting New Adventure Serial

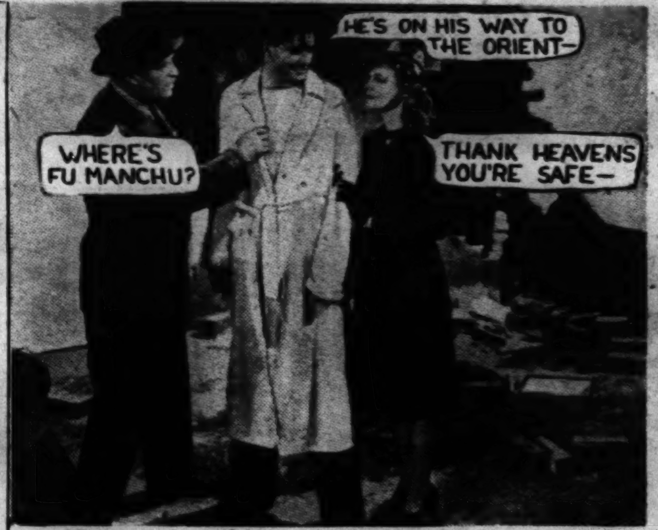
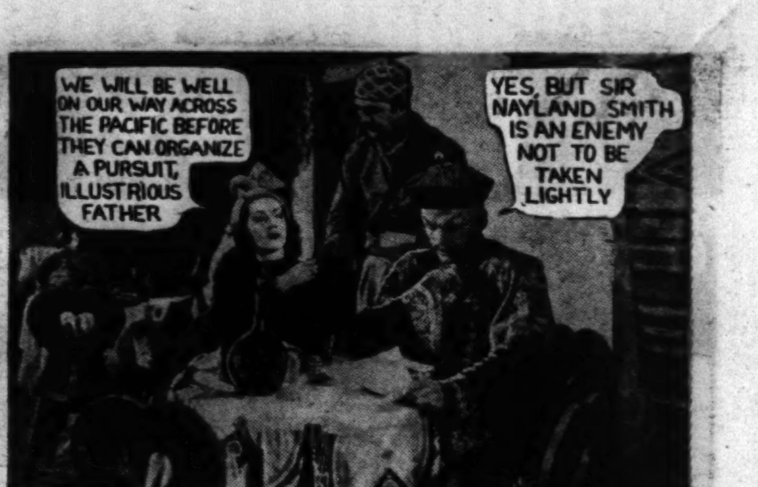
THIS WEEK:
VENGEANCE OF THE SI FAN



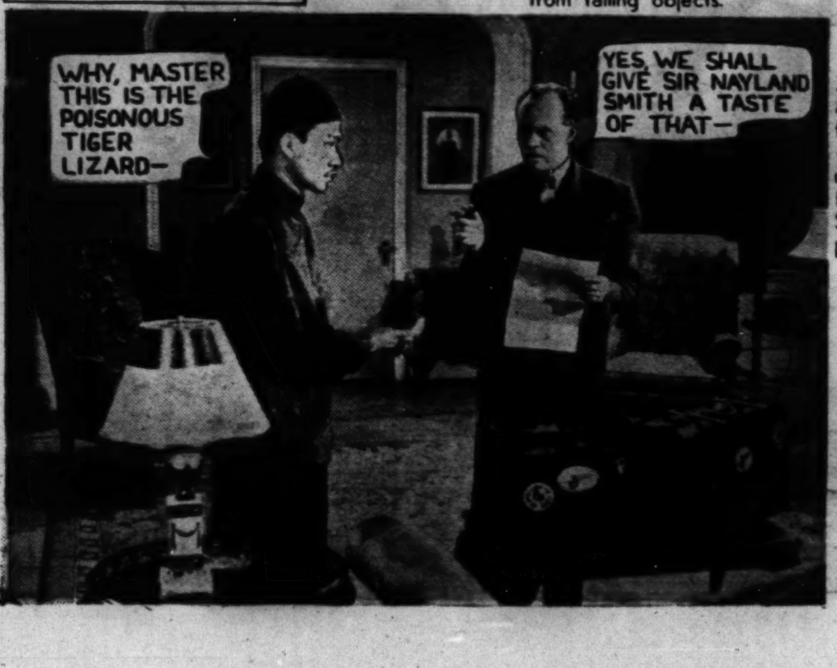
HE'S ON HIS WAY TO THE ORIENT—
WHERE'S FU MANCHU?
THANK HEAVENS YOU'RE SAFE—

1. Allan saves himself from the explosion of the bomb by overturning the heavy chair he was bound to., thus protecting him from falling objects.



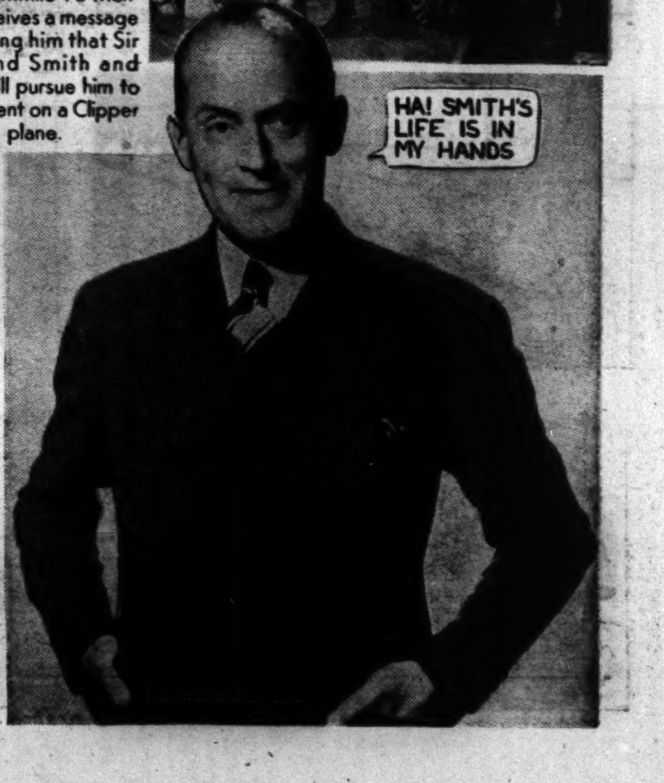
WE WILL BE WELL ON OUR WAY ACROSS THE PACIFIC BEFORE THEY CAN ORGANIZE A PURSUIT, ILLUSTRIOUS FATHER
YES, BUT SIR NAYLAND SMITH IS AN ENEMY NOT TO BE TAKEN LIGHTLY

2. Meanwhile Fu Manchu receives a message informing him that Sir Nayland Smith and Allan will pursue him to the Orient on a Clipper plane.



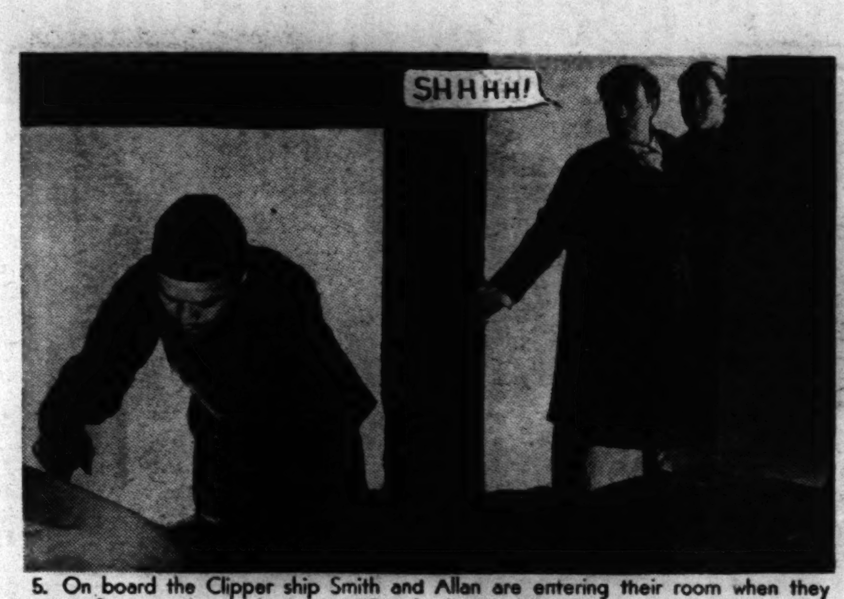
WHY, MASTER THIS IS THE POISONOUS TIGER LIZARD—
YES, WE SHALL GIVE SIR NAYLAND SMITH A TASTE OF THAT—

3. Fu Manchu sends a message to a confederate named C. A. Crawford, ordering him to travel on the same plane as Smith and Allan to prevent their reaching the Orient.

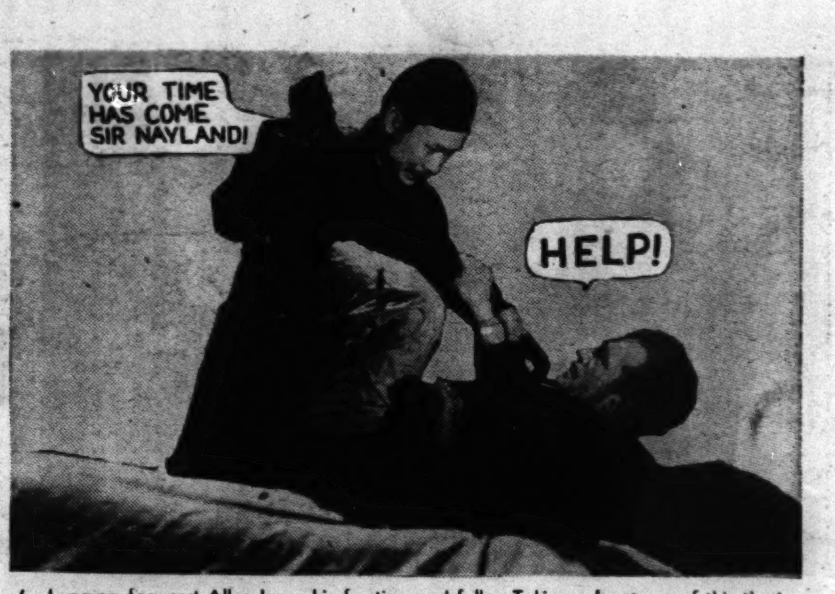


HA! SMITH'S LIFE IS IN MY HANDS

4. Having packed a poisonous Tiger lizard in a special box, Crawford prepares to leave for the plane.

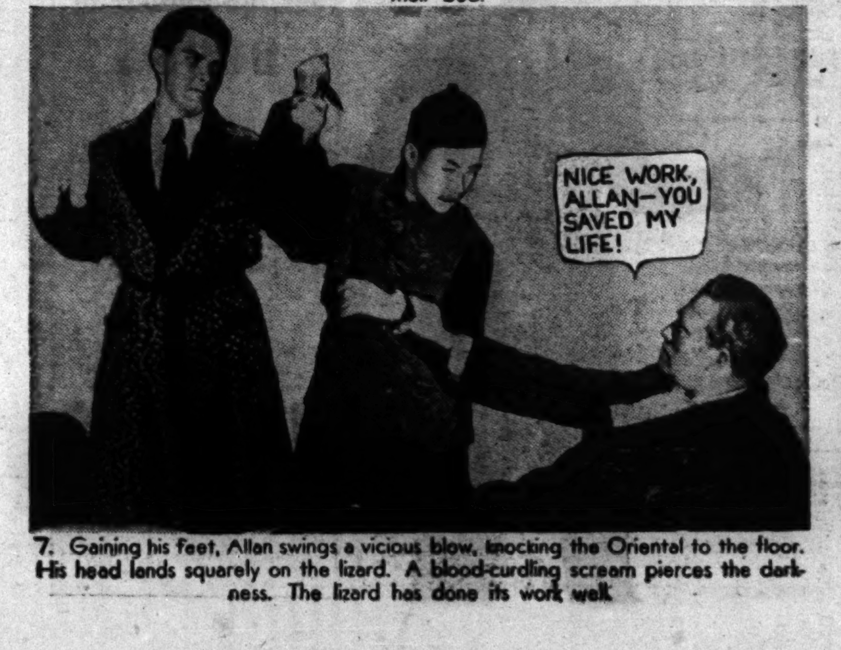


5. On board the Clipper ship Smith and Allan are entering their room when they see a figure in the shadows. It is Crawford's servant releasing the Tiger lizard on their bed.



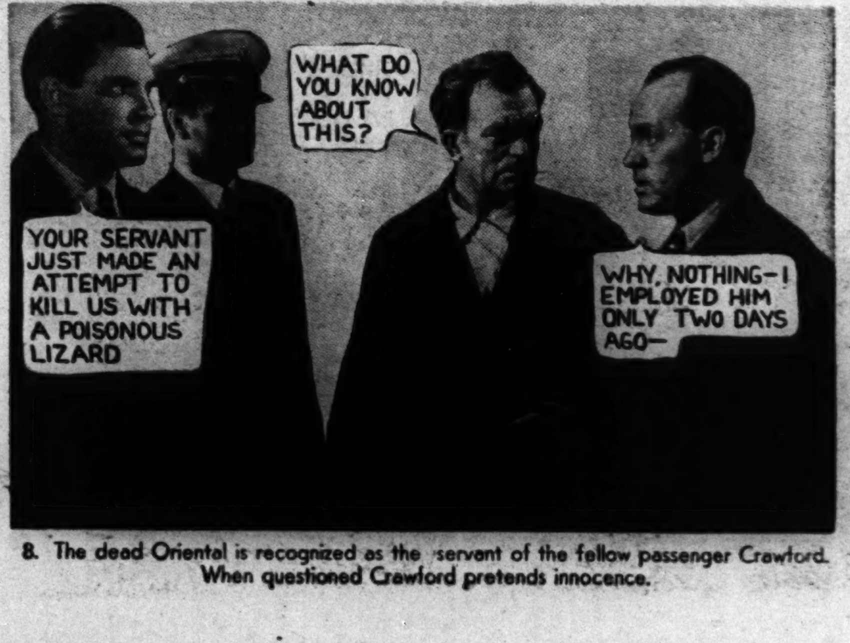
YOUR TIME HAS COME SIR NAYLAND!
HELP!

6. Lunging forward Allan loses his footing and falls. Taking advantage of this the intruder springs upon Smith and attempts to stab him with an evil looking dagger.



NICE WORK, ALLAN—YOU SAVED MY LIFE!

7. Gaining his feet, Allan swings a vicious blow, knocking the Oriental to the floor. His head lands squarely on the lizard. A blood-curdling scream pierces the darkness. The lizard has done its work well.



WHAT DO YOU KNOW ABOUT THIS?
YOUR SERVANT JUST MADE AN ATTEMPT TO KILL US WITH A POISONOUS LIZARD
WHY, NOTHING—I EMPLOYED HIM ONLY TWO DAYS AGO—

8. The dead Oriental is recognized as the servant of the fellow passenger Crawford. When questioned Crawford pretends innocence.

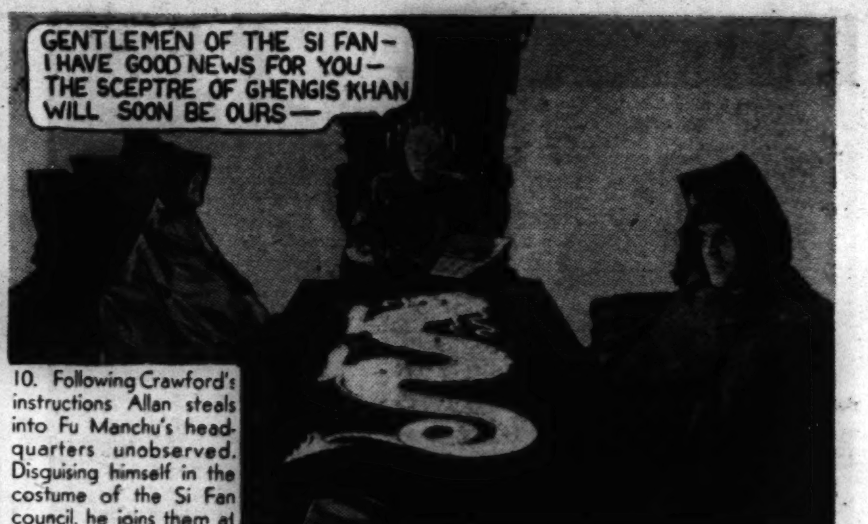
THEN I'M GOIN' TO USE MINE TO TRAVEL WITH SO I WON'T HAVE TO HEAR YOU PRACTICE.

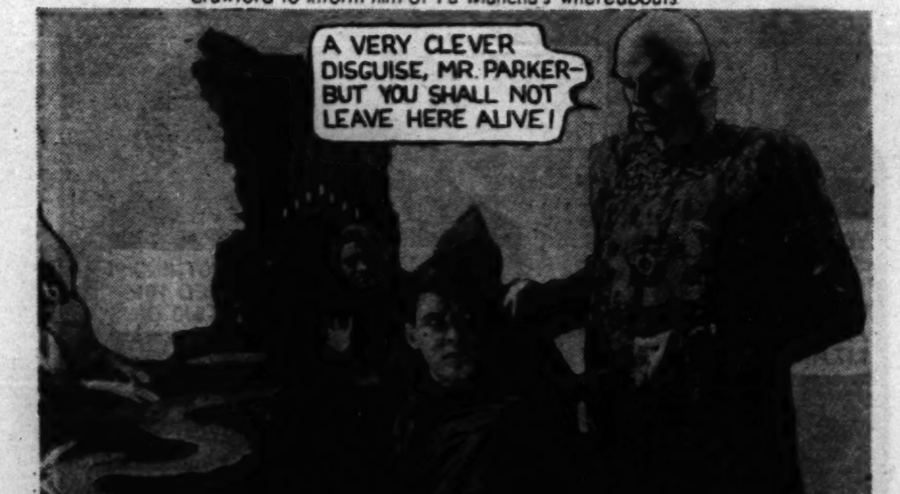
QUICK! TELL ME WHERE I CAN FIND FU MANCHU
HE WILL KILL ME IF I TELL YOU!

9. Observing Crawford in a whispered conversation with a dacoit, Allan is convinced that he is an allay of Fu Manchu. Awaiting his opportunity, Allan forces Crawford to inform him of Fu Manchu's whereabouts



GENTLEMEN OF THE SI FAN- I HAVE GOOD NEWS FOR YOU- THE SCEPTRE OF GHENGIS KHAN WILL SOON BE OURS—

10. Following Crawford's instructions Allan steals into Fu Manchu's headquarters unobserved. Disguising himself in the costume of the Si Fan council, he joins them at their meeting, hoping to learn of Fu Manchu's future plans.



A VERY CLEVER DISGUISE, MR. PARKER- BUT YOU SHALL NOT LEAVE HERE ALIVE!

11. Fu Manchu's sharp eyes are not fooled. Walking slowly to Allan's chair he pulls out a dagger and holds it threateningly against his back.

UP WITH YOUR HANDS, ALL OF YOU!

12. Kicking the chair over backwards against Fu Manchu and springing to his feet, Allan pulls out his revolver and commands the members of the Si Fan to raise their hands. Slowly backing away, to escape, he is unaware of a dacoit standing behind him.

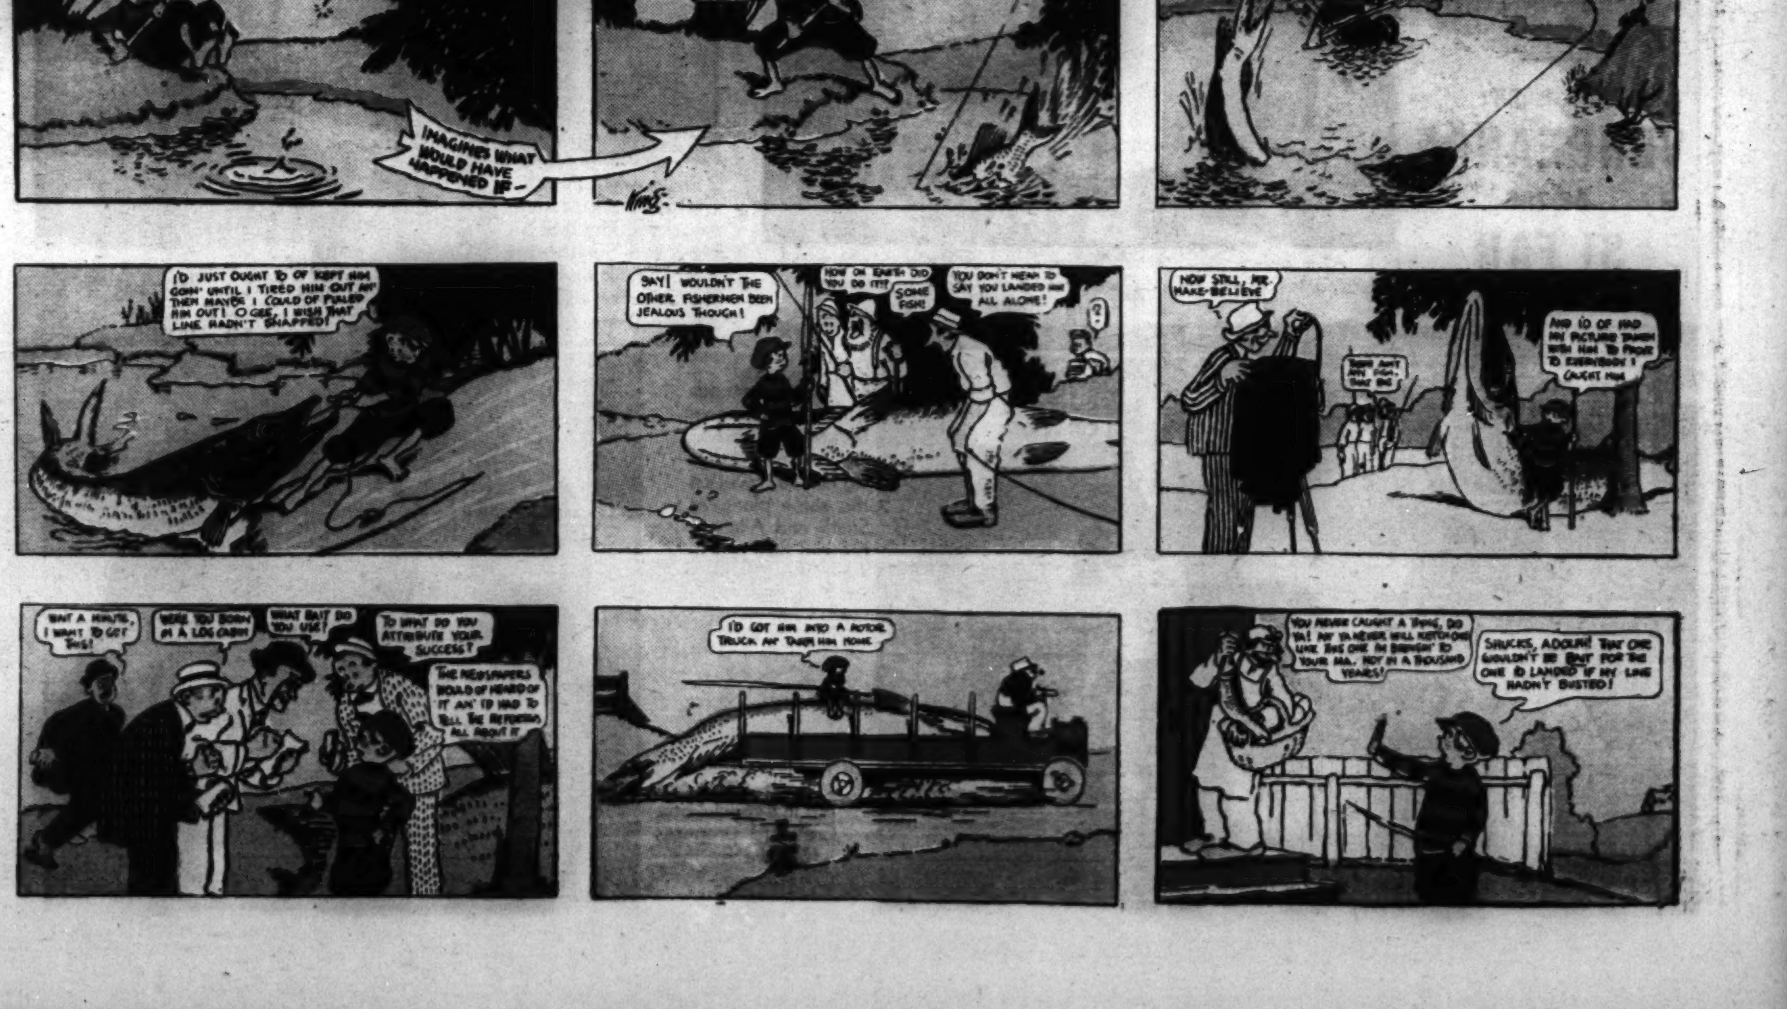
BOBBY MAKE-BELIEVE



AW SHUCKS! I GOT A FINE BITE AN' MY LINE BUSTED!
IMAGINES WHAT WOULD HAVE HAPPENED IF—
King
GEE, HE WAS A WHOPPER! I COULD TELL BY THE WAY HE PULLED! I OUGHT TO OF PLAYED HIM MORE AN' NOT JERKED SO!
JIMINY! I BETCHA I'D HAD A HARD TIME LANDIN' HIM! BUT I COULD OF DONE IT IF THAT LINE HAD HELD!
I'D JUST OUGHT TO OF KEPT HIM GOIN' UNTIL I TIRED HIM OUT AN' THEN MAYBE I COULD OF PULLED HIM OUT! O GEE, I WISH THAT LINE HADN'T SNAPPED!
SAY! WOULDN'T THE OTHER FISHERMEN BEEN JEALOUS THOUGH!
HOW ON EARTH DID YOU DO IT!?
SOME FISH!
YOU DON'T MEAN TO SAY YOU LANDED HIM ALL ALONE!
NOW STILL, MR. MAKE-BELIEVE
THERE AIN'T ANY FISH THAT BIG AND I'D OF HAD MY PICTURE TAKEN WITH HIM TO PROVE TO EVERYBODY I CAUGHT HIM WAIT A MINUTE, I WANT TO GET THIS!
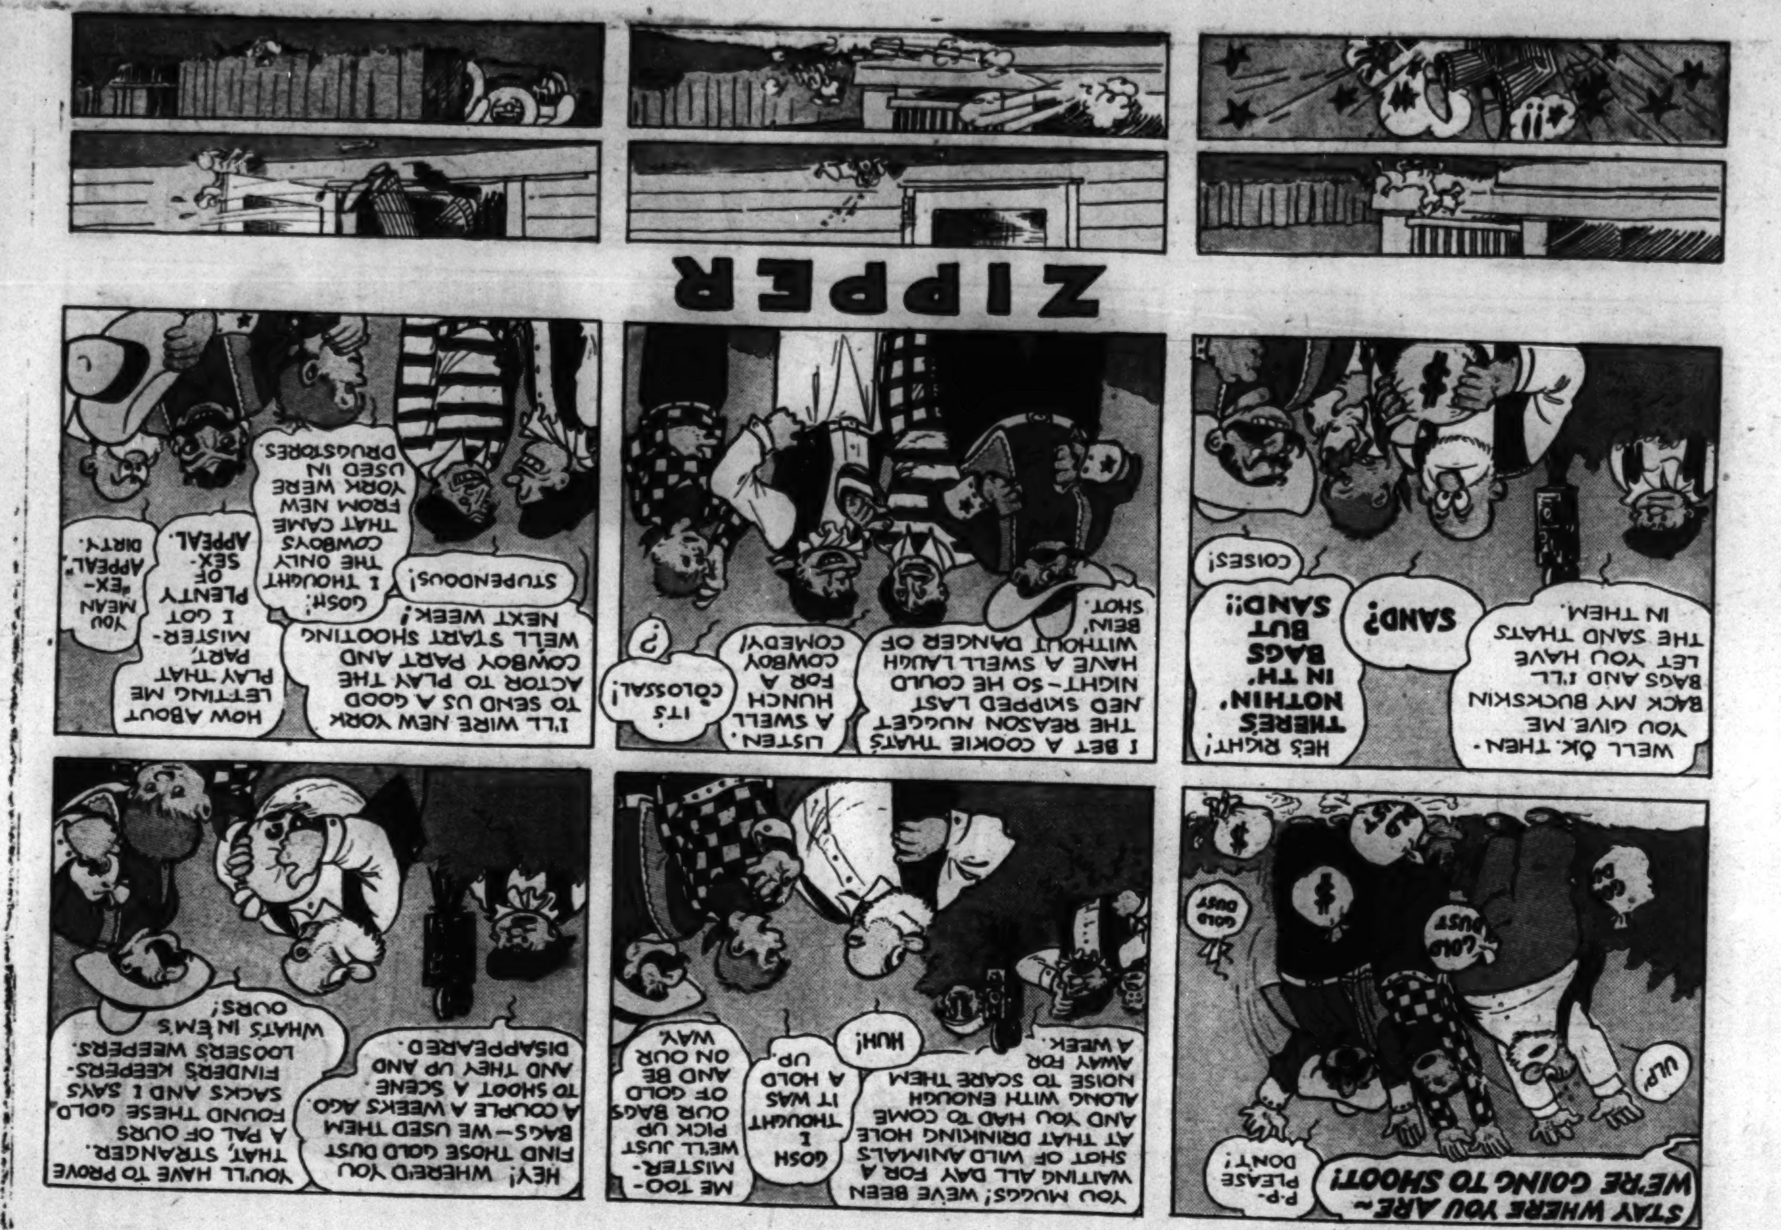
WERE YOU BORN IN A LOG CABIN
WHAT BAIT DO YOU USE!
TO WHAT DO YOU ATTRIBUTE YOUR SUCCESS?
THE NEWSPAPERS WOULD OF HEARD OF IT AN' I'D HAD TO TELL THE REPORTERS ALL ABOUT IT
I'D GOT HIM INTO A MOTOR TRUCK AN' TAKEN HIM HOME
YOU NEVER CAUGHT A THING, DO YA! AN' YA NEVER WILL KETCH ONE LIKE THIS ONE I'M BRINGIN' TO YOUR MA. NOT IN A THOUSAND YEARS!
SHUCKS, ADOLPH! THAT ONE WOULDN'T BE BAIT FOR THE ONE I'D LANDED IF MY LINE HADN'T BUSTED!



STAY WHERE YOU ARE— WE'RE GOING TO SHOOT!
P-P-PLEASE DON'T!
ULP!
GOLD DUST
GOLD DUST
YOU MUGGS! WE'VE BEEN WAITING ALL DAY FOR A SHOT OF WILD ANIMALS AT THAT DRINKING HOLE AND YOU HAD TO COME ALONG WITH ENOUGH NOISE TO SCARE THEM AWAY FOR A WEEK.
GOSH I THOUGHT IT WAS A HOLD UP.
HUH!
ME TOO- MISTER- WELL JUST PICK UP OUR BAGS OF GOLD AND BE ON OUR WAY.
HEY! WHERED YOU FIND THOSE GOLD DUST BAGS—WE USED THEM A COUPLE A WEEKS AGO TO SHOOT A SCENE AND THEY UP AND DISAPPEARED.
YOU'LL HAVE TO PROVE THAT, STRANGER. A PAL OF OURS FOUND THESE GOLD SACKS AND I SAYS FINDERS KEEPERS- LOOSERS WEEPERS. WHATS IN EM'S OURS!
WELL OK. THEN- YOU GIVE ME BACK MY BUCKSKIN BAGS AND I'LL LET YOU HAVE THE SAND THATS IN THEM.
SAND?
HE'S RIGHT! THERES NOTHIN' IN TH' BAGS BUT SAND!!
COISES!
I BET A COOKIE THAT'S THE REASON NUGGET NED SKIPPED LAST NIGHT- SO HE COULD HAVE A SWELL LAUGH WITHOUT DANGER OF BEIN' SHOT.
LISTEN, A SWELL HUNCH FOR A COWBOY COMEDY!
IT'S COLOSSAL!
I'LL WIRE NEW YORK TO SEND US A GOOD ACTOR TO PLAY THE COWBOY PART AND WELL START SHOOTING NEXT WEEK!
STUPENDOUS!
HOW ABOUT LETTING ME PLAY THAT PART, MISTER- I GOT PLENTY OF SEX-APPEAL.
GOSH! I THOUGHT THE ONLY COWBOYS THAT CAME FROM NEW YORK WERE USED IN DRUGSTORES.

I JUST HAPPENED TO THINK
WHAT'S THE MATTER - CAN'T YOU DO IT?
SURE!! I CAN GET IT APART ALL RIGHT - BUT I'LL BE HANGED IF I CAN PUT TH' BLOOMIN' THING TOGETHER AGAIN
FAKER!!
BAM!!

Salesmen.

An Unusual Ad Real Salesmen Wanted.

We have launched a new improved building product in the Chicago area which has clicked beyond our fondest hopes.

Altho we need salesmen urgently we select them with extreme care because the position is defintely above the average. We can't use weak sisters—we don't want hasbeens. We want only men who will bring in business instead of alibis, who won't let success go to their heads, who are loyal and sincere and are prepared to make this their life's work.

UNIQUE REQUIREMENTS.

Your educational background, contacts or previous experience concern us little.

[A.] Can you tell an honest, straightforward story with enthusiasm and conviction?

[B.] Can you absorb training quickly and teach others readily?

[C.] If we plan your work, will you work our plan loyally, intelligently, energetically?

[D.] Can you furnish a record that is clean and honorable?

IF YOU QUALIFY we offer you a permanent position with drawing account, substantial earnings and unlimited room for advancement.

We invite you to come to WEST EXHIBIT HALL—HOTEL LA SALLE—Monday, May 13, at precisely 10:30 a. m. If you are truly a salesman this may be the most important ad you have answered in your selling career.

MEN OVER 45.

NEAR NORTH SIDE
In summer, its great to get away for week-ends, but when you come back on Monday it helps to know that you have a studio apartment with a porch or balcony overlooking a fountain in the court yard below, or a roof to climb up to where you can still be out in the fresh air. The living room in one of our apts. is 2 stories high, and another 4 room apt. has a living room 37 ft. long, windows at both ends, and a skylight. It's a marvelous room with its fireplace and dining nook, and just outside a little sunny porch and a bit of a roof. All of these are down here where there are so many interesting things you can enjoy and still have a good night's sleep, because they are all just a short walk up Michigan-av. from the loop. We also have some wonderful places for groups of 3 and 4; some are furnished. A special bargain on a 5 room with a beautiful living room and large combination bed and dressing room. Also a little 3 room house, furnished or unfurnished; special bargain for the summer.

THE TALK OF CHICAGO.
If you can buy a home for $6,000 you are foolish to pay $6,500. That's horse sense, isn't it? You'll pay that extra $500 if you wait. In a few months, if price indications mean anything, building costs are going up. Renting will not save you either, because rents are going up.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farms

By Bob Becker

Sheep Shearing Time.

May 11, 1940.

WHEN the farm workers moved their scene of operations to the big sheep barn the other day they didn't know they were going to disrupt whole families. But when they went into the barn to shear 82 sheep they frightened the barn swallows away for a few hours and made the spring lambs think they were permanent orphans.

The barn swallows, which make a mud nest on the barn rafter every spring, came back home the middle of the week and were flying in and out of the big barn doors with unmistakable signs of delight over finding a nesting site. The ewes and lambs were well satisfied with their life of grazing and resting, and together with the barn swallows and nesting turkeys they thought the big barn was a pretty nice rooming house.

Noise Routs Swallows.

But when the big electric shearing machine started roaring and the ewes and lambs coöperated in a bawling chorus the barn swallows left immediately. They evidently decided that all the noise and confusion was too disturbing for them to concentrate on the making of a mud nest.

We looked in on this barnyard scene just half an hour after the shearers had stored the wool and disconnected the shearing machine. The lambs had been released from their private quarters to join the ewes. There was considerable bawling and baaing because the lambs were slow to recognight their mamas without their winter overcoats. We watched a puzzled youngster stand in one spot and cry pitifully because it thought sure its mama had abandoned it. Before long the ewe moved closer, and the overjoyed lamb quit bawling. Suddenly a pair of twin lambs raced thru the maze of white, coatless sheep and discovered their mother munching alfalfa from a trough, and another family reunion took place. In 20 minutes the jigsaw puzzle of lambs and ewes was completely pieced together, and quiet came again to the sheepbarn.

Turkeys War on Insects.

When we left there still was no sign of the frightened barn swallows, but undoubtedly these graceful, fast flying migrants soon will resume their sailing trips in and out of the big barn.

The farm custom of releasing the turkeys from the barnyard is being followed again this spring. All song and game birds are allies of the farmer in his war on insects, and the men on the farm have noticed that turkeys released from the barnyard can materially aid the other bird residents in reducing the insect population. At this time of year the turkeys leave the barnyard each morning, make a circuit of the fields in a search for green stuff and early hatched insects, then return to the barns at night for a meal of grain. Later in the season, however, most of the turkeys stay in the fields 24 hours a day, living entirely on grasshoppers and other insects and roosting in trees at night.

MONEY TO LOAN
We are in the market for Loans on Chicago and suburban real estate. Completed buildings or to be constructed. Also FHA Loans.
HEITMAN TRUST CO.
3d Floor, Otis Bldg.
10 S. La Salle-st., Chicago.
FRANKLIN 2400.

MR. S. SAID: "You did a swell job for me—thank you a thousand times."
He had bought a home on contract, got sick and couldn't pay taxes for 6 years.
He saw us. We granted Mr. S. a top loan, our lawyer got past due taxes cut way down, we got the owner to cut $400 off his claim and paid up! Today Mr. S. is the OWNER of his home, all fixed up; taxes are paid and his monthly payments on our 15 year mortgage are only $32 [including taxes]—that's easy enough.
We grant top loans on homes up to 30 years old, 2 to 4 apartments, large apartment, store, and factory buildings. Also place FHA loans up to 90% of value. We advance funds to settle back taxes, liens, to redeem property, and to close estates.
If even our top loan won't do, we will negotiate with the mortgagee or bondholder's committee to cut down overly large debts to present day levels. Low rates.
